FEBRUARY 29TH

Eventful Day For Many As Birthday and Wedding Date

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARIES.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Sutherland of Whitwell street welcomed a little daughter on Saturday the 29th. She will not have an anniversary until 1912.

John W. Anderson of 141 Elm street, who was born Feb. 29, 1860, celebrated his eleventh birthday on Saturday evening, by entertaining upwards of fifty of his friends. He was presented with a purse of $48. A banquet was served, following which songs were sung and speeches were made.

Roy Franklin Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Nelson of 30 Cranch street, celebrated his birthday for the first time on Saturday having been born four years ago, on Feb. 29. His parents remembered him with handsome presents, and he was not forgotten by his playmates who made the day a memorable one for him.

LEAP YEAR WEDDING.

Miss Anna E. Johnson daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Johnson of 15 Buckley street, was united in marriage Saturday evening, Feb. 29, to Mr. Theodore Sunneberg. The ceremony was performed at the home of the brides' parents by Rev. S. N. Elvin of the Swedish Lutheran church. Miss Ellen Lindbald of Boston was maid of honor, and Miss Elsie Johnson bridesmaid. The groom was attended by Charles Johnson and Charles Frieberg.

The bride was given away by her father and the groom by Charles Erickson.

Music was furnished by Frank C. Gilbert, at the piano, and there was a duet by Hilda and Carl Sandbloom on violin and mandolin.

The ushers were Charles Wallin and Theodore Hermanson. A reception followed which was largely attended. A wedding supper was served and Mr. and Mrs. Sunneberg were showered with good wishes for they will not have a wedding anniversary until 1912. They were also remembered with many substantial gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Sunnerberg, on the return from their wedding trip will reside on Glenwood way.

MARRIAGE ANNIVERSARIES.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Phillips of 55 Union street observed the 9th anniversary of their marriage on Saturday evening, with a family gathering. They were married Feb. 29, 1868, in Marshfield by Rev. George Lenard, a Unitarian minister, and as they have few opportunities to celebrate their wedding aniversary that of Saturday was very pleasing. It was made more so by the presence of their children and grandchildren and other relatives from Braintree, Weymouth, Brockton and Malden.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips are well known in Quincy where they have resided nearly all their married life, and where Mr. Phillips is well known in Grand Army circles, being at present an aid on the staff of National Commander in chief C. G. Burton. He previously served in the same capacity on the staff of Commander R. B. Brown.

Mr. Phillips enlisted in the 12th Mass. Vol. Co. E., April 29, 1861, served in 28 battles and skirmishes until the battles of the Wilderness where he was severely wounded in the leg. He was mustered out a sergeant, being in the hospital at the time.

A son George F. Phillips was a sergeant in Co. K., 5th Regt., during the Spanish war. A daughter Mrs. Wilford Woodsum resides in Braintree.

For many years Mr. Phillips followed the occupation of a diver, and has superintended the construction of important bridge work in various parts of the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips are both in good health and bid fair to enjoy 50 years of wedded life, although unfortunately there will not be a 29th of February on their golden anniversary.

OTHER ANNIVERSARIES.

Feb. 29 was a lucky day for Quincy, as on that date in 1844 Hon. Daniel Greenleaf presented the town the "Town Clock."

It was on Feb. 29, 1872, that Holbrook, a part of "Old Braintree" was incorporated, and Worcester became the sixth city of Massachusetts Feb. 29, 1848.

On Feb. 29, 1707, Deerfield, Mass., was attacked by Indians.

On Feb. 29, 1736. Ann Lee, the founder of the Shakers was born.

Other births on Feb. 29 were: Louis Lang the artist, Lewis Swift the astronomer, Lewis Sayre the physician, Evan Pugh the chemist, Rev. Henry A. Tupper the author, French E. Chadwick, the naval officer, and John W. Dunsmore the artist.

Injuries to Fireman Fatal

Frederick A. Nelsen, Jr., of Atlantic, who was one of the firemen injured in the fatal accident early on the morning of the Fourth of July in 1905, died this morning as a result of the injuries received. Mr. Nelsen was a call member of the ladder company at Wollaston, and was on duty at the house that night. In responding to the alarm from Atlantic, for a slight fire on the railroad bridge on Atlantic street, the truck capsized on Beale street. Two firemen were killed—Messrs. Fisher and Kingsley—and Nelsen and others were seriously injured.

At times since Mr. Nelsen has attempted to do work, but found he was incapacitated, and had to give up. In the face he appeared in good health but his family could see that he failed, especially during the last few months, and he took to his bed several weeks ago.

He passed away this morning at 6.25, being conscious to the end.

Mr. Nelsen was a very popular young man at Atlantic and Wollaston. For ten or twelve years he was employed as a plumber by Albert Stevenson. His parents survive him, also three brothers and three sisters. His mother feels the death very much as he was the oldest son and lived at home.

Funeral services will be held at the Sacred Heart church on Wednesday at 10 A. M., Rev. Fr. Cuffe officiating.

Girls' Teams.

The girls of the three upper classes of the Quincy High school, have organized a basket ball team. Practicing is held every Wednesday, under the management of the Principal L. L. Cleveland, and Miss E. W. Guild. They are making very good progress and will soon be ready to play a schedule.

Quincy Man Heir To $200,000.00

A Quincy man is in good luck according to a story in the Herald. By the death of a relative in England, Victor Delamere, cobbler, whose small shop is at 409 Neponset avenue, Dorchester, has become heir to an estate worth about $200,000. Until a few years ago Delamere lived in Dorchester. He now lives in Quincy at 339 Hancock street, Norfolk Downs.

Several months ago John Tarry, uncle of the Dorchester shoe repairer, a retired prospector, sheep raiser and miner, died intestate on his estate, "The Tarry," adjoining the estate of Earl Spencer, at Northamtonshire, England. He left a sister, Mrs. Saffire York of London, a cousin, Miss Sarah Anna Terry of Kingston, and Delamere.

On the death of Tarry, a number of prominent London attorneys retained by Miss Tarry began to search for Delamere, it being known to them that the latter was alive and well in America five years ago. Several days ago Delamere was paid a visit by a Boston representative of the London attorneys and at once got in touch with his relatives.

The last time I saw my uncle John—Tarry, I mean—was about 20 years ago," said Delamere to a Herald reporter last night. He was then about to leave for Australia. I afterward learned that he became 'squatter' on his arrival there and staked off six miles of land. He raised sheep for many years, selling the wool in all parts of the world. Then gold was discovered on his land. He gave up the sheep raising and became a full-fledged miner.

"When did he retire? Well, the lawyer who called on me the other day said that he has led a retired life for 10 years, whatever that means. I was told that between $135,000 and $225,000 is due me. I expect to leave for England in a few weeks.

Delamere was born in Northamptonshire about 65 years ago. He learned shoemaking in his native town, and with $800 came to America July 8, 1887. Ambitious to get rich quickly he invested the whole amount in a North Carolina quartz mine, he told the reporter. The mine proved a failure.

Going to Ontario, he opened a shoe repairing establishment, but, like the Carolina mine, the venture also turned out a failure. Undaunted, he came to Dorchester and opened another shop, from which he has managed to eke out a living for the past score of years.

Delamere has a wife and three sons—William, age 36, of Portsmouth; Edward, age 29, and Victor, Jr., age 22, of Quincy.

QUARRYMEN ARE OUT

National Board Would Not Let Them Accept Terms Offered

While the Granite Cutters' union and manufacturers have reached an agreement whereby their difference shall be referred to the National board, the quarrymen and polishers are still at loggerheads, and the men are not working today.

There are about 500 quarrymen and 300 polishers including lumpers.

The quarrymen who have been receiving 26 cents per hour minimum, made a demand for 30 cents per hour minimum. The manufacturers offered an average wage of 28 cents. This the National board of the Union refused to allow them to accept.

The polishers wanted a minimum of $3 per day and were offered $2.56. There were also other clauses in their demand relative to union shops.

Numerous meetings have been held but the two committees could not agree, and the strike was inaugurated this morning.

There was a report about the city that the union had sent messengers about the yards calling out the cutters. This, however, was only a rumor as the Cutters' committee and Manufacturers' committee have agreed to refer their dispute to the National Board.

The Union, however, has called out the cutters in the non-association yards of the city. There are a number of these yards employing two and three men each. These firms refused to sign a bill until the Manufacturers' Association had settled. The men in these yards therefore were called out.

Although the cutters in Association yards are at work, it will only be a question of a short time before they will have to quit work unless the quarrymen and polishers reach an agreement.

A meeting of the Granite Cutters Union was held Saturday night, at which it was voted to enlorse the recommendation of its committee to refer the matters in dispute with the Manufacturers' Association to the National Arbitration Board.

A meeting of the Manufacturers Association will be held today at which similar action will be taken. In the meantime business in the granite industry will go on as usual.

It is understood that there will be no appeal from the National Board, and that its decision is binding upon both parties.

At Barre, Vt., Montpelier, and other places in that vicinity, according to dispatches, the men were to go out on a strike this morning. At these places a demand was made for 40 cents per hour. After conferences, however, the men agreed to sign a bill for one year under the present wage of 37 1-2 cents per hour. The Manufacturers stuck out for a three year bill hence the strike.

Cheaper By Contract.

Mayor Hibbard and Acting Supt. of Streets Sullivan of Boston have decided to shut down all work on the city's stone crushers and whatever stone is wanted in the immediate future will be secured by contract. The city of Boston has eight stone crushers and while the work in the summer months is usually done by contract the work in the winter months is done by city employees. It is known that the work cannot be done nearly so cheaply as crushed stone can be bought in the open market.

The challenge for the Quincy cup is expected to do much to keep up the interest in yachting about Boston this season.

Undertaker Brown Passes Away

William E. Brown, one of Quincy's well known business men, died at his home on Mechanics street early this morning, after an illness of several weeks' duration.

Mr. Brown was born in Milton, Sept. 27, 1853. He came to Quincy in 1883, and established the undertaker's business, which he has since carried on.

He soon became known in surrounding towns, and his business extended to Milton, Dorchester, Neponset, Braintree and Weymouth. His business was one that required tact, skill and patience, and the patronage he received attested better than anything else to his ability.

He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, Quincy lodge of Elks, and A. O. H. He leaves a widow, two daughters, and four sons.

Less Crime In February

The report of Probation Officer Francis A. Spear, for the month of February, shows that there were 78 criminal cases before the district court that month, a decrease of 12 over the corresponding month last year. Of these cases five warrants were not served; four were continued for further hearing; one held for the Superior court; two held for the grand jury; three appealed, and on nine cases the sentence was suspended. Twenty-nine cases were for drunkenness.

BANKING SITUATION

Basis of Difficulties Which Have Overtaken Railroads

TO CLOSE SMALL STATIONS

Must Employ Thousands More Men to Comply With Nine-Hour Law--May Be Embarrassed by Sudden Return of Prosperity.

Washington, March 2.—American railways have arranged to comply with the "nine-hour law." The operation of the law will mean the employment by railroad companies of several thousand additional operators and the closing of a large number of small stations on March 4. The discontinuance of railway service at many points, it is realized, will cause at least temporary inconvenience to the traveling and shipping public, but, to reduce operating expenses, which now seems necessary, the operating officials of the railways believe that this is the only way they possibly can meet the situation with which they are confronted.

During the hearing of applications for an extension of the law by the interstate commerce commission, some astonishing statements were made by the operating officials of important railways. A good many lines, owing to a reduction in their revenues and to their inability to command the cash necessary to meet their payrolls, have been forced during the past four months almost to the point of asking for receivers.

In the opinion of railway officials, expressed at the hearing under oath and in private conversation, this condition does not seem to have been due to the enforcement of regulative laws or to the incapacity of railway management. Most of the officials attribute the difficulty to the unfortunate banking situation which developed last September.

But not a single officer of a single railway line who appeared before the commission expressed the belief that the present industrial depression would last. They practically uniformly expressed confidence that the return of prosperity would be almost as sudden as was the coming of adversity, and in their arguments about the enforcement of the nine-hour law they told the commission that such a return of prosperity might seriously embarrass them in complying with the law, because it would render it difficult to command the services of competent operators in sufficient numbers to meet the needs of prosperous conditions.

With four or five exceptions, no important railroads in the country have indicated an intention to reduce the wages of their employes. As Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission expressed it: "So far as I am informed, there is no concerted action on the part of the American railway companies to reduce wages. Instances of an intention to change the scale of wages have been given, but they can be said to be in no sense general."

Such railroad companies or their employes as may take advantage of the Erdman act to obtain the mediation of the chairman of the interstate commerce commission and the commissioner of labor will be accorded every opportunity fairly to present their case to the government officials. It will be the effort of Messrs. Knapp and Neill amicably to adjust the differences between the companies and their employes. But their efforts will be purely conciliatory and any decision will not be binding upon either party to the controversy. They expect, however, to be able to adjust such differences as may be presented to them, on the facts now in their possession, without serious difficulty.

Raiders Submit to British

Calcutta, March 2.—The British expedition which has been engaged in the Bazar valley in punishing the Zakkakhels, a powerful tribe of Afridis, has come to an end. High tribesmen petitioned the British government to spare the Zakkakhels, promising to punish the offenders in the recent raids. They have now made the fullest submission and General Willcocks has accepted the terms on behalf of the government.

Brewers Hard Hit by Legislation

London, March 2.—Seldom has the promise of legislation worked such havoc with trade as has the licensing bill with the brewing interests. Stocks in all the breweries went down on Friday and Saturday to amazingly low rates. The shrinkage in the nominal value of brewing properties is estimated at about $250,000,000 Naturally there is a panic among the brewers.

Guild Favors Tariff Revision

Buffalo, March 2.—Governor Guild of Massachusetts, addressing the Harvard alumni of Buffalo, declared himself heartily in favor of tariff revision, a federal divorce law, federal regulation of corporations, a continuance of what he called progressive legislation, and entreated the educated men to give their time to the public service.

Put Bullet Through Father's Head

New York, March 2.—While defending his mother in a bitter family quarrel, Constantine Pellegrino, aged 17, shot and killed his father at their home in Brooklyn. Angelo made an attack on his wife and Constantine got a revolver and shot his father through the heart. The boy was arrested.

FATHER HEINRICHS' FUNERAL

The Body Viewed by Ten Thousand People as It Lay In State

Paterson, N. J., March 2.—Ten thousand persons yesterday looked upon the face of Rev. Father Leo Heinrichs, O. F. M., at St. Bonaventure's monastery, of which he was for twenty-two years the pastor. The body of the priest killed in Denver lay in state and for hours an unbroken procession of mourners passed the bier.

So great was the throng that a detail of fifty police was required to maintain the lines. Notwithstanding a succession of snow, sleet and rainstorms, parishioners stood for hours outside the monastery patiently awaiting their turn. There was no untoward demonstration.

Because of failing health Heinrichs was transferred last September to Denver, where at the chancel rail of St. Elizabeth's church he was shot and killed by Guiseppe Alio.

The funeral was held at 10:30 o'clock this morning, when solemn requiem mass was sung by Rev. Father Edward Blocke, assisted by forty monks and lay brothers in St. Bonaventure's monastery. A number of high church dignitaries attended. Interment was made in the plot of the Franciscan monks in a cemetery on the outskirts of this city.

Haywood's Opinion of Roosevelt

Philadelphia, March 2.—William D. Haywood, who was recently acquitted on the charge of being implicated in the murder of Governor Steunenberg of Idaho, was the principal speaker here at a Socialistic labor meeting. In paying his respects to President Roosevelt, he said: "To say the least, he is peculiar. When we were shackled in prison he stabbed us in the back with his letters. I say that this was not the act of a brave man."

Our Warships Leave Callao

Callao, March 2.—The American fleet has sailed for Magdalena bay in Lower California, Mex. The newspapers both at Lima and Callao are full of expressions of regret at the departure of the visitors, and they point out that President Pardo voiced the sentiments of all the people when he said that the attentions shown the fleet were "a spontaneous demonstration of the sincere and old friendship which united the two countries."

Shah's Soldiers Ran Amuck

Teheran, March 2.—The people here are greatly excited over the bomb explosion and attempt on the life of the shah. The shah's guard practically ran amuck in the streets after the attempt, shooting indiscriminately. There are now forty-two persons in the hospitals as a result of the explosion and the shooting by the soldiers. No clue has been found as to who is responsible for the throwing of the bombs.

Noted "Gun-Fighter" Killed

El Paso, Tex., March 2.—Patrick F. Garrett, known the continent over as the "gun fighter," who, in 1881, killed the notorious outlaw, "Billy the Kid," was shot and killed by J. W. Brazle, a ranchman, near Las Cruces, N. M., in a dispute over a ranch lease. Brazle surrendered, making a statement that he shot in self-defense and that he had not drawn a gun until after Garrett had reached for his shotgun.

Harangue Was Headed Off

Rochester, March 2.—Because they were suspected of having anarchistic tendencies, fifty Italians, who had arranged for a meeting in commemoration of the death of Giordano Bruno, burned to death in Rome in 1600, were dispersed by the police here. An Italian lawyer who was to address the meeting made some protest against the action of the police, but the meeting dispersed without disorder.

Immigrants to Settle In Canada

Halifax, March 2.—Steamer Kensington, the first of a series of five steamers chartered by the Salvation Army to carry immigrants from Liverpool to Halifax this month and bearing the army flag at her fore, arrived here with 800 persons aboard who are bound to points in the Canadian northwest.

Detectives In Chicago Churches

Chicago, March 2.—Detectives were stationed in a number of Roman Catholic churches yesterday during early mass because of threats against the lives of priests in letters received since the murder of Father Heinrichs in Denver. No disturbance was reported at any of the churches.

Warships Only In Imagination

Honolulu, March 2.—Concerning a report that four supposed warships had been sighted off Oahu, nothing has been learned. It is now believed that the report arose out of the existence of a mirage or peculiar cloud effect.

Denial of Five Babies Yarn

Steubenville, O., March 2.—The story sent from here to the effect that Mrs. George Campbell gave birth to five children is untrue, and The Associated Press is requested to deny the story absolutely.

Evelyn Thaw Denies Stories

New York, March 2.—Mrs. Evelyn Thaw denies that she has demanded $1,000,000 or has received any offer of money to induce her to consent to an annulment of her marriage to Harry K. Thaw.

TO SAVE HUB'S MONEY

Recommendations to Mayor by the Finance Commission

BIG REDUCTION IN PAYROLLS

If Carried Out It Means a Saving of $97,000 a Year In Salaries--Changes Suggested In Various Departments and Offices In Boston

Boston, March 2.—A saving of 50 per cent in the present payrolls of the city of Boston is provided for in recommendations of the finance commission, investigating the city departmental work, in a report given out last night and which was handed to the mayor today.

Altogether the commission recommends a reduction of $97,000 in salaries paid to heads of departments, superintendents and deputies, with the abolishment or consolidation of various departments and offices.

In the assessing department a reduction of the number of assessors from nine to five is recommended and further that the salary of the chairman be reduced from $4500 to $4000 and his assistants from $4000 to $3500. It is recommended that the salary of the superintendent of cemeteries be reduced from $4000 to $3000.

An entire reorganization is called for in the department of city messenger, clerk of the common council and clerk of commissions. Abolition of the offices of clerk of commissions and clerk of the common council is called for, and transfering of the duties to the city clerk and city messenger departments, with a salary of $2500 for the city messenger.

As by previous recommendations, the abolishment of the lamp department is called for and its consolidation with the street department is asked. Consolidation of the public grounds department with the park commission is also recommended.

The commission would reduce the salary of the commissioner of soldiers' relief from $3500 to $3000; that of sealer of weights and measures from $3000 to $2500 and of the ten deputies from $1600 to $1200, and seeks the repeal of the ordinance calling for the appointment of eight extra deputies. It further recommends the transfer of the department to the police department.

The abolishment of the wire department is called for and its duties relegated to the buildings department.

In the treasury department the commission finds that while the city treasurer nominally receives a salary of $6000 he holds three other offices, which bring him altogether $8380. It recommends that the treasurer's total salary be fixed at $9000.

Gas Overcomes Church Goers

Detroit, March 2.—A defective furnace in the basement of the Green Avenue Baptist church yesterday filled the small edifice with gas before the congregation realized it was escaping, and a dozen people were overcome so that they required the services of a physician. There were about forty persons present at the morning service, and seven of them required medical attention for several hours during the afternoon.

Quick Death of Noted Lawyer

Albany, March 2.—Andrew Hamilton, formerly counsel to large insurance companies and in charge for many years of insurance litigation and legislative matters in all parts of this country and Canada, was found dead in bed at his home in this city. On Saturday he was apparently in normal health. An autopsy disclosed an acute dilation of the heart, which must have caused practically instantaneous death.

Execution of Seven Terrorists

St. Petersburg, Feb. 2.—The seven terrorists who were condemned to death in a court martial for complicity in a plot against the lives of Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch and M. Chtcheglivotoff, minister of justice, were hanged at daybreak Sunday. Among those who suffered death were three women, two of whom were 18 and 19 years of age, respectively.

Fifteen Feet of Snow

London, March 2.—Scotland and parts of England and Wales have experienced two days of the most wintry weather in many years. In parts of Scotland the snowdrifts are ten and fifteen feet deep. It is expected that the railways will be blocked for a considerable length of time, because equipment for clearing the tracks of such obstructions is lacking.

Fire Kills Four of One Family

Buffalo, March 2.—Anthony Schultz, 55 years old, and three of his children, Nellie, 13; Joseph, 11, and May, 8, were burned to death in a fire at Depew. Mrs. Schultz and her four youngest children were rescued. The Schultz family lived in a frame house over a saloon. The blackened bodies of the four victims were found an hour after the fire started.

Premier Overtaxed His Strength

London, March 2.—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman has suffered a relapse as a result of transacting business on Saturday. Weakness of the heart is the most serious factor in the premier's illness. He will go to the continent as soon as he is strong enough, and it is unlikely that he will appear in parliament this session.

HACKED TO DEATH

Lowell Man's Body Found In Office of His Employer

POISON FIGURES IN THE CASE

Evidence of Attempt to Pour Fiery Liquid Down Victim's Throat--Arrest of Suspect, Who Denies Having Knowlege of the Crime

Lowell, Mass., March 2.—Joseph Gailloux, 37 years old, a plumber's helper, was found dead in the shop of his employer, Ernest Daigle, with his head and face covered with cuts and bruises, his mouth burned as though an attempt had been made to pour liquid poison into it, and the room filled with gas escaping from an open jet.

A former roommate, Napoleon Rivet, 26 years old, has been arrested upon suspicion, although no formal charge has been lodged against him. Rivet denies all knowledge of the crime and no motive for the murder has thus far been learned.

The crime was first discovered by Police Officer Crossette, who found the door of the plumber's shop ajar and upon entering was nearly overcome by the fumes of escaping gas.

Crossette shut off the gas and threw open the windows. Entering a room used as an office, he found Gailloux's body lying on the floor and bearing evidence that he had been fatally assaulted. His face and head had been hacked repeatedly, and his mouth, as well as his hands and wrists, had apparently been burned by some fiery liquid. On a table was a vial partially filled with what is believed to be poison, and it is the belief of the police that Gailloux's assailant had attempted to force the liquid down his throat. In this he was unsuccessful, as the poison did not get further than the man's throat. It was sufficiently powerful, however, to turn the flesh black wherever it touched it.

Medical Examiner Irish, assisted by other physicians, held an autopsy upon the body and as a result Irish announced his opinion that the man was murdered and that death was primarily due to hemorrhage of an artery over the left ear. It was developed that the poison had not entered the stomach.

It was learned that up to last Friday night Gailloux and Rivet, who had been employed about moving picture and billiard rooms, had roomed together on Race street, but that nothing had been seen of Rivet there since that time. It was further learned that two years ago Gailloux turned over a $1000 life insurance policy to Rivet.

Believing that there were a number of suspicious circumstances which Rivet might be able to explain, he was taken into custody and is held pending further investigation. He denies all knowledge of the crime, but, according to the police, has not fully explained his movements since last Friday night, when he and Gailloux were known to have been together.

It was the railway company's second serious fire within a year.

Washington, March 2.—A report has reached here that Henry Reuterdahl, the naval artist, has left Admiral Evans' fleet at Callao with the intention of coming at once to Washington to face the critics who have taken issue sharply with his published charges that incorrect methods have been employed in the construction of American war vessels.

TELLTALE BULLET HOLES

Roy May Have Shot at Wife Before He Killed Her Brother

Newington, N. H., March 2.—Developments as the result of the visit of Sheriff Collis to the Roy home at Newington have convinced the authorities here that Paul E. Roy tried to kill his wife before he fired any shots at George A. Carkin.

It is asserted that Glacia Calla Roy was made a target first; that Roy, calling her a foul name, fired two shots at her, then as she fled unscathed to the butler's pantry, sent a bullet into the forehead of her brother when the latter sprang to her assistance.

In all the marks of seven bullets were located in the walls by the sheriff and newspaper men. Besides these the three bullets in the body of the murdered man must be taken into consideration, making ten shots in all.

Five entered the walls behind the place where Mrs. Roy asserts that her husband stood, thus giving rise to the duel theory which Roy brings up in his claim of self-defense.

An effort was made to get Mrs. Roy to state whether or not her husband had fired at her first, as is now the theory, but she would not comment on the new suggestion of how the affair had occurred. Sheriff Collis visited her at the Kelley home and remained some time with her. What he learned he refused to divulge.

To Release Seized Steamer

Pekin, March 2.—The Chinese government will surrender the Japanese steamer Tatsu Maru, which was seized on Feb. 7 by the Chinese customs cruisers outside of Macao while unloading a large consignment of rifles and ammunition. It was originally charged that an attempt was being made to bring war supplies into China for revolutionists. The Chinese government believes that the munitions of the Tatsu Maru were intended for rebels on the Tonking border, but it has not been able to prove the act of smuggling.

Annual Reunion W. M. French Hose

The annual reunion of the Washington M. French Hose Association was held Saturday evening at the home of its president, Fred H. French, at 48 Union Park, Boston. Thirty were present and the evening was one of merymaking. Mayor Shea, although not a veteran fireman, was the guests of the evening. Galen was also present and sang some of his old time selections.

Among those present were: Ex-Chief A. L. Litchfield, District Engineer Frank C. Packard, ex-councilman Eugene R. Stone, Councilman Jesse F. Curtis, Frank L. Carlton, George H. Wilson, Aubrey R. Keith, Richard Newcomb, Warren S. Parker, George H. Ford, William H. Corcoran, Enoch Thomas, Asa A. Pope, William E. Hayward, Joseph J. Seymour, Henry L. Miller, Albert H. Taber, A. Cody, A. H. Dolan, George H. Foss, Quincy Torrey, Edward Kittredge, Fred W. Tirrell, James Nicol, Walter S. Randall and Arthur C. Merritt.

Found Out What Would Happen

R. G. Wright, formerly of Wollaston, whose parents reside of East Milton, had a miraculous escape from death at Belle Fourche in the Black Hills of South Dakota on Feb. 14. It was the old story concerning dynamite and for this reason the story of the Belle Fourche Bee will be of interest to granite quarrymen who use dynamite in large quantities.

As a result of the inquisitiveness of Chas. LeVezzie one man is dead and four others are in the hospital in Belle Fourche and another one is at home suffereing from injuries received Friday of last week in an explosion of dynamite at the Johnson bridge east of Belle Fourche. The explosion was caused by LaVezzie throwing a dynamite cap into a fire to see what would happen.

A party of men had been employed for several days fixing approaches to the bridge, and as the reclamation officials were anxious to get the work completed so that they might use the road a party of men were sent over from the Owl creek camp to assist the road supervisor and his helpers. Friday noon all the party with the exception of Chas. LaVezzie, J. R. Cullis, Edward Gates, V. S. Pope, R. G. Wright and Jake Pfeiller, went to their homes for dinner, the others having brought their lunch. After lunch the boys were setting around a camp fire talking and a discussion arose as to what would happen if a stick of dynamite was thrown in the fire.

LaVezzie contended that it would simply burn, and to demonstrate this he threw a broken stick of the explosive on the fire. Gates knocked this stick out of the fire, and LaVezzie then threw another stick on the fire, this was also knocked out by Gates. Then LaVezzie picked up a dynamite cap and tossed it into the fire, notwithstanding the fact that about 30 sticks of the powder was lying close to the fire. Gates and Wright, who saw him do this, rose but the other boys did not have time to get on their feet before the whole 30 sticks of powder exploded, throwing them forcibly to the ground, Collis' head striking a tree just back of where he was sitting and his skull becrushed just back of the ears, causing death instantly. The other boys, while being badly bruised were not seriously hurt, although it is a wonder the whole party were not killed, especially LaVezzie who was standing almost over the fire when the explosion took place.

The boys are getting along nicely, and will be able to get out of the hospital in a short time. LaVezzie is probably hurt more than the others, he having a ruptured ear drum, burned about the face, and has several painful wounds on his body caused by flying stones. Gates was burned about the face and eyes, but not enough to keep him in the house very long. Pfeiller has a severe injury in the left eye, ear drum ruptured, and is burned about the face and body as well as numerous bruises. Pope has a bad left eye, ear drum ruptured and has penetrating wound on the left arm caused by flying stones. Wright had a stick blown into his right calf over an inch and had both ear-drums shattered, but insisted upon being taken to camp after having wounds dressed.

The Egg In Medicine.

The white of an egg is an antidote in cases of poisoning with strong acids or corrosive sublimate. The poison will coagulate the albumen, and if these poisons be in the system the white of an egg, if swallowed quickly, will combine with the poison and protect the stomach. An astringent poultice is made by causing it to coagulate with alum. This is called alum curd and is used in certain diseases of the eye. The yolk of the egg is sometimes used in jaundice and is an excellent diet for dyspeptics.

At a political meeting an Irishman watched closely the trombone player in the band. Presently the man laid down his instrument and went out for a beer. Paddy investigated and promptly pulled the horn to pieces.

"Oi did," said Paddy. "Here ye've been for two hours tryin' to pull it apart, an' Oi did it in wan minut!"—Argonaut.

Sappho.

Sappho was born in Lesbos about the end of the seventh century B. C. In antiquity the fame of Sappho rivaled that of Homer. She was called "the poetess;" he was called "the poet." She was styled "the tenth muse," "the flower of the graces," "a miracle," "the beautiful." But few fragments of her works are preserved, and these only incidentally by other writers.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

A great many applications are being received at the employment office for positions of all kinds. It is a common sight mornings to see from fifty to a hundred men lined up in front of the office of employment clerk O'Connell, waiting for his window to open.

A pressure tank with reducing valve, safety valve, furnished with blow pipes, tubes, etc., has been made for the Industrial Oxygen Company.

Commander Parker, recently in command of the battleship Florida has been ordered to Cavite, to become commander of the navy yard there.

Few outside the shipyard realized the importance of the Fore River freight railroad until they read the four-column illustrated article in the Saturday eight-page Daily Ledger. Shipyard men know that it is kept pretty busy all the time.

CHESTER'S PERFORMANCE

Scout Cruiser's Speed Much Beyond Contract Requirements

Portland, Me., March 2.—With an average speed of 26.53 knots an hour to her credit, the scout cruiser Chester returned here yesterday from her four hours' endurance run at top speed. Her average is 2.53 knots in excess of the contract requirement. These figures are corrected and official. The endurance test was followed by a test of the cruiser's steering gear, and this, as well as the previous test, was highly successful, every portion of her machinery working without the slightest hitch.

Particular interest attaches to the performance of the Chester because she is a new type of vessel and because her motive power differs from that of the Birmingham and Salem, her sister ships. The engines of the Chester are of the English turbine type, while those of the Salem are known as American turbine, and the Birmingham has reciprocating engines, such as are used on other cruisers of the navy.

The Chester was launched on June 26, 1907, at Bath, and is now 96.2 percent completed. Her cost is $1,688,000. She is 423 feet long, 47 feet extreme breadth, and has a mean draft of 16 feet 5 inches. Her displacement is 3750 tons and her indicated horse-power 16,000.

Preferred Shooting to Drowning

Dedham, Mass., March 2.—Chasing John Crossen, aged 17, with whom he had quarreled and at whom he had fired several ineffectual shots while both were on the ice of the Charles river, Raffale Calibrese, an Italian, aged 22, fell into the water of the river and immediately after fired a shot into his own head, dying almost instantly. The man evidently thought that he was going to drown, although the water where he fell in was but two or three feet deep.

Magic Lantern Overturned

Haverhill, Mass., March 2.—George F. Walker, captain of protective company No. 1 of the fire department, was seriously burned in a fire which destroyed three barns and the ell of a house here. Walker's condition is regarded as very serious. The fire started by the overturning of a magic lantern with which some boys were giving an amateur exhibition in one of the barns. The loss is $5000.

Stabbing Proved Fatal

Providence, March 2.—In an affray on Richmond street Lawrence McKiernan, 21 years old, was fatally stabbed, dying after his removal to a hospital, and Thomas H. Fitzpatrick and Joseph M. Donovan received serious wounds in the body and were taken to a hospital. About a dozen men were said to have been concerned in the affray. The police made three arrests.

Youngster Played With Rifle

Readfield, Me., March 2.—Postmaster George C. Heuston was fatally wounded by a rifle bullet fired accidentally by his son, Emery, aged 7 years. The boy was playing with a 22-calibre rifle. It went off unexpectedly, the bullet hitting his father in the forehead, piercing the skull and entering the brain. Heuston died soon afterward.

Elk Cause Farmers to Worry

Andover, N. H., March 2.—The depredations of an extensive herd of elk have aroused great anxiety among the farmers of this and surrounding towns, who apparently have no legal means of protecting their property. Already damage amounting to several hundreds of dollars has been done in the vicinity of Ragged mountain.

Big Batch of Naval Apprentices

Newport, R. I., March 2.—The naval training station here expects to graduate this year 7000 apprentice seamen, yeomen, musicians and cooks for the general service, as against 4002 for the fiscal year of 1907. By June Commander Fullam hopes to send 1500 apprentice seamen to the new ships going into commission.

A Reception to Taft

Millbury, Mass., March 2.—Secretary of War William H. Taft arrived in Millbury last night and went to the home of his aunt, Miss Delia C. Torrey, where he spent the night. Taft was given no special greeting by the citizens upon his arrival here, but was tendered a reception this morning at the town hall.

Strike of Granite Cutters

Westerly, R. I., March 2.—About 200 granite cutters here have gone on strike, demanding 40 cents an hour, minimum wage, in place of 37½ cents, as paid them at present. The blacksmiths, to the number of forty-five, are also on strike with the granite cutters, having demanded the same wages as the cutters.

New National Bank Organized

North Attleboro, Mass., March 2.—A petition for a charter for a new national bank, to replace the Jewelers' National bank, with a capital of $125,000, has been sent to Comptroller of the Currency Ridgely. The entire amount of the capital stock has been subscribed.

To Work on Brazilian Railroad

Santiago, Cuba, March 2.—Steamship Amada sailed from here for Port Velho, in the interior of Brazil, with more than 500 acclimated railroad laborers and mechanics. Many others, who had intended to go to Brazil, were forced to remain here temporarily because of lack of steamship accommodations.

Perhaps Murdered by Wife

Clinton, Ia., March 2.—Fred Dolph, 26 years old, was shot to death while he slept. His head was blown off with a shotgun placed against his cheek. Mrs. Dolph is under arrest.

1,000 WORDS A MINUTE NOW SENT BY WIRE.

This Is the Speed Attained by Automatic System Controlled by New Telegraph Company Soon to Enter Field.

In the last few weeks scores of experts have investigated the Delany rapid automatic system of telegraphy controlled by the Telepost company, which is soon to have in operation a telegraph system in competition with the Western Union and the Postal. Over artificial circuits equal to commercial wires from New York to Buffalo the Delany system can be seen any time in the New York and Washington offices of the Telepost company sending and receiving telegrams at the rate of a thousand words a minute.

The apparatus on which a new national telegraph system is to be founded that will carry wire messages between all points for a flat rate of a cent a word is so simple that anybody can understand it. There is a perforating machine with punches magnetically operating on a tape. These punches make the records, which are then ready to be fed through the transmitter to the wire. The double row of holes in the tape passing through the transmitter's contact fingers result in positive and negative impulses, which on the receiving tape are recorded in the form of dots and dashes. The current passing through the chemically prepared tape from an iron electrode to a platinum electrode forms clear blue marks that any one who knows the Morse alphabet can read and transcribe.

In the fewest possible words, this is the system that it has taken Patrick B. Delany twenty years to evolve. When Thomas A. Edison dropped telegraphy Mr. Delany, who was an associate of Edison, took it up. Some 150 odd patents have since then been issued to him.

His first invention to attract world-wide attention was the synchronous-multiplex system of telegraphy, bought by the British government in 1885 and largely used on the English postal lines ever since. All six of the first class circuits of this system can be worked opposite or the same direction.

The next time Mr. Delany came into popular fame, though the telegraph world has always followed his work closely, was when he succeeded in the supposedly impossible feat of sending a cable message from Newfoundland to England with an ordinary Morse key.

But all the while he was keeping the patent office busy on his minor inventions Delany was hard at work on the automatic system of telegraphy adapted to commercial purposes, which has now been perfected to such a point that it forms the essential basis of an entirely new telegraph system for the whole United States.

Why the Delany system was not bought by the old line companies is no more (and no less) of a mystery than their failure to adopt other improvements in telegraphy which have reduced rates in foreign countries to a fraction of those prevailing here and resulted in so increasing business that Americans send considerably less than half as many telegrams as the Englishmen send.

Asked why one of the old companies had not bought his apparatus, Mr. Delany said recently that it might be because the patents were never offered to them. Inventors have known for years, Mr. Delany said, that there was no use in trying to deal with a company that had made a policy of refusing to consider all inventions and improvements except when they could be obtained for little or nothing. This was the experience of the men who devised the Page patent, the duplex and the quadruplex systems.

What the Delany system will do toward reducing telegraph rates is shown in the announcement of the Telepost company that it will carry twenty-five words for 25 cents, without regard to distance. On "teleposts" sent by wire, but delivered at destination by mail, the rate is 25 cents for fifty words.

It is expected that "teleposts" or telegraphed letters will be largely used for the purpose of catching foreign mails. Received at New York by wire, the message will be forwarded by mail via any desired ship. On messages over long distances a big saving will also be possible when delivery within eight or ten hours is all that the emergency requires. On a ninety word telepost from Boston to San Francisco the cost will be 45 cents as against the charge by the present telegraph companies of $6.60.

Secrecy In Wire Service.

Absolute secrecy and a great saving in expense of wire service are assured by the plans just announced by the Telepost company, which is to enter the telegraph field along with the Western Union and the Postal. The new company will use the Delany system of rapid automatic telegraphy, both the sending and receiving being done by perforated tapes.

In addition to the published telepost rates of twenty-five words for 25 cents, without regard to distance, for messages sent by wire and delivered by messenger in the usual way and of 25 cents for fifty words sent by wire, but delivered at destination by mail, the Telepost company now announces that it will transmit "teletape" messages prepared by the sender for 25 cents for 100 words, 5 cents for each additional twenty words.

In this case the tape bearing the message will be prepared by the sender on instruments leased for private use. The tape turned in to the Telepost company will be transmitted over its wires and, if desired by the sender, delivered to the addressee in Morse characters on another tape.

How I Got Mixed In a Love Affair.

[Original.]

May heaven keep me from getting mixed in other people's affairs, especially love affairs! Ever since I brought Len Richmond down on a visit and introduced him to my cousin, Myra Ducher, I have regretted having done so. Len is an excellent fellow, rather inclined to look upon every incident or episode seriously and in a matter of fact light. I would as soon think of cracking a joke to an owl. Myra is a good girl, but nature did not endow her with average beauty. Indeed, she is homely.

I lost my parents early and was brought up by my aunt, Eliza Ducher, being beholden to her and her family for everything I had till I came of age. Therefore when I brought Richmond home and saw what were at least to me unmistakable signs that Myra had fallen in love with him and that he was not likely to return her devotion I felt as if I had committed a crime. True, there was nothing against her but her homeliness, for she was a fine character and had a winning way with her. Len, too, was not handsome. He was a lean, red headed, freckled chap, with a long neck and sloping shoulders. But nobody looks for beauty in a man.

He was conscientious as a mule. One day he came to me with a long face and said he wished to consult me about a very important matter. We were sitting on the porch, the doors and windows all open, and he spoke in a low tone. He told me that he had reason to suspect, what I considered a foregone conclusion, that he had unintentionally won Myra's heart and that he could not possibly return that love for the sole reason of her homeliness.

What was I to do? The only course for me was to convince him that his reason was no reason at all. Then if his inclination moved him toward the girl all would come out right.

"Len," I said, "I have heard that the best marriages follow from diversities between the man and the woman. A quick tempered woman should have a long suffering husband, an impulsive man a woman of self control, a homely wife"— I paused. Dare I utter the thought I had in mind? Then I blurted, "A good looking husband."

Len said nothing for several minutes. Nor did I. I was waiting to see if he would swallow the dose.

"You mean," he said modestly, "that I should not marry a beautiful woman."

"That's exactly what I mean."

Then he cut me to the quick. "I have always felt perfect confidence," he said, "that anything coming from you is absolute truth. No other being could make me believe that I am anything more as to looks than an average man."

I winced, but the happiness of two people was at stake.

"Average!" I said. "Average by no means expresses it." I took conscious comfort in the fact that his appearance was far below the average.

Len intimated to me that my cousin's homeliness should not stand in his way if he felt inclined to make her his wife. He did not speak to her, however, at the time, and I fancied he was waiting for the spirit to move him. He came down again in a month and made his proposal. He came to me immediately after having done so and surprised me by telling me that he had been refused.

"And what do you suppose," he added, "is her reason?"

"I can't conceive," I replied.

"She says that I have every requirement to please her fancy save one. I begged her to tell me what that one deficiency is, and she at last said that she had always fancied homely men. I wouldn't do."

"You don't mean it!" I exclaimed, aghast.

"Yes, and she added: 'Now, there's my cousin. For looks he'd suit me exactly.'"

The hot blood rushed into my cheeks, then suddenly rushed out again. Then I wanted to laugh. It didn't take me long to discover a reason for this singular apparent coincidence. While Len and I had been talking on the porch the minx had been listening at an upper window.

Richmond stood looking at me ruefully, giving no evidence whatever that he had even the faintest glimpse of the truth.

"Len," I said, "if I were you I'd go home and think no more about it. After all, it would be rather hard for you to pass your life with a homely woman. Besides, everybody nowadays says that marriage is a failure. It doubles our sorrows and halves our joys."

I didn't succeed in getting any comfort into him, but he went home all the same, and I turned my attention to Myra.

I am one of the fellows who marched up San Juan hill in Cuba, but it was nothing to going to my cousin to try to undo what I had done. For every word I spoke she sent back an answer like a Mauser bullet. At last, losing my temper, I said:

"You'd better take me. You say I'm homely enough to suit you."

What did she do but turn her head away from me and stare at the floor.

Great heavens! Had I been barking up the wrong tree? Had she been using Richmond for a foil? Anyway, here was a beautiful broad road out of the dilemma. I brought up a regiment of Cupids and poured a rattling volley of love pellets at her that broke her down entirely.

And, now I am engaged, I wonder what the dickens I'm to say to my friend Richmond. And what about marriage doubling our sorrows and halving our joys?

The Granite Manufacturers Submit Disputes To Arbitration

An important meeting of the Granite Manufacturers Association was held Monday evening, to hear the the report of its committee who have been considering the cutters bill of prices.

The committee recommended that matter which the two committees were unable to agree upon be referred to the National Board.

The matter was discussed at length and it is doubtful until the vote was taken which way it would go. There was such strong opposition to leaving the question of closed shop and the walking delegate entering the works at his pleasure to any outside parties. The vote was 30 to 25.

The committee of the Quarrymen's Union say the Daily Ledger was misinformed yesterday; that it was the Executive Board of the Manufacturers of New England, and not the National Board of the Union that held up the agreement on 28 cents as the average wage rate. The Manufacturers, they say, offered 28 cents as a compromise, and then backed out. The union say they have declared no strike, but they have no bill under which to work ,and therefore are out.

THE CITY COUNCIL

Advances Order For the Coddington And Endorse Parkway Bill

A short but sharp meeting of the City Council was held Monday evening. The Finance Committee reported the annual appropriation order, which after some sparring by Councilman Whiton was ordered to a second reading. There was a short debate on order endorsing two bills of the Mayor before the Legislature, and Councilman Broughton took the initiatory step to clear the calendar of some of the old matters.

Councilmen Carey and Bishop were absent.

PARKWAY.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Metropolitan Park Commission requesting concurrence in the taking of certain land from Black's creek to the Quincy Shore Reservation for the Parkway. The taking is to connect with the land taken for the Furnace Brook Parkway.

Laid on the table until later when upon motion of Councilman Bryant it was taken from the table and motion made to concur.

Councilman Teasdale objected. Quincy had had one experience jumping at these matters. He wanted it to go to a committee to look into. Referred to Committee on Streets.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication was received from the Mayor, appointing Charles J. Nord and John Evans as constables Confirmed.

A communication was received from the City Auditor forwarding his annual report of the expenditures of the city for the year 1907.

A communication was received from the City Auditor asking to what appropriation an order for refund of $1.97 to Charles and Matilda Mangs should be charged. The refund was for taxes. Referred to Finance Committee.

CODDINGTON SCHOOL.

A communication was received from the School Committee approving certain alterations in the Brigham plans for the Coddington school. Placed on file.

A communication was received from the Mayor to the effect that after consulting with the architect and some of the lowest bidders for the Coddington school, he deems it inadvisable to advertise again for bids. In regard to the order to confer with the School Committee, the Mayor says that as a result of the conference the plans have been modified and that these will permit of the building being erected for $74,000.

Laid on the table until later, when upon motion of Councilman Gilson the communication was taken from the table.

Councilmen Gilson and Bryant both jumped to their feet with orders in their hands. Councilman Gilson was recognized and offered an order appropriating $4,000 additional for erecting the Coddington school.

Councilman Bryant said that he had an order drawn up which he intended to offer. He then offered as a substitute an order appropriating $4,000 in addition to the amount of $70,000 appropriated for the Coddington school under order No. 45 of 1907. His order also contained the borrowing clause.

Both orders went to the Finance Committee.

HEARINGS.

Public hearings were held at 7.45 o'clock on petitions of the Electric Light Co., for location for poles on various streets. Order recommitted.

A public hearing was held at 8 o'clock on petitions of the New England Telephone Co., for attachments and location for poles. Order recommitted.

PETITIONS.

A petition for the acceptance of Ritchie road was referred to the Committee on Streets.

Several petitions for minor licenses were received and referred.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE.

The Finance Committee reported the annual appropriation order which appears in full in this issue.

Upon motion of Councilman Whiton the report was laid on the table.

HOUGHS NECK.

The Finance Committee reported reference to the Executive on the order for $1,000 for abating the club nuisance at Houghs Neck.

NEW ORDERS.

Councilman Ferguson offered an order requesting the Mayor to instruct the Commissioner of Public Works to confer with the Telephone Co., the Electric Light Co., and the Street Railway Co., in regard to the removal of poles not in use on Copeland street, and report to the city Council at its next meeting.

Councilman Oakes offered an order granting a common victuallers license to Caleb Salem. Referred to Committee on Licenses.

PARKWAY BILLS.

Councilman Bryant offered a resolution endorsing two bills of the Mayor before the Legislature. One was that the Metropolitan Park Commission construct a roadway along the Quincy Shore Reservation and improve the shore, and the other was to complete the Furnace Brook Park-way from Adams street to the Quincy shore reservation.

Councilman Whiton asked if any more streets were to be closed up.

Councilman Cherrington said that in the construction of the boulevard along Quincy shore but two street openings had been left. He wanted to know if they had any right to close streets that had not been accepted which enter the boulevard.

Councilman Bryant—The city may have neglected its duty in the matter of these streets but that was nothing to do with this resolution which was to complete the boulevard for which land had already been taken.

Councilman Broughton asked if the endorsement of the Council was necessary.

Councilman Bryant—This is a matter that interests every citizen of Quincy, and the stronger endorsement the Mayor has, the better.

Mayor Shea, in reply to a question, said that the object of the bill was to have the commission complete the boulevard. Now the two ends were built, leaving the middle section uncompleted.

Councilman Broughton believed the Finance Committee should be the ones to petition the Legislature.

Councilman Cherrington asked the City Solicitor if the city had any rights, should the bill pass the Legislature.

City Solicitor McAnarny, replying, said these bills are to complete boulevard for which land has already been taken. It does not take any rights from us and does not destroy any of our rights. As to private streets built by land developers when the boulevard was built it would be time to bring pressure to have these streets given an entrance to the boulevard.

The resolution was then adopted.

APPROPRIATIONS.

Councilman Whiton moved that the clerk request all heads of departments to attend the next meeting of the Council. Voted.

The appropriation order was then taken from the table and ordered to a second reading.

Upon motion of Councilman Bryant, Rule 1 was suspended, and it was voted that when the Council adjourn it be until next Monday.

$30,000 FOR WATER.

Councilman Freeman offered an order appropriating $30,000 for the Water department. Of this amount $20,000 to be expended in the purchase of pipe and for extensions, and $10,000 in the purchase and installation of meters. Referred to Committee on Water Supply.

REPORTS WANTED.

Councilman Broughton moved that the Committee on Streets report on all petitions of 1905 and 1906 at the next meeting. Voted.

Councilman Gilson asked if the chairman of the Finance Committee intended to call a meeting of his committee before the next meeting.

Councilman Bryant replied that he had stated that the object of adjourning one week was to hurry the appropriation order.

Councilman Gilson insisted upon a direct answer to his question but did not get it.

CALENDAR.

The order granting the New England Telephone Co. attachments on various streets took its second reading, and was referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

The order granting the New England Telephone Co. a location for poles took its second reading and was referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

HOUGHS NECK.

Councilman Whiton asked what had become of the order appropriating $1000 to abate the club nuisance at

BRILLIANT PARTY

Second Annual of the Elks Eclipses the Ball Last Year

"O! how I love an Elk!" was the sentiment expressed by tableau at the mystic hour of eleven Monday night at the second annual ball of Quincy lodge, B. P. O. E., at Quincy Music hall, and the 400 present evidently loved these grand events of the Quincy Elks or they would not have ventured out on such an evening.

It was a brilliant occasion and one of the largest and prettiest parties of a busy social season. The hall was very attractive, for in addition to the festoons of national colors and lighted lanterns, the head of the hall was almost hidden from view. The platform was a veritable tropical garden, the large rubber plants, palms, ferns and other plants almost concealing the musicians in the background. Among the plants were white doves. Above the platform was a large motto which would make the world happier if all practised it, viz: "The faults of our brothers we write on the sands; their virtues on the tablets of Love and Memory." On both sides of the platform were more large American flags and it was indeed a pretty scene.

Those who were late in arriving missed a grand concert program, for Cuff's orchestra furnished a delightful program. The numbers were:

March,	Sheridan Sabres	St. Clair
Concert Waltz,	The Merry Widow	Lehar
Cornet Solo,	Whirlwind Polka	Levy
	Mr. Walter Smith
Overture,	Raymond	Thomas
Saxaphone solo,	Selected
	Mr. Frank Wilson
Two Step,	The Courier	Clarke

The reception committee was assiduous in the early evening in welcoming the invited guests and for the comforts of others. It was regretted often that the hall is so poorly equipped with ante rooms, especially on such a stormy night when heavy wraps, overshoes, umbrellas, etc., were needed. There is a popular demand in this respect that the hall should be enlarged.

While Mayor Shea is a member of the order, he was also regarded as the honored guest of the evening. Other guests were: President Hobbs of the City Council, Chief of Police Burrell, County Commissioner Merrill, and the exalted rulers of the Elk lodges in Boston, Cambridge, Somerville, Malden, Everett, Brookline and Brockton.

Promptly at 9 o'clock the ball opened with the grand march in which about 125 couples participated. It was one of the features of the evening, and was led by Exalted Ruler and Mrs. D. J. Deasy, Mayor Shea and his sister Miss Shea, Secretary

Just Jotted Down By Ledger Men

Robert E. Jones has moved from Cushing street to 192 Farrington street.

The Altar Guild of St. Chrysostom's church will hold their regular monthly meeting at the rectory this evening.

Arthur Mitchell of Washington, D. C., is visiting his mother, Mrs. Mitchell, of Newbury avenue.

Miss Isabel Catherine Cain of Standish avenue is convalescing from an operation for appendicitis. She returned to her home from the City Hospital on Saturday.

A great many strangers were in Atlantic over Sunday, having come out to attend the dance of the Civic Betterment committee on Friday evening. These numerous guests of the townspeople attended church and showed every interest in the Atlantic attractions from Saturday to Monday.

Monday evening the Men's Club of St. Chrysostom's church enjoyed a talk by one of their own men, William E. Hingston of Beech street. He is a handwriting expert and told many interesting things which have come within the scope of his experience. A social hour followed and hot clam chowder was served.

Several small boys were caught Sunday afternoon robbing C. J. Edwards of Walker street of a jar of milk. The man had just delivered the milk when the youngsters were noticed edging close to the steps and before any of the spectators from nearby windows could intercede, the boys caught up the jar and made off down the street. It is well to keep a watchful eye on these deliveries hereafter.

Word has been received by Wollaston friends from Mrs. Ama Lee of Prospect avenue of her safe arrival at Naples. She sailed on the "Romanic" Feb. 1. They encounter very rough and stormy weather. The ship after calling at Gibraltar, steamed across to Algiers, thence to Genoa and then to Naples. They sailed from Charlestown in swirling snow and a screamy gale, it will be remembered.

BULLET IN HIS HEAD

Anarchist Killed In Encounter With Chief of Police

TRAGEDY IN LATTER'S HOME

Result of Conspiracy to Harm Mayor and Other City Officials of Chicago —"Terrorist" a Russian Not Long In the United States

Chicago, March 3.—Chief of Police George M. Shippy, attacked in his home by Lazarus Averbuch, a Russian student, shot and killed the latter, but not until his assailant had stabbed the chief in the arm, had shot and seriously wounded Harry Shippy, a son of the chief, and had wounded James Foley, a member of the police department, detailed as driver for Shippy. The younger Shippy, who was believed at first to have been mortally injured by two bullet wounds in the breast, is said to have a good chance of recovery. Neither the chief nor Foley was seriously hurt.

The identity of the assassin, who was killed by a shot through the head by Chief Shippy, was learned late last night from his sister, Olga, with whom he had lived for three weeks at the home of Mrs. Harry Pine, in the western portion of the city. Averbuch had been in America only three months, having come direct from Austria, whither he fled from Kishinev two years ago to escape the persecution of the Jews in that city. Through information received from the sister and from a fellow employe in a produce commission house, where Averbuch had recently been employed, the police were able to trace Averbuch's movements and learn the views he held.

It was learned that Shippy's interference several weeks ago with a parade of unemployed men, headed by Ben L. Reitman, coupled with the more recent announcement that Emma Goldman would not be allowed to speak in public in Chicago, led Averbuch to attempt to "remove" the police head in Russian "terrorist" fashion.

Yesterday's attack gave significance to a statement made by Shippy a month ago, when he commented on a report made to him by one of his subordinates of anarchists' meetings held after the assassination of the King and the Crown Prince of Portugal.

"Never in the history of Chicago," said Shippy, "have anarchists and other enemies of law and order been more dangerous than they are at the present time. The police are watching all of their movements closely. You never know when they are going to break out."

Chief Shippy last night declared that efforts to extirpate anarchists in Chicago would be prosecuted with greater vigor than ever before. "As long as I am chief of police," he said, "there never again shall be another parade of anarchists in Chicago."

The attack is believed to have been the result of a conspiracy to harm officials who have been active in suppressing manifestations of anarchy in this community. Other city officials are said to have been threatened, and a police spy, who recognized the body of the dead man as that of a person who regularly attended anarchists' meetings, asserted that the man was chosen by lot to do away with not only the chief of police, but Mayor Busse as well. The ramifications of the plot are said to extend to other cities and to be closely connected with the killing of Rev. Leo Heinrichs, who was shot down at the altar of his church in Denver.

Following the attack squads of police raided places known as headquarters of secret societies suspected of anarchistic tendencies and a score or more of arrests were made.

Both the chief and Mrs. Shippy assert that the former's life was saved by the appearance of their son. The young man, who is 18 years old, is a student at a military academy in Culver, Ind. He was at home because of illness and hastened to his father's aid when he heard the struggle in the hall.

"I might have been shot and killed if the boy had not come to my assistance," said the chief. "My wife was too terrified to do anything."

One of the first places raided by the police after the shooting was the headquarters of a society known as "The Edelstadt Group," at 427 Union street. Pictures of Herr Most and other anarchists were confiscated, as were also a thousand handbills announcing a series of meetings at which Emma Goldman was scheduled to speak. One of these meetings was announced for March 6, and the other for March 9. A library a short distance away was also invaded by the police and several hundred volumes and pamphlets, dealing with anarchism and kindred subjects, were seized.

Emma Goldman Has Her Say

Springfield, Mo., March 3.—Emma Goldman, anarchist lecturer, arrived here last night from St. Louis and hearing of the attack on Chief of Police Shippy of Chicago, said in reply to questions:

"Of course the man had to be an anarchist if he tried to kill anybody. Somebody kills somebody else, or tried to shoot him, and the world, the officers and the newspapers cry 'anarchist.' I would be willing to guarantee that the man was not an anarchist, but some fanatic or somebody with a private grudge against Shippy."

MUST MAINTAIN NAVY

British Government's Reply to Disarmament Agitators

London, March 3.—The Radical members of the house of commons who are agitating for a broad measure of disarmament received scant support from the cabinet in the house when they introduced a resolution inviting the government to take action in support of their views. Herbert H. Asquith, chancellor of the exchequer, was the spokesman for the government.

He declared that the Liberal government had gone under the present circumstances as far as it safely could. Great Britain's naval position, Asquith maintained, was one of unassailable supremacy, and if Great Britain was to retain command of the sea this position must be safeguarded against all contingency.

"I believe," the chancellor said, "that there is no great power in the world which looks at this moment with antmosity, jealousy or misgiving upon the navy of Great Britain being maintained on what we call the two-power standard. Beyond that limit we have neither the temptation nor the inclination to go."

Blames Legislation For Panic

New York, March 3.—Recent federal and state legislation was assigned as one of the principal causes of the October financial panic, in the annual report of James McCrea of the Pennsylvania Railroad company to the stockholders of the company, just made public. He said the check to general business which came with the financial disturbance already has resulted in largely affecting the revenues of the system and that this condition may be expected to continue until all the questions at issue have been fairly adjusted.

Walker Fights Extradition

San Diego, Cal., March 3.—Judge Cardena of the federal court of Ensenada, Lower California, has denied the petition for release from custody of W. F. Walker, wanted in New Britain, Conn., for alleged embezzlement. Walker asked that he be discharged because extradition papers did not arrive in Ensenada inside of the forty days designated in the extradition treaty. Walker was remanded to jail to await the review of the case by the minister of foreign affairs at Mexico City.

Steamer Escaped From Graveyard

New York, March 3.—After being tightly wedged for ten hours on the sand keys that furrow the shallow waters off Jones' beach, known to mariners as the Graveyard of Long Island coast, steamer Coamo, inbound from Porto Rico, which went ashore in a dense fog, was floated last night. The Coamo proceeded to this city under her own steam and her 120 passengers were landed this morning.

Misrepresentation Is Alleged

Boston, March 3.—J. F. Hale has filed a writ of attachment for the sum of $50,000 against John W. Weeks and Henry N. Sweet of the brokerage firm of Hornblower & Weeks. Hale alleges that about a year ago he purchased securities amounting to $40,000 on the representation of Sweet that they were of certain value. He now claims that the securities were sold to him by misrepresentation.

Solons Ask For Gambler's Name

Albany, March 3.—The assembly, without a dissenting vote, adopted a resolution asking Governor Hughes for the name of the alleged "gambler" whose letter, addressed to the governor and implying that money would be used in the legislature to defeat the anti-race track gambling bills, was given out at the executive chamber for publication.

El Paso, Tex., March 3.—A dispatch from Chihuahua, Mex., says that the Banco de Minore, owned by Ambassador Creel, has been robbed of $295,000 in Mexican money. No persons have been arrested. Officers here, however, have been ordered to watch the border closely. The bank notes taken are in denominations of $1000, $100, $50 and $20.

French Advancing In Morocco

Paris, March 3.—Advices from General D'Amade report that after the recent engagement with the Madakra tribesmen in Morocco, in which a large number of the French were killed or wounded, the troops continued their march, penetrating the Madakra region for some distance beyond. They encountered no resistance.

WORMS IN CHILDREN
6 YEARS SUFFERING RELIEVED IN 8 HOURS

DANVILLE.
DR. TRUE, DEAR SIR:—One of my boys had been troubled for about six years with cramp in the stomach, and suspecting that it might be brought on by worms, we gave him different medicines, but without effect. Last January he had a more severe attack than usual, and hearing of the almost miraculous effects of your Elixir, we gave him about a teaspoonful, and in about eight hours it brought from him a living creature about eighteen inches in length. He has had no return of them since, and is now very hearty. G. W. VICKERY.

Thousands of people have worms and don't know it, yet the symptoms are easily recognized. Even though worms might not be present this extraordinary remedy will effect wonderful changes in the run-down system. It is a great stomach and liver tonic and regulator.
Worms in adults and children can be readily detected from the following symptoms: Indigestion; a variable appetite; offensive breath and foul tongue; eyes heavy and dull; itching of the nose; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; starting during sleep; slow fever and often, in children, convulsions and bed-wetting; looseness; hard, swelled bowels. No matter how pronounced or how light the symptoms,

DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR
will restore the patient to normal health again.

TURNER, ME.
DR. J. F. TRUE, DEAR SIR:—Having used your Elixir in my family for many years, after having satisfied myself of its superior merits, I recommended it to my neighbors, who now very generally use it. I consider it the very best medicine now in use, especially for children.
Very truly yours, JOB PRINCE.

NEW GLOUCESTER, MASS.
DR. TRUE, DEAR SIR:—The Elixir I purchased of you cured my boy, who had been troubled with worms ever since he was a child. He had tried many other medicines, and I had employed physicians until I found it of no use. I despaired of his being restored to health till I heard of your Elixir, which, I am happy to say, effected a speedy cure.
Very truly yours, W. G. COOMBS.

Dr. True's Elixir is sold by druggists everywhere at 35c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. A booklet entitled "Children and Their Disease" will be sent free by simply addressing Dr. J. F. True & Co., Auburn, Me. We have a special treatment for tape-worm. Send for free book.

ROW OVER CRITICISM

Commander Sims Willing to Assume Responsibility For It

EVIDENCE ON NAVAL ARMOR

Declares That Statements by Admirals Converse and Capps Were Misleading--Promise of Sensations Nipped by Senate Committee

Washington, March 3.—Commander William H. Sims, naval aide to President Roosevelt, by his own statement, is responsible for the "row" over criticisms of battleships' construction. At the outset of his testimony before the senate committee on naval affairs he gave the committee to understand it could expect some sensations. This was done in a preliminary statement outlining what he "had to do with naval criticism," which, he said, began back of 1895 and was continued to "official channels."

"Much of my service has dealt with these criticisms," he said, and continued: "I began when I was 36 years old and now I am nearly 50. I put this in because I am persistently called a young man. I am older than Admiral Capps, who has referred to me as a 'young man.'"

Continuing, he said he would have to go into unpleasant facts, such as charging officers or inventors with having made misleading statements, the secretion of official documents, and the refusal of superior officers to accept suggestions of value.

The plan of Sims to give the committee a sensation was upset immediately by Senator Tillman, who suggested that the witness be instructed to confine his testimony to alleged faulty construction and to say nothing at this time of criticism made of personnel, or incomplete organization, or other matters which are to be taken up later. The commander asked that he be permitted to continue his statement without interruption and that the senators should not cross-exmine him until he had concluded his statement in his own way. His request was ignored.

When confined to criticisms of construction Sims protested that the procedure of the committee "upset" him.

"You would upset the committee if you went into all of these things at this time," said Tillman.

Chairman Hale said the witness was not to say anything now about "resistance to criticism by naval officers," as that was a matter of ethics.

"Don't you care to know if the department has resisted criticism," asked the commander.

"Not from you," was the reply.

This incident furnished an illustration of subsequent proceedings during Sims' testimony. He got away from the line of inquiry again and again and members of the committee called him back sharply.

"The armor belt on all our battleships is too low," Sims stated broadly. He charged that the statements made by Rear Admirals Converse and Capps were misleading. "If any admiral should go out of port without full bunkers—say on a cruise to the Pacific—and should meet an enemy—say in the West Indies—he would be court martialled," said the commander. "There might be a heavy sea running and the fleet not be able to use their guns for a week. Then the ships would need full bunkers."

Commander Sims said that the French allow for extra and unanticipated weights, and that the Germans, in designing ships, figure on a normal line with bunkers full of coal. He said that when the American fleet arrived at Rio de Janeiro, the water-lines of the Connecticut class were fully a foot and a half below normal.

At the conclusion of the criticisms of the water-lines, which were made in the most general terms, Capps was given permission to cross-examine the witness. The admiral did this chiefly by raising direct issue with the witness. He asked the witness if he knew whether the double-bottoms of the ships were full of water when they arrived at Rio. Sims had no data in this regard, so Capps declined to continue. He commented that it was "obvious" that the witness had no data on which to base his criticisms.

The question of turret construction and the relative merit of the direct and uninterrupted ammunition hoists were then taken up. The commander gave a graphic description of the open turret with the direct hoists, which pictured the dangers in such manner that caused Hale to remark: "The wonder to me is that any men come out of there alive."

The cross-examination by Capps resulted in more direct accusations and positive denials, without bringing out anything of importance.

Gunnery was referred to incidentally by Senator Perkins, and Senator Tillman spoke of the record made at Santiago as "modern glory." Sims characterized the shooting by the American squadron as the "most disgraceful exhibition of gunners that ever took place on the face of the globe." He said that only 1½ percent of hits were averaged and 4 percent was the best made by any of the big guns. "Our gunners could not shoot at all," he said. "The Spaniards were in a woeful condition," said the witness, "or they could have escaped easily."

When Sims concluded his statement he remarked that he had not said "hardly anything of what he wanted to say."

STOMACH IS SEAT OF HUMAN LIFE

New Theory Advanced by Young Man Is Spreading Over Entire Country.

L. T. Cooper's theory concerning the human stomach, which he claims to prove with his new medicine, is being given more respect and comment every day.

Cooper claims that 90 per cent. of all ill health is due to stomach trouble. When interviewed about his theory recently, he said: "Stomach trouble is the great curse of the 20th century so far as the civilized races are concerned. Practically all of the chronic ill health of this generation is caused by abnormal stomachic conditions. In earlier days, when the human race was closer to nature, and men and women worked all day out of doors, digging their frugal existence from the soil, the tired, droopy, half-sick people that are now so common, did not exist.

"To be sure, there was sickness in those days, but it was of a virulent character, and only temporary. There was none of this half-sick condition all the time with which so many are afflicted nowadays.

"I know positively that every bit of this chronic ill health is caused by stomach trouble. The human stomach in civilized people today is degenerate. It lacks tone and strength. This weakness has gradually come through a sedentary existence. I further know that few people can be sick with the digestive apparatus in perfect shape. The sole reason for my success is because my New Discovery medicine tones the stomach up to required strength in about six weeks' time. That is why I have had more people come and thank me wherever I have gone to introduce my medicine, than I have had time to talk with."

Among the immense numbers of people who are now strong believers in Cooper's theory and medicine is Mrs. M. E. Delano, a prominent resident of the suburb of Brookline, Boston, Mass. She says: "For several years I was broken in health, caused primarily by stomach and nerve troubles. I gradually became worse, until recently I was compelled to go without solid food for days at a time. I had sour stomach, palpitation of the nerves of stomach and heart, dyspepsia, and extreme nervousness. I suffered terribly with insomnia, and my liver, bowels and whole system gradually became deranged. I felt instant relief the first day I began this Cooper medicine. I now feel like a new being. Today I walked all over town, shopping-something I have not done for years

"I make this statement wholly from a sense of duty. I feel I owe it to anyone who might find relief and renewed happiness as I have done."

The record made by the Cooper medicines is astonishing. We will take pleasure in discussing it with anyone who wishes to know about them —E. J. Murphy.

The Observations In the Daily Walk

A meeting of the City Council Committee on Streets will be held Friday evening.

The trees looked beautiful early this morning when the sun shone on the ice-coated branches.

The walking late Monday night was something fierce and many sat down on the sidewalk ungracefully.

The Daily Ledger records record an an unusually cold day on March 3, 1833, when the mercury dropped to 17 below.

A vegetable salad with hot rolls and coffee is on the menu for the Granite City club whist tournament Wednesday evening.

The third concert and dance to be given by the pupils of the Boston School of Music will be held tonight at Quincy Music hall at eight o'clock.

. S. Spratt of Carmel, Maine, who is visiting his son in Allston, was the guest over Sudnay of his daughter, Mrs. George Troupe of Cranch street.

The John C. Butters of Farrington street have gone to California. It is understood that they will make that beautiful country their home for at least ten years.

Miss Helen Drinkwater of Braintree is to sing at First Church chapel Wednesday evening at the travel talk to be given by Mr. Wallis of Beverly under the auspices of the Y. P. R. U. of the church.

Epicures in Atlantic are saving their appetites for the men's turkey supper to be given in Memorial church Thursday evening. There promises to be several culinary surprises that will please ti.· talate.

Rupert F. Claflin, cashier of the National Granite bank, gave an interesting talk on banks and banking before the Men's club of Christ church on Monday evening. There was a good attendance of members.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary, widow of Mr. Peter J. Hughes ,and a long resident of West Quincy, was held this morning from St. Mary's church. Mass was celebrated by Rev. William Duffy. Rev. Edward Fagan was on the altar during the mass. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery.

The Sewing club of Wollaston Park, which is composed of young matrons, has planned a theatre party for Wednesday afternoon, preceded by a lunch. Last week Mrs. Joseph Bartlett of Willow street entertained the club and introduced a new member, Mrs. Charles Gutterson of West Elm avenue. The next regular meeting will be with Mrs. Charles Hendrie of Marlboro street.

The funeral of John A. O'Brien of West Quincy was held this morning from St. Mary's church. Mass was celebrated by Rev. Francis Walsh of Cambridge. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery. Mr. O'Brien was for a number of years a special police officer, but has been in poor health for some time.

The health meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Women's clubhouse, Goffe street, is to be at half past two and Quincy people are invited to attend. The meeting is under the auspices of the Norfolk County Health committee and there will be prominent doctors present who will speak upon tuberculosis and its treatment. Every women's club in this county will be represented.

Brilliant Party Of the Elks

and Mrs. Edmund W. Courtney, Treasurer and Mrs. Benjamin Johnson, ex-City Solicitor Thomas and his sister Miss Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Kincaide, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Murphy and Representative and Mrs. Rednor P. Coombs. These constituted the first eight couples and there was applause when they came down the hall "Company front."

Mrs. Deasy wore a beautiful gown of pale blue satin with pearl trimmings. In marked contrast was Miss Shea in baby Irish en trainne with white yoke and turquoise trimmings. Mrs. Courtney's gown was of white satin, and Hrs. Johnson wore a white lace robe over silk. Miss Thomas also wore a lace robe over white, and Mrs. Kincaide an organdie over silk with lavender and green trimmings. Mrs. Murphy wore a lace robe over lavender, and Mrs. Coombs a white lace over light blue, There were many other beautiful creations of the dressmakers art, but it would be impossible to give a complete list, so it will not be attempted. Near the close of the grand march the orders of dances were given out from prettily decorated baskets by two boys in Colonial costume, white wig and all. They were Master Arthur Deasy and Master Charles Williams.

Then the dance was on. There were twenty dances on the order, but the round dances which predominated were all encored so that there were really many over twenty. The music was full of life and entrancing and the terpsichorean festivities were enjoyed to the fullest until 2 A. M. with but few interruptions.

Promptly at the mystic hour of 11 the hall was darkened, and as the Elks sang "Auld Lang Syne" a tableau was presented on the stage. It included a large Elk's head on which reclined lovingly Miss Alicia Elcock of West Quincy, and above was the clock dial and the words: "O! how I love an Elk." It was a pretty feature of the evening.

The words of the song were:

Should auld acquaintance be fogot
And never brought to mind?
Should auld acquaintance be forgot
And days of auld lang syne.

And surely you'll be your pint stoup
And surely I'll be mine
And we'll take a cup of kindness yet
For auld lang syne.

Should auld acquaintance be forgot
And never brought to mind?
Should auld acquaintance be forgot
And the days of auld lang syne.

Later the Elk's head and the clock whose hands would not move from 11 were a part of the decorations.

It should be mentioned also that all the men present were decorated with a pink or a jonquil, as they were invited to help themselves from a box at the head of the hall.

Punch was served during the evening, and from 10 to 1.30 Seiler served a buffet lunch in the annex which was altogether too small. The menu was as follows:

Hot Escalloped Oysters
Salads
French Cream Puffs, Benedictine Sauce
Ice Cream
Vanilla, Strawberry, Chocolate
Frozen Pudding, Sherbet
Assorted Cakes
Rolls, Coffee

The floor director of the ball was Daniel J. Deasy, E. R.

Assistant floor directors—Henry L. Kincaide, Edward J. Murphy, William R. Thomas and Thomas J. Dunphy.

Aids—Leo J. McMaster, Joseph F. Mohan, Shirley F. Nutting, Dr. Clayton R. Marstin, Daniel T. Shea, Ivers M. Low, Arthur V. F. Flynn, Clarence F. Fouche, John W. Walsh, Daniel F. Healey, Ernest L. Saunders, John D. Smith, William F. Cooper, James W. Sweeney, Albert C. Bruff, Robert E. McDonnell, John J. Deasy, John J. Lane, George A. Jordan, Edward J. Dunn and Horace E. Spear.

Daniel J. Deasy was at the head of the committee of arrangements, and Frederick W. Tirrell, P. E. R., was chairman of the reception committee.

The second annual concert and ball of Quincy lodge was certainly a success, a prominent society event of the season, and an enjoyable occasion.

Harry F. Brooks, the new master of the Adams-Cranch school buildings, who assumed his duties Monday, has taken up his residence with E. Landis Snyder at the corner of Summer and School streets.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

The stem casting or ram for the battleship North Dakota is all drilled and chipped and is now ready for installation.

Mr. Barlow, at one time employed in the shipyard as a ship-fitter, who recently went to Mare Island navy yard, left the last named place because he was disrated, and is now in Oakland out of work.

Scout cruisers Birmingham and Salem, now preparing for their trial trips, are receiving a cargo of steam coal from barge Gibson.

Eight hammered oil tempered nickel steel bolts and nuts have been made at the shipyard for the Boston & Albany Railroad Company.

Steam trawler Spray arrived in Boston this week with a large fare of fresh fish from Georges bank. It consisted of over 100,000 pounds of fresh mixed fish, which is one of the largest of her catches since going in commission. The Spray brought in on this trip more than twice as many as any of the other arrivals.

The draftsmen at the shipyard will be entertained this evening at the Y. M. C. A. when the men of the Hull department will be pitted against the men of the Engine department in bowling, basket ball, shot put, tug of war and other sports.

The scout cruiser Birmingham built at Quincy will go out tomorrow for her trial trip, manned by a crew from the yard.

Brig. Gen. William A. Pew., Jr., who has just been unanimously elected to command the Second brigade, Massachusetts National Guard, in succession to Maj.-Gen. Jophanus H. Whitney, is well known to many Quincy people. He has been interested as counsel in a number of cases connected with the granite industry. George H. Corliss, correspondent to the Quincy Daily Ledger, was formerly associated with him in his law business, also in the militia, having been attached to headquarters of Eighth regiment, Massachusetts Volunteer Militia. President Roosevelt was a member of the class of 1880, Harvard University, in which General Pew was graduated, and in the years which have followed they have kept up a very cordial friendship.

City Council Meeting

Houghs Neck, and was informed by the President that earlier in the evening it had been referred to the Executive.

Councilman Whiton replied that he must have been asleep for he did not remember it. He then moved and it was voted to refer back to Motions and Orders.

He then moved, and it was voted, to reconsider the vote accepting the report of the Committee on the order appropriating $1,000 to abate the club nuisance at Houghs Neck.

Councilman Broughton doubted the vote, but the verification was not taken.

Councilman Bryant explained that an appropriation to take care of Houghs Neck had been provided in the budget.

Councilman Whiton—Is not any money to be appropriated?

Councilman Bryant—Not until the budget passes.

The report of the Committee was then accepted.

Adjourned at 8.35 until March 9.

Athletic Meet Y. M. C. A. Boys

The second annual open meet for boys will be held at the Quincy Y. M. C. A. Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Already there are more entries in than last year. Nearly all the towns around Boston and from Taunton to Salem will be represented by their best junior athletes. There will be three classes, boys under 14, boys under 16, and boys under 18. So that every boy will compete with boys of his own age.

The prizes this year are the best yet, being gold medals for all firsts and suitable badges for second and third in each event.

The relay races will be very interesting. Somerville, Cambridge, Salem and Quincy will have teams entered. The other events will be 15 yard dashes, potato races, high and broad jumps, shot put.

A handsome trophy is offered to the Association winning the most points. Last year Quincy won and has a handsome cup to display. A shield will be given this year, and it is hoped that the Quincy boys will arise to the occasion and place it permanently on the walls of the Quincy Y. M. C. A.

Record Broken in Y. M. C. A. League

Another interesting bowling match was rolled on the Y. M. C. A. league Monday night. Gordon's team dropped two games to Capt. Giles. Gordon's team has the distinction of rolling the highest five string total of the league the second game going to his team with total of 461.

Welsh Miller's Dexterity.

The card of Welsh Miller of this city, the coin manipulator, will be found in our columns today. Some of our readers may have witnessed his performances in the great theatres of the country. To such it must have seemed that he performed his feats with the assistance of some occult science, such as mesmerism, which is called into play by the Indian yoghis in performing their marvelous feats. Welsh Miller, however, calls to his assistance nothing but a wonderful dexterity—a dexterity which he has perfected with years of practice, but which like the gifts for poetry or music, is born with a man, and which may not be acquired by study or practice.

Those who know Welsh Miller in private life comment upon the fact that his hands are small, broad and short fingered, which would seem to the unitiated to be exactly opposite the type of hand proper for a man of Miller's calling, and yet those who have studied palmistry say that this type of hand very often goes with dexterity such as this man possesses.

The Daily Ledger will comment tomorrow on the annual appropriation order, and the changes made by the Finance Committee.

Master Willie S. Clements of Brewers corner won first prize in the boys' contest for selling the most tickets for the Men's club of Christ church for the minstrel show which was held last week.

The third practical talk of the Y. M. C. A. series will be given by D. L. F. Chase of this city, president of the American Rifle Association, on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock; subject, "Shooting 1000 yards with a high power rifle." Any man interested in this subject is invited.

"Two years in Paraguay among the natives" is the subject upon which Arthur C. Wallis of Beverly, will speak tomorrow evening at First Church chapel under the auspices of the Young People's union. There is also to be good music, all of which should attract a large audience.

Quincy to the Front.

The maltess and Yorkshire terriers owned and shown by Mrs. George H. Jaques of 35 Main street, Quincy, at the recent dog show in Boston, won two first, one second, one reserve and four specials. In addition to the regular prizes offered is a silver tea service know as "Breeders Trophy" which must be won five times to hold. It was put up this year for the first try and Mrs. Jaques' "Miss Kittie" (Yorkshire) is the first wineer.

Ladies Team Win Prize Drill

About 400 people braved the inclement weather of Monday night to witness the prize drill held at A. O. H. hall, Franklin street, between the degree staff of Court John Adams No. 144 F. of A., and Abigail Adams Circle No. 529 C. of F. of A. Our genial fire chief, Peter J. Williams, acted as judge.

The first exhibition was given by the Court staff, the members of which are all of the sterner sex. They gave a fine exhibition and Capt. John M. Troupe deserves great eredit for the excellent showing which his team made.

Dancing was indulged in for about an hour then the Circle team, composed entirely of ladies took the floor, and the large crowd present to witness the drills were certainly well repaid for coming out on such a night. The different evolutions which Capt. Spargo put her team through came with mystifying rapidity and marvellous precision. The team has been taking a course of lessons from Joseph L. Daisy of Charlestown, the well known instructor in this class of work and Mr. Daisy deserves great credit for the marked degree of excellence which the team has attained.

The ladies were heartily applauded, and when Chief Williams awarded them the prize, it is needless to say that his decision met with the approval of all present.

After the exhibitions, dancing was indulged in until 2 A. M., and from the expressions heard, another event of the same description should be held in the near future.

Ex-Congressman Powers to Speak

The regularity with which the prominent politicians of New England are announcing themselves in line for Secretary Taft in his candidacy for Presient, would seem to indicate the presence of some powerful hand directing the political activities in this section. Just how much of this influence can be attributed to ex-Congressman S. L. Powers, the New England manager of Taft's campaign, is a matter of conjecture, but there is no question as to the good fortune of the Methodist Club of Wollaston in securing Mr. Powers for their speaker at their meeting to be held March 19, in which the various men's clubs have been invited to participate. Knowing Mr. Powers' reputation as an orator, we predict an interesting evening for those fortunate enough to hear his address.

Specialties This Week.

If you want to laugh, and laugh hearty, lond and long, don't miss seeing Barr & Evans at the Scenic this week. Mr. Barr as Hiram the Rube, and Miss Evans as Miriam Isabelle, the tiny, dainty soubrette, playing the role of housemaid, kept the audience in continuous roars of laughter last night, as they are always sure to do wherever they go. The man of the team does some very clever acrobatic stunts, and Miriam's laugh is an original concoction that never fails to start the wheels of humor in motion.

Billie Pryor, an all-round musician, singer and dancer, gave some very pleasing and genuine imitations of old-time character musicians, and his songs and playing were enjoyed immensely by those present.

Adolph Adams, "The Man With Many Faces," an absolute master of the art of mimicry, and who has played before the public in the best theatres, lyceums and churches in the country, gave some of the best impersonations of noted men, past and present, that have ever been seen here.

Hearing Postponed.

The hearing before the Supreme court on the removal of Principal Assessor Johnson, which was to have been held this morning, was postponed until next Tuesday, as Mr. French, counsel for Mr. Johnson, was unable to go on, owing to an engagement in another court.

NOTABLE ANNIVERSARY

The Two Quincy Presidents Were Inaugurated On Fourth of March

March 4 should be a flag day for Quincy, the City of Presidents, as on March 4, 1797, John Adams of Quincy was inaugurated President of these United States, and on March 4, 1825, his son, John Quincy Adams was inaugurated as President.

Quincy has so many anniversaries that it allows several to pass unnoticed, but here is a notable anniversary, a double one of which no other city or town in the country can celebrate. Two Quincy born illustrious citizens were placed at the head of this nation on March 4 of different years, and largely shaped its destinies.

John Adams had previously served as Vice President, being the first to hold that office at the adoption of the Constitution.

John Quincy Adams afterwards served as a member of Congress. He was first elected in 1831, and the greater part of his useful life was spent in the halls of Congress until his death in 1848.

The houses in which the Presidents were born are now preserved by the Daughters of the Revolution and the Quincy Historical Society, and their burial place with their wives is beneath the entrance to the First Congregational church, which was built of stone in 1828. Inside the church are mural monuments to both Presidents and their wives.

Funeral of Fireman Nelsen

The funeral of Frederick A. Nelsen, Jr., of Atlantic, one of the firemen injured in the accident to Combination H. & L. No. 2. on the morning of July 4, 1905, was held this morning from the Sacred Heart church, Atlantic.

The services were very largely attended by firemen and friends. These included Chief Williams and the firement attached to the Wollaston station. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, including set pieces from the fire companies.

As the funeral procession left his home for the church, the bells and whistles on the fire alarm circuit struck his age.

The services at the church were conducted by Rev. William Duffy of St. Mary's church. The burial was at the Holy Cross cemetery, Roxbury.

Third Concert And Dance

Parents and friends were present in large numbers at Music hall on Tuesday evening at the third concert and dance given by the pupils of the Boston School of Music of Quincy. The concert was given under the direction of Olindo Taddei.

The program opened with selections by the violin and mandolin class of fifty pupils, and a solo by Miss E. Corcoran, and the O'Rouke quartet. Then came a violin solo by Master J. DeNeill and selections by the violin class, second course. The program closed with a violin solo by Olindo Taddei. The accompanist was Master William DeNeill.

At the conclusion of the concert general dancing was in order, the dance program including twelve numbers.

HOW THEY WERE CUT

Estimates of Mayor and the School Committee Were Slashed

The Finance Committee of the City Council has reduced the estimates of the Mayor and School Committee for 1908 so that the total for current expenses inside the $12 per $1,000 limit is but $5,141.99 larger than last year, the totals being as follows:

1907,	$346.700.00

The committee has apportioned the increase very equally between the departments of the Mayor and the School department, the figures for the two years being:

	Mayor.	Schools.
1908,	$216,001.99	$135,840.00
1907,	$213,145.00	$133,555.00
Increase,	$2,859.99	$2,2775.00

The charges which the Finance Committee made are shown below, the order for 1908 as reported being compared with the order of 1907 as passed.

The item for extra clerical services in the office of the board of Assessors was reduced $50. The total for the Board of Health is increased $104, which all goes to clerk. The salary of city officials is $650 larger, and there is a new item of $200 for clerical services and supplies for the City Auditor. The item for State and Military aid and soldiers relief is decreased $950.

The amount for clerical services in the office of the Tax Collector is reduced $23, while the miscellaneous for the City Treasurer is increased $75. A lump sum of $1200 is given the Park Commissioners which is a reduction of $200. Because of the enlargement of the Thomas Crane Public Library, the appropriation is increased $1,000.

In the Commissioners' department the sum for bridges culverts and drains is reduced $500, and the item for removal of snow $500. The sum of $400 is added for street lighting, $1,000 for miscellaneous streets and $2,500 for gypsy moths.

In the Police department an effort was made to provide for the abatement of the club nuisance at Houghs Neck, and the items for special police, miscellaneous and enforcement of the liquor law were combined and then increased $200. The amount for permanent police, however is decreased $16.65.

The Mayor is given $1,000 less for the settlement of claims and the miscellaneuos expenses of the city.

The item for the Poor department remains the same as last year, but really it is a big reduction for it is expected to include deficit bills of an indefinite amount for 1907. Last year the Poor department had a total of $13,442.60 and that was not enough to pay all the bills. Further the retiring Overseer of the Poor expended in January about $1000, so that the balance for the new Overseer for 1908 would be less than $8,000, against expenditures of $14,000 to $15,000 last year.

The Chief Engineer of the Fire department will have $292.64 more than last year; the items for fire alarm and hose were reduced, and the items for horse shoeing and fuel increased.

Coming to the School department the item for salaries is increased $3,825, and for janitors $185, but there is a reduction of $500 for supplies, $500 for fuel, $100 for transportation and $625 for rents.

The total estimate of the School Committee was $137,340.00, which included $1,000 more for salaries of teachers. The total reported is $135,840.00.

Outside the $12 per $1000 limit the Finance Committee made no changes. The maturing debt and interest however require $38,461.18 more than last year, the Water department requires $1,015.50 more, and the Sewer department $4,055.50 more.

The total to be raised under the order is $627,666.41 against $581,277.32 last year, an increase of $46,389.17. If there was no increase in valuation and receipts it would require an increase of about $2 in the tax rate.

Scout Cruiser Birmingham Expected To Exceed Contract

The scout cruiser Birmingham built by the Fore River Ship Building Co., left the yards this morning for a shakedown run to Provincetown, and thence to the Boston navy yard, where she will be made ready for her trial trip.

The Birmingham left Quincy at 8.30 in charge of Capt. Edward Evans and made the sinuous channels of the Fore river in safety. There was a large crowd of people on the Quincy Point bridge to cheer the vessel as she went through the open draw on her way to the navy yard. The engineering room was in charge of Chief Engineer Page, under whose direction the engines for the ship were built.

The Birmingham is equipped with reciprocating engines in contrast to the turbines of the Chester and the Salem. The Chester has the Parsons—Westinghouse type of turbines, and the Salem the Curtis or American type. Each of the three ships will have to make at least 24 knots an hour, and the Chester in her trials last week made over 26. The officials of the Fore River company say that the Birmingham will make her contract speed and they confidently expect a wide margin of excess.

The Birmingham is a twin screw boat, as is the Salem, while the Chester has four screws. The lines of all three are identical though. There is a change in the smoke pipes of the three that is noticeable, the Chester having four circular stacks while two of those on the Birmingham and Salem are almost oblong at the top, giving the ships a sort of rakish appearance, not unlike the arrangements of the funnels on some of the French cruisers.

The engines of the Birmingham are

GUILD IS FOR TAFT

Would Not Refuse Nomination For Vice President

REPUBLICAN DISEASE CURED

Secretary of War Discusses Topics Uppermost In the Public Mind--Prompt Response to Insinuation Against "His Chief"

Boston, March 4.—A great audience assembled at Symphony hall last night and heard addresses by Secretary of War Taft, Senator Burkett of Nebraska, Governor Guild and Lieutenant Governor Draper. All the speakers were guests of the Republican club of Massachusetts.

Governor Guild announced his preference for Taft for the party nomination for president and for Draper for nominee for governor. The governor also took occasion to deny that he had been a party to any arrangement by which he would receive the nomination for vice president. He added that should he be selected he would not refuse the nomination.

When Secretary Taft arose to speak he was enthusiastically applauded, the demonstration lasting a minute and a half before he could begin his speech. The greater portion of his address was given over to a discussion of the different issues which the Republican party had made during its existence and which, he claimed, had been successfully solved. Among them were the issues of slavery, tariff, the Spanish war and expansion. He admitted that there had been certain influences in the Republican party which he called "disease," but he claimed that the party had cured the disease in its own ranks and had gone on to success.

Taking up more modern affairs, he said that the administration of President Roosevelt will be remembered as an extension of reforms, many of which Roosevelt himself had initiated and become responsible for, especially those in relation to his attitude towards trusts and combinations of capital.

The speaker said that there were some men who had used capital in an illegal form, monopolies which were unlawful and rebates which were held to be questionable.

Among the results of the administration, said the speaker, was the rate bill, as a result of which the railroads must conduct their business in a legitimate manner with discrimination towards none.

But combinations of capital are just as necessary as the assembling of parts of a machine. There is a way of discriminating between lawful and unlawful business, and the coming campaign should not be waged on the rights of private parties as against capital. The rights and responsibility of capital and combinations should be just as strongly upheld when they are right and lawful as those of individuals.

Secretary Taft then went on to take up the rights of the wage earner and said they were just as legitimate as those of capital. The interests of labor are as just before the law as the interests of capital. When labor finds itself discriminated against or treated unlawfully it should carry on a battle for its rights just as vigorously as possible.

He said the present business depression is only temporary, and that there is every hope that the depression will be overcome soon and that normal conditions will be restored. There is every encouragement, he said, for a hopeful solution of the difficulties. Money legitimately invested should be protected.

Discussing the tariff, Taft said he thought it should be revised in order to adjust the inequality which he thought existed. He believed that a special session of congress should be called to consider the subject, at a time when revision would have the least effect on the business of the country, and after the presidential election.

The flashes of wit which are characteristic of the after-dinner speeches of Simeon Ford of New York were invoked to their full at the expense of President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft at the banquet of the Boston Real Estate Exchange and Auction Board, where Taft arrived after his address before the Republican club. The result was to bring Taft to his feet in a prompt response in what he termed an insinuation against "his chief."

Mr. Ford's striking remark which called for the response was: "I look upon Theodore Roosevelt as a sort of political blue pill. The body politic doubtless was suffering from many disorders, the elimination of which was necessary. Well, we have had our dose all right. His last message certainly made a noise like a third term."

When Taft arose he referred to the previous speaker's remarks as follows: "I am put in an embarrassing position. If I could feel that what he said was mere pleasantry, whether it cast reflections upon myself or my chief, I should feel different. If those remarks were intended for another purpose every impulse of loyalty in me requires an answer.

"When I love a chief and when I admire him from top to toe I cannot be silent and permit such insinuations, although they may be hidden in a jest. I don't mean to say that the American people should not have humor. If I could not appreciate and enjoy humor and if I couldn't stand a joke I should retire to a monastery."

GAINS FOR NO LICENSE

Summary of Results of Vermont City and Town Elections

Montpelier, Vt., March 4.—Fair weather prevailing throughout the state, the city and town elections brought out a strong vote, the especial interest centering on the license vote.

In the elections in five of the six cities of the state, the present Republican mayors were re-elected in St. Albans and Vergennes, the present Citizens' party mayors were re-elected in Barre and Montpelier and the Republicans retain control in Rutland by electing their candidate. Burlington had an off year in the mayoralty election, but was strongly Republican in selecting new members of the aldermanic board.

Burlington swung from no-license to license, Barre and St. Albans changing from license to no-license. Rutland sustained her license position and Vergennes and Montpelier continue to be no-license towns.

Returns from the three northern counties of the state, Franklin, Orleans and Essex, show that the no-license faction made a decided gain. In Franklin county three towns only voted yes, compared with four last year. Orleans county went solid "no," where last year one town voted "yes." In Essex county there was but one change, the town of Brighton turning from "yes" to "no." In Washington county but one town went for license, the town of Middlesex, by six votes.

Returns from the 246 towns throughout the state show that 29 towns voted for license this year, against 33 last year.

Gets $6000 For Lost Love

Boston, March 4.—Although Alfred Vizer of Pittsfield is happily married, he must pay a former sweetheart, Miss Emma Pilan, the sum of $6000 for heart balm, according to a decision handed down by the full bench of the supreme court. When the case was tried in the superior court it was brought out that Vizer became engaged to Miss Pilan in September, 1904. In January, 1906, he married his present wife. Miss Pilan brought a $10,000 suit for breach of promise and won a $6000 verdict. The defendant took his troubles to the supreme court and lost.

Decision Affecting Liquor Raiders

Bangor, Me., March 4.—Officers who use the axe, pickaxe and crowbar in searching dwellings for liquor, thereby causing much damage, exceed their authority and become liable to the owner, according to an opinion and rescript drawn by Chief Justice Emery in the Maine law court. Emery states that while a thorough search of a house where it is suspected liquors are sold should be made, soundings and probings of walls and partitions should be done with as little damage as possible.

Curtailment of Cotton Production

Fall River, Mass., March 4.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Cotton Manufacturers' association of this city the question of continuing the curtailment of production beyond the ten days set by agreement among the cotton manufacturers of New England was discussed, but no definite action was taken. It is the general belief here, however, that the manufacturers will favor a further curtailment.

Weekly Saving of Fully $5000

Boston, March 4.—The most drastic order yet issued by Mayor Hibbard places the entire force of the street department on half-time, and by it 830 men are affected. The order goes into effect on Friday morning, and will result in saving $5000 to $6000 a week as long as it is in force. As a result of the order half of the force will work one week and lay off the next.

Two Police Officers Drop Dead

Boston, March 4.—Sergeant R. J. Nagle, aged 52, and Lieutenant O. E. Boynton, aged 57, officers of the Boston police department, who live side by side on Q street, South Boston, both dropped dead of heart failure yesterday, one immediately after returning from his patrol and the other as he was about to begin his duties.

Physician Under $1000 Bail

Rochester, N. H., March 4.—Dr. Leon G. Verrill, who was held by the Rochester police court without bail for the September grand jury on the charge of murder in causing the death of Mrs. Arty Miller of Newcastle by an illegal operation, was admitted to bail in the sum of $5000, which was furnished by a dozen Rochester citizens.

Must Undergo Further Repairs

Newport, R. I., March 4.—While bound from Bristol, where she had been undergoing extensive repairs, for this port, the torpedo boat Morris struck a submerged object which badly damaged her propeller blades. The Morris will be unfit for further service until her blades are repaired.

Death Relieves Long Suffering

Philadelphia, March 4.—William Altemus, aged 21, of Cheltenham, a suburb, died from a broken back received last Thanksgiving day while playing football. A few minutes after the game began Altemus made a flying tackle and in the mixup was rendered unconscious. He was removed to a hospital, where he lingered until last evening.

To Investigate Canal Workers' Food

New York, March 4.—William Childs, Jr., and Harry Balfe, members of the National Civic Federation, have sailed for the Panama canal zone to make an investigation for the government, as experts, of the food served to the men employed in constructing the canal. This investigation is to be made under executive order of Secretary Taft.

Ordnance Expert Says Our Shooters Have Not Been Outdone

Washington, March 4.—Four naval officers, all experts in turret construction and ammunition manufacture, testified before the senate naval committee in defense of the American navy against all forms of criticism.

Three of the witnesses, P. R. Alger, instructor in mathematics at the naval academy and a member of the special board on ordnance; Commander Fletcher and Lieutenant Commander Chase, spoke in detail concerning turret accidents and the methods that have been adopted to make turrets safe. None of these officers seem to think there was great danger from the direct hoist if some changes were made to provide more effective screening between the ammunition handling room and the big guns. Lieutenant Commander Straus testified in regard to the government powder manufacture.

Professor Alger commented on the gunnery at Santiago and said that since that time there had been "a revival of gunnery," due largely to Commander Sims' campaign for the installation of the telescope sights for big guns, which were adopted from the British. He said the guns were all right at Santiago, but the men had not learned how to shoot them. He asserted, however, that at that time no other navy knew how to shoot and that no navy could shoot better than the American navy at the present time.

Rout of New Brunswick Liberals

Fredericton, N. B., March 4.—The Liberal government of New Brunswick, which has been continued in office under one form or another for twenty-five years, was overthrown in the general elections held throughout the province. The landslide carried down four cabinet ministers in Premier Robinson's government. The severe criticism of provincial finances, the unpopularity of the new highways act and charges that a "trust" existed in the school book supply are said to be some of the reasons for the government's downfall.

Asiatic Immigration Opposed

Washington, March 4.—The Hayes bill to regulate the coming into and the residence within the United States of persons of the Mongolian or Asiatic race or extraction was considered by a sub-committee of the house committee on foreign affairs. Representative McKinlay (Cal.) charged that Asiatics work for wages which disrupt labor conditions for the American working man and that racially they are non-amalgamative. No decision was arrived at.

Bullet Kills Loop-the-Loop Star

New York, March 4.—Mitzel Morok, aged 19, whose recklessly daring loop-the-loop act has been the feature of many a circus performance, met death while pouring tea for a friend last night. As the circus star filled a cup for her friend, the latter, Miss Antoinette Deframe, toyed with an old-fashioned pistol, which exploded in her hands. A bullet lodged in Miss Morok's neck and she survived but a few moments.

Denies Divine Origin of Christ

London, March 4.—Rev. R. J. Campbell, pastor of City temple, proposes to form a new sect and organization for an active propaganda in behalf of his "New Theology," the central idea of which is the denial of the divine origin of Christ, whom he regards as a social reformer. Campbell's reason for this step, he says, is the hostile attitude of the official element in the churches to the new movement.

Roy Case Reaches Washington

Washington, March 4.—Application was made to the state department for the necessary authority to extradite from France Paul E. Roy, charged with responsibility for the death of George A. Carkins in New Hampshire. Refusal of the state department officials to discuss the application makes it impossible to learn whether or not extradition papers were issued.

Promoter an Alleged Swindler

New York, March 4.—After a long but quiet investigation, detectives arrested Peter Whitney, a promoter, with offices at 100 Broadway and a branch office in Boston, on charges of swindling and violation of the postal laws. The detectives say they have secured much evidence bearing on numerous complaints made against Whitney.

A ROBBER OF STORES

Policeman's Alleged Confession to County Attorney

IMPULSE WAS IRRESISTIBLE

Desire to Steal Came Over Him "When His Head Ached"--Blames His Shortcomings to Lack of Advice of a Mother When Young

Portland, Me., March 4.—Officer George H. Brown of the Portland police department, who was arrested last Thursday for the larceny of meat and provisions from a store and was subsequently arrested on a charge of stealing 800 talking machine records, made a confession last night, it is claimed, in which, it is said, he admits having stolen from fifteen stores.

The alleged confession was obtained by County Attorney Connolly, who desired to clear up the suspicion against clerks in the places where thefts have been made on Brown's beat. The state has prosecuted Brown on threee cases in which which it has conclusive proof and it is doubtful if he will be prosecuted on any more.

Brown's attorney, Frank I. Moore, was present during the alleged confession, which follows:

"My father died when I was 2 years old and my mother died when I was 10 and since then I have had to shift for myself. I sold candy for 75 cents a week when a boy and slept in a shed. When a boy my skull was fractured, so they told me. I don't know why I did it, but when my head ached I had to do things that I did. I tried to fight it, but had to give in and then I felt better.

"My first stealing in the police department was four years ago when, in company with — —— we got the stuff. (Brown gave the name, but it is withheld for the present). I found Allen & Co.'s elevator door open one night and took $40 in money beside neckwear, etc. I also took six rugs, six pairs of draperies and two rocking chairs from the Walter Corey company at one time. At this place I found the back door open and I carried the chairs from the store to my home. I have been through the fence of the Portland Stove foundry yard and got a lot of pans and bottles and things for my kitchen. I didn't use my key there, though I had a great many. Some I made myself and some I had made for me, but the most of them I took from a key shop on Plum street.

"The keys found on the dump the other day I left there. At Hoskin & Tuttle's drug store I used to find the trap on the sidewalk open and from this place I have taken a lot of stuff, such as candy, perfume, tobacco, etc., and I suppose I have taken 1500 cigars from there.

I had no one to help me take the things from the talking machine stores, as I carried them away in a bag. From the New England supply store I got four rugs, a wine set, and I guess the other was a lemonade set. These I will give you back if you want them. One night I was passing Hay's drug store and noticed a cellar window open and went in through the window and took three boxes of cigars."

Brown summed up his alleged confession by saying that if he had had the advice of a mother when a young man he might have done differently. He also said that he felt that if officers could know how it seems to be locked up they would not be so ready to make arrests. Brown said that he could not tell why he was influenced to do as he had, but it seemed to be an inner prompting. He said that his attorney calls him crazy, but "I am not crazy," he said, "I am just simply at times bad."

When Patrolman Charles F. Tibbetts reported for duty last night he was informed that he had been suspended and ordered to appear before Chief Dresser today. The latter officer stated that Tibbett's name had been mentioned in Brown's confession, but would furnish no further information.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

A report of the Nolen lecture at First Church chapel last Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Civic committee will be found in the Ledger of Feb. 27th.

An executive board meeting of the officers of the club will be held as usual tomorrow morning at ten o'clock at the club house with considerable business to transact.

Arrangements are about completed for Reciprocity afternoon on March 10th, when the club will entertain neighboring club presidents and some of the local clubs. Officers of the club will receive, and there will be a good musical program and short talks on club work by visiting presidents. Last year's guest afternoon proved so enjoyable that many are looking forward with much pleasure to the forthcoming one.

The Civic committee of Atlantic raised sixty-five dollars by their entertainment of last week, which will be used for civic work in Atlantic.

Several members of the club are helping the various committees on the biennial convention of the National Federation to be held in Boston the week of June 22d and are doing some of the practical work of preparation.

A report of the Tuberculosis meeting at the club-house this afternoon will be found in Thursday's Ledger.

The paying of club dues for next year is now in order they being due in March and April before the annual meeting. Members are beginning to pay and the waiting list is also growing longer which shows continued interest in the Quincy Women's club.

BIENNIAL CONVENTION.

The last of June promises to be a busy season for club women of Boston and vicinity, when 236 clubs of Massachusetts will be hosts for the biennial meeting of the National Federation of Women's clubs, which represents more than half a million women.

The members of the Massachusetts state federation have been arranging for the convention for two years, and hope to give the delegates such a welcome, that each will carry back to her home a realization of the fact that Boston's reputation for coldness to strangers is a mere figment of the brain of some irresponsible person who never visited the old Bay state.

The sessions will be held in Symphony hall, and other halls near by will be used for overflow and duplicate meetings, for a larger attendance is expected than at any previous convention.

The work of the general federation is now carried on by 12 committees, namely, art, civics, civil service reform, education, forestry, household economics, industrial and child labor, legislative, library extension, literature, outlook, pure food and reciprocity.

Each state federation now has permanent committees corresponding to those of the general federation.

The influence of the general federation in state legislation has come to be fully recognized. Every state federation has a legislative committee which, while it does not initiate legislation directly, watches it and works for such measures as will be of direct benefit to the public, and especially to women and children.

"Do that which comes next, is one of the mottoes of the club women, no matter whether it be something that the whole world will hear of or some unnoticed piece of betterment in a small community.

Some states have taken up the cause of the schools and have tried to obtain better salaries for the teachers, in order that the best instructors might be attracted and the children have the highest kind of training.

Some clubs have small exchanges where needy women may well sell the product of their one special talent and thus help to fill their scanty purses. Others assist in the work of spreading information concerning the danger and the prevention of tuberculosis, and are a great help in this direction.

In some states, where it was necessary, they have protected young girls by bringing about a change of the law and prosecuting offenders. They have succeeded in establishing juvenile courts in several of the states.

Stamp savings in the public schools has been another good thing undertaken by the club women in many places. In one town in this state in five months, as reported in 1906, the school children saved by this means more than $2,000.

These are but a few, though some of the most important kinds of work the club women are interested in. It will be seen, as one of the prominnt club women has said, "the club women who used to study Shakespeare, have been looking around them upon life's stage, and have found that a number of life's players are performing their parts under adverse circumstances and are trying to help them."

The plans for the Boston convention have not yet been completed, but one may be sure that the Massachusetts women will arrange a program in every way worthy of their guests, themselves and the state. There will be excursions to all the famous places. The latch string will be out, and the visiting club women will be given a hearty welcome in many homes. There will formal and informal receptions, banquets and teas. Yet all this will be merely supplementary to the serious business for which all these women will come together.

It is the first time in the history of the federation that business men have not been invited to make contributions. The local biennial board includes: Chairman, Miss Georgie A. Bacon, 39 Dean street, Worcester, Mass.; recording secretary, Mrs. Lillian G. Breed, 48 Nahant street, Lynn; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Leila C. Pennock, 62 Highland avenue, Somerville; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Morton Kehew, 317 Beacon street, Boston; directors, Mrs. Eliza J. Bates, 86 Linden street, Allston, Mass.; Mrs. Marion A. Crocker, 48 Mechanic street, Fitchburg; Mrs. H. Pauline Merrick, 207 Fisher avenue, Brookline; Mrs. Marion G. Pratt, North Middleboro: Mrs. May Alden Ward, 1382 Beacon street, Boston; Mrs. Florence L. Whitman, 23 Everett street, Cambridge: Mrs. Bertha B. Wier, 42 Eleventh street, Lowell; Miss Helen A. Whittier, 1382 Beacon street, Boston.—Boston Herald.

NEIGHBORING.

To raise the money pledged toward entertaining the biennial convention of the National Federation of Women's clubs, in Boston, in June, the New England Women's Press club gave a fine entertainment at hotel Vendome, Boston, on Saturday afternoon which was a great success socially and financially. The entertainers were Miss Ethel Harding of Malden, a young pianist who has received most encouraging approval in New York city and bids fair to become equally popular in Boston for her playing is a revelation. Miss Hazel Humphrey Baker of Weymouth a charming young girl with a rich contralto voice sang delightfully. Miss Baker is training for the stage and it is not often she can be induced to sing in public so that her appearance on the afternoon's program was a special pleasure. Most of the program was by Miss Edith Margaret Smaill of Montreal, who is filling engagements in Boston at the present time. Her specialty is a lecture recital of the stories of the Habitant and on Saturday she gave several of Drummond's poems also her own arrangement of Gilbert Parker's "She of the Triple Chevron." She is exceptionally clever in her interpretation of the fascinating dialect, displaying dramatic intensity and a true human touch, that shows a nice sense of fitness. It was a fine program throughout and during the reception that followed all expressed their appreciation and pleasure personally.

Dorchester Social Club of Women has an evening meeting March sixth, a chafing dish party with whist and dancing.

Prof. F. W. Rane, State Forester last week told the Waban Woman's club of the steps being taken for the preservation of our trees and the reforestation of waste lands, which proved very interesting as it is a most important matter at the present time when trees are being cut down regardless of the future.

The public schools of Weymouth were closed at noon on Feb. 28th, to give the teachers an opportunity to attend the lecture of Prof. Edward Howard Griggs, under the auspices of the Old Colony Club of Weymouth.

Councillors for two years—Mrs. Patience C. H. Paley, Mrs. Antoinette S. Paige and Miss Nellie E. Potter.

Those serving for another year on the council from last year's election are:—Miss Harriet B. Pierce, Mrs. Susan E. Garey and Mrs. Francis G. Mayo.

Delegates elected to attend the meeting of the National society D. R. in New York in April are the regent and Mrs. Frank F. Prescott with Mrs. Antoinette Paige as alternate for the regent.

After the business meeting Mrs. William Porter read an interesting paper on Charles Francis Adams, minister to the court of St. James, England, during the Civil war.

A pleasant surprise was the serving of refreshments after the meeting by two Atlantic members, Mrs. Cummings and Miss Hinkley, members not anticipating refreshments at a business meeting. Ample justice was done the dainties provided by the hostesses and it was a very cosy gathering about the open fire despite the rain outside which was soon to be encountered.

Officers of the chapter are to attend the tenth anniversary of Abigail Smith chapter of Weymouth on Monday afternoon at the home of Miss Georginna A. Robbins, North Weymouth.

The annual meeting of the State society is to be held as usual on "Evacuation Day" Tuesday, March 17th, in Chipman hall, Tremont Temple, Boston.

Vote on License Question.

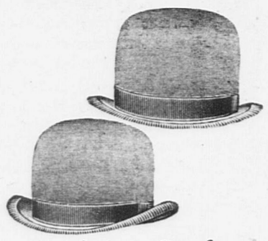

Fourteen towns shifted their positions on the license question at the annual town meetings this week. Six went from the yes to the no column and eight from the no to the yes side. Grafton, Hopkinton, Leicester, Sandwich, Shrewsbury and Winchenden will be "dry" for a year, the no vote having made big gains in each place. Those which changed to license are Athol, Dracut, Framingham, Gardner, Medfield, Middleton, Natick and Westboro. Montague went for salons by a majority of only one vote. Greenfield cut the license majority down to seventy.

Ex-Councilman Passes Away

Ex-Councilman John J. Dugan died at his home in East Milton on Tuesday, after a lingering illness, aged 37 years.

Mr. Dugan was born in Quincy Oct. 29, 1871. He attended the Willard school, and then learned the trade of a tool sharpener, at which he was employed for six years.

In 1894 he associated himself with the Metropolitan Insurance Company, later going with the Columbia Company, of which he was local superintendent, having an office in the Durgin-Merrill block. He had long been afflicted with weak lungs, and some years ago went south for his health.

He remained there some time and returned to Quincy as he thought will. He mairred Miss Harriet Haley of East Milton, and took up his residence in that town. He was a member of several societies.

H was elected to the City Council of 1899, serving on the Committee of Public Buildings and Grounds, and Legislative Matters. He leaves a widow and children.

The executive committee of the Republican City Committee met Tuesday evening and discussed ways and means and the Presidential campaign. In their new president ex-Councilman Chase they feel that they have a good leader.

WAR ON ANARCHISTS

Government Takes Steps For Its Active Prosecution

ORDER OF SECRETARY STRAUS

Immigration Officials Must Strictly Adhere to Laws Regarding Alien Anarchists and Criminals and Secure Co-operation of Police

Washington, March 4.—The secretary of commerce and labor has issued a sweeping order to all commissioners of immigration and immigrant inspectors in charge, directing them to confer with the police in their respective jurisdictions with a view to securing the "co-operation of the police and detective forces in an effort to rid the country of alien anarchists and criminals falling within the law relating to deportation." The order of Secretary Straus follows:

"It is hereby directed that, with a view to promptly obtaining definite information with regard to alien anarchists and criminals located in the United States, you shall confer fully with the chief of police, or the chief of the secret service of the city in which you are located, furnishing such official with detailed information with regard to the meaning of the term 'anarchist' as used in the immigration act of Feb. 20, 1907, and with regard to the inhibition of that statute against aliens of the criminal classes, explaining the powers and limitations imposed by said statute upon the immigration officials with respect to such persons.

"You should call to the attention of the chief of police, or chief of the secret service, the definition of 'anarchist,' contained in sections 2 and 38 of the act of Feb. 20, 1907, and the provisions of section 2 placing within the excluded classes 'persons who have been convicted of, or admit having committed a felony or other crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude,' pointing out that if any such person is found within the United States within three years after landing or entry therein he is amenable to deportation under the provisions of section 21 of said act.

"The co-operation of said officials should be requested, making it clear that in order that any particular anarchist or criminal may be deported, evidence must be furnished showing (1) that the person in question is an alien subject to the immigration acts, (2) that he is an anarchist or criminal as defined in the statute, (3) the date of his arrival in the United States, which must be within three years of the date of his arrest, (4) the name of the vessel or of the transportation line by which he came, if possible, and, (5) the name of the country whence he came; the details with respect to the last three items being kept at the various ports of entry in such a manner as to be available if information is furnished with respect to the anarchist's name, the date of his arrival and the port of entry.

"It is desired that the above indicated steps shall be taken at once and that no proper effort shall be spared to secure and retain the co-operation of the local police and detective forces in an effort to rid the country of alien anarchists and criminals falling within the provisions of the statute relating to deportation."

Ready to Cope With Lawlessness

New York, March 4.—The order of Secretary Straus of the department of commerce and labor for the deportation of such alien anarchists and criminals as the law can reach will be enforced promptly and vigorously by the local federal authorities, working in harmony with the municipal police. Commissioner of Immigration Watchorn is keenly alive to the situation, and his subordinates already are schooled in what is expected of them.

It is known that a systematic campaign against those suspected of anarchistic sympathies has been quietly waged in this city for months. Special detectives are scattered throughout the Wall street section, the neighborhoods of the wealthy receive special attention, and the haunts of the suspected are closely watched. While little appears on the surface, it is known that any attempt at a lawless demonstration would be ridden down rough-shod, and that a warm reception awaits the avowed anarchist from other parts who in an ill-advised moment may turn his steps New Yorkward.

Grand Review Under Evans' Command

Washington, March 4.—Rear Admiral Evans will have supreme command at the grand review of the ships of the Atlantic and Pacific fleets in San Francisco bay. This is simply in keeping with existing naval practice which gives to the senior ranking officer command when there are present several officers of similar rank.

Cotton Operatives on Strike

Montreal, March 4.—Twelve hundred employes of the Hochelaga and the Ste Anne's cotton mills have gone on strike. The trouble was caused mainly because the employes wanted to have an assistant foreman discharged, and wanted to have the hours of labor changed.

of 17,000 indicated horse power, and it has been figured out that the propellers will have to make 200 revolutions a minute to make a 24-knot gait. The cruiser will be floated into the dry dock Thursday and it is expected she will get out by Sunday. On Monday she will go out into the bay and will have her standardization trial off Rockland on Tuesday. She has a crew of over 200 men and many government officials will be on board when she leaves the navy yard.

The trial of the Birmingham will be watched with more than usual interest as engineering officers are waiting to see what kind of a showing the reciprocating engines will make as against the performance of the Parsons turbine which the Chester used with such good effect last week. Then, when the Birmingham gets through, the Salem will be sent to sea to try her American turbines against the English type, and also against the reciprocating engines of the Birmingham.

Supper Followed By Dramatics

There was a large gathering at the Universalist church Tuesday evening at the supper and entertainment given by the Dorcas society.

Supper was served at 6.30. There were baked beans, cold meats, pie, etc., and all were pronounced excellent.

Following the supper was an interesting and pleasing entertainment. First came a drama entitled, "The Minister's Wife." In the cast were: Mrs. Annie Morrison, Mrs. Mabel Jones, Miss Mabel Ross, Miss Mary Blake, Mrs. Fannie Huke and Mrs. G. R. White. This was followed by a farce entitled "Booksellers Sketch." The characters were impersonated by Miss Margaret Shirley and Mrs. Fannie McNeil.

The remainder of the program included selections by the Mason quartette; violin, banjo and piano trio by Charles, Lewis, and Benjamin French; baritone solo by G. R. White; piano solo by Miss Verna Birnie, and harmonica solo by James Campbell.

Better Pictures And More Singers

Although the district police have forbidden the Scenic theatre from giving any more vaudeville acts, the moving pictures and illustrated songs will continue to be given and improved.

Manager Donovan was obliged to cut out his vaudeville acts on Tuesday evening on very short notice. He was called upon by the District Police at 5.30, and told that the vaudeville made the Scenic come under the theatre laws, and as the Scenic did not comply with the law in regard to asbestos curtain, etc., that no more vaudeville could be given.

Manager Donovan had been given to understand that if he had no stage curtain he covered the law. For this reason there has never been a stage curtain at the Scenic. It appears, however, that that is not all that is necessary.

Manager Donovan when seen this morning said that he should cut out the vaudeville acts for awhile. He will, however, add new and better moving pictures. There will also be illustrated songs and some of the best lady and gentlemen vocalists have been secured.

He intends to make the Scenic with these new features even better than before, and will continue to give a two hours' entertainment for a dime.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

Desired at Hearing on Memorials to Illustrious Sons

Quincy as the birthplace of all three of these Massachusetts patriots should be interested in a meeting at the State House set for next Monday afternoon, March 9, at three o'clock, to be held for the purpose of considering the proposed memorials of John Adams, John Quincy Adams and John Hancock, whose memory it is proposed to honor by erecting in the Memorial Hall marble statues of these men of historic fame.

A special commission, says the Transcript, consisting of Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Professor Charles Eliot Norton and Edward Robinson, has had the matter under consideration, and among others interested in this movement, and who may be expected to speak next Monday, are former Governors Long, Brackett and Bates, General Charles Kimball Darling, president of the Massachusetts Society, Sons of the American Revolution; Hon. Arthur H. Wellman, who is prominent in the organization; Rev. Edward Everett Hale, D. D., Rev. Edward Anderson of Quincy and Edwin D. Mead.

Those who have been actively interested in trying to bring the project of these memorials to a successful issue are deeply anxious for a large attendance next Monday at the State House, and they urge all members of the various Revolutionary and other patriotic societies hereabout to attend in as large numbers as possible, since their support of the movement, even if only by their presence, will mean much toward bringing the matter to a desired end.

Entertainment By Religious Union

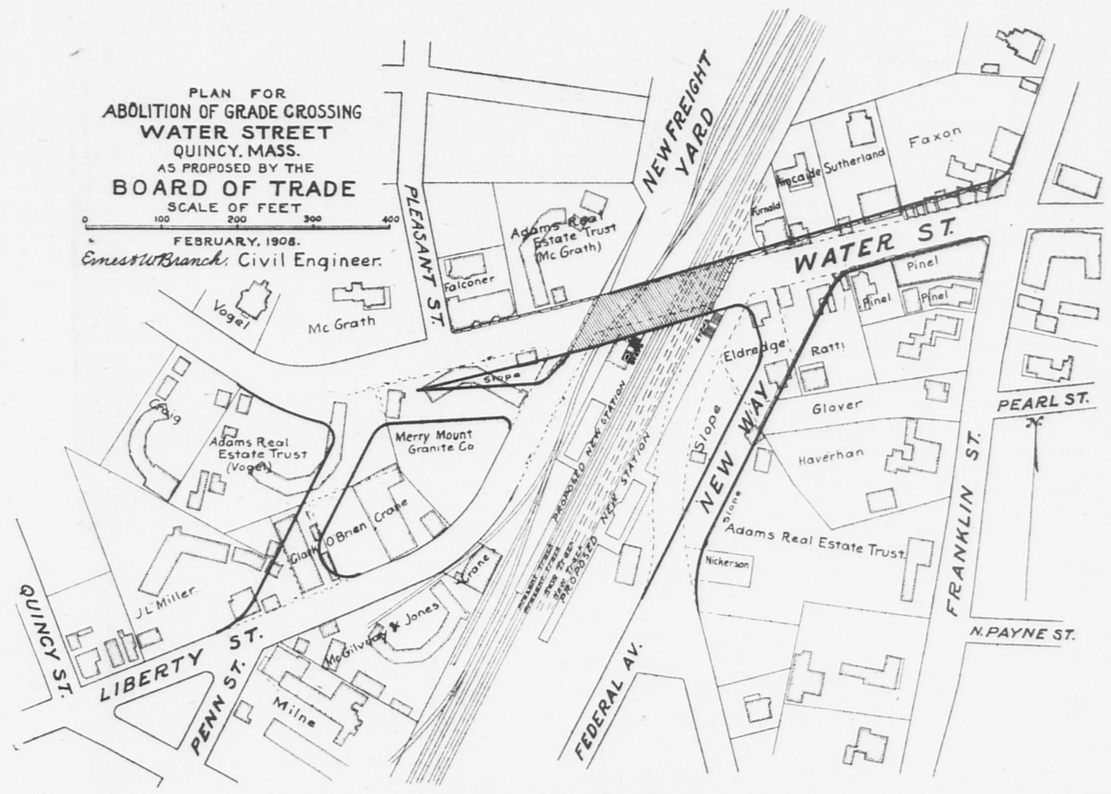

To replenish its treasury and to bring its members together socially the Young People's Religious union of First church gave an informal entertainment in the chapel Wednesday evening. The first part of the program was a short musicale consisting of piano solos by Miss Minnie Hardwick, a member of the union who always gives pleasure by her playing and in dramatics. Miss Helen Drinkwater of Braintree sang two groups of songs accompanied by Mrs. John F. Hunt at the piano. Miss Drinkwater has a well cultivated mezzo soprano voice, whose sweet freshness won immediate recognition and she was heartily encored.

Following the musicale Mr. Arthur C. Wallis of Beverly told of his two years' travel through South America. That he enjoyed the trip was evidenced by the enthusiasm with which he told of his varied experiences. He had souvenirs of the countries visited which he exhibited after the lecture.

The evening's entertainment had been arranged by Mrs. Isabelle Davis but she was detained at home by illness in the family. Mr. Russell C. Low, president of the union, presided.

BOARD OF TRADE PLAN OF WATER STREET.

Editors Quincy Daily Ledger:

Responding to your liberal request for discussion of the grade crossing problem, we respectfully submit the accompanying plan of separating the grades at Quincy-Adams, believing this to be the best solution of the matter, considering all of the various interests to be affected and hoping that this opportunity offered your many readers to carefully study the same may tend to bring criticism and amendments which will still further improve.

This plan is at present the most popular of any yet produced and, aside from its adoption by the Quincy Board of Trade, has the endorsement of most of the interested taxpayers of Quincy Adams, and other parts of the city.

The scheme provides for lowering the tracks some 3 or 4 feet at Water street, which would not disturb any of the present switches, and then crossing with an overhead bridge. This we consider the best method of crossing, as conditions would be the more sanitary, streets easily accessible, most cheaply taken care of, and more symmetrical than they could be made to appear under any other proposed arrangement.

It is not alone desirable that the street should be on top, but it would be decidedly objectionable to have trains run overhead, and this is the most important point bearing upon the whole matter, for, not only would an overhead structure be a barrier to the free intercouse of the business of the different sections of the city, but it would result in a direct additional and needless nuisance of dust, smoke and noise, which will depreciate the value of a vast amount of property from 10 to 25 per cent not for the present time alone, but as a perpetual legacy to our posterity.

The Granite street bridge, which we hope to see subject to the recently acquired popular sentiment for "depression," is an object lesson to us, which we should strongly protest against being duplicated.

It will be remembered that the railroad plan provides for an overhead street, but re-located to a point remote from Water street. We consider this unwarranted, and it has been voted by the citizens that existing ways should be maintained as far as possible.

The filling required in raising Water street would result in a grade of 3 1-2 per cent on the east side of the railroad, which would raise the grade somewhat at its junction with Franklin street, and would be beneficial to abutting property at this point, while the permanent buildings on Water street would be raised to the new grade.

On the west side Penn street would extend to Water street, which would accommodate all of the through travel above that point, Water street having a grade of only 3 per cent, leaving the present Liberty street to the depot and the new freight yard, which is now being equipped with the new 40 ton traveling crane.

The new short street nearly parallel with Water street would give ready access by teams to the station from the east side.

While this plan would perhaps cost somewhat more than others that have been proposed, it is not to be called an expensive plan, as the future results of this change must be seriously considered and works of this kind properly done will return to the city benefits which can not be had by any other less proper methods of construction.

Thanking you for your valuable space, we remain, Respectfully yours,

Grade crossing committee of Quincy Board of Trade.

DOCTRINE UNPOPULAR

Wollaston Pastor Requested to Discontinue Subject Or to Resign

A crisis has been reached in the affairs of the Wollaston Unitarian church, between people and pastor, the Rev. E. W. Hunt. Liberal thought is usually extended to ministers of this denomination, but the doctrines of the pastor are not in accord with some. For the past two Sundays Rev. Mr. Hunt has preached on the subject of the new religious healing. He is not a Christian Scientist, he says, but has given the "new thought" so-called, considerable study, and has told of his research as a Unitarian.

As a result of the two sermons, however, he has been asked by the parish committee of the church to discontinue that line of thought or resign.

The pastor informs the Daily Ledger that it is not his intention now to resign, but on Sunday morning, March 8, he will give his answer, preaching on the subject "Religion and health." The public is invited.

Rev. E. W. Hunt has been the pastor of the Wollaston Unitarian church about three years, having previously been located at Bangor, Me., over a Unitarian church. Previous to that, for twelve years, he was a rector of the Episcopal church at Lansing, Mich. Early in February Mr. Hunt sent a letter relative to his pastorate to the church which was laid on the table until May, although he requested that action be taken.

Many Societies Among Mourners

The funeral of William E. Brown was held this morning from St. John's church and was very largley attended.

There was a very large number of floral pieces including set pieces from the several organizations with which he was affiliated. The Elks, Knights of Columbus, Foresters and Hibernians escorted the remains from the house on Mechanic street to the church.

A solemn High mass of requiem was celebrated with Rev. John J. Coan as celebrant, Rev. Julian E. Johnstone as deacon, Rev. John J. Casey as sub-deacon, and Rev. Francis W. Walsh as master of ceremonies.

On the altar were Rev. W. H. Fitzpatrick and Rev. J. A. Dugan of Milton, Rev. A. F. Roche and Rev. J. P. Cuffe.

Schmitz mass was sung by the choir. At the offertory, Miss Alice C. Foley sang "Pie Jesu," and after the absolution service, "Angels ever bright and fair."

The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery where the commitment service was conducted by Rev. Francis W. Walsh.

Conference on Granite Troubles

The executive committee of the National Association of granite industries is holding a meeting in Boston today, and will consider the granite troubles in New England. Among the matters that will be especially considered is the agreement in Quincy to pay the quarrymen an average wage of 28 cents per hour.

The quarrymen asked for an increase from 26 to 30 cents, but accepted the manufacturers offer of 28 cents, subject to ratification of the National committee.

The quarrymen in Quincy have not been working since the first of the month, as they have no bill of prices.

The unsettled matters between the cutters and manufacturers will also come up for consideration at this same meeting.

There are several points that have been referred to this board for settlement, but by agreement between the two local organizations the cutters continue at work.

Defective Furnace In Basement of School Building In Ohio Town Starts a Fire Which Quickly Wrecks the Structure--Doors In Front and Rear Opened Inward and Unfortunates Were Mercilessly Piled In Great Mass--But Few Escaped Unhurt--Sad Scenes In Temporary Morgue

Cleveland, March 5.—Penned in narrow hallways, jammed up against doors that only opened inward, between 160 and 170 school children in the suburb of North Collinwood were killed by fire and smoke or beneath the grinding heels of their panic-stricken mates. The fire resulted from a defective furnace in the basement.

The awful tragedy occurred in the public school of North Collinwood, ten miles east of this city. One hundred and sixty corpses are in the morgue at Collinwood, six children are still unaccounted for, and all the hospitals and houses for two miles around contain numbers of children, some fatally, and many less seriously injured.

All of the victims were between the ages of 6 and 14 years. The school contained between 310 and 325 pupils, and of this entire number only about eighty are known to have left the building unhurt. It will be several days before the actual number of killed is known, as the ruins still may contain other bodies and the list of fatalities may be increased by deaths among the children who are now in a precarious condition.

Doors Opened Inward

The schoolhouse was of brick, two stories and an attic in height, containing nine rooms. The number of pupils was more than normally large, and the smaller children had been placed in the upper part of the building. There was but one fire escape, and that was in the rear of the building. There were two stairways, one leading to a door in front and the other to a door in the rear. Both of these doors opened inward, and it is claimed the rear door was locked as well.

When the flames were discovered the teachers, who throughout seem to have acted with courage and self-possession and to have struggled heroically for the safety of their pupils, marshaled the little ones into column for the "fire drill" which they had often practiced.

Unfortunately the line of march in this exercise had always led to the front door and the children had not been trained to seek any other exit. The fire came from a furnace situated directly under this part of the building.

Penned In Death Trap

When the little ones reached the foot of the stairs they found the flames close upon them, and so swift a rush was made for the door that in an instant a tightly packed mass of children was piled up against it. From that second none of these who were upon any portion of the first flight of stairs had a chance for their lives. The children at the foot of the stairs attempted to fight their way back to the floors above, while those who were coming down shoved them mercilessly back into the flames below.

In an instant there was a frightful panic, with 200 of the pupils fighting for their lives. Most of those who were killed died here. The greater part of those who escaped managed to turn back and reached the fire escape and the windows in the rear.

What happened at the foot of that first flight of stairs will never be known, for all of those who were caught in the full fury of the panic were killed. After the flames had died away, however, a huge heap of little bodies told the tale as well as anybody need to know it.

Building Destroyed In Half Hour

The flames spread with such terrific rapidity that within thirty minutes from the time the fire was discovered the schoolhouse was nothing but a few blackened walls surrounding a cellar filled with corpses and debris.

The firemen dashed into the blazing wreckage and with rakes, forks, shovels and their bare hands worked in the most frantic manner with the hope of saving a few more lives. They were unsuccessful, for none was taken out alive from the ruins after the floors collapsed. Fragments of incinerated limbs, skulls and bones were found almost at every turn, and these were piled together in a little heap at one side of the building.

The great majority of the little bodies that were taken from the ruins were burned beyond all possible recognition. And it is no small part of the sorrow which is bearing down the people of North Collinwood that positive identification of many of the children will never be made.

Various unconfirmed statements are made as to the cause of the fire, and it is stated also that the doors of the building had been locked at the front entrance, while but one door of the rear entry was unfastened. The janitor, Fritz Herter, himself bereaved of three children, says the doors were open, according to custom. At any rate, the congestion of fleeing children in the hallway below effectually barred the way, and the little ones went to their death totally unable to evade the flames.

Statement of the Janitor

Janitor Herter could remember little of what happened after the fire started.

"I was sweeping in the basement," he said, "when I looked up and saw a wisp of smoke curling out from beneath the front stairway. I ran to the fire alarm and pulled the gong that sounded throughout the building. Then I ran first to the front and then to the rear doors. I can't remember what happened next, except that I saw the flames shooting all about and the little children running through them, screaming. Some fell at the rear entrance and others stumbled over them. I saw my little Helen among them. I tried to pull her out, but the flames drove me back. I had to leave my little child to die."

Miss Catherine Weiler, one of the nine teachers in the school, lost her life in a vain effort to marshal the pupils of her class and lead them to safety. She died in the crush at the rear door. Her room was on the second floor and when the fire alarm sounded she marched her pupils out into the hall, thinking it was only a fire drill. There the truth dawned upon both teacher and pupils and control was lost. The children, in their frenzy, plunged into the struggling mass ahead of them. Miss Weiler attempted to stem the rush, but went down under it, and her body was found an hour later piled high with those of her pupils. Miss Fish, another teacher, was taken out alive, but she cannot live.

Floors Crashed Into Basement

Burning through the cross-supports of the first floor, the flames passed upward until all three floors crashed into a smoldering pile into the basement. After the fire had practically burned itself out the work of rescuing the bodies was begun. The Lake Shore Railroad company turned over one of its buildings nearby to be used as a temporary morgue, and thither the charred and broken little bodies were removed as fast as they could be dug from the ruins. Within five hours practically all had been recovered.

They were placed in rows in the Lake Shore shop. Identifications were made only by means of clothing or trinkets. The fire had swept away nearly all resemblance to human features in the majority of instances. Distracted parents soon began to gather and the work of identifying the blackened and mangled corpses was commenced.

A Task of Horror

The gruesome task of taking out the blackened trunks and bits of human remains was one of horror. A line of rescuers was formed, backed by half a dozen ambulances. As the bodies were untangled from the debris they were passed along to the stretchers and thence loaded in the ambulances. Mercifully covered with blankets, the pitiful sights were veiled from the crowd of curious that stretched about the entrance to the structure. As fast as a load was obtained it was driven away to the improvised morgue, to be succeeded by another within a short time.

The sights of the human charnel-house caused the men delving into the mass of burned flesh to hesitate, but the work had to be done and done quickly, so their feelings had to be smothered for the time being as they tenderly handled all that was mortal of the little tots.

At the temporary morgue the scenes became fourfold in their intensity of human suffering as fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters passed up and down the lines formed of 160 corpses. To facilitate identification the bodies were numbered as they were received at the morgue.

The first identification was made by the mother of Nels and Tommy Thompson, aged 6 and 9 years, respectively. The heads and arms had been burned from both bodies, but the mother recognized the shoes on her children's feet.

And so the disheartening work went on, accentuated now and then by a piercing shriek or plaintive moan as a loved one was recognized by clothing or token, such as ring or necklace.

Needless Sacrifice of Lives

The statement that the back door of the building was locked was made by Walter C. Kelley, editor of the sporting department of the Cleveland Leader, two of whose children were killed.

As soon as the alarm was given, Mrs. Kelley ran from her home, which is not far from the schoolhouse, to the burning building. The front portion of the structure was a mass of flames and, frenzied by the screams of the fighting and dying children which reached her from the death trap at the foot of the first flight of stairs, and behind that closed door, Mrs. Kelley ran to the rear, hoping to effect an entrance there and save her children. She was joined by a man whose name is not known, and the two tugged and pulled frantically at the door.

They were unable to move it in the slightest, and there was nothing at hand by which they could hope to break it down. In utter despair of saving any of the children, they turned their attention to the windows, and by smashing some of these they managed to save a few of the pupils.

"They could have saved many more," said Kelley, "if the door had not been locked. Nobody knows how many of the children might have made their way out if the door had not been locked."

Governor Orders Investigation

Columbus, O., March 5.—Governor Harris has ordered the state officers to make a prompt and searching investigation into the cause of the Collinwood fire. He also directed that the examination extend to public schools generally.

Columbus, O., March 5.—For governor, Andrew L. Harris; lieutenant governor, F. W. Treadway; secretary of state, Carmi Thompson; auditor, E. M. Fullington; treasurer, C. C. Green; attorney general, U. G. Denman; delegates-at-large to national convention, C. P. Taft, M. T. Herrick, A. I. Vorys and A. L. Harris.

Foregoing are the candidates for state officers and delegates-at-large named by the Republican state convention of Ohio, which adjourned after having unanimously endorsed W. H. Taft for president.

The delegates-at-large to the national convention were instructed to "vote for Taft until he is nominated." President Roosevelt's name and that of Taft were greeted with vociferous applause.

Won't Stand For Aldrich Measure

Washington, March 5.—The attitude of the New York delegation in the house on the financial question was outlined by Representative Bennett of that state. "The delegation will," he said, "stand as a unit with any body of men who will insist on a full discussion of some financial measure at this session with full opportunity for amendment. There are no votes in the delegation for the Aldrich bill as it is at present." Bennett said that the delegation had had a meeting and his statement represented the sentiment of them all.

Judge's Action Questioned

New York, March 5.—When extradition proceedings in the case of Robert Caldwell, accused by the British government of perjury while a witness in the famous Druce suit, came up before Commissioner Alexander, Charles Fox, representing the British government, said he did not recognize Justice Clark's right to commit Caldwell to the insane asylum, and on March 18 he would begin proceedings to test the validity of Clark's order sending Caldwell to the institution.

Chester Makes a World's Record

Washington, March 5.—The scout cruiser Chester, which has just finished her trials off the Rockland (Me.) course, has made a world's record for any naval vessel above 1500 tons displacement. Several days ago she made 26.52 knots on a four-hour speed trial, and yesterday word came to Secretary Metcalf from Admiral Clover, president of the trial board, that she had finished her 24-hours' endurance coal consumption trial and had averaged 22.80 knots.

Strange Act of Policeman

Philadelphia, March 5.—Walking into the saloon of Charles Hafer last night, Policeman Jann drew a revolver and shot Hafer, probably fatally wounding him. Jann calmly walked out of the saloon, called up the station house and ordered the patrol. When it came he helped carry Hafer from the saloon to the patrol and then surrendered himself. Jann's superiors think his mind is affected as the result of injuries received in an accident.

Damage Suit Against Congressman

Washington, March 5.—Suit has been instituted in the supreme court of the District of Columbia by Frank B. Lord, formerly of the New York Sun, against Congressman Lilley of Connecticut for damages amounting to $40,000, which Lord claims to have sustained through statements made against him by Lilley in connection with his recent charges that undue influence had been used in behalf of the Electric Boat company.

Horse Breeding and Gambling

Jefferson City, Mo., March 5.—Anti-gambling laws do not interfere with the breeding of fine horses in Missouri, according to a statement made by Governor Folk, when he was shown press dispatches showing that the advocates of race track gambling in New York were preparing to prove by letters from Missourians that the stopping of race track gambling had impaired the breeding of fine horses in Missouri.

Great Lockout Threatened

London, March 5.—Serious labor troubles still are threatened in the Lancashire cotton trade and among the engineers on the northeast coast. Notices were posted yesterday threatening a lockout of 20,000 cotton operatives, while the engineers who have been involved in the recent shipbuilding strike along the Tyne have rejected the compromise recently effected with the employers.

Demanded Work on Poor Farm

Newcastle, Pa., March 5.—Poor Director Hainor was confronted by forty foreigners who marched to the city hall and demanded that they be sent to the poor farm to work for their meals and lodging. They had just been turned out of their boarding houses. Only fifteen of the applicants were sent to the poor farm, as no more could be taken care of.

A Precautionary Measure

Springfield, Ills., March 5.—Secretary Egan of the Illinois state board of health has sent orders to all city, county and town officers to close all schools, both public and private, that are not provided with doors that open outward and with proper fire escapes, and to keep them closed until needed safety devices are installed.

HEALTH MEETING

Delegates from All Parts of County Learn About Tuberculosis

The meeting at the Quincy Women's club house Wednesday afternoon under the auspices of the Norfolk County Health Committee was very largely attended. It was a meeting of great importance to the health of Quincy and should result in much good.

Mrs. George W. Morton called the meeting to order, and after a few words of welcome introduced Dr. Eliot Washburn, medical inspector of Norfolk county. Dr. Washburn said that one seventh of the deaths were from tuberculosis. That means that more persons die in a year of this disease than died in the Civil war from all causes. Tuberculosis is not a new disease.

We have always had it. It is a communicable disease. A chronic solw disease that attacks any person in any climate. No race or age is exempt. It is caused by a germ that grows in places that are dark, warm and moist. It may grow in any part of the body. Under certain conditions, sunlight, heat and boiling kills it. It gets into the system in various ways, largely by breathing. and by germs coughed up from the lungs. From a well developed case from two to four million germs will be coughed up in 24 hours.

It is a preventative disease in its early stages. If we take care of the spittum we shall stamp it out. It is our duty to prevent it. The state has a law requiring all factories to provide separate spit boxes and it is for the local Board of Health to enforce this law. If they do not they should be interested to enforce the law.

Each individual has a duty to perform. To tell others what they know about the disease, and report all known cases. The enforcement of the law is impossible when the Board of Health do not do their duty.

He would recommend that the tuberculosis exhibition be held in Quincy. Its cost was about $100 for a week. The Board of Health should be urged to go to the Mayor and get him to have an exhibit.

Dr. Arthur Cabot, chairman of the Anti-Tuberculosis Association of the State, spoke on the "Individual Responsibility." We need enthusiasm and abiding faith to carry on this work, said Dr. Cabot. We are not going to stamp it out in one generation, but we must lay the foundation for others who come after us. If one is discouraged let him consider what has been accomplished in the checking of small pox and kindred diseases. Almost every town has some physicians who are connected with the Massachusetts Medical society which is devoting itself to the disease. Many cities have active anti-tuberculosis societies. Tuberculosis is a home disease, a large part of the cases are never reported. For one death from other cuases, there are from eight to ten from tuberculosis. The cases we want to reach are those the doctors do not know about. These can only be reached by your help.

The function of these societies is the care of the sick and the protection of the well. The only way to check the disease is to educate these people to care for themselves. The support of a visiting nurse is one of the best methods of reaching these cases and for instruction, before they apply to the doctors. It is important that the society should be composed of representatives of the community, and work harmoniously. The inspection of factories was a great help and here the foremen made the best inspectors.

When people are educated, the workmen themselves will be the best inspectors. The women of Massachusetts can help by family visitation. If a person can be made to understand that he can be cured in the incipient stage he will do more to protect his family. The state is planning hospitals that will care for 450 patients. This is a mere drop in the bucket.

PROCTOR PASSES ON

Senator Succumbs to Illness Resulting From Attack of Grip

FORMER SECRETARY OF WAR

One of Senate's Wealthiest Members and Had Been a Conspicuous Factor In Vermont's Political and Business Interests For Many Years

Washington, March 5.—United States Senator Redfield Proctor of Vermont died at his apartments at the Champlain after a short illness following an attack of grip. The senator's son, Governor Fletcher Proctor of Vermont, who was summoned to the city, was at the bedside when the senator passed away. Senator Proctor was 77 years old.

Senator Proctor had been ill for about a week. His ailment was diagnosed as the grip, which later developed into pleurisy, with pneumonic complications, which affected the heart, and which, in his enfeebled condition, proved too much for his powers of resistance.

Besides his son, the governor's wife and several intimate friends were at the bedside when death occurred.

Senator Proctor had been in feeble health ever since the assembling of congress. His condition became alarming yesterday and the members of his family were notified that the end was near.

Senator Proctor had been a conspicuous factor in the political and business interests of Vermont for many years, and was reputed to be one of the wealthiest members of the United States senate.

He was largely interested in the marble industry, was identified with other commercial pursuits, was a Civil war veteran on the staff of General ("Baldy") Smith, was secretary of war during President Harrison's administration, and had been in the senate since 1891, when he left the cabinet to succeed George F. Edmunds.

He was born in Proctorsville, Vt., June 1, 1831, and before his entrance into public life in this city had served his state as a member of each house of the legislature in turn, and as governor and lieutenant governor.

Son Will Name Successor

In fulfillment of a prearranged plan, five $100 bills were passed by Montgomery to the deputy. The bills had been marked and were subsequently identified by detectives who witnessed the transaction.

KILLED GIRL AND SELF

Double Tragedy In Worcester Boarding House Due to Jealousy

Worcester, Mass., March 5.—Vivian Phillips, aged 19 years, was shot and killed by Harry Mounier, aged 27, who afterward shot himself fatally. The shooting took place at the boarding house of William McCann, where both Miss Phillips and Mounier boarded. Jealousy is believed to have been the motive for the shooting.

According to the stories told by the people in the boarding house to the police a young man who had been showing some attention to Miss Phillips called upon her last night and shortly after his departure Mounier went to her room and shot her. He fired two bullets, both of which penetrated her abdomen. Immediately afterward he shot himself twice in the head, dying in a short time. Miss Phillips had been employed as a milliner at a store kept by her father. Mounier was an apprentice in a machine shop.

Miss Phillips was of very attractive appearance and is said to have received attention from both Mounier and the young man whose visit to her was followed by the shooting. Mounier is said to have been inflamed with jealousy on account of the attentions of the other man.

Massachusetts should uphold her well known traditions and reputation for political liberty by sending delegates unhampered by instructions or resolutions. They should be absolutely free to do that which seems wisest and best for the party and for the country."

Special attention will be paid to all cases where there seems to be need of immediate assistance to relieve suffering.

Pulp Mill Closes For Good

Gardiner, Me., March 5.—The International Paper company has issued orders to board up the windows of its pulp mill at South Gardiner. The mill has been running for about eighteen years and employed about seventy hands. The reason for suspension is said to be the heavy cost of manufacturing pulp here as compared with other places.

The meeting Friday evening at 7.45 in Bethany chapel will be a very interesting one. Facts are to be presented, that were gathered at the great congress of New England Congregationalists just closed at Worcester, where over 500 churches in the six New England states were represented by over 1000 delegates.

Word has been received from New Albany, Ind., reporting the death of Archibald Prescott, son of Mr. Benjamin R. and Mrs. Barbara R. Fuller of East Milton, aged 22 years. Mr. Fuller went west about five months ago. His death was due to pneumonia. His father is a member of the granite firm of Fuller, Foley & Co. of West Quincy.

Come Again.

The meeting of John Hancock lodge held on Wednesday evening was made very interesting by a visit from the Friendship club who took possession of the lodge room and entertained the members with recitations, songs and short addresses. After the program was concluded the lodge members were invited to the banquet hall where an excellent collation was served by the club. It is to be hoped that many of these good times will be held in the future. The first degree team will visit Oasis lodge of Somerville on Thursday evening, March 12, and confer the degree.

WATER FRONT

Board of Trade Takes Action On Development Of Our Seashore

A largely attended meeting of the Quincy Board of Trade was held on Wednesday evening which may mean much for the development of Quincy. Three new members were admitted.

The committee on abolition of grade crossings reported that they had prepared a plan for Water street and arranged for publication in the Daily Ledger.

GRADE CROSSINGS.

A communication was received from Mayor Shea inviting the association to name one representative to meet with other delegates to shape policies to be pursued at the hearing before the special commissioners on abolition of grade crossings. E. W. Branch, the civil engineer, was appointed.

WATER FRONT.

As announced, the discussion for the evening was on "Quincy's water front, and how it may be developed.' Ex-Councilman E. R. Stone said for the greater part our seashore of 25 miles was undeveloped. The Fore River Shipbuilding Co. had recognized its value and established a big plant which had been a great boon to Quincy. At Charlestown, Everett and other places, vesesls have to go a long way to get to sea, but Quincy is different. It has advantage of a railroad to connect with the water front if we had proper docking privileges. Foreign shipment might be done from this place. The Board of Trade has urged the railroad to action on our freight connections, and I think it could do something in this direction. Quincy is well provided for in the way of repairing and building ships.

He moved that a committee of five be appointed to look into the matter of joining the River and Harbor congress, and report to the Board of Trade. Adopted.

The following gentlemen were appointed: E. R. Stone, F. F. Crane, P. T. Fallon, J. M. Nowland and T. L. Williams.

Peter T .Fallon said city fathers in the past had been lax. Town River should be dredged. There was no public place to land freight on our present water front. We have to unload at private wharfs. This privilege he had been refused, and had to return a load of brick to Malden.

Now the railroad has a monopoly. Prices are high. The price to New York is $4 per ton by rail and $1.50 by water. Town river could be made a good navigable river for $180,000. It would increase valuation. He had purchased land with that idea and was now building a bridge to it. Cape Cod gets an annual appropriation from the state just for pleasure yachts. We have had only one small appropriation for our place. It would be a good place for the proposed arsenal. The harbor is safe and all inland.

Frank F. Crane said there was water enough for any vessel. The railroad should cooperate with shipping.

The railroad will go to the shore if Quincy has life enough to ask them The railroad cannot handle the grain trade. It will also help the granite industry. Quincy was not quite in shape to recognize any particular plan. If the River and Harbor Commission amounts to anything the Federal government will take hold of it with the Board of Trade. The Board of Trade should induce its congressman to get our share of the appropriation which will be made. We have plenty of water and wide channels.

He moved that the secretary write the River and Harbor Commission, applying for admission to membership. Adopted.

PARKWAY.

A discussion then followed on the Metropolitan parkway in which C. H. Johnson, P. T. Fallon, C. C. Foster, A. B. Hultman, J. W. Pratt, W. Teasdale, E. R. Stone, E. W. Branch, W. G. Whitman and G. M. Miller took part.

The matter was referred to the committee on city improvements.

E. W. Branch of the Committeee on city improvements reported that on March 4 it was voted the Board of Trade request the Park Commission to lay out a one-fourth mile speedway in the Furnace Brook Parkway between Newport avenue and Adams street.

Mr. Abele asked if the city did not grant a site for a soldiers' monument He would suggest the triangle in front of the entrance to Mt .Wollaston cemetery.

Voted to adjourn.

Improvements at Public Library

The interior work connected with the enlargement and alteration of Crane Memorial Hall is still unfinished, although it is hoped that the coming month may bring it to an end. Some changes from the original plans, and some further additions to what was contemplated at the start in the way either of beauty or utility, have been the cause of the spring finding a good many of the workmen still in the building.

Among other additions is the removal of the La Farge memorial window to Mr. Benjamin F. Crane from the arch to the cast corner of the main hall where its beauty will be appreciated as never before. The other three panes by La Farge, formerly in the north gable, will soon be placed on the opposite side of the fireplace. The panelling above the northeast alcove between the beam and the slope of the roof has been removed. Quite a few details remain to be completed both in the new and the old parts of the building.

In view of the fact that in the twenty-six years of its use the library has never been closed for cleaning, beside present enlargement making it now imperative, the trustees deem a thorough renovation of both books and building needful at this time. This in connection with the removal of the books to their new quarters requires the closing of the library to the public at the end of the present month until further notice. Athough no books will be issued after the 16th inst., all who care to come during the rest of the month for reading and reference work within the library will be welcome. See notice in another column.

An Echo of The Betts Cases

The Boston Herald says, In the superior court on Monday, Judge Richardson granted Lawyer Harvey H. Pratt a temporary injunction against John H. Dinegan of Quincy to restrain the latter from disposing of five United States bonds of the value of $1,000 each and a bank book deposited in the Gardiner (Me.) Savings Bank in the name of Joseph L. Webb.

Pratt claims the property was given to Dinegan on Oct. 14, 1902, as security for his going bail for Fred E. Betts in criminal proceedings in the federal court.

It is represented that he was to retain $3,000, or three of the bonds, as compensation.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

William MacCormack has been assigned to act as timekeeper during the trials of the scout cruiser Birmingham.

Two five-foot-by-sixteen-foot skiffs, for use on the water-front are being made by the shipwright department.

Mr. Empy, formerly of the machine shop, is now looking after the night repairs to machinery in the Ship Tool shop.

Benjamin Lund, formerly one of the timekeepers in Mr. Hart's department, is now engaged in the same capacity for the El ectric Boat Company.

Some cutting and redrilling of bars is being done for the Norwalk Lock Company.

Barge Corbia is discharging a cargo of coal at the works.

In calculating weights for seagoing ships, 448 pounds is allowed per officer and 280 pounds per man. For torpedo boats and torpedo-boat destroyers, 320 pounds per officer and 224 pounds per man is allowed.

Malden Defeated

The champion grammar school basket ball team of Malden tried their skill with the Y. M. C. A. boys in Quincy on Wednesday. Though the Malden boys were larger and heavier, they were no match for Quincy, and the final score stood 18-32, in favor of the home team.

The Quincy team was: W. Manning and H. Mitchell, forwards; H. Prout and R. Grant, centres; J. Nolan and R. Suitermaster, guard.

New Trial.

The judge of the superior court has set aside the verdict of $12,500 awarded John Jellow of Quincy against the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, for personal injuries and has ordered a new trial. This was the largest amount ever awarded in Norfolk county in a similar case.

Health Meeting On Tuberculosis

Many people will not go a great distance to these hospitals, and for these cases the local society should provide a day camp.

He then spoke of the international congress to be held in Washington, where there would be the best exhibit ever made. In closing he said he lookd to the Women's club to be in the van of this movement.

LOCAL OPINIONS.

Dr. John A. Gordon was pleased to see so many present. He felt that a great deal had been accomplished. He had been looking into the conditions of Quincy as far as tuberculosis was concerned, and had found some astonishing figures. He had found the total number of deaths in Quincy for the past ten years had been 4,200 from all causes. Of this number 1,400 were of children under 5 years. Of the total 454 were set down as tuberculosis, not including deaths of children for a variety of diseases which he believed were largely tuberculosis.

Excluding the children he had found that in these years 16 per cent of the deaths in Quincy were from tuberculosis. Some occupations are more liable to the disease than others. There are about 2000 men employed in the granite business, and he had found of the total number of deaths 286 were for men over 18 years employed in the granite business, or 41 per cent of the number from tuberculosis.

He had recently written letters to all physicians asking for the number of tuberculosis patients under their care at the present time, and he had found that there were 78 who are spreading these millions of germs. He hoped this meeting would result in something being done in Quincy. The least expensive plan was for every community to establish sanitariums. All that would be needed was a house and a number of small shacks. The expense would not be great.

Dr. N. S. Hunting said there was great need of something being done in Quincy. He felt that physicians did not report cases they ought to. Proper precaution to prevent the spead of the disease should be taken. If we had anywhere near as many cases of diphtheria, small pox or cholera, the whole country would be up in arms. He knew of a recent case that had come from cats. Domestic animals that are affected should be put out of the way.

Mrs. Rufus P. Williams, chairman of the health department of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's clubs, and chairman of the health department of the National Federation, said there were 35,000 women lacking the physicians, pledged to aid them in this work.

The first thing necessary is education. Every club woman wants to know how to surpress tuberculosis in her own family. To investigate and developmethods of treatment. An investigation is being made and we shall learn the best things that are being done all over the world. If we take care of cases in our own home we solve the problem.

Mrs. Wiliams also spoke of the tuberculosis bill now before the Legislature. Very few states have a state exhibit. We do not realize what it means until we have it shown in your own community. She urged the women to get together in this work, and get in touch with the medical society. She also urged the formation of tuberculosis clubs.

Dr. Washburn, at this point, said that 43 clubs outside Quincy, were represented at this meeting.

A delegate spoke of the importance of having cards posted where workmen could see them and learn that tuberculosis could be cured.

Mrs. W. W. Whitcher chairman of the Quincy committee, was glad to see so many present, and believed that the community would be benefited by an exhibit in Quincy.

The meeting then closed, after which tea was served.

MILK OF COMMERCE

Experts Say It Is Infected to an Alarming Extent

THE CAUSE OF EPIDEMICS

Typhoid, Scarlet Fever and Diphtheria Definitely Traced to Dairies—General Supply of Cities Should Be Pasteurized For Public Safety

Washington, March 5.—Surgeon General Wyman of the public health service has submitted to Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou a "report on milk in its relation to public health." The report is the result of an investigation ordered by President Roosevelt and conducted by federal experts. It fills 750 printed pages and is one of the most thorough studies of the milk problem yet produced. In his introduction to the twenty-two treatises of the experts, Wyman says:

"The steady decrease in general mortality does not apply to infants. It is recognized that gastro-intestinal disease is the largest single factor determining infant mortality. This enormous loss of potential wealth is of grave concern to the state and worthy of most careful consideration. It has been the object of this work to include all available data showing the influence of milk as a carrier of infection and the measures necessary in consequence."

Dr. Wyman declares that the ideal milk, drawn from a cow with a healthy udder and preserved from contamination, is not the milk of commerce, and he cites the fact that samples of market milk in New York showed 35,200,000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter; London, 31,888,000, and Washington, 22,134,000; and he calls attention to the evidence presented in the report, which is given as proof that 500 epidemics of typhoid fever, scarlet fever and diphtheria were caused by infected milk.

He also refers to the evdence adduced that 11 percent of the samples of Washington milk contained tubercle germs. Dr. Eager, he says, "gives figures to prove that the high infantile mortality may be attributed almost entirely to impure milk."

The surgeon general writes: "Dr. Mohler points out that probably the most important disease of cows from the standpoint of public health is tuberculosis, and that it is the most prevalent. He insists that all milk should come from either tuberculosis tested cattle or be subjected to pasteurization."

The report contains an amazing array of evidence of the responsibility of infected milk for epidemics of typhoid fever, scarlet fever and diphtheria. Passed Assistant Surgeon General Trask has tabulated the data of 500 epidemics that were definitely traced to the milk supplies.

An epidemic in Stamford, Conn., is cited as an example of the facility with which typhoid is spread by milk. Of 386 cases of typhoid occurring between April 14 and May 28, 1895, 368, or 95.3 percent, were traced to the milk of one dairy. The dairy was closed and the outbreak subsided.

In Norwalk, Conn., from Oct. 25 to Nov. 9, 1897, there were 29 cases of scarlet fever, 27 of which the reports say were traced to the milk supplied by one dealer.

Dorchester, Milton and Hyde Park, Mass., had 72 cases of diphtheria in eight days in April, 1907. All were traced to one dairy which supplied customers in the three towns and in which a milk cooler was washed in the house by a person who was attending a diphtheria case.

Dr. Trask gives figures to show the amazing rapidity with which typhoid and diphtheria germs increase in milk. Seventy-eight typhoid germs in a cubic centimeter of milk increased in seven days to 440,000,000.

Passed Assistant Surgeon General Lumsden, following up the data collated by Trask, as far as it related to typhoid, said: "Considering the tremendous multiplication which the baccillus can undergo within 24 hours in milk, it is easy to see how one can or bottle of infected milk taken into a dairy and there mixed with a large volume of milk may be responsible for exposure to infection of several thousand persons."

That raw milk may be readily robbed of its infective power is the confident statement made by Lumsden. He says: "The destruction of infection in milk at the present time seems to be the cheapest and the most practical method to prevent the spread of typhoid infection in the milk supply of cities. In exceptional instances, when a dairy receives its supply of milk from only one or two farms over which a thorough supervision may be exercised, efforts to prevent the infection reaching the milk may be attempted.

"But for the general supply of cities, pasteurization of the milk after it has been placed in bottles or cans for distribution is the best measure. Supplement this with an intelligent supervision over the depots and stores where milk is sold, and milk as a causative factor of typhoid fever in cities would be practically removed."

UNITY OF ACTION

How Mayor Hopes To Secure It On Abolition Of Crossings

Mayor Shea has invited the Board of Trade, Citizens' Association, Granite Manufacturers' Association and Central Labor Union to select one delegate each to meet him in conference in relation to the abolition of the grade crossings at Water and Saville streets.

The Board of Trade has selected Ernest W. Branch; the Granite Manufacturers' Association, John L. Miller, and the Central Labor Union, Charles W. Hanscom. The Citizens' Association will not appoint its delegate until its directors hold a meeting.

The delegates appointed will meet the Mayor tonight at 6.30, and it is hoped to secure unity of action.

Out of work And on Tramp

A man giving his name as Charles A. Richmond, accompanied by a young woman who claimed to be his wife, applied to the Overseer of the Poor this morning for assistance to get back to Westerly, R. I.

The man gave his age as 23 years and that of his wife as 18 years, and says that they were married a year ago this month. Three weeks ago he got out of work, and the pair started on the tramp looking for work. They had been on the tramp ever since.

From Westerly they walked to Holyoke, thence to Boston, and then to Weymouth, getting their living as best they could, and sleeping in any place they could find.

The man said that they were unable to find any place to sleep last night and that they spent the night on the street. This morning they became desperate and applied to the Overseer for aid to get back home.

Overseer Elcock supplied their temporary wants and gave them money to pay their car fare to Boston, where the State Board of Charity, who had been notified, will provide means of sending the pair back to Westerly.

The wife was a frail little woman, quite pretty, but showing traces of the hardships endured during the past three weeks. She looked little more than a young child although claiming to be 18 years old.

Sumner H. Foster Cup.

The committee of the 18-foot Knockabout Association held a meeting this week says the Herald at the Boston Yacht Club and discussed the proposition of a race with the champion of the West against the champion 18-foot of the Massachusetts Yacht Racing Association, to take place off Marblehead in August.

The committee accepted the terms of the Cleveland yachtsmen in regard to giving a return race in 1909, and will offer a silver cup, to be known as the Sumner H. Foster Memorial Cup," which will be raced for and will represent the championship of the 18-foot knockabout class in this country. The late Sumner H. Foster was one of the men who drew up the restrictions for the 18-foot class, which proved one of the best small-boat racing classes created.

There will be 10 boats competing this season. There was much enthusiasm over the prospects of the racing in the class for next season, and at least two new boats are expected to be built.

Quincy Man Hears From Old Chum

Joseph W. Dennen of this city received a strange letter this week, dated Helena, Mont., which read in part:

"Good old friend Joe and sister—Well, Joe, and sisters. I presume this will be the last letter from Capt. according to my feeling and my age, 74. I will soon cross the divide with my boots on. I have taken stock and find some pictures that will be of some use to you after I am gone. I have one left of myself that I will send with the rest. I have made my box and dug my hole and the Sioux will do the rest."

It was from Capt. F. H. Winter, a boyhood chum at Gloucester whom he has not seen for 35 years.

Accompany the letter was a photograph of Mr. Dennen, at the age of 19 years, one of Mr. Dennen's wife, now deceased, one of a sister, who is dead, and one of the writer himself. Mr. Dennen has communicated with the authorities at Helena to find out about his old friend.

Mayor Shea Calls Conference

Mayor Shea assembled all of the heads of departments in one of the committee rooms at City Hall this morning for a conference. Mayor Shea said that he had not met the department officials collectively since their appointment. This meeting had no special significance, but was simply for a conference on city affairs. The Mayor said that he believed it to be a good thing for the officials to meet occasionally and talk over city business, and that this meeting was but the first of others to be held.

STANDS FOR PRINCIPLE

Rev. E. W. Hunt Proud of Endorsement From A Bishop

The stand of Rev. E. W. Hunt of the Wollaston Unitarian church, is not the first fight that he has made for principle. The letter which follows was written by Bishop Davies of the Episcopal church of Michigan, after Mr. Hunt's ministry of eleven years at Lansing, Mich., which he felt compelled to resign for intellectual reasons. It was in reply to a letter to the bishop asking for deposition from the ministry of the Episcopal church:

"My Dear Mr. Hunt:

"Your kind letter is duly received. I have read it with feelings of deep sympathy. It is a very painful thing for you to give up for conscience' sake a profession which you have loved, and beliefs which were once your comforts and joy.

"Your course in retiring from your parish and unless you should recover your old beliefs, from the ministry of the church, is honorable, and just what I should have expected from you. You are possessed of high abilities, and should make your mark in the world for good.

"I shall always feel for you and Mrs. Hunt a very warm regard, and shall follow you with my best wishes."

Yours very sincerely,
(Signed) Thos. F. Davies.
Bishop of Michigan."
Detroit, Mich., 15 May, 1901.

At Bangor, Maine, also, after Mr. Hunt had accepted an invitation to address a labor union, he stood for principle when he declined to cancel the date at the request of a rich parishioner. He felt then that it would result in his losing the pastorate, and was right in his conjecture, but he stood for principle, and says he proposes to at Wollaston.

GRANITE CONFERENCE.

Another Meeting Today of the National Bodies On Quincy Bill

The executive committees of the National Association of the Granite Industries of the United States and of the International Granite Cutters' Union held a meeting in Boston on Thursday. The Herald says they discussed informally the four points in dispute between the Granite Manufacturers' Association and the Granite Cutters' Union of Quincy, which by agreement of both the Quincy bodies, was referred to them for settlement. No conclusion was reached, and the two committees adjourned for a further conference today.

After the meeting the national executive committee of the Granite Industries held an independent meeting for the consideration of the conditions existing at Quincy, Rockport, Barre Vt., and Waterford, Ct. The committee remained in session until nearly midnight and then adjourned until today without rendering any decision.

Attention Called To Quincy Schools

The school tragedy near Cleveland Ohio, reminds Quincy people that the conditions at the Coddington and Adams schools are not what they should be. The Coddington building is heated by large stoves placed near the only exit from some of the rooms. Should a stove, topple over and start a fire, the situation would be serious. The wooden fire escape in the rear was considered a death trap when the building was at its original location, but now it is vastly worse as the rear of the building is perched high in the air; the master's room being over four stories from the ground. More might be said, but the Daily Ledger does not wish to alarm the people. At an early date however a test should be made of this fire escape, to acquaint the pupils with it.

Lakeview School Fire Victims to Be Grouped by Churches

MANY BODIES UNIDENTIFIED

Inquest Produces No Testimony Beyond Mere Opinion--Facts Brought Out In Investigation Conducted by Collinwood School Board

Cleveland, March 6.—As the result of the disaster which swept into eternity approximately one-third of the school children of North Collinwood, the death roll numbers 164. Of these 137 have been identified at the Lake Shore morgue, while 27 bodies remain there in a condition of mutilation.

The work of digging in the ruins of the Lakeview schoolhouse in further search for remnants of children still missing began at daybreak yesterday. Dawn found mothers and fathers waiting about the fire-ruined building, after having spent the night in an effort to find their children's remains at the extemporized morgue. But little was brought forth during the day that would satisfy them, and it is believed that all the bodies that can be removed from the ruins have been taken out.

Burial of the dead is the burden now confronting those in authority in the village. Arrangements for the funerals of the victims were discussed last night at a meeting attended by the mayor of Collinwood, members of the board of education, the clergy and the undertakers. The idea of having a public funeral of all the dead has been abandoned, although it is probable that where it can be done bodies will be grouped by churches.

Last night the work of removing the identified bodies to their former homes was completed and the undertakers set to work to prepare for the interments.

In the homes of the afflicted citizens of the village the weeping parents were sustained by the presence of visiting nurses and women who volunteered to lend such comfort as lay within their power. A relief committee appointed by the Collinwood board of trade and town council is to care for the bodies of the unidentified dead and assist the bereaved parents. Should any parents desire to undertake the interment of one of the unrecognizable bundles of human flesh and bones, believing it may be their child, they will be permitted to do so. The remainder of the bodies will be laid side by side in the cemetery.

In an effort to fix the cause and responsibility for the holocaust, various investigations have been set under way. Coroner Burke issued subpoenas for the seven surviving teachers of the Lakeview school. The inquest was begun and a number of witnesses were examined, but the inquest did not produce any testimony beyond mere opinion.

An investigation conducted by the Collinwood school board, which lasted far into the night, at which a number of survivors of the horror told their stories, brought forth these facts:

That one of the inner doors at the west entrance of the school was closed and fastened while children were piling up against it in the passage; wing partitions in the vestibule narrowed the exit by at least three feet; the flames came first from a closet below the stairway at the east entrance; the closet contained lime and sawdust; three little girls had been found hiding in play in the closet earlier in the morning; there was but one fire escape, and its use was never taught as part of the fire drill.

On the question, much discussed, whether the doors opened inward or outward, Fire Marshals Brockman and Feigenbaum examined the doorways and stated later that they were convinced that they opened outward. Whether they were locked they have not been able to determine. They have testimony on both sides. Janitor Hirter still insists that the doors were unlocked.

Boys Escaped In Nightclothes

Detroit, March 6.—The dormitory of the d'Arcamal home for boys at Clarenceville was burned late last night, but all of the thirty boys, who were sleeping in the third story, were gotten safely out in their nightclothes. The fire started on the ground floor and swept through the building with great rapidity. Superintendent Lane at the last minute found one lad unconscious from fright in his bed and two others huddled in a corner of the dormitory. He started these boys down the fire escape, but the flames closed in behind them and shut off his own passage, so that he had to leap from a window to save himself. He alighted without any broken bones. The destroyed building was valued at $6000.

Fire In Colorado School

Colorado Springs, Col., March 6.—An explosion of coal gas in the heating furnace of the school building at Ivy Wild, a suburb, resulted in severe injuries to Miss Nellie Remick, the principal. The fire was quickly extinguished. The pupils were formed in marching order and passed out of the building quietly. They had previously been instructed in a fire drill.

Nickel Theatres Not Safe

Columbus, O., March 6.—Managers of many of the nickel theatres in Columbus have failed to take proper precautions in providing rear exits and some have failed to make changes suggested by the fire chiefs. The mayor has accordingly ordered that in the future no "standing room" shall be sold in these places. When seats are filled no more tickets shall be sold.

Schools Must Be Inspected

Indianapolis, March 6.—J. E. Blakely, chief of the Indiana department of inspection, announces that he will begin at once a thorough inspection of school buildings of the state.

Paris Schoolchildren Safe

Paris, March 6.—The story of the Cleveland calamity is printed in great length in the newspapers here and has brought forth the announcement from school authorities that safety guards for the 200,000 pupils of Paris are believed to be ample. The authorities have decided, however, to hold school fire drills more frequently than once a month, as is now the custom.

KAISER BUTTING IN

Said to Have Made Armament Suggestions to England

London, March 6.—Asserting that Emperor William recently sent a letter to Lord Tweedmouth, first lord of admiralty, on the subject of the British and German naval policy, The Times calls for the production of the letter in parliament, together with Lord Tweedmouth's reply. In an angry editorial The Times says that the letter will cause a shock, painful surprise and just indignation on the part of the British people.

"Emperor William holds honorary rank of admiral in the British navy," says The Times, "but if that is held to warrant interference in our domestic affairs by secret appeals to the head of the department on which national safety depends, all that can be said is that the abolition of dynastic compliments of this kind is an urgent necessity. Had King Edward taken such a step there would have been a universal outcry of anger throughout Germany and an overwhelming demand for a double shipbuilding program as a fitting reply.

"If the emperor has anything to suggest concerning armaments," continues The Times, "he has the regular official channels of communication, and no private relations can excuse a departure from the regular methods. Lord Tweedmouth is a public servant and therefore it cannot be contended that the letter is a private matter. It calls for the fullest publicity. The lesson for Great Britain is plain, after an attempt of this kind to make it easier for German preparations to overtake our own."

Alcohol Bad For Mankind

Washington, March 6.—In a signed statement, Dr. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture, vigorously denies statements he is alleged to have made recently, one being that "that man who never takes a drink is a 'mollycoddle.'" What Wiley states he actually did say is that he believed the general effect of alcohol on mankind was wholly bad; that it was bad even in small quantities.

Auto Went at Record Clip

Ormond, Fla., March 6.—Driving his sixty-horse power Italian car 300 miles at an average rate of seventy-seven miles an hour, Emanuel Cedrino broke the world's record for average speed for the distance. It was a sensational race and the car, admirably handled by the Italian, made some of the laps at a speed of eighty miles an hour.

Duma Asks For Explanation

St. Petersburg, March 6.—The duma adopted unanimously an interpellation asking Finance Minister Kokovsoff to explain his reasons for inducing the emperor to issue a ukase authorizing an international loan of $83,000,000 in violation of a provision of the fundamental law requiring the sanction of the duma in all budget operations.

Canal Cement Will Cost $10,000,000

Washington, March 6.—The opening of bids by the isthmian canal commission for supplies of cement, set for March 12, has been extended until April 13. The commission expects to purchase 4,500,000 barrels of cement. The approximate cost of material and transportation will be about $10,000,000.

Sisters Fight Duel--One Is Dead

Paris, March 6.—Marie Bachelier died at Poitiens from a bullet wound inflicted by her sister, with whom she fought a duel. The duel was arranged with all the regard to the code veterans would consider. The women quarreled over the right to the affections of a young man.

Suicide Over Financial Troubles

New York, March 6.—J. J. Levy, a whisky salesman, who resided with his wife and four children in an uptown apartment house, shot himself in the head at a hotel here and died shortly afterward. Financial troubles, it is asserted, were responsible for the act.

Case For The Hague Tribunal

London, March 6.—The Times, in an editorial, suggests that China and Japan should submit their dispute over the seizure by China of the Japanese steamer Tatsu Maru at Macao to The Hague tribunal.

Congress Has a Day Off

Washington, March 6.—Both the senate and house adjourned yesterday out of respect to the memory of the late Senator Proctor of Vermont. No business of importance was done in either body.

IF MOTHERS ONLY KNEW

When children are cross, irritable and peevish it does not signify that they have bad tempers; it shows that there is something wrong with the child which it is not able to explain, and which the mother—If She Only Knew—could easily and quickly cure. Mothers, study your child's symptoms; if cross, peevish, nervous, grits the teeth, wets the bed, picks the nose, has variable appetite or bowels, suffers with wind-colic or headache, is irritable and restless, has furred tongue or offensive breath, you may be sure that child is troubled with worms, which cause nearly all the ills of childhood.

Don't delay—disease comes suddenly—a few doses of the wonderful old-time remedy—will give your children that vigorous health which is so important to their future happiness.

Dr. True's Elixir expels the worms, if there are any—if not it acts as a gentle laxative and tonic. It cleans out all waste matter from the stomach and bowels, tones and strengthens the entire system of adults as well as children. Dr. True's Elixir is a safe, pure, vegetable tonic and has been the standard household remedy for fifty-five long years.

BRUTAL MURDER REVEALED

Woman's Story Leads to Finding of Man's Dismembered Body

Moosup, Conn., March 6.—By the finding of the dismembered body of an Italian, believed to have been Dina Pietro of New York, at a millidam in the Moosup river, a most brutal murder was discovered. Salvatore Capagello, also an Italian, 20 years old, accused by his wife of connection with the murder, is under arrest.

Capagello's wife caused his arrest on the charge of non-support, and told the authorities she thought her husband had been concerned in the doing away of Pietro, who came to their house about two months ago, and that there might be some "Black Hand" connection. Acting on this information, officers went to the Capagello house and there, it is said, found a blood-stained axe, pillow and sheet, tucked behind a trunk.

They then turned their attention to the river, and the body was found yesterday afternoon. The severed parts were wrapped in wire to keep them together and the whole bundled in a woman's underskirt and a sheet. The legs were missing, and the features unrecognizable.

At the inquest Capagello is said to have admitted throwing the body into the water and to have told the authorities the legs would be found at the dam also. He explained, it is said, that he found the body at his house and took that method of removing it.

Says Perjury Marked Trial

Boston, March 6.—In an argument which consumed nearly six hours Charles W. Bartlett pleaded for the innocence and freedom of his clients in the Chinese murder trial. He spoke for some time on the Chinese as a race, their history and achievements. Then he launched into an attack upon the evidence as produced by the government. The whole evidence produced against the defendants was marked by a seething mass of perjury, he said, persisted in in spite of his warning to several of the witnesses that the punishment for such perjury in a capital case was death.

Bank President Filed Exceptions

Boston, March 6.—Alfred C. Crozier of Wilmington, Del., spoke before the Boston City club last night on the subject of "The Currency." During the course of his address he condemned the Aldrich bill and declared it was "an attempt on the part of powerful gamesters to secure powers that would enable them to create panics at will." President Beal of the Second National bank of Boston interrupted the speaker and declared that he did not believe some of the statements and would not remain to listen to the speech, and immediately left the hall.

May Be Further Curtailment

Fall River, Mass., March 6.—A plan to continue the curtailment policy will be discussed at a meeting next week of the Fall River Manufacturers' association. At a meeting of Boston mill treasurers held in that city yesterday an extension for two months of the present curtailment agreement was practically decided upon, if the consent of the requisite amount of spindles can be obtained.

Defrauded the Government

Portland, Me., March 6.—A verdict of guilty on both counts of the indictment charging conspiracy to defraud the United States government of money due for postage was found in the case of G. F. Terry and H. W. Boshan. Terry is president and general manager of the Sawyer Publishing company of Waterville and Boshan was in charge of second-class mail matter in the Waterville postoffice.

Armenian Editors at Odds

Boston, March 6.—The contentions which have been going on between the factions of the Hunchagist society resulted last night in the arrest of two editors and two printers of the Armenian paper, Tzian Hafrentiatz, published in Boston, on the charge of criminal libel, the charge being preferred by D. M. Arshag, editor of The Ardiziv and The Armenia, both published in Boston.

Little Fellow Killed by Uncle

Blackstone, Mass., March 6.—While playing soldier, Earle A. Hartnett, 3 years old, was accidentally shot and killed by his uncle, Fred Tucker, aged 12 years. Tucker accidentally dropped the gun on a table and one barrel was discharged, the shot tearing away the top of Hartnett's head. The medical examiner returned a finding of accidental death.

Will Strike Against Piece Work

Boston, March 6.—The Railroad Machinists Helpers' union of Boston voted last night that its members employed in the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad shops should strike, if necessary, against the establishment of the piece-work and bonus system in the shops of the railroad. Similar action was taken by the Boilermakers' union.

State Upholds Death Penalty

Boston, March 6.—The abolition of the death penalty perished in the senate by a vote of 13 to 15 on a rollcall after a spirited debate. The bill is the one that was substituted the day before for the adverse report of the committee, and it referred the question of abolition to the voters.

Hastings Is Acquitted

Boston, March 6.—A jury in the United States district court returned a verdict of not guilty for John W. Hastings, who was on trial for the second time on the charge of embezzling $3000 in gold certificates from the government. The jury was out more than fifteen hours.

IN A PAUPER'S GRAVE

Body of Lazarus Averbuch Is Buried by Chicago Authorities

Chicago, March 6.—The body of Lazarus Averbuch, the young Russian Jew who tried to take the life of Chief of Police Shippy on Monday, was buried last night in the potter's field. Averbuch's sister, Olga Averbuch, her resources exhausted, gave reluctant consent to interment by the county. Unaccompanied by friend or relative, the corpse was taken to Dunning, the site of the county poor farm, and there, by the light of lanterns, placed in the grave that had been prepared for it.

Following her release from the custody of the police at noon yesterday, Averbuch's sister made vain attempts to have her brother's body given burial according to Jewish rites. A number of undertakers were communicated with in her behalf, but all declined to take charge of the body. Appeal was made to several rabbis with like result.

Before the body was taken from the morgue Miss Averbuch asked and was permitted to have a photograph taken of herself with her arms about the neck of her brother's body. This done, she was led away sobbing, and later, when she recovered her composure, was taken to her home.

One of the first effects of the united action of various branches of authority to suppress anarchy was the cancellation of all engagements for Emma Goldman to speak here. Owners of halls where she was to appear were notified that such meetings would not be permitted and acted accordingly. All day the police searched for Miss Goldman, who was reported to be in the city, but she was not located.

Montgomery's Serious Charges

New York, March 6.—Astounding charges appear in the affidavits accompanying the complaint in which Nathan Vidaver, recently a special deputy general, is charged with attempting to extort money from former President Montgomery of the Hamilton bank, who alleges that Vidaver, representing himself as influential with Attorney General Jackson, demanded $1500 as the price of a brief immunity for himself and the Hamilton bank from newspaper attacks. The hearing in the case of Vidaver was set for yesterday, but by mutual consent of counsel it was postponed until this afternoon.

In Memory of Shakespeare

London, March 6.—The committee which has in charge the movement for the "world's tribute to Shakespeare" have decided upon the erection of an architectural monument and statue, to be completed on the 300th anniversary of his death. It is estimated that the memorial will cost about $500,000; competition for which will be thrown open to all English-speaking races. The committee hopes to raise $1,000,000, half of which amount will be devoted to the memorial and half to the foundation of a Shakespearean institute.

Railroad In Receiver's Hands

Baltimore, March 6.—After the close of court yesterday a bill was filed in the United States circuit court by the Bowling Green Trust company of New York, asking the appointment of receivers for the Western Maryland railroad. Judge Morris appointed President Bush. The allegation of the Bowling Green Trust company is that the Western Maryland will be unable to meet fixed charges due April 1, amounting to $1,250,000.

Crowd Tried to Break Jail

Trenton, March 6.—Prisoners in the county prison here mutinied and made an effort to break jail because they declared they were not given sufficient rations. Someone turned out the lights last night, whereupon nearly a hundred prisoners made a concerted dash for the door. A squad of guards was called out and the prisoners were beaten back. The jail has been overcrowded, about 100 inmates being compelled to sleep on the floor.

Train Crew Had Their Rest

Pottsville, Pa., March 6.—The new railroad law prescribing the hours of work for railroad crews was taken advantage of by a train crew here when a freight train was stopped on the main track while passing through town because the crew had been on duty sixteen hours. A shifting engine sidetracked the train, where it remained for ten hours, until the crew had secured their lawful rest.

OVER TWO THOUSAND VISITORS A DAY

Cooper Explains Reason for Remarkable Average of Boston Callers.

During L. T. Cooper's recent stay in Boston, it is estimated that sixty-five thousand people talked with him and purchased his medicine. This is an average of over two thousand a day.

His success was so phenomenal as to cause universal comment both by the public and the press. There must be a reason for this. Here is the reason given in his own words by Mr. Cooper when interviewed on the subject. He said:

"The immense numbers of people who are calling on me here in Boston is not unusual. I have had the same experience for the past two years wherever I have gone. The reason is a simple one. It is because my medicine puts the stomach in good condition. This does not sound unusual, but it is in fact the key to health. The stomach is the very foundation of life. I attribute 90 per cent. of all sickness directly to the stomach.

"Neither animals nor men can remain well with a poor digestive apparatus. Few can be sick with a digestion in perfect condition. As a matter of fact, most men and women today are half-sick. It is because too much food and too little exercise have gradually forced the stomach into a half-sick condition. My medicine gets the stomach back where it was, and that is all that is necessary."

Among Boston people who are staunch believers in Mr. Cooper's theory, is Mr. Frank D. Brown, of 57 Bloomingdale street, Chelsea, Mass. He says:

"For five years I have sought relief for indigestion, stomach trouble and dyspepsia, spending nearly all my wages with doctors and obtaining no results. I had dull pains across my back, radiating to the shoulders. I had splitting headaches, which nothing seemed to cure. There was a gnawing and rumbling in my stomach and bowels. I was troubled with vertigo and dizziness, and at times almost overcome by drowsiness.

"I felt tired and worn out all the time, my sleep was not refreshing, and I would get up in the morning feeling as weary as when I went to bed. My appetite was variable—ravenous at times, then again nauseated at the sight of food. Sometimes my face was pale, at other times flushed. I was constipated and bilious, and had catarrhal affection in nose and throat, which caused me to hawk and spit a great deal, especially in the morning. I heard so much of the Cooper remedies that I decided to try them. After taking one bottle, a tapeworm 50 feet long passed from my system. I felt better almost immediately. All my troubles disappeared as if by magic, and my improvement was rapid. I now feel entirely well, and can honestly recommend Mr. Cooper's medicine to anyone who suffers as I did."

We sell the Cooper medicines which give universal satisfaction. —E. J. Murphy.

DEPRESSION THE BEST

G. B. Bates Explains His Plans For Abolition of Grade Crossings

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

This question of separating the grade crossings at Saville street and Water street is one of the most vital, far reaching, and important propositions, that has come before the citizens of Quincy for their serious consideration and determination during the past generation. It has been well known that these grade crossings have been a danger and a menace to the travelling public for more than 60 years, and now, after waiting patiently, for more than 60 years, the time is at hand for action relating to the separating of these dangerous grade crossings at Saville street and Water street.

The law explicitly and forcefully states that these grade crossings must be separated, and when practical the present locations shall be maintained. The City of Quincy has never taken the initiative in this important matter; in fact, so far as I can learn, the City Engineer department has no plans worked out looking toward the best interests of the city, although this question of separating the grade crossings has been known to the city officials for more than 10 years. Seemingly it has been a waiting game between the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., and the city until finally the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R were compelled by the expansion of their enormously increasing business to be obliged to take the initiative and apply to the Superior court for a special commission to be appointed to determine the best way for all parties concerned how these grade crossings at Saville street and Water street shall be separated according to the law and the existing conditions.

RAILROAD PLAN.

Now, then, the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. have presented a plan of their own to this special commission for their consideration for the abolition of these grade crossings at Saville street and Water street by stopping them up completely; making both these streets dead ends at the east and west sides of the railroad. This proposition in my opinion is not only ridiculous but scandalous. Saville street and Water street have been open to the public as public thoroughfares long before the railroad came into existence. Saville street is the most central street in the city of Quincy crossing the railroad from east to west, connecting the west section of our city with the east section of our city, and Water street is the most important street in South Quincy, crossing the railroad and connecting the east section with the west section.

Saville street the most central crossing in our city is in close proximity of the Quincy depot, which makes the largest returns to the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., in passenger traffic of any depot on the Old Colony system. Saville street has a great mission to perform not only now but in the future. Today people cross and recross at Saville street, over 3000 every day, and over 100 teams every day, not with standing the city never spent one dollar on it during its nearly 100 years existence for repairs, although the city has no objection to use Saville street for its sewer pipes, water pipes, gas pipes, electric light wires and telephone wires, and does not fail to collect the taxes on Saville street property. The great mission that Saville street has got to perform is the relieving of the congestion of Hancock street from city square to Adams street. Hancock street at this location is like the neck of a bottle. It is the only direct outlet to Boston. All of the territory south of us and east of the Blue Hills, including over 40 towns and cities. As time goes on (this neck of the bottle (Hancock street between city square and Adams street) will become more and more congested, with the increase of travel by electric cars, and car tracks, automobiles, express wagons, carriages, bicycles, vehicles of every mention, and Saville street, with an easy 4 per cent grade over the depressed railroad tracks will be a fortunate relief to this inevitable congestion in City Square.

GRANITE STREET.

By the depressing of the railroad tracks 13 feet at Saville street, the tracks would then be at the present street grade at Granite street. Granite street would have what it has for many years needed an over-head bridge with less than a 3 per cent grade. Simply reverse the present conditions by depressing the railroad tracks, with public travel over as it rightly should be.

I wish at this time to call your attention to the question of the curve in the railroad tracks at Granite street bridge. Some one tries to make us believe that this is a very dangerous curve, although in the 63 years of daily use by thousands upon thousands of trains both ways, many of them travelling at the rate of 40 miles an hour, there never was an accident of any kind at Granite street on account of this (imaginary) dangerous curve. There are grades on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. within 4 miles of Granite street where the grade is 100 per cent steeper than the average grade is from the Braintree line to Granite street bridge, and the curve is 200 per cent sharper than the curve is at Granite street curve.

Again, I wish to say, that the railroad, some years ago, made provisions (as the plans will plainly show) when the time arrives to take this curve out to some extent at the Granite street bridge. Some years ago the Railroad Company purchased land of the Marsh estate on the westerly side of the tracks, near Granite street for the very purpose of taking out some of this curve at Granite street by pushing or moving the tracks westerly about 125 to 150 feet at Granite street. But this proposition of moving the tracks westerly 125 to 150 feet to straighten the curve in the railroad tracks at Granite street is of no concern to the city. It is the Railroad's business, and the cost is up to the Railroad, and they alone, so far as the land required for that purpose and the moving of the tracks.

IRVING PLACE.

There is another feature right here that is up to the Railroad and the expense of making that proposition good is entirely up to the Railroad and they alone. It is this. When the Marshs sold this land to the railroad for the purpose of taking this curve out at Granite street bridge, the railroad agreed to continue Irving place through to Granite street, and until this agreement is fulfilled the railroad cannot abolish the right of way which the Marshs have across the tracks about midway between Saville street and Granite street opposite the Marsh estate. Don't let us be hoodwinked out of our rights this time.

This great question has reached a crisis. We have reached a period when the spirit of unity should be in dead earnest among the citizens of Quincy. The people's indifference, their neglect in attending these meetings, in my opinion, is tending toward, and will ultimately involve (if it is not checked) an expenditure of a million dollars additional outside of the cost of the separating of the grades of Saville street and Water street. The tax payer and rent payers are the ones who will have to pay the bills, and it is up to them to attend these meetings. There appears to be a "Nigger under the Wood Pile." It popped its head out at the last meeting. Come to the meetings and help smoke him out.

THE BEST PLAN.

What we want, and what we must insist upon with all the persistency possible, is the best possible for the city of Quincy performed in the most economical way. The depression proposition [illegible] at Saville street is admitted by every civil engineer whom I have talked with, and the public in general as the correct and right solution of this problem. Such being the case, vote to have the city representatives appear before that special commission advocating the depression of tracks at Saville street with a 4 per cent grade on Saville street according to plan.

The city of Newton, same distance from Boston as we, got depression and got nearly six miles of it. We are asking for only 2000 feet of depression. One-fifteenth part of what Newton (the Garden City) got. Newton knew what she wanted and got it, and how did she get it? The city of Newton had a mayor and officials who had back bone, and persistently insisted upon depression of the tracks, and would stand for nothing else, as any other solution was wrong. The conditions for the depression of the tracks through Quincy are much more favorable than they were in Newton. Now our Mayor wants to have that same kind of a back bone that Mayor Cobb had, and I won't believe he hasn't got it until after he has been before this special commission and made the fight.

THE COMMISSIONERS.

I have the highest regard and the utmost confidence in the personnel of the special Commission. They are men of high character, competent and qualified; and will see that Quincy and her citizens receive justice in their finding on this great question if the public's right are intelligently and scrupulously looked after by our Mayor, showing that commission fully and completely our necessities and requirements, and the advantages to both the city, the Railroad and the property owners that the depression proposition according to plans is the correct one. Thereby saving every street crossing now existing in the city with far better grades. Save every spur track that is in use today and save every business concern that is doing business.

QUINCY DEPOT.

The approach to the Quincy depot will be just the same as it is today, only the depot will be twice as large as it is now on account of the additional sub-station below, giving a nice smoking room, lavatories and baggage room below, and a nice large waiting room on the street floor, the same as now only larger. Access to take the trains from the street will be by wide stairways on the outside ends of the present station. Access from the waiting room on the street floor will be by two stairways, one for the ladies and one for the gentlemen. The approaches to the station will be the same as they are now, and the surroundings would be simliar to the Newton stations. Coming back to the Granite street bridge, as it now is it is a miserable apology for a public thoroughfare in the centre of our city. No load of any consequence can go under it. All teamers abhor it, and to say the least it is an unsightly nasty, wet, low depressed street. With an over head bridge for public travel reversing present conditions, and the Railroad moving the tracks westerly 125 feet, you would have one of the finest approaches from the new Granite street bridge to Hancock street that we could ask for public travel. All property on Granite street both sides, residential and business, would be much more valuable under the new conditions after damages were assessed and paid.

FOR ALL TIME.

By depression we eliminate high bridges and Chinese walls. By depression we permit social and business intercourse between the east and the west sections of our city on easy and pleasant grades. Unfortunately the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., runs geographically from north to south, directly through the centre of our city. There are about the same number of people living on the east side as there are on the west side and there is about the same area of territory on the west side as there is on the east side. Such being the situation and condition I would consider it a crime against our intelligence and our fair city to erect a barrier; to build a Chinese wall ranging from 15 feet to 25 feet high through the centre of our city disfiguring the contour and seriously damaging many thousands of dollars worth of property for all time to come.

We must remember that whatever is done at this time is done for all time. Although you and I will not always be here, this railroad will live on forever. Let us beautify and not blight the thoroughfares of our fair city. Let us make our city attractive and comfortable when possible. Don't let us make a mess of it by building something that is ugly, hideous and unsightly.

Let us do that which will be a credit and a source of satisfaction and enjoyment to ourselves and the coming generations. Let our children and our children's children see by example that the fathers of the present generation are capable and competent of meeting and rightly solving the problems of today, as intelligently as our fore fathers did in there time of 100 and 200 years ago. Let us rise to the occasion, and be men and not mice, and after this problem is settled, and settled right, let us like men meet our next great problem and that is our alarmingly rapidly increasing debt on which at some future day I will have more to say.

Yours for depression, "the best and the most economical."

OVER TWO THOUSAND VISITORS A DAY

Cooper Explains Reason for Remarkable Average of Boston Callers.

During L. T. Cooper's recent stay in Boston, it is estimated that sixty-five thousand people talked with him and purchased his medicine. This is an average of over two thousand a day.

His success was so phenomenal as to cause universal comment both by the public and the press. There must be a reason for this. Here is the reason given in his own words by Mr. Cooper when interviewed on the subject. He said:

"The immense numbers of people who are calling on me here in Boston is not unusual. I have had the same experience for the past two years wherever I have gone. The reason is a simple one. It is because my medicine puts the stomach in good condition. This does not sound unusual, but it is in fact the key to health. The stomach is the very foundation of life. I attribute 90 per cent. of all sickness directly to the stomach.

"Neither animals nor men can remain well with a poor digestive apparatus. Few can be sick with a digestion in perfect condition. As a matter of fact, most men and women today are half-sick. It is because too much food and too little exercise have gradually forced the stomach into a half-sick condition. My medicine gets the stomach back where it was, and that is all that is necessary."

Among Boston people who are staunch believers in Mr. Cooper's theory, is Mr. Frank D. Brown, of 57 Bloomingdale street, Chelsea, Mass. He says:

"For five years I have sought relief for indigestion, stomach trouble and dyspepsia, spending nearly all my wages with doctors and obtaining no results. I had dull pains across my back, radiating to the shoulders. I had splitting headaches, which nothing seemed to cure. There was a gnawing and rumbling in my stomach and bowels. I was troubled with vertigo and dizziness, and at times almost overcome by drowsiness.

"I felt tired and worn out all the time, my sleep was not refreshing, and I would get up in the morning feeling as weary as when I went to bed. My appetite was variable—ravenous at times, then again nauseated at the sight of food. Sometimes my face was pale, at other times flushed. I was constipated and bilious, and had catarrhal affection in nose and throat, which caused me to hawk and spit a great deal, especially in the morning. I heard so much of the Cooper remedies that I decided to try them. After taking one bottle, a tapeworm 50 feet long passed from my system. I felt better almost immediately. All my troubles disappeared as if by magic, and my improvement was rapid. I now feel entirely well, and can honestly recommend Mr. Cooper's medicine to anyone who suffers as I did."

We sell the Cooper medicines which give universal satisfaction. —E. J. Murphy.

DEPRESSION THE BEST

G. B. Bates Explains His Plans For Abolition of Grade Crossings

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

This question of separating the grade crossings at Saville street and Water street is one of the most vital, far reaching, and important propositions, that has come before the citizens of Quincy for their serious consideration and determination during the past generation. It has been well known that these grade crossings have been a danger and a menace to the travelling public for more than 60 years, and now, after waiting patiently, for more than 60 years, the time is at hand for action relating to the separating of these dangerous grade crossings at Saville street and Water street.

The law explicitly and forcefully states that these grade crossings must be separated, and when practical the present locations shall be maintained. The City of Quincy has never taken the initiative in this important matter; in fact, so far as I can learn, the City Engineer department has no plans worked out looking toward the best interests of the city, although this question of separating the grade crossings has been known to the city officials for more than 10 years. Seemingly it has been a waiting game between the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., and the city until finally the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R were compelled by the expansion of their enormously increasing business to be obliged to take the initiative and apply to the Superior court for a special commission to be appointed to determine the best way for all parties concerned how these grade crossings at Saville street and Water street shall be separated according to the law and the existing conditions.

RAILROAD PLAN.

Now, then, the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. have presented a plan of their own to this special commission for their consideration for the abolition of these grade crossings at Saville street and Water street by stopping them up completely; making both these streets dead ends at the east and west sides of the railroad. This proposition in my opinion is not only ridiculous but scandalous. Saville street and Water street have been open to the public as public thoroughfares long before the railroad came into existence. Saville street is the most central street in the city of Quincy crossing the railroad from east to west, connecting the west section of our city with the east section of our city, and Water street is the most important street in South Quincy, crossing the railroad and connecting the east section with the west section.

Saville street the most central crossing in our city is in close proximity of the Quincy depot, which makes the largest returns to the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., in passenger traffic of any depot on the Old Colony system. Saville street has a great mission to perform not only now but in the future. Today people cross and recross at Saville street, over 3000 every day, and over 100 teams every day, not with standing the city never spent one dollar on it during its nearly 100 years existence for repairs, although the city has no objection to use Saville street for its sewer pipes, water pipes, gas pipes, electric light wires and telephone wires, and does not fail to collect the taxes on Saville street property. The great mission that Saville street has got to perform is the relieving of the congestion of Hancock street from city square to Adams street. Hancock street at this location is like the neck of a bottle. It is the only direct outlet to Boston. All of the territory south of us and east of the Blue Hills, including over 40 towns and cities. As time goes on (this neck of the bottle (Hancock street between city square and Adams street) will become more and more congested, with the increase of travel by electric cars, and car tracks, automobiles, express wagons, carriages, bicycles, vehicles of every mention, and Saville street, with an easy 4 per cent grade over the depressed railroad tracks will be a fortunate relief to this inevitable congestion in City Square.

GRANITE STREET.

By the depressing of the railroad tracks 13 feet at Saville street, the tracks would then be at the present street grade at Granite street. Granite street would have what it has for many years needed an over-head bridge with less than a 3 per cent grade. Simply reverse the present conditions by depressing the railroad tracks, with public travel over as it rightly should be.

I wish at this time to call your attention to the question of the curve in the railroad tracks at Granite street bridge. Some one tries to make us believe that this is a very dangerous curve, although in the 63 years of daily use by thousands upon thousands of trains both ways, many of them travelling at the rate of 40 miles an hour, there never was an accident of any kind at Granite street on account of this (imaginary) dangerous curve. There are grades on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. within 4 miles of Granite street where the grade is 100 per cent steeper than the average grade is from the Braintree line to Granite street bridge, and the curve is 200 per cent sharper than the curve is at Granite street curve.

Again, I wish to say, that the railroad, some years ago, made provisions (as the plans will plainly show) when the time arrives to take this curve out to some extent at the Granite street bridge. Some years ago the Railroad Company purchased land of the Marsh estate on the westerly side of the tracks, near Granite street for the very purpose of taking out some of this curve at Granite street by pushing or moving the tracks westerly about 125 to 150 feet at Granite street. But this proposition of moving the tracks westerly 125 to 150 feet to straighten the curve in the railroad tracks at Granite street is of no concern to the city. It is the Railroad's business, and the cost is up to the Railroad, and they alone, so far as the land required for that purpose and the moving of the tracks.

IRVING PLACE.

There is another feature right here that is up to the Railroad and the expense of making that proposition good is entirely up to the Railroad and they alone. It is this. When the Marshs sold this land to the railroad for the purpose of taking this curve out at Granite street bridge, the railroad agreed to continue Irving place through to Granite street, and until this agreement is fulfilled the railroad cannot abolish the right of way which the Marshs have across the tracks about midway between Saville street and Granite street opposite the Marsh estate. Don't let us be hoodwinked out of our rights this time.

This great question has reached a crisis. We have reached a period when the spirit of unity should be in dead earnest among the citizens of Quincy. The people's indifference, their neglect in attending these meetings, in my opinion, is tending toward, and will ultimately involve (if it is not checked) an expenditure of a million dollars additional outside of the cost of the separating of the grades of Saville street and Water street. The tax payer and rent payers are the ones who will have to pay the bills, and it is up to them to attend these meetings. There appears to be a "Nigger under the Wood Pile." It popped its head out at the last meeting. Come to the meetings and help smoke him out.

THE BEST PLAN.

What we want, and what we must insist upon with all the persistency possible, is the best possible for the city of Quincy performed in the most economical way. The depression proposition of about 13 feet at Saville street is admitted by every civil engineer whom I have talked with, and the public in general as the correct and right solution of this problem. Such being the case, vote to have the city representatives appear before that special commission advocating the depression of tracks at Saville street with a 4 per cent grade on Saville street according to plan.

The city of Newton, same distance from Boston as we, got depression and got nearly six miles of it. We are asking for only 2000 feet of depression. One-fifteenth part of what Newton (the Garden City) got. Newton knew what she wanted and got it, and how did she get it? The city of Newton had a mayor and officials who had back bone, and persistently insisted upon depression of the tracks, and would stand for nothing else, as any other solution was wrong. The conditions for the depression of the tracks through Quincy are much more favorable than they were in Newton. Now our Mayor wants to have that same kind of a back bone that Mayor Cobb had, and I won't believe he hasn't got it until after he has been before this special commission and made the fight.

THE COMMISSIONERS.

I have the highest regard and the utmost confidence in the personnel of the special Commission. They are men of high character, competent and qualified; and will see that Quincy and her citizens receive justice in their finding on this great question if the public's right are intelligently and scrupulously looked after by our Mayor, showing that commission fully and completely our necessities and requirements, and the advantages to both the city, the Railroad and the property owners that the depression proposition according to plans is the correct one. Thereby saving every street crossing now existing in the city with far better grades. Save every spur track that is in use today and save every business concern that is doing business.

The Squantum Yacht club bowling team was scalped by the South Boston team Thursday night in the inter-club series by a score of 1303 to 1246. South Boston's totals were 460, 411 and 432. The Squantum totals were 403, 435 and 408.

Over 75 boys will take part in the boys athletic meet at the Quincy Y. M. C. A. Saturday afternoon, representing the associations at Brockton, Hyde Park, Milton, Cambridge, Somerville, Malden, Salem, Taunton and Quincy. Twenty-two of the boys are from Quincy. In all there are over 150 entries for the different events for which prizes are offered.

Attention is called to the fact that a book agent is making free use of the title "Reverend" to gain entrances to homes for the purpose of securing subcriptions for his works. He presents his card ostensibly as a clergyman making a parish call; then having gained entrance at once endeavors to make a sale. Some of the leading clergyman of the city know nothing of the man and seriously object to the use of the ministeral title for the simple commercial purpose in the deceptive way.

Quincy Leads on Totals.

Although the Quincy Y. M. C. A. lost to Brockton Y. M. C. A. at the second meet at Brockton this week by score of 28 to 12, their victory at the first meet was so decisive that on totals Quincy leads 47 to 38. At Brockton Quincy won the relay race and the 15 yd. dash, but on the three broad jumps, the high jump and the fence vault they were outclassed.

Collier Malden Breaks Record

The best record up to date for loading coal into a vessel was accomplished at Baltimore on Monday, when the Massachusetts Steamship Company's steamer Malden built at Fore River, Quincy, finished loading a cargo of 7504 tons of coal from the piers of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at Curtis Bay, Maryland, in the astonishingly quick time of eight and one-half hours.

On the same day the Malden was breaking record for quick loading of coal cargoes, the steam trawler Spray built at Quincy, arrived in Boston with a record halibut, believed to be the larger of this species ever caught. The monster was scooped in one of the Spray's big nets weighed 450 pounds. The largest fish of this species rarely go 350 pounds, and this weight is accounted most unusual.

Four bucket wheels are being forged and rough machined for the General Electric Company.

The forward uprights are being put in position for battleship North Dakota.

The preferred stock of the Electric Boat Company is held at $80 and the common stock at $25. The bids in the New York stock market on Wednesday were $70 and $20.

NEW INSPECTOR.

A Boston paper report that Lieutenant Comander Roger Welles, U. S. N., who has been on duty at the Fore River shipyards, Quincy, for a year past as inspector of equipment, has received orders to Camden, N. J. for duty in connection with the fitting out of the new battleship New Hampshire, and to duty as her executive officer when she is commissioned. He is a Connecticut man and entered the services in 1880. He is succeeded at the Fore River company by Lieut. L. C. Arnold, who has been on duty there for some months past.

Lieut. Stafford H. R. Doyle, a southerner, who has been serving on the battleship Kentucky, was this week assigned to Quincy for duty in connection with the fitting out of the scout cruiser Birmingham. When she is commissioned he will be her senior engineer officer. He was appointed to the service from South Carolina in 1896.

WORLD'S RECORD.

Should the Quincy built Birmingham or Salem make a better showing than the Chester, they would beat the world's record, for according to Chief Constructor Capps of the Navy, the scout cruiser Chester, which has just finished her trials off the Rockland course, has made a world's record for any naval vessel above 1500 tons displacement. Several days ago she made 26.52 knots on a four hours' speed trial, and word has come to Secretary Metcalf from Admiral Clover, the president of the trial board, that she had finished her twenty-four hours endurance coal consumption trial and had averaged 22.80 knots. The contract required that the Chester should be capable of steaming 1.8 knots per ton of coal at the rate of 22.50 knots on hour. The Chester beat this record by 53 per cent, which was beyond the dreams of her builders or of the navy board. During the twenty-four hours' trial just ended she consumed one ton of coal for every 2.75 knots. Going at this speed, the average revolutions of her propeller were 470 per minute.

Based on these figures, the Chester is in th class with the Cunard line flyers Mauretania and Lusitania, and could go from America to England in less than five days. She could go from the United States to Great Britain and back again without coaling, steaming at the rate of 23 knots on hour. She could go from new York to Magdalena Bay, away round the Pacific side of Mexico, a distance of 14,000 miles, without coaling, and making an average of 12 knots, which is faster than Admiral Evan's big fleet is making. She could go over 4,500 miles without coaling, running at a speed of 23 knots.

The liquor firm of J. H. Costello & Co., of Boston has made an assignment.

About ten gobblers were sacrificed Thursday evening to the festive board when the men of Atlantic gave their annual supper in Memorial church. The menu included all the viands of Christmas season and everything was served piping hot. The pews were removed from the church proper and that is where the tables were spread, so that the vestry could be used as a serving room. Every table was full both around with participants and on top with steaming dishes and the good cheer that follows satisfaction in eating was visible everywhere. Mrs. Albert Briggs and Mr. Coolidge of Cambridge gave several vocal selections that were roundly encored. Mr. Briggs was not able to sing on account of illness. The men responsible for the success of the supper are being overwhelmed with congratulations.

PRICE FOR THE CONGO

Large Annual Allowances to King From Its Revenues

FREE STATE'S OBLIGATIONS

They Amount to $21,000,000 and Must Be Assumed by Belgium--Crown Domain Is Given Up, However-- American Concessions Safe

Brussels, March 6.—The text of the new Congo annexation treaty was submitted to parliament by Premier Schollaert, and on his motion was sent to committee without debate. According to the terms of the new treaty, King Leopold agrees to abandon the crown domain and the crown foundation to Belgium. Belgium, on her part, shall not only assume all the Congo obligations, amounting to $21,000,000, but undertake to continue the king's usufruct in the Congo revenues during his lifetime. Belgium is specifically required to respect the concessions granted to two American companies in 1906, in which Thomas F. Ryan is interested.

The Congo revenues are charged with the following annual allowances: $24,000 to Prince Albert, son of the Count of Flanders, brother of King Leopold; $15,000 to Princess Clementine, the king's third daughter, and as an especial token of gratitude to the king the sum of $10,000,000 in fifteen annual instalments for his use in constructing hospitals and schools and forwarding scientific work in Africa.

Furthermore, Belgium must expend $9,000,000 in work for which contracts already have been made. In addition King Leopold retains in fee simple 40,000 hectares of land at Mayumbe for coffee and cocoa growing experiments, and during his lifetime he is to enjoy his interests in the Congo concessionary companies and the property in Belgium and France which he purchased out of the funds of the Congo foundation. Upon the death of the king all this property will revert to Belgium. All the special colonial funds must be devoted exclusively to Congo expenditures.

The terms of the new treaty have been given a mixed reception, but the general impression is that the annexation of the Congo Independent State to Belgium on the proposed basis is possible. It is probable, however, that the clauses recognizing the vast concessions accorded to the American forest and mineral companies, in which the king is heavily interested, will encounter much opposition.

Despite the criticism of the opposition, the prevailing impression in parliamentary circles regarding the king's concessions assure the ratification of the treaty. The king's friends naturally regard the treaty as it now stands as exceedingly magnanimous.

Should parliament now refuse to ratify the treaty, it is believed here that King Leopold, in order to escape foreign intervention, would offer the Congo to France, which possesses a privileged right, in case Belgium refuses to annex it.

The sweeping concessions made by the king in the new treaty are attributed to his dread of British intervention, backed by the United States. The king, it is declared, would rather run the risk of facing an international accounting of his stewardship than the former contingency. King Leopold showed his resentment at the attitude of Great Britain and America at a recent court ball, when he displayed excessive coldness towards H. L. Wilson, the American minister, and Sir Edmund Phipps, the British diplomatic representative.

Fire In Steamer's Hold

Marseilles, March 6.—Steamer Mongolia, outward bound with 400 passengers, put in here with a fire in her baggage hold. The fire was discovered while the steamer was off the coast of Spain. After four hours' work the fire was put out.

Mother and Children Perished

Bryan Receives Nebraska Democrats' Pledge of Allegiance

LITTLE NEW IN PLATFORM

Largely the Work of Bryan Himself, Who, However, Says That Some Subjects Will Be Subsequently Included In the National Platform

Omaha, March 6.—Yesterday was "Bryan day" in Omaha and throughout Nebraska. With the Democratic state convention as a nucleus, party leaders from every county and practically every primary district in the commonwealth gathered here to pledge allegiance to the presidential aspirations of Mr. Bryan and to consider means for furthering his interests before the Democratic national convention at Denver next July.

Enthusiasm characterized the day. It began early in the afternoon session of the convention and, gradually gathering volume, was vociferous and tumultuous when, at the beginning of the evening session, the platform committee presented this resolution:

"The Democratic party of Nebraska again declares confidence in, and admiration of, William Jennings Bryan. In him we behold the ideal American citizen, the ideal Democrat. We rejoice that the principles which he has so ably advocated have been gladly received and are now generally accepted by the American people.

"Resolved, That the delegates by this convention chosen be and are hereby instructed to vote as a unit for the nomination of Mr. Bryan for the presidency."

Brief as this official endorsement of Bryan's candidacy was, it met the full approval of the delegates. Sixteen men were selected during the afternoon to represent the state at Denver.

The platform, as a whole, was largely Bryan's own work. That it reflected the leader's views as to what should form the issues upon which the party should go before the country next fall was not denied.

Mr. Bryan, however, said that the declarations of the platform were necessarily incomplete; that some subjects subsequently will be included in the national platform, while others were treated in the Nebraska document in a purposely brief manner so as to allow amplification at Denver.

The platform advanced little that was new. The Fowler and Aldrich currency bills were condemned. Emergency currency, it was declared, "should be issued and controlled by the federal government." Immediate revision of the tariff was emphasized as a necessity, the "stand-pat" policy being ridiculed.

A flat declaration opposing Asiatic immigration and a clause favoring the eight-hour working day were decidedly popular. So, too, were the pardgraphs favoring extension of irrigation and reclamation projects.

An endorsement of the Drago doctrine, insofar as that doctrine applies to the United States navy, and a declaration that jury trials should be granted defendants in cases of contempt of injunction where the alleged offense was committed outside the presence of the court caused some notice. One of the well-applauded clauses was that dealing with anarchy. There was no reference to government ownership in the platform, neither was there a "personal liberty" clause therein.

Negroes Urged to Oppose Taft

Washington, March 6.—An appeal has been issued to the negro voters of the southern states to bring about the election of delegates to the Republican national convention at Chicago who will cast their votes for Senator Foraker for the presidency. In case of the failure to obtain Foraker's nomination, they are urged to unite upon Fairbanks or La Follette. They are urged also to oppose the nomination of Taft for the presidency.

Increased Pay For Lifesavers

Washington, March 6.—The bill increasing the pay of superintendents of lifesaving districts and keepers of districts and providing for a system of relief of widows and minor children of men who lose their lives by reason of their perilous service was ordered favorably reported by the senate committee on commerce. The measure is identical with the bill which was reported favorably by the house committee.

Death of Lily Hanbury

London, March 6.—Lily Hanbury died here last night. Her death resulted from complications following her accouchement of a still-born child on Tuesday last. Lily Hanbury, who was Mrs. Herbert Guedalla in private life, was born in London in 1874. She made her first appearance on the stage in 1888. Latterly she had a part as leading lady in several of Beerbohm Tree's most important productions.

Twenty-One Miners Doomed

Birmingham, Eng., March 6.—Repeated efforts of rescue parties provided with oxygen apparatus to reach the entombed miners, numbering twenty-one, at the Hampstead colliery have failed. One of the rescuing party was overcome by fumes and he had to be abandoned. Two others narrowly escaped suffocation. The fire in the mine is still raging and there is no hope now that a rescue can be effected.

STRIKE CONTINUES

National Board Refuses to Ratify the Quincy Aggreement

The executive committee of the National Association of Granite Industries of United States has refused to endorse the action of the Quincy manufacturers in offering the quarrymen 28 cents per hour. This means that the strike of the quarrymen will be continued as the quarrymen refuse to work until an agreement is made.

The decision was not reached until after an animated discussion at the meeting held in Boston on Friday. It is more than probable that an effort will be made by the Quincy committees to reach some other form of an agreement.

Other business transacted at Friday's meeting was to arrange to meet the committees of the Cutters' Union and Manufacturers' Association of Quincy, for settling the four points in dispute between these bodies.

Each side will be represented at this meeting by their delegates.

In the meantime the cutters will remain at work in Quincy unless will soon result in a settlement of the strike of the quarrymen and polishers.

The yards in Quincy have a fairly good supply of rough stock on hand, but it will only be a question of a short time before work may be stopped for lack of stock.

The National committee at its meeting Friday also considered conditions where other labor troubles exist and took measures which it is believed forced to remain idle on account of all differences.

Fourth Clover Assembly.

The Clover club held their fourth assembly at Colonial hall last evening. A large number braved the storm and it was an enjoyable party. The party was given by Howard C. Andrews, Matthew S. Nicoll and Stanley F. Duncan, composing the "Three Leaf Clover" which has held a series of four dances this winter. The matrons were Mrs. Orrin S. Hammack and Mrs. Charles W. Ganzel. The hit of the evening was the "Moonlight Waltz" during which the lights were dimmed and green lights cast a charming effect on the hall. A large lighted globe above the stage showed a green clover leaf and the words "Clover 1908."

RELIGION AND HEALTH

Rev. E. W. Hunt and Rev. W. E. Gardner To Speak on The Subject

Wollaston people are at a fever heat to see what the outcome will be at the Unitarian church in the controversy between Rev. E. W. Hunt and the parishioners. Although requested to either discontinue the line of thought "the new religious healing or resign, Mr. Hunt throws down the gauntlet and will preach tomorrow on "Religion and Health."

Some of the Boston papers announced that posters to this effect had been posted broadcast through Wollaston. This was an error, for although posters to that effect had been printed none have been posted.

Rev. Mr. Hunt will however, unless locked out, occupy the pulpit at the church tomorrow morning at 10:45, and give his answer to the request and preach on the subject "Religion and Health."

The parish committee of the church held a meeting last evening and the stand taken by the pastor was the main topic for discussion. Several efforts were made this morning to learn the result of the meeting but without result.

It was impossible to reach some of the members of the committee but those that were reached, while willing to talk on most matters, was silent when asked for information as to the doings of last night's meeting.

As Frank A. Page put it, he did not care to say anything. He thought it better that any information to be given out should come from one source and then there would not be half a dozen comflicting stories.

The one man who was to give out what information there was for the public was Dr. Charles S. Adams, who is chairman of the parish committee. Dr. Adams, however, being a practicing physician was a hard man to find.

AT CHRIST CHURCH.

Rev. E. W. Hunt is not the only Quincy pastor who has investigated religion and health. Rev. W. E. Gardner of Christ church has preached sermons on the subject, and announces a series of Sunday evening addresses on "Christianity and Health" to begin Sunday evening, when his theme will be "The healing power of Christianity." His other subjects will be:

March 15—"The Christian habit of mind."

March 22,—"The healing faith."

March 29,—"The power of happiness."

April 5,—"The blessings of health."

In announcing the subjects the rector says: "The recent developments in the study of the power of the mind over the body have resulted in the following convictions:

1. "The mind has more power over the body than we know.

2. "Below the conscious activity of the mind is a sub-conscious activity which is very closely connected with health.

3. "The sub-conscious activity can be best educated and made effective in activity by the teachings and life of Jesus Christ."

GRIM PROCESSIONS

Collinwood Engaged In Task of Laying Away Little Ones

FIFTY BURIALS IN A DAY

Individual Funerals Will Be Ended by Sunday--Teachers Testify at Inquest That Double Doors In Rear of Lakeview School Were Locked

Cleveland, March 7.—Collinwood has come to a full realization of her woe. Slowly and solemnly the processions of death began to wend their way yesterday toward the cemeteries, bearing the battered and charred remains of some of the 167 children whose lives were snuffed out in Wednesday's catastrophe in the Lakeview school.

From 9 o'clock in the morning until dusk there was no cessation in the funeral corteges. Those who had no dead to mourn as a personal loss stood in the streets with bared heads as the grim processions passed. One of the sad funerals was that of the three children of Janitor Hirter, held jointly with the services for three other little ones.

Mutterings against the janitor could be heard about the village as grief-crazed parents sought an object upon which to wreak vengeance, forgetting as they did that Hirter himself was walking with bowed head behind the biers of three of his beloved. A detail of police was placed about the Hirter home when the hour for the funeral came. Fully 500 persons had gathered, but when the coffins were carried to the doorway the crowd spread and opened the way for them without protest or expression of hostility.

Altogether there were fifty burials yesterday and today the gruesome task is being repeated. Sunday will witness the last of the individual burials and on Monday the remains of all those who are unidentified will be laid to rest with one funeral. There are twenty-eight of these bundles of flesh that await claimants.

Testimony describing the mad rush to death of the school children was given at the continued session of the coroner's inquest. Stories of heroism on the part of the women teachers were recited. F. P. Whitney, superintendent of the Collinwood schools, stated his belief to be that no fire department could have done any effective work after the fire had started.

Two of the teachers described their unavailing attempts to open one of the double doors at the rear which, they said, were locked. The inquest also developed that after the first crush at the door it was beyond human possibility to aid or save those whom the fire was consuming. The inquest will be resumed Monday.

Chief Wallace of the Cleveland fire department said, after an examination of the ruins of the school, it was his opinion that the loss of life would not have been so great had there been no partitions at the sides of the storm doors at the rear entrance. Two feet eight inches had been taken off either side of the hall for the partitions. His examination developed that the doors opened outward. Chief Wallace doubtless will be a witness before the coroner's jury.

Drastic steps have been taken by the Cleveland school board to place all the Cleveland educational buildings in a condition to preclude any loss of life from fires. Basements will be fireproofed, wooden stairways will be replaced by iron and spiral fire escapes will be enclosed. The doors in the vestibules will also be removed.

Autos Establish New Records

Ormond, Fla., March 7.—Two records were broken on Ormond Beach. M. G. Bernin, in a 60-horse power French car, covered 100 miles in 1 hour, 12 minutes, 56 1-5 seconds. The other record to fall was that of the mile for middleweight gasoline cars. Cedrino, in a 60-horse power Italian car, covered the distance in 35 seconds.

Stirring Up Newfoundland Politics

St. Johns, March 7.—Sir Edward Morris, formerly attorney general of Newfoundland, has assumed the leadership of a new political party in opposition to the administration of Sir Robert Bond. The general elections will be held next November. Morris was formerly in the Bond cabinet, but resigned his portfolio last July.

South Carolina's New Senator

Columbia, S. C., March 7.—Frank Boyd Gary was elected United States senator to succeed the late Senator Latimer. He was born March 9, 1860, and is a lawyer. In 1890 he was elected speaker of the state house of representatives and served in that capacity for five years. He was a candidate for governor in 1902.

Wu Scouts War Stories

Chicago, March 7.—Wu Ting Fang, the new minister from China, with his retinue of twenty-seven Orientals, has arrived here. The minister scouted the idea of war between China and Japan, saying; "There is nothing in such reports. This little breach will amount to nothing."

Twenty Lives Lost In Storm

London, March 7.—A violent gale has swept the coasts of the British Isles. There have been numerous wrecks of small craft, most of them on the east coast of Ireland. Altogether about twenty lives have been lost.

THE CARE OF PALMS.

No Necessity For Drooping, Yellow or Falling Leaves.

Palms can be grown successfully in the house if one has knowledge as to their needs. There is really no necessity for the drooping, yellowing or falling leaves that are too often the result of home growing.

Grow them in a sunny window in a temperature that never falls below 50 degrees. They are less hurt by overheating than most foliage plants. Guard against sudden variations of heat and cold.

Give palms plenty of pot room, but not too much. Shifting to larger pots is usually only necessary about every two years.

A little fertilizer, say a teaspoonful of ammoniated bone meal mixed in a little tepid water and poured around the roots, may be given every two weeks. Others use successfully weak manure water diluted to the color of weak tea.

Never let water stand in the saucer beneath the pot, but keep on watering until a little shows through at the bottom. Then do not water again until little dry blotches begin to appear on the surface.

It is a mistake to use glazed jardinieres, as palms need porous pots that let in the air to their roots. The ordinary red flowerpot is the best choice. See that it is kept clean on the outside.

Keep the fronds clean by sponging in tepid soapsuds at least once a week.

Rust blotches generally mean too much watering. When they appear, let the pot dry out for a few days and cut out the rusty parts.

Red blotches mean red spider, and the leaves should at once be washed with very weak carbolic soapsuds. Persistent spraying of the undersides of the leaves with plain water will usually prevent these pests. They come from too dry an atmosphere.

Dried tips are another sign that the air of the living room is not moist enough for the palm. Clip off the tips and take pains to have more moisture in the room. A pan of water on the radiator is a corrective to dryness.

WATCH SPINAL COLUMN.

When Children Stoop Look Into the Matter at Once.

Do you keep sharp watch on the children's spinal columns and shoulders?

When there is any inclination to stooping shoulders, look into the matter at once to find the cause.

It may be the clothing in some way. The hose supporters will be put on the easiest way, and that is front and fastened to the underwaist.

This makes a pull on the chest and drags it over.

It takes only just a little more pull than on the back, and down drops the chest.

Are the bands around the waist weighing the muscles that are made to hold up the body, so they are not strong enough to work when so much is put on them?

The boy gives way under the drag of an ill fitting coat collar which is too thick.

See that there is no pull or weight on the back of the neck.

When nothing pulls the young spine over or presses it down and the proper muscles are allowed to hold it up the back will usually be straight and flat.

Want of pure air to fill the lungs and the drag of poorly arranged clothing have given many a child an incurable hump or a sunken chest for life.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

The secret of cooking game is constant basting. It should be underdone and full of gravy.

Pare potatoes and cover with cold water for an hour before cooking, and they will be less liable to turn dark after they are boiled.

A tablespoonful of vinegar added to a quart of lamp oil will destroy the unpleasant odor if it is not caused by a burner in need of a thorough cleaning.

When boiling old potatoes, which are apt to go to a very dark color, put a tablespoonful of milk into the water in which they are boiled and you will find they will be beautifully white when cooked.

New walking shoes are sometimes inclined to "slip" at the heels, and a nasty blister is the result. A simple preventive is to rub the inside of the shoes with a little soap at the heel before putting them on.

A quick method of making breadcrumbs is to put the crumbs from a stale tin loaf into a muslin bag, tie at the top and rub it gently with both hands for a few minutes. The bread will then be fine enough for any purpose.

If you have a fern that does not grow fast enough, try putting the pot in hot water—not boiling, but too hot to bear the hand. This is especially good for the beautiful large fern that resembles the wild fern that grows on some shady hillside.

One often hears complaints that the boiler rusts and iron molds the clothes. To prevent this, as soon as the boiler is emptied rub well over with soap. This will not only prevent rust, it will also help to make suds for the next boiling.

To keep mice away from pantries and cupboards sprinkle cayenne pepper on the shelves. In boxes and wardrobes put lumps of camphor among the clothes, for mice dislike the smell of it. The camphor must be renewed every now and then, for it evaporates in the air.

What Do YOU DO for Quincy?

A Little Wad of Common Sense.

A New Aid Fable.

This is not a George Ade fable, though it may sling some slang. It is a Home Aid fable.

Once there was a Geezer, who sat around and cut Kindling too small for Cook Stove purposes. He Whittled against Time and Flabbergasted against his Town. The town was No Good, he said—strictly on the Blink. Yes, it was N. G. Why, hadn't he lived Here since '84 and found that the Place was Punky? Sure, Mike!

Look at that town over in the next County. Grown like Jonah's Gourd. Must be a Jonah here. We've grown some, but I don't see that we're knocking any particularly Big Persimmons. That's the way this Gazaboo knocked his town.

One day a Sarcastic Stranger floated into the Town that was Knocked from the burg that had Blossomed like Jonah's Gourd. He Heard some of the Flabbergasting and Dropped to the situation.

"Look here, you," he remarked to the citizen who was Handing Out the Knocks. "What do you do for this town? Are you doing your part to put this Burg on the Upgrade? What's that hefty Bunch of literature sticking out of your Clothes?"

"That's a Mail Order Catalogue from Chicago—a town that is a town," replied the Geezer.

"So I thought," said the Impertinent Arrival. "Now let me hand you out a nice little Wad of common sense. For the past ten years you have been sending your money to the Chicago Mail Order houses instead of spending it among your home merchants. What would have happened to Chicago fifty years ago if all the First Settlers had shipped their Loose Coin to New York on catalogue inducements? Why, you'd have to use a sand dredger now to find the Original Site of Chicago. Now, in the Burg from which I have just Blown in we got over all this Bum Business years ago. We passed Resolutions that we would trade at home and help our own town to Spread out so that you could Sight it on the map without using Opera Glasses. But you and a Bunch of other folks in this town have wasted your Substance in Riotous Expenditures in Chicago by mail and let the sheriff hang out the 'Nothing Doing' sign in front of some of your own town's mercantile Emporiums. Look at our Town and then look at yours. What makes the Difference?"

Whereupon the Whittling Gazaboo threw a few well chosen Thoughts into his mental makeup and went down to the village store to Annex a linen collar in place of the Paper Circles which he had bought from Chicago at Two Bits a Box.

Woman's World

MRS. COBDEN-SANDERSON.

The Noted English Suffragist Who Has Recently Been In America.

The recent visit in this country of Mrs. Cobden-Sanderson of England has revived anew the subject of woman suffrage, a subject never exhausted in the press and the school debating society. The late disturbance in the British parliament when the women suffragist delegates were unjustly dealt with brought about a great deal of discussion and incidentally many facts pointing to the farreaching effects of the movement.

As far as the American woman and suffrage are concerned, there is nobody in this day and hour who will stop to question and argue about her right of suffrage, for the real question is about how long will it be before she gets it.

About Mrs. Cobden-Sanderson a writer in a recent number of the Reader comments as follows:

"The visit to this country of Mrs. Cobden-Sanderson, the woman's suffrage agitator of England, has brought to the realization of some American women as nothing else could do the vitality and determination of the movement in England, 'some,' because it is to be doubted if Mrs. Cobden-Sanderson succeeded in reducing many in her American audiences to earnestness. It is not her desire to address suffrage societies or to talk to those already converted. She wishes to make converts, and as she is likely to become the fashion her talks were given chiefly at the fashionable literary clubs, where all she said was greeted with amused appreciation and a light ironical tolerance. The profound sincerity of her ideas did not deeply move her accomplished audiences, who indeed discussed the charm of her accent, the quaint beauty of her face, the unusual grace of her personality, but who said little or nothing about her message. She was pronounced charming, but she was not regarded as the daughter of the great commoner making a further plea for the rights and duties of commonalty."

MRS. COBDEN-SANDERSON.

Care of the Hair.

There is many a woman who almost entirely owes her claim to good looks to her hair, for if in good condition and well dressed, which means not only fashionably and carefully, but becomingly, it develops the good points of the features and the charm of expression. So much depends on the line of union between the face and the hair. To some women it is all important to have a point descending on the center of the forehead and soft curls falling to the temples, points which the fashionable coiffures of today favor.

It is well to remember that, while the most important, the hairs that border the face and neck are the most delicate. In these days of friction and massage, when the face is being thus attended to, the hair is often suffering. It is injured by frizzing it with the comb to increase its apparent bulk and by trying to draw the hair forward in front by means of a comb after it has been dressed. Many hairs come out with both these processes. Do not comb the hair upward before brushing it on the contrary, let it assume its most natural pose before dressing it. Part the hair down the center before beginning brushing operations and continue the brushing down from the root to the points. When the hair is thick part it in small strands and brush between. The movement of brushing should be a gentle one, not scouring the scalp, but directed to the hair. Curling on rollers during the night is a strain, but it is not so injurious as the persistent use of hot irons. When face washes are used, it is wise to introduce a little oil on the edges of the hair, so that none of the face creams and tonics find their way on to it. Massage of the scalp and of the line where hair and face meet does wonders. The scalp should not be hard and immovable on the skull, but soft and easily pushed backward and forward, and this can be promoted by moving it gently with the fingers of both hands without interfering with the hair. This increases the circulation of the blood. In time it will bear fruit by the growth of fresh hairs. The hair should be well ventilated so that the air can get to it. If the scalp is inflexible, the vigor of the hair will suffer.

George Kept Him Busy.

A well known Virginia clergyman, one time president of William and Mary college, was married three times, and on each occasion the ceremony was performed by his brother, an even more renowned bishop. When the first marriage took place, the bishop had to refuse a tempting invitation from an old friend because—so the letter ran—"I am going up to Williamsburg on that date to marry my brother George."

The same friend happened to be on the train with him years afterward when he was traveling to the second ceremony. "I am going to marry my brother George," the bishop explained benignly after the business of greetings was over. Again many years passed, and the same journey was taken once more for the same purpose. By a strange coincidence the identical friend ran into the bishop as they hurried through the depot to their respective trains. "Where going, bishop?" the former sang out as they grasped hands and dashed by each other.

"I am going where I am always going," the answer came back ponderously, "to marry my brother George!"—Harper's Weekly.

Madras Curtains.

It will not be long before lace curtains will be only something to recall as a past fancy in household decorations, just as we remember the gold vases, enlarged pictures and picture throws. The lace curtains which will remain, if they do at all, will be fine, expensive and genuine luxuries. The reason for this is because madras and other materials of like kind are fast taking the place of the fragile, lacy drapery; not wholly for window purposes, but portieres and the like are they used. Silks are used for the windows and some of the finest meshed nets and many exquisite striped materials which are like sheer dress fabrics. The tapestry effects in madras are beautiful and suit well the rich house furnishings. Some of the patterns are as rich in appearance as any of the oriental fabrics of rare materials and great value and not very expensive only in the finer grade of madras fabrics. Madras is of different grades, colors and widths, with prices ranged accordingly.

The Use of Cologne.

The most invetérate hater of perfumes could not overlook the real usefulness of cologne or some good toilet water. The beauties of ancient times who reveled in aromatic baths knew better than many moderns the refreshment to tired nerves to be found in this practice. If you have not yet been educated quite up to the standard of an entire aromatic bath, the next time you come in tired from a day's shopping try spraying yourself with cologne after a hot bath. You will be absolutely astonished to find how completely your fatigue has flown.

How to Sit Gracefully.

When sitting be sure that your hips are never brought farther forward than your shoulders. The proper way is to get your hips as far back as possible in the chair and firmly settled there. Then you can imagine the upper part of your body a stem swaying as it will. You can bend forward or sideways, but you will never want to bend back, and even if you grow to be stout you will still look well when sitting, and if you want to lean back in a steamer chair you may even be graceful.

In the Sickroom.

Good cheer is better than medicine. The jest has an important part to play as a remedy for irritability.

Don't tell long stories.

Don't rehash other people's trials.

Don't think up miserable possibilities.

Order, observation and obedience are three cardinal virtues in a nurse.

Add to these tact, the want of which is the base of nearly every sin a nurse may commit.

For Wet Rubbers.

Get an empty candy bucket with a lid. Cut a little off the lid so it will slip part way into the bucket. Bore a few holes in the lid. You can do this with a redhot poker. When you take your rubbers off all full of snow or water, put them on the lid of the bucket, and all the water will run through the holes into the bucket instead of on the porch or floor.

For Woman Suffrage.

Collier's Weekly has come out for woman suffrage in a leading editorial, and the Woman's Journal declares this the most notable journalistic recruit that the cause has gained since the North American Review took a similar stand some months ago.

If the rims of the finger nails refuse to look clear and well kept despite all one's care, try dipping the ends of the fingers in a half lemon every day or two. Let them stay in the acid for five minutes, then rinse thoroughly in water as hot as can be endured, wipe carefully and polish with a good nail powder.

Mrs. Richmond—Is your daughter going back to the cooking school this year?

Mrs. Bronxborough—No. I'm going to keep her home until she learns to cook some dishes that we can afford to eat.—Sunshine Bulletin.

ALLEGED BOAT LOBBY

Investigating Committee Is Appointed by Speaker Cannon

A FAR-REACHING RESOLUTION

Substance of Charges Made by Congressman Lilley, Who Expects to Prove That Money Has Been Contributed to Campaign Funds

Washington, March 7.—A resolution, providing for an investigation of the charges made by Mr. Lilley (Conn.) that members of the naval affairs committee were unduly influenced in recommending certain submarine torpedo boats, was reported to the house of representatives by Mr. Dalzell (Pa.) from the committee on rules and adopted by the house. The subject had been under consideration by the committee for two weeks. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, Mr. George L. Lilley, a representative from the state of Connecticut, on his responsibility as a member of this house, before the committee on rules, has among other things stated in substance that the Electric Boat company of New Jersey and their predecessors, the Holland Boat company, have been engaged in efforts to exert corrupting influence on certain members of congress in their legislative capacities, and have in fact exerted such corrupting influence. Therefore be it

"Resolved, That a committee of five members be appointed to investigate the charges made by said George L. Lilley of corrupt practices on the part of the said company and of members of congress with respect to legislation, and that said committee shall have authority to send for persons and papers and to take testimony in Washington or elsewhere before the full committee or any sub-committee thereof. Said committee shall report as speedily as possible, with such recommendation, if any, as to the committee shall seem meet."

Accompanying the resolution was a report declaring it to be due to the house and its members that an investigation should be made.

Speaker Cannon announced the following members as the committee to conduct the investigation: Messrs. Boutell (Ills.), Stevens (Minn.), Olmsted (Pa.), Howard (Ga.) and Boussard (La).

Without a dissenting voice the resolution was adopted. Lilley was present, but made no remarks.

All the members of the committee are greatly surprised by their appointment, of which they had not the slightest intimation. There is reason to believe that Lilley also is greatly surprised in the appointment of the committee. It appeared to be the understanding in the committee on rules that Lilley expected the chairmanship, but Asher Hinds, the parliamentary expert, was set to work on precedents, and it was learned that in cases of this kind, affecting the integrity of members of congress, the custom was to omit from the committee the person bringing the charges.

The action of the rules committee has been unanimous since the first meeting, when it was virtually decided that an investigation could not be avoided.

Some idea of the line of investigation to be followed may be gained from the statement of Lilley to the rules committee: "I do not claim that any money has been paid to bribe a member of congress. I do expect to prove that money has been contributed to campaign funds, which morally is no different from passing a bribe across a table in the committee room when we pass a vote."

The Dalzell resolution is good enough to permit the most thorough investigation, but the inquiry will concern itself chiefly with the charges relative to alleged assistance of members of congress in their own districts and the more or less open operations of the boat lobby in Washington.

Accompanying the report of the committee on rules is a copy of Lilley's statement to the committee, in which he charges that the Electric Boat company has for years maintained a lobby at Washington under its annual retainer. He charges that large sums of money have been spent in entertaining members of congress; that an attorney for the company wrote the senate amendment to the appropriation bill of 1907 with the intention of preventing competition; that large sums of money have been contributed by the company to the campaign funds of members of congress; that efforts have been made to influence the action of the navy department, and that since 1893 the efforts of the company have resulted in suppressing competition in submarine construction, and that representatives of leading newspapers have been subsidized by the company.

Mr. Lilley is quoted as having pronounced Representative Loud (Mich.) "absolutely clean," as far as any submarine scandal is concerned. This has led the other members of the naval affairs committee to inquire whether Lilley would also give a clean bill of health to all others of whom he can say the same, thus narrowing the scope of the investigation and saving much time.

Increased Pay In the Army

Washington, March 7.—The senate passed the army pay bill, increasing the pay of officers from 5 to 25 percent and the average pay of enlisted men 40 percent.

Chances Better In the East

(By George H. Corliss.)

A great many eastern mechanics have been attracted to Mare Island, California, by promises of long terms of employment, and a number of those who left good positions and steady work in the different shipyards along the Atlantic seaboard for Mare Island have been ousted after a short term of employment, despite promises of plenty of work.

On December 5, 1907, in the construction and repair department, fifty-four men were given their discharge. Lack of work caused by the completion of the "Sheridan's" repairs, in the drilling, riveting and chipping line, was given as the excuse. Some of those so discharged were old-time mechanics who lived in Vallejo, but many were eastern mechanics attracted to the Pacific coast by advertisements inserted in eastern papers, prominsing two years' steady employment in the building of a collier. Several of the men when discharged had been employed but a short time, and were stranded after their long and expensive trip across the continent.

As to the question of wages, I am informed that under the existing circumstances wages do not compare favorably with those paid in the various eastern shipyards. It is a serious question for consideration when one understands that it costs a great deal more to exist either at Vallejo or San Francisco than it does in any of our eastern cities. A plate-planer, a thoroughly competent workman in his line, who had been employed in the local shipyard, received at Mare navy yard 19 cents per day less than he was receiving in Quincy. Living is costing this man $2.50 per week more in California than it was in this city, and he is receiving $1.14 per week less for his services. It may be interesting to note in this connection that the plate-planer in question went to Mare Island understanding he was to be given piece work, but it has not been forthcoming.

Vallejo, where most of the Navy Yard employees live, is a city of Solano county, about fifteen miles from San Francisco, and in 1900 the population was 7,965.

At the Mare Island, navy yard the number of workmen, foremen and quartermen-in-charge, employed during the fiscal year 1907 was 13. The number of men employed during the fiscal year was 848; the minimum number, 605; the average number of men employed 667.

The only vessel under construction there at the present time is the fleet collier, U. S. S. Prometheus, which is of the following dimensions: Length overall, 465 feet 9 inches; beam molded, 60 feet; depth molded, 36 feet 6 inches.

A part which is generally overlooked when comparing yards on the Pacific coast with east coast yards, is the amount of time which the workmen lose in the west coast yards on account of the rain which comes during the entire year, and especially during the rainy season which is during the winter months. During this time it is impossible to work out of doors, and as for teaming, especially heavy teaming, the roads are almost impassible. Those who have not had experience in teaming work on the Pacific coast during the rainy season cannot realize the enormous expense of such transportation and the difficulties encountered. It is a common occurrence to see a team with a comparatively light load sunk up to the hubs of the wheels in mire.

In conclusion, it may be of interest to note, that during the last six months many letters have been received from those who left Quincy for the Pacific slope, in which regrets have been expressed for having made the venture. Times have been so hard there that charitable associations are unable to cope with the situation, and soup houses have been established by the Salvation Army to help keep people from starving. It is a common sight to see women, children and able bodied men lined up at the rear of hotels and eating houses waiting for the left over food to be thrown out. Conditions in San Francisco and its immediate vicinity have quite reversed themselves since the earthquake. Before this great catastrophe occurred there were about three positions to each available man, while today there are undoubtedly three men to every available position.

It is about as Mayor Shea said in his remarks at the recent Board of Trade banquet, "Quincy is a pretty good place after all to live and do business in."

AFTER CHANCELLOR DAY

Pastor Cooke Charges Defamation of Roosevelt's Character

Brandon, Vt., March 7.—Charges have been preferred by Rev. George A. Cooke, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in Brandon, against Rev. J. H. Day, LL. D., chancellor of Syracuse university, on the ground that Day defamed the character of President Roosevelt. The charges have been presented to Rev. Dr. Walters, presiding elder of the New York Conference of the Methodist Church, to which Day is ecclesiastically attached.

When interviewed concerning the allegation Cooke said that in a book written by Day President Roosevelt was severely criticised, and that, in his opinion, Day had violated the rules of the Methodist Episcopal church in thus assailing the president. Cooke stated that the specific charge preferred was defamation of character.

Mr. Cooke attained some prominence a few years ago by bringing charges against Borden P. Bowne, professor of philosophy at Boston university. The conference to which they were referred dismissed the charges. More recently Cooke laid charges against Dr. Buckley, editor of The Christian Advocate, one of the church publications. These charges were also dismissed. Similar disposition was made of allegations brought by Cooke against Dr. McFarland, former president of Iowa Wesleyan university.

Funeral of Beloved Citizen

Proctor, Vt., March 7.—Nearly ten thousand persons from all sections of Vermont came here to pay respect to the memory of the late Senator Redfield Proctor, whose funeral services were held in the Proctor Union church. The services were of the simplest character, consisting only of scripture reading and prayer. Although a driving snowstorm was raging, accompanied by extremely low temperature, 10,000 persons, nearly a third of whom were employed by the Vermont Marble company, lined the sides of the road leading to the cemetery and stood with bared heads as the procession passed.

Crime Only In Reporters' Minds

Boston, March 7.—Police Commissioner O'Meara objects to the reports in some of the newspapers that there has been a "wave of crime" in Dorchester. It is his opinion that the "wave of crime" existed only in the minds of some of the district reporters and that their reports grew out of their desire to get even with the new captain of division 11 because he cut off some of their prior privileges at the station house.

Triple Tragedy In Connecticut

Avon, Conn., March 7.—What doubtless will develop into a double murder and suicide occurred here when John J. Lynch, 30, went to the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Dittman, killed her, shot his wife twice through the breast and then killed himself. Lynch went to Mrs. Dittman's house, where his wife was staying, and after a short argument with her pulled a revolver and began shooting.

Case of Alleged Inhumanity

Portland, Me., March 7.—The special court ordered to hear the evidence in the case of Captain Bennett of the United States tug Albert G. Morse, accused by two fishermen of refusing to give them aid when they were drifting about in the ice floes in the harbor, met at Fort Preble and listened to witnesses. The finding of the court will be sent to Washington.

Bridge Must Be Rebuilt

New Haven, March 7.—An expert report has been made upon the condition of a drawbridge over the Thames river at New London, as a result of which the bridge will be considerably strengthened. It is also stated that within two or three years the bridge will have to be rebuilt. The total cost of the structure was considerably over $1,000,000.

Poison For Self and Children

Waterbury, Conn., March 7.—Monetti Montrozza, a local musician, and his young son, William, died as a result of taking carbolic acid, and a 6-year-old daughter was found nearly dead from the same cause. The musician had been despondent of late, and it is thought that he administered the acid to his children and then took his own life.

Eight Months For Larceny of $20

Boston, March 7.—Former Councilman William H. Curley was sentenced to eight months in the house of correction on the charge of larceny of $20 from Walter Shaw. It was alleged that Curley claimed to be collecting money to aid a sick newspaper man. Curley appealed from the sentence and was held in $600 bail.

Spleen Weighed Six Pounds

Worcester, Mass., March 7.—Drs. Washburn and Holt performed an autopsy on the body of J. L. Pratt of Holden and found that death had been caused by a rare case of enlarged spleen. The normal spleen should weigh but fourteen ounces, while Pratt's weighed six pounds.

Took Photographs on Lord's Day

Boston, March 7.—Fred Green, who is the official police department photographer for the rogues' gallery, was fined $15 in the municipal court on the charge of taking photographs on the Lord's day. Four other photographers were fined $10 each for the same offense.

A Touch of Spring

St. Albans, Vt., March 7.—A thunder shower of unusual severity prevailed here early last night. The lightning was vivid and the thunder deafening. A hailstorm accompanied the electrical disturbance.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bedwetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

THE JOHNSON BOOM

Formally Launched After a Bitter Contest In Minnesota

St. Paul, March 7.—The Democratic state committee of Minnesota, after a bitter fight, adopted a resolution endorsing Governor Johnson of Minnesota for the Democratic presidential nomination and recommending that he be chosen by the national convention at Denver next July. As the meeting of the committee was presided over by Frank C. Day, private secretary to the governor, and as Day voted for the Johnson resolution on every test and on the final ballot, the action of the committee is considered by political leaders as entering the governor formally for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Johnson resolution was carried by a vote of 68 to 23, after Bryan's adherents had forced two test votes, on both of which they were defeated. The Bryan men insisted on a rollcall on every vote and gave notice in their speeches on the original resolution that they would not be bound by the action of the committee, but would make a fight throughout the state for a delegation from Minnesota to the national convention instructed for Bryan.

Moreover, a meeting of Bryan's supporters, held at a hotel immediately after the adjournment of the state committee, formed a Bryan organization, which proposes to carry the contest against Johnson into every precinct of the state.

Anti-Pledge Headquarters Opened

Boston, March 7.—The contest in the Massachusetts Republican party ranks between the pledged Taft delegation and the unpledged was formally begun yesterday with the opening of the headquarters in this city for those favoring the latter course. The Taft-pledged delegation has had headquarters in operation for about two weeks. Both headquarters are scenes of considerable activity.

Part of Big Bridge Gone

Toledo, March 7.—The big steel steamer Yuma was torn from her moorings by the rush of ice and water in the Maumee river and dashed against the bridge connecting the two sections of the city, tearing out a span and carrying it into the river. The bridge is the main artery connecting the East and West Sides of the city and was used by street cars as well as vehicles and foot passengers. It is 1200 feet long.

Vidaver Hearing Unfinished

New York, March 7.—The hearing in the case of William Vidaver, formerly a special deputy attorney general, who is accused of having attempted to extort $500 from former President Montgomery of the Hamilton bank, was begun late yesterday. The whole session of the police court was taken up by the examination of Montgomery. At its conclusion adjournment was taken until next Wednesday.

No Pardon For Heinze

Helena, Mont., March 7.—Because counsel for F. A. Heinze had received no reply from President Roosevelt regarding a pardon in connection with a fine of $20,000 imposed upon Heinze for contempt during his copper war with the Amalgamated Copper company, Federal Judge Hunt has granted ten days more in which to deposit the fine money. Counsel asked for an extension of sixty days.

Falls Back on Pennypacker

Harrisburg, March 7.—The sixth week of the capitol trial closed when Lyman D. Gilbert finished a nine and a half hours' speech in summing up on behalf of ex-State Treasurer Mathues and ex-Auditor General Snyder. He contended that they had done nothing except what had been done by ex-Governor Pennypacker. An effort will be made to get the case into the hands of the jury next week.

Czar Will Spare Stoessel's Life

St. Petersburg, March 7.—The verdict in the case of Lieutenant General Stoessel, who was recently sentenced to death by a court martial for the surrender of the Port Arthur fortress to the Japanese, was formally pronounced yesterday. It is regarded as almost certain, however, that Emperor Nicholas will accept the recommendation of the court that the sentence be commuted.

Needs of Harbor of Refuge

Washington, March 7.—It was agreed at yesterday's cabinet session that the war department, treasury department and department of commerce and labor should join in a recommendation to congress for an appropriation for a life-saving station for the harbor of refuge at Point Judith, R. I., and for a lighthouse to mark the entrance of that harbor.

Gotch Beaten In Handicap Match

New York, March 7.—Frank Gotch, the champion American wrestler, last night lost a handicap match to Joe Rogers, being able to throw Rogers but twice, the rules governing the contest requiring that he should down Rogers five times within an hour. The men wrestled catch-as-catch-can style.

EDITORIAL.

It was quite evident to those present at Friday night's grade crossing meeting that the meeting had been packed in the interest of land speculators. As a result the meeting was a most unsatisfactory one. Many of the plans make the abolition of the grade crossings a minor consideration, and look more to the development of land.

The special commission when it considers the problem is not going to build new streets, but will confine itself to the question of abolishing the grades.

Many public meetings have been held with the result that instead of reaching any conclusion they are not as near being united on one plan as they were the first meeting held.

All of the schemes presented have some merit, but unless the citizens can get down to business, Punch and Judy shows like that of Friday night will continue.

The Mardi Gras.

A kind friend in New Orleans has sent the city editor of the Daily Ledger copies of the carnival editions of The Picayune for the Mardi Gras,—the Rex number, the Comus number, the Proteus number, and the Monus number. Two of these are posted in the show window at the Daily Ledger office, and are attracting considerable attention. The different floats are prettily illustrated in colors and give some idea of the extent of these carnivals. Descriptive matter accompanies the floats. A copy of the New Orleans Morning World of March 3 has also been received with an extended report of the social events.

Club Entertained.

The members of the San Soucci Dramatic club and their friends were entertained last evening by the John Adams court, No. 144, Foresters of America, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Troupe, Plymouth street, South Quincy.

The early portion of the evening was confined to games and singing. E. J. Collins rendered several solos receiving encores. Dancing followed until a late hour. Music being furnished by The West Quincy Musical Club orchestra. Refreshments were served by the committee.

Among those present were: E. J. Collins, Margarett A. Craig, Helen C. Troupe, Fred G. Malcolm, Herbert J. Dickie, Louisa C. Driscoll, William Lynch, Jennie G. Grassick, Anna R. Giles, Lewis M. Hollingsworth, George T. Craig, Mrs. John Cappaccioli, Mr. John Cappaccioli, Margaret J. Hall, Gertrude Kemp, Glenie Jenkins, Ruth Kemp, Georgiana Michael, Alice Joss, Donald Grassick, James C. Michael, Margaret Michael, A. J. M. Cowe, Jr., Samuel DeForest, William Troupe, J. Q. Giles, Joseph Fay.

Salvation Army Work.

Carl E. Carlson, the captain of the Salvation Army in Quincy writes to the Daily Ledger saying:

It has come to our notice that some soliciting of funds for Salvation Army work outside of Quincy is carried on in this city by persons not authorized to do so. The Salvation Army in Quincy, with headquarters on Granite street, asks for the hearty cooperation of the citizens of Quincy, to enable them to carry on their work here. They see needy Quincy cases that come day after day to their notice and hope to receive local contributions to help carry on the work here.

Boutelle—Pierce.

On Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Geo. Rendall Boutelle of Milford, N. H., and Miss Lydia L. Pierce of Quincy were quietly married at the home of the bride on Centre street. Dr. Edwin N. Hardy of Bethany church officiated Mr. Boutelle is a widely known and prominent citixzen of Milford, serving the town as assistant postmaster. Miss Pierce has a large circle of friends who greatly regret her departure from the city but wish her all joy in her New Hampshire home.

KING'S DAUGHTERS.

Forty-three members of Whatsoever circle King's Daughters gathered at the home of their leader for their annual meeting. At this meeting the circle welcomed four guests; among them Mrs. Fenno acting treasurer of Pond Home and Mrs. Sawtelle president of the same corporation.

The report of the secretary for the year showed an increase in membership of thirteen, eleven of whom were welcomed with the use of the impressive admission service by Mrs. Sawtelle, and the presentation of the little maltese cross the emblem of the order by the leader, Mrs. Stevens. The total membership is now 57.

In order to do systematized work the circle is divided into five committees, namely: Finance, investigating, friendship, devotional and sewing. The members of these committees are appointed by the leader immediately after the annual meeting.

The sum of $363.57 has passed through the treasurer's hand during the year, with a goodly balance in the bank for further use.

Mrs. Sawtelle gave a pleasing talk on the dedication of the new wing of the Pond Home, in which all are so much interested, and of the reception of the eight new members into the home; and of their brave efforts to be cheerful and thankful for the place of rest provided for them by loving hands.

Our work lies along the same lines as that of other circles. We aim to help those who are ailing, not only in body, but in spirit, and endeavor always to lend a hand for the help of those afflicted in any way.

The officers for 1908 are:

Leader, Mrs. H. A. Stevens.

First Vice Leader, Mrs. J. I. Litchfield.

Second Vice Leader, Mrs. W. H. Whitney.

Secretary, Mrs. Alice Prescott Saxe.

Treasurer, Miss Edith F. Perry.

There was no special entertainment, but ice cream and cake were served, and a pleasant social hour enjoyed, after the business of the evening was ended.

Mayor's Committee Formulate Plan

A meeting of the Mayor's committee on grade crossings, consisting of representatives from the Board of Trade, Granite Manufacturers' Association and Central Labor Union, was held in the Mayor's office last evening after the public meeting.

At this meeting it was decided what plan of action the city shall take at the hearing before the special Commission on Monday.

City Solicitor McAnarney will represent the city at the hearing and express the views and conclusions reached by this committee.

Remonstrance From Organized Labor

The Central Labor Union of Quincy has adopted resolutions remonstrating against any award of sub contract for the Federal building at Quincy to the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, because of its attitude toward organized labor. Copies of the resolution will be sent to members of Congress, and efforts will also be made to secure the cooperation of the American Federation of Labor and other bodies.

Another resolve adopted reads as follows: "That the legislative committee of this Central Labor Union is hereby instructed to interview the Mayor and Commissioner of Public Works to secure the building of the new Coddington school house under union conditions, and if there is to be an inspector appointed for this work that he be a member of organized labor."

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

The following editorial in the Boston Daily Advertiser of March 4th is of interest to Ledger readers:

"The revelations made by the finance commission as to the cost of the municipal stone-crushing plants recalls some other experiments made by Boston, in former decade, along the lines of "public ownership" or "public operation." Many city employees can remember when Boston maintained a municipal ice plant, with the result that the ice cut from the city reservoirs by city workmen and stored in buildings owned by the city, cost about $70 a ton, while ice could be purchased at retail, near-by, at $6 a ton. The stone crushing plant was going at that time, but in some way the politicians managed to avert the order abolishing it, with the other municipal plants. And the result is that in little over a decade, the city has lost very nearly $1,000,000.

Shortly prior to the opening of the city campaign, a friend of the reform movement, commenting upon an editorial in these columns, objected to the statement that "businesslike methods in Boston affairs would save the taxpayers millions," simply as an extravagant statement. It would probably be possible, said this friendly critic, to prevent the loss of thousands, and tens of thousands, by rigid economy. But it could not be possible that millions had been lost to the city of Boston without such an emphatic and insistent protest from the taxpayers as would result in a complete overturn in the city government. Yet the facts were as stated. The city of Boston in a decade has lost not merely one million, but several millions through slipshod methods of municipal administration. Comparatively little of this money has been lost in ways that can be called "stealing," in the legal sense of that term. It has been lost through the usual method of "public ownership" and "public operation."

In the very nature of things, as probably most members of the finance commission will admit, public ownership and operation of any municipal work must cost more than private ownership and operation. There are reasons why some branches of public work should be kept under public administration. The supply of water the administration of the school system, the carriage or delivery of mails, these are things that probably could be done by private enterprise more cheaply than the government (local or state or federal) now administers them. But there is a margin, beyond which the excess of cost grows inevcusable and imprudent.

Mayor Hibbard will soon have before him another problem of municipal administration, in the city sewer department. We do not believe that the finance commission has yet said all it has to say, in this matter. It has probed deep, but it is likely to go still deeper into the haphazard and senseless administration of that branch of city work. And it may easily come to pass that Mayor Hibbard will have to consider seriously whether it would not be more prudent, more economical, to put a few inspectors in charge of the supervision of work, letting practically all future sewer construction out to contractors, after a definite plan of operations devised by a competent engineer. It would at least be the simplest way to stop the extravagance and waste of the past, the blunders and the lax methods of operation of a department which has been spending millions of the city's money with no definite sewer system to show, even today, as a result."

We have the stock, tools, machinery, and "know how" to do your Optical work promptly and satisfactory. We repair the frames, grind lenses, match the broken ones or test the eye. C. F. Pettengill, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy.

Just Jotted Down By Ledger Men

Annual parish meeting of First church is to be held on Monday evening at eight o'clock in the chapel warrants for which have been posted in the church vestibule.

The kind hand that placed those beautiful growing hyacinths in the windows at the Quincy station has given pleasure to many people as they are attractive whether viewed from the inside or outside. These little thoughtful acts are far reaching and appreciated.

The regular monthly meeting of the Junior Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. will be held in the Association building Saturday, March 14, at 3 P. M. Plans are to be considered for the entertainment of the society the last of this month or the first of next. It is hoped that every member will be present.

Mr. Taylor, principal of the Wollaston schools, has arranged with Mr. Kellogg, the "Bird Man," to lecture at the Baptist church, Wollaston, on Wednesday, March 18, for the benefit of the school children. The children's lecture will be at four in the afternoon, and the admission will be 15 cents. A second lecture will be given in the evening at 8, and is for both old and young, with an admission fee of 25 cents. Mr. Kellogg has lectured widely in the schools about Boston, and is a fascinating talker. His moving pictures of animals and birds are rarely beautiful. Tickets will be sold by the children.

The Mothers' Association held its opening meeting of the year 1908, Thursday, March 5, with a large attendance. After the reading of the constitution by the president a short business meeting was held and an annual report read. Mr. E. E. Craig had charge of the devotional exercises taking for the subject, "Mother's Influence" and presenting it in an exceedingly interesting manner. Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick gave a talk on "Mothers and Sons" and it was the finest paper the "Mothers' Association" has had the pelasure of hearing as she handled the subject in a ——terly way. Miss Helen V. Drinkwater of Braintree, soprano soloist of All Souls church, sang very delightfully two solos during the afternoon. A social hour was enjoyed at the close of the meeting, Mrs. E. W. Sheppard serving refreshments.

Musical Service At Bethany Church

Madame Morey, musical director of Bethany church, has prepared an exceedingly interesting musical program for the service Sunday evening. A chorus of twenty-five voices will be assisted by Mrs. Emma S. Moore, soprano; Miss Mary L. Knapp, alto; and Mr. Frederick S. Hall, tenor. Mr. Hall is an exceptionally fine violinist and will sing his solo parts with autoharp accompaniment. The service includes the following selections:

Organ prelude.
Violin solo, "Romanza," Goltermann
Anthem, "Lord, God Almighty," Verdi
Trio, "I will lay me down," Brown
Solo, with autoharp accompaniment, "The Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."
Trio, "Waves of the Sea," Anderton
Solo, "Commit thy way O Pilgrim, from Bach's Passion music, with autoharp accompaniment.
Anthem, "From Egypt's Bondage Free," Page
Postlude, Guilmant

THE PHILERGIANS.

The program for the afternoon of March 3 was composed entirely of home talent and proved exceedingly interesting and instructive. The subject was Jamestown and it consisted of a paper on "The Lost Colony of the Roanoke," telling of the mysterious disappearance of those early settlers and the finding of Indians among the mountains with gray eyes, a language with some points of similarity to old English, and claiming descent from a woman whom they called the "White Doe" presumably the the lost Virginia Dare. This was given by Miss Blanche Dole, one of the High school corps of teachers.

Mrs. William Gallagher gave a clear and comprehensive account of the early history of the settlement of Jamestown and Virginia, which showed much study and thought.

The old, yet ever interesting story of John Smith and Pocohontas was pleasingly told by Miss Helen Bates, and Mrs. John C. Anthony gave a vivid picture of the landing of the maids, sent over to become the wives of the early settlers of Jamestown. The last paper was a brief account of what was attempted in the recent Jamestown Exposition.

The club quartet consisting of Mrs. Haskell, Mrs. Avery, Mrs. Wallis and Miss Elinor Shaw, with Mrs. Wales accompanist, gave two numbers, "A Southern Lullaby" and "The Chimes," while Mrs. Haskell was heard in a pleasing solo, "Believe Me, those Endearing Charms." The afternoon showed what talent is lying unused among Braintree women.

No Vote Reached On Plans

Quincy Divided On Depressing Or Elevating Tracks At Water Street

There was not seating capacity sufficient for the large attendance last evening at the public meeting on plans for abolition of the grade crossings at Saville street and Water street. Again the citizens were unable to get together; in fact the house was nearly equally divided as one of the votes stood 69 to 64.

County Commissioner J. F. Merrill presided and Assessor W. W. Adams was secretary.

A new plan for Saville street was first shown and explained by Commissioner Bainbridge. Beginning near Saville street it pushes the railroad to the west, so that at Granite street it is about 100 west. Saville street is carried over the railroad and Granite street beneath. Upland road is continued on new lines back of the houses on Irving place and crosses Goffe street in the rear of Anderson house to the junction of Whitwell street. There was also a new street on the east side of the tracks from Granite to School street, and a street from this street under the railroad to Fort square, to take the place of School street.

G. B. Bates asked several questions and concluded it was a building movers scheme. Thought it also a plan to buy the present roadbed of the railroad at considerable cost.

Andrew Milne also asked questions and opposed the closing of School street, and the elevation of the tracks over Water street.

In reply to T. L. Williams, the Commissioner said plan would not discontinue any of the freight facilities.

In reply to G. B. Bates he said railroad might be 20 feet above meadow near brook.

Mr. Bates then brought out the fact that F. B. Rice owned three acres west of the tracks, and was inquiring about the owners on the east side when objections were raised.

Mr. Bates though meeting was getting far away from Water and Saville streets, and that real estate schemes were being suggestd.

Fred B. Rice admitted he was the owner of land, but said the plan was not his. Nevertheless he believed it the best plan. The railroad was required to maintain a way beneath the tracks near Town brook. Some day there should be a level street from Water street to Hancock street near Kincaides's store. We should consider all plans.

John McDonnell thought it strange, very strange, for different people to provide plans. The Engineer's department should make one for the city.

E. H. Angier believed the Cavanagh plan with few exceptions a model of the railroad plan which was very unsatisfactory. The plan of the Commissioner for depressing was all right. The curve could be flattened under both plans.

This led to a wrangle in which hot shot was fired by Mr. Angier, Mr. Cavanagh and Mr. Bates.

Mr. Angier claimed Mr. Cavanagh had not shown one good feature about his plan, and Mr. Cavanagh claimed that a 6 per cent grade all the way on Saville street from Hancock to Goffe street, was better than grades of 4 and 8 per cent; one on the east, the other on the west.

Another discussion was started when Mr. Angier moved "that the sense of this meeting be that the Cavanagh plan is unsatisfactory, and should not be considered."

Mr. Swithin moved to amend, by laying on the table and consider Water street.

Mr. Bates asked for a division of the house.

J. W. Pratt did not believe we were here to relocate streets, and said time enough had been fooled away on this plan.

E. J. Parker raised the point of order, that Mr. Pratt was out of order, but the chair ruled the point not well taken.

Herman F. McIntire wanted to see how Water street would work out.

The amendment of Mr. Swithin to lay the Angier motion on the table was put and lost.

The vote was doubted.

A rising vote was then taken and the amendment was declared lost, 64 voting yes and 69 no.

W. R. Thomas believed some had been counted twice and E. J. Parker called for a division of the house.

J. L. Miller objected as it was unparlimentary, but the chair ruled the motion in order.

J. W. Pratt appealed from the ruling of the chair, but was not sustained.

At this point Mr. Angier said he did not want to stand in the way of any plan and hoped the amendment would be voted.

The motion to lay on the table was then voted.

DEBATE LIMITED.

Ex-Mayor Thompson thought some conclusion reached, and the moved that votes be taken at 10.15.

J. T. Cavanagh thought that impossible, and favored asking the commission to postpone hearing.

Mr. Thompson did not believe we would be any nearer agreeing a month from now.

The motion to decide the question tonight was then voted.

Mr. Thompson then moved the time for discussion close at 10.15 no person to be allowed more than 10 minutes.

Henry McGrath amended by limiting each person to five minutes Adopted.

John Q. A. Field believed every person who had a plan should present it to the commission. He had a plan, and proposed to present it.

After some further talk it was voted to take up Water street.

The Board of Trade plan published in Friday's Ledger was the first shown and it was explained by Commissioner Bainbridge. A number of questions were asked about the plan and there was considerable discussion.

W. R. Thomas thought there was no necessity of widening Water street and that the railroad would not pay for it.

T. L. Williams said he did not expect they would. This was a growing section and the widening could be done to advantage at this time.

The discussion on this plan brought out no additional facts.

Henry McGrath said the railroad plan was opposed at first on account of the monster bridge it proposed. In this plan that monster bridge has been moved to Water street and there is to be nothing but grades.

E. J. Parker was curious to know how it was this plan was favored, when the special committee reported in favor of leaving Water street as it was. He considered the building of the new freight yard as a railroad bait, and that the bait seems to have been swallowed hook and all.

After some further discussion the Granite Manufacturers' plan was shown and the difference between that and the Board of Trade plan explained.

The plan for raising the tracks which does away with School street was then shown and discussed.

The time for debate had now expired but a motion was made to extend it half an hour and was voted.

EMINENT ENGINEER.

George H. Brown wanted to test the meeting and he moved that the sense of the meeting be that the Mayor request the Commission to extend the time for the hearing at least one month, and that an eminent engineer be employed to pass on these plans.

The latter part of the motion brought out a howl of protest.

Mr. Field said it would cost $1,500, and that the railroad and commissioners had the best of engineers.

Gilbert M. Miller thought this would be an insult to Commissioner Bainbridge.

R R 11

It was voted to divide the motion.

The motion to ask for an extension of time for the hearing was then voted.

The second part of the motion was then taken up.

Mayor Shea said he had no funds to employ expert engineers. If that vote passed, the City Council should be asked to provide the money.

Joseph L. Whiton, Jr., thought the motion out of order, but the chairman ruled otherwise.

The motion to employ an eniment engineer was put and was voted down by an overwhelming vote.

CAVANAGH PLAN.

The time limit for debate had now expired again and the Cavanagh plan had not been seen. A motion to extend the time fifteen minutes was voted.

The Cavanagh plan raising the tracks over Water street was then thrown on the screen and explained. This plan was similar to the other plan shown that raised the tracks and closed up School street.

This plan caused considerable discussion. It then lacked but a few minutes of 11 o'clock and there was no prospect of agreeing.

A motion was made to adjourn until Saturday night. This was amended so as to be to adjourn subject to the call of the Mayor. The amendment prevailed.

Master Joe Beal of Tremont street takes part in the entertainment on Wednesday evening, held at the East Braintree Methodist church.

There will be a public meeting of the Jonas Perkins School Association in the Jonas Perkins school hall on Thursday evening, March 12th, at 8 o'clock, when Dr. Henry L. Dearing of Braintree will deliver an address on "The physician's present relation and duty to the public." This to be followed by a social hour during which refreshments will be served. Good music. All interested are cordially invited to be present.

Dr. R. F. Burleigh was called to Franklin, N. H., the latter part of the week to attend the funeral of his brother's wife, Mrs. Henry Burleigh.

"Summer Boarders" the farce drama of two acts, presented by the Monatiquot Dramatic Club, Thursday evening at K. of P. hall was a hummer in every sense of the word. The hall was crowded to the limit ,and by the laughter and clapping, it was evident every one enjoyed themselves. The leading principles in this drama would be hard to select.

The Men's club of the South M. E. church will hold their regular meeting in the church Friday evening, March 13. Supper will be served at 6.30 for members and guests, after which the meeting will be adjourned to the vestry. The program for the evening will be an address by Mr. Robert Lincoln O'Brien, editor -in-chief of the Boston Transcript upon "How the President is Elected."

BRITAIN STIRRED UP

Emperor William and Tweedmouth Guilty of Indiscretion

NAVAL MINISTER EXPLAINS

Only Serves to Stimulate Curiosity and Criticism--Strong Demand For Publication of Correspondence--The Famous Telegram to Kruger

London, March 7.—An outburst of anger against Emperor William by the British public, equalling that caused by the German emperor's famous telegram to President Kruger in 1896, after the defeat of the Jameson raiders, has followed the announcement made by The Times that Emperor William attempted to influence the British naval policy by a secret correspondence with Lord Tweedmouth, first lord of the admiralty.

The Germanophobe party, which never was stronger than now, immediately jumped to the conclusion that Emperor William was trying to meddle in the most vital matter in Great Britain's national interests by underhand methods. The matter was considered so serious that Lord Tweedmouth broke his customary reticence and hastened to say: "The letter from the German emperor is purely a personal communication and there is no reference in it to British naval estimates."

Lord Tweedmouth visited the house of commons yesterday afternoon and conferred with the Liberal leaders. The cabinet met afterward. It had been announced at first that Chancellor of the Exchequer Asquith would make a statement concerning the matter next Monday, but the public was so excited and so many members of parliament had given notice that they would ask questions in the lower house about the correspondence that the cabinet decided something must be done at once. Asquith appeared, therefore, in the house of commons and made a brief statement to a crowded house, elaborating, amid profound silence, Tweedmouth's explanation that the correspondence was purely personal.

"It is a fact," declared the chancellor, "that on Feb. 18 Lord Tweedmouth received a letter from the German emperor. It was a purely personal and private communication, conceived in an entirely friendly spirit. My noble friend's answer was equally private and informal, and neither the letter nor its answer was known or communicated to the cabinet. I may add that before the letter arrived the cabinet had come to its final decision with regard to the naval estimates for this year."

These explanations only stimulate curiosity and criticism, and a strong demand is heard everywhere for the publication of both letters. Nothing else will satisfy the British public, and probably this will be done eventually.

The only inklings regarding Emperor William's letter which have leaked from the inner circle are that it was an attempt to refute frequent assertions in leading English newspapers that the German naval program was animated wholly by hostility to Great Britain. If this proves to be the true version of the incident the whole sensation may collapse as quickly as it grew, but if the letter was of the nature suggested by The Times it will be equally as damaging to the government to publish or withhold it, unless Tweedmouth should be repudiated and thrown overboard.

That both Emperor William and Lord Tweedmouth have been guilty of a serious indiscretion there is but one opinion, and even newspapers friendly to the government remind Tweedmouth that it was his duty to submit such a communication to the cabinet. Tweedmouth is seriously taken to task for allowing the contents of the letter to become known.

The present position of the affair embarrasses the government immensely and brings a shower of criticism upon Tweedmouth. It would be a delicate matter to ask Emperor William's permission to publish a private letter, and he may voluntarily authorize that this be done.

If the relations between Great Britain and Germany were not so strained the action in writing the letter would be considered nearly a technical mistake or an informality. But Germany is a bugbear to a large proportion of the British people, who firmly believe she is deliberately planning war and is trying to soothe British suspicions until she is ready. Nothing could be more inflammatory than to charge the emperor with trying to undermine the British strength by seducing her naval minister from the policy for a big navy.

Emperor William has tried hard lately to gain English friendship by paying a visit to England and other advances, but the Germanophobes refuse to believe these overtures were made in good faith. He is a profuse and impulsive letter writer, and is said to have written to other British ministers previously to addressing Tweedmouth.

The government is in an awkward position now to handle any critical international question, because King Edward is on the continent and Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the prime minister, is too ill to be consulted on official matters.

The telegram of Emperor William to President Kruger, referred to in the above dispatch, related to the suppression by the Boers of Jameson's raid. It said:

"I express my sincere congratulations that, supported by your people and without appealing for help to friendly powers, you have succeeded by your own energetic action against the armed bands which invaded your country as disturbers of the peace, and have thus been enabled to restore peace and safeguard the independence of your country against attacks from without."

To this President Kruger replied:

"I testify to your majesty my very deep and htartfelt thanks for your majesty's sincere congratulations. With God's help we hope to do everything further that it is possible to do for the holding of our dearly bought independence and the stability of our beloved republic."

Special Favors Granted Convict

Wheeling, March 7.—August W. Machen, the former official of the post-office department at Washington, was released from the West Virginia penitentiary yesterday and left for his home in Washington. He succeeded in evading Washington newspaper men who had been at Moundsville two days awaiting his release. During his term Machen was chief accountant of the prison and was given unusual privileges. He frequently came to Wheeling theatres and parks.

Hughes on Railroad Regulation

New York, March 7.—That the people are determined that there shall be adequate regulation of the railroads, but that they are sincere in their avowed wish that such regulation shall be just, was the belief expressed by Governor Hughes in an address before the Traffic club last night. The governor was a guest at dinner of the club, which also entertained the heads and other officials of many railroad corporations.

Signs of Business Improvement

New York, March 7.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that favorable symptoms are more numerous in the commercial outlook, especially in respect to the growth of confidence. Jobbers note more pressure to replenish depleted stocks of staple merchandise, orders in many cases being for delivery next fall. This disposition to provide beyond immediate needs is a very good sign.

Mayoralty Ouster Contest

Albany, March 7.—The ballot boxes containing the votes cast in the contested McClellan-Hearst mayoralty election in November, 1905, may be opened, provided the assailants of Mayor McClellan's title to office can show that they have not been tampered with since the election. This is the gist of a decision handed down by the court of appeals, which was divided, four to three.

Burns Grows In Estimation

London, March 7.—The high place that John Burns, president of the local government board, has assumed in the estimation of the public is illustrated by the fact that The Spectator, a most conservative weekly newspaper, seriously suggests him for the chancellorship of the exchequer, in the event of Asquith becoming premier and finding it necessary to resign the chancellorship.

Troops Leave Goldfield Today

Washington, March 7.—The United States troops, which were ordered to Goldfield, Nev., to prevent possible mining riots three months ago, will break camp today and return to their stations at the Presidio and Monterey, Cal. Nothing is known officially at the war department of the preparedness of the state to take over the responsibility of preserving order.

American Concessions Safe

Brussels, March 7.—A member of the government made the following statement last night: "It is natural for Belgium to respect the concessions of American companies in the Congo, as they were granted long before the negotiations for annexation were begun. Objections to these concessions, therefore, have no foundations upon which to rest.

Railroad Will Have 7500 Men Idle

St. Louis, March 7.—Announcement is made by the Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain railway system that after March 10 the services of 2000 men employed in the company's shops here will no longer be required. With these additional dismissals the total number of idle employes of the system will reach 7500.

A Million to Fix Up Warships

Philadelphia, March 7.—A board of surveyors, acting under orders from the navy department, after inspecting the government battleships and cruisers at League Island, said they would recommend an appropriation of $1,000,000 to be expended on the war vessels to bring them up to date.

The Mayflower's Mishap

Washington, March 7.—An investigation under naval auspices will be conducted into the cause and the responsibility for the grounding of the yacht Mayflower in Chesapeake bay last Thursday night. Further proceedings will depend upon the results developed by the inquiry.

Rumor False "For the Moment"

Lisbon, March 7.—A statement issued late last night says: For the moment there is no foundation for the rumors in circulation that arrangements are being made for the marriage of King Manuel to Princess Victoria of Germany.

The Snow People.

[Original.]

A blizzard on the plains—I have seen one; I never wish to see another. All day that terrible whirl of snow. If it had ceased occasionally to give the brain a rest, it would not have been so hard to bear, but it never ceased. We saw only ourselves; there was nothing else to see but the boundless plain, and that was shut from our vision by the storm, having wagons, tents and the wherewithal to make hot coffee, and should have considered ourselves well off. We would have been had it not been for that terrible, never ceasing whirl.

The next morning the storm abated, and we moved on. About noon we came upon a sight to freeze the marrow in our bones—six heaps of snow, a body underneath each, the remains of a campfire in the center. We brushed the snow from the heaps and uncovered five men and a woman. The woman was wrapped in all the blankets that the party had possessed. I put a pocket mirror to the mouth of each person, and the woman alone responded, showing a faint film on the glass. We poured whisky down her throat and chafed her. She opened her eyes and in a short time could speak to us, but we waited till the next day for her story:

"We had horses and a wagon. I don't know where the horses are now. When we saw the storm coming we thought the first thing to do was to get firewood, but since there was none we broke up the wagon.

"I don't remember much of what happened. All I know is that now and again my husband came to me with a blanket. I closed my eyes to shut out the whirling snow that was making my brain sick, but they wouldn't let me keep them closed. They kept shaking me to keep me awake. I saw them putting on the fire the pieces of the wagon, but they used them sparingly.

"Presently I saw a flock of white wolves circling around us, and it seemed that the men were keeping up the fire to prevent their closing in and devouring us. Occasionally one of the men would seize a firebrand and hurl it at a wolf. They were circling, always circling, to tire our brains. I closed my eyes again, and when I opened them the wolves were gone, but something far more terrible had taken their places. Snow people were whirling where the wolves had whirled. Oh, how cold they looked out of their dreadful eyes! They instead of the wolves were now trying to tire us.

"Every now and again one of the snow people would try to seize one of our men, but he would take up a firebrand, and that was enough. The snow man would withdraw. I saw one of our men stagger away from the fire. A snow woman took him and pressed her lips tight to his. Then she opened her arms, and he fell frozen stiff.

"After that the snow people circled nearer. I saw our men come and stand around me. You may think it was to protect me from the wind and the drift. No; it was to keep off the snow people. I was sitting by the fire, so that the men inclosed both me and the fire. I fancied the snow people wanted me, for they were all looking at me out of their icy eyes and beckoning to me. There were four of our men around me, and each seized a firebrand and advanced a few paces back to back. The snow people could not stand the heat of the brands and fled with a shriek.

"So wild, so weird, so terrible, was the shriek that I closed my eyes and put my hands to my ears. When I looked again the men had lowered the brands, and the snow people were whirling more frantic than ever.

"A horrible old snow hag beckoned to one of the men, leering at him. He went toward her. She seized him, and I saw him whirled off up into the sky. Another woman sang a beautiful song—no such heavenly melody have I ever heard—fixing her eyes on one of the men who were left. He, too, succumbed and went toward her. She folded him in an embrace, and I saw that he had been frozen. Another of our men went a short distance from the fire to bring some spokes to burn. A snow man seized him, touched his heart with his icy finger, and he fell, like the rest, without bending a joint.

"From this time the snow people seemed changed. They were no longer horrible. They were beautiful. The men's apparel seemed to glisten like icicles in the sun; the women's dresses trailed far behind them, each a myriad of snowflakes. I saw now only one of our men. He came to me and threw a blanket over me. He was my husband. Then he stooped and kissed me. I saw him soon after, standing by the fire, which was now nearly out. The snow people were watching it, and I knew that when the last ember died the end would come. Nearer they came till I could feel their breaths on my face, though it seemed to me that I had been in a fever and they were cooling me. Then I saw them gather around my husband, and he fell into their arms.

"This is all I remember till I felt something warm in my throat and, opening my eyes, I saw you people standing over me."

It was plain that we had snatched the woman from death by freezing. We took her with us and eventually gave her up to her friends. Whether her brain recovered from the effects of her dreadful experience I have never learned.

The Scrap Book

Interpreting a Prescription.

A lady one day in July visited her physician.

"Madam," said the physician, "you are only a little run down. You need frequent baths and plenty of fresh air, and I advise you to dress in the coolest, most comfortable clothes—nothing stiff or formal."

When she got home her husband asked what the physician had said.

"He said I must go to the seashore, do plenty of automobiling and get some new summer gowns."

THE PENALTY.

Pleasure has bounds. Too greedily pursued
Enjoyment ceases and disgust ensues.
Thus, at first glance, some recent painting viewed,
The verdant landscape smiles in all its brightest hues,
But stand and gaze awhile, and by degrees
The eye grows tired, the colors cease to please;
Its beauties vanish, and its faults arise;
You think of other times and criticise.
—Secundus.

Where She Was Needed.

At a Sunday school convention at Louisville, Ky., in answer to the roll call of states reports were verbally given by the various state chairmen. When the Lone Star State was called a brawny specimen of southern manhood stepped out into the aisle and with strident voice exclaimed: "We represent the great state of Texas. The first white woman born in Texas is still living. She now has a population of over 3,000,000."

There was a pause for a moment, and then a voice from the gallery rang out clear and distinct:

"Send that woman to Wyoming. We need her."—Everybody's.

He Should Learn to Sew.

"My husband annoys me very much," said the clubwoman. "He is so slipshod. His buttons are forever coming off."

"Perhaps," said an old fashioned woman gently, "they are not sewed on properly in the first place."

"That's just it. My husband is one of the most careless sewers I ever saw."

The Burglar's Meal.

Charles Lamb was awakened early one morning by a noise in his kitchen and on going downstairs found a burglar doing his spoons up in a bundle.

"Why d-do you s-s-st-t-teal?" he asked.

"Because I'm starving," returned the housebreaker sullenly.

"Pup-pup-poor fuf-fuf-fellow!" said the essayist. "H-here's a l-l-leg of L-L-Lamb for you."

And, with a dexterous movement of his right leg, he ejected the marauder into the street and, locking the door securely, went back to bed.

Riding a Chautauqua.

The citizens of a thriving town of about 6,000 people arranged for a Chautauqua assembly. They held the meetings in a big tent about a mile from the town, and the attendance was large from the first day. An enterprising circus man landed in the town on the second day of the Chautauqua with a steam merry-go-round, which he located about halfway between the town and the Chautauqua grounds.

Along in the afternoon a young man from the country districts was accosted by a citizen of the town.

"Well, Ezry, I suppose you are in to the Chautauqua?"

"I shore am. Jist come from thar now."

"How'd you like it?"

"Fine ez a fiddle! I rode on the durn thing nine times!"—Lippincott's.

The Thoughtful Employer.

"Are you aware, sir," said the faithful bookkeeper, "that today is the fortieth anniversary of my service with you?"

The employer took a square box neatly wrapped in white paper from his desk.

"I know it, Mr. Quille," he said, "and I have prepared a little surprise for you. Pray accept this alarm clock, with my best wishes for your continued punctuality."

He Couldn't Oblige.

Curate's Wife (given to nerves)—Hoppitt, would you mind seeing me as far as my house? The lane is so dark.

Cherry Clodhopper—Well, I'd rather not, mum. I promised my young woman I'd chuck that all up.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Took No Chances.

A Scotch farmer went to town to have a tooth extracted.

"I would advise you to have it out by the painless system. It is only a shilling extra," said the dentist.

He showed the apparatus for administering gas, remarking that it would cause him to fall asleep, and before he awoke the tooth would be out.

After reluctantly consenting, the customer proceeded to open his purse.

"Oh, never mind paying now!"

"Hoots! I wasna thinkin' o' thot, but if I'm gaen tae sleep I thocht I wa like to coont ma siller first."

Toasting a Deaf Miser.

A deaf man—let us call him Brown—was disposed to stinginess and to getting every dollar he could out of everybody and everything. He never married, but he was very fond of society. So one day he felt compelled to give a banquet to the many ladies and gentlemen whose guest he had been.

They were amazed that his purse strings had been unloosed so far, and they thought he deserved encouragement, so it was arranged that he should be toasted. One of the most daring young men of the company was selected, for it took nerve to propose a toast to so unpopular a man. But the young man rose, and Brown, who had been notified of what was to occur, fixed his face in the customary manner of a man about to be toasted. And this is what was heard by every one except Brown, who never heard anything that was not roared into his ear:

"Here's to you, Miser Brown. You are no better than a tramp, and it is suspected that you got most of your money dishonestly. We trust that you may get your just deserts yet and land in the penitentiary."

Visible evidences of applause made Brown smile with gratification. He got upon his feet, raised his glass to his lips and said, "The same to you, sir."

Did He See the Point?

A young woman of the official set in Washington at a public function found herself bored by the attentions of a fresh young man, the son of a senator.

Soon after his introduction he proceeded to regale her with a story of some adventure in which he had figured as hero.

"Did you really do that?" she asked, not knowing what else to say.

"I done it!" was the proud response, and he began forthwith another lengthy narrative, more startling even than the first. The young woman again politely expressed her surprise.

"Yes," said the hero, "that's what I done!"

A third story followed, with another "I done it!" whereupon the girl remarked:

"Do you know, you remind me so strongly of Banquo's ghost in the play?"

"Why?"

"Don't you remember that Macbeth said to the ghost, 'Thou canst not say I did it!'"—Lippincott's.

Men Don't Change.

Dad (severely)—And look here, Ethel, you mustn't encourage that young man to stay so late every night. It's disgraceful. What does your mother say about it?

Ethel—She says men haven't altered a bit, dad.

A Lost Apology.

"What a beautiful woman Mrs. Raymond is!" he exclaimed as he entered the sitting room. "I have just had such a pleasant talk with her in the bookstore."

His wife looked up from her sewing.

"John," she exclaimed, "where is your collar?"

He put his hand to his throat. "I must have left it at the barber shop. Yes, that's it. I went to the barber shop, then to the bookstore. Why," he ended lamely, "Mrs. Raymond would think it very careless of me to appear in public without my collar, wouldn't she?"

"Rather," said his wife. "Perhaps you'd better call her up and tell her just how it happened."

He went to the telephone.

"Hello, central; hello! Hello! Is this Mrs. Raymond? Yes? Well, really, it was very stupid of me, Mrs. Raymond; but, you know, I had been thinking of something very important, and I quite forgot to put on my collar. I—oh—ah—goodby!"

He suddenly hung up the receiver and gave utterance to a mild exclamation.

"John!" exclaimed his wife.

"She says she hasn't been out of the house today," he groaned.—Harper's Magazine.

Woman's Wit.

A man found that his wife had bought a few puffs of false hair. This displeased him. So one day he hid in the hall outside of her room, and just as the lady was adjusting the false puffs he darted in upon her.

"Mary," he said reproachfully, "why do you put the hair of another woman upon your head?"

"John," retorted Mary, with a glance at her husband's shoes, "why do you put the skin of another calf upon your feet?"—Everybody's.

Nerve.

A lady sent her cook to buy the Christmas turkey, but when the cook returned she had two chickens.

"Martha," the lady said, "I told you to get turkey, not chicken."

"I know, mum, but I don't like turkey."

A Competent Witness.

A friend of the family had been summoned to testify, much against his will, as to certain domestic disturbances in a Chicago household.

"You saw these blows administered?" asked counsel.

"Yes, sir."

"Did you see the beginning of the quarrel between this man and his wife?"

"I did."

"When was it?"

"Six years ago."

"Six years ago! How is that possible?"

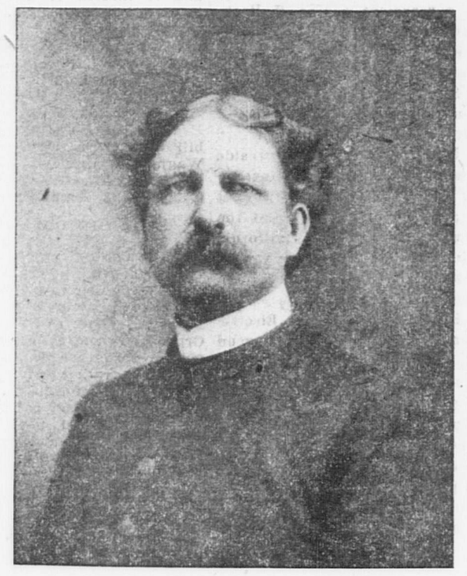

"I was a guest at their wedding," said the witness.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Lincoln's Way.

Lincoln at the commencement of the war was much abused by one of his generals. He was even openly insulted by this man. In his splendid way he put up with that mistreatment imperturbably. But when the thing kept growing more and more flagrant his friends told him he was suffering more than was reasonable or right. But Lincoln only smiled his odd, sad, humorous smile.

"I'll hold his horse for him," he said, "if he will only bring us success."

SUDDEN DEATH OF MINISTER.

Rev. Eben C. Stover, who was found dead in bed Thursday morning at Monmouth, Maine, where he was pastor of the Baptist society, was formerly of Braintree, Mass. He resided in South Braintree until about two years ago and was pastor of the Baptist society there. A wife, a son and a daughter survive him. Mr. Stover was about fifty years old and enjoyed the best of health.

AN ELECTION PRIMER

Pertinent Points About Our Election Machinery For New Voters and Old

THE VOTER.

Who is entitled to vote in national, state and local elections?

Any male citizen who has reached the age of twenty-one years.

How about the women?

In the four states of Colorado, Idaho, Utah and Wyoming any woman who has reached the age of twenty-one years is entitled to vote on all matters at all elections, her privilege of suffrage being identical with that of the men.

Are there no other states in which women may vote?

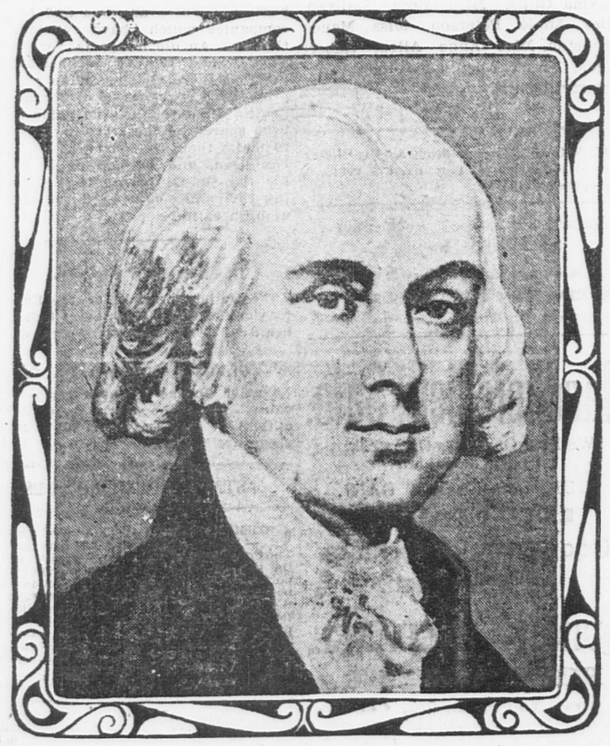

Very limited woman suffrage prevails in nineteen other states. In Kansas it is restricted to voting on school matters and at elections for municipal officers. In Montana and Iowa women may vote on the issuance of municipal bonds. In Montana, Michigan, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Oregon, Massachusetts, New York, Vermont, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Washington, Arizona, New Jersey, North Dakota, South Dakota, Connecticut and Ohio women have school suffrage.

Can Chinese in the United States vote, if naturalized?

An act passed by congress in 1882 expressly prohibits the naturalization of Chinese.

By what right do negroes vote?

By the right conferred upon them by the fifteenth amendment to the national constitution, which reads, "The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude."

JAMES MADISON.

The fourth president of the United States succeeded Thomas Jefferson in 1809 and served two terms. He was born at Port Conway, Va., in 1751. Being a politician rather than a soldier, he took no active part in the Revolutionary war. He was honored with many offices by his native state. He did able work in the framing of the constitution. During his occupancy of the presidency occurred the war of 1812. After his retirement Madison settled on his estates at Montpelier, Va., and wrote much upon public topics. He was associated with Alexander Hamilton and John Jay in the authorship and publication of the "Federalist" essays in favor and in explanation of the United States constitution. Of the eighty-five essays, twenty-nine were by Madison. He died in 1836 at the age of eighty-five years.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

The scout cruiser Birmingham left Boston this afternoon for her trial trip over the government course off Rockland, Maine. She made a good showing on the shake down trip this week, and has since been in the dry dock at Boston. She is manned by a crew of shipyard men.

Two articles of interest to shipyard men will be found on one of the inside pages today; one relative to an investigation by Congress of the Electric Boat Company; and the other relative to the shipyard men who went to California to work in the government navy yard.

The gasoline engine being built in the machine shop, under the supervision of Hiram Ellis for the Electric Boat Company, are making good progress.

A large wooden structure has been built on one of the flat cars in the yard for transporting the bounding angles for the five turrets, which are in the form of a half circle from the ship tool shop to a point near the large concrete wharf where the turrets for the battle ship North Dakota will be built.

The weight office of Mr. Sturgis and Mr. Lawson has been removed from its former location to the eastern end of the new machine shop extension.

A Niles gate shear has been set up in the ship tool shop.

Six nickle steel shafts are being forged and machined for the General Electric Company.

Two shafts are being treated for Mix and Hartel.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

The annual engagement of Nat. M. Wills, "The Happy Tramp," which has come to be looked upon as one of the great events of the season at Keith's, commences next Monday, March 9th, and is limited to one week. Wills is one of the monologists who realize that it means much to be abreast of the times and always have new material to present. There are four or five sketches in vaudeville that have come to be looked upon as classics. One of them is "Skinny's Finish"as played by Eva Williams and Jac Tucker. The bill will be completed by Carney and Wagner, singers and dancers, William Craven, concertina virtuoso, Louis Guertin, the champion jumper.

THE ORPHEUM.

When Capt. George Auger was in Boston last fall, he created quite a sensation by going to police headquarters and being measured by the Bertillion system. Those who went to the Orpheum Theatre to see the tallest gets were rather surprised to find gots were rather surprised to find that they were something more than curiosities—in fact capital actors in a remarkably good production with a well told story founded on the famous legend "Jack, the Giant Killer." So much interest was manifested that efforts were made to hold this attraction for another week but previous bookings made this impossible. It is a curious coincidence that there will be "two globe trotters"—Fred Niblo, the monologist who returned recently from a tour of the world with his wife Miss Josephine Cohan, and John W. World and Mindell Kingston who have also just returned after having made a complete circle of the world.

BOSTON THEATRE.

So many rumors concerning the future of the Boston theatre which have no foundation in fact, have gained circulation that Manager Morison feels it desirable to state that the coming season of opera simply makes an interruption to and not a termination of his dramatic season. He desires it to be known that he arranged for the coming season of opera purely from a desire to afford the Boston musical public the only possible opportunity of enjoying the performances of the Conried Opera company which are announced to begin Monday April 6th and terminate on the evening of Saturday April 11th. Manager Morison states that he has already completed his plans for a continuation of his dramatic season well along into the summer months and has already secured a large number of notable plays and entered into contracts for a continuation of the policy of the present season during that at the Boston theatre for the season of 1908-09. In compliance with many requests a grand scenic production of Dion Boucicault's most famous Irish drama "Arrah ne Pogue" is planned for the week of Monday March 16th.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The week beginning March 9th, The Players will present at the Castle Square theatre, Charles H. Hoyt's brightest and best satire "A Temperance Town." Of the many successes written by Mr. Hoyt none ever achieved the lasting fame of this keen satire on the New Hampshire liquor laws. It has not been played in Boston for nearly two years, and the popularity of the selection has been demonstrated by the fact that the demand for tickets in advance has been the largest of any of the shows given by the players. As a special feature ofthis revival of "A Temperance Town," Mr. William Charles Masson who has been stage director of the Castle Square theatre ever since the first stock company was organized, will return to the stage after an absence of ten years, and assume his original role, "Mink Jones" the town drunkard. A most elaborate production is being arranged and this will be given for the week of March 9th only.

Lyceum Theatre.

For the past fifteen years the Lyceum theatre has occupied a prominent place in Boston's entertainment world; by that we refer to the many and various burlesque, extravanganza and travesty companies which have visited this theatre. An old adage is, "everything grows," and this is demonstrated by the fact tat each succeeding year has produced a sequence of burlesque companies par excellence, no pains having been spared by the traveling managers to make them so. The present season has been, and is, one of prosperity, for the simple reason that the visiting companies have produced material of high calibre.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued case of George Hanniford for violation of the liquor law at Quincy, was heard and he was fined $50. Appealed.

Bigger and Better Features at Scenic

The patrons of the Scenic were given a cyclonic surprise Thursday night when the semi-weekly change of moving pictures and illustrated songs were produced. Mgr. Donovan is to be congratulated upon having secured, at considerable additional expense, one of the very latest masterpieces of Pathe Bros., Paris, big feature picture "The Man-O-Warsman's Fight for Love," which is a revelation of animated photography, it abounds in thrilling situations, and kept the audience on the qui vive.

Another big feature of this week's show is Mr. Bowman's rendition of Jerome Remick's big novelty song hit "Musette," which is brand new, and being sung in the large moving picture houses of Boston and other cities for the first time this week. The slides are magnificent, and the music simply superb. Mr. Bowman promises for next week another big success which is sweeping the country, "I'm Afraid to Come Home in the Dark," the picture slides for which have only just been completed, and are being shown for the first time.

Next Monday night the pictures and songs will change again, and the program to be given from now on is one big feature picture, which means a film shown for the first time, and this will be in addition to the other four rules of hightly interesting subects giving the public practically three times as many pictures as are usually shown in any moving picture establishment. There will also be three illustrated song numbers, sung by the best illustrated singers, and from time to time the management will arrange for additional features, which will be announced as secured. Pictures and songs always chang. Monday and Thursday nights.

MR. HUNT'S ANSWER

Law of Healing A Re-Discovery Will Bring People Into God's Garden

Seldom has there been a larger congregation at the Wollaston Unitarian church than that which greeted Rev. E. W. Hunt at the morning service on Sunday. The differences between the pastor and some of his parishioners has been the one topic of conversation for the past few days and many were curious to see the outcome. The pastor had been requested to discontinue his line of sermons or resign. Both of these he refused to do.

A meeting of the parish committee had been hurridly called last Friday evening and although it was known that the pastor and his sermons were the object of the meeting, nothing was given out as to what transpired. It came out Sunday, however, when the clerk of the society read a warrant issued by the parish committee calling a special parish meeting for Monday evening, March 16, to take action on the matter of the dissolution of the church and pastor.

All who attended the service Sunday were well repaid for their visit for the pastor preached one of the most forcible and eloquent sermons heard in Quincy. His subject was "Religion and Health." It was delivered in a masterful way and contained much food for future thought. It is hardly possible to conceive how anyone could object to such a sermon for as the pastor said in the beginning it was not Cristian Science but the religion of Jesus.

After the usual half hour of devotional exercises the clerk read the warrant for the special parish meeting.

Rev. Mr. Hunt then said that his text was found in Matthew 16, verses 25 and 26—"Whosoever will save his life shall lose it, and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it." "For what is a man propheted, if he shall gain the whole world, and forfeit his own soul? and when he hath forfeited it, wherewith shall he buy it back again?"

Also: Luke 4, verse 40—"All they that hath any sick with divers diseases brought them unto Jesus and he healed them."

PASTOR'S ANSWER.

Before beginning his sermon the pastor made answer to the demand that he discontinue his line of sermons or resign. He said:—

"On Soldiers Field in Cambridge, there is a monument erected to the memory of some Harvard men, who gave their lives for their country in the battles of the Civil war. On the base of the monument is inscribed these very suggestive words: "Tis man's perdition to be safe when for the truth he ought to die." Doubtless many a soldier both of the Blue and the Gray as he faced the storm of shot and shell on the far flung battle line, and thought of his loved ones far away, would gladly have retired, had duty and honor permitted, to a position of safety and of peace. But 'tis man's perdition to be safe when for the truth he ought to die," and so they died—died gloriously, because they died for their country, and for their ideals of truth, leaving to their grateful countrymen the supreme incentive of a glorious example.

"Amid the pursuits of peace, no less then on the battle fields of war the call sometimes comes to men to face inevitable misunderstandings, danger and sacrifice for the sake of truth. From the pleasant task of tilting a lance in the courtyard, amid the plaudits of popular approval, the Christian knight is often summoned to win the spurs of his spiritual knighthood in rougher, sterner work on hard fought fields of truth and duty. Intense lovers of peace, they must be ready, if need be, to fight the good fight of faith. Indeed the words of Jesus express a universal law of life. "Whosoever will save his life shall lose it, and whosoever will lose his life, for my sake, shall find it."

"This morning I find myself in a position where this question of acting, if need be of suffering, for the sake of that which I regard as truth is to me a matter of the very greatest importance. I have been informed that my sermon last Sunday on the 'Healing Power of Jesus," caused dissatisfaction among the members of the society, and that I must relinguish preaching that line of thought or re-

The City Presents No Plan

But Associations And Individuals Explain Several To Commissioners

An adjourned hearing of the special commission on the abolition of the grade crossings at Saville and Water streets was held in the Council Chamber at City Hall today.

The commissioners are ex-Governor John L. Bates, of Boston, Winfield S. Slocum of Newton, and Arthur H. Wellman of Malden.

City Solicitor John W. McAnarney represented the City, Col. J. H. Benton and Engineer B. T. Wheeler, the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, F. B. Greenhalge the Commonwealth; E. W. Burdett, Esq., the Old Colony street railroad; Horace G. Allen, Esq., for Henry M. Faxon, and A. P. Worthin, Esq., for the heirs of A. J. Richards.

CHAIRMAN BATES.

The hearing was set for 10 o'clock, but it was 10.15 before the commissioners arrived and the gathering was called to order by ex-Governor Bates. At this time there was a large gathering of citizens.

City Solicitor McAnarney, in opening, said the Citizens had given the matter much thought, and committees of different organizations are working with the city. The city has not as yet perfected plans and would like a continuance. There were citizens, however, who had plans they desired to present. He would not at this time offer any plans from the city.

Chairman Bates said—When we adjourned it will be until April 25, at 10 o'clock. He then invited any citizen, who desired, to present plans.

G. B. Bates entered his appearance for Mrs. Bates, and E. J. Parker entered his appearance for Mary Ratli.

John L. Miller said he represented the Granite Manufactures Association, and Ernest W. Branch represented the Board of Trade.

John Q. A. Field said he represented a plan, also the teaming business and any real estate that might be effected at South Quincy.

Melville P. Hayward represented a plan for Saville street; Charles W. Hanscom appeared for Organized Labor, and John T. Cavanagh said he would present plans for both crossings.

Col. Benton would be glad to have as many of the plans as possible shown this morning.

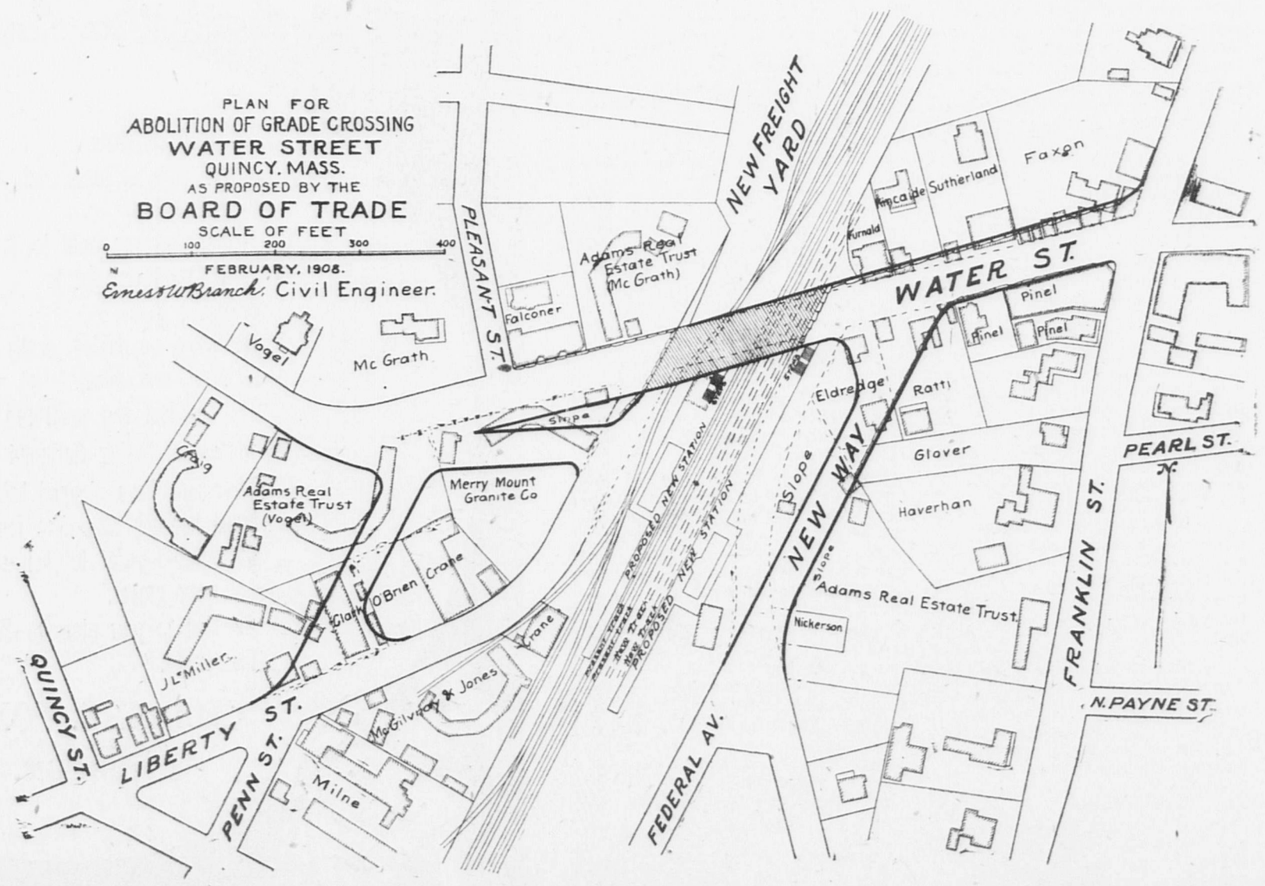

DIFFERENT PLANS.

Several plans were then presented to the Commission.

G. B. Bates wanted the discussion of the railroad plans continued.

City Solicitor McAnarney—At our public hearings it was the unanimous vote that the present location of Saville and Water street be maintained. These votes were passed at first meeting, and they have not been

Eight Chinamen Are Convicted of Murders at Boston

NINTH MAN AN ACCESSORY

The Latter, a Rich Merchant, Found Guilty of Hatching Plot Which Resulted In Brutal Slaughter of Four of Their Countrymen

Boston, March 9.—Warry Charles, the wealthiest and one of the most influential merchant Chinamen of Boston, and eight of his countrymen, believed to be notorious "hatchet men," were found guilty by a jury in the superior criminal court of murder in the first degree on four counts, alleging the killing of four Chinamen in Boston on Aug. 2 of last year. A tenth defendant, Yee Wat, who had also been on trial on the same charge, died suddenly in his cell last Tuesday while the trial was in progress.

The men found guilty are Min Sing, Hom Woon, Leong Gong, Wong Duck, Wong How, Joe Guey, Dong Bok Ling, Yoe Jung and Warry Charles. The men were accused of the murders of Chin Mong Quin, Wong Shu Chung, Chin Lee and Lee Kai Nom.

In each case Charles was accused of being an accessory before the alleged murders, in that he "feloniously and maliciously invited, moved, procured, aided, counselled, hired and commanded others to commit crimes." This calls for the death penalty, as in the case of the other eight men.

The case had been on trial for thirty-three court days, the first four days being thrown out on account of a mistrial, owing to the sickness of a juror. Over 4000 typewritten pages of testimony was taken and the cost of the trial is estimated at $20,000.

The murders for which the Chinamen were found guilty marked one of the worst Chinese slaughters which has ever occurred in the east in the feud between the Hep Sing Tong and the On Leong Tong, rival Chinese societies.

Early in the evening of Friday, Aug. 2, 1907, a number of strange Chinamen suddenly appeared in Oxford place, in the heart of the Chinese quarter of Boston, and upon the signal of the discharge of a firecracker, lighted by the cigar one of the strange Chinamen was smoking, immediately began firing from revolvers of heavy calibre upon scores of Chinese merchants and laundrymen who were lolling about in the rear of their stores. Over forty shots were fired, and when the police appeared they found three Chinamen stretched lifeless in the alley and a dozen others badly wounded.

The Chinamen who had done the shooting scattered in all directions. Several were arrested, however, before they were able to leave town. Two were captured in Worcester, one in Quincy and another in Portsmouth, N. H., until finally the police had rounded up ten men whom they believed were the ringleaders in the slaughter.

The murders roused the Chinamen to a high pitch of excitement and the utmost vigilance of the police was exercised for many weeks after to prevent recurrence of trouble between the rival Tongs. Two of the men killed were Chinese Masons of high degree and their funerals, which were held publicly a week later, were of the most picturesque, though solemn, scenes ever witnessed in the city.

That the murders were of the most brutal and deliberate character was brought out during the progress of the long trial. It was shown in evidence that the murders had been instigated in the councils of the Hep Sing Tong to create a fear of that society and that its membership and influence might be increased as a result of the proposed slaughter.

Shoy Tong, one of the principal government witnesses, testified that Warry Charles, a rich and influential Chinese merchant of Boston and president of the Hep Sing Tong, had instigated the killing. During his testimony he stated: "Charles said that we would have to do some killing and make the Chinese business men so afraid that all of them would join our society." He also said we were "getting to be dead ones and must kill someone."

Tong testified further that Charles proposed sending to New York, Philadelphia and Chicago for "hatchet men" who were unknown to do the killing, as they would be better able to escape. He said that Charles offered to pay the expenses of the men; to give them $200 for each man killed, and that if anybody got caught to hire attorneys for the defense.

The nine Chinamen were returned to their cells in jail, following the decision of the jury, and the usual time will be allowed the attorneys for the defense to apply for a new trial before the matter of sentence will be considered.

Two Chinamen to Hang

Philadelphia, March 8.—Two Chinese, Jung Jow and Mock Kung, will be hanged here tomorrow for the killing of several of their fellow-countrymen last summer during a pistol battle in the streets of Chinatown in this city. The warring factions belonged to the On Leong and Hep Sing Tong organizations. There have been several battles between the rival societies with fatal results. In most of these affairs the guilty men, usually brought here from other cities, escaped.

KING TAKING GREAT CHANCES

Alfonso Will Visit Barcelona, In Spite of Threats Against Him

Barcelona, March 9.—The city is being extensively decorated and no official efforts will be spared to give King Alfonso a creditable and enthusiastic reception on his arrival here tomorrow. Nevertheless, the greatest concern is felt for the king's safety, owing to the activity of the Catalonian revolutionists and anarchists who recently have created almost a reign of terror in this city. There have been five bomb explosions here since Jan. 1 and not a single culprit has been caught.

Only a few days ago placards were posted throughout Barcelona that an attempt would be made upon the life of the king should he carry out his determination of visiting this city. The placards were torn down by the police, but the fear than an outrage will be attempted remains.

In addition to the troops who will line the routes wherever the king goes, practically all the civil guards in Spain, except detachments in Andalusia, are concentrated here, and 800 police have been specially drafted for this service.

Queen to Remain at Home

Madrid, March 9.—King Alfonso will leave here tonight for Barcelona. In the opinion of the public the king's visit is foolhardy, but the cabinet believes that the danger has been exaggerated and that the visit will prove beneficial politically. Queen Victoria will not accompany the king.

Man's Fitness For Marriage

Boston, March 9.—"The drinking man has no more right to marry than he has to set houses afire," said Rev. Charles L. Page in a lecture on "Man and Marriage" at the Dudley Street church yesterday. "A man who is unwilling to give up drink has no business to inflict himself on a woman. The only way a man can possibly justify the use of tobacco would be to be willing that the woman he is to marry should share its use with him. To be ready for marriage a man should have found out how to pay full board for himself, as well as his other expenses, and to save not less than one-half what he earns."

Youngsters Stole $500

Winchester, Mass., March 9.—Because they were spending money freely, Michael Donahue, 14, and Leo Johnson, 14, fell into the clutches of the Lowell police. The latter communicated with the police of this town and it was learned that the boys were wanted for the larceny of $500 from Fred Fallon, an uncle of the Donahue boy, who has lived a hermit's life, his habitation being an old hut on the outskirts of the town. When searched $176.20 was found on the Donahue boy and $146 on Johnson.

Blanket Injunction Against Miners

Reno, Nev., March 9.—By the decision of Judge Farrington of the United States district court, given in the suit of the Consolidated Mines company of Goldfield against the Miners' union, a blanket injunction against the miners is enforced. The miners are enjoined from every act which might be construed as inimical to the interest of the mineowners.

Birmingham Made Good Time

Rockland, Me., March 9.—The new scout cruiser Birmingham, fresh from the yards of the Fore River Shipbuilding and Engine company at Quincy, Mass., has arrived here from Boston in preparation for her official trials. The Birmingham made the run from Boston at an average speed of 23½ knots without being forced to any extent.

Torpedo Flotilla Sets Sail

Lima, March 9.—Rear Admiral Raigada gave a banquet last night on the Peruvian cruiser Almirante Grau to the officers of the American torpedo boat flotilla. The banquet took the form of a farewell to the Americans, who left Callao this morning to continue their voyage to the north.

Missing Man's Body Found

Poultney, Vt., March 9.—The body of John McGlery, aged 50 years, who had been missing for six weeks, was found in the fair grounds last night by a boy. McGlery had evidently wandered into the fair grounds, where he was overcome by cold and died. He was unmarried.

End of Machinists' Strike

Elmira, N. Y., March 9.—The strike of the 300 machinists in the Lehigh railroad shops at Sayre, Pa., was settled last night. The agreement was not given out. The men returned to work this morning.

An Era For Cooperation

The address of James F. Jackson at the Real Estate Exchange last week was timely. Mr. Jackson was the former chairman of the Railroad Commissioners and qualified to speak concerning railroads. He said in part:

To my mind the all-important change in the railroad situation in these last years is one found throughout the country in the new attitude of every clear-headed railroad man toward the traveling and shipping public, that of willingness to recognize the fact that he is managing a public highway. In this attitude he no longer expects to do business upon the old theory that the company is engaged in selling transportation upon its own terms to those who wish to buy with no other obligation than that of the dealer in merchandise to his customers.

On the contrary he knows that success in private management of a railroad will depend upon the ability with which it meets public approval. This means that the days to come are full of opportunities for you, gentlemen, for the business men of the cities and towns of New England; it means that a new field for a far-reaching work, a field hitherto practically unoccupied is now open for organized effort. Business men may if they will in the future exert an influence in the administration of railroad and railway affairs which was never exerted before.

Can there be any doubt that the sane, deliberate judgment of men of affairs ,organized to promote the public good can, if used, overthrow the tricks of politicians, the wiles of demagogues and the schemes of unprincipled capitalists, that it can pronounce just verdicts upon the doings of those who are representing them in public life and of those who are in control of public service corporations, verdicts which shall distinguish between the right and the wrong, between the reasonable and the unreasonable, the faithful and the faithless?

Complaint is often made that there is too much criticism abroad. On the contrary, there is too little of the right kind. What is needed is a criticism that is based upon calm inquiry and a knowledge of facts, that is disinterested and fair, that is as ready to commend what is well done as well as to attack what is wrong.

Monopoly in the public service, in the place of a competition too often wasteful, ineffective and inquitous, is what we have to face. Is there any reason to fear it? Not the slightest in this day of an aroused sentiment provided our business men are ready to act well their part.

If corporate management seeks your advice, as it will, I am sure that you will demand that it recognize two fundamental principles; one, that capitalization shall be limited to actual and proper investment, and the other that there must be full publicity in its doings. The first prohibits the watering of stock, a principle for which Massachusetts has long stood in advance of other states, and of national authority. The second is equally important, and is a principle that in the last analysis will furnish a bulwark of strength to the company in the confidence that it will establish among all who have dealings with it.

Whatever the transportation problems of the future may be, I am satisfied that success or failure in solving them will largely depend upon the interest with which and the way in which you take a hand in guiding affairs. Representative men, selected for their knowledge of our commercial needs and prepared by a thorough inquiry to deal with specific questions as they arise, can accomplish far more for the general good in deliberate discussion with the representatives of our transportation companies than can ever be secured by intemperate attacks or ill-considered, destructive legislation. The coming era should be one of co-operation. Men prefer to work with rather than against one another.

It is a mistake to be skeptical of the worth of our fellows, to be ready to doubt the good and suspect the evil in motive and action. In dealing for eight years with those who hold every grade of position in our transportation companies, I have far oftener found what is commendable than what is discreditable, in very many instances the highest type of manhood.

CURFEW AT PANAMA.

Employee Suggests That One Is Needed In Canal Zone.

TWO MEASURES ADVOCATED.

One of the Workers, Living In Bachelor Quarters, Wants Protection Against the Convivial Among His Number—Views of a Daring Dissenter.

Bachelors employed by the isthmian canal commission and living in the canal zone, at Panama, are debating heatedly whether they need a curfew law for protection against the bibulous and convivial among their number. The suggestion that a curfew law be established for night roaming bachelors on the isthmus came from one of the employees living in bachelors' quarters, says a Washington special correspondent of the New York Post. The trouble began when this employee, who is stationed at Paraiso, taking advantage of the canal commission's invitation for suggestions looking to the betterment of the service, made these two:

First.—The establishment of a curfew hour, not later than 10 o'clock in the evening, when lights in bachelors' quarters should be extinguished.

Second.—The absolute prohibition of the practice of bringing liquor into quarters.

The employee added ingenuously in making the second suggestion that he did not know whether it was against the present regulations to have liquor in bachelors' quarters, "but if not it should be."

In advocating these two measures "for the uplift" the employee urged these reasons:.

There are many employees of the commission whose duties are both arduous and exacting, and at the end of the day's labor they are in actual need of undisturbed rest to fit them for the duties of the morrow. When this is denied them through the action of various roisterers who periodically make their quarters an assembly of brawlers whom a respectable (?) saloon keeper would not tolerate (the writer is aware that whosoever this shoe pinches will be the loudest in denunciation of him), it is evident that the service given to the isthmian canal commission by all who come within the zone of their disturbing influence is not and cannot be as efficient as it should be.

For the benefit of dipsomaniacs who will indulge in stimulants regardless of detriment to personal health, and the writer would not deny them their "rights" in this respect, it might be well to establish canteens in the various towns with "boozing ken" attachments, where their orgies could be indulged in without disturbing those who have no desire to take part in them and who have "rights" which should be respected.

The response was instantaneous and vivacious. An employee at Culebra heartily indorsed the plan, but suggested that the curfew should not be rung until 11 o'clock. "Eleven o'clock would suit everybody better than 10 p. m., because those who attend Y. M. C. A. classes, tournaments, entertainments, lodge meetings and more intimate rendezvous would be put to a great deal of inconvenience if not allowed to turn on lights on retiring." One seldom thinks of the hordes of canal employees returning nightly in throngs from Y. M. C. A. classes.

The Culebra employee wasn't so sure about the advisability of the second suggestion. He thought it would require the presence of a zone policeman to keep the bachelors from bringing whisky into their quarters, but he added, "It is to be deplored, to be sure, that orgies are sometimes indulged in by a coterie of friends, such practice being, I am sure, against the existing rules of the commission. The habitual drinking of some of the men makes it also very disagreeable for their roommates especially, but such a practice, in my estimation, cannot be regulated or stopped, whatever means the officials may employ."

Another employee at Empire, who is evidently a sociologist, a vegetarian, a disciple of Bernard Shaw and a believer in a paternal form of government, at once declared his willingness to go to bed when curfew tolled the knell of parting day. He thinks it would be perfectly lovely if the employees could be made to eat legumes by official order instead of meat.

Andrew Bearup, a locomotive engineer, is the only dissenter who has expressed himself publicly. He is full of wrath. In blistering words he seeks to dispel the idea "that the bachelor population of Paraiso consists of inebriates and rowdies." Bearup says that he has been a resident of Paraiso for eight months and has not seen a drunken or disorderly person in that station in all that time. He suggests to the employee who advanced the curfew plan that if his duties "be so arduous that it is necessary for him to retire with the chickens that he may recuperate his energies for the morrow I believe that it would be policy for him to migrate to some other climate, as he certainly cannot be in perfect health. As for taps of curfew, I will say that the majority of us are more than twenty-one years of age and have been severed from our mothers' apron strings a sufficient length of time to know when we wish to retire."

Experiment With Partridges.

The state fish and game commission of Connecticut recently leased 700 acres of land on Pratt hill, near Winsted, as propagation grounds for Hungarian partridges. There are many excellent covers, and the state's experiment is expected to prove a success.

War on Wasps.

With a view to preventing a plague of wasps in the district the Hayward's Heath Horticultural society in England has decided to offer a penny for every queen wasp brought to the summer show.

S'posin'

By E. M. MURRAY.

[Copyright, 1907, by C. N. Lurie.]

IT had always been Cynthy's word, and Lem felt no disposition to quarrel with it under the circumstances. He let his mind run back to the long ago days when he carried her books to school and planned small treats within the scope of their narrow lives which his awkward tongue and self conscious mind almost prevented his laying before her. Cynthy was not given to many words herself, and so when he finally managed to suggest "S'pose we go berrying Saturday?" or skating, as the season might allow, Cynthy had always contented herself with replying "S'posin'."

He saw himself again as he was in those days, big for his years, hands and face tanned almost a leather color with sun and wind, a shock of unruly brown hair and eyes of almost the same shade. He did himself but scant justice as far as appearance went. It did not occur to him that he had been a goodly sight to look upon even at that time, for he had been then as now the seeming embodiment of rugged health. Looking at Cynthy, he saw traces of the same air of fragility that had characterized her as a child and seemed to set her apart from the other children. He had long known that it was not an indication of weak health, but was due rather to a certain transparency of skin which neither sun nor wind seemed to affect. He felt just as big and overgrown beside her today as he had done years ago, and Cynthy's assent to his latest suggestion had filled him with the same sense of wonder and delight as in that old time.

He would have liked to know if Cynthy was thinking of those old days in the same way as he was. He recalled that in that faraway time he used to speculate whether that simple word of assent "S'posin'" caused Cynthy any of the pleasurable sensations it gave him to hear it. He had never dared to ask such a question, and he wondered if he ever would. There was a delightful possibility that he might, and his heart beat higher at the thought. If he had stopped to consider that fact, he would have known it was quite unnecessary, as that organ had not been doing normal work for a week past and before this last increase had been going to an alarming rate. Indeed, were there no prospect of a decrease even the sturdy frame of Lem Minturn could not long have withstood its onslaught. But no thought of danger from that cause rose in the young man's mind. There were more dangerous things for him to consider than the state of his heart. In fact, if questioned, he might have replied that he knew it too well to need to give it further consideration. He was more alarmed about the condition of another heart which he wanted for his own.

Thought was ever swifter than speech with Lem Minturn, and now as he stood beside Cynthy, looking down at her while she looked off toward the horizon, it traveled over all the little bypaths of memory the very approaches to which he had apparently forgotten until that day a week ago when he had seen Cynthy for the first time in six years. Ever since then his thoughts had been busy with olden days. He could recall all the chief events in the early life of both from the time when she was a tiny mite in pinafores and he was a sturdy lad rejoicing in his first real pockets. There was no break until she was fifteen years old and her family had moved away to the city, where there were more advantages for the children. He had been seventeen then and had completed his first year in the mill.

There she stood, looking so much like the old days that he could almost have believed they had never been separated except for the recurring thought that he knew not what associations or ties she might have formed since last he saw her. It might be that the terrible longing in his heart was never to be satisfied, and then the necessity for speech became almost intolerable. It was because of this that he had spoken in the old fashion, "Cynthy, s'pose we tell what has happened since last we met?"

And Cynthy had not resented the return to old speech or the use of her name, but had answered simply, "S'posin'," and Lem was not disposed to quarrel about the answer.

But it was one thing to decide to speak and quite another to find the words one wanted. While he was still seeking them Cynthy said, "S'pose I begin?"

Gratefully Lem accepted their reversed positions and answered in his turn, 'S'posin'."

Cynthy found a comfortable spot and sat down, while Lem threw himself at her feet. Then she began in a simple, unaffected way to tell the story, which the man eagerly drank in. So much depended upon that story. It would either open his lips or seal them forever, and he knew it. He composed himself to listen, determined that neither by word nor look should he embarrass her or make it difficult for her to give him this glimpse of her life. He could not help wondering if it meant as much to her as to him.

"There isn't a great deal to my story, Lem," said Cynthy. "I did not know how fond of the old place I was until we had moved away. They say that those who are left behind feel worse than those who go because new things take up the attention. I dare say that is true in a way at least, but there is a kind of longing for old places and old friends that is worse than physical pain when it strikes and that only the absentee can feel. True, it is not always there. One could not stand it if it were." Cynthy spoke in a reminiscent tone, more to herself than to him, and Lem felt a sort of comfort in the knowledge that he was not the only sufferer.

"I went to school and gave my whole attention to my books as I had determined to fit myself for a teacher. Somehow I think it always lay back in my mind that I should return here some day. I will not deny that the desire became less a conscious purpose than a subconscious dream as the years went by, but about six months ago it flamed into a purpose that would brook no opposition."

Here Cynthy paused and fell to thinking. Lem noted the fast changing color now, and his heart sank a little. He wondered what had roused Cynthy to the sudden determination and whether it boded good or ill for him and his hopes. Every moment seemed to make it more a matter of life and death that he should know his fate.

With heightened color and eyes that looked steadfastly at the far horizon, Cynthy resumed her story, apparently unconscious of the anxious scrutiny of her companion. "About a year ago a young student came to board with us. As you know, I never had a brother, and before long we became excellent friends. It was very nice to have some one to depend upon, ever ready to do what one needed, to play escort and 'big brother.' That was what we both called it at first. But it seemed to grow to be more, and—and—why, then, he asked me to marry him. It was a surprise to me at first, but after awhile I thought I would say yes. Then it occurred to me that before tying myself to a promise that I might not be able to keep I should see more of life. I was not sure I could be a minister's wife, and besides I did not know whether I loved him or not. I needed absence to prove my feeling to myself. So that is why I am here. I applied for and finally got the position of teacher, and here I am, out with you just as in the old days, and it hardly seems as if it could be six years since then. Does it, Lem?"

Something in the question made the young man's heart leap and the hot blood rush to his head. He looked sharply at Cynthy, but she appeared to be merely wondering aloud, and hope died down again. But it was time for his story now, and, moreover, he felt as if he could tell it, indeed must tell it, let the outcome be what it might.

"It seems to me, Cynthy," he said, "that perhaps without my knowing it you have always been a big factor in my life. I had taken your friendship as such a matter of course that if I thought of it at all it was as something that could not be changed. Therefore your going off to the city that way was a blow that stunned me. I could not get used to it. I did not once think of asking you to write to me. In fact, I could think of nothing but that you were going. The place seemed mighty lonesome after you were gone, and I gave myself up to my work in the mill as if that, too, would never change. But it bothered me that you were going to have opportunities in the city that would put you away out of my class. That thought was discouraging until one day I said to myself, 'Cynthy, s'pose we both study?' And it seemed to me that I could hear you say, 'S'posin'.' That settled it. I began, and after a year or two, during which I had been steadily advancing in the mill, I asked this question: 'Cynthy, s'pose I go away and take a technical course and fit myself for assistant superintendent?' And again you seemed to answer, 'S'posin'.'

"I talked the matter over with the superintendent, who had always been a good friend, and he heartily approved. Well, a few months later I went and put in some hard studying for the next few years. During vacations I worked in the mill and got thoroughly acquainted with its needs. I have not known many girls, because I have been too busy, and—well, that seems to be all there is to it. Here I am in the position I worked for, and I arrived just the same day you did."

"That is a coincidence, is it not?" said Cynthy as Lem paused. "We are both lucky, I think, to have found things going our way. Now that you have proved your dream true are you content?"

"I thought I was, Cynthy, until the night I got back; then suddenly it came to me that there was something lacking."

"Isn't that always so with dreams that come true, Lem? It seems to me that the only happy dreams are those that stay dreams," said the girl, with a slight sigh.

Lem made no direct reply to this bit of philosophy. He was in the mood of having his dreams come true and risking the contentment. The suspense grew unbearable. He must know. Anything was better than uncertainty.

"Cynthy," he said softly, and the girl started from her reverie and turned toward him. Her face looked pale and weary, as if life had lost some of its charm. It made him pause a moment, but he gulped hard and spoke again.

"Cynthy, there is a reason for the failure of contentment for me. It is a reason so old that I had not recognized it and at the same time so new that it brings more pain than joy. Cynthy, you are the reason."

He paused again and saw the blood surge up into the girl's face. Her breath came in quick gasps, but she turned toward him with a look that was partly inquiry, partly surprise and some doubt, but there was no repugnance. That encouraged him to take up his narrative where he had so abruptly stopped.

"I love you, Cynthy, but I did not know it until a week ago. I thought I was too busy to care for girls; but, Cynthy, it was because you had all my heart, and I did not know it. It was really for you that I studied and won my way to success. I was too wholly a boy when you went away to understand what gave me such pain to part with you. But even then I must have loved you."

He paused for a moment as if to steady himself for what must follow. Cynthy said nothing, but she drew nearer to him as if unconsciously drawn, and her face was lighted with a smile that even Lem saw was the outward expression of inward joy. He drew her into his arms, and she did not resist. For a moment he held her so, while he waited for his heart to steady. Then with a twinkle in his honest brown eye he turned her face up to his and before kissing her said, "Cynthy, s'pose we get married?"

And Cynthy answered, "S'posin'."

He Won't Always Be One.

"I have a clerk," a New York wholesale merchant remarked the other day, "and he sometimes manages to hand back a rather good one, though as a rule he is little short of stupid, apparently. As a matter of fact, I suppose he is one of those dreamy sort of chaps, and you never can tell about that kind.

"I was sorry after I said it," he continued, "but recently he had made a most unnecessary blunder, and I lost my temper.

"'I say, Jones,' I sneered, 'you'd make a pretty good clerk, maybe, if you had a little more sense!'

"He looked at me for a minute with a sort of half smile. 'Didn't it ever occur to you, Mr. Brown,' he said, 'that if I had a little more sense I wouldn't be a clerk at all?'"—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Royal Golfer.

King James II. was a fine golfer in the sense of fondness for the game and in other senses too. He it was, as Duke of York, who, when challenged by two English noblemen at the Scottish court to a match, the duke to take any partner whom he could find, took to his side an Edinburgh shoemaker named John Patersone. The duke and Patersone won, and, the latter, being given half the stake, built for himself a house, which is to be distinguished by the record upon it in Canongate to this day.—Fry's Magazine.

CITY COUNCIL

To Consider The Annual Appropriations And Coddington

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held tonight. The matters of interest to come before the meeting are the annual appropriation order which comes up for its second reading, and the Coddington school appropriation.

All of the departments of the city have been requested to be present at this meeting that they may answer any questions propounded as to the appropriations for their departments. It is probable that the order will be thrashed out tonight and then passed.

The Coddington school matter will come up if the Finance Committee decide to report, which it is thought probable they will. They have two orders before them, one offered by Councilman Gilson and the other by Councilman Bryant. Both call for the same amount, although worded a little different. The committee will probably report a substitute order embodying both.

Conference with The Polishers

The committees representing the Granite Manufacturers' Association and Polishers' Union are in session today, trying to settle the differences between these two bodies and end the strike.

The two committee met this morning at the rooms of the Granite Manufactuers Association determined if possible to settle the differences that work may be resumed.

The meeting was in session all the morning, and at 1 o'clock a recess was taken for lunch.

Some progress was made at the morning session, and it is hoped that an agreement may be reached at this afternoon's session.

Healing Power Of Christianity

Rev. W. E. Gardner opened a series of addresses on "Christianity and Health" at Christ church on Sunday evening, speaking on "The healing power of Christianity." He said in substance that healing without medicine was engaging considerable thought today. Even the physicians admit that health is not entirely dependent on medicine. The rector cited instances of cures without medicines, and said we must be careful before condemning systems which accomplish cures. One is good for one, and one for another. All have good.

The question is, how does the cure take place? Physicians have experimented with bread pills. It was the healing power within; the mind has more power over the body than we know. Hypnotism had been helpful. Below the conscious activity of the mind is a sub conscious activity which is very closely connected with health. Fear and worry are the two great evil enfluences. If doubt and despair can be replaced by pleasure and contentment, ninety per cent. of disease would be cured, and people would be strong and well and happy.

How can we bring about this sub consciousness? By living the life of the little child. Is fitting the Christian church should have something to say. Christ would say, do not be anxious, but have faith. The sub conscious activity can be best educated and made effective in activity by the teachings of Jesus Christ. The church has lost ground but it is time for the people and the clergy to bring it back. The christian church should stand at the front of all means. All methods must come to the Christian church for perfection. The physician to be successful must be a christian physician; a minister must be a christian minister, and an educator a christian educator. The church therefore welcomes all methods. It should appropriate the healing power.

sign my position. My means of subsitence is, of course, as important to me as to other men. I shrink more than I can express from the misunderstanding, the publicity, and the probable cost to myself and family of my present thought and action. How much these things may mean, I have had occasion to realize before. But with the greatest respect to the committee, which thro' its chairman has brought the matter to my attention, and especially to the society which as yet has not expressed itself in the matter, I feel compelled to say that I cannot undertake to desist from preaching in a reasonable proper way, any aspect of religious truth which my highest judgment and ripest experience leads me to regard as truth and as being necessary and profitable to human living. At the same time so vital do I regard the matter involved, not simply to myself, but to the true well being of the society, to the cause of Unitarianism, and to the cause of truth in general, that a nese of duty forbids me to even think of resigning until the society itself has had an opportunity to express its judgment and wishes.

WILLING TO VACATE.

At the annual meeting of the society I sent to the meeting this letter:—

"My dear friends:—It is nearly three years since I accepted wou unanimus call to the ministry of this society. In that time I have come to love these Wollaston hills; the privileges of ministering to you in your hours of sorrow and of joy has woven ties around my heart which can never be dissolved; the welfare of the society has been my constant interest.

"It has, however, come to my knowledge, that there are some to whom my services are unacceptable. The causes and extent of this I do not know. Certainly I am not conscious of any adequate reason therefore. Mistakes I have doubtless made, but I doubt whether I have any severer critic than myself. I am not conscious of any abatement of my goodwill towards any member of the society.

"It is not by any means my desire to leave you. I think, however, that you ought to have an opportunity to express your judgment and intention regarding my ministry. As the annual meeting seems to be the most fitting time for such business. I place the matter entirely in your hands. I am prepared, if you wish it, to vacate my position at the close of the church season—July 1, 1908."

"This communication which the society laid upon the table still represents my thoughts and feelings. Accordingly I leave the matter where I have already left it to the judgment and wishes of the society.

RELIGION AND HEALTH.

"Meanwhile, I desire this morning in view of the great importance and value of the subject to speak to you on the subject of "Religion and Health" with particular reference to the healing of the sick. In doing so, I do not feel that I am presenting to you anything that is very new or startling in the world of religious thought, nothing but what any Unitarian minister ought to be free to bring to the attention of his congregation. The essential spirit of Unitarianism is in my judgment well expressed in the old Pilgrim Covenant of 1602. These people "as ye Lords free people joined themselves into a church estate, in ye fellowship of the gospel, to walk in all his ways, made known, or to be made known unto them, according to their best endeavors, whatsoever it should cost them, the Lord assisting them." And, grimly adds the chronicler, "that it cost them something this ensewing historie will declare."

"This subject, however, I leave to a future occasion. I desire simply to express to you something of the beautiful thought and work, which in many different places, under many different names, and by many different methods, is being used with the most helpful results for the healing of the sick and for the uplift of humanity. I call it the religion of Jesus, and I believe that the religion of Jesus is to be found as he said, wherever men honestly endeavor to follow his spirit and example.

The uttermost silence prevailed during the reading of this statement and at its conclusion the pastor began his sermon of the day without further words. He said in part:—

is the sorrow laden cry of all the ages. We hear it in those old creation stories, in which human love and devotion has sought to explain the origins of sin, disease and death. It evokes a responsive cord of sympathy from our hearts when we read it on the pages of the Christian gospel, as when Mary bears to Jesus the pathetically familiar message, "Lord, he whom thou lovest is sick." In our own minds as well as in that of the writer of the Apocalypse, there risse at times, a deep and passionate yearning for the realization of a condition of life where there shall be no more sickness, sorrow, or pain. Side by side, however, with this supplicating cry of humanity, we find the constant reiteration of promise of health. The serpent trails in Eden, but with the sentence of Adam's expulsion is joined the promise, that the seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head. There is no sweeter or tenderer passage in all the gospels than that which tells how they brought unto Jesus those that were sick, and he healed them and the Bible closes with a very beautiful description of heaven as a place where there shall be no more pain, but where on the banks of the celestial river, close by the throne of God, there grows the tree of life, "and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations."

"Now whatever theological views we may entertain of Jesus, most thoughtful people feel, I believe, that the blessed impulse which has everywhere followed the story of Jesus, has been and is still a very beautiful and helpful influence in the life of the race. Along that stream of influence, as it has flowed down the ages have sprung up the countless hospials and asplums which adorn our civilization: it has been the unfailing inspiration of all those manifold and benificent forms of charity through which the Christian Church has sought in all ages to ameliorate the condition of the poor and suffering, and to emulate the example of its great prophet. And though the Church has too long neglected this secret art of healing, which Jesus appears to have known and used with such splendid results, it cannot forget altogether the magnificent story of his beautiful and helpful life, nor can it fail to pray that on its children, in all ages and under all conditions, may rest the blessings of his healing power.

"Thy touch has still its ancient power
No word from Thee can fruitless fall
Here in this solemn, holy hour,
And in thy mercy heal us all."

"Another thought very generally shared by thoughtful people today is that the twentieth century is to mark the beginning of a

NEW AND BETTER ERA

in the evolution of the human race. A new world has come into existence during the past fifty years. In that period man's knowledge of the laws of nature and of life has increased more than in all preceding time. And of this knowledge, much of which, already applied to the uses of life, has now become familiar and even commonplace, perhaps, the most wonderful has been the re-discovery of the Soul, and of its remarkable power to heal directly and effectively a large proportion of the ills of the body. The healing power of Jesus has again been made available for the relief of human sin and suffering.

"This to my mind, is the greatest discovery of the age, and it constitutes, I believe, the greatest opportunity that has come to the Christian Church for many centuries; by healing the bodies and souls of men, to heal also the unhappy division which has so sadly weakened the power of its rightful influence; to regain its ancient triumph and to possess as it has never possessed before, the allegence and devotion of the hearts and minds of men; to stand as it ought to stand, like its own great teacher and prophet, not between the mind and truth, or between the Soul and God, but rather between the Soul and all the tragic realities of human sin and sickness and death, that the Soul itself may have free access to the power and peace of God. The Church is confronting a great opportunity. But whether it embraces the opportunity or not, this rediscovery of the healing power of Jesus, which is indeed a power not peculiar to Jesus alone but a benificient law of the universe, available to every individual and for the good of all—that re-discovery is destined to spread and to grow until its principles and practise become the basis of all the educational and penological policies of the state, a common accepted rule of all right human living.

"It is an

that a great many diseases which heretofore have been considered exclusively within the province of the medical profession have been healed, simply and solely by means of religious healing based on the power of suggestion. The school of suggestive hypnotism at Nancy, reports ten cases of organic diseases of the nervous system and six cures, 17 cases of hysterical disease and 16 cures, 18 cases of neuropathic affections, moral depression, etc., and 16 cures, 15 cases of various neurouses and 12 cures, and 12 cases, 3 cures of dynamic paresis and paralysis, 19 cases of rheumatic affections and 16 cures, 5 cases of neuralgia and 3 cures. "I do not speak incurable diseases, adds Dr. Burnheim, which may however be favorably acted upon by suggestion. The method he says is a thereapeutic resource of unquestionable value.

"Coming closer home to a work not more religious but more directly under deligious auspices. I refer to the splendid work being done by Dr. Worcester at Emmanuel Church, Boston. Dr. McComb the associate director reports in his article in the current Century several cases taken almost at random from the clinic note books where health has been restored by the methods employed at that church.

"If time permitted these reports might easily be supported by numberless others, all telling of accomplished by agencies equally important, and showing results, perhaps even more remarkable than those I have mentioned. The limits of this wonderful power t do not pretend to know, or to state. It is sufficient here, to know that there is such power a healing available in the universe, and that the various schools of psychotherapentic thought and practise may now enter into inspiring emulation, under reasonable legal restraints, to produce the best and largest results of health for the best interests of humanity. Nothing short of this can surely sustain the fine traditions of this grand old commonwealth, nor satisfy the needs of life and the demands of progress.

God is: God is infinite life and truth and health and goodness; it is the will of God that I should be healthy happy and useful; as God is a Spirit, so am I a spirit, and it is the right of the spiritual to govern all lower things; I am not merely a body with a soul, but rather a soul expressing itself in and through the body; the natural powers of the soul tend always towards health and happiness, towards power and peace as a man thinketh, so is he; by thinking health and power and happiness and peace and endeavoring to live acording to the natural laws which govern them we may make them our own; the power of healing is a law inehrent in the soul which every one may use for his own benefit and which many may use for the good of their fellows—these are some of the affirmations of the gospel of religious healing. Translated into the healing of disease they put new life and meaning into the symbols and phrases or religion. Faith becomes a great practical reality of life. Prayer takes on new meaning and the Church itself receive a new baptism of divine power and usefulness.

"Every movement which seeks to change the prevailing thought and custom of the times through much gross misconception and through many deliberate slanders. And perhaps this is well, because by such tests truth is vindicated from mere pretence and hyprocrisy, but if these words of mine, because of this special occasion might reach a greater audience than my usual constituency, I would appeal to men everywhere to give this subject of religious healing their most serious and honest consideration, and without losing sight of common sense and sound judgment to avail themselves of the good which it offers to their own lives and to the life of the race. I would appeal to every religious society including my own to re-examine the teachings and life of Jesus in the light of modern psycological knowledge to add to their organization a department of religious healing, to conduct the same sanely, wholesomely and effectively, calling to their aid and co-operating with the best knowledge and skill of those members of the medical profession who recognize the great importance of physichotherapeutics in the art of healing.

"And finally, I would state my honest conviction that this re-discovery of this law of healing will bring humanity in the coming years along way towards the fruition of those great ideals of truth and justice for which so many souls in all ages have toiled and suffered and died.—Nearer, a much nearer to that a state of living where life shall in truth be God's free garden and where love shall reign supreme, where there shall be room both for thought and for faith, and where the prophet's vision and the poet's dream shall become at last an abiding reality in the thoughts and lives of men,

There each sorrow shall have its soothers'
And each need its kindly care,
And all mankind be brothers,
And love reign everywhere.
Where heaven's eternal patience,
All human hearts shall win.
And earth's enfranchised nations,
Shall hail God's kingdom in."

SEVENTY FUNERALS SUNDAY

Memorial Services In Eight Churches For Nineteen Unidentified Dead--Collinwood School Board Holds No One Responsible For Loss of Life

Cleveland, March 9.—In a storm of snow and sleet, Collinwood went on Sunday with the duty of burying the victims of the Lake View school fire of Wednesday last. In all, seventy funerals were conducted yesterday. As there were not enough hearses to go around, street cars were pressed into service to carry the dead to the cemeteries.

This morning memorial services in honor of the nineteen unidentified dead were held in the six Protestant and two Catholic churches of Collinwood. A cortege of twenty funeral cars then started for the burying ground. A band met the procession near the gates and led the way, playing Chopin's funeral march. Thousands of people witnessed these final services and 100 policemen were detailed to preserve order.

Collinwood's school board, which has been meeting daily since the fire, held another session yesterday. "We hold no one responsible for the fire and its attendant loss of life," is said to be the board's decision. Meanwhile the town council has ordered all schools closed until measures of safety have been adopted.

The total number of dead is now thought to be 174. Of this number the bodies of 167 have been found. The bodies of six other children are believed to have been burned to ashes. This is the opinion of the village officials, who have compiled what is supposed to be a complete list of the missing.

The death list was increased by the death of Glen Barber, 10 years of age, who succumbed to injuries sustained by leaping from the second story of the doomed building, while his schoolmates rushed headlong into the death-dealing flames in the lower hallway.

Out of the total number of bodies recovered 147 have been identified. It is believed by officials in charge of the bodies that mistakes have been made by parents who claimed the little blackened remains during the excitement of the first day or two, and that they took possession of bodies that were not those of their dead children. Deputy Coroner McNeil made an effort to rectify some of the blunders. In this he was handicapped because in some cases the funerals had been held and in other instances the bereaved parents could not be convinced of their supposed error.

Once Rich, Now In Poverty

Worcester, Mass., March 9.—At the age of 83, Dr. John W. Sill, a veteran philanthropist and cancer specialist, was forced to apply to the overseers of the poor here for assistance. Sill, about a year ago, predicted that he would be dead in six months and, in the event of his expectation being realized, gave away all his money and property. For many years he made his home in the Brookfields. He carried on his philanthropic work in a quiet way and he was esteemed by all who knew him.

Toga May Not Be Bestowed

Montpelier, Vt., March 9.—The prevailing sentiment at the present time in this city is that Governor Proctor will not appoint a senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Redfield Proctor, his father, in view of the fact that the session of congress will close soon. The governor has the choice of making an appointment, or he may leave the vacancy to be filled by the Vermont assembly next fall.

Convicts Kill a Prison Official

Deer Lodge, Mont., March 9.—Warden Conley of the Montana penitentiary was severely stabbed and Assistant Warden Robinson was killed by three life convicts who tried to escape prison. Robinson's throat was cut from ear to ear. Conley shot down two of the men, who were armed with pocket knives. It is believed that the warden and the convicts will recover.

Will Be a "Bryan Convention"

Boston, March 9.—Former Congressman George F. Williams last night declared that the Bryan men would control the spring convention of the Democrats, which will select four delegates-at-large to the national Democratic convention at Denver. "It will a Bryan convention from the start to finish," he asserted.

American Car Far Ahead

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 9.—The American car of the New York to Paris automobile race arrived here at noon yesterday. Repairs on the Italian car are being made in Omaha. The first French car is still in Iowa, while the second French automobile and the German machine are in Illinois.

Coal Mines Suspend Operations

Mahanoy City, Pa., March 9.—The Kohinoor, Knickbocker, Turkey Run, Bear Ridge, Boston Run and West Shenandoah collieries of the Reading Coal and Iron company were closed down yesterday for an indefinite period. Several thousand men and boys are affected.

DELICIOUS NEW DESSERTS.

Apple Charlotte.

One pound of cooking apples, two ounces of currants, four ounces of beef suet, six ounces of breadcrumbs, four ounces of brown or white sugar and one half of a lemon.

Peel, corn and slice the apples, chop the suet finely and mix both together. Butter a pie dish and fill it with alternate layers of breadcrumbs and suet, apples and currants. Sprinkle each layer with sugar and grated lemon rind. Reserve sufficient breadcrumbs to sprinkle over the top, place here and there a tiny piece of butter and bake in a moderately heated oven for about one and a quarter hours. To serve unmold the shape on a hot dish and sprinkle over a little sugar flavored with ground cinnamon.

Gateau Cream.

One pound currants, three-fourths ounce gelatin, three-fourths pint water, three ounces sugar and one-fourth pint claret. Soak the currants and boil them in the water till tender. Sieve, add the other ingredients and the gelatin dissolved in a little water. Pour into a mold, turn out when set and serve with whipped cream.

Currant Blancmange.

One pint milk, four ounces currants, two ounces cornstarch, sugar, flavoring. Mix the cornstarch with a little cold milk, pour on it the boiling milk, stirring all the time. Return it to the saucepan and stir while boiling for five minutes. Mix in the currants, sugar and flavoring and pour into a mold. When set turn out on a cold dish.

Apple Rolly Poly.

Six large cooking apples, one-quarter pound of brown or white sugar, six ounces of currants, the rind of a lemon chopped finely, a little nutmeg. Pare, core and cut the apples into slices, put them into a saucepan with the lemon rind and sugar, cook till soft and add the nutmeg. Have ready a rather rich suet crust, roll it out thinly, spread the apples over the paste, sprinkle over the currants, roll the pudding up, closing the ends properly. Tie in a floured cloth and boil for two hours.

NEW WEAPON IN WAR AGAINST DISEASE GERMS.

Discovery of a Veroform Product That the Pasteur Institute Calls Perfect Begins New Epoch In Medical Science.

Science has taken another long step ahead in the discovery of veroform, an antiseptic that is nonpoisonous, but more potent than carbolic acid or corrosive sublimate in destroying all forms of disease germs. It was a great day in warfare when the torpedo boat was invented, but it was a greater day when the torpedo boat destroyer was introduced. So in medical science, while it was a triumph when the germ theory of disease was discovered, this triumph went into total eclipse when germicides powerful enough to annihiiate the germ armies were found.

Formaldehyde largely superseded other antiseptics and disinfectants because of its greater destructive effect and safety. Like carbolic acid and corrosive sublimate, however, it causes intense irritation owing to the presence of formic acid. Veroform is a solution of formaldehyde gas freed from formic acid by a process of saponification.

The Pasteur institute, whose voice is that of final authority in such matters, in a report on this discovery says that "veroform is a perfect antiseptic. It exerts a powerful bactericidal action on the most obstinate forms of bacteria, such as those of tuberculosis."

Records of suicides and accidental poisonings show that carbolic acid is responsible for more fatalities than all other poisons put together. Veroform will end this menace by providing against the ravages of disease germs, a means of defense that cannot be turned into a weapon as dangerous to its users as to the enemy.

So harmless is the new germicide that it has been applied in full strength to a goat's tongue and injected in diluted form in the eye of a sheep without causing any inflammation whatever. And its use is so free from danger that it can be bought by any one at drug stores without a prescription.

Yet two drams of veroform, containing 20 per cent of formaldehyde gas, to a pint of water is a more powerful disinfectant than a 1 to 1000 solution of bichloride of mercury. On the basis of these facts the foremost medical authorities of Europe and America declare that veroform as a germicide, antiseptic and deodorant is the strongest barrier yet erected against the inroads of infection and disease.

One of the laws in South Africa is that "every package, parcel or vessel, whether open or closed, containing margarine shall be conspicuously marked 'Margarine' on the top, bottom and sides in printed capital letters, and every person selling margarine by retail, save in a package duly marked as aforesaid, shall in every case deliver the same to the purchaser in a paper wrapper, on which shall be conspicuously printed 'Margarine' in capital letters."

E. A. Wickham, in the office of the journal clerk, Washington, is compiling a volume that upon its appearance may be designated as the "Book of Beauty." It is to contain pictures of all the members of congress who are now serving and will be distributed among them. It will be an innovation and, taken in connection with the Congressional Record, which gives biographical sketches of all the members, will be the means of keeping a good record of each other.

Something Coming In.

Life is a bolted chamber where we dwell
Till Fate unlocks the doors to heaven or—well,
Don't mention that! So long as we can raise
The wherewithal we needn't fear the knell.

So let's be up and doing, and we'll win
The prize Success, which vulgar folk call "tin."
So long as we're awake and ADVERTISE

AFTER TEN DECADES

Hearing to Determine Responsibility For Disaster at Sea

Portland, Me., March 9.—Responsibility for the loss of the American brig Olive Francis, off the Nova Scotian coast, after a collision with the United States gunboat Winooski, will be determined at a hearing to commence before the United States district court tomorrow, after a period of nearly forty-two years since the disaster occurred.

The case comes to the court on petition of Sarah A. Pennell of Machias, administratrix, and others, who were given permission by special act of congress to bring the suit in accordance with regular admiralty procedure. For over a year attorneys for the petitioners and the government have been taking depositions of the surviving members of the crews of both vessels.

The Olive Francis was run into by the Winooski about thirty miles northeast of Halifax during a thick fog on July 1, 1866. The brig filled rapidly and two cutters from the gunboat took off all of the crew and three women passengers.

Captain Small of Machias was master of the brig and he claimed that the gunboat was at fault. He asserted that she was proceeding at too high a rate of speed for the weather conditions and did not keep a proper lookout. He made a claim before congress to be paid for his vessel, but he died before congress gave the petitioners permission to bring suit.

The depositions of those on the Winooski at the time of the collision are that the gunboat was running at a reduced rate of speed, was sounding her whistles at proper intervals and had the proper lookout. The brig's sails were not seen until the vessel was within 100 feet of the gunboat.

Cutdown Proposition Discussed

Boston, March 9.—A meeting of the committees and a number of members of the various Brotherhoods of Railroad Trainmen and lodges of railway conductors of every section of the Boston and Maine railroad system was held here Sunday to discuss the proposition that the men agree to a reduction of 5 percent in their wages until July 1. The gathering was secret and nothing was made public except that no vote was taken on the matter.

Crane Men Get Powerful Ally

Boston, March 9.—In a public statement issued last night ex-Governor John D. Long places himself squarely on the Crane platform. While Long's personal choice is Taft, he declares the delegation to Chicago should be unpledged. The Crane forces thus gather a powerful ally, because Long also declares that he finds some things which hamper Taft's candidacy. Long also has a very pleasant word for Hughes.

Death Certificate Withheld

Lowell, Mass., March 9.—Richard Sullivan of Westford was drowned yesterday in Granite millpond. He is supposed to have fallen off a high wall into the water. His horse and pung disappeared and were not found until twelve hours later in the woods a half mile away. Medical Examiner Sleeper of Westford has refused to sign the death certificate, owing to suspicious circumstances surrounding the case.

Shot Wife and Killed Self

East Weare, N. H., March 9.—Brought to bay by officers who were about to arrest him for attempted wife murder, Charles F. Hillsgrove of Concord, a farmer, shot and killed himself instantly. A few hours previously he had seriously wounded his wife, who will probably recover. A quarrel following the refusal of the woman to return to live with him resulted in the shooting.

Granite Strike Continues

Barre, Vt., March 9.—A mass meeting of the granite manufacturers of Barre, Montpelier and vicinity was held here behind closed doors. No information regarding the proceedings was given out, except that there was no change in the strike situation. Since last Monday all the quarries and stone sheds hereabout have been idle, about 5000 men being thrown out of work.

Raid on Cockfighters

Cranston, R. I., March 9.—Surrounding a barn in the woods and firing their revolvers to cower those inside, a squad of police rounded up forty men of Providence and nearby places who were enjoying the Sunday afternoon pastime of a cock fight in Johnston. A special session of court was called in Cranston and the men were arraigned and bound over to appear in court.

Boy Dies From Rifle Wound

Somerville, Mass., March 9.—Samuel White, aged 11, who was accidentally shot by his own rifle while in the woods with some boy companions Saturday, died last night. An uncle of the boy offered to allow his blood to be used for transfusion, and the bullet was removed from the boy's abdomen late yesterday, the boy failing to survive the operation, however.

Italians Held Up Trolley Car

Dayville, Conn., March 9.—A large body of Italians from Danielson and Williamsville grew riotous in celebrating last night, held up and took possession of a trolley car and terrorized passengers and others who came near by brandishing knives and razors. No one was injured. Eight arrests were made.

A Victim of Sluggers

Boston, March 9.—Albert Drew, aged 40, who was held up and murderously assaulted by three men near his home last Thursday night, died last night of his injuries. The police have placed under arrest Daniel B. Griffin, aged 26, on the charge of being implicated in the death of Drew.

A PRESENT CRAZE.

An Interesting Way to Earn One's Daily Bread.

Of all the fads which the American girl has taken up within the last few years that of bookbinding is the most interesting as well as being for many besides the most worth while.

If a girl is possessed of any talent for drawing or designing, bookbinding is a delightful work, as it calls for all the originality and individuality of which she is capable. Naturally any one at all interested in the best in literature and art will find the work all absorbing, for in no other way is it possible to come into such personal touch with an author as in the binding of his books.

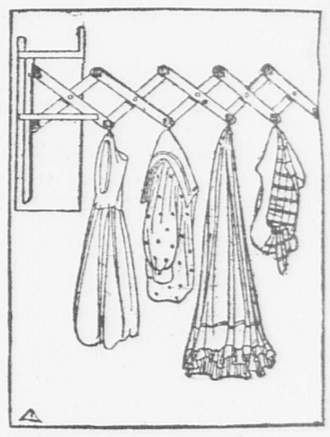

From a financial point of view also there is much in favor of learning the art of bookbinding. Many girls, while possessed of a fairly comfortable income, would still like to feel that should anything dire occur they would be capable of earning a livelihood, and bookbinding is a real and recognized profession that once learned could at any time be turned to account. There is really more to be made in getting up a class in bookbinding than in the actual work itself, for a book to be well bound by hand requires some weeks of steady and patient labor, but for a rare old edition a good price will be paid, and for a handsomely bound collection of the works of a long familiar author a most satisfactory sum can always be obtained.

If it appeals at all, bookbinding is a fascinating occupation and as a profession is assuredly far and away more interesting than the average means of earning one's daily bread, and for this very reason has it grown so tremendously popular among girls who, although at present are possessed of all that money can buy, nevertheless feel that they would like to have something upon which to fall back.

CLOTHES SUPPORTER.

Adapted to Support a Large Number of Garments.

When selecting a house the most important requisite in the eyes of the housewife is the number of clothes closets. In her estimation there must be plenty of them, and she prefers those of large capacity. In the majority of cases she must be satisfied with very small closets, which afford but little space for the reception of clothes. By discarding the hooks usually fastened to the top and sides of the closet and employing the clothes supporters shown in the illustration all the available space in the closet could be utilized. It is especially adapted to receive a large number of garments or other articles when in extended position and to fold them into a compact form without creasing or soiling them when contracted. In addition every garment is immediately accessible, thus eliminating the nuisance of removing the garments on the forward hooks in order to reach those on the hooks farther back. It will be obvious that when the tongs are drawn into an extended position a large number of garments can be easily hung upon the lower crossbar and can afterward be folded into compact condition by pushing the supporter to the folded position.—Washington Star.

To Mend a Tear.

Accidents will happen and a tear in one's best skirt is no laughing matter. For most rents baste a piece of thin paper under the rent, drawing it into perfect shape; then darn neatly with ravelings of the material. If one has no pieces, these can sometimes be obtained from the raw edges of the skirt gores. A French patch is made without turning the edges under. The piece is smoothly fitted in and a piece of thin paper basted on. The edges of the patch are then darned with very fine stitches. Always press a darn carefully after finishing it.

The Bachelor.

Poor old bachelor, little he knows
What harvest of sadness his selfishness sows!
Hard is his task to accomplish his ease.
Hardest of all himself is to please.
Poor old bachelor, pity him all,
Bitter the honey he mixes with gall!

Sleeping and eating and drinking, forsooth,
All that he thinks of, and that is the truth.
These take the place of the child he has missed;
These compensation for being unkissed;
Selfishly gloating o'er lack of a wife,
Wrapt in himself the whole of his life.

"Glad I'm not in it," he says, with a smirk.
Life's solemn duties he's willing to shirk.
While nature exacting the penalty sure
At best makes the bachelor nothing but poor.
The slave of himself, hard tyrant to please,
He works like a Turk to accomplish his ease.

Diplomatic Issue Between Japan and China Grows Serious

JAP WARSHIPS COALING UP

Hauling Down of Japanese Flag Aggravates Feeling Against Chinese Authorities--Story of Incident Which May Have Serious Result

Tokio, March 9.—There were no developments throughout Sunday or today in connection with the Tatsu affair. Meantime Japan is undoubtedly preparing for eventualities. The entire decision in the case rests with Premier Saionji and Foreign Minister Hayashi. There has been no indication of the period of time that Japan will await China's reply.

What action Japan will take in the event that she decides immediately to take "independent action" is a matter of speculation in diplomatic circles in Tokio. While war is regarded as most improbable, the naval base at Sasebo is extremely active.

It is announced that a part of the first squadron will leave port on March 14. The armored cruiser Chiyoda suddenly left port last night. Coaling is proceedingly rapidly and a number of torpedo boat destroyers have already coaled. Enormous supplies in storage at Sasebo are being hurried aboard the vessels.

It is pointed out that the first squadron expected to start on training maneuvers this week, a fact announced two months ago; therefore the activity at Sasebo should not necessarily be considered in connection with the Tatsu incident.

The Kanto, a boundary, the Tsin-Min-Tun-Fakumen railway, the north Manchurian customs and the telegraph questions—all these have now ceased to excite much concern in the minds of those who can see below the surface of the political current, but, on the other hand, a Chinese warship seized a Japanese merchant steamer—the Tatsu Maru—in Chinese territorial waters just outside Macao harbor and escorted her to Canton on the charge that she was engaged in an attempt to smuggle arms and ammunition into China.

To add to the irritation inseparable from such a course of action, the Chinese commander hauled down the Japanese flag en route and run up the Chinese dragon ensign in its stead. The Japanese foreign office has lodged a strong protest with the Chinese foreign office, demanding the immediate release of the Tatsu Maru and the punishment of the officials responsible for her seizure.

Quite irrespective of the merits of the case, the Japanese minister maintains the action of the Chinese authorities in seizing the steamer and hauling down the Japanese flag was an insult to Japan, even though it were the outcome of a misunderstanding.

The facts of the case, as nearly as can be ascertained from both sides, appear to be these: The Japanese contention is that the vessel left Kobe on Jan. 26 with 94 cases of rifles and 40 cases of ammunition consigned to Messrs. Kwong Yo & Co. of Macao, who are licensed by the Macao government to deal in arms. It is asserted that the necessary permit had been secured from the Macao authorities with regard to the arms and ammunition, and that the usual customs and police formalities had been complied with at Kobe. The fact that the Tatsu Maru anchored outside Macao harbor is explained by the statement that her draft was too great to permit her to enter the harbor in safety, and that the intention of the captain and the consignees was to have the cargo discharged into lighters.

According to the captain's story, the vessel was surrounded by four Chinese gunboats and was shortly afterwards boarded by the Chinese commander, who declared that, although the steamer was in possession of a certificate issued by the Portuguese authorities at Macao, the Chinese government was informed that she was bound for Macao with a cargo of 134 cases of arms and ammunition consigned to a Chinese firm and that he had been ordered by the taotai of Canton to stop the discharge of this cargo. Later two customs officials and twenty bluejackets boarded the steamer.

The incident created no small excitement among the steamer's passengers, some apprehension being entertained that the Japanese cruisers in Hong Kong harbor might attempt a rescue, in which event it is deemed probable that the Chinese gunboats would have sent the Tatsu Maru to the bottom without further ceremony. It was to safeguard the vessel against any attempt to escape that the Chinese commander ran up the dragon flag, thus technically placing the vessel under arrest.

Further inquiry has elicited the information that the seizure of the Tatsu Maru was brought about through a report sent from Japan to the Chinese authorities to the effect that although the rifles and ammunition were consigned to a firm in Macao they were really to be smuggled into the hands of insurgents in the inferior of China. Acting on this assurance the Chinese authorities took immediate steps to seize the steamer. It is surmised that the informant of the Chinese government may have been a Chinese residing in Japan.

The Shippers' Union of Japan, one of whose members is the owner of the arrested vessel, has not been idle, but has adopted a resolution calling for the immediate release of the steamer and for payment of proper compensation.

In the meantime the situation regarding the captive steamer has been found impossible of adjustment, and yesterday a high official of the foreign office had the following to say with regard to Japan's course of action: "Japan will not resort to force in connection with the seizure of this vessel unless compelled to do so by the action of China."

Chinese Foreign Board's Attitude

Hong Kong, March 9.—The Self-Government association has called a meeting for an early date to discuss the seizure of the Tatsu Maru. It is understood here that the Chinese board of foreign affairs favored the release of the vessel and the confiscation of her cargo of arms, but that the viceroy of Kwang Tung objected to this. The commissioner of Lappa, a treaty port of China at the mouth of the Canton river, near Macao, says that the seizure of the Tatsu Maru was legal.

Charged With Perjury

New York, March 9.—Charles Sunshine and Michael Cohen, who made the canvass to secure signatures to a petition for a change of venue in the trials of John G. Jenkins and his three sons, the Brooklyn bankers, were arrested last night and held in $2000 bail each for a hearing on the charge of perjury. The district attorney alleged that the petition was fraudulent and that perjury had been committed in the affidavits attached to the petition.

Irish Are Against New Treaty

Washington, March 9.—Irish opposition which, it is asserted, defeated the arbitration treaty negotiated by Secretary Olney and Lord Pauncefote twelve years ago, now menaces, officials say, the new arbitration treaty which has been envolved by Secretary Root and Ambassador Bryce. Already the state department has been deluged with remonstrances and protests from Irish patriotic organizations, all directed against the new convention.

Shipwrecked Seamen Landed

New York, March 9.—On board steamer Cherokee, which docked here this morning, was the crew of the ship Beta, which ran ashore on a reef near Turk's island. The Beta, which was bound from Halifax for Jamaica, will likely prove a total loss. The crew of seven of schooner Marjorie J. Sumner, which was wrecked on North Caicos island, were also aboard the Cherokee. There is little likelihood of saving the schooner.

Crime Increasing In New York

New York, March 9.—An increase in crime in this city is disclosed in the annual report of the work done in the office of the district attorney. The report shows that complaints in 1907 numbered 6586, as compared with 5237 in 1906. But these did not include all the actions dealt with in the office. Through the compiaint bureau, created by the office, fully 12,000 complaints were received and investigated.

Troops Have Left Goldfield

Goldfield, Nev., March 9.—The United States troops who have been in Goldfield for three months have evacuated their camp and turned the responsibility for maintaining peace in the Goldfield district over to the local police authorities and the Nevada state police. The district is peaceful, as the strike was practically declared off last week.

Four Men Killed by Gas

Baltimore, March 8.—Four men are dead and ten others were taken to a hospital suffering from the effects of gas, which overcame them, while at work in the Pennsylvania railroad tunnel. A number of others were affected, but managed to reach the entrance to the tunnel and the safety of fresh air before being overcome.

Will Skirmish For Hughes Delegates

New York, March 9.—It is announced that, with the endorsement of the Republican state committee as a working basis, the supporters of Governor Hughes' candidacy for the presidential nomination will bend their efforts from now on to gaining instructed Hughes delegations from New York and other states.

Police Block Goldman Plans

Chicago, March 9.—Emma Goldman, propounder of the doctrines of anarchy, did not make a public address in Chicago yesterday, as had been announced. Strict orders issued by the police during the week to owners and managers of public halls left her without a place in which to hold a meeting.

Fate of Wealthy Horseman

Kansas City, March 9.—David Waldo, a wealthy horseman, who formerly owned a race track here, was killed near Independence in a runaway accident. He was a graduate of Washington and Lee university, Virginia. He was the father of Jed and William Waldo, famous jockeys a few years ago.

Magoon Again In Havana

Havana, March 9.—Governor Magoon arrived here yesterday morning on a United States revenue cutter. In the afternoon the governor rode in an automobile in the carnival procession through the Prado, being showered with confetti amid shouts of "Viva Magoon."

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Tuesday, March 10.
Sun rises—6:05; sets—5:45.
Moon sets—1:30 a. m.

The indications point to clearing and colder weather in New England and a considerable fall in temperature.

Did You EVER THINK of That?

IT WILL HELP QUINCY!
IT WILL HELP YOU!

Don't You Like This Town?

You live here. Your business interests are here. Your home is here.

You are reading a Mail Order Catalogue. That indicates that you are not spending your money in this town. You are spending it with strangers in a big city. That city has no use for this town except to get your money.

This town has use for your money. If spent here, your money will help to build up the town. It will help to build up your own business.

In the long run more of your money will come back to you if you spend it at home than if you send it to Chicago or some other large city. You spend a dollar with Smith, up the street. Smith spends it with Brown, around the corner. Brown is just as likely to spend it with you as with anybody else. Did you ever think of that?

All of us have to spend money. There is an art in spending it where it will do the most good. If spent so that it will circulate around this town and community, it will help this town and community. You belong to this town and community. Therefore it will help you. Isn't that good logic?

Suppose you think it over next time you pick up the Mail Order Catalogue.

BRAINTREE'S NEW TELEPHONE STATION

On Saturday night the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company changed its telephone system in Braintree to the "Common Battery" type. To the telephone user this change means that after Saturday night he will call central by removing the receiver from the hook and will no longer be required to turn a crank either to call central or to notify her that his conversation is finished.

The "Common Battery" system derives its name from the fact that the electricity used in transmitting messages and ringing the bells is supplied by big storage batteries located in the central office instead of from numerous small batteries located at each subscriber's station as in the present system. Central receives her signals in an entirely different manner under the new system. When the subscribers removes his receiver from the hook a small electric lamp in front of the operator is lighted. When the conversation has been completed and the receiver replaced on the hook another lamp is lighted which notifies the operator of the fact.

The new switchboard which is located in the present operating room of the Telephone Company on Elm street is of the latest type and is known to telephone men as a "No. 10 relay board."

While preparations for this "Cut over," as it is technically called, have been going on for months, the actual change which will be made on Saturday night is but the work of a very few minutes. When all is in readiness and the word given, a number of heat coils will be ripped out by means of a piece of piano wire and with almost no interruption of the service, the change is completed.

The "Common Battery" system to be used in Braintree is similar to that of Boston and all the larger cities in the country. The new Braintree switchboard consists of four sections and its capacity is sufficient to provide for about 600 subscribers. Other sections can be added, however, increasing the board to asufficient capacity to provide for over two thousand subscribers.

The exchange in Braintree has grown from 62 subscribers in 1901 to over 320 subscribers at present.

Mr. R. E. Hiland who has had charge of the local exchange since September 1907, requests us to extend an invitation to those of our readers who are interested to inspect the new equipment and see it in operation.

The Company claims that the system ust installed embodies all that is latest and best in telephone equipment. During the last few monthe the changes made in the plant required by the new system have been made with the utmost care. Manager Hiland states that while every line and every connection have been carefully tested it is inevitable that after the cut over some of the lines will come, as telephone men put it, "in trouble."

The management will make every effort to put these lines in order without delay but some inconvenience may be avoided if any subscriber who finds that his line is "in trouble" will call Mr. Hiland and notify him of the fact. Mr. Hiland requests us to state that the Company will greatly appreciate such a courtesy on the part of any subscriber.

Some excellent musical programs are being presented by Mme. Morey at Bethany church; that of Sunday evening being very pleasing, including violin solos, vocal numbers with autoharp accompaniment, trios and choruses.

Fall Proved Fatal.

Jeremiah Sheehan of 46 Bates avenue died at his home on Sunday from the effects of an accident last Wednesday. On that day he was at work in an apple tree on his premises clearing out gypsy moths, when he lost his balance and fell to the ground. The fall fractured a rib which punctured his lungs, causing pneumonia, from which he died. He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter. One of his sons is Rev. J. J. Sheehan of Somerville.

Presents No Plan

changed. The committee in conference with the Mayor have given this matter consideration, and do approve of the action of the citizens in that matter.

It was also voted in favor of an overhead bridge for vehicles over Saville street.

John T. Cavanagh then explained his plans. These were the same as presented at the public meetings of the citizens and have already been explained at length in the Daily Ledger.

It proposed raising the tracks at South Quincy doing away with the School street bridge, flattening the curve at Granite street and passing along Irving place to Adams street. Saville street to have overhead bridge. It also included a new street from Franklin street running parallel with the railroad to Granite street, on the east side. At Water street grade will remain same as now. The grounds about the Quincy station will be less dangerous than now. The grade of the railroad through Quincy would be nearly level. There would be no change in the switches at South Quincy.

Henry McGrath believed it not necessary to lower grade of Water street five feet. Lowering one foot would be sufficient.

Mr. Cavanagh claimed a one per cent grade was better than a level street.

G. B. Bates asked some questions as to height of the bridge at Saville street and what property would be damaged.

Mr. Cavanagh replied the Richards property and the Bates block would be damaged the most, the Bates block being wiped out.

The Granite street end of Goffe street was stopped up, and a new way was provided to Whitwell street.

Mr. Bates—You are stopping all our streets by your proposition.

Col. Benton asked for blue prints of the Cavanagh plan.

John L. Miller inquired about freight yard at South Quincy, and how you would get into it.

Mr. Cavanagh—We go back to the proposed new street and drop 7 feet in 1300 feet to the new freight yard.

Mr. Miller—If you enter from the north end you will have to annilate several houses.

J. W. Pratt—They will have to switch about three times to get into the freight yard. Start from the pumping station run to new street, back up to Water street and then back into new freight yard. That makes three turns. They can not switch directly into the new yard. By stopping School street the distance from School street to Marsh street is 1600 feet further.

Col. Benton asked in whose interest his plans were made. Mr. Cavanagh replied they were made in no special interest, but at suggestion of citizens.

BATES PLAN.

G. B. Bates then presented his plans for Saville street, which called for depression of the tracks beginning at a point 400 feet north of Dimmock street as far as School street. These were the same plan that were explained at length at the citizens' meetings. This plan he claimed injured no property and maintained present conditions. Every spur track remains. He simply reserved the present grade of the railroad tracks.

W. R. Thomas asked where on Granite street he would commence his grade to go over the tracks Mr. Bates replied from Goffe street. On the easterly side would come to grade at the post-office.

The grade from Hancock street to the bridge would be 3 per cent, also 3 per cent on the west side.

In reply to Col. Benton, Mr. Bates said he had made no estimate of cost by his plan.

E. J. Parker asked the effect on Water street by this plan.

Mr. Bates—This is independent of Water street. You can do anything you want there. After the tracks had been depressed 13 feet at Saville street, Water street would be 4 6-10 feet above Saville street.

In reply to further questions by Mr. Parker, Mr. Bates said the danger of the curve at Granite street would not be increased. He believed it would be lessened.

BOARD OF TRADE PLAN.

E. W. Branch then submitted the plan for Water street agreed upon by the Board of Trade and Granite Manufacturers' Association.

This plan was explained by Mr. Branch. It calls for bridge over the tracks at Water street, leaving Liberty street as it now is for an entrance to the new freight yard. Some business firms were damaged on Liberty street by this plan by having their land taken. Mr. Branch stated that the Board of Trade also supported the Bates plan for Saville street.

Henry McGrath entered a protest that these plans were agreed upon by the Granite Manufacturers. All plans were considered at a meeting of the association, and at a vote taken 7 voted in favor and 5 against. Many present did not vote.

Mr. Swithin did not favor this plan—You would have to cross that spur track to get to the depot. This does not eliminate the grades. You must cross track to get to the depot.

E. J. Parker asked if it was a fact that freight yard was only operated at night.

Mr. Branch—I so understand.

Mr. Cavanagh asked about width of Liberty street at entrance of freight yard. Mr. Branch said railroad could make it as wide as desired.

Mr. Cavanagh asked if it would not be a dangerous grade on that side street from Water street to Liberty street. Mr. Branch replied he did not think so.

Questions were also asked about width of Liberty street, and as to how McGrath Bros, would get out, by W. R. Thomas. The only access Mr. McGrath would have outside of railroad property would be 20 feet.

J. L. Miller said notice of meeting of the Granite Manufacturers' Association were sent out. The vote was larger than has been stated.

Last week a communication was received from the Board of Trade asking our cooperation, and the matter was referred to the president with full power.

J. Q. A. Field understood vote was 7 to 5, and every one of those seven was an interested party. Do not agree with the president of the association. He would like to see the record of that meeting.

Mr. Field then asked several questions in relation to the Branch plan. He claimed curves would be bad for teaming, especially a twenty horse hitch.

Henry McGrath—The secretary of the Granite Manufacturers' Association gave me the figures of the vote on these plans. I simply do not want the Association put in a wrong light.

Chairman Bates asked as to the number of members of the Board of Trade, and the number present when the vote to approve this plan was taken.

Gilbert M. Miller said he was a teamster. Why can not they load heavy freight as well as now. We have got lots of worse curves than that. We come from the quarries with 8 and 10 per cent. grade.

John Q. A. Field then presented his plan which called for crossing under the tracks from Federal avenue to Water street. This plan he claimed saved all of the spur tracks. Teams could make corners easily as they were on level ground.

G. B. Bates asked if this plan maintained the present grade of Water street.

Mr. Field replied yes except it had two dead ends.

T. L. Williams—He neglected to say he puts out of commission the Crane elevator.

Mr. Field—It does not touch it at all.

Col. Benton moved that parties presenting plans furnish estimates of the cost of the plan they wanted adopted.

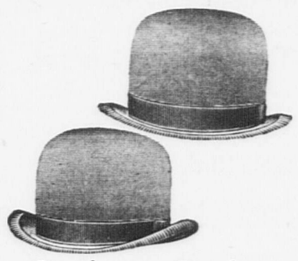

Chairman Bates said the commission would be very glad to have estimates on all plans, but that would not exclude them from being considered.

Melville Hayward then presented the plan of Carl R. Hayward, representing a disinterested party. This plan contemplated a street starting from Saville street running along by Richards building and crossing the tracks by an overhead bridge near the old freight house and then joining Upland road. The plan also contemplated extending Irving place to Granite street. There would be a subway where the present Saville street now is. This plan has been shown at citizens' meetings.

Mr. Bates said this plan had been eliminated by the public meetings and he protested.

At 12.15 the hearing was adjourned until April 25.

The Wife of the Cat.

Nasr-ed-din, the Persian shah, was an intensely superstitious man and believed that his luck lay in his beautiful black Persian cat, which was a remarkably handsome cat in a land where cats are nearly all handsome. The shah never allowed the black cat to be away from him, and it was given in charge of one of his wives, Amin Agdas, who was styled "the wife of the cat."

When the shah went on his long shooting expeditions, the Persian cat was put into a decorated basket and carried by a special attendant directly behind his master. Unluckily one day an accident occurred, and the black cat came to an untimely end. The shah was in despair at the loss of his luck bringer, but the clever "wife of the cat" exerted her influence and brought her nephew under the shah's notice. The lad was sharp enough to make the most of an accident (planned by his aunt) and save the shah's life, and the monarch was so pleased that he gave the boy the name of "the cherished of the sovereign" and installed the new luck bringer.

Perilous Boating.

On the west coast of Ireland, near the mouth of the river Shannon, are several large sea caves which open into each other. The visitor seems to be floating through a submarine palace of many halls whose roofs are either as green as grass in the sun or blood red. But the visitor needs a good guide and a good boatman, for the sea is insidious and the labyrinth of caves intricate. On one occasion, writes Aubrey de Vere in his "Recollections," soon after a party had entered the boatman suddenly shouted, "Bend down your heads for your lives!"

No one saw any danger, but the boatman felt the placid water insensibly rising and knew that the tide had turned. At last the visitors knew this, too, for it was not until the boat had ascended within a few inches of the roof that it began to descend.

"Pull your best!" exclaimed the man at the helm. "If the second wave reaches us, we are lost!" But before the second wave reached the cave the boat had issued from its mouth.

An important meeting of the City Council was held Monday evening, when the annual appropriation order was considered at length and passed. The order appropriating an additional $4000 for the Coddington school was also passed.

A large number of City officials were present by request. These included: Mayor Shea, City Solicitor McAnarney, Commissioner Bainbridge, Overseer Elcock, City Clerk Keith, Treasurer Curtis, Tax Collector Carey, Assessors Adams, Pratt and Duggan, Chief of Police Burrell, Chief Engineer Williams, Chairman Walsh, and Dr. Burke of the Board of Health, Secretary Mitchell of the Managers of Burial Places, Chairman Hunting, J. L. Miller, D. E. Wadsworth and John A. Duggan of the School Committee and others.

Councilman Carey was the only absent member.

EXPERTS WANTED.

The Mayor forwarded a communication relative to the abolition of the grade crossings at Saville and Water streets, suggesting that the time had arrived to consult experts as to plans, construction, etc. He recommended an appropriation of $5,000.

Laid on the table until later, when Councilman Walsh offered an order for that amount which was referred to the Finance Committee.

COPELAND STREET.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Commissioner, stating that he had held a conference with companies owning poles on Copeland street. The poles between Cross and Willard streets were satisfactory, but those between Cross street and Brewer's corner were not, and should be relocated that unnecessary poles might be removed. A conference was now in progress to straighten this matter out. Placed on file.

Several applications for minor licenses were received and referred.

REPORTS.

The Committee on Streets reported an order concurring with the Metropolitan Park Commission in the taking of certain land from Blacks creek to the Furnace Brook parkway Adopted.

The Committee on Ordinances reported correctly engrossed on the orders granting the Telephone Company attachments on various streets and for a location of poles on Field street. Passed.

CODDINGTON SCHOOL.

Councilman Abele offered an order for the Commissioner of Public Works to investigate all school buildings with reference to main doors, exits and fire escapes, particularly in regard to exits in case of fire. Adopted.

Councilman Walsh offered an order changing an incandescent light on Sumner street to an arc light. Referred to Executive.

EXPRESS LICENSES.

Councilman Falconer offered a resolve that no junk licenses or permits to transport liquor be considered after May 1

Later this vote was reconsidered and the resolve amended so as to read that no applications for junk licenses or permits to transport liquor would be considered unless filed before May 1. Adopted.

Councilman Bryant offered an order that Highland avenue between Brook street and Beale street be put in a suitable condition for public travel. Referred to Executive.

Councilman Teasdale offered an order for two lights on Smith street. Referred to Executive.

Councilman Cherrington offered an order for two lights on Hunt street. Referred to Executive Department.

ANNUAL APPROPRIATIONS.

The annual appropriation order took its second reading, and was referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

Reference withdrawn and upon motion of Councilman Bryant the rules were suspended.

Upon request of Councilman Whiton Commissioner Bainbridge appeared before the Council, and in reply to questions said the amount of the excise tax was $6,300, and the appropriations of last year for street improvments $18,300.

In reply to Councilman Abele he said the cost of maintaining horses was $5,000 and the cost of new tools was, roughly stated, $1,500.

Councilman Abele moved that the item be divided so that a separate item of $5,000 should appear for maintenance of horses.

Councilman Moir and Broughton asked questions about the horses.

Councilman Whiton moved to amend the amendment by cutting the appropriation for streets $1,000, and Councilman Abele accepted the amendment.

Councilman Whiton argued at length about the money the commissioner would have to expend on streets. He said he wished to add the $1,000 to the Poor Department appropriation.

Commissioner Bainbridge said he intended to make his street repairs as near permanent as possible.

Councilman Whiton thought if item were cut the Commissioner would be pinched but all departments must economize.

Mayor Shea said we have 87 miles of streets. The special appropriations must be spent on the streets they were appropriated for. He simply wanted a fair statement of facts.

Councilman Teasdale opposed the reduction.

Councilman Whiton believed we should pay for things as we go this year.

Councilman Hogan hoped motion would not prevail. The street are in a bad condition.

Councilman Bryant hoped amendment would not prevail. He objected to having departments of this kind itemized. He hoped appropriation would not be cut.

Councilman Freeman opposed any reduction.

The question on the amendment was then put and lost, 3 voting yes and 15 no.

POOR DEPARTMENT.

Councilman Whiton moved the item for the Overseer of the Poor read, $11,465, instead of $10,000, which included $1,465 for deficit.

Councilman Broughton would amend by making the item $9,000. He had been looking over last year's bills and seen items for beef at 23 cents, celery at 25, and oranges at 50 cents per dozen for the poor farm.

Councilman Teasdale opposed any reduction.

Old Chronic Sores Cured by "THE HOUSEHOLD SURGEON." Druggists refund money if Dr. Porter's ANTISEPTIC HEALING OIL fails. 25c

LIBRARY NOTICE.

On and after MONDAY, March 16, no more books will be issued from the Thomas Crane Public Library until further notice, on account of the changes incident to the enlargement of the building.

All books must be returned on or before March 31.

Per order of the TRUSTEES.

Quincy, March 5, 1908 p2w---19t

Overseer Elcock said those bills were not during his administration. He did not buy provisions for the poor farm that way now. He would like to see the deficit paid that he might start square.

Councilman Whiton opposed any reduction.

Councilman Whiton's amendment for increase was lost by a vote of 5 in favor and 12 against.

Councilman Broughton withdrew his amendment.

ASSESSORS DEPARTMENT.

Councilman Broughton thought the clerks in City Hall should earn their salary and he moved to amend the Assessors appropriation by striking out one clerk $624.

Principal Assessor Adams objected The new ordinance had imposed additional work on the department, and the estimates had been cut.

The motion to amend was lost.

WATER DEPARTMENT.

Councilman Abele asked the amount of unpaid water bills Dec. 31, 1907.

City Auditor Fairbanks replied $1,-080.

Councilman Abele was anxious to know what became of this money when collected.

POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Chief Burrell was then called before the Council, and asked concerning the items for special police, miscellaneous and liquor laws.

In reply to questions he said he would rather have it lumped as proposed.

Councilman Hogan asked questions as to enforcement of liquor law in 1906 and the item for detective work.

The Chief was also asked what he proprosed to do at Houghs Neck and replied that he would do the best he could to abate the club nuisance. Last year he expended $400 there and this year the amount would be $900.

Councilman Whiton moved to make this item $6,000 instead of $5,500.

After some further discussion in which Councilmen Hogan, Whiton, Gelotte, Abele, Bryant and Moir, took part, the motion was lost.

Councilman Moir moved to divide the item "Miscellaneous, special police and enforcement of liquor law into three items, as in past years. Motion lost.

POOR DEPARTMENT.

Councilman Whiton moved to strike out the words, "including deficit of 1907 amounting to $1,465" from the item for Poor department. Motion lost.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

Councilman Moir moved to amend the item for the City Solicitor by adding the words "incidental expenses." Voted.

The order was then passed to be ordained practically unchanged.

All the business was transacted expeditiously, the meeting lasting about an hour.

Sudden Death Of Quincy Pastor

Rev. Daniel W. Stoddard, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church passed away suddenly Monday afternoon of apoplexy at his home at South Quincy. Rev. Mr. Stoddard had apparently been in the best of health and occupied his pulpit as usual on Sunday. Monday morning he had a shock and lingered until about 6 P. M.

Rev. Mr. Stoddard received his theological training at Yale, and previous to coming to Quincy had been pastor of Pierce Street Baptist church of Greenfield for four years. Prior to that he had been pastor for eight years at the Mariners' Harbor Baptist church at New York. He was 59 years of age, and is survived by a widow.

Granite Polishers Return to Work

The conference between the Granite Manufacturers Association and the Polishers Union which was held Monday, succeeded in reaching an agreement before adjournment, and the men returned to work this morning.

JOHNSON REMOVAL

Assessor's Case Argued Today In the Supreme Court at Boston

The case of Charles H. Johnson who was recently removed from the office of Assessor by Mayor Shea came up in the Supreme court this morning. Mr. Johnson was represented by Assistant United States District Attorney Asa P. French, while City Solicitor John W. McAnarney represented Mayor Shea.

There was a large delegation from Quincy present including several of the department officials and members of the City Council, as well as officials and councilmen of other years. A number of other citizens were also present.

No witnesses were heard, the points in the case being presented by Counsel French, and admitted by Solicitor McAnarney.

Mr. French admitted that under Sect. 27 of the City Charter the Mayor had a right to removal from office, the clause relating to removal reading: "the Mayor shall have the sole power of appointment to all the municipal offices established by or under this act."

Mr. French further claimed that the so-called amendment to the charter, relative to Assessors, passed by the Legislature in 1900, was not a part of the charter, but an independent act. This act provided how the Assessors should be appointed.

Although the court did not give its finding, it was intimated that a finding in favor of Mr. Johnson might be rendered.

At the close of the argument, the court said, that in view of the importance of the case, it would give its finding as soon as possible.

Fire Drill

The first fire drill at the Quincy High school this year took place this morning. Four bells were sounded and in less than ninety seconds 800 pupils filed out by the two front doors.

Britain Refuses to Make Public Emperor William's Letter

DISCUSSED BY THE LORDS

Rosebery Blames "Yellow" Journalism For "Absolutely Insane Inference" Tending to Excite Suspicions Endangering European Peace

London, March 10.—The government has decided to keep private the personal letter written by Emperor William to Lord Tweedmouth, first lord of the admiralty, in which it was charged by the London Times that the emperor had attempted to influence legislation in the matter of the naval estimates of Great Britain.

The discussion yesterday was brief. All the participants proceeded as if they were walking on eggs, for criticism of the ruler of another nation is a delicate business. The fact that Lord Tweedmouth consulted with Foreign Secretary Grey before replying to Emperor William's letter was the only new fact brought out, and it goes far to diminish the criticism of Lord Tweedmouth, because it relieves him of all suspicion of anything resembling disloyalty to the interests of the navy.

The character of Emperor William's letter is now generally understood. The spiciest passage is believed to be the reference to Lord Esher that he had better occupy himself with drainpipes and keep his hands off the navy. Esher was engaged in improving the drainage system of Windsor castle when Emperor William was there recently.

The feature of the session in the house of lords was a speech by Lord Rosebery, who had the Prince of Wales in a seat beside him. The former premier made an attack upon the "yellow" journalism of England with special reference to the inferences drawn by the London Times from the letters.

"We have witnessed," Lord Rosebery said, "the whole world drawing the absolutely insane inference that the German emperor was attempting to influence Lord Tweedmouth with the view of cutting down the naval estimates and checking the increase of British armaments. This country has been placed in an unseemingly ridiculous position, and I am quite sure the idea mentioned never entered Emperor William's head, or the head of any educated person entitled to remain outside of a lunatic asylum.

"There is a section of the press which seems anxious to create bad feelings between these two countries and there is an impression abroad that because Great Britain has arrived at a friendly feeling for France she should be hostile to Germany. This section of the press took up this trivial incident to excite morbid suspicions between the two countries, suspicions which, in my opinion, gradually are developing into danger for the peace of Europe."

Continuing, Lord Rosebery reminded the country that its friends of today might be the enemies of tomorrow and vice versa. He drew the lesson from the present excitement that neither the English nor the German press should do anything that might endanger the peace of Europe. Thoughtful observers, he said, should not overlook the fact that the German army of 4,000,000 represented practically the German nation. Before any German government, however powerful, would be able to declare war on any country, it must have the support of the German nation in a war against Great Britain when the feeling of the nation had been so exasperated as to render a continuance of peaceful conditions impracticable.

So far as the British government is concerned the statements made in the house of commons and house of lords are regarded as closing the incident of Emperor William's letter to Tweedmouth. There is no truth in the report that an exchange of views is going on between the two governments concerning this correspondence or dealing with a reduction in naval armaments.

In view of the anti-German excitement prevalent at the present time, special interest attaches to the official announcement that the Prince and Princess of Wales are going to Germany the end of this month to visit Emperor William and the empress.

Public opinion with regard to the discussion of Emperor William's letter to Lord Tweedmouth, as revealed by the press comment today, is not altogether satisfied with the official statement. There still are grumblings, especially from the section devoted to the anti-government campaign in favor of a big navy, at the decision not to publish the correspondence.

Bed-Ridden For Twenty-Seven Years

Alton, Ills., March 10.—Captain Daniel Stewart, 94 years old, died here after lying in bed twenty-seven years, during the greater part of which time he smoked a pipe. His death was the ultimate result of injuries suffered in a steamboat boiler explosion and was hastened by his setting his bed on fire recently while smoking.

Death Delayed by Request

Norfolk, March 10.—Leo C. Thurman, under sentence to be hanged Friday, has been respited by Governor Swanson to March 27. The respite was granted on the plea of Thurman asking for a fortnight more in which to complete the history of his life he is writing.

THE THAW'S ESTRANGED

Harry's Mother "Inclined to Be Fair and Just" With Evelyn

New York, March 10.—Franklin Bartlett, who has been engaged by Mrs. William Thaw to assist in straightening out the troubles of her son, H. K. Thaw, is quoted as making this statement regarding the reported break in the relations of Thaw and his wife, Evelyn N. Thaw:

"The reports that have been printed to the effect that Mrs. Evelyn N. Thaw has been shadowed for evidence in a divorce proceeding are without truth. Mrs. William Thaw is inclined to be fair and just with her son's wife. Insofar as I am concerned as counsel for the mother, I would not use any such means as are suggested in these frequently printed stories.

"Mrs. Evelyn N. Thaw desires a separation from her husband, and her husband hopes that there will be a reconciliation. There has been an estrangement between them."

From another source it is learned that Mrs. William Thaw, believing that she holds the whip hand over the young woman, has given her the option of accepting one of two alternatives—to accept $25,000 and offer no defense to proceedings for divorce from her legally insane husband, or to be cast off without a penny.

Performance by Aged Actors

Philadelphia, March 10.—Other memories of triumphs long past filled the halls of the Edwin Forrest home for old actors here when the 102nd anniversary of Edwin Forrest was observed by the inmates. William H. Bartholmey, assisted by the old actors, presented "Toodles," in which he starred in 1846. John Jack, who supported Forrest in many roles, rendered Shakespearean selections. Mrs. Kate L. Littell, Mrs. Hackett and Charles J. Tyffe, who also supported Forrest in many roles, assisted in the entertainment.

The Baker Death Inquiry

Bogota, N. J., March 10.—The first attempt to legally determine the cause of death in the case of Walter Farnsworth Baker, the wealthy Boston man, who died Oct. 27 last after having been deliberately poisoned by arsenic, as alleged by his brother, was started in Bergen county courthouse at Hackensack today. Over fifty men and women well known in the New York Tenderloin have been summoned to testify. Join have been summoned to testify.

Charge Against Census Director

New York, March 10.—Charges of official dereliction in duty are made against S. N. R. North, director of the census, in a letter which has been sent to President Roosevelt by President Ridder of the American Newspaper Publishing association. Ridder charges that North, in a letter written on the subject of news-print paper prices for a period of fifteen years gave a series of "false and misleading figures."

The Quebec Bridge Disaster

Ottawa, March 10.—The report of the royal commission on the collapse of the Quebec bridge, in which four score of lives were lost, finds that the collapse was due to defects in design. The disaster cannot be attributed directly to any cause other than errors in judgment, the report declares, on the part of the two engineers who designed and approved the plan.

Serious Charges Against a Woman

New York, March 10.—Accused of forgery, larceny and embezzlement of over $50,000 in Russia, Mrs. Olga Stein was arrested here on an extradition warrant issued by the state department at the request of the Russian government. She was committed to the Tombs until March 16, when the examination in the extradition proceedings will be held.

Threatened a Man's Life

Pottstown, Pa., March 10.—Harry Spieze, aged 17, after being "sweated" by a detective, confessed that he wrote a threatening letter to Joshua B. Lessig, son of a wealthy iron master and capitalist. He was committed to prison. The letter, which was adorned with skulls and cross-bones, threatened Lessig's life in the event of his failure to put up the money.

Burglars Got $12,000 Worth

New York, March 10.—Loss of approximately $12,000 worth of silver plate, jewelry and precious stones, through the operations of burglars at his home, was reported to the police last night by Edward S. Rapallo, an attorney. Practically the entire house was ransacked by the burglars. There is no clue to their identity.

Paid the Death Penalty

Trenton, March 10.—Michael Tomassi was electrocuted at the state prison for the murder of his landlady, Delia Congelio. Tomassi was in a state of collapse. An effort had been made to save him from the chair and his father came from Italy to join in an appeal to Governor Fort, but the governor refused to interfere.

A Little Too Realistic

Lisbon, March 10.—In the carnival celebrations at the village of Salsas a man and his two sons gave representations of the assassination of King Carlos. One of the sons, who was impersonating Buica, the assassin, shot and killed his father, who was made up as Franco, with a revolver which he believed was not loaded.

THE LAST SAD RITES

Remains of All Lake View School Fire Victims Are Buried

ONE LARGE PUBLIC FUNERAL

Coroner's Jury Exonerates Janitor Hirter From All Blame For Holocaust--Cleveland Taking Precautions to Protect Her Schoolchildren

Cleveland, March 10.—When twenty-one flower-strewn white caskets were placed beneath the ground in Lake View cemetery yesterday the last of the 167 charred remains of children who lost their lives in the burning of the Lake View school in Collinwood last Wednesday were laid to rest. The twenty-one caskets contained the bodies of the seventeen unidentified children and four that were claimed at the last moment. All were buried together in one big public funeral.

Services were held in each of the eight churches in Collinwood. The parents of the unclaimed ones attended the churches of their respective faiths. Following this, the public service was conducted by Rev. Gerard F. Patterson at the morgue.

When the funerals were held all the church bells in the village were tolled simultaneously. Memorial services were held in all of the Cleveland schools at the same hour.

At the coroner's inquest yesterday Fritz Hirter, the janitor of the ill-fated building, was exonerated from all blame for the fire.

Late yesterday afternoon a public meeting was held by Cleveland city school officials, city officials and editors of the Cleveland daily papers. The school board was recommended to make immediate repairs to the present buildings, but it was not deemed necessary to close all of the school buildings until repairs have been attended to.

Last night the school board decided to raze the Mayflower school building, located in the Ghetto district, at once, and erect a larger and modern fireproof building in its place.

Other school rooms were ordered closed in various parts of the city until fire escapes can be built. Fire wardens will be stationed in all dangerous buildings and will patrol them until they are placed in an approved condition. The board also decided to issue bonds for $450,000 at once to make repairs. It was stated that it would require about $1,500,000 to place all of the city school buildings in a perfectly safe condition.

Not a Bad Suggestion

Boston, March 10.—An order was passed in the board of aldermen last night that the fire commissioner and the school committee, at the request of the mayor, consider the advisability of having a fireman in uniform stationed during sessions in every schoolhouse of the city having an attendance of over 300 children. It was argued that one fireman in uniform would be a better guarantee of safety than the best equipped fire escape apparatus. The order was sent to the mayor.

New York, March 10.—A resolution will be introduced at the meeting of the board of aldermen calling on the fire commissioner to detail a fireman in each public school of the city. The recent catastrophe at Collinwood, O., has prompted the resolution.

Children Disregarded Fire Drill

Lee's Summit, Mo., March 10.—Four hundred children in the public school here rushed out in disorder when a fire alarm was sounded. Attempts were made to use the fire drill, but a call of "fire" outside of the building caused the children to make for the nearest exits. No one was injured. The fire was quickly extinguished.

Display of American Grit

Naples, March 10.—A party of 150 American tourists made an ascent of Mount Vesuvius last night by torchlight. They described the sight of the volcano and eruption as most impressive. One of the male tourists, accompanied by three young women of courage, explored one of the new great fissures now in eruption. Up to the present time this particular section of the volcano had not been visited even by guides.

Lived Six Years With Broken Back

Ellwood City, Pa., March 10.—After living for six years with a broken back, a complete paralytic, Miss Effie Frishcorn, 23 years old, died last night. About six years ago Miss Frishcorn fell from a porch, breaking her back. Portions of the vertebrae were removed at the time, but no hopes were entertained for her recovery. She had baffled all physicians who attended her by her tenacious hold on life.

More Hard Fighting In Morocco

Paris, March 10.—General d'Amade, commander of the French forces in Morocco, has followed up his previous advantages in his campaign against the warring tribesmen by inflicting a decisive defeat. The enemy suffered enormous losses. The French losses were slight, considering the severity of the combat and the nature of the ground.

Mutiny of Venezuelan Soldiers

Caracas, March 10.—An uprising occurred in a barracks here, the soldiers killing their commander, General Mesa. The mutiny was quelled only after a number of soldiers had been shot.

HUMAN RACE AFFLICTED WITH QUEER DISEASE

Cooper Says Internal Parasites Cause Much Suffering Everywhere.

The following remarkable statement was recently made by L. T. Cooper. It concerns the preparation which has been so widely discussed throughout the country during the past year, and has sold in such enormous quantities in leading cities:

"It is now a well-known fact that wherever I have introduced my New Discovery medicine, hundreds of people have brought internal parasites, or tapeworms, to me. In many cases these people did not know the nature of the parasite, and were consequently extremely nervous until I explained the matter to them. In some cities so many have had this experience that the public generally became alarmed.

"I take this opportunity of explaining what these creatures are, and what I have learned about them in the past.

"Tapeworms are much more common than would be supposed. I venture to say that ten per cent. of all chronic stomach trouble, or what is known as a 'rundown' condition, is caused by them. An individual may suffer for years with one of these great parasites and not be aware of it.

"Contrary to general belief, the appetite is not greatly increased—it only becomes irregular. There is a general feeling of faintness, however, and a gnawing sensation in the pit of the stomach.

"People afflicted with one of these parasites are nervous and depressed. Their chief sensation is one of languor, and they tire very easily. Lack of energy and ambition affect the body, and the mind becomes dull and sluggish. The memory becomes not so good, and the eyesight is generally poorer.

"The New Discovery, in freeing stomach and bowels of all impurities, seems to be fatal to these great worms, and almost immediately expels them from the system. I wish to assure anyone who has the experience just related with my preparation, that there is no cause for alarm in the matter, and that it will as a rule mean a speedy restoration to good health."

The Cooper medicines are a boon to stomach sufferers. We sell them.

AS TO ARMOR BELT

Location on American Battleships Considered Too Low

OPINION OF TWO ADMIRALS

One In Active Service Cautiously Endorses Ideas of Retired Officer--Goodrich Has Been Discouraged From Making Suggestions

Washington, March 10.—Testimony was adduced yesterday before the senate committee on naval affairs, which is investigating the criticisms of battleship construction, showing that the location of the armor belt on American battleships was too low.

On the other hand, a letter from Secretary Metcalf was read, declaring it to be the opinion of the board of construction and of Rear Admirals Evans and Brownson that the armor belt lines of the battleships Delaware and North Dakota were right. The secretary, in his communication, took occasion to declare that American battleships were superior to those of any other navy.

The witnesses were Lieutenant White, assistant inspector of target practice, and Rear Admirals Remey and Goodrich. In reference to the location of the armor belt, White said that if it were possible for a ship to get into action at the designed load draft the present location would be about right, but it was his observation that the ships had greater drafts than those designed.

White thought the drafts would be still greater under war conditions. He said that safety demands that the turret proper shall be structurally separate from the ammunition handling room. The two-stage hoist is one way to effect this, but he thought it might be possible to construct a direct hoist so that the handling room could be isolated. He preferred the two-stage hoist and declared that the shutters now in use in the direct hoist are "most inefficient."

Rear Admiral Remey, retired, told the committee he would locate the armor belt with reference to the proper load water-line, when the ship is equipped to go into battle. He thought it the duty of a commander of a battleship to have full stores on board, if possible, in going into battle. He excepted coal, but thought the bunkers should be at least two-thirds full. He said he never had believed in the open turret and thought the guns should be completely isolated from the ammunition handling rooms. Though unfamiliar with the hoists now used, he said he had no hesitation in endorsing the interrupted hoist. He opposed sacrificing safety for rapidity of fire.

Rear Admiral Goodrich, commandant of the New York navy yard, asserted that he believed the American ships to be good, but that they could be made better. In regard to the location of the armor belt he said he concurred absolutely in the testimony of Admiral Remey. He thought the interrupted hoists better than the direct type.

Senator Tillman called Goodrich's attention to the fact that Commander Sims, a few days ago, gave the name of Goodrich as one of the men who would corroborate him in the declaration that the department would not accept officers' criticisms. The admiral looked annoyed.

"Have you made reports to the department criticising any matter of construction?" asked Tillman.

"I have," replied the admiral, and answering other questions said he had criticised the location of the armor belt.

"What do you think about it?" asked Tillman.

"I think just as Admiral Remey does. I have adopted his expression," said the witness, cautiously. Pressed for more definite replies, the witness said he thought the armor belt too low. He thought the water-line should approximately divide the armor belt, with half above and half below the water-line. It was suggested by Chairman Hale that a chance would have to be taken as to the condition of sea at the time the ship went into action.

"The whole naval life is a chance," the witness remarked.

Mr. Tillman returned to the charge that officers had been discouraged from making suggestions or criticisms and demanded Goodrich's experience. The latter replied that he had made several suggestions which have not borne fruit.

Priest Threatened by Black Hand

Philadelphia, March 10.—Much trepidation has been caused by the receipt of a "black hand" letter by Dr. Giovanni Preziosi, a distinguished Italian sociologist, who is the guest of the Augustinian Fathers in this city, in which $1000 is demanded of the priest. The letter, which is written in Italian, is marked with two sinister symbols. Preziosi is a secular priest who has made a study of Italian colonies in America and elsewhere.

Would Not Give Up Steamer

Canton, March 10.—A monster meeting was held here last night to resist the demand of the Japanese government for the release of the Tatsu Maru. The meeting was attended by a great number of prominent personages. A resolution was adopted to the effect that, failing the confiscation of the ship and her cargo, a boycott would be inaugurated against Japanese manufactures.

MAINE CITY ELECTIONS

Honors About Evenly Divided In Five Municipal Contests

Portland, Me., March 10.—Honors are about even as the result of the municipal elections yesterday in Augusta, Brewer, Belfast, Bangor and Biddeford. Mayors were re-elected in the first four cities, two Republicans and two Democrats.

At Biddeford Cornelius Horigan, nominated by the Democrats and endorsed by independents, defeated his Citizen-Republican opponent by fourteen votes. The complexion of the city governments was not materially changed except at Augusta, where each party elected half of the aldermen and councilmen. The Democrats controlled Augusta's city affairs during the past year.

Spirited contests were waged except at Brewer, where the Democrats lost their place on the ballot by failing to comply with the ballot law provisions and were forced to use stickers. The mayors elected and the complexion of the city governments in the five cities follow:

City	Mayor	Gov.
Augusta	F.W. Plaisted* (D)	Rep-Dem
Brewer	...C. H. Small* (R)	Rep
Belfast	..E. F. Hanson* (D)	Dem
Bangor	J. F. Woodman* (R)	Rep
Bid'frd	...C. Horigan Dem-Ind	Dem-Ind

*Re-elected.

Chinamen Want New Trial

Boston, March 10.—A formal motion for a new trial of the nine Chinamen who were convicted of murder in the first degree for complicity in the rival Chinese secret society feud, in which several Boston Chinamen were killed, has been filed in the superior court by counsel for the convicted men, on the ground that the finding of the jury was against the evidence and the law.

Fatal Runaway Accident

Burlington, Vt., March 10.—A team of army mules, attached to an army wagon from Fort Ethan Allen, were driven into the city and the soldier in charge had George Bouchette, aged 35, hold them for him while he transacted some business. The mules became frightened and bolted, entangling Bouchette in the reins and inflicting injuries from which he died.

Blew His Own Head Off

Bath, Me., March 10.—After threatening to kill his two daughters, aged 16 and 14, and his two grandchildren, because they had attempted to prevent him from taking his own life, and frightening them out of the house, James W. Rook blew off his head with a shotgun. He was a farmer, 73 years old, and a widower.

CAUSE AND CURE OF APPENDICITIS

THE SIMPLE REMEDY THAT EFFECTS THE CURE

Professor Blanchard of the French Academy of Medicine has spent a great amount of time studying that dread disease—Appendicitis. In company with Professor Metchnikoff, he has carefully examined numerous cases, and both have reached the conclusion that the cure is not the knife. In more than forty cases the symptoms of Appendicitis disappeared after the patients had been treated for worms.

There are, no doubt, many persons suffering from worms who are erroneously attributing their trouble to some other cause. A few doses of Dr. True's Elixir are sufficient in most cases for the complete expulsion of the worms.

The presence of these parasites is easily recognized by the following symptoms:—Indigestion; foul tongue; offensive breath; variable appetite; hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel; heavy, dull eyes; itching of the nose; short dry cough; grinding of the teeth; starting during sleep; slow and frequent fever; in children—convulsions and bed wetting.

Dr. True's Elixir will not only expel the worms, but will build up the whole system as well.

DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR THE OLD FAMILY REMEDY

has been in constant use for more than half a century. Even though no worms may be present, Dr. True's Elixir prevents their growth and is an invaluable remedy for the relief of stomach ills. Its marvelous tonic qualities brings back a feeble and impaired digestion; purifies and enriches the blood; quickly regulates a disordered liver.

Dr. True's Elixir is used and endorsed by physicians and hospitals all over the country. Read what Mrs. Joy says of Dr. True's Elixir:—

CENTRE ABINGTON, MASS.

DR. TRUE:—"I wish to inform you of the success I have had in using one bottle of your Elixir. I gave it to my children, and after the third dose one of them passed a long round worm. I also wish to say it is one of the safest and best medicines to have in the house for children. I would not be without it now." Sincerely yours,

Mrs. Henry C. Joy.

Dr. True's Elixir is sold by druggists everywhere at 35c, 50c, and $1.00 a bottle. An interesting and instructive booklet entitled "Children and Their Diseases" will be sent free to all who apply for it, by simply addressing Dr. J. F. True & Co., Auburn, Me. We have a special treatment for tape-worm. Send for free book.

UNDERCURRENT OF FEAR

Elaborate Precautions to Safeguard Life of King Alfonso

Barcelona, March 10.—Barcelona, the stronghold of Republicanism and the center of violent agitations for the past twenty years and designated also by the royalists as a hotbed of anarchism, is preparing to greet the King of Spain today. Every precaution within the powers of the civil and military authorities has been taken to safeguard him during his brief stay in this city.

Public buildings have been decorated and flags and streamers are flying everywhere, so that, outwardly at least, the king's reception will be a patriotic one. But that there is fear of attempts at demonstrations is shown in the fact that the official program of the visit has not been published and that all the houses along the streets through which the king will pass have been searched and will be guarded from this on. All these houses must keep their doors closed when the king is passing.

General Linares, captain general of Catalonia, has forbidden the throwing of bouquets or flowers during the passage of the royal cortege. The newspapers strongly criticise the elaborate precautions of the officials, which they consider responsible to a large extent for the uneasiness pervading the public mind.

By an unfortunate coincidence the flags on the Carlist clubs are half-masted today, it being the annual memorial service for the victims of the Carlist wars.

Schmitz Unlawfully Convicted

San Francisco, March 10.—That former Mayor Schmitz was unlawfully convicted of extortion and sentenced to five years in prison was reaffirmed when the state supreme court unanimously refused to grant a rehearing of the case before the district court of appeals, which several weeks ago reversed the judgment and order of the trial court, and ordered the discharge of the defendant on the ground that, even though Schmitz had accepted money from French restauranteurs, he had not obtained it by threat, and was, therefore, not guilty of extortion under the statutes. The prosecution purposes at once to bring to trial some of the many other charges preferred against Schmitz and Ruef.

Prince and Anna Gould Coming

Paris, March 10.—Mme. Anna Gould, accompanied by her children, will sail tomorrow from Cherbourg for New York. It is reported that Prince Helie de Sagan also has made arrangements to leave for the United States. Recently it was said that Mme. Gould had been married to the prince, but she authorized denial of this. In order to have her children with her on the trip it was first necessary to obtain the consent of Count Boni de Castellane, her former husband, as required by the decree of divorce.

Threatened to Storm Bank

New York, March 10.—A notice posted on the doors of the banking house of Mirrel, Speisman & Sternberg, Brooklyn, notifying all depositors that the firm has been forced to suspend business temporarily, created consternation among the patrons of the bank. Italian, Syrian and Jewish depositors threatened to storm the place. The police reserves were called and dispersed the people.

His Presence Undesirable

New York, March 10.—The recent activity of the immigration authorities is bearing fruit. The special board of inquiry at Ellis Island has ordered that Abraham Boschek, 24 years old, an immigrant from St. Petersburg, be deported. Boschek, while under examination, avowed his belief in anarchistic theories and an order was at once issued that he be sent back to Europe.

Fleet Making Good Progress

Washington, March 10.—It is calculated at the navy department that Admiral Evans' battleship fleet will reach Magdalena bay by March 12. It is said also that the question of the fleet stopping at a Japanese port in the event that it came home by way of the Suez canal is not even under consideration by the navy department.

Plenty of Work For Farmhands

Lancaster, Pa., March 10.—The Farmers' League of Lancaster county has sent an appeal to the unemployed, through the bureaus of labor and immigration at Washington, to seek work on the farms in eastern Pennsylvania at wages which the farmers say are greater than those received by the laborers in cities.

The Submarine Investigation

Before the submarine boat scandal investigating committee at Washington on Monday, says a dispatch to the Herald, Representative Lilley of Connecticut, who preferred the charges, said he had been shadowed by detectives, and that in order that this shadowing be stopped he would ask to have summoned as witnesses three operatives connected with a local detective agency.

It was the first meeting of the special committee of the House appointed by Speaker Cannon "to investigate the conduct of the Electric Boat Company of New Jersey and their predecessor, the Holland Boat Company, respecting the methods employed by said companies in connection with past or proposed legislation before Congress."

The committee is composed of Representatives Boutell of Illinois (chairman), Stevens of Minnesota, Olmsted of Pennsylvania, Broussard of Louisiana and Howard of Georgia.

Chairman Boutell directed the clerk to read the report of the committee on rules, pursuant to which the investigating committee was appointed.

When the clerk reached that portion of the report which said that Mr. Lilley, at his own instance, appeared before the committee on rules in connection with his charges Mr. Lilley interrupted to say he had received a written notice from the clerk of that committee to appear before it.

When the reading of the report had been concluded, Chairman Boutell asked Representative Lilley if he was prepared to go ahead and state his facts. Mr. Lilley said he was not prepared to be examined at this time; that he desired to be represented by counsel and had not yet secured one. He, however, submitted a number of documents to the committee.

He also submitted a list of witnesses that he desired to be summoned as follows: Isaac L. Rice, president of the Electric Boat Company, to bring with him all the books and accounts showing payments made to attorneys and employes for work performed or to be performed at Washington or in any congressional district of the United States; also vouchers, checks, check books and other documents showing checks issued for such employment, also vouchers and memorandums showing payments by Elihu B. Frost for expenses of every kind and character at Washington or elsewhere in promoting legislative appropriations and the procurement of contracts; also all books, vouchers, checks or other evidence of any moneys contributed by Isaac L. Rice personally to the campaign fund of any political party or in any congressional district; Elihu B. Frost, Maurice Barnett, treasurer of the Electric Boat Company; August Tredwell, Jr., assistant treasurer; Norman G. Johnson of New York, attorney, and S. S. McNeir.

He also desired summoned Marion Butler, C. B. Creecy, H. W. Creecy, B. F. Sands, all of Washington, Dr. S. R. Kerr of Chicago, Frank L. Meinburgh of Bay City, Mich., and W. B. Gordon of Midland, Mich.

"ADVERTISING OF THE RIGHT SORT PERSUADES PEOPLE TO BUY. IT'S MORE NEARLY AKIN TO REAPING THAN TO SEED-SOWING; WHILE IT BRINGS AN IMMEDIATE HARVEST, IT AT THE SAME TIME LEAVES THE FIELD IN BETTER CONDITION."

The Mardi Gras At New Orleans

Only those who have had the privilege of being in New Orleans at the Mardi Gras season have any conception of the carnival pageants, the grand balls, the masqueraders on the streets ,and the revelry which precedes Lent each year. Several Quincy people have seen these spectacles and others will be interested in this article from the carnival edition of the Daily Picayune of March 2:

Each year the Carnival in New Orleans seems to attain more artistic and bewilderingly brilliant dimensions. From two days of revelry it has spread itself over two weeks; from a local event it has become one of such national salience as to draw visitors from all over the continent, and even from abroad. Its fame has long since eclipsed that of the Roman Carnival, where individual caprice disports itself in various guise; but to have anything approaching the gorgeous pagents which wend their way through the streets of the Crescent City, one must go back to the Italy of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, when the greatest artists of the land were summoned to reproduce with all the inventiveness of the imagination and all the fidelity of scholarship, gorgeous pageants, classical or historical in subject, upon which fabulous sums were spent, Such processions as welcomed Lucrezia Borgia to the Duchy of Ferrara, or celebrated the nuptials of Beatrice d'Este.

These spectacles of Renaissance, Italy, in which its awakened sense of joy and beauty found vent, are the only parallels for the wonderful displays celebrant of ancient myth and of present mirth that represent the New Orleans Carnival of today. And there are more points of analogy, for only in a semitropical climate, among roses and jasmines still blooming in the winter months could such unsubstantial and glittering structures, airy as "the baseless fabric of a dream," pass under the open night skies—pass through long lines of illuminated buildings and streets strung with incandescent globes and played upon by calcium lights and the red glow of flambeaux borne by Nubian torch-bearers. For in these torch-bearers the negro of the Southern plantations becomes transformed by the mere addition of a crimson tunic into a servant of the Pharoahs, and a touch of picturesque antiquity links this Southern spectacle to the past.

The strange thing is that all this should take place today, in this practical and utilitarian age and country, and in the midst of a business community engaged in the most absorbing commercial competition and development. The commercial side is, indeed, very closely bound in with this fairyland, which looks as if it had arisen at the mere waving of a wand. A year's toil of brain and hand on the part of designers, costumers, painters, carpenters and other skilled workmen goes on silently and secretly in order that all at once the dazzling realization shall burst with the suddenness of magic on the eyes of the beholders.

To maintain such a vast system of scenic pageantry, which changes all its features with each succeeding year, a large number of trained men are kept constantly employed in the construction of the paraphernalia and trappings for these great exhibitions. Designers, workers in papier-mache, carvers, gilders, painters and costumers are called on. The extensive establishments in which the work is carried on would be an instructive and perhaps surprising sight were they ever opened to the inspection of the public. But they are enshrouded in impenetrable mystery; even New Orleans knows nothing as to their location and organization, and the points from which the successive pageants emerge are as much matters of mystery to the local public as they are to strangers.

Who are the members of the associations which provide these spectacles is also deeply enshrouded in mystery. This mystery has never been penetrated. Their work is one of love. The pageants cost vast sums of money, but they yield the members no profit. The pleasure of the evening, the delight of the ball, and above all the consciousness of ministering to the people of the Carnival City and their guests is their sole and sufficient reward.

The New Orleans Carnival dates back into the remote past. At first it took the form of mere miscellaneous individual masking. In 1837 the first organized pageant was given, all the participants being masked. In 1839 this was repeated on a larger scale. Occasional spectacles of the sort occurred from time to time thereafter, but nothing systematic was attempted in the way of illustrating any special theme. These early processions were given by day, and were more humorous than magnificent.

However, in time the artistic taste of the people made itself felt. With increasing wealth and culture the opportunities which these parades offered were realized. This was responsible for the eventful establishment of the earliest of the societies which presented a night pageant of the kind which New Orleans is still familiar. Nothing more wonderful can be imagined than these displays threading the dark streets of the city, surrounded by their own flambeau men and shining like visions in the red luster of their own calcium lights. One of the earliest societies to be represented on the streets at night during Carnival time was Proteus, an organization which continues to the present day in unduminished prosperity and vigor. The Krewe of Proteus—to give the society its full name—made its initial appearance on the evening of the Monday before Mardi Gras in 1882, and has annually paraded ever since, celebrating this year its silver anniversary.

Among the subjects which Proteus has illustrated from year to year are the folllowing:

1882—"A Dream of Egypt."
1883—"History of France."
1884—"The Aeneid."
1885—"The Myths of China."
1886—"The Visions of Other Worlds."

All About an Infernal Machine

Lieut McKay and Officer Goodhue spent the greater part of Monday afternoon in chasing up a story that an infernal machine had been sent to a well known Italian at West Quincy. However they unearthed an assault with intent to murder Vincenso Comoletti of 16 Furnace avenue.

The first story was that Vincenso Salvucci of 16 Furnace avenue had received an infernal machine by express, and that fortunately he had opened the box on the wrong end which prevented its exploding. When the police found Salvucci he said that the box he received did not contain an infernal machine, but a lot of rotten vegetables.

When he received the box he visited Maloney's express and told them th story of the infernal machine, hoping by so doing he might learn from whom the box came. The day after he received the box he got a letter from Boston in which reference was made to the box of rotten vegetables, and called Salvucci all sorts of bad names and compared him to the vegetables. The letter did not contain any threats or demands for money.

It was signed by a man's name but the man when interviewed denied writing it.

It was while questioning Salvucci that the officers learned of the assault on Comoletti, who boards with Salvucci. Comoletti had been shot at twice shortly after midnight Monday morning. He was walking on the tracks in the rear of Badger Bros. shop when he met an Italian known as Angelo, who walked up to him and said he wanted to kill someone. Without further words he fired two shots at Comletti which went through his coat and did no harm. A search along the tracks resulted in the finding of a revolver where Comletti said he had been shot at. A warrant was sworn out against one Angelo for whom the police are now looking.

Quincy Turbines Going to Japan

Twelve carbon steel forgings are being made and roughed machined for the Boston Gear Works.

One of the booms on the ship structure has been lengthened.

One of the 120-inch Curtis type marine turbins being built by the Fore River Shipbuilding Company for the Imperial Japanese Navy for installation in the armored cruiser Ibuti was successfuly tested Monday in the erection shop under the direction of John F. Bruton. Both of these 120-inch turbines will be shipped from the yard some time during the next two weeks, to the naval dock yards at Kure, Japan, where the cruiser Ibuti is now under construction, and on arrival there will be immediately installed by Fore River mechanics who will accompany the engines to Japan via the Suez canal on a ship into which the engines will be loaded at the Fore River docks. These turbines are designed to drive the cruiser through the water at a speed of 23 knots. The two specially designed propellors are now being boxed in the machine shop by the yard carpenter ready for shipment.

The two 144 inch turbines for the Japanese first class battleships will be ready for shipment the latter part of the summer.

In both vessels there are two shafts and two screws with complete independent turbines on each shaft. Each turbine is in the form of a drum shaped shell, built in sections. The space occupied by the turbines fore and aft (including the reversing mechanism) is only about half that occupied by the equivalent triple or quadruple expansion four-cylinder engine, and the weight is considerably less.

To Quincy will belong the distinction of building the first turbine engine to be installed in a Japanese ship.

A Washington dispatch of Saturday to the Herald reads: The little submarine Viper, built at Quincy, made a good run in the waters of Chesapeake bay from which she has just returned to Annapolis. One hundred and fifty miles were covered at the rate of 9.66 knots per hour, which is 5-10ths better than her standardization trial. There was a slight accident to the machinery which compelled her to return to Annapolis for overhauling and thus prevented the proposed 63-hour endurance cruise on which she started.

Tomorrow the submarine Cuttlefish will start out for a run on the waters of Chesapeake, and after her return the Tarantula will make a voyage.

Banquet of the Bethany Brotherhood

Every meeting of Bethany Brotherhood seems to be more largely attended than its predecessor, and to increase in interest, a large number of men being out for the March meeting on Monday evening. At 6.30 an excellent supper was served.

President Myers presided at the meeting which followed, and urged the members to double the membership.

Rev. Henry G. Megathlin of the Park and Downs church brought the greetings of his church, and spoke words of encouragement and congratulation.

Rev. E. N. Hardy, the pastor also spoke earnestly of the work for men to do.

The special guest of the evening was Hon. Edwin Mulready of Rockland, a probation officer, whose subject was "The Other Side." He spoke of crime and its causes, and of the work of the probation system, and the good accomplished, and was given close attention.

During the evening there were several excellent selections by a double male quartet from the Wollaston Glee Club, including: N. G. Nickerson, Jr., G. L. Anderson, Herbert Cassidy, J. B. Frauenfelder, Chester Hague, W. D. Fisher, E. I. Beal and Dr. C. T. Sherman.

Atlantic Attractive.

The real estate agencies in Atlantic report rush of business these very early spring days that does not correspond with hard times. Whether the new boulevard is the magnet or just the various attractions of the town itself it is hard to say. At any rate, citizens of Atlantic have every season to be proud of their surroundings during last year, and the few months of 1908, for if well kept sidewalks and streets and general prosperity in building are added to many popular social organizations, no space for dissatisfaction seems to be left. At present Atlantic is following the well known motto "united we stand."

VICTORY OF PEACE

Secretary Trueblood Tells of Hague Conferences

With the cost of one Dreadnought or one "Scared-at-Nothing" at my disposal, declared Benjamin F. Trueblood, L L. D., at Wollaston on Tuesday evening, I could move the world for peace. Dr. Trueblood is corresponding secretary of the American Peace Society, and was a delegate to the Hague conference. He was the speaker at the regular monthly banquet of the Unitarian Club of Wollaston, and his address of an hour or more received the closest attention of the large gathering.

At 6.30 a hot roast beef dinner was served by Vice President F. W. Plummer and his assistants, the meat being carved on the table from 30-pound roasts. With it were mashed potato with gravy, macaroni, radishes, coffee, ice cream and cake. The committee have got this menu down to a science.

President F. E. Parlin presided at the meeting and happily introduced the speaker.

Dr. Trueblood regarded the international peace movement the greatest question before the public today, and was enthusiastic over the progress made. He reviewed at length the work of the first and second conferences at the Hague. He said some had pronounced the second conference a farce and a failure but the very fact that the conference was in session four months and grew in harmony and friendship was in itself a great thing. Public sentiment expressed by resolutions, petitions, prayers, etc., from all over the world; from churches, ministers, the W. C. T. U., the women, and others, had a great influence on the delegates.

He said the people were not aware of the good results accomplished. As a result of opening the international court at least 47 treaties had been negotiated, ratified and put into force. The United States was today negotiating treaties with all nations.

At the first conference there were 26 powers and 100 delegates, but at the second conference there were 44 powers and 244 delegates. The second conference was worth all it cost, and that was not one-fourth of the cost of one Dreadnought. Thirteen conventions were adopted, which the speaker outlined.

One is for a commission of inquiry, which had already prevented a war between Great Britain and Russia when warships of the latter fired upon the fishermen. One forbids fighting on neutral ground. One protects fisheries even in time of war. One forbids the bombardment of unfortified cities and towns. The speaker said he would like to see some nation pull down all fortifications and make a test of this agreement. (Applause.) One says shells and explosives shall not be thrown from balloons. One relates to mines in harbors. One requires a formal declaration of war before hostilities shall begin.

The conference had made war more difficult, and the speaker did believe it would ever be possible between the United States and Great Britain, because the other nations would demand arbitration.

Representative Hultman asked questions, and R. F. Claflin spoke in endorsement of the address of Dr. Trueblood.

A vote of thanks was extended to the speaker.

President Parlin appointed on the committee on nominations for the annual meeting, Messrs. Lacey, Hultman and Bean.

New Bridge Over The Neponset

S. Howard Mildram, the well-known civil engineer of Dorchester, and Capt. H. W. Hunt, who has large real estate interests in Atlantic and Neponset, have been invited to explain the purpose of the bill for the proposed bridge over the Neponset River, which is intended to take the place of the present bridge connecting Hancock street with Neponset avenue, at the regular meeting of the Citizens' Association which will be held this evening in the Manufacturers Association rooms. If favorable action upon this bill is taken by the Legislature, the City of Quincy will be compelled to contribute its share of the expense, therefore, it is fortunate that the Association arranged this discussion of the subject, particularly as it is understood that there will be an adjourned hearing on the bill at the State House at 10.30 tomorrow morning.

City Auditor Fairbanks will explain the new system of city auditing at this meeting, and it is expected that opportunity will be afforded all who desire to ask questions concerning the system.

AMONG THE CLUBS

The annual meeting of the State Society of the Daughters of the Revolution is to be held on Tuesday March 17th at Tremont Temple, Boston at ten o'clock. Mrs. Alice M. Granger, a member of Adams Chapter of Quincy is again up for State regent and will have the full endorsement of her chapter.

A large and pleasant meeting of the Quincy Alliance was held Monday afternoon in First church parlor, Mrs. Geo. W. Morton, president, in the chair. The subject "Isaac Watts and his Hymns" proved most interesting as handled by Mrs. A. E. Sproul, chairman of the afternoon and included the story of his life and the singing of his hymns.

The Wollaston Alliance meets next week Wednesday afternoon in the vestry of the Unitarian church.

Saturday is play day with the Junior Friday club for on that day they observe their tenth anniversary and drop routine literary work for something in lighter vein. The gathering is to be held at the home of Mrs. J. Henry Emery, Adams street, and each member of the club is to participate in the entertainment.

The course of ten lectures Saturday mornings by Prof. Edward Howard Griggs, at Tremont Temple, Boston, on "Great Autobiographies" is nearly completed as he gives the eighth one on Saturday. His subject will be "Sonya Kovalevsky: the conflict between love and ambition."

Miss Clara Leavitt Baxter is to entertain the Junior Friday club at her home on Greenleaf street next Monday afternoon, with Mrs. Dowst also of Greenleaf street in charge of the program.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

Fair skies and a large attendance of neighboring club presidents and delegates contributed to the success of presidents' afternoon of the Quincy Women's club on Tuesday at the club house. Each year the club reciprocates favors shown the club and its president by devoting an afternoon to the entertainment of neighboring and local clubs.

From half past two until three o'clock an informal reception was held by the club officers, Mrs. George W. Morton, president, Mrs. Dexter E. Wadsworth, 2d vice president, Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop, corresponding secretary, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, treasurer, Miss Annie L. Prescott, auditor and also Mrs. Everett C. Bumpus, first president of the club.

At three o'clock Mrs. Morton called the meeting to order and in her usual dignified and gracious manner welcomed the guests, expressing the appreciation of the Quincy club in having so many representatives present and the pleasure anticipated in hearing of all the good work done by the various clubs. She then introduced Miss Edith Randall, chairman of the program committee who presided and introduced the speakers of the afternoon.

The program opened with music by Miss Lucie Frances Newcomb who is a young Quincy pianist of recognized ability and a general favorite. Her selections were: "To a Wild Rose" and "To a Waterlily" by MacDowell, and "Sous Bois" by Victor Staub, which were exquisitely rendered and appreciatively applauded.

The Philergians of Braintree were represented by Mrs. M. L. Hemenway, who told of the Woman's Exchange which was quite successful, averaging at each meeting sales amounting to about $19.00 and one meeting going as high as $34.00. The club had held several home talent days and found them very successful as it brought out much in the members that would not otherwise be discovered. They had given plays, had a vaudeville afternoon etc. Recently the club contributed $150.00 for a young people's reading room at the public library.

A letter was read from the Cantabrigia club on Visiting Nursing, a delegate from the club being unable to be present. After which Miss Estelle Robinson, Quincy's Visiting Nurse, told of the work in Quincy as carried out under the auspices of the Quincy Women's club. 662 visits were made last year and there was enough for several nurses as the work was being appreciated more and more each year, not alone among the poor but by those who did not re-

Ships Under Admiral Evans Left Were All Overdraft

THE TESTIMONY OF EXPERTS

Declare That Armor Belts Are Too Low and That Ammunition Hoists Are Not Safe--American Speed Tests Are of No Value

Washington, March 11.—That there are serious defects in the construction of American battleships was charged by Captain Winslow, assistant chief of the bureau of navigation of the navy department, and Commander Key, former naval aide to President Roosevelt.

The former officer said the ships under Admiral Evans were all overdraft when they left Hampton Roads. He defended Admiral Rojestvensky for taking the Russian ships into battle with the Japanese with full bunkers of coal, saying that the Russian commander could not have done otherwise, for he did not know how far he would be compelled to steam.

Commander Key attempted to direct the form of his own testimony and incurred the displeasure of the committee on that account. He criticised the armor belt and the gun decks as being too low and the ammunition hoists as unsafe.

Captain Winslow used the fate of the Russian fleet as an illustration of the danger of going into action with the armor belt too far under water. At the same time, he said that the ships should carry at least two-thirds their capacity of coal and full ammunition and stores. A two-thirds supply of all stores would make all American battleships too low, and therefore the armor belt should be raised. He could not state the exact amount, as he said it would vary on the different ships. There was no need, said Winslow, for more than four feet of the armor below the water-line.

"On what ships now under command of Admiral Evans is the armor belt misplaced?" asked Mr. Burrows.

"All of them."

"Misplaced because it is too low?"

"Because it is too low."

Continuing, Winslow said the armor belt extended five feet below water on all of the ships in Evans' fleet when it left Hampton Roads, and most of them showed less than a foot of armor above the water-line. He said that with two-thirds supply of coal, and two-thirds of all other stores on board, the armor belt of all the American battleships would be too far below the water-line. "This would be the condition in which the ships would go into battle," he said.

The witness said he had never written the department concerning the defects he had found in battleship construction, but that he knew that the faults had been pointed out by other officers. As to ammunition hoists, Winslow said that it was not a question of direct hoists as against two-stage hoists, but entirely a question of safety.

Captain Winslow gave his experience as a member of the board which inquired into the causes of the explosion on the Massachusetts in 1903. In that case it was found that the damage was due to the open turret and the ineffectiveness of the direct hoist.

Commander Key, formerly naval aide to the president, had an experience similar to that of Commander Sims, the present naval aide, in that he was not permitted to follow his own inclination as to the form of presenting his views.

He began by stating that he had a duty to perform, not entirely agreeable, as his testimony would not be approved at the navy department. He said that he expected to show by comparison that there were defects in American ships as to the location of the armor belt, the height of free-board and the character of ammunition hoists, and that he would be compelled to point out inaccuracies in the testimony of Rear Admiral Capps, chief constructor, and some other officers who have been before the committee.

Chairman Hale told the witness that he need not waste time in criticising the statements of other officers, nor in discussing defects in old types of ships, and instructed him to follow the lines that had been laid down by the committee.

After a long discussion of procedure the witness took up the subject of armor belts. He said that the belts should not be placed around a fictitious water-line, but should be located with regard to the actual water-line when a vessel is equipped for action. He criticised the speed tests of battleships and declared that vessels run so light that the test is of no value in ascertaining the actual speed of a vessel when carrying full armament, crew and stores.

"Why should contractors be permitted to bamboozle the country with these fictitious speed tests?" asked Mr. Tillman. "They should not. That is just what I have been trying to show," replied Key. He then presented a German criticism to the effect that the American and English tests are of no value, while the German tests are made in accordance with war conditions. Keys testimony is unfinished.

Germany Not In Petroleum Business

Washington, March 11.—An official denial has been made to the state department of the recent report that the German government intended to go into the petroleum business and monopolize that industry within its territory.

THE ONE SUPREME ASSET

President Roosevelt Says That Mothers Are the Nation's Reliance

Washington, March 11.—The White House was the scene of the formal opening of the first international congress on the welfare of the child, which is being held under the auspices of the National Mothers' congress. President Roosevelt dglivered an address to the delegates, in which he declared that he placed the society ahead of the Civil war veterans, because, he said, in the final analysis it is the mother only who is a better citizen than the soldier who fights for his country.

Continuing, the president said: "Unless the average woman is a good wife and good mother, unless she bears a sufficient number of children so that the race shall increase and not decrease, unless she brings up these children sound in soul and mind and body—unless this is true of the average woman, no brilliancy of genius, no material prosperity, no triumphs of science and industry will avail to save the race from ruin and death.

"The mother is the one supreme asset of national life; she is more important by far than the successful statesman, or business man, or artist or scientist."

Looking Into Baker's Death

Hackensack, N. J., March 11.—The inquest into the death of Walter F. Baker of Boston, which occurred at the home of Frank H. Hurd in Bogota last October, was commenced here by Coroner De Mund and a jury. The body of Baker was recently disinterred in Boston and brought to Ridgewood. It is charged that a chemical analysis developed large quantities of poison in the body. Edward T. Baker of Boston, a brother of the dead man, attended the proceedings, which are unfinished.

Loss of Life Inexcusable

Cleveland, March 11.—"The loss of the lives of the little children in the Collinwood fire was absolutely inexcusable," Coroner Burke declared, after making an investigation into the causes of the fire. "The children were caught in a veritable trap and held and crushed until burned to death," he said. "Someone is responsible for this and should held. Before I can charge anyone with this horrible responsibility I must review the evidence carefully and deliberately."

Alia's Trial Will Be Speedy

Denver, March 11.—The prosecution in the case of Guiseppe Alia, charged with the murder of Father Leo Heinrichs, has nearly completed the presentation of its evidence and the defendant will rest in the hands of the jury by tonight. There were only two witnesses to the actual killing. The suggestion of a plot was introduced by the testimony of Mrs. Van Cleave, but there was no corroboration of her testimony.

Death Checks Court Proceedings

Abilene, Tex., March 11.—Otto W. Stefens, aged 60, former vice president of the American National bank of Abilene, charged with misappropriation of the funds of the institution, who had been a sufferer from nervousness and a weak heart, was found dead in bed. Stefens was under sentence of a five-year term. About $160,000 was involved. An appeal to the supreme court of the United States was in preparation.

Would Strengthen Merchant Marine

New York, March 11.—Before an audience of 3000 people here last night, former Secretary of the Treasury Shaw argued strongly for strengthening the merchant marine as a means of developing international trade for American products. He declared that while the government had aided domestic industry through the tariff, it had done nothing to encourage international trade.

May Recover the Maine's Dead

Washington, March 11.—A resolution was passed by the house calling on the secretary of the navy for all letters and data regarding the cost of removing and bearing upon removal of the wreck of the battleship Maine, and to provide for the burial of the dead now lying in the hulk of that ship.

Japan Not Scaring China

Hong Kong, March 11.—The Canton viceroy and the people of Pekin are opposed to handling over the Tatsu Maru to Japan. The news that Great Britain does not favor Japan's attitude in the controversy is hailed with much satisfaction throughout China.

HUGHES AT THE HUB

Governor Puts In a Busy Afternoon and Evening

"NEXT PRESIDENT" CHEERS

Summary of Crisp Sentences From Speech Delivered at Banquet of New England Dry Goods Association--Made Two Other Addresses

Boston, March 11.—Governor Charles E. Hughes of New York delivered three addresses in this city last night before business and college organizations. The governor arrived from Albany in the afternoon and was met by the reception committee of the New England Dry Goods association and also by a delegation of negroes who are supporting Hughes' candidacy for the presidential nomination. Several hundred persons gave the New York governor a hearty greeting. Governor Hughes was driven to the Hotel Touraine after a short sight-seeing tour about the city.

Early in the evening the Hughes Club of Harvard, composed of 300 students, headed by a brass band, escorted Hughes from the hotel to Tremont temple, where the annual banquet of the New England Dry Goods association was held. The governor was warmly applauded when he entered the banquet hall and for some time was kept busy shaking hands. Every seat at the banquet tables was occupied and the side aisles were completely filled.

After dinner President Smith of the association read a letter of regret from Governor Guild, who is suffering from the grip. Guild commended Hughes' efforts towards reforming the laws of New York governing the conduct of bucket shops and race tracks.

The first speaker was Mayor Hibbard of Boston, who welcomed Hughes and the other visitors to the city. He was followed by Rabbi Fleischer of Boston, and at the conclusion of the clergyman's address Hughes was introduced.

There were 4000 persons present, and they cheered Hughes as "the next President of the United States," as governor of New York, and applausive outbursts followed almost every one of the crisp sentences in his address, which was on "National Affairs." The principal points in his speech follow:

Good business spells contentment and diffusion of happiness.

We want no drags upon American industry.

Men who will prey upon minority stockholders or abuse trade committed to them in our great financial enterprises will prey upon the people if they get a chance.

The people are tired of bossism.

The object of free government is not to confer favors nor to impose arbitrary restrictions, but to protect equal rights.

The majority rule, and the majority must be informed if they would rule wisely.

The American people will not tolerate unjust discrimination.

Ignorance and suspicion breed distrust and cannot supply remedies.

We shall adhere to the policy of protecting American industry.

There will be no going back. The American people are intent on the proper administration of public office.

Roguery exists, but it is not typical.

At the conclusion of his address Hughes went to Young's hotel, where he spoke to the members of the Delta Upsilon society, of which he was an active member while an undergraduate of Brown university. The society held its annual banquet last night. Hughes' address was brief and entirely informal. From Young's the governor was driven to the American house, where he addressed the Sons of Brown University of Boston and vicinity, who held their thirty-fifth annual reunion and dinner.

McLaurin Has Currency Plan

Washington, March 11.—Cotton as a basis for the issuance of treasury notes in times of money stringency was the chief feature of a speech on the pending currency bill by Senator McLaurin, who thought there was no special need for currency legislation. He claimed that the policies of the Republican party were responsible for the recent panic.

Mason, Mich., March 11.—Probate Judge Dunn of Alger and City Comptroller Barnet of Bay City were arraigned before Circuit Judge Weist here on indictments returned by the grand jury charging attempted bribery. SEEKING A DIVORCE

Wife of Harry Thaw Will Never Again Live With Him

CLAIM OF THE PLAINTIFF

Defendant Was Insane and Did Not Know What He Was Doing When He Married In 1905--Expresses His Willingness to Meet the Issue

New York, March 11.—Evelyn N. Thaw today instituted proceedings for the annulment of her marriage to Harry K. Thaw. The action is based on the allegation that the defendant was insane when the union was contracted. Thaw purposes to defend the suit. An early trial is expected. In the meantime, should Thaw be released from Matteawan, the couple, by mutual agreement, will remain apart.

In official statements by counsel for both parties was confirmed the long suspected culmination in the wedded lives of Stanford White's slayer and the woman whose story in his defense brought her an unhappy notoriety as wide as the reading world. For weeks it had been gossiped that a divorce was imminent, and even during Thaw's last trial, throughout which his wife stood gamely by him, it was pretty generally believed that whatever the outcome for the prisoner, the two never again would live together.

These reports frequently were based on rumored opposition to the young woman on the part of the Thaw family. In their statements, however, counsel denied that Mrs. William Thaw, Harry's mother, had taken any part in the proposed separation.

Franklin Bartlett, counsel for the elder Mrs. Thaw, made a statement in which he said that there was no truth in reports that detectives employed by Mrs. William Thaw had had her daughter-in-law under surveillance for months.

Soon after Bartlett's interview became public, A. R. Peabody, personal counsel to Thaw, left for Matteawan, where since his last trial Thaw has been confined in the asylum for the criminal insane. After a talk with his client, Peabody returned to the city and by appointment met Daniel O'Reilly, one of Thaw's former attorneys, who is now counsel for Evelyn Thaw. The conference was lengthy and at its conclusion O'Reilly said:

"Papers will be served on Mr. Peabody by me as counsel for Evelyn Thaw in an action for annulment of the marriage. The action will be on the ground that at the time of the marriage, April 4, 1905, Harry Thaw was insane and did not know what he was doing. This action has been thought of for some time. It will be tried in New York county. As yet no mention has been made of any settlement in favor of Evelyn. If after the annulment proceedings are through and they are in favor of the plaintiff, some action might be taken for the recovery of counsel fees and alimony."

Mr. Peabody, who had heard O'Reilly's remarks, said: "I have visited Harry at Matteawan and told him the intentions of his wife. He is willing to defend the suit." Peabody added that his client, when apprised of his wife's intentions, had made no comment except to declare that he was sane at the time of his marriage and to express his willingness to meet the issue.

It is understood that the attorneys for Mrs. Thaw will depend practically on the evidence introduced in the last trial of Thaw to prove that he was mentally incompetent at the time to legally contract a marriage. Should this be established, the case would be won for the plaintiff, providing there was not introduced the defense that Thaw subsequently recovered full possession of his faculties and by continuing the marriage relation gave validity to the original contract. This point the attorneys would not discuss.

It was pointed out, however, that Thaw, though committed to an insane asylum as having been insane at the time he killed White, had not been declared insane at the present time. Whether the matter of his sanity will be determined before the trial for annulment is not known. If it is not there will be added interest in the probable effect of the present suit upon the later efforts to get Thaw out of the asylum.

LARGE BLOCK BURNED

Fire Threatened Whole Business Section of Rochester, N. H.

Rochester, N. H., March 12.—A fire which started late last night in Dodge's block in Central square, in the heart of the business district, burned through the early hours this morning and reached such proportions as to threaten surrounding property. Assistance was asked from Dover and Somersworth, the local apparatus consisting of a single chemical and hydrants.

Dodge's block was occupied on the ground floor by business houses, on the second and third by offices and on the top story by the Palestine Commandery lodge of Masons. The telephone exchange was reached by the flames at an early stage and communication was cut off. The flames were confined to the Dodge block, with the exception of a few minor blazes. The damage will reach about $150,000.

Three persons were taken from the building by firemen, nearly overcome by the smoke. Manager Sidley and Night Operator Pearl of the telephone exchange were removed in an almost unconscious condition after staying at their posts as long as possible, and Frank B. Preston, a real estate dealer, was also taken out.

Lee declared healthful play to be vital to the well-being of children. He urged co-operation on the part of the police, saying that the boys now regard the police as their natural enemy.

Work on the turbine engines for the scout cruiser Salem is progressing rapidly and in a comparatively short time the ship will be ready for trial.

In addition to the turbines used in propelling the Salem, there is also another turbine in use aboard for driving the centrifugal hot well pump. For the high vacuum required by steam turbines it has been found desirable, especially in large installations, to use separate pumps for drawing the condensed steam and the air from the condensor; forming what is known as the, "Dry Vacuum System." In using the dry vacuum system on turbine driven vessels it was considered objectionable to use a motor to drive the centrifugal hot well pump on account of the dampness and high temperature of the engine room, so the turbine was again called into use on a smaller scale to perfect this condition. The pump end consists of a 4-inch two-stage volute centrifugal pumps arranged to work with vertical shaft. The turbine is a two-stage Curtis turbine (Fore River make) mounted above and directly connected to the pump. The entire set require floor space of only 3 feet square, and is 9 feet, 6 inches high over all. It is rated to deliver 300 gallons of water per minute from a 29 inch vacuum, and has a large overload capacity. The total weight is 5,850 pounds and speed is 1,200 revolutions per minute.

Barge Corbin has finished delivering her cargo of soft coal and has departed.

A 31 foot turbine shaft has been tested for the General Electric Company.

A Rockland, Maine, dispatch of Tuesday says the trial boards of the United States navy which arrived here last night from Washington joined the Quincy built scout cruiser Birmingham today, and the acceptance trials will begin Wednesday. The standardization test will be the first, and will commence at 8 o'clock in the morning. This will be followed by the anchor test. On Thursday the cruiser will start on a four-hour run, during which she must maintain a speed of 24 knots or better. This will be followed by a 24-hour run at 12 knots speed. The test will conclude with another 24-hour run, during which she must maintain a speed of 22 1-2 knots. The Birmingham has a sufficient supply of selected coal on board to enable her to make these trials without a break.

After Thought.

Last Saturday the Quincy Y. M. C. A., held a large boy's athletic meet. Probably the largest of its kind in New England this year. There were 80 different boys competing all under 18 years of age. They represented 80 different families and 8 different cities. Eighty people spent 10 cents each to see the young athletics win the 53 prizes offered. One father and mother from out of town came to see their boy compete, and one other man completed the list of parents. The officials could not help remarking on the audience and the lack of attendance of parent.

Exibitions of boys work have been given at the Y. M. C. A. intended entirely for the parents of the boys. So that they might see the way in which their boys are trained. But strange to say never more than a dozen parents have been induced to attend, tho all the boys were urged to bring their parents and relatives.

Few people realize the training in self control, courage, endurance, strength and leadership which a boy receives in a well conducted gymnasium. The boys and those in charge always enjoy having the parents display an interest in the work.

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)

INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy can justly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000, but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, Quincy Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE Young Men's Christian Association OF QUINCY, MASS.

(Legal Title - Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. CAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

quire the services of a trained nurse continuously. Miss Robinson answered several questions asked by ladies interested in the subject.

Mrs. Gordon Willis brought greetings from the Old Colony club of South Weymouth. The club had had several notable speakers during the year, the most recent Prof. Griggs. The club fee of two dollars was used for club expenses and program and money for the charitable purposes was raised by special entertainments such as dramatics, concerts, etc.

In keeping with the spirit of the afternoon the vocal part of the musical program was by a neighboring club, the Philergian quartet, made up of Mrs. Edward Haskell and Miss Elinor Shaw, sopranos and Mrs. Albert E. Avery and Mrs. Nora Wallis, contraltos, with Mrs. George O. Wales at the piano. They sang "Snowflakes" by F. H. Cowen, receiving a hearty encore which was fully deserved, their voices blending most pleasingly and harmoniously.

Mrs. Jervis E. Horr spoke for the Current Events club of Hyde Park, a club of 400 with a waiting list of forty. It is a strictly currents events club, the first hour of the meeting being devoted to that subject and the second hour to lectures, etc.

Cabot club of Middleboro was represented by Mrs. Tillson, treasurer of the club, who told most interestingly of stamp saving as conducted by the club in the public schools of Middleboro. Mrs. Tillson was enthusiastic and aroused considerable interest as several clubs have given much thought to the subject. In three years the children had saved $1400.00 which might have gone for penny candies, gum and the like, whereas now it was either in the bank or expended for needed clothing, as it was the only way some poor families could get money enough together for such necessities. In some cases it supplied money to keep the children clothed so that the children could go to school each child in the family being willing to contribute as each in turn needed shoes, hat, etc.

Mrs. Jacoby of the Milton Woman's club said they were trying to arouse interest in industrial and manual training by giving a printing press to the High school as an entering wedge. They had a College fund for helping girls to a higher education and loaned money to needy students.

Mrs. Frank E. Anderson, president of the Newton Centre club spoke on "Class work." Her club had departed somewhat from club routine and had formed many classes, such as first aid to the injured, art embroidery, architecture, bird study, languages, Shakespeare, etc. A club member could select one class which she could enter free of charge, and had choice of others by paying small fee.

Here the clubs had the pleasure of again listening to the Philergian quartet, which sang "Carmena" by H. Lane Wilson, and in response to the encore "In Primrose Lane" by J. C. Macy.

Mrs. W. E. Boyden spoke for the Newton Federation of Women's club and told of the Mirror, a magazine edited by the Newtonville Guild and published by the Federation. A large bazaar was given for civic work and the Mirror was published in connection with the bazaar making a handsome sum. The magazine contained historical, civic, educational, and religious sketches, also told of the various charities with short articles on each association. Village improvements, metropolitan parks, men's and women's clubs, and most everything of local interest was incorporated in the magazine.

Mrs. William Porter of Randolph said she represented one of the oldest clubs in the state, the Randolph Ladies' Library association, being 52 years old last November. It started with 41 charter members for literary work and to make a library, having now a library of 1500 volumes considered to be very valuable. It had some evening meetings to which the men were invited when history, art, forestry, etc., were discussed. Until lately it had not been the habit of the club to serve refreshments.

Mrs. Irving H. Upton, president of the Roxburghe club of Roxbury, spoke briefly on the club's origin. The name was taken from the old English way of spelling. The club seal was of an old tower in Franklin park; club colors, gold and white, stood for honesty and purity and the club motto was taken from Longfellow's poem, "My Triumph."

Mrs. Louis A. Cook, vice president of the Monday club of Weymouth said her club had become interested in stamp saving and had 100,000 stamps ready for work. Had offered two prizes of $5 each for the best essay on Civil Service Reform, by children in the schools and last but not least was doing a great Village Improvement work by offering prizes to children who could show the most improvement in cleaning up back yards.

As the program was somewhat lengthy the local clubs were not called upon for reports of their work, although representing varied interests. The local clubs represented were: the King's Daughters, Day Nursery, Hospital Aid, Woman's Auxiliary Y. M. C. A., Friday club, Junior Friday club, Shakespeare, and the Teacups.

During the social part of the program hot chocolate, sandwiches and cake were served. Mrs. Charles R. Safford and Mrs. Harry W. Reed poured in the tea room, assisted by Mrs. Ames, Mrs. Spear, Mrs. Sargent, Miss Simmons, Mrs. Anderson, Miss Cole, Mrs. Wellington, Mrs. Andrews and Mrs. Wilson. Mrs. E. E. Jameson poured in the reception room assisted by Mrs. Bartlett, Mrs. Bird, Mrs. Hendrie and Mrs. Davidson. Mrs. Forrest B. Royal poured in the club room assisted by Mrs. Lovell, Mrs. Crocker, Miss Wild, Mrs. Nolan and Miss Prescott.

Bouquets of daffies were on all the tables, which looked very attractive set in old blue china. After the meeting the daffies were sent to members of the executive board who could not be present because of illness.

The afternoon was thoroughly enjoyable; the musical program as arranged by Mrs. W. H. Doble, the hospitality as carried out by Mrs. E. W. Sheppard and the program by the committee in charge.

There is to be an exhibition of miniatures and silhouettes given under the auspices of the Art and Literature committee at the Club house, on Tuesday, March 17th. The exhibition will be open from 2 to 5.30. During the afternoon Mrs. Frank A. Page of Wollaston will sing a group of songs. Mrs. Robert E. Park also of Wollaston will give a talk an "Miniatures, Ancient and Modern." After which tea will be served. Members are asked to contribute miniatures and silhouettes and are also cordially invited to enjoy the exhibit.

ABIGAIL SMITH CHAPTER.

On Monday afternoon the Abigail Smith chapter Daughters of the Revolution of Weymouth, observed their tenth anniversary at the home of Miss Georgianna A. Robbins, North Weymouth.

Following the reception there was a feast of music, vocal and instrumental, addresses, words of greeting from visiting Daughters; Mrs. Albert E. Avery, regent presiding.

During the ten years the Chapter had held many meetings and that it had all been worth while was shown in the address of Mr. John J. Loud historian of Weymouth who told of the marking of revolutionary soldiers graves, some two hundred, and of the interest awakened in the town in family history, patriotic events and colonial history.

Following the program all adjourned to the spacious dining room where delicious sandwiches, ices and coffee were served to the accompaniment of music of piano and violin.

Among the guests were the state society officers, regents of the chapters in the state, officers of Adams chapter of Quincy, local historians, and friends who had been identified with the work of Abigail Smith chapter since its formation.

It was a delightful birthday party, the cordial hospitality of Mrs. Avery, Miss Robbins and chapter members making it an occasion long to be remembered by the guests of the afternoon.

NEIGHBORING.

Mrs. Mary L. Wade of Wollaston is to give a demonstration lecture on Tuesday March 17th before the East Walpole Wednesday club.

The dramatic committee of the Newtonville Woman's Guild, on March 3, gave the two-act farce, "Mrs. Oakley's Telephone," and a series of living pictures illustrated "The Bachelor's Dream" and tableaux representing the various committees of the club.

Miss Ella Gilbert Ives is to give a bird talk at the meeting of the Wheaton Seminary club Saturday afternoon at hotel Vendome, Boston.

An exhibition of laces made by the Scuola d'Industrie in New York will be opened in the New England Woman's Club rooms. Back Bay, Boston, on Thursday, and continue until Saturday evening. The workers are young Italian women, and the school was started by Signorina Carolina Amari, whose private collection of rare old Italian laces and embroideries was shown at the Museum of Fine Arts here last winter. The workers have reproduced many of the old-time laces and have revived the art that was fast lapsing in Italy. Among the most notable pieces to be exhibited are the pillow "regina," an exact copy of an old design, the first reproduction of which was made by one of the schools in Italy and purchased by Queen Margherita, and a table scarf, the embroidery of which represents a wedding scene and is copied from an old Nuziale, a piece that was always included in the bride's trousseau. The Scuola makes a specialty of Italian initials and monograms, executing them in filet and a heavy raised embroidery stitch, known as punto riccio, which produces a rich effect, and is scarcely higher in price than the usual French work.

The Milton Woman's club recently voted to expend $85 for a printing press to be presented to the high school, hoping it may prove an entering wedge for further industrial training among the pupils.

Friday, March 6, was Federation Day at the Woburn Woman's Club, when the following chairmen of the State Federation spoke very interestingly on their several subjects: Mrs. May A. Sheldon, education; Mrs. Ida S. Miller, Wakefield, forestry; Mrs. S. T. Leighton, East Boston, library extension and settlement work. The club is arranging a very attractive entertainment to be given on the evening of Friday, March 13, for the benefit of its "Emergency Fund," the presentation of a three-act drama.

Salvucci Gets Friend Into Trouble

Another chapter in the alleged infernal machine case at West Quincy was enacted Tuesday night, when Officer Hinchon arrested Domenic Colletti on a warrant charging him with introducing obscene literature into houses.

It appears that after Vincenso Salvucci received the letter from Boston comparing him to the box of rotten vegetables, he devised a scheme to reach the author of the letter. Taking it to Colletti, who was better educated, he got him to compose an answer for him. Colletti it is alleged did the job well.

After the letter was written it was put into type and a number of copies of it printed. Copies of these were left at a number of houses occupied by Italians, in the hopes that a copy of it would fall into the hands of the writer of the letter received by Salvucci.

One of the letters was left at the house of Luigi Carderilli, who immediately took offense at the letter and went to the police with it. As soon as the police got a translation they hunted up the author, and Tuesday night Officer Hinchon placed Colletti under arrest. Colletti was arraigned in court and the case continued for hearing until March 21.

Banquet to Senator Faxon.

The reception and banquet to Senator William O. Faxon at Stoughton Tuesday evening was almost a reunion of the Norfolk club with the senators of Massachusetts as guests. About 250 were in attendance. In the receiving line was his colleague Charles F. Jenney, also Judge Oscar A. Marden, Judge R. O. Harris, Dr. Frank G. Wheatley, and Dr. Michael Glennon. Judge Marden was the toastmaster, and there were speeches by Judge Harris, Senator Jenney. E. C. Lockbridge of Springfield, Dr. Glennon, Senator Vahey, Senator Wheatley, Representative Soliday and Senator Faxon. The Boston guests had a special car each way.

Would Equalize Taxation Burden

That the method of taxation is important, is shown by the changes proposed in the Legislature. The state treasurer has prepared a document showing what the cities and towns of the state would gain or lose in case the plan proposed by the recess commission on taxation for the retention by the State of the franchise tax paid by railroad, telephone and telegraph companies should become law.

It is shown that the result of retention would mean a gain of $979,081 to 256 cities and towns and a loss of $703,607 to 98 cities and towns. It is figured that the new plan would wipe out the state tax.

Boston would make the largest gain under the new plan, $375,609. Other important gains would be: Cambridge $24,576, Chelsea $19,532, Everett $17,260, Fall River $38,798, Gloucester $13,214, Lawrence $36,105, Lowell $23,888, Quincy $18,429, Revere $13,637, Somerville $24,997 and Lynn $27,955.

Of the towns, Abington would gain $2,811, Amesbury $2,431, Attleboro $9,162, Blackstone $2,700, Bridgewater $2,176, Clinton $5,104, Dracut $2,422, Gardner $5,115, Hull $4,524, Hyde Park $7,951, Marlboro $4,997, Millbury $5,405, Natick $3,132, Northampton $5,637, Palmer $3,669, Saugus $4,603, Stoneham $4,464, Stoughton $3,399, Watertown $5,222 and Winthrop $5,254.

The greatest loss would be sustained by Brookline, $124,675. Beverly would lose $13,426, Dedham $7,585, Falmouth $15,967, Hamilton $8,305, Hopedale $6,507, Lexington $8,139, Manchester $37,598, Milton $53,632, Nahant $17,909, Newton $79,044, North Adams $15,578, Northbridge $17,101, Southboro $12,648, Springfield $30,869, Webster $25,404, Weston $17,179, Worcester $33,942, Brockton $2,934.

STATE HOUSE NOTICES.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS. — STATE HOUSE, BOSTON, MARCH 10, 1908. The Committee on Cities will give a hearing to parties interested in the petition with Senate Bill No. 169, that a commission be appointed by the Governor, to prepare a general form of charter for cities, and a form of charter for the metropolitan district, at room No. 444, State House, on Tuesday, March 17, 1908, at 10.30 o'clock A. M. Harry P. Morse, Chairman. William H. Trudel, Clerk of the Committee. March 12-2t

NEW BRIDGE NOT IN FAVOR

Various Questions Discussed at Meeting of Citizens Association

A variety of subjects were discussed at Wednesday night's meeting of the Citizens Association, but no definite action taken on any of the matters.

The committee on abolition of grade crossings reported that it had attended all of the public meetings. A number of plans had been considered all of which had merit but the committee had endorsed none of them.

The committee on water ways reported that it was having a map prepared of the Quincy water front, and had an extensive report under way.

The committee on homes for wage earners submitted a long report, in which it set forth, that there was a good field for investment for some capitalist or syndicate to erect houses at a small cost that would rent reasonable. There was a great demand for such a class of houses.

A greater part of the workmen preferred to rent rather than to own houses. Houses of moderate cost were explained in detail. Two classes were needed. One to meet the wants of men earning from $9 to $12 per week, and one for those earning larger salaries. The report made no particular recommendations.

The committee on revision of the city charter recommended a continuance of the discussion on the matter. It was in favor of a system based on the Des Moines plan or a continuance of the present charter with changes relative to the length of term of the Mayor; a reduction in the number of members on the School Committee and City Council, and a readjustment of the functions of the executive and legislative departments.

At this point E. H. Angier was elected as the Association's representative on the Mayor's grade crossing committee.

NEPONSET BRIDGE.

Representative Samuel H. Mildram and Herbert W. Burr spoke on the bill before the Legislature for a new bridge over Neponset river.

Representative Mildram said, while he presented the bill, he did not father it. It provided for the City of Boston and city of Quincy to construct a new bridge on the site of the present bridge. The bridge to be 75 feet wide with a draw 50 feet wide. He appreciated the fact that neither city was in a financial condition to undertake such a matter at the present time, but it was important that some action looking to future construction be taken.

It was the gateway from the south leading to Boston. If a new bridge with wider draw was constructed and the channel deepened it would help the granite industry of Quincy. He thought it would be best to agree that a committee should have plans made and provide that the towns south of Quincy benefited shall contribute.

Mr. Mildram then spoke of the new bill for distribution of the corporation tax. The committee did not think it a right distribution that half tax should be returned where corporations do business and half where stockholders reside. The bill being prepared by the committee, of which he was a member, means a larger return for Quincy.

Some questions were then asked the speaker as to what benefits Quincy would derive from the proposed new bridge, which brought out the statement that the government would widen the channel which would make property on the banks of the river suitable for industries which would mean an increase in taxable property for Quincy.

It was suggested that the originators of the bill might own land above the bridge.

Representative Burr said he knew but little of the bill in general. It was drawn after the West Boston bridge bill. A bridge was something a whole commonwealth was interested in. It was unfair to ask two municipalities to build it. He would have cost borne by those benefited. The benefit he claimed was wholly for Quincy and towns south. He believed if a bridge was to be built the cost should first be known.

Speaking for municipal government, Mr. Burr said in this country we are rushing to extremes, and the fad now was governments by commission. There was hardly a city in the country governed by commission, outside Galveston. Let a great catastrophy come to Quincy and wipe out everything, they would be glad to take anything for government.

Galveston is so situated that this form of government suits them. The one thing that made the old town meetings a success was that every one knew each other. Today, in cities, we are handling a cosmopolitan population. Government by commission in Boston would mean that eventually corrupt men would be elected.

The legislative committee was at work upon a plan which he believed would be the right thing. This would have the laws fixed so that there would be a greater Metropolitan district, greater fire district, greater water department, greater sewer department, greater police department, and greater financial department. All these would be regulated from the State House with the greatest publicity.

Capt. Henry W. Hunt was present and invited to speak on the Neponset bridge matter, but declined.

CITY AUDITING.

City Auditor Fairbanks then explained at length the new system of auditing and accounting adopted by the city. Previous to the adoption of this system he said an Auditor was little more than a bookkeeper, and it was impossible for him to audit the books of the Tax Collector or Treasurer, or to check them up. He also referred to the Newton system which he considered an ideal system.

Amos D. Albee of Wollaston, the expert accountant who prepared the Newton system, explained that system. He also spoke in general of the benefits to be derived from a uniform system of auditing and accounting.

A general discussion on the proposed boulevard bills followed during which remarks were made by ex-Mayor Thompson, ex-Representatives Peter T. Fallon and Frank E. Badger, Mayor Shea and Representative Coombs.

Obstructions Placed On the Railroad

Three unsuccessful attempts were made Wednesday evening to wreck trains on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad near Capen's bridge at Braintree. These attempts at train wrecking were made by placing sleepers across the track. But one sleeper was used on the rails or the result might have been a horror.

The first obstruction was discovered on the inward rail on the Quincy side of the bridge by the engineer of the 7.58 train from Braintree. His engine was nearly upon the obstruction before he discovered it. The engineer applied the emergency brakes and brought the train to a sudden stop which nearly threw the passengers from their seats.

When the train had stopped, it had run onto the sleeper which fortunately was of soft wood and it was wedged under the pilot of the engine. Had the engineer not discovered the obstruction as he did the train would probably have been derailed and thrown over into Centre street and resulted in a disaster.

Shortly after this an outward freight train ran over a sleeper that had been placed on the outward track about fifty feet from where the first sleeper was found. This sleeper had evidently been placed across one of the rails only for the engine snapped it in half at a knot, and then went over it, the breaking of the sleeper having thrown it in such a position that the train passed over it in safety. The freight did not stop but kept on to Braintree.

Officer Gallivan and others who had been notified visited the scene and while there were informed by two men who had come up the Granite branch tracks from West Quincy that they had found a sleeper on the tracks and that they had removed it. This sleeper was placed in a low point on the West Quincy side and was discovered shortly before a passenger train was due to leave Braintree over this line.

The outward train from Boston had come through a few minutes before, and the rails were all right at that time, and it is thought that whoever the parties were that they must have come up from West Quincy and crossed over onto the main line placing a sleeper on each track.

Travelling Crane At Freight Yard

The new freight yard for the handling of granite is now taking shape at South Quincy. The tracks for freight cars have been laid and graded, the tracks to support the crane installed, and the uprights for the crane erected. The crane is upon the ground and has been unloaded from the cars. It was built by the Shaw Electric Crane Co., of Muskegon, Mich., and is marked plainly on the side "capacity 80,000 lbs." There are two tracks for cars beneath the crane, and the crane can travel lengthwise of the track about 100 feet. The entrance will be from Water street near the crossing, and there will be an exit for empty teams via Marsh or Quincy streets. Or empty teams may enter from these streets and go out via Water street. A large number of cars can be loaded or unloaded in a day.

Young Aspirant For City Job

The six year old son of A. J. La Croix walked into City Hall this morning and approaching Health Inspector Lennon who stood in the corridor, said: "I want a job driving a sewer team." As Mr. Lennon was not the man who is giving out jobs at City Hall this year he steered the lad into the City Clerk's office.

There the boy again announced that he wanted a job driving a sewer team. Mayor Shea happened to be busy at that moment with a boy man grown, who was also looking for a job, and Mr. Keith said he would take his name and see what could be done for him.

The boy went off happy in the thoughts that he would soon receive the coveted job.

BLOODLESS WARFARE

Resulting In Religious Reform Throughout the World

THE FLAG OF COMMERCIALISM

Missionaries Say It Has Followed Wherever Banner of Christianity Has Been Unfurled--Interesting Reports From Foreign Fields

Pittsburg, March 12.—That American commercialism follows closely the work and achievements of missionaries in Christianizing heathen nations was forcibly presented by eloquent speakers during the international convention of the Young People's Missionary Movement.

Many of the leaders in the movement, who occupied seats on the stage in front of an audience of over 3000 people, wept as missionaries told the story of the Cross in foreign lands. Everywhere that the banner of Christianity has been unfurled the flag of commercialism has followed.

There has been a broadening of religious spirit throughout the Orient, and China in particular has experienced a bloodless revolution of reform, as one speaker expressed it, during the last few years. The wave of religious reform, it was asserted, appears to be sweeping the world.

The striking feature was the series of addresses by native Christians representing Korea, Japan, India and China. Each graphically described the growth of religious fervor among his countrymen, recognizing in the Christianizing movement the preservation of his country and the development of the people along all desirable lines. Each also laid stress upon the great magnitude of the work, the vast number yet to be reached by the uplifting power, and the comparatively few available teachers and counsellors to reach the masses.

Reports were made during the day by missionaries from all of the important fields of the world, all teeming with stories of wonderful achievement and almost uninterrupted progress.

Two monster meetings were held last night, one in the Exposition Music hall, the official headquarters of the convention, and an overflow in old city hall, the programs being almost identical. Moving pictures and stereopticon views illustrating life and habits in many lands were again shown and an address was delivered by C. C. Michener, general secretary of the Young People's Movement, on "The Relation of the Young People's Missionary Movement to the Evangelization of the World."

The pictures and talks at the meetings last night touched the pocketbook nerves of the vast audiences. An appeal was made for money to carry on the work in the various fields, and the collections taken at the two meetings totalled $10,000.

Missionaries Slain by Cannibals

Victoria, B. C., March 12.—After several years' search, a government expedition has recovered the skeletons of Rev. James Chalmers and O. F. Tomkins, missionaries, murdered by cannibals in 1901 in New Guinea, according to mail advices received by steamer Moana. The party was guided by friendly natives to bones hidden in old canoes, which contained a number of skulls.

British Premier Very Sick

London, March 12.—The health of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the prime minister, has caused renewed anxiety. During the past week there has been a weakening of his vitality, which is regarded as a serious symptom. It is expected that the return of the king from the continent will be followed almost immediately by a change in the premiership.

Alia Trial Near the End

Denver, March 12.—Evidence in the trial of Guiseppi Alia, charged with murdering Father Heinrichs on Feb. 23, has been concluded. The state anticipated the defense plea of insanity by introducing expert testimony to the effect that Alia was sane. No evidence that Alia was an anarchist was adduced during the trial.

Americans Leave For Ecuador

Panama, March 12.—Former Trainmaster Stewart of the Panama railroad has gone to Guayaquil, Ecuador, where he will become general manager of the Guayaquil and Quito railroad. He was accompanied by fourteen other Americans, who formerly were employed on the Panama railroad.

Methodist Brotherhoods Consolidate

Buffalo, March 12.—A meeting here of delegates from the Wesley Brotherhood and the Brotherhood of St. Paul, two Methodist Episcopal organizations, with a joint membership of 110,000, resulted in an agreement to consolidate the two organizations.

Life Sentence For Murderers

Columbus, O., March 12.—The senate, by a vote of 22 to 9, passed the bill abolishing capital punishment and providing that all persons convicted of murder in the first degree shall be sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Heavy Real Estate Failure

Chicago, March 12.—William J. Moore, a real estate dealer, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, scheduling debts amounting to $340,255 and assets of $62,820.

LOYAL TO ALFONSO

Catalonians Did Nothing to Mar King's Visit to Barcelona

Barcelona, March 12.—After a two days' visit to this city, King Alfonso left for Madrid last evening. Great crowds gathered on the streets and at the station to bid him farewell, and the royal train moved away to the cheering of the multitude. Before his departure the king expressed his gratitude at the splendid reception which had been accorded him and the manifestations of loyalty that the Catalonians had shown during his entire visit.

No untoward incident marked the king's stay in Barcelona, but during the early hours of yesterday morning the police had something of a scare on account of the explosion of a bomb which had been placed in a water pipe at Atarazanas Quay, a lonely spot. The pipe was shattered and the sidewalk damaged, but no one was injured, so far as is known. The authorities cleared up all traces of it before the break of day. Every effort was made to keep the affair a secret, and it was not until last evening that it became generally known. The officials here are very reticent on the subject, merely explaining that the explosion was very insignificant.

The day was occupied by King Alfonso in visiting several institutions, in paying his respects to the naval representatives of Austria on board the Austrian flagship, and in inspecting a detachment of troops and the Atarazanas barracks.

Coroner's Report on School Fire

Cleveland, March 12.—Coroner Burke has rendered his decision in the Collinwood school fire. Conditions existing are blamed, but no fault is charged to anyone. The coroner says the fire was caused by overheated pipes and the death of the children was due to faulty construction whereby a partition projected in front of the stairway. The coroner holds that the children became panic-stricken and were jammed in the doorway because of the turn in the hall to get to the door. Janitor Hirter is exonerated.

Higher Salaries For Letter Carriers

Washington, March 12.—Determined and persistent assaults on the postoffice appropriation bill in the house resulted in the amplification of that measure in many particulars. The letter carriers finally won their long fight for $1200 salaries, when an amendment granting the same was adopted. The house also allowed an additional $25,000 for clerks in the third-class offices where the salaries of the postmasters range from $1000 to $12,000, and $15,000 additional for contract stations.

Railroads Quarrel Over Rates

Chicago, March 12.—Eastern railroad representatives reached no agreement regarding rates for the gathering of the National Education association, the Grand Army of the Republic and other organizations, after a long and stormy session. The roads were about equally divided in sentiment, some advocating a reduced rate and others insisting upon making no rate lower than 2 cents a mile.

Unsatisfactory Congo Measure

Brussels, March 12.—Premier Schollaert last night announced the amendments to the colonial bill which are designed to give to parliament control of the Congo budget. The amendments proved disappointing, however, as they fail to provide for the suppression of the native labor tax. The Radicals and Socialists have decided to oppose the treaty of annexation.

Rotten Politics In Louisiana

New Orleans, March 12.—After considering the charge that about 9000 fraudulent votes were cast in the recent Democratic primary for lieutenant governor, the Democratic state central committee appointed a committee to request both the successful and defeated candidates to withdraw and to allow the committee to appoint a nominee for lieutenant governor.

Panic Investigation First

Washington, March 12.—Senator Clarke (Ark.) denounced the pending currency bill in a speech in the senate, declaring that no currency legislation should be enacted until an investigation is held as to the causes of the panic. "No such legislation is necessary now," said Clarke. "It is not only not necessary, but it may become dangerous."

Would Stop Stock Gambling

Washington, March 12.—President Roosevelt has directed H. K. Smith of the bureau of corporations to investigate the methods of stock trading with a view to furnishing the basis of possible future legislation regulating such practices. The president has declared himself to be decidedly in favor of eliminating stock gambling.

Bonds Greatly Over-Subscribed

Albany, March 12.—Five millions of the new fifty-year, 4 percent highway improvement bonds have been sixteen times over-subscribed. The aggregate of the bids submitted amounted to nearly $82,000,000. The prices offered ranged from 106.456 to 109, and the premiums on the bids will net the state a profit of $400,000.

To Close Dangerous Schools

New York, March 12.—The tragedy of the Collinwood, O., school fire has impelled the board of education to pass a resolution closing all schools where the slightest possibility of a similar disaster exists.

The weather will be fair in New England; not much change in temperature.

A Merry Contest Powers vs Crane

Even the ordinary layman in politics cannot fail to be interested in the contest being made to send unpledged delegates to the Republican National Convention at Chicago. With Senator Crane on the ground, personally directing affairs, it would seem that the delegates to the convention might go unpledged, but when it is considered that arrayed against Senator Crane is that past-master of politics, ex-Congressman Powers, it seems equally certain that there will depart from Massachusetts for the convention delegates with only one thought and purpose in mind—the nomination of Secretary Taft.

Whether the outcome of this contest will denote abler management on the part of one or the other of these prominent leaders, or will be ascribed to the popularity of the winning candidate, is an open question. Both forces are earnestly and actively at work, and the result will be watched with interest.

In the midst of this political fray it is difficult to understand how ex-Congressman Powers can give any time to social affairs, yet he has consented to address the meeting to be held by the united men's clubs of Wollaston on Thursday evening, March 19, at the Methodist church. Aside from his activity in the coming presidential campaign, Mr. Powers is a most pleasing orator, thoroughly American and full of enthusiasm on any subject pertaining to our American institutions and government. We prophesy that a large audience will greet him.

Expectoration Law Extended

The reason for the new law of the Board of Health is shown in the amendment of the State law. Chap. 150 passed this month reads:

Section one of chapter one hundred and sixty-five of the acts of the year 1906 as amended by section one of chapter four hundred and ten of the acts of the year 1907 is hereby further amended by striking out the said section and inserting in place thereof the following:—Section 1. No person shall expectorate or spit upon any public sidewalk or upon any place used exclusively or principally by pedestrians, or except in receptacles provided for the purpose, in or upon any part of any city or town hall, any court house or court room, any public library or museum, any church or theatre, any lecture or music hall, any mill or factory, any hall of any tenement building occupied by five or more families; any school building, any ferryboat or steamboat, any railroad car, except a smoking car, any elevated railroad car, except a smoking car, any street railway car, any railroad or railway station or waiting room, or on any track, platform or sidewalk connected therewith ,and included within the limits thereof."

Religious Novel.

Sunday evening, at the Point church, the pastor, Rev. A. R. Atwood, is to give in place of the sermon the story of the late religious novel, "The Ministry of David Baldwin," by Henry T. Colesstock. A review says "David Baldwin is a young clergyman who holds many of the advanced views in regard to the Bible or the creation. He preaches the truth as he sees it to a conservative congregation. The story gives a faithful picture of more than one minister's life and surroundings , and should appeal to a wide circle of readers in these days of new thought and shifting creeds. An entertaining glimpse of home-making is interwoven in the plot." The pastor believes, this story teaches an important truth to all; most especially to parents, and to young people with matrimonial intentions.

Some of Dismissed Negro Soldiers May Again Enlist

MESSAGE ON BROWNSVILLE

Senate Also Receives Four Reports From Committee Which Investigated "Shootup," Resulting In Discharge of Three Companies

Washington, March 12.—Reports from the committee on military affairs were presented to the senate in regard to the investigation of the affray at Brownsville, Tex., which resulted in the discharge, without honor, of three companies of negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth infantry.

At the same time a message was received from the president, calling attention to the fact that the testimony taken by the committee sustains his position in discharging the soldiers. He recommends extension of the time for re-enlistment of the discharged men who might be found not to fall within the terms of the order.

There were four reports from the committee, the majority being signed by Senators Warren, Lodge, Warner, Dupont, Taliaferro, Foster, Overman, Frazier and McCreary. A minority report was signed by Senators Foraker, Scott, Bulkley and Hemenway.

The majority report found that, in the opinion of the committee, the shooting was done by some of the soldiers in the Twenty-fifth infantry; that the testimony fails to identify the particular soldier or soldiers who participated in the affray. It is stated that there is considerable contradiction in the testimony, but taken as a whole, and reconciling it wherever possible, it proves the case outlined in the majority's decision.

The principal minority report was presented by Senator Scott and takes the position that it has been impossible to ascertain who did the shooting and makes the recommendation that the negro soldiers be restored.

In addition to this minority report, Senators Foraker and Bulkeley joined in a supplemental report, which was presented by Senator Foraker. It declared that the testimony of the eye-witnesses against the negro soldiers is not reliable and that no motive of their alleged connection with the affray had been shown.

A supplemental report, signed by Warren, Lodge, Warner and Dupont, declares that under the evidence it is shown that the assault was perpetrated by members of the battalion, but that it is reasonable to believe that all of the soldiers were not concerned in the commission of the crime, either as principals or accessories. They recommend that it would be justice to restore to all of the innocent men the rights and privileges which had accrued to them by reason of their previous service in the army. A bill is presented authorizing the president within one year after the passage of the act to authorize the enlistment of any of the men whom he may be satisfied had no connection with the shooting.

Senator Foraker included in his report a bill, previously introduced, which provides for the same general purpose. This bill, however, would compel the war department to accept the enlistment of any of the discharged negroes who makes oath that he was not connected with the shooting.

The Brownsville affray occurred on the night of Aug. 13-14, 1906. The war department conducted a hurried investigation of the shooting and as a result President Roosevelt ordered the discharge without honor of the three companies then stationed at Fort Brown. Senator Foraker, in December, 1906, raised a question as to the president's right to discharge the men, and an investigation by the committee on military affairs was ordered. The committee began taking testimony Feb. 4, 1907, and concluded March 10, 1908.

A brief debate brought out a statement by Senator Warren, chairman of the committee on military affairs, to the effect that a bill will soon be introduced for the reinstatement of the discharged negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth regiment under certain conditions.

Says Baker Died of Poisoning

Hackensack, N. J., March 12.—At the resumption of the inquest into the death of Walter F. Baker Dr. Boos of Boston, who made a chemical examination of the organs of the dead man, testified that, in his opinion, death was due to arsenical poisoning and that the poison was administered to Baker in solution. The witness said that he found no arsenic in the embalming fluid submitted to him.

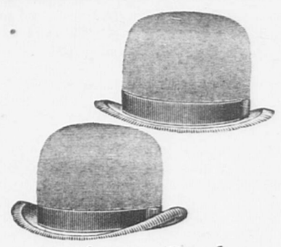

Vienna Citizens Made Happy

THAW DIVORCE SUIT

Mother Technically Real Defendant In Proceedings

"PUBLIC WILL NEVER KNOW"

Evelyn's Reply to Question as to the Cause of Estrangement--No Trouble Expected Over Question of Counsel Fees and Alimony

New York, March 12.—Mrs. William C. Thaw was served here late yesterday with papers, in which she is made a co-defendant with her son, Harry K. Thaw, in the action instituted by the latter's wife, Evelyn N. Thaw, to annul their marriage. As Harry Thaw is an inmate of an insane asylum, he is in the eye of the law legally dead, and the next of kin becomes technically the actual defendant in the case.

An attempt was also made last evening to serve Harry Thaw with a copy of the summons and complaint at Matteawan insane asylum by a messenger who was admitted to the asylum. Owing to a technicality the service was not completed. Dr. Lamb, superintendent of the institution, being Thaw's legal guardian, must also be served, it was explained. Learning this, Thaw refused to accept service, and the process server returned here, where another set of papers will be prepared and served upon Lamb and Thaw today.

Daniel O'Reilly, counsel for Evelyn Thaw, explained that Thaw's mother was made a co-defendant, as, being the next of kin, she is technically the real defendant, the law presuming her son to be insane and therefore legally dead.

Evelyn called at O'Reilly's office yesterday and attached her signature to the papers in the case. As she left the office Mrs. Thaw was asked whether she would later, as had been intimated, make public the cause of the estrangement that led to the annulment suit. She replied: "The public will never know."

The papers served yesterday briefly recite the fact of the marriage at Pittsburg on April 4, 1905, and set forth "that at the time of the marriage of the plaintiff to the defendant the defendant was a lunatic and of unsound mind and was incapable of making a valid contract of marriage. The cause for annulling the marriage, to wit, the lunacy of Harry Kendall Thaw, existed at the time of such marriage."

Lawyer O'Reilly said that he did not anticipate any trouble in securing from the defendant's counsel fees and allimony.

A. R. Peabody, counsel for Thaw, said: "It will not be necessary for Evelyn to go to the courts in order to get counsel fees and alimony while the suit is pending. She has been getting money from me to pay her expenses while Harry is confined, and this will be continued during the trial of the annulment suit. I shall fight the case upon instructions from my client and shall represent him personally in the defense." The matter of a cash settlement upon the plaintiff had not been taken up, Peabody said.

"Your son is crazy, Mrs. Thaw, and I will not jeopardize my life by remaining his wife." This is what Evelyn Thaw is reported to have stated to the mother of Harry K. Thaw within a month after her marriage to the young Pittsburg millionaire.

At that time the girl wife was preparing to leave Lyndhurst and consult a divorce attorney. The elder Mrs. Thaw came to the rescue and, according to Evelyn's friends, admitted that Harry was "queer," but persuaded Evelyn not to take any summary action.

Thaw, it is stated, heard of this later and threatened to kill Evelyn if she ever tried to leave him. She is said to have Pittsburg witnesses to prove this.

Evelyn has spent much time and money getting evidence from Pittsburg to be used in case there is a fight made by the Thaws against her. According to information from a young woman here, Evelyn has evidence to prove that Harry K. Thaw was also considered as mentally deranged by the Thaw family, and it was only through the personal interference of Mrs. William Thaw that Evelyn was restrained from entering suit for an annulment on the grounds of insanity within a month after her marriage. This was after Harry had a very bad spell, beating Evelyn and locking her in a room.

Mrs. Metcalf Sent to Asylum

Indianapolis, March 12.—Mrs. Beatrice T. Metcalf, who attempted to shoot Attorney S. R. Hamill during the trial of Banker Walsh at Chicago, while Hamill was engaged in the defense, has been committed to a hospital for the insane. Mrs. Metcalf yesterday made two attempts to commit suicide.

"DEEP INFATUATION"

Leads a Woman to Take Life of Beloved Friend and Self

Boston, March 12.—"Insanity perhaps—but in a measure due to deep infatuation." This is the opinion generally expressed as to the cause of Sarah C. Weed killing her friend, Elizabeth B. Hardee, and then taking her own life.

The tragedy occurred at the fashionable Laurens School for Girls, which both women maintained at 107 Audubon road, in the Back Bay. It occurred when loving friends were preparing to lead Miss Weed away to the sanitarium from which she had escaped. She had been placed in the institution that everything medical skill might devise should be done to restore her mind to the brilliancy it once enjoyed.

Miss Hardee was found lying dead on a couch bed in her chamber with a bullet wound in the back of her head. The body of Miss Weed lay on the floor. There was a bullet wound in her right temple. Her feet lay beneath the bed which held the form of her dearly beloved friend. Miss Weed had killed the woman who in all the long years of their college life and relation as teachers had been as a sister to her. Then in taking her own life she had flung the revolver from her as she fell, the weapon falling and remaining upon the bosom of her dead friend.

Both women started the school last October. With its inception Miss Weed's mind had shown signs of failing under the strain of forwarding the proposition that meant so much to her and to her companion. Then the doors of the Sanitarium opened to receive her.

Honors From King of Italy

Boston, March 12.—Governor Guild has received official notification that the King of Italy has nominated him a Grand Officer of the Crown of Italy. The same decoration has been sent to President Eliot of Harvard university. The king wishes by this means to express to the people of Massachusetts his appreciation of the reception given to his cousin, the Duke of Abruzzi, and also his satisfaction at the enactment of certain statutes in this state which tend to strengthen banking institutions and which have been of particular benefit to Italians.

Hampton Falls, N. H., March 12.—After maintaining an average speed of more than forty-three miles an hour for a little more than three hours, thus, it is believed, establishing a new speed record for balloons in New England, the balloon which ascended from Pittsfield, Mass., at 11:09 a. m. yesterday landed in this town at 2:15 p. m. The occupants of the car were Leo Stevens, who acted as pilot, and William F. Whitehouse, who went as a passenger.

King's Creditors Take Action

Boston, March 12.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against Cardenio F. King yesterday. King is well known throughout New England for his once extensive advertising, as a financial agent and promoter. Some few weeks ago he made a general assignment. The petition filed yesterday gives the above assignment as the act of bankruptcy relied upon.

Rockland, Me., March 12.—The new scout cruiser Birmingham established a new record for vessels of her class, with reciprocating engines, in her screw standardization tests over the measured mile course off this port, making her fastest mile at the rate of 25.3 knots an hour, corrected speed. To accomplish this result her screws made 200 revolutions a minute.

Tip to Republican Editors

Poisoning of $20,000 Trotter

New Haven, March 12.—Nutbearer, a trotting horse owned by Joseph Hubinger of this city, was found dead in its stall at the stable of a local veterinary surgeon. Death is alleged to have been due to muriatic poisoning. Nutbearer was valued at $20,000. No clue to the perpetrator has been discovered.

Threats Were Unheeded

London, March 12.—Undismayed by threats of penalties to follow the second rejection of the government's Scottish small holdings bill, the house of lords last evening, by a vote of 153 to 33, refused to give the measure a second reading. The ministerial spokesmen had threatened that if the upper house again threw out the measure the government would introduce the necessary legislation to restrict the powers of the hereditary chamber.

Investigating Lilley Charges

The Mayflower's Mishap

Norfolk, March 12.—The board of survey on the president's yacht Mayflower, which recently grounded in lower Chesapeake bay, made a preliminary report to the effect that the only apparent damage sustained by the Mayflower is to her propellor, into which a hawser became entangled just as the yacht was being floated from shoals.

Poor Patriotism In Shipbuilding

The editorial comments of the Milwaukee Wisconsin under the caption "Poor Patriotism" will be endorsed generally:

"The second largest steam yacht in the world was successfully launched at Leith, Scotland, on Wednesday last, for an American owner—a prominent member of the New York Yacht club. When she makes her appearance on this side of the Atlantic she will be one of a comparatvely large fleet of steam yachts of foreign construction which are flying the American flag.

"Americans who thus patronize foreign shipbuilders when ordering pleasure craft are within their rights and also within the pale of the law. As the steamers are for pleasure only they will not come in competition with the American ships which are struggling for existence against the cheaper tonnage of foreign maritime powers. But from the standpoint of patriotism, every order of this kind that goes abroad constitutes a denial of opportunity to American builders who are striving to place the shipbuilding industry of the United States more nearly on a plane with that of foreign countries in the economical production of tonnage. Shipyards cannot achieve progress in this direction unless they receive orders enough to enable them to cultivate the economies.

"Whatever the subject of assistance for the languishing merchant marine is up for discussion it is stated by those who are in touch with the marine investor that the extra cost of American tonnage is not the main trouble. The cost of operating American ships is what deters investment in home-built craft for the foreign trade. But the yachtsman is not troubled by the economies of operation. He generally picks an expert crew and pays them wages that will insure good service and comfort on the ship. This being the case, the matter of first cost should not prevent patriotic Americans who build pleasure craft from placing their orders on this side of the Atlantic and thus encouraging American shipbuilders and assisting them toward a competing basis."

French Masterpieces.

This year's loan exhibition of the Copley Society of Boston of which many of our residents are members, is devoted to a collection of French masterpieces of the School of 1830. Opening March 10 at Copley Hall, Clarendon Street, it will continue about three weeks, with the usual social and educational features. The policy will be continued of granting free admission on certain days to teachers and pupils of private or public schools applying for the privilege.

In many respects this will be one of the most interesting of the long series of the Copley Society's exhibitions. From a number of private art galleries of Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and other cities contributions have been offered to the exhibition committee of the Copley Society. These works, together with the collections of French art on permanent exhibition at the Museum of Fine Arts, will give such an opportunity as has never before been presented in New England for study of the most remarkable group of painters of the nineteenth century. Canvases by Corot, Millet, Diaz, Daubigny, Troyon, Decamps, Rousseau, Michael, Courbet and others are included. The manager is H. R. Burdick, who has had charge of several recent exhibitions of the Copley Society.

Paving Contract.

In a special report sent to the mayor and the City Council of Boston this week the Finance Commission alleges that the city paid $70 per thousand for paving blocks to a firm which was organized the day the contract was awarded, and which bought the material from another firm at $62 per thousand; that the Bay State Granite Company, of which Joseph A. Conry, former congressman, is president, received a "gift" of $2,300 in a contract.

The report says that two contracts were made by the supply department with the Bay State Granite Company, each for 500,000 blocks. The contract called for the delivery of the blocks at $70 per thousand on the wharf. Of the amount contracted for only 283,870 blocks have been delivered. The company bought the blocks at $62 a thousand delivered on the wharf and then sold them to the city at $70, making $8 per thousand by acting as a middleman. On the blocks delivered it made about $2,300, which the Commission calls a "gift." Had the full order been delivered the "gift" would have been $8,000.

EDITORIAL.

The Dorchester representatives in the Legislature made a remarkable claim at the meeting of the Citizens' Association this week, that the proposed new bridge over the Neponset river was wholly for the benefit of Quincy and the towns south. This measure was introduced into the Legislature by unknown Dorchester people who doubtless have some scheme which will benefit them personally. There is no demand from Quincy people for the bridge, and Quincy was not consulted in any way before the bill was introduced. Quincy people thought at first that it was a move to connect Dorchester with the Metropolitan parkway system in Quincy, that Boston people might enjoy the ride along the Quincy Shore reservation and continue on to the Blue Hill reservation. While this would be of some benefit to Quincy, the greatest pleasure would be derived by people of Boston, who would use the parkway much more than would the people of Quincy, as the population of Boston is 600,000 where that of Quincy is but 30,000.

The highway bridge over the Neponset river between Quincy and Boston was built only a few years ago, and we are not sure that the city has paid the last instalment toward the cost. The Dorchester representative very truly said that Quincy and Boston are not now in a financial condition to build the proposed bridge. If built at all it should be built by the Metropolitan Park Commission as a part of the parkway system.

Whether Quincy will gain or lose by the proposed change in the franchise tax is not the question. It is an adjustment of the burdens of taxation. Some cities and towns by the strictest economy are unable to have any of the modern improvements without an excessive tax rate, and a debt burden from which they may never recover; yet Brookline and some other towns have such a large income from taxes that they are extravagant in all their expenditures, and at the same time have a low tax rate. These towns have municipal gymnasiums, municipal swimming schools, and other luxuries which are out of reach of 90 out of 100 towns. Why? Because they are favored by the present taxation laws. Brookline, Milton, Beverly, Newton and Nahant should be willing to give such cities as Quincy, Everett, Revere, Somerville and Lynn a chance to exist.

The Quincy City Council at its next meeting should request the Mayor and City solicitor to appear before the Legislature in favor of the proposed change of taxation laws which will make a State tax unnecessary. It will benefit 256 cities and towns whose taxpayers need help, and will not impose a hardship on the other 98 cities and towns which have long been favored. It is a most important measure for Quincy and for justice.

The papers speak of returning prosperity. In New York money is looser. In Pennsylvania the iron industry has resumed full time, running night and day to fulfill the incoming orders. In Maynard, Mass., the mills of the American Woolen Company have started in with a full time schedule. In other parts of the state, business is beginning to boom again.

The Observations In the Daily Walk

Miss Grace Allison of Lynn is the guest of Mrs. Morse of Lunt street.

Ex-City Solicitor William R. Thomas sails on Saturday for a trip to Italy.

The B. T. club met today at the home of Mrs. Edgar James on Rawson road.

Miss Marion Bartlett of Everett is the guest of Miss Lisabelle Linnell of Davis street.

Miss Amelia Linnell of Davis street will come home Friday from Lebanon, N. H., for the spring vacation.

It was not Agnes Gilraine who was arrested in Boston this week for shoplifting, but a girl who used her name.

The Granite Manufactures Association recently voted in four new members, who see the benefit of unity of action.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Pine Tree club was held at Colonial hall Wednesday evening. Dancing followed the business session.

Friends and neighbors are glad to hear of the improved condition of W. Jefferson of East Elm avenue and son Ruel, after their serious fall last week.

George A. Bent, a well known citizen of this city, died at his residence at 49 Old Colony street, Wollaston, on Wednesday morning, at the age of 74. Funeral on Friday at 2 o'clock.

The Public Library should be well patronized for the rest of this week, as no more books are to be given out after Saturday evening for the present.

Miss Blanche M. Gavin is seriously ill with appendicitis at the Pittsburg hospital, Pittsburg, Penn. Her brother George and sister Helen are at her bedside. Her many friends hope for her speedy recovery.

There will be a union service of the Memorial Congregational and First Methodist societies in Memorial church this evening at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Jeannette H. Mann will give an address on temperance work.

The program for Founders day at the Woodward Institute this evening will include nine numbers of instrumenta and vocal music. Dr. Ebenezer Woodward, the founder, was born in Cambridgeport March 12, 1791, and died in Quincy Jan. 23, 1870.

Although Quincy had 58 degree temperature at noon today, higher temperature should be expected in March. For six years Quincy has had temperature above 60 in March, and last year on March 23 the mercury climbed to 72. Fifty-eight is the maximum for 1908.

It seems rather unfair to the originality of the Atlantic whist club that some of the menus for their fortnightly initial teas could not have been made public. The odd dishes and their literary conception would be a delight to lovers of fine art in epicurian culinary.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. will hold its regular meeting on Friday at three o'clock in Association hall. Mrs. C. F. Rugg of Worcester will be the speaker of the afternoon, taking for her subject Sir George Williams. The meeting will be of unusual interest and a large attendance is requested.

Eight tables were in play at the whist tournament of the Granite City club Wednesday evening. Some remarkably good scores were made, Edward B. Marsh leading the van with over 70 percent. J. Warren Nightingale was a good second. They carried off the two souvenirs. At the conclusion of play a lunch was served by the entertainment committee.

Timothy J. McCarthy, formerly of Atlantic, was sentenced to six months in jail at Salem on Wednesday for assault on a crossing tender at Beverly the night before. McCarthy was at one time a member of the Quincy police force, but fell from grace and was dismissed. He then found employment as driver of a coal team.

Several suggestions have been made for the usage of the fund raised by the Civic Betterment committee of the Quincy Woman's club for the improvement of Atlantic. Among them have been the establishment of tin barrels at certain corners for refuse, the leveling of the grounds around the station, putting new seats on the Atlantic playground and using the fund for charity. Any suggestions will be gladly received by any member of the committee.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

Hull 2 P. M.—The cruiser Birmingham has just been sighted. She left Rockland, Me., at 6.30 A. M., on her trial run, and arrived earlier than expected. She will undoubtedly make her time.

The battleships Vermont, Rhode Island and New Jersey, built at Quincy are expected to reach Magdelena bay today with the Pacific fleet of American warships.

What's the matter with the Birmingham? She showed up Wednesday with a 25 knot clip.

Three ventilators have been installed in building No. 60, the large wooden building in which submarines are constructed.

A crank shaft for the Edward's air pump of the Old Colony Street Railway Company is being straightened.

The boiler on barge Gibsob belonging to the Staples Coal Company is being overhauled and repaired.

The mud guards on Frank O. Wellington's auto have been repaired.

A board of surveyors, acting under orders from Assistant Secretary Newberry of the Navy Department, who has charge of the bureau of navigation, after inspecting the Government battleships and cruisers at League Island, said they would recommend an appropriation of $1,000,000 to be expended on the war vessels to bring them up to date. The battleship Indiana, cruisers Brooklyn, Minneapolis and Columbia and the transport Dixie, and the Adams, which is being converted for a school ship, are at the yard. Nearly $500,000 is wanted to improve the Brooklyn. Some of the money will also be used on the Idaho, now being built at Cramps' shipyards. To bring the war vessels up to date, it is deemed necessary to put in new ammunition hoists and batteries of more modern pattern.

MOST TERRIBLE INIQUITY

Practiced Upon Men, Women and Children by Slave Owners

Washington, March 12.—A vivid description of atrocities allegedly perpetrated on slave laborers on cocoa plantations in islands of Principe and Saint Thome, Portuguese West Africa, was given in an address on "Children's Lives in Africa," by General Pienaer of South Africa, at last night's session of the international congress on the welfare of the child, under the auspices of the National Mothers' Congress.

"The atrocities I have witnessed in Portuguese West Africa have taken such a hold upon me," declared Pienaer, "that I have consecrated my life to the freeing of the men and women who are daily being done to death, and the little children whom I have seen beaten until their blood flowed on the ground."

The speaker said that he had formed an association with the intention of petitioning the Portuguese government, and on behalf of the slaves to establish missionary settlements to civilize and Christianize them and to act as a guard over the slave traders and to report the atrocities to the association. He asked for the support of the mothers' congress in his mission of humanity.

"Children are torn away from the breasts of their mothers and sold as slaves," he continued. "Slaves in the employ of their taskmasters are beaten to death; men, women and children are mutilated. Often after a native has been done to death he is quartered and the different portions of his body are hung on trees to terrorize the other natives."

KING HAD AN ACTIVE DAY

Nothing Occurred to Mar Spanish Ruler's Visit to Barcelona

Barcelona, March 11.—The first day of King Alfonso's visit to Barcelona was unmarred by a single regrettable incident. The Republicans and Separatists not only refrained from any hostile manifestation, but all classes among the people apparently joined in acclaiming the sovereign.

There was an imposing display of troops and police throughout the city, which, while testifying to the nervousness of the authorities, seemed to be out of place amidst the numerous friendly demonstrations of the multitude. The king was greatly pleased at his enthusiastic reception, which he believes will have a marked effect in winning over the affections of the Catalonians.

Among the notable features of the day was a grand reception, followed by a dinner in honor of the officers of the Austrian warships lying in the harbor. At the conclusion of the dinner King Alfonso, accompanied by a mounted escort, proceeded to the opera house to attend a gala performance. The theatre was crowded and the seats and boxes commanded fabulous prices. Time and again the king was compelled to bow his acknowledgments of applause and cheers that greeted him.

America and Japan Are Friends

New York, March 11.—With declarations that there are now between the United States and Japan no questions of any magnitude likely to remain unsettled much longer, and that any questions arising in the future will be brought to satisfactory conclusions by the spirit of friendship existing between the two countries, Baron Takahira, Japanese ambassador, called forth prolonged cheers at the banquet tendered in his honor by the Japan Society of New York. Takahira spoke of the recent agitation regarding the Japanese immigration question and his address was taken as a prophecy of continued peace in the Pacific.

Temporary Liberty For Schmitz

San Francisco, March 11.—Eugene Schmitz, former mayor, convicted of extortion, will, unless some unforeseen event occurs, be set at liberty today, but will remain under bonds to answer charges of bribery in connection with public service corporations. Judge Dunne made an order dismissing Schmitz from custody on the indictment on which he was convicted, in pursuance of the decision of the supreme court. He directed, however, that the case against Schmitz be submitted to another grand jury. Judge Lawler accepted bonds for $280,000 for the release of Schmitz.

Failed to Rob Bank

Omaha, March 11.—A bold attempt was made to rob the Merchants' National bank by a man who gave his name as L. L. Fee. He walked into the bank and, menacing Vice President Drake with a bottle which he said contained nitro-glycerine, demanded $5000 cash. Drake conferred calmly with the would-be robber until other officials called the police and the man was taken into custody. Tests showed that the contents of the bottle were harmless. The police think Fee is a lunatic.

MONK'S MUSIC

Carries One Back To Good Times At Annual Ball of Mt. Wollaston Lodge

The annual concert and ball of Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows was held Thursday evening at Music hall. It was a pronounced success in every way. The attendance was very large over 150 couples participating in the grand march. The music was of the best. George Monk furnished this important part of the program and it was fine. It has been a long time since Monk's orchestra has furnished music for a dancing party and it seemed like old times. It is hardly necessary to say that his reputation still holds good.

The decorations of the hall were confined largely to the platform. Suspended at the rear of the platform were crossed flags beneath which were suspended the three golden links with white, blue and scarlet fields, in which appeared the letters "F. L. T." which stand for Friendship, Love and Truth, the well known motto of the order. Along the front of the platform was a row of potted plants and ferns, behind which was the orchestra. Potted plants also were placed in all of the windows.

From 8 to 9 o'clock while the guests of the evening were arriving the orchestra gave a concert, the program for which was as follows:—

Overture,	"Ungarische Lustpiel"	Kela Bela
Selection,	"Prince of Pilsen"	Luders
Serenade,	For Flute and Cornet	Tltl
	Messrs Lotze and L'Africain
Selection	From Red Mill	Herbert
Cours et Fleurs		Theo Tobani
March,	Second Conn.	Reeves

Promptly at 9 o'clock, the signal for the grand march, which was to open the ball, was given and a few minutes later it was in progress.

The march was led by Noble Grand Charles Barron and Mrs. Barron, followed by Floor Director E. Frank Mitchell and Miss Marion Mitchell. Then came the other officers of the ball and others swelling the number in line, as stated above, to over 150 couples.

The march was very prettily executed and was watched with interest by a large number of spectators who occupied seats in the gallery. As the marchers came down the centre in eight and sixteen front there was an outburst of applause from the spectators. The march was a long affair occupying nearly half an hour.

The order was made up largely of the more modern dances with a sprinkling of the square kind. The round dances were the popular favorites, however, and there was not one that was not encored. In one instance the dancers demanded a third encore. Shortly after midnight there was an intermission during which refreshments were served.

The floor was in charge of E. Frank Mitchell as floor director with Charles Barron and D. E. Macdonald as assistants and the following corps of aids: James S. Baker, Frank W. Flowers, Abel S. Gomez, Charles H. Wood, Arthur W. Mitchell, Walter V. Loud, John H. Gillis, John R. Richards, Herbert G. Proctor, Maynard C. King, William A. Richards and Orrin S. Hammack.

The reception committee were particularly busy during the entire evening, and saw to it that the comfort and pleasure of the participants were well looked after. Charles C. Jones headed this important committee and with him were Tobias H. Burke, Charles A. Hobart, Walter H. Ripley, Jesse F. Curtis, William J. Williams, Charles G. Kezer and Chas F. Harwood.

Cook With Gas

As spring approaches it is time to think about getting that gas stove installed, so as to be ready to meet the hot weather when it arrives. The advantages of a gas stove are many. Always ready when needed. The expense stops as soon as you are though using it, and the best of all it gives the desired heat when wanted at a second's notice. Another thing needed at this season of the year is a gas heater. It is almost indispenable in spring.

During the past two years many miles of street have been piped and the luxury of a gas stove is open to thousands. The Citizens Gas Light Co, at their office on Granite street have a full line of gas stoves, as well as all gas appliances. The company extend a general invitation to the public to call at their show rooms and see some of the possibilities of gas.

QUINCY OBJECTS

Remonstrates at Hearing Relative To New Bridge Over Neponset

Quincy put up a strong opposition on Thursday before the legislative committee, who have before them the bill for a new bridge over the Neponset river in place of the present structure.

Representative Mildram, who presented the bill, was the first speaker in favor. He said that Boston cared for 132 feet of the bridge and Quincy 608 feet. That Mayor Hibbard had withdrawn his objection if it would embody a suggestion for an investigation by the park or highway commission.

Mr. Riley of Boston said he bridge was dangerous and should be rebuilt. Representative Stark also called attention to the bad condition of the bridge.

Representative Burr told of the early squabbles as to who should care for the bridge, and spoke of the possible development of the water front. When the government demands a wider draw Quincy will have to help build it. He agreed that it was better to go slow.

J. F. Dunbar, treasurer of the A. T. Stearns Lumber Co., felt there should be a substantial bridge. It would result in better business on both sides.

H. A. Frost also favored. He spoke of the congested conditions on the Boston side and a wider entrance was absolutely necessary for teams.

Mr. Spring thought a new bridge should be built. It was largely a question of expense. He favored an investigation.

George Phillips of Dorchester said the draw was the most trouble. He also called attention to the large amount of travel, especially on Sundays. The draw was unsafe.

Dr. E. J. McGovern said from the underneath of the bridge it appeared unsafe.

Representative Hultman, speaking in opposition, could not understand the outburst of enthusiasm for the City of Quincy. Quincy opposed the bill. He felt it a matter for the Metropolitan district and the South Shore towns should be included in the cost.

City Solicitor McAnarney said as far as Quincy was concerned there was no demand for a new bridge. There was a unanimous sentiment in opposition. No business man could be found to consider such a proposition at this time. The support of the bill all comes from Boston. Not a man from Quincy was present in favor. As far as the present bridge was concerned there was no complaint from the Quincy side; it was all from Boston. The National government had a scheme to locate the arsenal here and until that was decided nothing should be done.

W. S. Pinkham appeared as a representative of the Citizens' Association in opposition. Quincy should be left to say how it should expend its money.

Representative Coombs said there was no need of a new bridge. He had used it every day and that the congestion was all on the Boston side.

President Hobbs of the City Council said that Quincy can not afford to go into any such expenditure of money at the present time. The towns south of Quincy should bear part of the expense.

Owing to the great amount of decomposed vegetable matter contained in Brazilian waters, which causes rapid deterioration of thin steel, the hull of the new despatch boat Guanabara, built for the Brazilian Government, is constructed entirely of bronze. Against this metal, says Popular Mechanics, the corrosive action of the Brazilian waters has no effect, and although more costly, both in material and construction, the vessel is much lighter than if built of steel or wood. The propeller shafting and propeller are also of bronze.

PASTOR'S FUNERAL

Beautiful Floral Tributes at Funeral of Rev. D. W. Stoddard

Five clergymen took part on Thursday at the funeral services of Rev. Daniel Winfield Stoddard, the pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, held from his late home on Endicott street at South Quincy, and largely attended by people from the Quincy and former churches where he was pastor. Some came from the Pierce St. church at Greenfield, and brought with them a beautiful floral tribute, a large wreath of white roses and smilax.

The service was conducted by Rev. W. E. Waterbury of Boston, who was assisted by Rev. G. H. Barrett of Providence, R. I., Rev. F. B. Cressy of Weymouth, Rev. N. J. Sproul of the First Presbyterian church of Quincy, and Rev. E. D. Webber of the Baptist church of Wollaston. Several Quincy ministers were present.

Two favorite selections, "Nearer My God to Thee,' and "Sometime We'll Understand," were sung by a quartette composed of Mrs. Lloyd Jones, Miss Catherine Jones, Robert Farquhar and Charles Matthaus.

The Calvary Baptist church sent a large anchor as a floral tribute, which was made of white roses, carnations and asparagus vine, and was tied with a purple ribbon marked "Our Pastor." The design was suggested by the last sermon of their pastor preached the day before he died on "The Soul's Anchorage."

There were several other beautiful floral tributes.

The interment will be at Syracuse, N. Y.

Goal Scored.

A hearty send-off was given to J. H. Hamilton, president of the McGregor Association Football Club on Thursday evening. Mr. Hamilton was first entertained by the members of the club and presented a gold watch charm of the Masonic order. A large crowd accompanied him to the South station, where he boarded the New York train. He sails for Glasgow on board the Columbia Saturday.

LACK OF CONFIDENCE

Lodge Says It Was Responsible For the Recent Panic

ENOUGH CURRENCY ON HAND

No Law Giving Government Powers For Dealing With Crisis--Issue of Panama Bonds Served Its Purpose --Favors Central Bank

Washington, March 13.—Senator Lodge endorsed the pending currency bill in a speech in the senate. He declared that it would be serviceable as an emergency measure and would not prevent the enactment of a general currency law, which he hoped to see realized in the future on the basis of a central bank.

In beginning his address Lodge said that he disliked to disagree with the Boston Chamber of Commerce in his view on this bill, but he was obliged to do so.

"What was lacking during the panic," said Lodge, "was not currency, but confidence, which is always the case in such cases. Men hoard only what they believe will be scarce and difficult to obtain."

Speaking of the efforts of the treasury department to relieve the currency panic, he continued: "The measures of the government were awkward because we had no law to give the government any proper or well-defined powers for dealing with such a crisis.

"But however extreme or awkward these measures may have seemed, the issue of Panama bonds upon which more bank currency could have been issued served its purpose. It served its purpose so well that very few of the notes were actually issued."

Mr. Lodge declared that the cause of the crisis was the exhaustion of the world's capital, the enormous expansion of the business and the demand which had been made on the savings of the world. Speaking of asset currency, he said:

"What those who talk about asset currency in this country want the banks to do is to borrow without security and to lend with security. I am in favor," said Lodge, "of a central bank with government directors absolutely under government control."

He endorsed the Aldrich bill, but admitted that it was another patch to be added to our patchwork financial system.

Had Governor's Check Book

San Francisco, March 13.—H. M. Wilson and his wife, who registered at a hotel in this city as Mr. and Mrs. George H. Longworth of Denver, were arrested in their apartments and are being held for investigation of their effects, which include a check-perforating machine and a personal check book bearing the name of Governor Guild of Massachusetts. Wilson had other check books, including those of some of the most prominent men of Massachusetts.

More Bombs at Barcelona

Barcelona, March 13.—Following the departure of King Alfonso from this city, a second bomb was found on the quay, near the place where the bomb exploded in a water pipe early Wednesday morning. This bomb also exploded as it was being placed in a van. The van was badly damaged, but no one was injured. Two more bombs were found last evening in the centre of the city.

Attitude of "Benevolent Neutrality"

London, March 13.—Foreign Secretary Grey has dispatched a reply to the Russian and Italian notes regarding the railway projects in Macedonia, in which he says that Great Britain's attitude toward all such projects is one of benevolent neutrality, but that no active British support can be given to any of them until the porte has agreed upon an effective scheme of Macedonian reform.

A SUCCESSFUL FLIGHT

Professor Bell's Heavier-Than-Air Æroplane Travels 319 Feet

Hammoudsport, N. Y., March 13.—Professor A. G. Bell's new aerodrome, the "Red Wing," was given its test flight over Lake Keuka. After gliding over the ice on the lake for about 200 feet, the aerodrome rose to the height of about ten feet and sailed at that elevation for a distance of 319 feet, at the rate of from 25 to 30 miles an hour. After having covered this distance, a portion of the "tail" gave way and the aerodrome was brought down for repairs. This is declared to be the first successful public flight of a heavier-than-air flying machine in America. The flight was witnessed by a number of people.

The aerodrome was propelled by a 40-horse-power, eight cylinder, air-cooled gasoline motor, weighing 145 pounds. The propellor was made of two blades of steel measuring 6 feet 2 inches in diameter, having a pitch of 4 feet. The entire machine, with the operator, weighed 560 pounds. The total supporting surface, including the tail and rudder, is 453 square feet, which gives a flying weight of 123 pounds a square foot.

For Benefit of Public Health

New York, March 13.—For maintaining rigid precautions against diseased cattle to be killed for food, especially those infected with tuberculosis, representatives of cattle commissions and agricultural societies in seven states met here and formed the Eastern Live Stock Sanitary association. Dr. Melvin, chief of the United States bureau of animal industry of the department of agriculture, said the government would co-operate with the state officials with a view to correcting the evil of selling diseased cattle for food.

Washington, March 13.—An important conference was held at the White House respecting amendments to the Sherman anti-trust laws. The proposed changes in the law, it is expected, will be along the lines suggested by the conference of the Civic Federation, held in Chicago a few weeks ago. No concrete results were reached, and it is likely that further conferences will be held.

Solid Delegation For Taft

Not to Raise Hughes' Pay

Albany, March 13.—The senate gave only twenty-three votes to the proposed constitutional amendment which would increase the governor's salary from $10,000 to $20,000 a year. Twenty-six votes are necessary to pass it.

BEAT THE SCHEDULE

Our Battleship Fleet Drops Anchor In Magdalena Bay

SHIPS IN FIRST CLASS TRIM

Ready to Go Anywhere at Moment's Notice--Target Practice Will Be Followed by Holiday Trip Along Coast to San Francisco

San Diego, Cal., March 13.—When the American battleship fleet, under command of Rear Admiral Evans, steamer into Magdalena bay and dropped anchor in the most sheltered harbor of the lower Pacific coast, the history-making naval cruise of more than 13,000 miles, begun at Hampton Roads less than three months ago, practically came to an end.

The itinerary of the long voyage did not call for the arrival of the ships at Magdalena until Sunday, so with their arrival at the Mexican bay Wednesday night the fleet is almost four days ahead of time.

Rear Admiral Evans reported his arrival with all the ships of the fleet in ever better condition than when they sailed from Hampton Roads. The entire fleet is prepared to sail for any destination at an hour's notice.

Magdalena bay is the present naval base of the Pacific for America's target work and battle practice drills, and by right of temporary ownership by government lease, the vessels, if not the men of the fleet, may feel that they are again in home waters.

There remains the trip from Magdalena bay to San Francisco, the destination originally announced and a matter of some 1100 miles, but it will not be begun until after target practice is finished and fleet drills are done. This last stage of the journey will be a tour of holiday-making, with stops at San Diego, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and Santa Cruz, where reception committees are planning all manner of entertainments for officers and men, the latter especially coming in for the greatest amount of attention. The sailors will find themselves heroes in the eyes of their western admirers and are promised a series of fetes which include features ranging from gala balls under the patronage of exclusive social sets to prize fights refereed by James J. Jeffries.

The California committee announce that the uniforms of the enlisted men, far from being a bar to any place of amusement, as has sometimes been known in other places, will be a mark of hospitality and welcome all along the Pacific coast.

There is serious work to be done at Magdalena, however, before the sailors' thought can turn to the happy days of home-coming. Target ranges are to be established off the coast of Lower California at once and the divisions of the fleet will be sent out with big guns booming as soon as they are ready. Long before the fleet passed through the Straits of Magellan the ordnance officers of the sixteen ships, the turret captains and heads of the various gun crews were busy with details of the coming practice, and in the run from Callao to Magdalena they completed the final arrangements.

Two target practices are held each year in the navy. The spring practice has been completed by all the vessels of the Pacific fleet, and is about to be undertaken by the fleet from the Atlantic. It is known as the "record practice," because, according to its results, four trophies are annually awarded. Prize money also in large sums is distributed among the gun crews which make the best scores at the targets.

The four trophies are bronze placques, which are carried by the winning ships in four different classes until other ships wrest them away at the spring practice. The trophies are richly prized by the winning crews. The four classes are battleships, cruisers, gunboats and torpedo boat destroyers. In the battleship class are included the state-named armored cruisers of the West Virginia and Maryland type, of which there are now in commission eight in the Pacific fleet. The battleship trophy is at present in possession of the Illinois of the Atlantic fleet, one of the four of Evans' fleet.

The cruiser trophy is now in possession of the crew of the protected cruiser Albany, which is in San Diego harbor, and has just returned from Magdalena with what is believed to be a world's record for rapid and accurate fire. The trophy was won last year by the Albany's crew while they were on the Boston, which is now out of commission.

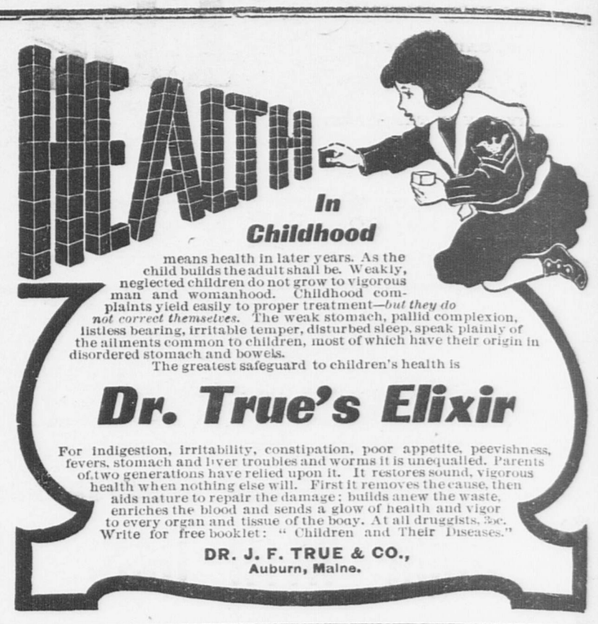

The gunboat trophy is possessed by the Princeton and the destroyer trophy by the Preble. One each of the trophy placques, which bear designs of naval vessels in heavy seas, or gun crews in action, is the inscription:

"Trophy for excellence in naval gunnery. Presented by direction of the President of the United States to the vessel having the highest score in record target practice."

Each year the name of the winning ship is engraved on the trophy.

CUT OF TEN PERCENT

Positive Notice of Reductien of Wages In Lowell Mills

OTHERS ARE TO FOLLOW SUIT

Indications That Operatives at Fall River, Where Sliding Scale Exists, Will Receive Less Wages--Changes May Affect 165,000 Workers

Boston, March 13.—A general reduction in the wages of the cotton mill operatives of the north will be made the latter part of the month and following weeks, according to mill men in this city and in several leading textile centres.

Definite announcement that the present wage scale would be lowered has been expected for some time, in view of the fact that on Feb. 14 it was strongly intimated in mill circles here that a cut would have to be made.

Notices were posted in all the cotton mills of Lowell yesterday, on receipt of the instructions from the head offices here, informing the 20,000 operatives that wages will be reduced to average 10 percent, beginning March 30. The mills in Lowell are owned by the Appleton, Boott, Lawrence, Massachusetts, Merrimac, Hamilton and Suffolk corporations. All manufacture cloth except the Lawrence Manufacturing company, which makes hosiery and underwear.

With the exception of the Stark mills of Manchester, N. H., which announced Tuesday that a reduction of about 8 percent will be made in the wages of their 1500 employes, the Lowell mills are the first in the cotton industry in New England to give positive notice of a cut.

It is understood that practically all the cotton mills in northern New England will post notices during the next few days announcing a reduction.

In southern New England there is some uncertainty as to the time a cut will be made. In Fall River a sliding scale agreement exists between the Manufacturers' association and the Textile Council, and under its terms no change can be made until May 25. The agreement is based upon the average margin between the cost of cotton in the New York market and the selling price of standard 28-inch 64x64 print cloths, the agreement being renewed at the end of six months.

The last agreement became effective on Nov. 25, 1907. Since that time the margin has steadily fallen off, indicating that the 25,000 operatives in the association mills in Fall River will receive less wages next month. Under the present arrangement the average between the prices of cotton and standard print cloths governs the wage rate in the six months following the period in which the averages are computed.

The Fall River system affects directly the mills in that city, East Taunton and other places, so that manufacturers of goods other than print cloths now usually make their changes in wage schedules without regarding conditions there.

Nothing is known here concerning the probable action of Rhode Island and New Bedford millowners. President Pierce of the New Bedford Manufacturers' association and Mr. Gammell, a prominent Rhode Island mill man, recently expressed their personal opinion that a wage cut seemed inevitable. It is not known whether a reduction in New Bedford will be put into effect before the expiration of the Fall River agreement, which, except sentimentally, has no relation to the New Bedford situation. The Rhode Island schedules are invariably based on those of New Bedford, and not on that paid in Fall River.

Manufacturers give as reasons for the change in wages the depression in the cloth market, the high cost of cotton and lower prices for goods. They also say that the existing wage schedules are the highest paid since the Civil war. Many of the mills will continue to curtail production until business improves.

The cotton mills in New England number 340 out of 1000 in the United States. Of 300,000 cotton operatives in the country the New England mills employ at the present time about 165,000, a slight reduction from the number at work last year. Fall River has 30,000 operatives, Lowell 20,000, New Bedford 20,000, Manchester, N. H., 15,000, Rhode Island 20,000 and Lewiston, Me., 6500.

Cannot Enter Harbors at Night

Odessa, March 13.—In consequence of the arrest near the fortresses at Kars and Batum of several Turkish officers alleged to be spies, the minister of marine has forbidden all vessels, without respect to nationality, from approaching or entering any fortified harbor in the Black sea at night. If this order is disobeyed the vessels will be bombarded. The order entails considerable delay to navigation.

Mulai Hafid Has Had Enough

Casablanca, March 13.—General a'Amade, the commander of the French forces in Morocco, has received letters from Mulai Hafid, the so-called sultan of the south, and the leaders of his army asking that hostilities be suspended pending arrangements for peace.

Liverpool, March 13.—A wireless message received by the Cunard Steamship company states that the Lusitania, which left here for New York on Saturday, made a record run of 627 knots from Monday noon to Tuesday noon.

RETIRED BUSINESS MAN FAVORS NEW THEORY

E. H. Lambert, of Everett, Massachusetts, Believes Stomach the Seat of Life.

One of the most interesting statements made recently concerning the much discussed Cooper theory, that has spread over the country during the past year, is made by E. H. Lambert, a retired business man, whose home is at 115 Francis Street, Everett, Mass.

Mr. Lambert has this to say in connection with Cooper and his medicines: "Some time ago I read an article about this man Cooper, in which he claimed that stomach trouble was directly responsible for most ill health. He went on to say that, although his medicine did nothing but get the stomach in sound condition, it would, in many cases, remove kidney and liver trouble and various other ailments. He argued from this that the stomach was the main cause of sickness, and stated that the success he has had with his medicines was due entirely to this fact.

"I am now fully convinced that this theory is correct, and believe Cooper has a really remarkable medicine, judging from my own experience.

"I have been a sick man for five years. Three years ago I was told by a physician that I had Bright's disease of the kidneys. I have treated constantly for this trouble since, without results. After reading the article I have mentioned, I purchased some of this man Cooper's medicine. I have been astounded by what it has done for me. I was relieved to some extent within 24 hours. Today my health is better than for five years, and so far as I can tell, my kidney trouble has disappeared.

"My wife, who had stomach trouble for some time, tried the preparation after noting its action in my case, and her improvement is fully as marked as mine. She now eats heartily three times a day without any distress whatsoever. Her nervousness has also left her. I certainly believe this man's success is fully justified, as he undoubtedly has a wonderful medicine."

We will gladly describe the remarkable record made by the Cooper medicines to all who wish to know of them. —E. J. Murphy.

JUSTICE DID NOT DELAY

Heinrichs' Murderer Found Guilty and Sentenced to Death

Denver, March 13.—"Is there no appeal?" These were the only words spoken by Guiseppe Alia when informed by Interpreter Matter that the jury found him guilty of murder in the first degree and fixed sentence as death.

Just eighteen days after firing the shot which brought death to Father Francis Leo Heinrichs, at the altar in St. Elizabeth's Catholic church, while in the act of administering the holy sacrament, this wanderer from Italy an alleged, but not proven anarchist heard his doom.

In the courtroom not three blocks from the church where he committed his crime and within the sound of the chimes which he said drew him to that church, Alia received the judgment delivered by the jury. Stolid to the last he simply nodded his head and whispered to the interpreter: "Is there no appeal?" Then his chin sank on his breast and he made no further comment.

When the jury had been polled the judge thanked them for having done their duty and expressed his approval of the verdict. Attorney Widdecombe of the defense made a motion for a new trial and was granted five days in which to file papers. The prisoner was then ordered to be returned to jail pending this action, and the trial, which had lasted only three and a half days, was over. Under the laws of the state Alia cannot be hanged within sixty days of the rendering of the verdict.

There was absolutely no demonstration in the courtroom when the verdict was read by Foreman Johnson. The finding had seemed inevitable from the beginning and the audience received it in silence, apparently satisfied that justice had been done.

Hitchcock's Alleged Misdeeds

New York, March 13.—Ellen Von Hagen, whose accusations resulted in the indictment of Raymond Hitchcock, the actor, repeated her story to a jury yesterday. The girl told of nights spent at Hitchcock's home at Great Neck, L. I., and of visits to a furnished room house in this city, where the defendant had temporary lodgings. On each of these excursions she was accompanied, she said, by either Flora Whiston or Elsie Voecks. At the time Flora was 16, the witness was 15, and Elsie was 12 years of age. The prosecutor said that Hitchcock had been guilty of misconduct with all three of these children. Miss Von Hagen swore confirmation of the state's allegation so far as she was concerned.

Hobson Hints at Bribery

Washington, March 13.—In his testimony during the submarine boat inquiry before a special house committee yesterday, Representative Lilley sprang a sensation by stating that he understood the Electric Boat company used the Japanese scare as a means of impressing congress, through the boards of trade, chambers of commerce and other organizations. Another feature of the hearing was Representative Hobson's statement that Lawrence Speer, in behalf of the Electric Boat company, assured him that if he would promise to support the firm's product before congress, influence would be brought to bear on Speaker Cannon to have him appointed on the committee on naval affairs.

Captain's Wife as Helmsman

New Orleans, March 13.—With her three masts broken off and the captain's wife at the wheel, steering, schooner Leah Whiddon was sighted on Feb. 18 several hundred miles east of Florida by steamer Matador, which has arrived here. The schooner was proceeding under the jury rigging with the crew all busy making repairs. The Matador supplied provisions to the Whiddon, which had been out thirty-eight days from Bahia. The schooner's destination was St. Johns, but the Matador left her making for Barbados.

Charged With Neglect of Duty

Albany, March 13.—Charges against Mayor McClellan and Police Commissioner Bingham of New York, with a demand for the removal of each from office, have been filed with Governor Hughes by Rev. Dr. Parkhurst, on behalf of the Society for the Prevention of Crime of New York City. Hughes declined to comment on the charges, which allege neglect of duty in non-enforcement of the liquor tax law.

Charged With Kidnapping

Scout Cruiser Birmingham Does Well In a Four Hours' Test

Boston, March 13.—The new scout cruiser Birmingham, a product of the Fore River Shipbuilding company, successfully passed the second of her government contract requirements by maintaining for four hours a speed of 24.32 knots an hour in a run down the New England coast.

Those in charge of the Birmingham stated after the trial that the cruiser was not pushed, and that after more than the required screw revolutions had been attained the fireroom pressure was kept at 2 3-4 inches, although the contract permitted a pressure of five inches.

The feature of the run was the almost entire absence of vibration throughout the ship. The coal consumption also proved satisfactory, but this will be more definitely ascertained later. The twenty-four-hour endurance trial at a 22½-knot speed will be made tomorrow.

Hibbard Is Still Pruning

Boston, March 13.—By the suspension of twenty employes of the public grounds department today, Mayor Hibbard will effect a saving of nearly $18,000 a year in this department. The official reason for the suspensions is the condition of the city finances. By the closing down of the Columbia road crusher today thirty men will be affected, but Hibbard will endeavor to place these men elsewhere in the city employ.

EDITORIAL.

In the discussions on the abolition of the grade crossings many seem to overlook the fact that Granite and School streets are fully as important as Saville and Water streets. Granite street must be improved and School street must be continued on the present lines, either over or under the tracks. The great object of continuing Irving place or Upland road to Granite street is to provide an outlet to Hancock street for passengers from Boston who are landed on the west side of the four tracks and not allowed to cross the tracks. If the tracks are depressed to carry Saville street and Granite street over the tracks, why not carry Irving place over also, so that it will be more direct to the Post Office, The Greenleaf and the business centre of the city.

At South Quincy it will not be easy to abolish the grade crossings and maintain the granite freight yard at its new location. The Daily Ledger would suggest that this freight yard be moved to the south of Water street or north of School street. If to the south the depot could be placed anywhere between Water and School streets. By the Board of Trade plans passengers from Boston on alighting from a train, must cross a freight track either on the railroad side of the depot or the street side. Such a track is dangerous and unsightly, and it is an awkward way to enter the freight yard from the turnout near the ice houses.

Mr. Cavanagh in his plan has overlooked the fact that freight trains are not allowed to take a siding "head on." The westerly track is the southbound track and therefore the entrance to the freight yard must be from the south, not the north. With the tracks elevated it will not be possible to enter the "new" freight yard from the south.

There is an ideal location for the granite freight yard between School street and Granite street near the present Quincy freight yard. Freight trains could enter it directly, and stone teams could enter by a new road from Fort Square which could easily be extended at level grade to Water street. A freight yard with this outlet would be very accessible to South Quincy granite yards and also to the granite quarries in the vicinity of Quarry street or Granite street.

The removal of the freight yard from Water street will allow other improvements, including an extension of Liberty street to School street, and possibly to the freight yard proposed by the Daily Ledger.

Quincy people are rejoicing in the election of a manual training teacher for our High school. The Christian Register of last week said "Manual training ought to be a part of the education of every child, rich or poor." We are glad to see its introduction into Quincy. This same periodical goes on to say: "The training of the physical senses and the skilful use of the hands help in the development and education of the brain. Skilled manual labor, therefore, in some form is good for everybody." The next step our citizens are most anxiously awaiting, is the equipment of our High school gymnasium, with apparatus and an experienced physical director. Our children need the physical as well as the intellectual. Welcome the day, when we shall have a good gymnasium at our High school.

The Observations In the Daily Walk

Today is Friday, the 13th.

The steam Yacht Idalia sailed this week in tow of the Orion for New York.

A bunch of keys found on Washington street has been left at the Ledger office.

It is reported that the Tubular Rivet and Stud Company will work but five days a week, shutting down every Friday night for the week.

The Ladies' Benevolent society of Memorial church met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs Fred Burditt of Clive street. The meeting was devoted to sewing for the Easter sale next month.

E. E. Hoxie and his partner Gordon Eaton had the remarkable score of 13 1-2 at the Thursday evening play of the American whist club, playing east and west. The high score for north and south was 11 1-2 made by W. E. Dow and J. T. Slade.

John Lofholm ,an employe at the Fore River, had his right foot badly crushed this morning by a shaft upon which he was at work, falling upon it.

People who make complaints in writing to the Board of Health should remember that unless the complainant's name is signed to the complaint as provided by the rules it is consigned to the waste basket,

The Daily Ledger received this week from London, the program for "Matt of Merrymount" now being played in the New Theatre. As Quincy was the scene, and as Matt is Thomas Morton idealized, the Ledger will print a column review on Saturday.

WONDERFUL BREAD.

The Veracious Narrative of Its Making, Baking and Sale.

"How did I happen to become a hotel clerk?" replied the man behind the desk. "Well, it was this way: I used to be a sailor. That was where I learned about whales. In fact, I was second mate of the first iron ship that ever rounded the Horn, bound from Boston to San Francisco, loaded with flour, yeast and salt to furnish grub to the California miners soon after the civil war.

"We got around the Horn all right when we ran into about the worst bit of weather ever brewed on the Pacific. Iron ships were an experiment then, and we soon found ourselves in trouble. The fresh water tanks sprang a leak, and the water ran down over the cargo. To make matters worse, the flour barrels and boxes of yeast broke loose, and with the rolling of the ship we soon had it all mixed up together. In other words, the whole ship below decks was full of dough that the rolling of the ship kneaded just as a regular breadmaking machine does out in the kitchen here. And it began to rise.

"We fastened down the hatches at first, but soon had to take them off on the lower decks or the expanding dough would burst the ship. And we put on all steam for San Francisco. We crossed the equator like a race horse, and there we made our second great mistake. The strain on the engines caused them to break down, so we had to go at half speed, and we were at a standstill for two whole days right there under a burning sun. The storm we had run out of, and the weather was clear and hot. Whew!

"Then we got under full steam again and plowed north to the Golden Gate with a deck hand sitting on the safety valve. But we were too late. The tropic sun had baked that shipload of dough into one huge loaf of bread. How to get it out of the ship was a question.

"The owners, who were the captain and one of our passengers, sold the ship just as she arrived for only half what they had paid for her new in Boston. But the new owner was a genius. He put the hungry miners to work with picks and shovels cutting out the bread and sold it at the rate of $1 a shovelful. It was the finest bread you or any one else ever ate.

"I was out of a job as second mate, and when I saw what a profit there was in that bread I just naturally went into the feeding business myself, and that's how I became associated with the hotel business. Front! Show this gentleman to the cafe."—Portland Oregonian.

WOODWARD CONCERT

Pleasing Program Presented on Founders Day At the Institute

Miss Beliveau and School

Program here

From the opening number by the orchestra to the closing solo and chorus remarkable proficiency was shown. The orchestra in the blending of the instruments, perfect time and delicate shading gave the Bohemian Dance in a way that would have reflected credit on much older performers.

Miss Teresa Keating, a past pupil, won instant favor, having a voice of sweetness and quality. Her voice promises much in the future as it gains in strength.

Miss Celena Beliveau, another past pupil of whom Woodward is very proud, has already won recognition as a vocalist, having a voice of dramatic quality, power and sweetness. She was appreciatively greeted as she stepped upon the stage for her song and received a hearty encore.

The third in the trio of past pupils to participate in the concert was Miss Alice L. Claflin, whom the school is also proud to claim, and who received quick recognition as she stepped upon the stage. Miss Claflin is thoroughly at home at the piano, playing the longest and most difficult compositions with out notes, with ease and brilliancy of touch.

Miss Moorhouse won deserved applause by her skilful playing of the 'cello. She was remarkably good for a young girl, and will be heard from in the future.

In chorus work the school maintained its high standard of excellence. One often wonders after hearing the Woodward girls sing if they are all born singers, for classes come and go and year after year the same excellence is shown.

The Woodward is particularly favored in having Mr. Buckingham as musical director and instructor, for he is not only a thorough musician himself, but he has the ability to bring out the best in his pupils, and to him many young musisians owe their inspiration and success.

The observance of Founder's day by a concert instead of a play was a new departure, but the results were pleasing and the hour's program thoroughly enjoyed by the large assemblage of parents and friends.

Little Mrs. Patten.

[Copyright, 1907, by Homer Sprague.]

Little Mrs. Patten, as we called her, though she had registered as Mrs. Judge Patten, had arrived without her husband because just as they were about leaving Chicago an associate judge had been taken ill and Judge Patten had to sit in a case for him. He had sent his wife on and would join her within a week.

At the end of the week the judge did not appear. He wrote a letter instead. The letter was shown to the landlord and then "accidentally" left on a table in the parlor for half a day, and it was doubtless read by a score of the female guests. He would be detained another week, much to his sorrow, but would surely arrive then. There was a printed letter head to show that the judge belonged to a high court, and in the letter he inclosed a draft on New York for a hundred dollars. If there was any doubt about Mrs. Patten's social status the letter settled it. The husband wrote that she had been inquired after by people whom all of us knew to be prominent in society.

Little Mrs. Patten had been with us eight days when there was a robbery in the house—the first for five years. There was no dress except at dinner Sunday evenings, and then for such a lot of conservative people as we were there was quite a display of jewelry. A lady who had got out her diamonds to wear was called from the room a moment, and when she returned the stones were gone. The value was about $2,000, but the excitement kicked up was valued at five times as much. The theft was laid to the chambermaid, to a waiter and to others, but in such cases nothing can be done but to suspect. We all talked, and we all sympathized and suggested, and little Mrs. Patten adorned herself with $5,000 worth of diamonds and acknowledged that she was very careless and expected to be robbed herself some day.

I must explain to you that the regular doors had been taken off for the summer and replaced by slat or blind doors to permit of free circulation. There was a space of about a foot at top and bottom, and no watchmen were kept in the halls at night. As these slat doors locked, the idea was that the thief was slim enough to slip over or under them. There were perhaps ten boys at the hotel with their parents, but none of them could be suspected. In fact, the detective who was summoned and came down as a guest could not find a thing to found a suspicion on. After working his head for a day he recommended that watchmen be stationed in the halls and went his way. Girls were placed on watch. Nothing occurred Monday night, but on Tuesday night there followed three more robberies of rooms. The plunder was about the same as before. In two of the rooms were husbands and wives; in the third was a woman whose husband had taken a run up to town on business. Not one of them had been awakened. There was a girl on watch in that hall, and, of course, she was at once charged with having fallen asleep.

Wednesday night I went to bed to sleep soundly, but I had my plans for the following night. I am an old bachelor, and I had a room by myself. Little Mrs. Patten acted no different from the other ladies. She was free to talk about the robberies and had taken her jewels to the office safe or had at least handed in a case. She was the thief, as you are prepared to hear, but not one professional detective in a hundred would have had the slightest suspicion of her.

When I went to bed Thursday night I did something very smart. I crawled under instead of into the bed. I expected the thief to come, and I meant to make a capture. I had a blackjack with me and ropes for tying the rascal, and at that date I could handle almost any man I came across. Nothing occurred up to midnight, but an hour later I heard and felt some one in the room. Whoever it was could not have slipped over or under the slat door. He must have entered by the window. He was searching about for my clothes when I called out that if he moved hand or foot I would shoot, and I then began to crawl from under the bed. When I struck a light I had the room to myself.

I didn't sit down and wonder if I hadn't been deceived. I knew I hadn't. That some one had been in the room I proved within two minutes. That some one had lost a little list shoe generally called a sneak. It was too small for any man's foot. It meant a woman or boy. I went down to the office and reported to the night clerk, and together we visited little Mrs. Patten's room. She did not respond to the knocks, but that was because she wasn't there. She had left most of her wardrobe behind and had gone away dressed as a young man, taking only a hand satchel.

Clear across the rear end of the hotel ran a balcony on every floor. Two fire escapes led from top to bottom. In every case a window had been entered, while in our stupidity we thought only of the slat doors. Little Mrs. Patten had donned male attire and done the trick as easy as pie. I can't say whether I scared her off or whether she was ready to go, but she went. A quarter of a mile from the hotel, as we ascertained, a confederate met her with an auto, and she was whisked away to the unknown. The judge business was all bosh. Little Mrs. Patten was Molly Matches, one of the cleverest thieves, shoplifters and confidence women in America. It must have disgusted her to find us such a dead easy crowd.

The Social Realm

Let thyself be in tune!
Life is so sweet, and goes so very soon!
Miss not a single change or charm it has—
Bend to it and dance with it as the grass
Plays with the sun in June.
So rare and brief a thing
For happiness was meant,
And all delight.
Time only for a song—
A smile—a blossoming,
With now and then an hour
For silence and content.
Live like the flower—
Under the sun by day,
The stars by night.

Judge Rugg Says Question Is Not Free From Doubt

But Dismisses The Case of Assessor Johnson Vs. Mayor Shea

In the case of Charles H. Johnson vs. Mayor Shea of Quincy, for writ of mandamus, Mr. Justice Rugg of the Supreme Judicial court, who heard the case rendered the following decision on Friday:

"The only question presented upon this petition for a writ of mandamus is whether the Mayor of the City of Quincy, has the right to remove a member of the Board of Assessors of that city. It is conceded that if he has the power it has been legally exercised and the petitioner is entitled to no relief—See Ayres vs. Hatch, 175 Mass. 489.

"The determination of this question depends primarily upon the interpretation to be given sections 27, and34 — clause IX, of the charter of the City of Quincy and the statute of 1900. Chap. 216.

"A plausible argument based upon a technical construction of section 27 of the charter supports the contention of the petitioner. The material portions of the section are: 'The Mayor shall have the sole power of appointment to all the municipal offices established by or under this act, unless herein otherwise provided; and he may remove from office by written order any officer so appointed hereunder for any cause which he shall in his official discretion deem sufficient.' It is strongly urged that if it had been the intention of the legislature to clothe the Mayor with power of removing all officers even though appointed under the provision of a subsequent statute the words in bold face in the above quotation from section 27 would have been omitted. Other considerations however, seem to me to overcome the force of this technical argument. The petitioner was appointed under chap. 216, statute of 1900 which is entitled 'An act relative to the appointment of assessors and assistant assessors in the City of Quincy.' In substance it provides for a board of three, one appointed each year, each to hold office for the term of three years, giving the Mayor authority to designate one as chairman and the City Council power to authorize the appointment of assistant assessors, and repeals clause IX of section 34 of the city charter which under a general title 'administrative officers' provided for the appointment of assessors, other clauses of section 34 provided for the appointment of most other administrative officers of the city.

"Although this statute is not in terms described as an amendment to the City Charter it seems to me to be in effect such an amendment. The frame of city government disclosed by the charter conveys strong implications that these other provisions of the charter should apply to assessors even though appointed under statutes like chap. 216, acts of 1900; for instance sections 35, 37, 38, 39, 41, 42, and 43 of the charter seems to me necessarily to apply to the appointees to the office of assessor under chap. 216 of acts of 1900, and no reason appears why the provisions of section 27 should not also apply to it. The scheme of the charter it to vest extraordinary large powers in the Mayor, even as compared with other modern charters in Massachusetts. It does not seem to me that the Legislature could have intended by the mere enactment of chapter 216, acts of 1900, to take out from the otherwise exceedingly great power of the Mayor a single board of municipal officers.

"While the question is not free from doubt I am of the opinion that the petition should be dismissed, and do so order."

(Signed) "Arthur P. Rugg."

The Court in assigning its reasons for its decision followed substantially the same line of reasoning as that adopted by City Solicitor McAnarney in his argument in support of Mayor Shea's position. Hon. A. P. French, U. S. Dist. Att., for Mr. Johnson; City Solicitor J. W. McAnarney for Mayor Shea.

"UNJUST INFERENCE"

Resented by Chairman of Republican National Committee

TELLS OF CONVENTION PLANS

No Candidate or Combination of Candidates Will Be "In Control" at Chicago Convention--Square Deal For All Concerned

Washington, March 14.—"As a member of the national committee I can say that the committee will hear all contests and will decide each case on its merits, sustaining justice and party regularity with no thought as to the preference of the contestants for any candidate or candidates."

This, in part, is the answer that Harry S. New, chairman of the Republican national committee, makes to the recently published assertions that the committee "will be controlled" by one candidate or combination of candidates and that, therefore, the presidential nomination to be made at Chicago will be determined practically by the committee.

When New visited Washington a short time ago he consulted members of the national committee and they pledged themselves not to permit their personal preferences as to candidates to enter into the consideration of the claims of any man to a seat in the convention as a delegate. In making this agreement they said frankly that they were looking beyond the nomination in June to the election in November. This attitude of the committee is made clear by an authorized statement given to the press by New, in which he definitely outlines the position of the national committee as follows:

"From time to time in the last few weeks the statement has been made in private conversation and in print that this or that candidate or combination of candidates for the Republican nomination for the presidency 'is in control' of the national committee, the inference evidently intended to be drawn being that the committee, through such 'control,' will act officially in the interest of the candidate or candidates with reference only to the personal preferences of its members and without impartial regard for the interests of the Republican party and people.

"The broad statement has been made, indeed, that the 'control' of the committee by a candidate or by a coterie of candidates will determine who the presidential candidate for the Republican party shall be through the committee's decisions of contests and its preparation of the temporary roll of delegates to the national convention.

"Such an inference is as unjust to the members of the national committee as it would be, if true, unfortunate for the Republican party. The committee is an organization of the party and not of any individual or special interest. The duty of deciding as between contestants for the right to represent a district or a state in the national convention is a sacred party trust, and the members of the committee will discharge that duty honestly and impartially and with regard only to the best interests of the party and the country.

"All contests will be heard by the full committee. No sub-committees will be named to pass upon such questions, and there will be no division of the labor or of the responsibility. Every man claiming the right to a seat in the convention will be afforded an opportunity to present his claim to the entire committee, and the consideration of each case will be restricted only by such rules and regulations as may be necessary to expedite the hearings and to reach a fair and impartial conclusion."

The Undoing of the Bum.

By EMMA ARCHER OSBORNE.

[Copyright, 1907, by E. A. Coe.]

EARLY summer had arrived and the population of the great city had turned itself out of doors en masse. The season of grand opera had long since passed, but a reminder of its glories in the form of an aria loaded hurdy gurdy, manipulated by a vigorous, swarthy Italian, was pang-panging something from "La Sonnambula." The machine was crushing away in hard, metallic precision and with the courage and confidence of a five thousand dollar a night prima donna.

The Bum, perspiring and asleep in a loppy mass on the end of a bench in Paradise park, awoke with such a start that several of the perpetual sons of rest near by were visibly alarmed. Some of them moved away hurriedly.

But the Bum's movement proved not menacing. He merely shook himself, listened a moment, glared at the hand organ in no pleasant mood and shuffled away in the direction of Chatham square.

The hurdy gurdy, as if with malicious intent, moved also and right at his heels broke into something sturdy from "William Tell."

The Bum now seemed roused to anger. He turned savagely and was on the point of engaging in pedal combat with the instrument when, as if to call off hostilities, it struck into "Yankee Doodle." The Bum, desisting from his intentions of maltreatment, fled for his favorite gin shop, where he sank into the farthest corner.

Commingling with the heavy noises of the streets and the rattling elevated trains was "Yankee Doodle." The stirring old tune seemed bent on a new march to victory, for on it came, sometimes so indistinct that it was almost lost, but its unconquerable risibilities bringing it out every time above the city's roar, louder, stronger and nearer, until it was at the very door of the saloon, arousing and beating human emotions into activity.

The Bum lifted his head and listened. The anger so recently in his countenance had disappeared. He arose; he straightened his big, gaunt self; he carred his head high; he walked to the door of the gin shop with a firm step, passed out and down the street.

And a new light shone pitifully from his deeply sunken dark eyes.

On he went, traveling a little more than a mile—the mile that was destined to prove the most momentous of his life. He hesitated not until he caught a glimpse through the canyon-like street of his objective point. Then he felt a bit uncertain.

Scarcely knowing what he was doing and perhaps from a long established habit of leaning against things for support, he reached out a hand and rested it for a moment against that mountain of strength, the subtreasury. New energy seemed to be imparted to him by the act, for he stepped boldly across Wall street and entered a great granite building.

His personal valuation was materially depreciated when he was summarily ejected not two minutes later by a functionary in servile blue and many brass buttons.

"Beggars not allowed," he snarled, pointing to a framed sign hanging in the corridor.

But the Bum had a mission to perform, regardless of unfeeling bouncers. He went away for awhile, came back and stood gazing wearily at the debonair beings swinging in and out of the big building unrestrained, while they in turn looked contemptuously down upon him from the superior heights of their good clothes.

The Bum seemed not perturbed by their superiority. Indeed, he was wholly callous to it. He was occupied deeply on how he might elude the vigilant doorkeeper.

"I must get in there," he muttered. "I can't go back without hearing something about them and her." Then he looked doubtful. "Perhaps Bill wouldn't see me, after all."

He was startled from his perplexities by a motor car dashing close to the curb and stopping beside where he was slowly passing.

A large, well built man sprang from the machine and in doing so jolted against him accidentally.

"Your pardon, sir," apologized the man. The words were scarcely uttered when his face went aghast.

"Merciful God!" he breathed.

The Bum, too surprised to move and his own face ashy pale, mumbled something that sounded like "Bill!"

The hearty clasp that inclosed the trembling hand of the Bum dispelled all doubts as to how "Bill" would receive him. The other hand he brought down on the Bum's shoulder with a glad thump.

"Jim," almost shouted the man; "Jim, can it be possible this is you?" And tears, manly, shameless tears, were plainly visible in the blue eyes of William Van Camp Higginson. He linked an arm affectionately within that of the dirty, unkempt bum.

"Come inside," he said.

There was business of importance that morning for the banking house of Higginson, Matthews & Pollock, and when Mr. Higginson's arrival was announced partners and clerks hurried to counsel with him, but Mr. Higginson waved them off. He passed on through the long hallway straight to his private offices.

He pushed the Bum in gently ahead of him, closed the door and locked it.

"Jim Pierson, where in the devil have you been all these years?" then adding, in a voice not devoid of emotion, "I've—I've actually prayed that you'd come back."

The Bum didn't notice the incongruity of Higginson's language. He was struggling with his own emotions. He was trying to venture that one question that had been uppermost in his heart since "Yankee Doodle" had sent the blood coursing through his veins and dragged him from his wretched abode into the atmosphere of better things, into the presence of representative men. Now, powerless with fear, he could not so much as mention their names—her name.

He would go. He wouldn't remain even though Higginson was most hospitable. Better tormenting uncertainty than torturing truth. He rose.

"I can't stay, Bill. You're too busy a man to be bothered with"—

"Sit right down there," said Higginson, forcing the Bum back in a quiet, masterful way. Then, with a quaver of tenderness in his voice, "Jim, I know what brought you back, and the sooner you know the better."

The Bum's heart came dangerously near stopping. It was, then, as he feared. Would Billy say "married" or—or—"dead?" He wouldn't wait to hear. Again he rose for flight. Higginson placed kindly restraining hands upon him.

"Beatrice Cuyler—is—not married. She's still in love with you," said Higginson, looking at the Bum steadily.

Then he set his captive free, and the Bum walked to a window, where he stood looking out for a long time, but he was not studying the beauties or monstrosities of neighboring skyscrapers. He was dwelling on what seemed to him, as nearly as he could figure things out, possible impossibilities. And there was a warm, happy feeling within him, the like of which he had long since relinquished. He whistled "Yankee Doodle" softly, and Higginson wondered as he slipped into an adjoining room beyond the hearing of the Bum.

"Bring a complete outfit of my clothes," he telephoned in a low voice; "yes, everything—hat, necktie, shoes, the whole business. What? No, nothing's happened to me. I just want them for— Well, bring them along, and right away. And, say, Thomas, don't mention this to Mrs. Higginson."

The Bum turned as Higginson reentered the room.

"Tell me about the others," he said.

For a long time Higginson talked. Things of vital interest had transpired since that mad, wild day of the Bum's disappearance.

His father had died leaving him a small fortune if he were ever found. His mother still lived. His sister Laura, as the Bum had already surmised, had married Higginson, and it was only a year since the marriage had occurred. Higginson and Laura were living in the old home with the Bum's mother.

Every known means had been employed and large sums of money spent in the search for the Bum, and year after year the family had remained in town late into the heat of the summer and had returned early in autumn, hoping against hope that he might come and there would be some one to welcome him.

Beatrice Cuyler cared little for social matters these days. She was going a good deal into the poor parts of the city trying to lessen the pangs of her own sorrowing heart by helping to alleviate the woes of others.

But Laura knew—and Laura hesitated not a moment to impart her knowledge to the sympathetic ears of Bill—that Beatrice Cuyler would go down to her grave unmarried unless Jim returned.

"Now, Jim Pierson," suddenly broke out Higginson—"now, I've something else to tell you. Blamed if I don't half believe you're the biggest fool ever was."

"I admit it," sadly replied the Bum, wriggling uncomfortably.

"Why, see here! After you lit out, some time within a year and a half, your brokers, Hopkins & Co., redeemed themselves. They made good up to 80 per cent on all accounts, yours among the rest. We've got it in trust for you right here in the bank, drawing interest. It's something like—well, I don't know exactly, but on toward a hundred thousand, I should say. And to think you've been—oh, blazes! Why didn't you come home long ago?"

For a moment the Bum's eyes bulged.

"What!" he exclaimed. "Do you mean to say I've something left out of that Hopkins mess?" His face beamed with incredulous hope. Then he remembered his present self. He raised his arms deprecatingly and shook his head.

"It's of no use to me," he sighed. "It's too late; I'm done for. You and Laura take it. There isn't enough man left in me to even so much as think of living the old life again, let alone making the effort."

He looked out of the window. Then, turning abruptly, he held out a hand.

"Goodby," he said. "I must be off. This visit has been everything to me. Don't let them know."

"You surely don't mean that you came here merely for a word and with the intention of returning to your miserable existence? Why, we've grieved for you as for one dead, and do you imagine that I'm going to let you go? Don't you care any more for us than that?"

"SHE IS STILL IN LOVE WITH YOU."

"I must go," stubbornly insisted the Bum.

"By heavens, you shall never leave this room except to come home to us!"

Higginson was a man of strong nature. He was thoroughly aroused and was speaking forcefully. He could not allow the Bum to return to his misery. Higginson's forcefulness awoke the spirit of the man within the Bum.

"Do you suppose for one moment, Bill Higginson, that I—look at me—would face my mother, your wife—and her? Never! Let me go!"

Higginson broke into a torrent of implorations. Long, earnestly, he pleaded. The Bum held out tenaciously. Then, little by little, he commenced to give way until he found himself as powerless to resist the strong love of the insistent man as he had been to stay the desire that turned his footsteps in the direction of Wall street.

Higginson saw the Bum was weakening and in desperation made his last attack.

"Jim"—his voice was heart reaching in its tenderness—"you couldn't have the heart to forsake us again just when we're—when we're expecting a little chap we've already named Jim?"

There was a long silence.

The dogged look in the Bum's eyes slowly disappeared. They became overcast with moisture. He reached a hand to Higginson, which Higginson did not now ignore.

"I'll go home with you," he said.

The offices of Higginson, Matthews & Pollock were located in one of those modern structures that afford tenants every convenience. A luxurious bathroom was one of the attachments, and it was here that the first move was made toward the outward transformation of the Bum. Merely a bath and clean linen have materially assisted many a bum on his way toward reformation. And Higginson's valet was a host within himself in the matter of grooming.

James Harvey Pierson surveyed himself in the long mirror and for the first time in the five years of his self exile smiled happily into his own eyes, not so much in satisfaction with his improved appearance as with newly awakened hope and the anticipation of going home and to those who were longing to greet him.

He forgot for the moment that desolate day when, with fortune irretrievably swept away, he had voluntarily chosen complete isolation. For the moment also the bitter years that followed faded from his memory.

"By jingo!" exclaimed the delighted Higginson as Pierson emerged to view. "Man alive, you look as well as anybody. All you need is a little bracing up and filling out and somebody to put new heart into you, and I guess it won't be long before your heart will be all right," he added, with a significant wink.

"Now," he continued, reverting to the eternal masculine, "let's go and have something to eat."

Advice.

"What's the best way to save money?" asked the thrifty youth.

"Quit reading the racing news and the market quotations."—Washington Star.

MATT OF MERRYMOUNT

Thomas Morton Of Colonial Day Idealized on London Stage

Local history of Quincy at the time of its settlement has been put upon the stage abroad. In London last month, says the Transcript, "Matt of Merrymount," a new romantic play by Miss Beulah Dix and Mrs. E. G. Sutherland of Boston, had its first performance there at the New Theatre with Mr. Fred Terry, an able actor of ardent heroes, in the chief part. The scene of the piece is "the colony of Massachusetts Bay," about 1635, circumstances that lend it the more interest hereabouts. There is some likelihood, moreover, that Mr. Terry will play the comedy in Boston if he visits America next year. Below we print Mr. . Walkley's review in the Times of "Matt of Merrymount," with a preliminary word of compliment to the two authors from the critic of the London Morning Post.

The play is written (says the Post) by two ladies whose names are now familiar, and to whom one has learned to look not indeed for valuable contributions to dramatic literature, but for entertainments that are full of movement and color and breathe an atmosphere of danger, courage and romance which contrasts strangely with the despondent outlook of so many of our popular playwrights. One feels on seeing most of their plays that the world went very well then, and feels, too, that the ladies could not have made the world go so very well then, did they not feel that it was going very well now—a view more comforting than common. It is probably their light-heartedness and the liveliness of their goodtempered imagination which, whether the scene be fierce, of frolicsome, or sentimental, so endears their work to a careworn world. Whatever others may be, they are not downhearted.

Period: 1635 (writes Mr. Walkley). Place: The Colony of Massachusetts Bay. Language spoken by the characters: English of any and every period from Chaucer to Mr. Kipling. The early inhabitants of Massachusetts, as far as popular knowledge extends, were composed in equal proportions of Pilgrim Fathers and warlocks, their chief occupations were religious controversy and witch-baiting. We have in this play specimens of both species of inhabitants, though not in equal proportions; but we learn from it also that, in addition to being busy discussing antinomianism with Mrs. Hutchinson, taking sides in the squabble between Governor Winthrop and Deputy Governor Dudley, ejecting toleration and good sense as personified in Roger Williams, and establishing the town of Naumkeag, more euphoniously and scripturally known as Salem, the fortunate denizens of New England were also troubled with a pestilent party of brigands, who devoured their grown sheep and put poultices on the injured limbs of their pet lambs, and, an additional horror, kept on the prises a tame witch for the confusion of their enemies.

The head of the band was "Matt," a scion of a noble house, whose self-sacrificing spirit showed that the English aristocrat could be as careless of self in Massachusetts in the seventeenth century as he is in Wyoming in the nineteenth, although his nether garments were of less woolen character. In this case the hero has left England because he fancies he has killed his wicked cousin in a duel. After skirmishes with the beadle of the neighboring town, he rescues from his hand Diantha, the daughter of the local magnate, who has come to consult his witch, disguised as a male. She inadvertently injuries him in the leg with his pistol, which he has given her to hold, and consequently he falls an easy prey to the beadle and his friends when he seeks to catch a glimpse of her in the neighboring town, and is put in the stocks. While he is there he only just escapes the lash, through an heroic endeavor to rescue Diantha from a second capture by his banditti, and is sentenced to serve her father as an indentured laborer. As such he has opportunities of prosecuting his suit, until the arrival of his wicked cousin, who turns out to be Diantha's betrothed; to make matters worse, he rescues his witch, who is in process of being baited, as her mother had been before her, and is sold by his master to the wicked cousin.

This, however, gives an opportunity for a "strong" situation. Diantha confesses her love, and provides him with an old pistol of his own, which she has preserved as keepsake, thereby enabling him to confront the wicked cousin and escape the whipping which he has incurred by insubordination to the latter, The play, indeed, is compact of situations, which seem to follow at least as naturally and perhaps more naturally, than is usual in dramas of this semi-melodramatic kind. It was received with very great approval, in large measure, no doubt, because it provides Mr. Fred Terry with a part precisely suited to his talents ,and in which he is able to grasp every opportunity.

Miss Isabel Estabrooks of Wollaston has kindly forwarded the Daily Ledger a copy of the London theatre program, received from her uncle who witnessed the play and felt quite at home. Some persons who have figured in the early history of Quincy, are doubtless impersonated under other names in the cast of characters which includes a magistrate, farm hands, refugees, constable, tithingman, lords and earls, housekeeper, daughter of magistrate, daughter of constable, and a witch, also "Merrymounters," "Edgemouthmen," serving maids, etc. Two full pages of the program are devoted to a historical sketch. It is sufficient to say that Matthew Compton, known as Matt of Merrymount, is Thomas Morton idealized.

MORSE GAINS A POINT

Temporary Advantage In His Fight to Escape Bankruptcy

ACTION IS BEGUN BY BANK

Receiver and Two Former Employes of Institution Are Petitioners--Court Will Not Act Until Their Status Has Been Determined

New York, March 14.—Charles W. Morse has won a temporary advantage in his fight to escape bankruptcy, into which certain creditors are attempting to force him.

Alleging insufficiently secured claims aggregating nearly $2,500,000, Charles A. Hanna, as receiver for the National Bank of North America, and two former employes of the same institution, filed with Judge Holt in the United States circuit court a petition that the once multi-millionaire iceman be declared a bankrupt.

In opposing this, counsel for Morse represented that T. G. Pringle and E. B. Shotwell, two of the petitioners, were not creditors within the meaning of the law and that their alleged claims were unliquidated, because the operations concerned were based on stock transactions. Upon the representations the court refused to appoint a receiver, pending the determination of the status of each petitioner.

Counsel for the petitioners were confident that Morse's action would serve only to briefly defer the inevitable receivership. It was admitted, however, that Morse's best fighting asset was time to furnish further opportunity to win over creditors to his plans of rehabilitation.

Immediately after Morse's return from Europe it was said that the capitalist went into the thick of the fight against him down-town, and by his own powers of persuasion turned the tide which was setting against him. It was also said that he won over the officers of the Mechanics and Traders' bank, as well as Receiver Hanna and the officers of the National Bank of North America, and that the bankruptcy proceedings threatened against him had been halted.

It is known that when Hanna determined to act he did have difficulty in getting two others to join him in a petition. Counsel for Morse argued last night that the great majority of creditors had been convinced that their interests would be best served by giving the financier a chance to recoup unhampered.

Those engaged in learning the exact condition of Morse's finances figure that his liabilities are about $4,000,000 and his assets approximately $3,000,000, estimated at the present market value of securities. This later estmate is held to be unfair by the promoter, whose argument has been that should bankruptcy proceedings be forced upon him they would mean a sacrifice that creditors might escape by delays until financial conditions readjust themselves. His counsel declared that this view had appealed to many creditors and that cognizance of their attitude would be taken undoubtedly by the court. At any rate, his counsel were pleased that further delay had been brought about.

Mr. Hanna's claim as receiver is based on two promissory notes, amounting to $203,321.25, with interest from Sept. 5, 1907. The present approximate value of the security held is said to be $150,000.

Mr. Pringle's claim is for the purchase price of thirty shares of capital stock of the National Bank of North America, which, it is alleged, Morse induced Pringle to buy for $8819.42 by false and fraudulent representations on Feb. 20, 1907. Upon the discovery of the fraud, says the petition, Pringle elected to return the stock to Morse and he demanded the return of the money paid. The demand was not acceded to, and the sum of $8819.42, with interest from July 1, 1907, is claimed, for which there is no security.

The claim of Shotwell is for thirty shares of the same stock, which, he also asserts, he purchased at Morse's instance, and also sought to return, demanding repayment on it. It was refused and the same sum as that demanded by Pringle is asked.

Will Back British Proposition

St. Petersburg, March 14.—The British note sent to the powers by Foreign Secretary Grey, proposing virtually the appointment of a permanent governor of Macedonia, is being carefully considered here. It is understood that Russia will announce her willingness to support the proposition of Great Britain. Grave doubts are entertained, however, of the possibility of inducing the porte to accept the proposal.

Three Hundred Families Homeless

Butte, Mont., March 14.—Fire destroyed three-fourths of Big Timber, Mont., making 300 families homeless and causing $400,000 damage. The fire raged for seven hours. The water supply became exhausted, handicapping the fire fighters, who finally massed forces around the First National bank, where the blaze was extinguished.

More Steam Colliers For Navy

Washington, March 14.—The purchase of three new steam colliers, with a coal-carrying capacity of 7000 tons, at a cost of $325,000 each, was agreed to by the house committee on naval affairs.

LONG CAPITOL GRAFT TRIAL

Results In a Verdict of Guilty Against Four Accused Men

Harrisburg, March 14.—The jury in the first of the capitol conspiracy cases to be tried returned a verdict of guilty as to every one of the four men who have been on trial here for the last seven weeks last night, after six hours' deliberation. Two ballots were taken, but the jury did not come into court until two hours after reaching a conclusion.

The men found guilty are John H. Sanderson, contractor; William P. Snyder, former auditor general; W. L. Mathues, former state treasurer, and James M. Shumaker, former superintendent of public building and grounds. Motions for new trials were made in each case.

The maximum penalties for each defendant in this case is two years' imprisonment and $1000 fine. The four men were convicted of defrauding the state in furnishing the new capitol, which cost the state about $13,000,000 instead of 4,000,000, the figure at which the contract was estimated.

The prosecution of the alleged frauds was the outcome of the political upheaval in Pennsylvania in 1905 which resulted in the election of William H. Berry, a Democrat, as state treasurer in the fall of that year.

Berry threw open the books of the state treasurer and showed that the cost of building the capitol was more than three times the amount of the contract. The case was laid before the attorney general and indictments were found against fourteen persons.

When the cases now pending against the four persons who were convicted are concluded the other defendants will be heard. The state claims that there are frauds amounting to nearly $5,000,000 in the furnishings of the capitol.

Thaw Denies Wife's Charges

New York, March 14.—Denying the charge of insanity and praying for dismissal of the suit, Harry K. Thaw, through his counsel, last night made answer to Evelyn Thaw's suit for an annulment of their marriage. Daniel O'Reilly, counsel for Mrs. Thaw, says that the case will be put on the trial calendar in the supreme court next week. Thaw's answer is brief and contains only the barest legal formalities. A. R. Peabody, his lawyer, declares that the case will be thoroughly contested by his client.

Banker Goes to Penitentiary

Chicago, March 14.—John R. Walsh, former president of the Chicago National bank of this city and convicted of illegal use of the funds of that institution, was sentenced to serve five years in the federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth. Attorneys for the defense entered a motion in arrest of judgment, which they argued for some time. Judge Anderson then promptly overruled the motion and sentenced the banker to five years in Fort Leavenworth.

Mysterious Robbery on Cruiser

San Francisco, March 14.—Cruiser Milwaukee, returning from target practice at Magdalena bay, brought word of a daring theft on board during her stay in the south. The sum of $3800 in gold was taken from the paymaster's room by some person doing duty on the cruiser. Immediately following the robbery a thorough search was made of the ship and of the 400 enlisted men, but all efforts to catch the thief and find the stolen gold failed.

Sees Executive Encroachments

Washington, March 14.—Senator Bacon spoke in the senate of executive encroachments on the legislative power of the government, and read freely from newspaper reports to show that legislation is being mapped out in the White House at conferences at which congressmen are not even present.

Point In Hitchcock's Favor

New York, March 14.—Mrs. Mary Von Hagen, mother of Ellen, the chief complaining witness against Raymond Hitchcock, was called to the stand during the actor's trial yesterday and admitted that she had expressed doubt of the truth of her daughter's charges.

Steamen Sinks Torpedo Boat

Cuxhaven, March 14.—The German torpedo boat "S 12" was run into and sunk by an unknown steamer at the mouth of the Elbe. The chief engineer of the torpedo boat was drowned, but the remainder of the crew were rescued.

Japanese Banks Going Under

Just Jotted Down By Ledger Men

The regular meeting of the Junior Alliance of First church will be held in the church parlor this evening at half past seven.

Rev. Pelham Williams, D. D., will preach Sunday morning at the St. Chrysostom's church. At both services next Wednesday Rev. Marcus H. Carroll of Hanover will speak.

The Charitable Ten circle of King's Daughters will meet with Miss Elsie Russell of Hancock street on Monday afternoon at two o'clock for sewing and regular monthly meeting.

Owing to the G. A. R. meeting in First Church chapel on Wednesday afternoon of next week, the regular meeting of the Fragment society for that date has been postponed a week to March 25.

A rare treat is in store for those who are to hear the lectures in the Baptist church, Wollaston, next Wednesday afternoon and evening, by Mr. Charles D. Kellogg, the "Bird Man." Mr. Kellogg has a wonderful ability in reproducing the bird songs, and his lectures are fascinating, showing birds and animals in their native haunts. He is especially fond of children ,and his afternoon lecture, at four o'clock is for them only, although parents who wish to accompany the smallest children are welcome to do so. The evening lecture, at eight o'clock is for adults and children, and will be somewhat longer than the afternoon lecture. The admission is 15 cents in the afternoon, and 25 cents in the evening. Tickets will be on sale at the door, for those who do not secure them before Wednesday.

Musicale.

A rare treat was enjoyed by those fortunate enough to be present at the musicale given by Mrs. Laura Tirrell last evening at her rooms in the Adams building. The program was as follows:—

Song, "Greeting," by C. Pol Plancon.
Song, "Sing me to Sleep," Harold F. Curtis.
Song, "Timo Roses," Mrs. F. S. Moore.
Reading, J. H. French.
Song, "The two Grenadiers," Mr. Plancon.
Song, "My Dreams," Mrs. Moore.
Songs, "King of the Roads," Mr. Plancon.
Song, "Under the Rose," Mrs. Moore.

Among those present were: Ex-Mayor and Mrs. Charles H. Porter, Mrs. Charles Sampson, Henry Tirrell, James H. French, Mrs. Horace F. Spear, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Skinner, Miss Eva Brown, Miss Josephine Drumm, Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Tirrell, Mrs. Emily Hanson, Mrs. Jane Gurney, Councilman and Mrs. J. F. Curtis, Miss Dora French, George H. Field, Miss Eliza Shores, Miss Ernestine Shores and Mr. and Mrs. George Tirrell.

Religious Life in Old New England.

Dr. Hardy gives tomorrow evening at Bethany church an address on "Religious and Church Life of Old New England," illustrated by over fifty stereopticon lantern photographs. This address continues the subject treated a fortnight ago, and is crowded full of facts of historic interest. Photographs of the old Bay Psalm Book, worth more than its weight in gold; the famous "Vinegar Bible," and other interesting subjects will be shown.

Let the City Prepare Plan

Editor of the Ledger:

Dear sir:—I am sorry to hear that at the hearing before the Grade Crossing Commissioners several people came in with plans and undertook to have them established by the Commission. Let me advise them, or any one else who is not acting through the city authorities, to burn up their plans for otherwise, this method will only result in doing Quincy more harm than good.

There are three parties to this proceeding, the Railroad, which pays the great bulk of the cost, the State, whose position is more disinterested than any of the others, and the City, paying but one-tenth of the cost. Now we have a competent Mayor, City Solicitor and Engineer, and these are the people to whom any one desirous of having anything done should address himself. I take it that these gentlemen have the courage and capacity to pass on the different problems advanced and to determine one which, in their judgment, is for the best interest of the city, irrespective of any personal claim or clamor on the part of any one in interest. To adopt any other method is simply to invite dissension, and, what is worse, the likelihood of disaster to any real legitimate claims. It would be quite as feasible to have our taxes assessed, or any other municipal action done, by a crowd of citizens rather than the officials employed for that purpose, as to undertake in this way to pass upon this question.

I happen to have been commissioner in six of these cases and that has given me some opportunity to know what the practice is, and invariably it has been that the engineers representing the Railroad, City and State get together and agree for the most part, and wherever there was a disagreement, to hear competent experts upon that question. While it may not be that every commission would exclude any outsider from coming in, in the cases I refer to there were only one or two instances of people undertaking to do so, and they were generally regarded as cranks or as having a selfish interest and no attention was paid to them.

I appreciate the pleasure of living in a community where every man has such an abundance of wisdom that the aggregation makes it very difficult to deal with. It is unfortunate under these conditions that a different rule cannot be applied when matters of this kind come up in our city than in other places, but unfortunately the same rule prevails everywhere, and if we want to make any progress to the advantage of the city, we should let the three men responsible for the carrying on of this question determine it, and, instead of censuring them if they do not conform exactly to what we desire, appreciate the fact that they have done the best they could and probably a great deal better than a combination of excited citizens.

Yours very truly,
E. C. Bumpus.

Healing Power Of Spring

Rev. E. W. Hunt, pastor of the Wollaston Unitarian church will continue his series of sermons on Sunday morning by preaching from the text "The healing power of spring." The situation between pastor and people has developed along some remarkable lines, and has attracted attention all over New England. Rev. Mr. Hunt's correspondence the past week has been very large, so that he finds himself unable to answer the bulk of it. He was greatly surprised at the interview of a Boston paper with Lewis G. Wilson, secretary of the American Unitarian Association, but the latter now says he was incorrectly quoted with reference to Rev. E. W. Hunt.

"I said nothing officially concerning Mr. Hunt," and Mr. Wilson, "and I did not pass judgment upon him as pastor of the Wollaston church, nor as an advocate of divine healing. I did comment upon the general subject of healing as recently adopted by ministers; but in matters of this nature everyone must judge for himself, and I should certainly not desire to be understood as indicating the personal course of any Unitarian minister, nor as expressing any opinion regarding his relations with the Wollaston church."

Rev. Mr. Hunt has since asked in public several pertinent questions of Secretary Wilson. The parish meeting of the Wollaston society will be held Monday evening to take action relative to pastoral relations between church and Rev. M. Hunt.

Increase Reported.

Returns from the two shipping terminals for the month of February show the total amount of rough and finished granite shipped that month to have been 5,499,393 pounds, which was an increase over the amount shipped in January. The first two months in the year are always quiet ones as far as granite shipments are concerned, but there was something doing. Of the total amount shipped in February, 3,163,098 pounds were forwarded from Quincy Adams, and 2,336,295 pounds from West Quincy. A much better showing is expected for March, for there has been quite a movement in granite.

DEEPLY GRIEVED

A Parishiouer Writes Relative To Sermons of Rev E. W. Hunt

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

As one of Rev. Ernest W. Hunt's parishioners, I am grieved deeply at the trouble that is now agitating the Wollaston Unitarian church. When I came to the church, less than two years ago, veritably, I was astonished at his doctrine. Here was a man preaching the Gospel, strongly beautifully and fearlessly, as I had longed always to hear it preached, yet had heard all my fifty years, instead, sermons by good men, but men stifled hampered and harassed on all sides by affairs of men and the old traditions had killed so thoroughly the strong freedom of thought and action, that I found on all sides empty churches or churches partially filled with weak women and yet weaker men, because to my mind, they were the only kind that could stand the wishy-washy stuff, that was dealt out to them every Sunday.

But, here in the Wollaston church, I found a different condition of things. Here, strong, noble men and women, friendly, kind and seemingly broad were apparently giving their pastor strong support in every way. On all sides I heard these things. "Wasn't that a grand sermon?" "Haven't we a wonderful preacher?" "We are only afraid that we shall not be able to keep such a progressive man."

What has caused the change now? I hear on all sides, "We are afraid that he is not the man for us." "He wants to establish an Episcopalian form of worship." "He makes himself equal with Christ." "He thinks that he is the Messiah." "He is not in sympathy with the work that the church is trying to do." "He finds fault with the great interest shown in different clubs and the lack of interest in building up the church.

I have to leave the solution, as I am not wise enough to solve it. Is it the little leaven that has leavened the whole lump? The whispered word that has been listened to in secret and has passed on its way, until it has become a subtle poison, endangering our dear church and closing our ears to open and fair speech? When I first heard murmurings of discontent, I thought surely it will come to naught, but notwithstanding these words upon the church walls, "We believe in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man," they are harboring and engendering hard thoughts toward a brother man—their Pastor. If they think he has failed in sympathy, are they to prove wholly unsympathetic toward him? Because he may have hurt their feelings, are they to ignore his feelings altogether? Because he has not loved them enough are they to hate him? I have not so learned Unitarianism.

Do we expect a perfect man as Pastor? Here, we have a man of clear vision, giving us his best thought; preaching freely and fully the truth as he sees it, making me, for one, long to lift up my eyes to a higher vision, opening mind and heart to a broader thought. Our Pastor could not engender hatred, surely, among us.. It would be impossible if our hearts were filled with love.

How can we go on in our little charities, giving our little monies to the benighted people we are striving to enligten, working in our different clubs to bring about a broader knowledge of things, trying to detach our children to clear-eyed, pure and just, when we deliberately turn our Pastor and family out from among us to experience more unkindness elsewhere.

I will close with the words of one wiser than I "Though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor and though I give my body to be burned and have not love it profiteth me nothing." The final test of religion is not religiousness but love, not what I have done, not what I have achieved but how have I loved."

New Bridge Over Town River

Peter T. Fallon has awarded the contract to build the bridge across Town river, from near the power station of the Electric Light Co. to the marsh, to W. H. Ellis & Co. of Boston.

The authority granting the right to construct this bridge provides that it must be completed by April 15.

Work has not been commenced as yet, but Mr. Fallon says that the contractor will begin operations Monday morning and that the bridge will be completed on time.

The contract calls for a pile bridge 150 feet long and 20 feet wide, with a draw 15 feet wide.

It is the intention of Mr. Fallon to make a fill along the shore on the Germantown side of the river so that there may be docks. The river at this point is 100 feet wide and there is four feet of water in the channel at low tide and 15 feet at high tide.

It is the intention to try and have the government dredge the channel so that there may be 10 feet at low tide.

The opening up of docks along Town river should mean much, and should open up a new line of industry in the city.

At the present time, the rail freight is $4 per ton to New York. Mr. Fallon says that by shipping by water this rate can be reduced to $2.50. There would not be much difference in the hauling charges between the Town river and the railroad yards.

Hay, coal and granite are some of the freight that can readily be received and shipped from these new docks.

We have the stock, tools, machinery, and "know how" to do your Optical work promptly and satisfactory. We repair the frames, grind lenses, match the broken ones or test the eye. C. F. Pettengill, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy.

FREIGHT YARD

Is All Right If Railroad Is Depressed At Quincy Adams

Editor of Daily Ledger:—

I note your editorial in Friday's Ledger on the grade crossing question and I should wish that you had offered an intelligent solution of the matter on which our citizens are so divided.

I will not attempt to discuss the Saville street crossing, for I believe that the people who use it and use that station are the best judges of what they want. But it would appear to me that the concensus of opinion is for depressing the tracks. If that is done the problem at Granite street is not a great feat of engineering. While I think that the people adjacent to the Quincy station are the best judges of what they want, I reserve the some rights to the people of South Quincy.

From the first meeting of our people, it has been almost the unanimous desire that Water street should be continued on it's present lines, and I believe that a large majority are in favor of an overhead bridge at an easy grade. This can be accomplished by depressing the tracks some three or four feet. By this method School street would not be disturbed, and it will not interfere with our new granite freight yard.

As for the one freight track back of the station, it has been there for some twenty years, and no one was ever hurt by it. It is almost wholly used in the night. It is infinitely less dangerous than any street car track that runs through our streets.

Mr. Editor, you say that an ideal place for the new granite freight yard would be between School and Granite streets. Well, it is very evident that you are not in the granite business, and let us examine this suggestion.

We will start out with the proposition that 90 per cent of the granite that is shipped from this station comes from the south of Water street Now how *would we get it down north of School street, except through Pleasant street which is very narrow and has a hill of over seven per cent grade? That location would necessitate one-quarter of a mile further haul, which would take a heavy stone team one-half hour longer on every load, or a loss of one load per team per day.

No, Mr. Editor, that is not the location for our freight yard, and would conserve no one's interests, except those who are speculating in meadow land, and I refuse to have the granite industry burdened for that purpose.

The new freight yard was not wholly of the granite men's choice. I was one of the committee that waited on the railroad officials to get improved facilities to the south of Water street for a granite loading dock. The officials said that they owned land where the Mitchell Granite Works were located, and that if we would be satisfied with that location, they would buy a right of way from McGrath's monumental yard. We believed this would answer the purpose well and agreed.

The railroad bought the right of way, demolished the Mitchell buildings, graded the yard, and now have a new $10,000 travelling crane about completed and ready for business, which we hope will give the granite industries the relief in shipping they have so much needed, and have long striven to procure.

Now you come forward and say "move it." Well, Mr. Editor, I think you might as well beat drums at the moon. No commission would ever sanction such waste and needless expense.

Let us have the depressed tracks running through Quincy, continuing through Quincy Adams at a slight cut, and our overhead bridge over the tracks and over the one freight track and the question is solved to the satisfaction of the large majority of our people, leaving all our business concerns practically undisturbed. The expense is less and the convenience is greater than by any other scheme.

So, Mr. Editor, I believe that we should get together and unite on one scheme or the railroad will get just what they want;—the very cheapest thing, regardless of convenience.

Very respectfully yours,
John L. Miller,
President of the Granite Manufacturers' Association.

*The Daily Ledger would continue Brook road across Water street at a level to School street and enter the freight yard from Fort square. It would save all grade, and at the same time be handy. By consolidating the freight yards there would soon be enough work to keep a locomotive busy during the day moving the cars as required, and less night work would be necessary.

The talk was enjoyed not only by Braintree ladies but several came up from Quincy.

Mrs. E. G. McGill has the sympathy of many friends in the recent loss of her mother, Mrs. Mary M. Shaw, who passed away last Saturday evening, at the St. Elizabeth hospital, Boston. Mrs. Shaw has had many weeks of severe illness and has been a patient sufferer through it all. Her life has been one that has made many happy as she was of a sunny disposition, always looking on the bright side of life. She was one that was always ready to aid those in trouble, the latter part of her life being spent in the sick room. Funeral services were held at her late home in North Weymouth, Thursday afternoon being conducted by the Rev. Frederick Guy Merrill of the Pilgrim church. The Hayden Male quartet of East Weymouth rendered several touching selections. About forty floral pieces showed the esteem in which Mrs. Shaw was held. Interment was in the North Weymouth cemetery.

The Girls' Guild of the South parish were cordially invited to meet on last Wednesday evening in the chapel, where a warm, cosy room, awaited them, for an evening of mutual enjoyment in one another's company. A little music was followed by games, which proved a pleasant pastime. At nine o'clock, the party, with Mrs. Crathern, went over to the parsonage, where lemonade and fancy crackers were served. The next meeting will be held in a fortnight's time on Friday evening, March 27, at the home of one of the members.

Alphonso Taylor of Thayer street had the misfortune on Tuesday noon to get tripped up so suddenly that he fell and broke his arm, also dislocated his shoulder. He had attended the High school and while in the schoolyard had tripped up a schoolmate in friendly sport. While waiting for the electric car at Braintree his school fellow tripped him unawares with this sad result. Dr. Driscoll of Washington street, Weymouth, set the broken limb.

ON A WORLD TOUR

Second Half of Great Naval Maneuver of Our Battle Fleet

TO MAKE START ON JULY 6

Officers and Men Pleased at Prospect of Another Round of Friendly Visits to Foreign Ports--No Intention of a Trip to Japanese Waters

San Diego, Cal., March 14.—News that the American battle fleet is to undertake a tour of the world within two months after its arrival at San Francisco on May 5 was flashed by wireless telegraph to the battleships of Admiral Evans' command at Magdalena bay late last night by the government station at Point Loma. It was received on board the vessels by officers and crews alike with the greatest satisfaction.

It had generally been understood for some time in naval circles that the trip back to the Atlantic station would be made by way of Suez, so the official announcement, coupled with the early date of starting on the second half of the great naval maneuver, gave keen pleasure to the men, already proud of the notable achievements of the fleet.

The messages included the news that the itinerary of the world cruise, starting from San Francisco on July 6, and including Hawaii, Samoa, Australia and the Philippines in the points to be visited, had been formally approved by the president and his cabinet. They also included the cordial messages of congratulations from the president and the navy department.

These messages were read to the crews of the sixteen ships at "quarters" this morning, when announcement of the Suez route and another round of friendly visits to hospitable foreign ports was made.

Admiral Evans, who will relinquish command of the fleet during its forthcoming stay at San Francisco and who goes on the retired list in August, was expecting some official word from Washington on the subject of the future movements of the fleet, and it was in view of this and to enable the department to prepare the program that he sent the message on the night of his arrival off Magdalena bay that the ships could start on any mission at a day's notice and were in far better shape as to machinery and efficiency of crews than on the day of sailing from Hampton Roads.

The time for repairs will be cut down by the excursion of the fleet to Puget sound to give the people of the north Pacific coast an opportunity to see and visit the ships which have occupied so much of the world's attention during the last three months.

So much interest will attach to the passage of the fleet through Asiatic waters and along the north African shore and southern European shores that pressing invitations undoubtedly will come to the president from France, Germany and England, and it is believed by navy officers here that the fleet will visit all of those countries, instead of sailing direct from Gibraltar to New York.

Some comment is occasioned by the fact that no mention is made of the possibility of a visit of the battleships to Japanese waters. A formal invitation from Japan, it is said, might be complied with during the stay of the fleet in the Philippines or after the completion of the fall target practice.

Wireless communication with the fleet at Magdalena bay still is possible only during a few hours at night. Signals seldom are exchanged earlier than 10 or 11 o'clock at night and the coming of day, when the light waves upset the rhythm of the ether impulses which carry the dots and dashes of the wireless alphabet, always puts an end to the atmospheric communication between ships and shore.

It is suggested that in order to maintain communication during the day, or at least throughout the entire period between sundown and sunrise, Admiral Evans may send one of the fleet auxiliaries, fitted with wireless apparatus, to a point midway between Magdalena and San Diego to relay messages. This would make the intervening distances to be traversed by the ether waves only 300 miles each.

Until some such action is taken, it is believed that little or nothing outside official business can be handled by the wireless establishments.

Japan Would Like Visit From Fleet

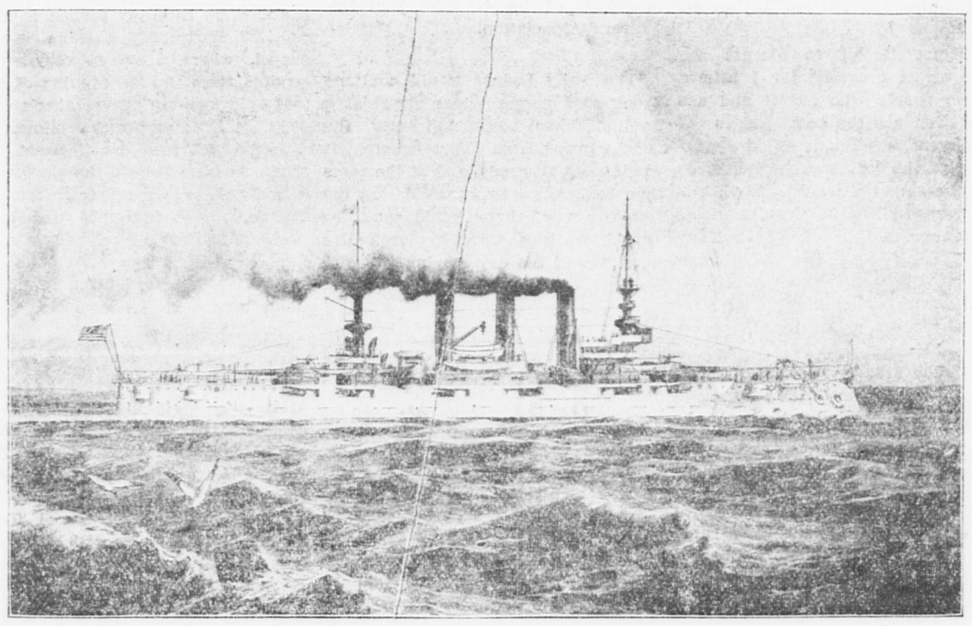

Tokio, March 14.—The official route of the American battleship fleet on its return to the Atlantic was conveyed to the foreign office today by The Associated Press. Baron Saito, minister of marine, when shown the itinerary, emphasized Japan's desire that the fleet would visit a Japanese port in order to enable a practical demonstration of the sincerity of Japan's friendship for the United States and the American people. At the foreign office it was said: "The decision of the American government to send the fleet on a tour of the world should finally silence all war talk. It is a guarantee of the peace of the world."

The Chicago Homeward Bound

Rio Janeiro, March 14.—The United States cruiser Chicago, which arrived here March 9 on the way from the Pacific coast to the Atlantic station, sailed northward yesterday afternoon.

JAPAN LETTER

Rev. C. M. Warren Contradicts False Reports Of the Country

Matsuyama, Japan,
Jan. 22, 1908.

"The Japanese college girl had been unable to sleep because a dog had howled all night beneath her window. "Now, in Japan," she said, "such a trouble would never happen. We have no animal pets there; we don't even have useful domestic animals, such as cows, sheep and pigs. If the Japanese kept for his pleasure a dog and cat, and then suffered these animals to spend the night out of doors, spoiling the neighbors' rest with their uproar—well, I don't know what punishment we'd give him, but it would be somewhat lingering, I fancy, with boiling oil on it. We have no domestic animals. To dogs and cats we prefer children. Sheep we don't require, for we eat no mutton, and our clothes are made of silk and of cotton instead of wool. Mules and donkeys we don't need, because men do our hauling. Pigs, with their filth, are unknown to us—you couldn't persuade a Japanese to eat pork. We do keep chickens, it is true, but they are always kept far away from any dwelling house. On this account Japan has nights of perfect quietude. It is the best place on earth for sleeping."

The above clipping from some unrecognized newspaper concerning the soporific qualities of a Japan night has just been read and my feelings are divided between amusement and disgust—amusement at the entertaining quality of the fiction and disgust that the intelligent reading American public should have such stuff foisted upon them as fact.

"We have no animal pets there." To be sure cats are not quite so common as at home and yet I can look out of my window and see three sunning themselves on the low roof of the next house. Dogs too are not so numerous as in Constantinople; but they are plentiful. I should say quite as much so as they are at home. In the next yard, for instance, we had a colony of anywhere from three to ten. We complained and the number is now limited to three. But no matter how well the holes in the hedges and fences are stopped up there is always a thoroughfare for visiting dogs and the ordinary number is larger than the records show. Mr. N— used to go to bed with his door opening on the verandah open and a pile of stones at hand whenever they became too obstreperous. A night when we are not aware of the presence of these creatures is rare and not infrequently they waken me, a very sound sleeper.

And while we are talking about the quiet nights it won't do to omit the two tea houses one in front at the right and one in back at the left whose geisha are every night in the week twanging the samisen and singing shrilly until midnight when the law compels their closing. And some of the coldest mornings these geisha come out at 5 o'clock, long before daylight, and sing to strengthen their voices, they say. Oh, yes, if one chooses his places Japan may be an excellent place to sleep!

"We don't even have useful domestic animals, such as cows, sheep and pigs" this veracious specimen of Japanese college girlhood is quoted as saying. As for the sheep it is true. I have journeyed from land's end to land's end here without seeing a single sheep. But pigs are coming more into use. "Pigs with their filth are unknown to us—you couldn't persuade a Japanese to eat pork," she continues. On one of my last trips to the country, I was told by a farmer that the central government believing in pigs and that their use by the people would be a good thing, is offering inducements to the people to purchase—said inducements being the delivery of hogs in the farmer's village as chiefly as they can be obtained in Tokyo, no matter how far away the place may be. And as for eating pork, I never in these colder months go to the butcher shop, and there are plenty of them within a short distance, without finding pork. Occasionally we have it but I am sorry for the poor butcher who carries pork in stock all winter to supply us five foreigners with pork three or four times! The fact is that the Japanese do eat pork.

And as for not having cows, the milk market is so over supplied that we can at any time get gallons of extra milk. I know two dairy farms, not 100 yards apart, which have thirty—forty head of cattle each.

"We do keep chickens, it is true but they are always kept far away from any dwelling house." The fact is they are more often than not kept in the dwelling house. What missionary has not, while on tour, been awakened in the morning by the cock crowing in the very house in which he was sleeping? Usually they are kept under big bamboo baskets but usually also they are kept in the house.

Now these are only some of the glaring untruths in the little five-inch clipping above. Why did that girl say such things? She wasn't lying, that is she didn't deliberately say what wasn't true. If she said the things at all indeed she said them without thinking and without knowing. In her own home perhaps such things as she says, may have been true but for the bulk of Japan—no.

I haven't said these things merely to repute a simple girl's ideas of her own country. That is not worth while. But this is only a sample of what is going on constantly at home. If this girl had said that her country men are a warlike folk and that they are looking with jealous and longing eye on the Philippines as being the next logical outlet for their expansive proclivities it would have been quite as easily believed and great harm would have been done. The fact is that there has been much ill feeling aroused by just such statements as these. During the Russo-Japanese war most happily the sentiment of the American public was in favor of Japan. But ever since then Japan's stock has been steadily falling with the average United States citizen. This is due to a variety of causes but chiefly to the newspaper. It is well known that the bevy of disappointed newspaper reporters, who expected to be sent over to Manchuria with the Japanese forces but who were refused permission, went back to America "resolved to knife" Japan. And ignobly have they carried out the threat. There has not been a single piece of cabled news sent to America from this country for three years that hasn't had the blackest construction put up on it and if it had no possibility of being maltreated it was twisted until it could be. Such an organized assault upon Japan's good name and such an inveterate attack upon the good-feeling existing between two countries is wicked. That the Hearst papers should try to break down this good feeling is quite in accord with the character of those journals. The man who boasts that he made the Spanish-American war would naturally like to have another war scalp to hang at his belt and bring out every other day in an editorial to exhibit to his admirers. But that a journal like the New York Sun should lend itself to such uses is painful to us who are able to put our hands to some extent upon the pulse of Japan. In America we should have to say "pulse of a party," or, "the pulse of a section." But in Japan it is still true that the nation thinks as a unit—upon some points. And one of those points is admiration for, and friendliness towards the United States. One of the first sentences upon a political subject that I heard in Japan was by a young man who remarked: "We Japanese should be very grateful to the United States that Commodore Perry opened up our country." And that is the feeling of practically every Japanese today. They have an extremely warm feeling for us. For political reasons they concluded a treaty with England; but while they shout for England on that account the real love that they feel for the United States far surpasses that feeling for England. And when they are repeatedly insulted by newspaper articles in America they are dazed—they can't understand it. They try to think what they have done to merit it, and fail.

There are a few journals here with a yellow tinge but compared with the ones of that color at home these are few indeed. And the tone of every one of the newspapers of weight and standing in these last few months of Japaphobic demonstration has been so firm and dignified, so insistent upon the integrity of Washington and so sober in its treatment of the whole matter as to evoke the administration of every person who has known and followed the events these past months.

When the future historian of our beloved forty-seven states writes the true record of these events we shall find cause to hang our heads that our conduct was so far inferior to that of the Japanese. I am fully aware that the actual reprehensible conduct was confined to a comparatively small number of laborites and agitators. But that through any cause whatever the feelings of the American people should afford countenance to any such actions is a source of great sorrow.

The foreigner putting up at any Japanese hotel has to register his nationality. Any policeman of this vicinity may at any time stop us and ask us questions about ourselves, the first one being, "What is your country?" Heretofore it has been a great pleasure to reply, "American," and to see the smile of welcome and friendliness it always evoked. But now we don't boast any more that we come from the United States. We don't invite such topics of conversation. They are still polite when we answer but we know they desire to ask, "Well, can you tell me what in the world has come over the people of your country that these estrangements are come to us from them?"

As for a war, if Prof. Lovell's deductions concerning Mars be correct I shall as soon expect to see the New York American boasting that it has brought about a war between the terrestrial inhabitants and the people of Mars as to read in the Transcript that war has been declared between Japan and the United States. It is simply unthinkable. In the first place Japan couldn't financially. In the second the people wouldn't stand for it. And in the third place the actual rulers of the nation would far prefer to guide the nation through seven times seven years of Russian wars, Sendai famines, Hakodate fires and 1907 floods than attempt to make war upon us. The whole war talk is so silly that it would be farcical were it not so wicked. At first it was put away here as Hearstism and no attention paid. But the constant dropping of water will wear a stone; and ten months or so of talk ,that bobbed up serenely no matter how often it was downed, has made some people wonder if after all the United States does want war. The disappointed war correspondents may have something serious to answer for if they keep on with their attack.

ANDREW JACKSON.

The seventh president of the United States was born in Union county, N. C., in 1767. At the age of thirteen he enlisted as a soldier in the war of the Revolution. In the war of 1812 he commanded the American forces at the battle of New Orleans, winning a decisive victory which made him a popular hero. Jackson was elected president in 1828 and re-elected at the end of his first term. He was a Democrat. Jackson died at his home, the famous Hermitage, near Nashville, Tenn., in 1845. Jackson's first fame as a soldier was won by his defeat of the Creek Indians at Talladega in 1813 and at Emuckfau and Horseshoe Bend in 1814. Later he was in command against the Seminoles. His sobriquet was "Old Hickory."

Something Coming In.

Life is a bolted chamber where we dwell
Till Fate unlocks the doors to heaven or—well,
Don't mention that! So long as we can raise
The wherewithal we needn't fear the knell.

So let's be up and doing, and we'll win
The prize Success, which vulgar folk call "tin."
So long as we're awake and ADVERTISE
For trade, there's always something coming in.

WANTED IN MANY CITIES

Police Claim to Have Strong Evidence Against Wilson

San Francisco, March 14.—Several large cities have asked for the surrender to them of E. M. Wilson, arrested at a hotel with his wife, on a charge of attempting to cash a check for $1000, bearing the forged signature of Governor Guild of Massachusetts. Chief of Detectives Kelly says he has enough evidence, including checkbooks, a perforating machine, bankbooks and hotel silverware to have Wilson prosecuted here. Mrs. Wilson is still held at the city jail. She said:

"I am the divorced wife of a Baptist clergyman named Webb, who is now filling a pulpit either in Grand Rapids, Mich., or Baltimore. He is the father of my little daughter, now 7 years old. I was married to Wilson because I loved him, and I still honor and believe in him. Some awful mistake has been made in his arrest."

In the event that Wilson is not prosecuted here he probably will be taken to Denver, where he is said to be wanted for passing worthless checks at a hotel.

Heavy Postoffice Appropriation

Washington, March 14.—Carrying the largest appropriation in all its history—$222,193,392—the postoffice appropriation bill was passed by the house of representatives. This is $1,425,000 more than was reported by the committee. When the reading of the bill had been concluded Chairman Overstreet waged a vigorous fight on the proposal to increase the pay of letter carriers, which was voted into the bill, but that action was confirmed, 136 to 126.

Mothers Should Demand Pure Foods

Washington, March 14.—An urgent plea for pure food in the household was made by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley in an address before the international congress on the welfare of the child. "If every mistress of a household in this country should demand pure foods," he declared, "there would be little difficulty in the courts, and manufacturers would soon cease making things which the mothers of this country would refuse to buy for use in their families."

Kidnapped Child She Loved

Trenton, March 14.—George Wilson, Jr., 3 years old, who was kidnapped in New York last Saturday, was located here yesterday in the custody of Mary Chambers, an acquaintance of Wilson's. The parents were notified and came here and took the child home. The Chambers woman gave as a reason for kidnapping the child her love for the youngster. She is held to await requisition for her transfer to New York.

Floretta Whaley Asks For Aid

New York, March 14.—Jere K. Cooke, the deposed pastor of the Episcopal church at Hempstead, L. I., and Floretta Whaley, with whom he eloped, are ill and destitute in San Francisco, according to a telegram received by Mrs. Keziah Whaley, the girl's grandmother. Mrs. Whaley said that she would require more definite information regarding the couple's condition before she gave aid to her granddaughter.

Trade Making Slow Progress

New York, March 14.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that sentiment is more cheerful because of good weather for farm work and higher prices for securities. Actual progress in commercial channels is slow, but there is a little improvement each week, while evidences of an early spring have stimulated sales of seasonable wearing apparel in most jobbing and wholesale departments.

Lipton Will Again Try For Cup

London, March 14.—In an interview, after he had made a visit to Fairlie to inspect his new cutter, which is approaching completion, Sir Thomas Lipson said: "She is a racer pure and simple and must not be called Shamrock IV, but simply Shamrock. I am reserving the lucky four-leaved Shamrock for my next American cup challenger."

Norwegian Cabinet to Resign

Christiana, March 14.—As the result of the reception by the storthing of Socialist and radical motions of lack of confidence, the cabinet has decided to resign. Both motions were rejected by the storthing, but the vote showed that the government could retain office only by favor of the coalition parties, which the ministers are unwilling to do.

Schools and Churches Closed

Monston, N. B., March 14.—The board of health has issued an order closing the schools and all the churches of the city until further notice because of the smallpox epidemic. Children will not be allowed to return to school unless they show certificates of vaccination.

Will Run Only For Presidency

Albany, March 14.—Governor Hughes has no intention of retiring from the presidential race and accepting a renomination for his present office. This is the answer to renewed reports that his friends were urging him to take this course.

The Observations In the Daily Walk

A regular meeting of the City Council will be held Monday evening.

Quincy was represented by a party of fourteen at the smoker of the Ancients last night.

Rev. Leon H. Austin of Roslindale is to preach the 25th anniversary sermon at the Washington Street church, April 12.

There was a smart shower last evening about 10.30, but it did not last long. The weather at that hour was mild and the rain helped take the frost from the ground.

The sixth annual concert and ball of the Quincy division of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes will be held at Music hall, Friday evening, April 24.

The Norfolk club will hold its spring banquet on Saturday, March 21. The speakers will include Congressmen Denby of Michigan, Beall of Texas and Humphreys of Washington.

At the meeting of the Granite City Club tonight several candidates for membership will be balloted upon, and definite action will be taken on the annual club banquet. A commitiee to nominate officers for the annual meeting will also be appointed.

The two-act drama, "Bread on the Waters," to be presented at the Quincy Point church next Thursday evening, promises to be a pleasing entertainment. Eight well known young people will take part. There will also be music by a male quartette.

Auxiliary Meeting

The Womens Auxiliary held its regular meeting on Friday afternoon at three o'clock in the Association hall. Mrs. W. E. Gardner led in the devotional excerises, the thoughts presented being most helpful and inspiring. The reports of the Lynn convention as given by Chester Gurney, Lee Brooks, Stanley Sherman, and Everett Rhodes were extremely interesting. The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. C. F. Rugg of Worcester, her subject being Sir George Williams. Mrs. Rugg proved to be a most interesting sgeaker. She gave a sketch of the life of Sir George Williams also an account of the interview which she and Mr. Rugg had with him in London. During the afternoon Miss Celena Belliveau sang two beautiful solos.

Ben Hur At the Scenic

The special Lenten attraction at the Scenic for next week is Wm. H. and E. B. Josselyn's celebrated, magnificent interpretation of that beautiful story that never grows old, "Ben Hur," which has been re-written and arranged as a feature act. This is a most complete, realistic portrayal of this great drama written by Gen. Lew Wallace, and the Josselyns have presented the same over 1,400 times in the largest theatres in the United States. There are 3 people in cosume and 2 operators participating in this scenic production. The 108 moving glass scenes used are distinctly not moving pictures, but are beautifully colored and lend an elaborate, impressive effect throughout. There are 26 moving scenes of the famous sensational chariot race, which make the pulse throb.

In addition to "Ben Hur" the regular program of moving pictures will be shown, including the latest comic, dramatic and magic effects. Frank Vennette, a new soloist, will render the illustrated ballads, and there will be splendid music.

Wednesday, Mar. 18, is the date of the State handicap meet at Somerville. Nine Quincy athletes are entered. Handsome cups are given in each event and our boys expect to capture some of them.

A dual boys meet is being arranged with Somerville which will give our young athletes an opportunity to win more honors.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

The Electric Boat Company is not much disturbed over the Lilly invetigation. Simon Lake and his product were beaten to a stand-still last summer at Newport in the competitive tests between the Lake and the Octopus, and what he now hopes to gain with the aid of Mr. Lilly, by means of an investigation, is a standing for himself and his boat, which the product of his brain could not win for him in a fair trial.

A rudder is being made for the Brunswick Steamship Company.

A New York dispatch of Friday to the Boston Transcript reports a fire on the Steamer Providence built at Quincy. Prompt and determined action on the part of Captain Appleby of the Fall River Line steamer Providence prevented what otherwise might have been a serious catastrophe when fire broke out on board the craft while she was coming up Long Island Sound bound from Providence for New York, early today, Three hundred and fifty passengers were asleep on the Providence when the fire was discovered on the freight deck of the steamer, which was then off Sands Point, twenty miles from New York. Fearing that if the alarm were permitted to spread over the ship he would have a panic of passengers with which to contend as well as a fire to fight, the captain sent a wireless call to the steamer Richard Peck, of the same line, which he knew must be somewhere in that vicinity. The Richard Peck was also bound for New York, and while she had not been sighted during the night, it was known that her schedule would bring her at that hour to a point within a few miles of the Providence. The wireless call was promptly answered, the predicament of the Providence was explained, each steamer was advised of the other's position and they started toward each other. When they came together, the fire was still in progress on the Providence, but the passengers, who had been aroused a few minutes before, had been told of the coming relief and were quietly waiting to be transferred to the other steamer. The sea was calm and the transfer was made quickly and with little diffifficulty. As soon as they had been freed of the cares of the passengers the crew of the Providence gave their whole attention to fighting the fire, with the result that the flames were quickly extinguished.

Advices from London say the Prince of Wales will be accompanied to Quebec by six battleships and ten large cruisers, with the usual secondary squadron.

A dispatch from Washington says: The bill providing for the shipment of material intended for the Panama canal in American ships was passed by the senate Friday.

A naval torpedo factory, authorized by an act of Congress, March 2, 1907, is now practically complete at the naval torpedo station at Newport. The factory is the first of its sort to be owned by the United States. Machinery has been installed with a capacity of turning out fifty 18-inch torpedoes a year, but ample space has been left for additional machines by which the capacity may be increased to 250 or 300 torpedoes annually. The factory will be ready for operation on the first of April and will give employment to about 50 skilled mechanics. In the course of a few years the service of about 200 men will be required. The building is a two-story brick affair over 200 feet long and 45 feet wide connected with the administration building at the torpedo station on Goat Island. It was built at a cost of less than $100,000. Since the early '90's naval torpedoes for the government have been made by the E. W. Bliss Company of Brooklyn, N. Y. The factory here will be in charge of Commander Albert Cleaves, U. S. N., who has overseen its construction.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Two distinct novelties will be among the leading features at Keith's next week—Jessie Milward and company and Albert Whelan, Miss Milward is one of the most popular of the many English actresses who have adopted America as home and is a particular favorite with Bostonians, her last appearance having been with "The Hypocrites" in which she scored very strongely. Her present vehicle is a very dainty comedietta called "The Queen's Messenger." John Hyams and Leila McIntyre are old favorites with the Keithites who will be glad to welcome them in their lively skit which contains much new material.

TREMONT THEATRE.

"The Man of the Hour," is in its third month of success at the Tremont Theatre and public interest is undiminished. Its great dramatic interest submerges the identity of the players. Ususally one playgoer says to another: "Have you seen so-and-so in such and such a play?" But when the Broadhurst success is discussed it is "Have you seen 'The Man of the Hour.'" Everyone discusses this play of conviction, farce and vital interest. The theme appeals to every decent citizen who is the foe of graft and official corruption. The comedy snaps like a New England log fire and scatters sparks of radiant humor. The love story is real, human and untheatric. The Lenten period does not affect the enormous atendance. No one is the worse for seeing a play that one Boston Clergyman has pronounced "as good as a Lenten Sermon." Seats are selling for another two weeks. Nowhere else in New England will the play be seen this season.

BOSTON THEATRE.

The announced production of "Arrah na Pogue" at the Boston Theatre next among the patrons of Manager Morison's company. This drama represents its author at his best and he himself always had a strong partiality for its Shaun The Post. The play has had free and easy, devil may care hero, in the sketch before the managers of many notable productions on the Boston Theatre stage but none of its earlier performances here have been made with the completeness which will be given its several scenes in the stage settings now in hand for its coming presentation. None of Mr. Boucicault's Irish dramas have ever enjoyed quite the favor with which "Arrah na Pogue" is held here and there will be an intense interest to see the company at the Boston in the familiar characters created by the author and those associated with him in his early visits to this country.

THE ORPHEUM.

Without question the most successful comedy drama, presented in vaudeville in recent years, is "Peaches," in which William Courtleigh and company will appear at the Orpheum Theatre next week. This piece was written by George V. Hobart and is based on his famous John Henry slang stories. Mr. Courtleigh did not make more than half a dozen appearances the legitimate houses were after him to have it made into a four act drama, as Mr. Hobart has been successful in crowding into the space of twenty-five minutes all the essentials of a great play. The story is that of a young man, engaged to a daughter of a broker, one of the conditions being that he shall refrain from betting on the races. He does so until he finds that the father of his fiancee is heavily involved. He gets a tip, takes advantage of it and with the money saves the day for his prospective father-in-law, but gets into difficulty with the girl he loves.

SAFE WRECKED

But No One Was Disturbed And Burglars Get About $800

Burglars made a big haul in Quincy early Sunday morning, blowing off the door of the safe in the cashier's office of the Department store in the Durgin Merrill block and securing $800 in cash.

The fact that the store had been burglarized was not discovered until about 10 o'clock Sunday morning, when one of the clerks visited the store. The sight that greeted him made him rub his eyes to see if he was awake. The big safe door had been torn from its hinges, and lay a tangled mass of steel and iron some eight feet away.

About the office were blankets and other articles used to muffle the noise. The interior of the safe was a wreck, and the little drawer in which the cash was kept was empty.

There had been a special sale at the store on Saturday, and as the banks closed at noon all the cash taken in during the day and evening had been placed in the safe until Monday.

As soon as the clerk realized what had happened he ran out and found Officer Murray, who after notifying headquarters went back to investigate. He found that entrance to the store had been made by forcing a rear window. When once inside the parties had opened the rear door so as to form a quick means of escape.

The safe, one of the fire proof kind with a single door, was in the little raised office used by the cashier. Blankets and pillows taken from the store stock had been wound about the safe to deaden the noise.

Holes were then drilled around the lock of the safe ,and nitro glycerine or some other powerful explosive poured in and exploded.

The force of the explosion had torn the door from its hinges and thrown it six or eight feet.

The securing of the booty and escaping must then have been a matter of but a few minutes.

Just how many were in the gang or what time the robbery was committed is in doubt, although it is believed to have been in the vicinity of 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

A lady who rooms on one of the upper floors was aroused during the night by a sound as though of something heavy falling. After that everything was quiet and she thought no more about it until told of the robbery. She did not notice what time it was, although she said it was light out doors.

Warren Edwards, who has rooms in the Greenleaf, was awakened during the night by a jar of the building, but thought nothing particular about it. He thinks it must have been about 2 o'clock.

No one else in either building seems to have heard the explosion, although a heavy charge must have been used.

It was moonlight at that hour, and it is a wonder that the parties were not discovered by the police when leaving the building. If the break was made at 2 o'clock the parties had an opportunity to get a long distance from the scene before the break was discovered. There were two officers on duty in City Square at that hour, but neither of them heard or saw anything unusual.

The Department store is owned by J. H. Fitzpatrick, who makes his home in Boston. He was notified of the break shortly after the discovery.

Several parties have been found who saw parties late Saturday night who might have been the burglars. John McLaughlin, a street car conductor, met a white and a colored man near the Granite street bridge about midnight.

The burglars were probably met by Officers Donovan and Boutin in the vicinity of 1 o'clock, near the corner of Hancock street and Billings road. The two officers were struggling with a drunk when a white and a colored man came along going toward Quincy.

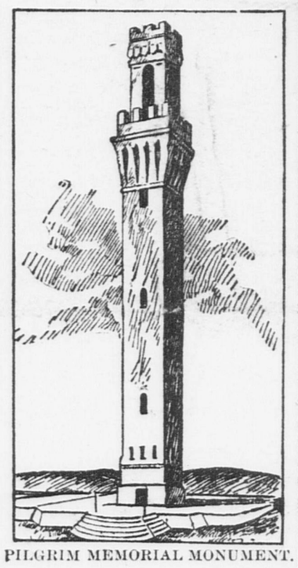

Officer Boutin says he thought he recognized the Negro, and did not think it necessary to hold him up. Saturday nights there are always more or less persons walking toward Quincy, having missed the last train out, so that the officers thought it nothing unusual to see these two men.

Whether these were burglars is of course not known, but it would seem to have been up to the officers to have held up the two men and made a few inquiries.

Contract for the Pilgrim Monument

From a field of six competitors, says the Boston Transcript, the commission having in charge the erection of the Pilgrim Monument at Provincetown, the foundation of which was laid, and the corner stone dedicated by President Roosevelt, last summer, has decided to contract with Maguire & O'Heron of Milton for the erection of the huge pile of granite and concrete construction which is to perpetuate the memory of our Pilgrim Fathers.

On Feb 28, bids were opened which preposed to undertake the erection of this monument, for sums ranging from $73,865, which was the bid of Maguire

PILGRIM MEMORIAL MONUMENT.

& O'Heron, to a bid of $119,960 by the Booth Bros. & Hurricane Island Granite Company of New York. The other bidders and their offers were: Norcross Bros. Company of Worcester, $75,000; Van Amringe Granite Company of Boston, $79,900; Pigeon Hill Granite Company of Rockport, $84,900; and W. L. Miller of Boston, $99,700. Within a day or so the commission will execute a contract with the successful bidder, and work will begin at once as soon as the matter of the choice of granites has been determined. The contractor will have until the end of 1909 to finish the work, and it is thought that that will give more than ample time.

The members of the Commission having the project in charge are: Secretary Taft, Governor Guild, and Captain J. Henry Sears, president of the Cape Cod Pilgrim Memorial Association. Lieutenant Colonel Edward Burr, as resident United States engineer, has charge of the construction and building. The memorial will stand 250 feet in the air on the top of Town Hill, Provincetown. This hill itself is about a hundred feet above the low tide mark, so that the top of the staff will stand almost three hundred and fifty feet above the sea level. The bid submitted by Maguire and O'Heron offers two kinds of granite, Rockport or Deer Isle, Me.

Over 100 cities and towns, including Quincy, have raised funds for date stones to be placed inside this monument which is illustrated above. Quincy's date of 1625 is one of the earliest.

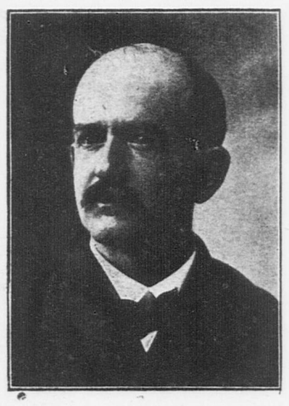

Yachting Rules.

The annual meeting of the Yacht Racing association of Massachusetts will be held at Young's hotel Thursday evening, March 19, at 8. Besides the regular business the association is asked to take action on the following amendments to the racing rules: To amend the rule relating to freeboard; the adoption of the sonder class; to see if the association will make any change in the duties of the official judge and measurer.

TO FULL BENCH

Assessor Johnson Has Appealed His Case Against Mayor Shea

When Judge Rugg of the Supreme Judicial Court dismissed the petition of Assessor Johnson, for mandamous against Mayor Shea last Friday, he at the same time suggested that because of the doubt which he expressed the case be reported to the full bench for final determination. This will be done at once Mr. Johnson informs the Daily Ledger and the case will be passed upon by a court composed of five judges.

The matter is one of vital importance to the citizens of Quincy, and the judgment of the public should be withheld pending a final decision which only the full bench can render.

The Cobe clothing store is closed today because of the death of the father of the proprietor, Philip Cobe, who died Friday, March 13, at Roxbury in his 85th year. He was a native of Germany but had been in this country 65 years. For many years he was in the clothing business but of late has been in the cotton commission business. He left a wife, four daughters and a son.

Junior Friday Club Observes Anniversary

After a winter of serious work, studying Italy from 800 to 1100 the Junior Friday club had a pleasant change from the regular routine on Saturday afternoon when it observed its tenth anniversary. Mrs. J. Henry Emery of Adams street, mother of one of the charter members, extended the hospitality of her beautiful home, the spacious rooms giving ample accommodations for the club and guests, some sixty in all, as each member of the club invited two guests, and Mrs. Emery also had several guests.

The back parlor was arranged with rows of seats for the guests, and ribboned off from the front parlor which was reserved for the club.

Just what the nature of the entertainment was to be, had been kept as a surprise, so when at quarter of three Mrs. Arthur Holden, a charter member, at the piano played a spirited march, there was rustle of excitement among the audience which culminated in a ripple of laughter and applause as the club marched in, circled about the room and disappeared again. The procession was headed by George Washington who in most correct attire marched with stately tread, followed by damsels fair in quaint old time gowns and dignified men in satin breeches, big gold buckles on their shoes, and youthful faces beneath the gray hair.

The following program was given:

Adress of welcome by the President
Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield

Songs:
"My Mother Bids me Bind my hair" Hayden
"When Daisies Pied and Violets Blue"
Dr. Arne
Miss Grace M. Isaac

Club History:
Miss Alice Keith Prescott

Songs:
"Who is Sylvia" Schubert
"An Old Garden" Temple
Mrs. Laurance H. Sturtevant

Address by Mary, mother of George Washington
Mrs. Arthur W. Hall

George Washington: topical song on Washington to the tune of "Harrigan, That's Me"
Miss Edith Randall

Colonial Minuet

Men	Ladies
Miss Etta M. Prescott	Mrs. Perry Lawton
Miss Georgiana Lane	Mrs. Alfred Thompson
Miss Clara L. Baxter	Mrs. Wm. H. Whitney
Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield	Mrs. Walter E. Burke

The program was only on hour long but every number was a gem. It was an old time party, the quaint and rich attire of the participants being enhanced by the setting, high white wainscoting and old rose walls of the parlor adding much to the effectiveness.

The president's greeting was short and cordial; the old English songs so effectively sung by Miss Isaac were written over two hundred years ago; Miss Prescott's club history was not a string of statistics but rather poked fun at things in general; Mrs. Sturtevant sang sweetly as usual; Mrs. Hall as Mary, mother of Washington, was sweet and convincing and Miss Randall as George Washington made a great hit and was recalled. The closing number, the minuet, was the gem.

The slow measures were given with dignity and grace which combined with the lovely costumes was beautiful to look upon. So insistent was the applause that the dance was repeated. Mrs. Dowst at the piano played for the minuet adding much to the perfection of the dancers.

In the dining room the beautifully appointed table was presided over by former club presidents, in old time costumes, Mrs. Harry E. Russell and Miss Fay Hitchcock pouring tea, assisted by Miss Clara Merrill and Mrs. Arthur Holden and all the club.

Many of the dresses worn were very old and some had an interesting history. One was a dress worn by Gov. Eustis's sister at her first ball, it being made in Paris for the fair wearer. There were beautiful pieces of old lace and jewelry brought out to do honor to the Junior Friday club's birthday.

It was one of the prettiest affairs of the season and those present were glad of their good fortune in receiving invitations.

Slight Fire

The alarm from Box 37 at 11 o'clock Sunday night was for a slight fire at a house on Franklin place owned by Charles Spear and occupied by James J. McGrath. The house is the one situated near the railroad track, and the fire was probably caused by a spark from a passing locomotive working up under the shingles. The loss will not exceed $5.

SUICIDE OF PAINTER

Shot Himself After Interview With Two Young Ladies

Alfred Thornley, assistant foreman of the painting department at the Fore River shipyard, committed suicide by shooting this morning at his rooms in the Bates block at 29 Saville street. The shooting took place about 10.15, and death was almost instantaneous.

Thornley had rooms on the top floor in the apartment occupied by Miss E. B. Collins. According to stories by occupants of the house, he had been acting queerly of late, and had repeatedly threatened to take his own life. For this reason a close watch had been kept on him.

This morning he received a call from two young ladies. They had some conversation with him; of what nature is not known. During their conversation he told them that he had taken poison. At this they started out after assistance. As they turned to leave the room a shot rang out and Thornley fell to the floor with a stream of blood flowing from his head.

The girls ran to City Square, one going to the office of Dr. Garey and the other to the store of Miss Collins, telling her that Thornley had shot himself. Officer Murray was notified and he in turn notified Medical Examiner Jones.

Dr. Jones found that the man had placed the revolver to the right side of his head, and fired. The bullet passed through the head and was just beneath the skin on the left side. Dr. Jones said it was a clear case of suicide.

A friend and fellow workman of Thornley said that he was about 29 years of age, and that he had married a Weymouth girl last week. A search of the records at the City Clerk's office in Quincy and at the Town Clerk's office in Weymouth found no return however of such a marriage.

His wife was not at home this morning and no one seemed to know where she was. The two young ladies remained at the office of Dr. Garey where they were interviewed by Dr. Jones, but no further light was thrown on the matter.

Just Jotted Down By Ledger Men

City Council tonight.

March is half gone.

The annual sale of the Wollaston M. E. church will be held tomorrow afternoon followed by a supper.

The parish meeting of the Unitarian Society at Wollaston this evening may be as interesting as the City Council.

Commissioner Bainbridge had his street scraping gang out this morning scraping up the mud that filled the gutters.

Driver Genero of Combination H. & L. No. 2 of Wollaston, who had a long siege of sickness this winter, is on duty again.

The Citizens Gas Light Co. have begun to distribute its pipe along the street preparatory to laying mains as soon as spring opens.

Bids for building the new Coddington school building will be opened next Saturday. The Commissioner has a notice to contractors in this issue.

The contractors of the Federal building were in town Saturday getting ready to resume operations. Work will be started before the end of the month.

The Y. M. C. A. Mandolin and Guitar club will give an entertainment under the direction of Prof. Osgood at the Park and Downs church tomorrow evening.

The boys who broke the electric light globes on Newport avenue last week should call at the Electric Light Co. office and pay for the same and save themselves from arrest.

There was quite a smart thunder shower early Sunday evening. The lightning was quite sharp and the thunder heavy. There was also quite a fall of rain during the late afternoon and early evening.

During the high wind Sunday morning the zinc covered door, over the trap door on the roof of City Hall, blew off. The door floated over the front of the building and landed with a crash in the gutter a few feet from where Officer Murray was standing.

Two public hearings have been advertised for tonight's meeting of the City Council. One on the petition of Sutherland, et al., to keep and sell gasoline at South Quincy, and the other of the Citizens Gas Light Co., for permission to lay gas mains in various streets. Some committee reports will be acted upon.

TO BANG AT TARGETS

Big Fleet In Magdalena Bay Will Be Kept Busy

GREAT RECORDS OF CRUISERS

Atlantic Fleet Gunners Will Have No Easy Task In Even Equalling Scores Made by Gunners of Pacific Fleet--What Percentages Show

San Diego, Cal., March 16.—The American battleship fleet now at anchor in Magdalena bay, Lower California, will begin the serious work of record target practice today and for the next few weeks the usually quiet waters of this harbor will splash and dance under the rain of shot and shell and the real work of the cruise, to all outside the engine holds and chart rooms, will be under way.

The ranges are to be set first at 1000 yards. Then they will be extended to 2000 yards, and then to a maximum of 3000 yards for the smaller target, which is 12x21 feet in size. For the great turret guns—the 12 and 13-inch rifles—the ranges are lengthened from 6000 to 9000 yards and the targets are increased to 30x60 feet.

As an ordnance officer on the battleships expressed it, it is absolutely essential that the gunners shall be able to see the target before they can train the sights upon it. At 9000 yards the white canvas object to be shot at appears as only a tiny speck upon the water, and the gunners of the Atlantic fleet are conscious that they have a hard task before them to equal or surpass the records recently made at Magdalena bay by the gunners on the armored cruisers of the Pacific fleet.

These ships alternately have been at the practice grounds in the Mexican bay for the last two months and six of them have completed their work. The Maryland out-distanced all of her competitors among the armored cruisers of the station, with a percentage of 78.89 hits out of a possible 100 with all classes of guns. The Tennessee came next with a percentage of 68.24 hits, the Colorado was third with 63.68, the Pennsylvania fourth with 57.80, the West Virginia fifth with 55.70 and the Washington last with 55.50.

The seemingly low score of the Washington was expected, for she is a new ship, with new guns and a new crew, but it serves to make all the more important the splendid record of the Tennessee, Admiral Sebree's flagship, which is just as new as the Washington and which went to the targets under the same conditions as to green pieces and gunners.

The Tennessee and Washington also for the first time used ten-inch turret rifles, a new weapon for American cruisers, which were put on board the vessel in response to the demand of ordnance officers for heavier guns than the eight-inch rifles of the West Virginia class. The heavier guns and turrets added nearly a thousand tons to the weight of the Tennessee and Washington over the West Virginia, and caused a thinning of the main armor belt from six to five inches. The turret protection was increased, however, from 6½ inches to 9 inches.

All of the big armored cruisers are ranked with the battleships in summing up their target records, and for this reason their scores are of unusual interest at present, when the world girdling fleet is about to begin its target work.

Seamen For New Battleship

Newport, R. I., March 16.—The 240 seamen apprentices rated as ordinary seamen and seventy-five apprentice seamen rated as coal-passers, who are to serve on the new battleship New Hampshire, were yesterday transferred from the naval training station to cruiser Prairie, which left for the League Island navy yard. The New Hampshire was placed in commission at the League Island yard Saturday.

Exceeded Contract Requirements

Boston, March 16.—The new scout cruiser Birmingham came into port last evening, having completed her trial trips and exceeded all government requirements in her official tests. The naval trial board immediately left for Washington. The Birmingham is fitted with reciprocating engines of the American type, and is a sister ship of the Chester and Salem.

Flotilla In Panama Zone

Panama, March 16.—The officers and men of the American torpedo boat flotilla are delighted with their reception here. Yesterday the destroyers moved up closer to Panama and are now within the zone limits. Except for a few minor repairs, the destroyers are in practically the same condition as when they left the United States.

Kaiser Congratulates President

London, March 16.—A special dispatch to The Daily Mail from Berlin says that Emperor William sent warm personal congratulations to President Roosevelt on the arrival of the fleet at Magdalena bay ahead of schedule time.

Three Men Drowned During Squall

Stratford, Conn., March 16.—By the overturning of a rowboat off Lordship Park during a sudden squall, Peter and Andrew La Croix, father and son, aged 50 and 16, respectively, and Henry W. Ellison, aged 50, all of Bridgeport, were drowned.

LITTLE FIRE, BUT BIG SCARE

Firemen Check What Might Have Been a Panic In Theatre

Holyoke, Mass., March 16.—Fifteen hundred men, women and children were crowded into the Holyoke Opera house yesterday witnessing a moving picture show, when suddenly a shout of fire rang through the house and flames and smoke were seen issuing from the wall at the rear of the second balcony.

A rush was made for the doors and soon hundreds of people were pushing and shoving to force their way down the stairs to the street. With visions of a theatre fire horror vivid in his mind, Manager O'Connell of the theatre jumped for the stage with the first cry, turned on the lights, rang the fire alarm and then calmly addressed the audience, in an endeavor to prevent a panic and to announce that the fire was not serious.

Manager O'Connell might not have proven entirely successful in his efforts if it had not been for firemen who arrived early on the scene. They forced their way into the theatre, scattered among the crowd and enforced quiet and order, with the result that in a few minutes the house was entirely emptied and not a person had been seriously injured.

The firemen then gave their attention to the fire, which had started in a smoking room on the second floor, presumably from a cigaret butt, and put it out after $200 damage had been done.

Socialist Meetings Prohibited

Philadelphia, March 16.—The police last night aroused the Socialists and their followers by stopping a number of meetings scheduled to take place in various sections of the city. The stoppage of a Zionist meeting at which Dr. Charles Worstman was to have talked on the return of the Jews to Palestine caused those who arranged for it to retain counsel, who, they say, will go into court to ask for an injunction to restrain the police from interfering with their future gatherings.

Russian Prisons Overflowing

St. Petersburg, March 16.—The minister of justice has asked the duma for $1,000,000 for the enlargement of the Russian prisons, which are overcrowded. There has been an increase in the number of prisoners of 111 percent since 1906. In January, 1908, the total number was 159,537 and in February 165,580, of which 13,000 were political prisoners.

Floater Awaits Identification

Southbridge, Mass., March 16.—The body of a man was found floating in Globe Village pond and is held to await identification. The body is decomposed, as if in the water for some weeks. It is of a man six feet tall, and exceptionally well built. On handkerchiefs found in the pockets was stencilled the name Reed A. Whittemore.

Advance of Prohibition

Richmond, March 16.—For the first time in the history of Virginia no liquor can be had at the various social clubs. The Byrd bill closing all bars on Sunday went into effect yesterday and even at the oldest and most influential clubs no intoxicating drinks were served.

To Retire From Federal Bench

Minneapolis, March 16.—Judge William Lochren of the United States district court announces that he will resign his position on the federal bench, effective May 31. Lochren is 76 years of age, and has been on the federal bench for twelve years.

Landis Fines a Man One Cent

Chicago, March 16.—United States Judge Landis, who startled the financial world by imposing a fine of $29,000,000 upon the Standard Oil company for rebating, went to the other extreme by fining an offender 1 cent. The culprit was a working man.

Love and Suicide

Athol, Mass., March 16.—Despondent, it is said, over a love affair, Hazel N. Caples, 17 years old, committed suicide here by taking laudanum. She was employed in a local shoe factory and came here two years ago from North Troy, Vt.

Aged Monarch Indisposed

Vienna, March 16.—Emperor Francis Joseph has been confined to his rooms in Schoenbrunn castle for several days past, suffering from a cold in the head. He has refused to grant general audiences.

More Bombs at Barcelona

Barcelona, March 16.—A bomb exploded in the central market place here, severely injuring a woman. Another bomb was found nearby. It was conveyed to a laboratory for analysis.

LOYALTY OF INDIANS

Has Placed State of Maine Under Eternal Obligation

TREATY OF COLONIAL DAYS

Guaranteed That State Would Always See That Penobscots and Passamaquoddys Snould Never Want--Discrepancy Discovered In Fund

Augusta, Me., March 16.—An eternal obligation binding the state of Massachusetts, and later assumed by the state of Maine, to care for the Penobscot and Passamaquoddy Indians in return for their patriotism and loyalty to the colonists in the days of the struggle for independence with Great Britain, has come to prominence in considering means for the relief of the remnants of these two tribes now living within the boundaries of the state.

The Indians have passed through a hard winter. Clever in basketry, they have for many summers made a considerable profit from the sale of their products, but last summer the trade was unusually poor. There were not as many calls for the services of the Indian guides during the hunting season last fall, and their two sources of independent income thus being reduced, a severe drain was caused on the state's Indian fund, with the result that the tribesmen have been obliged to pass through the winter in less ease than heretofore.

The Indian fund of Maine had its origin indirectly in an act of the legislature of Massachusetts in the interum between the Declaration of Independence of the United States and the adoption of the Constitution, when the state legislatures exercised the right of making treaties.

The Penobscot and Passamaquoddy Indians in the district of Maine fought with the colonists for freedom. After the establishment of peace the Massachusetts legislature made a treaty with the Indians, setting aside several townships of land for their use and guaranteeing to them and their descendants forever that the state would always stand between them and want. When Maine separated from Massachusetts and became a state she assumed the obligations of the treaty. Later a law was passed, opening the Indian townships to sale and the money received was put into a fund for the support of the Indians.

The moneys for the Indian fund were turned into the state treasury and used for general purposes, but the state assumed an eternal obligation to pay annually 6 percent interest on the fund, and in case the interest was not used for the support and needs of the Indians that it should be added to the principal and draw interest as part of the original fund.

The Indian fund was recently reported by former State Treasurer Smith as amounting to $73,828.48. Present State Auditor Hatch has discovered that a discrepancy exists and that the state actually owes the Indians $16,909 more than they are credited with, or a total of $90,737.48.

The correction is on a basis of compound interest in accordance with the early legislation that all unpaid interest shall be added each year to the principal of the fund. Hatch desires that the Indian fund be credited with the amount strictly due it and it is presumed that the matter will be taken up by the next legislature. The annual interest will then be $1041.54 larger than at present, but not large enough to obviate the necessity of making special appropriations for the aid of the Indians.

The last legislature appropriated $25,823.40 for the prospective needs of the Penobscot Indians for two years. Of this, $350 was in special appropriations for repairs on the schoolhouse and church, $987 straight appropriation for needs of the Indians for 1907, with a like amount for 1908, while in addition $3232 is turned over annually for the Indians' share of the land and shore rental for river driving rights on the Penobscot river, and the annual interest payments have heretofore been $4429.70.

The Penobscot tribe is clustered together on a small island in the Penobscot river, within the limits of the city of Old Town, and has a membership of 388. The Passamaquoddy tribe is settled in the extreme eastern part of the state, near Calais, and numbers 463.

The problem of straightening out the Indian fund and providing for the future of this race, whose wants seem to increase as their numbers decrease, will constitute one of the important problems of the next state legislature.

Attitude Toward Christian Science

The attendance at the Wollaston Unitarian church was not as large Sunday morning as the previous week, but was above the average. Before commencing his sermon Rev. E. W. Hunt, the pastor, spoke as follows:

"There is still apparently some misapprehension abroad that my thoughts on religious healing express the doctrine of Christian Science. I desire, therefore, to state by way of preface that no well informed Christian Scientist would even do me the honor of claiming my thoughts as representing those of his own faith. On the other hand, it is not my intention to throw stones at Christian Science for doing successfully a good work which others may be unwilling or unable to do themselves. Rather would I say:

"Do these men praise Him?
Then I will lift my voice up to their note of praise
For above the error I see the love,
Oh! love so like the first dear Christian days."

"In my recent sermons I have called your attention, first: to the great emphasis that is laid upon "healing" in the life of Jesus, and second: to that rediscovery of the soul in modern times, whereby the healing power of Jesus has again been made available for the relief of human sin and suffering.

"Under present conditions, I have said, and say again, that the method which seeks the co-operation of medical skill with spiritual power is in my judgment, by far the sanest and the best.

"This morning I wish to consider the subject in another light and to speak of this "religious healing" as an organic function of the universe, my subject being:— The Healing Power of Spring."

Rev. Mr. Hunt's text was from Malachi 4th chapter, 2nd verse:— "Unto you that fear my name shall the son of righteousness arise with healing in his wings."

Near the close of his sermon he spoke as follows:

"Thus like all the great things of life this healing power of Spring, and of the Soul, is very simple. It is not difficult of attainment; and as a law of the universe, or rather let us say as gift of God, it is available to all. But our belief in the efficacy of this healing power, our acceptance of the finer higher life which accompanies it, will depend on how much health we have, and on how much life we know in terms of experience. Our participation in the beneficent law of divine healing will be measured by our ability to respond to the soul of health.

"There are trees standing stark and bare in the effulgent splendor of the sunlight which will feel no touch of spring, because they are dead. And the law of death in the human soul is if anything infinitely more tragic and appaling. But the same divine power that has awakened the life of the Spring can also arouse and bless our own.

"Then, as the flowers each bring a beautiful offering to make a beautiful spring, let us also bring an offering of realized beauty and health to make a beautiful and healthful world. Let us like the buds and the birds strive each by the assistance of this divine law to be healthful, happy and useful. Let us rest all our doubts and fears and cares on the wisdom and love of the great soul of the Springtime. Let us give love and health to others, and love divine will flow into our own hearts, a strength in our utmost need."

CALLS FOR ANSWER

Pillsbury Says He Th'nks Roosevelt Lacking In Candor

"TAFT OR TEDDY" STORIES

Charge That President's Silence Must Be Taken as Consenting to Intimation That Third Term Would Not Be Unacceptable

Boston, March 16.—Albert E. Pillsbury, former attorney general of this state, and the reputed guardian of the Hughes interests in Massachusetts, has added to the gayety of Republican politics by an attack upon President Roosevelt as well as Secretary Taft.

Mr. Pillsbury charges that Roosevelt is lacking in candor in not declaring whether he is sponsor for the report that the Republicans must nominate Taft or renominate him.

The attitude of the president in remaining silent is described by Pillsbury either as "deceptive" or as "inconsistent."

Mr. Pillsbury urges that the Massachusetts delegation to Chicago go unpledged. He points out what he considers Taft's weakness as a candidate and Hughes' virtues.

"The suave and astute manager of the local Taft campaign, my excellent friend, Sam Powers," says Pillsbury, "calls attention to the fact that Massachusetts has sometimes instructed her delegates. So she has, but does he not know that a course, which may be permissible under some conditions, may be wholly inexpedient under others? The present question is, which is the best course now?

"The administration, with characteristic openness, is doing its utmost to force its secretary of war upon the people for the succession. It is hardly too much to say that orders have gone out from Washington to nominate him. This is a spectacle never witnessed but once in the history of the country, and never in the history of the Republican party.

"For myself, I believe that Governor Hughes is a candidate to whom the Republicans of Massachusetts would naturally turn in this exigency. He is exactly the combination of independence, conscience and common sense which is needed to re-establish confidence without giving up the hope of any necessary reform, and he is practically certain if nominated to carry the pivotal state of New York, which certainly cannot be claimed for the secretary of war, nor probably for any other candidate in the field.

"Our delegation should be free to vote at the critical time for the most available man, and I believe that Governor Hughes will be found to combine more elements of strength and union than any other, and in that event will probably inherit every Massachusetts delegate whose vote has not been bartered in advance.

"There is another significant feature of the campaign which is not receiving the notice it deserves, and it is time to call attention directly to it. The Taft campaign managers in various parts of the country are now reported to be openly holding out the intimation that the secretary must be nominated as the only alternative to a renomination of the president himself.

"This has been irreverently labelled by the newspapers the 'Taft or Teddy' argument. It is now in every mouth, and there are indications that it is having to some extent the effect which it is designed to have by drawing or driving to Secretary Taft a body of supporters who wish beyond anything else to avert any possibility of a third term.

"The president cannot, of course, be unaware of what is being publicly said by the campaign managers of his own avowed candidate and by his own friends, and his silence must be taken as consenting to this intimation, at least to some extent and for some purpose. The intimation necessarily implies the possibility of his renomination and his acceptance of it.

"What is the meaning of his silence? Apparently it must mean one of two things, either that he is willing to have this statement used as far as it may be to promote Taft's nomination while adhering to his declared purpose not to accept a renomination for himself, or that he is willing to have it used at all events, whatever the consequences. If the case is the former the holding out of this intimation cannot be justified; indeed, it is highly improper, as it tends to drive people to the support of Secretary Taft for a reason which does not in fact exist. In common language this might be called deception.

"If the case is the latter, and if the president really means to accept a renomination in the event that the secretary cannot be nominated, this attitude is inconsistent with his declared purpose not to accept a renomination under any circumstances, which his fellow-citizens have taken almost with one accord as sincere.

"In either view, the use of this menace, for so it may properly be called, necessarily imputes to the president a want of candor which his countrymen have not been accustomed to ascribe to him, and is calculated to inspire them with uneasy doubts as to his true position. This is a highly interesting question, and it appears to call for an answer before any further use is made of this particular inducement to the nomination of the secretary of war."

Scout Cruiser Birmingham Fulfills All Requirements

The cruiser Birmingham arrived back at the Fore River this morning She came down the river with brooms flying from her masts. She passed through the draw of the Quincy Point bridge at 10.30 and proceeded directly, to her dock, the whistles at the works sounding a welcome.

No warship which the Fore River Company have built passed through her trial trips and tests as satisfactorily as the Birmingham. There was not a hitch from first to last, and everything was run off inside of a week to the complete satisfaction of the government and the builders.

Her trials completed, the scout cruiser Birmingham steamed into Boston harbor Sunday afternoon and dropped anchor off the Cunard wharf at 1.30 says the Herald. The naval trial board left immediately and took train for Washington, while the officials of the Fore River company congratulated themselves upon constructing a vessel which had more than answered all contract requirements.

The Birmingham left Boston Thursday, and since then has completed her 24 hour 12-knot test and her 24-hour 22 1-2-knot test. Her record for the 24-hour 12-knot was 12.228 knots per hour, developing 1,600 horsepower and consuming one ton of coal for every 5.96 knots.

The 22 1-2-knot test was equally successful. The cruiser steamed for 24 hours at the rate of 22.665 knots upon an average of 2.475 knots per ton of coal. Upon this test her propellers made 170.225 revolutions per per minute.

Admiral Bowles, president of the Fore River company, was very much pleased with the work of the cruiser.

"She carries in her bunkers 1,300 tons of coal," he said, "and therefore could steam at the rate of 22 1-2 knots per hour for 3,000 miles, or more than across the Atlantic. I do not consider 12 knots her most economical speed. I think 14 knots is better, and at that rate she could steam from here to the Red sea without recoaling.

"The trial was satisfactory in every way, the engines worked perfectly, it was not even necessary to put water upon the bearings. The 22 1-2-knot test ended at 9.30 Sunday morning. The steamer was then 30 miles east of the lightship. She was then put through the various manoeuvres, such as making figure 8s at the rate of 24 knots, backing, steering, stopping, etc., all of which were satisfactory.

"She could have steamed for 24 hours at a higher rate of speed than 22.66 if it had been necessary. She is not quite so economical of coal as the Chester, though that was to be expected, as turbines are more economical than reciprocating engines, but there is really very little difference between the ships and we are proud of the Birmingham."

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

Chairman Boutelle of the submarine investigating committee has severely criticised Congressman Lilley because he has not only failed to back up his scandal charges, but has retracted most of them in a sworn statement. Chairman Boutelle in speaking before the committee said, "Mr. Lilley, in his sworn statement to the committee Thursday, retracted practically everything he had said before the Committee on Rules."

A lot of plates are being drilled and cut to shape for the Cleveland Machine Company.

A 15 degree experimental nozzle is being made and tested for a 27-inch turbine.

The torpedo boat destroyer Lawrence, built at Quincy, has reached Panama on the Pacific. The fleet of destroyers were two days ahead of time.

The former solid Democratic opposition to the ocean mail subsidy bill in the Senate was unexpectedly broken on Saturday says the Washington correspondent of the Transcript, when Senator Simmons of North Carolina, in an extended speech, came out in favor of the bill. The only reservation he made in his support of it was that the bill be amended to provide that the amount of the subsidy should not exceed the amount of the total receipt from revenues for carrying foreign mails. It is understood that this amendment will be accepted by Senator Gallinger, who is in charge of the bill, and Mr. Simmons will thereupon give his support to the measure. Whether Mr. Simmons's attitude means that other Democratic senators will ultimately come to the support of the bill is not yet clear. His position caused something of a mild surprise.

While the steamer Malden, one of the big colliers recently built at Quincy for the New England gas and coke company; was coming into port Saturday afternoon, says the Globe, she ran aground in Broad sound and remained hard and fast for over two hours. She was floated with the aid of three tugs apparently uninjured. While making the first turn in Broad sound, off Ram Head, the vessel struck. Her bow passed over the shoal spot, but she struck heavily at the stern and her bow was raised about three feet out of water.

The Malden established a new world's record in loading her cargo. In just six hours from the time the stevedores began to load her at Curtis bay, Baltimore, her holds were full and she was ready to sail. In that time she received 7225 tons of coal in her holds, and 320 tons in her bunkers. It was the most remarkable loading feat ever recorded, and illustrates the possiblilities of taking in such cargoes by a modern vessel, built especially to facilitate such work. The steamer has extra large hatches and is otherwise fitted for quick dispatch. It required 800 big steel coal cars to transport this enormous cargo from the mines to tidewater.

By a practically unanimous vote the Committee on Naval Affairs voted on Saturday to report the bill providing for the purchase by the Government of the Boston colliers Malden, Everett and Melrose, built at Quincy, owned by the New England Gas and Coke Company. The bill as introduced by Representative Roberts placed the price at about $600,000 each, but the committee cuts this to $525,000.

Globe A Favorite.

The Boston Daily Globe has something of interest to every member of the family. In addition to all the news, promptly, attractively and accurately presented, it has a serial story of unquestioned merit, carefully selected, to suit the requirements of home reading. The Daily Globe, by the way, was a pioneer in daily serial stories.

The Household Department of the Boston Daily Globe, conducted by the bright housekeepers of New England, and to which any one may apply for any kind of information relating to the home and get an answer from an experienced contributor, has made the Daily Globe indispensable to thousands. It not only has cooking recipes, directions for needlework, art embroidery, care of infants and aids to good looks, but also gives valuable health instructions, instructions for raising poultry and caring for plants and flowers and domestic pets.

As for the Boston Sunday Globe, no better testimonal to its peerless place in the esteem of the people could be asked than its splendid circulation, which during th month of February averaged 333,585 copies, something unparalleled in New England Sunday journalism. Such an enormous circulation can be accounted for only by the fact that it is an unusually excellent newspaper. Men of all shades of political opinion look to the Sunday Globe's editorial symposium page for an impartial exposition of prevailing public questions. Readers of fiction find its short stories unsurpassed. Departments for mothers, housekeepers, cooking, fancy work, art, embroidery, health instruction, discipline of children and care of infants and confidential chats between women are some of the other attractions which help to make the Boston Sunday Globe the incomparable favorite of New England newspaper readers.

Republican Caucuses.

The Republican City Committee held a meeting Saturday night and fixed the date for holding caucuses to elect delegates to the State and Congressional district conventions for March 31.

Quincy is entitled to fifteen delegates to each convention, as follows: Ward One, 3; Ward Two, 2; Ward Three, 2; Ward Four, 2; Ward Five, 4; Ward Six, 2.

Nomination papers must be filed with the secretaries of several ward committees between the hours of 7.30 o'clock, March 19, and 8 o'clock March 23.

The people of the Point are becoming interested in the proposed fresh air camp.

The Ministry Of Healing

In the department of the Boston Transcript known as "The Churchman Afield," reference is made to the work of Rev. W. E. Gardner of Quincy relative to the ministry of healing, although the first paragraph below has no reference to his church:

"The behavior of this or that church, when its rector or pastor undertakes work similar to that now being done at Emmanuel Church in this city, will probably be determined by a number of considerations, not all of which are heralded through the newspapers. If the church is ultra conservative and tinged with an aristocratic spirit, it is likely to hold aloof from experiments that break through the crust of routine and bring to the sanctuary another class of persons than those who usually habituate. On the other hand if the minister takes up the new work moved by sensational or mercenary motives or because he has run out of subjects for his Sunday evening services or simply to recruit his congregation, he deserves to fail of support from his people. It takes a pretty level-headed man to combine to some extent in his own person the physician and the minister. What is more significant than an isolated case of success here or failure there is the general spirit of interest and expectancy touching whereunto the Emmanuel movement will grow. All over the country are people who believe that Drs. Worcester and McComb have rediscovered a truth as old as Christianity itself and are rendering the entire Church of Christ a service by giving that truth its proper place in the working programme of applied Christianity. Not that all the methods in vogue at Emmanuel commend themselves equally even to sympathetic spirits. But their service as pioneers and pathfinders is being recognized in many quarters.

"One of the sanest attempts in this general direction of which I know is that which Rev. Mr. Gardner is carrying on quietly at the Episcopal Church in Quincy. Convinced long ago that preaching and teaching should be at all times hope-laden, he has for many months emphasized in his public instruction and private interviews with victims of despondency and evil habits, the curative and tonic qualities of the gospel, that it is a message that makes for health and vigor of body and soul. His present Lenten course of Sunday evening sermons illustrates this idea. Here are some of his topics: "The Blessings of Health," "The Power of Prayer," "The Christian Habit of Mind." What a splendid topic for any season of the year by the way, is that last topic, "The Christian Habit of Mind!" In connection with this series Mr. Gardner suggests to his people the reading of a special book that deals with the subject under consideration. Here is an instance where without the sounding of trumpets or violent inroads upon precedents a minister seizes upon what he finds helpful in the Emmanuel idea and adapts it to his own uses.

The attention which the popular magazines are giving to the Emmanuel movement is one striking index of the popular interest in the subject."

Burglars At South Weymouth

Officer Michael Allen had a lively chase after a burglar at South Weymouth at 2 o'clock this morning, and although the officer fired his revolver at the fleeting man he got away.

The officer discovered a flashing light in F. F. Bullock's general store on Pond street, and went to investigate. As he did so the fellow ran out and started down the street. The officer gave chase, and fired his revolver, but his aim was poor.

Arrested As a Suspicious Party

Officer Riley arrested a man at Wollaston at 3 o'clock this morning who answers the description of the man who broke into the store at South Weymouth on Sunday night, and who was chased and fired at by Officer Allen.

Officer Riley saw the man who was bareheaded, acting in a suspicious manner near the Wollaston depot. As the officer went towards him the fellow started to run up the tracks. The officer gave chase and overtaking the man placed him under arrest. The fellow gave his name as Kitatain Belinky. On one of his hands was a cut, and he was bareheaded.

The fellow who broke into the store at Weymouth had his hand cut by glass, and also left his hat behind.

He was arraigned in court for being a vagabond and the case continued until Wednesday, that the police may look him up.

The fellow claimed that he was going to Lynn. He said that he laid down to sleep Monday, and when he got up he forgot his hat. The cut on his hand he claims was done accidentlly, with a knife. The cut is a ragged and deep one, and is on the palm of his left hand.

TWO THOUGHTS.

Editors Daily Ledger:

Two thoughts are suggested by the burglary of the Quincy Department store on Saturday night.

First—Our banks should be open for half an hour ,or longer, at the close of business on Saturday nights, so that merchants may deposit their cash where it will be safe. This is the custom in many other cities.

Second—The police should at least pay some attention to the large number of idle young men who sun themselves on stone fences during the day, line up on the sidewalks in the evening, and are never known to toil or spin. How do those fellows live? Isn't the freight train theory rather far-fetched? Citizen.

Thayer Academy Pupil Dead.

The sufferings of Helen Blair Simmons, the only child of Dr. and Mrs. Moses R. Simmons of 81 Revere road, came to an end Monday morning. It was a head trouble and the case has been critical for some time. The most skilful physicians have been in attendance, and everything possible was done for her. Little faith was put in an operation, but it was decided last week that it was the only hope. On Saturday she was taken to the Brookline Hospital, but before an operation could be performed she passed away.

After being graduated from the Wollaston school in 1904 she entered Thayer Academy at Braintree , and would have graduated from that institution in June. She was a very studious pupil and ranked high in her class. Since last November she has been unable to attend school, and has gradually failed. She had a beautiful disposition, being kind and considerate of others. Funeral services will be held Thursday noon.

SCHOOLHOUSE REPORT

Some Changes Commissioner Would Make For Safety

A short but busy meeting of the City Council was held Monday evening. Councilman Cantfill was the only absent member.

RATE TOO LOW.

A communication was received from the City Treasurer stating that it was impossible to borrow the $6,000 appropriated for house connections with sewers at the per cent named in the order, and requesting that it be increased to five per cent. Referred to Finance Committee.

POLLING PLACES.

A communication was received from the Republican City Committee asking for polling places for the caucuses March 31. Laid on the table until later when an order was offered designating the places which was adopted.

POLICE BOXES.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Metropolitan Park Commission asking permission to run its wires on poles of the City of Quincy from the corner of Furnace Brook Parkway and Adams street to the Quincy Shore reservation, for the purpose of installing its police boxes. Referred to Committee on Streets.

FIRE PROTECTION.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Commissioner of Public Works stating that three school buildings were now equipped with fire hose, and that the cost of equipping the balance would be $2,365, and if hand chemical extinguishers were added $520. Referred to Committee on Public Buildings.

FIRE ESCAPES.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Commissioner of Public Works giving the result of his investigation of the school buildings as to means of fire escapes.

The Commissioner stated that all the main exit doors are being fitted with spring locks opening outward. All bolts which are improperly set are being replaced with T handle bolts. Several of what might be called sub-exit doors are also to be changed.

Henry J. Bardwell, state inspector of factories does not recommend outside fire escapes on school buildings. He lays considerable stress upon having good main exits, and one fire extinguisher on each floor. He also recommended placing steps in the school rooms opposite each window having access to a fire escape.

One main entrance to the John Hancock school is entirely closed up. The Commissioner was unable to see any reason for this.

Some of the buildings are equipped with water standpipes and cotton hose, which the Commissioner does not understand has ever been inspected since installation. He recommends that the valves and hose be tested once a year by the Fire department.

Another condition he found that prevailed in some buildings was rubbish in the cellars, but the janitors were not under his jurisdiction.

He says that the State inspector has ordered a few changes made at the High school in connection with fire protection.

Accompanying the Commissioner's letter was a table giving the number of pupils in each building, number of main exits, kind of construction, fire extinguishers, spring lock doors opening outward, bolts properly set, number of fire escapes, standpipes and hose, fire drill in minutes and cost of installing stand pipes.

The table also makes these notes about the different buildings:

Adams—Back doors found bolted; fire escapes do not reach the ground; hydrant should be set nearer school.

Coddington—Heated by stoves set opposite fire escape windows; fire escapes poor; steps should be placed at fire escape windows.

Gridley Bryant—Two small doors opening in.

High School—Has fire tower stairway.

John Hancock— T handle bolts wanted; repair stairs; open main entrance now closed; door on top floor.

Lincoln—Two entrance doors open in; gong poor and set too high.

Massachusetts Fields—Two small doors open in.

Willard— Stairs rather narrow, windows nailed in or hinged in centre; hall not used often; fire hose never tested; found bolt on door which child could not open.

Wollaston—Ladder does not extend to the ground; shelves in front of windows; fix outside door.

CURTIS AVENUE.

Councilman Oakes presented a petition to accept Curtis avenue, Quincy Point. To appropriate $500 to gravel the street and that three crosswalks be put in. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Several applications for licenses were received and referred.

PUBLIC HEARING.

A public hearing was held at 7.45 o'clock on the petition of Sutherland et al to keep and sell gasoline on Federal avenue.

A public hearing was held at 8 o'clock on the petition of the Citizens Gas Light Co., to lay mains in various streets.

No one appeared for or against either petition and the orders were recommitted.

Upon motion of Councilman Ferguson a recess of five minutes was taken.

WATER EXTENSION.

The Committee on Water Supply reported a substitute order appropriating $22,000 for the water service. Of this amount $7,000 is for the purchase and installation of water meters and $15,000 for the purchase of pipe and the extension of mains. Referred to Finance Committee.

GAS EXTENSIONS.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the Citizens Gas Light Co., permission to lay mains in various streets. Read and ordered to a second reading.

WATER METERS.

Councilman Moir offered an order requesting the Commissioner to furnish the Council with the water meter rates, and whether they can be reduced. If all manufacturing places are connected, and if he had definite plans for placing the meters. Adopted.

Councilman Moir offered an order for an incandescent light on North street, Atlantic. Referred to Executive.

Councilman Freeman offered on order requesting the Mayor to take necessary action with the Metropolitan Park Commission to have Beach street connected with the boulevard. Adopted.

SHIPYARD RATE.

Councilman Abele offered an order requesting the Commissioner to inform the Council what water the Fore River Shipbuilding Company used in 1907; the sum paid; and if any agreement has been made as to rate to be paid during the coming year. Adopted.

CITY ORDINANCES.

Councilman Bean offered an order for the Committee on Ordinances to revise the City Ordinances, and have the same with the City Charter printed, and appropriating $200 for the printing. Referred to Committee on Ordinances.

STREET WATERING.

Councilman Ferguson offered the annual street watering order. Referred to Committee on Streets.

POLE LOCATIONS.

The order granting the Electric Light Co., a location of poles took its second reading.

Councilman Ferguson moved to suspend the rules.

Councilman Whiton asked if these poles were now set.

Commissioner Bainbridge did not know.

Councilman Bryant moved that the order be laid on the table.

In reply to a question, the Commissioner said no permission had been given any person to set poles.

The motion to lay on the table was voted. Vote doubted.

On a rising vote the motion prevailed 10 voting in the affirmative and 10 in the negative.

The orders granting the Telephone Co., a location for poles and attachments took their second reading and were referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

Councilman Bryant moved and it was voted that the Commissioner report to the Council if any of the poles under the order granting locations to the Electric Light Co., had been set.

PASTOR DISMISSED

Vote of Wollaston Unitarian Society 110 to 58 Against Rev. E. W. Hunt

An important parish meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian church was held on Monday evening when friends and opponents of Rev. E. W. Hunt gathered to act on a single article in the warrant: To see what action the society will take for dissolving the relations of pastor and church. About 175 were present, all legal voters of the parish; all others including the pastor and the press being excluded. Dr. C. S. Adams, the chairman of the parish committee, presided.

Before taking any action, a letter from the pastor read, reviewing what had transpired between the parish committee and himself.

It was then moved by Walter J. Wellington that the relations of pastor and church be dissolved forthwith, but date from May 1.

Walter E. Simmons, in seconding the motion, spoke for harmony in the parish, believing the church should stand by its doctrines.

Gen. T. R. Matthews and Frederick H. Bishop spoke against the motion and in support of the pastor. Mr. Bishop did not wish the church to go on record before the public for narrowness in belief, or that the pastor should have an opportunity to pose as a martyr.

J. J. Henry asked some pertinent questions bearing on the subject.

There was little or no acrimony however, in the discussion, and when the vote was taken it stood 110 yes and 58 nay, and the chairman declared the motion carried to dissolve the pastorate of Rev. E. W. Hunt.

The parish committee was empowered to supply the pulpit until such time as a new pastor shall be called.

A member of the parish committee told the representative of the Daily Ledger after the meeting, that the members of the committee had no personal feelings against Rev. Mr. Hunt, but that they had acted purely for the best interests of the society as they saw it.

Rev. Mr. Hunt when interviewed said: "I accept the decision, without regret, and I wish the society every success commensurate with the unfortunate position to which they have committed themselves. At the same time, I must express my sincere admiration and respect for the 58 men and women who, against the alleged claim that they were bound to support the committee and against the unjust interview of Secretary Wilson of the association, strove so valiantly to uphold the freedom of the pulpit and the cause of Unitarianism.

"I have lost my position, but neither my principles nor my self-respect. I am down, but my flag is still flying. Many friends in Wollaston and in Boston whose judgment I respect and value think that I have a religious message to preach and that there are people in Boston who desire to hear it.

"I shall preach, therefore, next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock a simple religious service in Potter Hall, in the Century building, Huntington avenue, on the 'New Religious Healing,' and the public are cordially invited to attend."

The Daily Ledger has also interviewed a friend of the late pastor as to the future of the church. While regreting the action, he thought new interest would be stirred up in the church. That those who have staid away of late would feel compelled to rally to the support of the church, and that the parish would work unitedly.

PROD FOR PRESIDENT

Tillman Wields His Pitchfork In Most Vigorous Style

HIS RESPECTS TO CONGRESS

Declares That Both Branches Are Subservient to Wishes of Chief Executive--Cause, Federal Patronage--Truce With Rich Malefactors

Washington, March 17.—With a caution unusual for him, Senator Tillman read a part of his speech in the senate in which he denounced executive encroachment on legislative power. With this apparent caution he proceeded to deliver one of the most direct and denunciatory addresses ever heard in that body. His speech was based on his resolution instructing the committee on finance to inquire whether national banks of New York are in the habit of furnishing permanent capital for speculative enterprises, etc. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Tillman traced what he termed a "swinging of the pendulum" from the regime of Andrew Johnson, when congress assumed control, almost to the exclusion of the president from legislative influence, to the administrations that followed which, he declared, witnessed a growth of presidential power. The dominating influence and control of the executive branch, he said, over the legislative, and in a less degree over the judicial branches of the government, were the most marked features of American politics at this time.

"It has taken," said Tillman, "just forty-one years for the pendulum to swing from one extreme to the other.

"Now," he said, "the house of representatives has degenerated into little more than a recording machine to do the will of the speaker and his lieutenants. In the senate servility and cowardice are the order of the day," he declared, and while freedom of debate still exists, "the shadow of the executive hangs over all, and the president's wishes are almost the only law. The cause of this condition," declared Tillman, is "federal patronage."

"The theory that the senate must 'advise and consent' before appointments are made," he said, "is of little or no moment when senators show such want of courage and self-respect and bow submissively to orders from the White House. The members of the minority party are, of course, largely ignored. The senators of the dominant party are afraid to resist the executive will lest they themselves should fail to obtain the patronage of their states.

"It is a battle between predatory wealth on both sides," he exclaimed, referring to the present presidential contest, "with the power and prestige of the president thrown into the balance of his favorite. He charged that the president "is now planning a truce with rich malefactors," and that he is ready to grant amnesty to all past trust offenders.

"In the made rush to placate the negro vote we may expect to see before the Chicago convention meets, to quote a great New England newspaper, 'the president reviewing the re-enlisted negro battalion on the White House green, after which there will be luncheon at the executive mansion.'

"The president's action in the matter was hasty and unjust, inasmuch as the innocent were punished along with the guilty, but it is a pitiable spectacle all the same to see the mad race for negro votes.

"Mr. Roosevelt is always loudmouthed and vehement in the proclamation of his own purity of purpose and patriotism. He has absolute faith in his own infallibility and is apparently so drunk with power that he unconsciously lapses into the imperial 'we' and sends cablegrams about 'me and my people.' But these things are of small moment—'vagaries of a noble and impetuous spirit,' and we could pass them by were it not for the existence of cold-blooded facts to show executive responsibility for many of the evils which exist without dispute.

"Paul Morton, as vice president of the Santa Fe railroad," said Tillman, "in the rebate cases laid himself open to indictment and liability to personal punishment, but the president peremptorily refused to permit Messrs. Judson and Harmon to prosecute him."

Mr. Tillman reviewed the events of the recent currency crisis and charged Wall street with many misdemeanors.

Referring to recent conferences in the White House to consider legislation, Tillman asked why it was that the efforts of the Republican party in the senate had been ignored.

Unfolding a roll of clearing house certificates, he handed them to Senator Beveridge and asked him "to pass them along among the faithful" on that side. Shaking their heads, Republican senators declined the offer amid general laughter.

Senator Beveridge then made a spirited defense of President Roosevelt and the Republican party, declaring that what had been termed the subserviency of Republican senators was merely an evidence of harmony between the president and his party in congress.

Mr. Beveridge said Tillman denounced the president for holding conferences with experts in order that he might be informed how best to recommend legislation. By his denunciation, he said, he was getting in the class of other critics.

HAD NO PRESS BUREAU

But Electric Boat Company Gave Money to Newspaper Men

Washington, March 17.—Admission was made before the special house committee investigating the charges of Representative Lilley regarding the legislative methods of the Electric Boat company that money had been paid by the Electric Boat company to certain newspaper men to prepare and distribute news concerning submarine boats. This testimony was given by Charles S. McNeir of this city, an attorney for the Electric Boat company.

McNeir, however, entered a general denial that his company had ever paid for the dissemination of news with the purpose of influencing legislation or for creating a wrong impression in the public mind. He also denied that a general press bureau was maintained by the Electric company or that, as far as he knew, the company had ever spent money for the entertainment of members of congress or others who might exert an influence in securing contracts with the government for its boats.

A number of other witnesses were examined during the day and they entered general denials to Lilley's charges. These witnesses had all at one time or another been employed as attorneys by the electric company.

Change In Treasury Officials

Washington, March 17.—The resignation of J. H. Edwards, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of the financial bureaus of the department, which was tendered some time ago, took effect today, when L. A. Coolidge, who has been confirmed by the senate, took charge of the office. Edwards has accepted the receivership of the New Amsterdam National bank of New York, which suspended during the late money stringency.

Editor Convicted of Libel

Berlin, March 17.—The notorious Hau trial of last summer has been brought to the public attention again by the sentencing of Editor Schmidt of The Morgen Post to nine months' imprisonment on the charge of libelling Olga Molitor. Hau was found guilty of the murder of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Molitor, and Olga Molitor is Hau's sister-in-law. Schmidt hinted that Olga Molitor might have committed the crime herself.

No Anti-Gambling Opposition

Albany, March 17.—The sudden and apparently complete collapse of the hitherto seemingly irreconcilable opposition to the anti-race track gambling bills is the most striking feature of the situation in the legislature at the opening of what was expected to be a week of bitter struggle over the bills. Friends of the anti-gambling legislation in both houses are solicitous lest it may presage some flank attack from an unexpected quarter.

Dynamite Kills Three Persons

Acme, Pa., March 17.—Three persons, composing all the male members of a family, were literally blown to pieces by dynamite here. Accompanied by his two sons, aged 17 and 15, David H. Brown went to a field back of his store to dynamite stumps. Twenty-five pounds of the explosive was taken along. No one saw the accident, but it is supposed that when the first charge was set off the remainder exploded.

Amnesty For Political Offenders

Paris, March 17.—The cabinet has prepared and submitted to parliament a bill granting a general amnesty to all those who committed political offenses in the summer of 1907 in connection with the viticultural crisis. Exemption from the amnesty will include the government employes, such as postmen, who were discharged for joining the unions against the orders of the government.

Rebate Fines Legally Imposed

Washington, March 17.—By a division of five to three, the supreme court of the United States affirmed the decision of the United States circuit court of appeals for the eighth circuit, imposing fines on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railway company for granting, and the packers of Kansas City, Kan., for accepting, rebates on shipments of packers' products intended for export.

Sham Battle With a Fatality

Quincy, Ills., March 17.—Wesley Lee, 16 years old, a student at the Chaddock training school for boys, during a sham battle, in which forty cadets participated, was killed by being shot through the head. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death, being unable to determine how the loaded cartridge became mixed with the blanks.

"No Longer a Democrat"

New York, March 17.—Congressman Cockran, who was nominated and elected by Tammany Hall, is no longer a Democrat, according to Charles F. Murphy, leader of the organization. At a meeting of the general committee of Tammany Cockran was dropped from all the committees of which he was a member.

Slash In Fortification Bill

Washington, March 17.—The fortifications bill, carrying a total appropriation of $8,210,611 instead of the $8,443,945 asked for by the war department, was reported to the house committee on appropriations by the subcommittee on fortifications.

Shopkeepers Out of Pocket

San Juan, P. R., March 17.—The excursion steamer Oceana of the Hamburg-American line, with 340 tourists on board, came into port, but the local quarantine officers refused permission for the passengers to come ashore because the steamer had touched at Port of Spain, Trinidad, where there has been yellow fever. Local shopkeepers are very much disappointed at the action of the authorities, as they had hoped for considerable trade.

Bannerman's Public Life Is Over

London, March 17.—A bulletin issued concerning the condition of Premier Campbell-Bannerman, which makes especial reference to the "considerable weakness" of the patient, has caused a renewal of the anxiety concerning his health. It is recognized by his friends that the premier never again will be a strong man and all idea that he might resume active leadership in the house of commons now has been abandoned.

Acquittal of Hitchcock

New York, March 17.—Raymond Hitchcock was acquitted by direction of Justice Blanchard in the supreme court on one of the indictments against him as a result of charges brought by several young girls. The acquittal was on the indictment growing out of charges made by Ellen Von Hagen. There are several other indictments on similar charges still pending.

Active Demand For Bonds

Baltimore, March 17.—When bids for $2,000,000 city stock were opened it was found that the issue was oversubscribed nine times, the offers totalling $18,000,000. A surprising feature to Baltimore financiers was the big bids that came from New York, Boston, Chicago and other cities. The prices accepted ranged from 101.051 to 105.

Fines by Baseball Commission

Cincinnati, March 17.—Fines of $100 each were inflicted on the Boston American league, Columbus American association, Chicago American league and New Orleans clubs by the National Baseball commission for alleged misleading statements in agreements for the transfer of players Gessler, Rohe and Dundon.

Stole Funds From Bank

Philadelphia, March 17.—James Simpson, former paying teller of the Farmers and Mechanics' National bank of this city, charged with embezzling $4500 from the institution, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to five years' imprisonment.

Granite Strike Near an End

Barre, Vt., March 16.—As a result of a conference between the striking granite cutters and quarrymen and granite manufacturers and the announcement of three mass meetings to be held today, the sentiment is growing that a day or two more will see the end of the granite men's strike, which has continued for two weeks. Over 2000 men have been out here and 500 at Montpelier.

Little One Killed by Sandbank

Boston, March 16.—Cora Mellish, 10 years old, was buried alive by the sliding of a sandbank in which she was playing with companions near her home and died a few minutes after being extricated. The mother of the child and a cripple were the only ones near the scene at the time and they made pitiful, but frantic, efforts to rescue the little girl.

Made Off With Jewelry

New Haven, March 16.—A stranger went into Silverthau's jewelry store and asked to see a tray of diamond earrings. On the tray also were some solitaire rings, and while the attention of the clerk was called to another customer the man dashed out of the store and escaped with a pair of the earrings and one ring, valued at $500.

Powder Magazines Blown Up

Maynard, Mass., March 16.—Two small magazines, each containing 100 pounds of powder, were struck by lightning and exploded during a thunder shower last night. The magazines were a part of the plant of the American Powder company in South Acton. They were isolated from other buildings.

Had Long Been Missing

Providence, March 16.—The body of a man found embedded in the ice of a pond in Roger Williams' park was identified as that of Charles Knox, 22 years old, of this city. Knox had been missing about two months. It is supposed that he was drowned accidentally. He was unmarried.

Death Viewed With Suspicion

Bangor, Me., March 16.—As a result of the investigation into the circumstances surrounding the death of Augustus Hartford, whose body was found in the ruins of his burned shack in Hampden, an inquest will be held. The old man, it is said, drew $700 from a Bangor bank a few days ago.

Man and Dog Burned to Death

Great Barrington, Mass., March 16.—The bodies of Joseph Chasto and his dog were found in the ruins of Chasto's house, following a fire which destroyed the structure. Chasto was a woodchopper and lived alone a few miles from this town. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Little Hope of Saving Steamer

Woods Hole, Mass., March 16.—Steamer Silvia, New York for Halifax and St. John, which struck on a ledge at the entrance to Vineyard sound Saturday, remains hard and fast on the reef and the prospect of saving her looks very slight.

HON. S. B. HERMAN IS WELL AGAIN

Noted Oregon Statesman Restored to Health on Recent Eastern Trip.

Hon. Shiller B. Herman, distinguished statesman and legislator of Portland, Oregon, who was recently on an eastern trip, is among those strongly in favor of L. T. Cooper, in the discussion over Cooper and his medicines, which has raged for the past year in cities visited by the young man on his educative campaigns, as he calls them.

Cooper was explaining his new theories and medicines to Boston people during the Oregonian's visit to that city, and in a recent interview Mr. Herman said: "My trip east accomplished more for me than I ever believed possible. It has actually been the means of restoring my health. While in Boston I heard a great deal about this man Cooper and his medicines, and one morning I talked with a Boston banker who told me that he had been relieved by Cooper's medicines after ten years' chronic dyspepsia. For the past twenty years I have been a fearful sufferer with nervous dyspepsia. It has been so bad that it all but forced me to resign from the legislature.

"I was feeling wretchedly that morning, and I made up my mind to try the medicine. I had seen leading physicians without number both East and West. They had been unable to help me in the least, and I no more believed this Cooper medicine could help me than it could bring a dead man back to life. I really don't know why I bought it. It was like a drowning man clutching at a straw.

"To make a long story short, it has been astonishingly successful in my case. Today I am enjoying a sound stomach and perfect health for the first time in twenty years. I can eat heartily without the slightest inconvenience afterward. I have a fine appetite, and sleep well. I am no longer moody and depressed, and my nervousness has entirely disappeared.

"Any man who has chronic dyspepsia owes it to his family to try this medicine."

In all our experience as druggists, we have never seen anything to surpass the famous Cooper preparations.

NEW HAITIEN MUDDLE

Firmin Said to Be Fomenting Another Revolution

ELEVEN MEN ARE EXECUTED

Stringent Measures on the Part of the Island Government--United States Sends War Vessel to Port au Prince as a Precaution

Washington, March 17.—An American war vessel, probably the gunboat Eagle, is now on the way from Guantanamo to Port au Prince, Hayti, where the Haytien government on Sunday summarily executed a number of alleged revolutionists.

The vessel is not sent there because of any serious apprehension on the part of the officials here that American interests at Port au Prince or at other points in Haiti are in serious danger, but as a matter of precaution. The decision to send a war vessel was reached after the officials had read the newspaper accounts of the executions, supplemented by the information which the state department received from the Island.

It is asserted that General Firmin, the Haitien revolutionary leader, now a refugee in the French consulate at Gonaives, is at the head of another revolutionary movement against the constituted authorities and it is believed that the shooting of the Haitiens at Port au Prince is the direct result of the discovery of this fact.

The statement that Firmin was fomenting another revolutionary movement is made in a dispatch received here by Mr. Leger, the Haitien minister. The dispatch said in effect that letters from Firmin to Haitiens in Port au Prince had been intercepted by the government, and that eleven persons to whom these letters were directed had been arrested. The impression at the legation is that these are the persons who were shot Sunday.

It is not believed at the state department that foreign interests in Haiti are seriously menaced. The disposition of the administration is to keep hands off and give the people of Haiti an opportunity to work out their own salvation. It is realized that in dealing with revolutionary movements stern repressive measures often are necessary, and the impression here is that it is not the part of the American government to interfere with the acts of our neighbors unless the situation is such that our interests are in jeopardy or that broad humanitarian measures require us to interfere.

Most of the revolutionary refugees in Haiti are in the French consulate at Gonaives, where, in addition to Firmin, there are about seventy native Haitiens seeking shelter. The Haitien government is anxious that these men shall be required to quit the country, but the friends of the refugees are opposed to sending them away. The government believes that if they are permitted to remain it will not be long before they will be engaged in another revolutionary movement.

Alleged Proof Against Firman

Port au Prince, Haiti, March 17.—The Haitien government's activity in summarily dealing with a number of alleged conspirators in a threatened uprising has had the effect of causing anxiety in the hearts of many, for it is not known where the next blow may fall, or how far-reaching the revolutionary trouble may be.

The statement is made officially that the government, having come into possession of proofs that General Firmin, the leader of the late unsuccessful revolutionary movement, who is now a refugee in the French consulate at Gonaives, had organized, through correspondence, a new insurrection in Port au Prince, decided upon the arrest of the principal conspirators. This uprising, the statement continues, had as its object the overthrow of the government and the assassination of the president and it was discovered through the interception of letters sent by Firmin to a number of his adherents and others in an attempt to enlist them in the new movement.

The conspirators were taken by surprise with arms and munitions in their possession and were executed forthwith. The chief conspirator, Massillon Colcou, before he was executed, gave the names of several military officers who, he declared, were implicated in the plot. The men have been placed under arrest and will be given a trial, it is stated, before a regular court.

Possibility of a Massacre

Paris, March 17.—A dispatch from Port au Prince states that it appears that the situation is likely to be still further complicated by the caste hatred between the blacks and mulattos. Everyone dreads the possibility of a massacre of the Europeans by the Haitien troops on the arrival of the warships.

The dispatch declares that it is understood there that Germany will take action if the government executes more rebels. President Nord Alexis, however, seems quite unmoved at the prospect of a naval demonstration.

"In God We Trust" Restored

Washington, March 17.—Under suspension of the rules of the house of representatives passed the bill providing for the restoration of the motto, "In God We Trust," on gold and silver coins of the United States. The vote was 255 to 5.

BUSINESS MEN INVOLVED

Admit "General Understanding" In Securing City Contracts

Boston, March 17.—No session of the finance commission has bristled more with startling details than that of yesterday afternoon. A. E. Cox, former member of the governor's council, head of the Atlantic works of East Boston; J. E. Lynch, head of the E. Hodge Boiler works; D. D. Russell, treasurer of the James Russell Boiler works, and Charles Koopman, Jr., of the Cunningham Boiler works, went upon the witness stand, one after another, and admitted that there had been between them a general understanding regarding contracts for boiler repairs in schoolhouses.

Former Councilman Callahan admitted that the Suffolk Construction company, of which he was the moving spirit, had received fourteen city contracts and that he had divided the profits with President McCullough of the common council.

City Engineer Floyd, after investigating some of these contracts, declared that the work was unnecessary and was told to mind his own business.

There was a clash between McCullough and ex-Superintendent of Streets Doyle, in which the former called the latter an "informer" and charged Doyle with demanding $15,000 from ex-Mayor Fitzgerald to maintain silence.

Treasurer Russell of the Russell Boiler works admitted that he destroyed his cash book when he learned that the commission was to investigate.

Considering Carpet Strike

Fall River, Mass., March 17.—The council of the Textile Workers of America met here and considered the strike of the operatives of the Bigelow carpet mills in Lowell. No action was taken and the discussion will be continued. The council will certainly continue its support of the strike, although an effort to arrange a settlement may be made.

No Hope For the Silvia

Wood's Hole, Mass., March 17.—The revenue cutter Mohawk arrived here from the steamer Silvia and Captain Reed stated that the seas were breaking over the wreck and he believed the vessel would be a total loss. The perishable goods are being thrown overboard, and efforts are being made to recover the valuable portion.

Ten Percent Wage Reduction

Clinton, Mass., March 17.—Notices of a 10 percent reduction in wages, to take effect March 30, have been posted in the Lancaster mills. The mills manufacture ginghams and employ 3000 operatives. They are being run only four days a week. When the cutdown in wages goes into effect the plant will be operated on full time.

New Baseball Organization

Boston, March 17.—The Atlantic Baseball association was formally organized in this city. The circuit was decided upon as follows: Lewiston and Portland, Me., Newport, Pawtucket and Woonsocket, R. I., and Taunton, Mass. It was voted to open the season May 2 and end it Sept. 7. Hugh McBreen was elected president.

Uncertain as to Cause of Death

Athol, Mass., March 17.—To determine positively the cause of the death of Miss Hazel N. Caples, whose body was found in her room at a boarding house, Medical Examiner Oliver has decided to have a chemical examination of the stomach. Miss Caples was 17 years old and was employed in a shoe factory.

Read His Own Obituary

Woodstock, Vt., March 17.—Rev. Charles S. Lewis, rector of St. James Episcopal church, has been obliged to give public notice that he is not dead, as reported recently in the church press. The publication of his obituary was due to a confusion of names.

Stepped In Front of Train

WRECKED A THEATRE

Wild Doings of Mob of Students From University of Michigan

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 17.—College feeling among the students of the University of Michigan burst forth into a riot last night. Late in the evening a mob of students, which numbered fully 2000, directed a college "rush" against the front of the Star theatre, a 5-cent place of amusement, tearing away windows and doors and plaster and rolling the theatre piano out into the street, where leaders of the students mounted the instrument and performed a dance to the accompaniment of yells from the unmanageable crowd. The trouble dates back to Saturday night, when a student in the audience was ejected and thoroughly clubbed by a special policeman in the employ of the theatre.

Last night's trouble started with a small crowd of students throwing eggs at the building. This diversion soon gave way to a fusillade of rocks, and when the police were called to quell the disorder the yells of derision sent up by the young men brought reinforcements from every direction. As the attacking party grew wilder, its aim broadened proportionately and windows of the upper stories of the building and those of neighboring business places began to crash.

Finding the police unable to subdue the rioters, Mayor Henderson summoned the fire department. Several police officers had been felled with flying missiles and others fought on hatless after their helmets had been stolen to decorate some student's den. The firemen had no sooner laid their line of hose to the scene to give the mob a drenching than a detachment of the boys captured a hundred feet of the hose and ran yelling down the street with it.

President Angell of the university, Dean Hutchins of the law department and Mayor Henderson vainly pleaded for the students to disperse, but the disorder increased steadily until the work of devastation was complete. Twenty-two students were jailed.

Taft Discusses Future of the Negro

New York, March 17.—Speaking before a representative Brooklyn audience last night, Secretary Taft expressed an optimistic conviction concerning the future of the negro race in the United States. After presenting an array of statistics to show the progress of the American negro since the day of freedom, the secretary declared that this healthy growth in intellect, learning and industry must continue. The fear of negro domination in the south was, he said, a dream and nightmare of the past. With the advantages of education and opportunity the negroes would, he said, take a proper place in the political affairs of the nation.

Tried to Steal $240,000

New York, March 17.—An attempt to steal $240,000 from C. B. Richards & Co., bankers of this city, was revealed last night, following the receipt of the news of the arrest of one of the alleged forgers in Paris. The man under arrest is Gustave Bozzo, formerly a stenographer employed by the bankers. The police say he has confessed and that he has implicated two confederates. The men, it is asserted, had realized $36,025 of the big stake they were after before their forgeries were discovered.

Died While Pleading With Jury

New York, March 17.—John Maguire, election commissioner of Brooklyn, met death suddenly in the county court while making a plea for a client on trial for larceny. He was earnestly expressing to the jury his belief in the defendant's innocence when he gave a gasp and was dead almost before the startled spectators in the courtroom could realize it. Death was due to apoplexy.

Great Welcome Awaits Fleet

Two Men Suffocated In Sawdust

New York, March 17.—Collapse of the ceiling and walls of a refrigerating room under repair at the Pabst West Side Bottling company's works buried five men in the room under tons of sawdust. Joseph Turner and an unidentified Italian laborer were killed and the three other men were more or less seriously hurt.

A denial was made at the Italian court of a marriage engagement between the Duke of Abruzzi, a cousin of King Victor Emmanuel, and Miss Katherine Elkins, daughter of Senator Elkins of West Virginia.

Thomas Harris of Boston was struck and instantly killed near Forestville, Conn., by a train. A companion escaped.

WORMS

Unsuspected worms are the cause of numerous little things that go wrong with children. When a child is sick you rarely think that its sickness is caused by worms, yet worms, either directly or indirectly, are the cause of three quarters of all the ills of childhood. Children, and often-times adults feel out of sorts, are irritable, feel listless and unrefreshed in the morning; suffer with indigestion, have a variable appetite, foul tongue, offensive breath; hard and full belly, with occasional gripings and pains about the navel; eyes heavy, and dull; itching of the nose; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; slow fever; and often in children, convulsions—in the majority of cases the cause of all the trouble is worms though you may not suspect their presence.

DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR

a pure vegetable compound, has been the standard household remedy since 1851; it never fails to expel not only worms but all waste matter, leaving the blood rich and pure, the stomach sweet, the bowels regular and the whole system strong and healthy.

The mother who gives her children Dr. True's Elixir regularly is wise, because it not only increases the appetite, acts as a preventative of coughs, cold, fever and worms but gives rugged, robust health.

It would be the proper thing for City Hall and the business houses of the city to display flags tomorrow, the day of the Norfolk county convention of the Grand Army and the Women's Relief Corps. About 300 delegates are expected.

Mrs. Evans will stay with her daughter and grandchildren for about a month on East Capital street, Washington.

Easter.

A religious exchange comments as follows: "Lent leads up to Easter and in a way prepares for it. But the Easter season is rapidly becoming an opportunity for commercial gain and fashionable display, such as the Chroniclers had in mind when they reported the stories of the cleansing of the Temple of Jesus. Everything that is dignified, spiritual, having a tendency to make human life sweeter and stronger, is to be encouraged in our churches and in the community. Whatever tends to dissipate religious emotion and sentiment and substitute for it fashion and folly is to be deprecated and avoided. Millions of dollars will be spent in this country before the season is over in gewgaws and vanities which have no meaning of purpose which relate to the great hopes of mankind or the privileges and duties suggested by Lenten observances and Easter celebrations. Why cannot this great expenditure be turned into the channels of human need, and through sympathy fill the springs of love and aspiration?

THOMAS MOORE

His Praises And Songs Sung At Hibernian Entertainment

The new Hibernian hall on Franklin street was crowded on Monday evening at an entertainment given in aid of the building fund. Division 5 was fortunate in securing for the evening Mr. Michael J. Dwyer, who gave an illustrated lecture on Thomas Moore, and sung several of his melodies.

Among those present were Rev. J. J. Coan, Rev. J. P. Cuffe, Mayor Shea, City Solicitor McAnarney, and other prominent citizens. The hall was decorated with American and Irish flags and festooned with the national colors.

Without introduction Mr. Dwyer opened the program, saying Thomas Moore was the pride and glory of the Irish people. His works had become common knowledge. The tune of "Fair Harvard" was one of Moore's melodies,—"Believe me if all those endearing young charms," and Mr. Dwyer sang the original.

The lecturer then gave an interesting biographical sketch of Moore, speaking of his great charm in personality, his friendship for Lord Byron, his humble origin, his education, his success in London, and his last illness.

Mr. Dwyer showed stereopticon pictures of the poet, his early home, and illustrated several of his poems. He sang "The Harp that once through Tara's hall" a martial song, a song to his country women, a song of bereavement, and songs of nature.

When a picture of Robert Emmett was shown it was cheered, and there was applause on several occasions. It was a lecture which natives of Ireland and their descendants could thoroughly enjoy.

During the evening Miss Ruth Keating of this city executed Irish melodies very acceptably on the violin, and Miss Theresa Keating sang a beautiful selection and responded to an encore. Prof. M. Kelliher of Brockton gave artistic exhibitions of jigs, reels, and hornpipes, being recalled twice.

Miss Katherine Faircloth, a young miss of Rockland, so pleased the audience with her readings that she was recalled.

The closing number of the program was by young Danny O'Meara of Atlantic, who sang that popular ballad "Afraid to go home in the dark." Although it was late, the audience waited for another of his songs, "Harrigan—That's Me." The young man put so much life into the songs that he struck a popular chord.

Cannot Support Long.

"The Taft men will stick to Colonel Sidney O. Bigney of Attleboro," says ex-Congressman Samuel L. Powers, manager of the Taft campaign.

"Colonel Bigney is out in the open and has been making his fight, and has received assurances of support which makes it impossible for the Taft men to support Governor Long, unless they drop Governor Bates from their slate.

"Messrs. Crane, Lodge, Bates and Bigney are satisfactory to the Taft men," said Congressman Powers, "I see no reason why the slate should be changed unless it should appear that the anti-Taft men intend to go so far as to make it impossible for Taft men to support one of their friends."

On the part of the old-time members of the Republican organization there was secret exultation on account of the determination of Manager Powers to stick to Colonel Bigney. Years ago there was trouble between Michael J. Murray, now Justice Murray, and ex-Governor Long over the chairmanship of the Republican State convention.

The State committee favored Mr. Murray, but a combination of the Crane men, backed by Governor Bates, backed Governor Long for the chairmanship, and it resulted in his election after a stormy afternoon session in the Republican State committee, which made the choice.

Three Fires In One Day

The alarm from Box 35 at 5.20 Monday afternoon was for a blaze in the stable of Bruce & Myatt on Hancock street near Hancock hall. It started on the second floor near an open window and is thought to have been set by a bonfire in the yard, as a high wind prevailed a short time before. A hydrant stream soon put it out with a loss of less than $25.

The Central Station H. and L. combination was called out on a still alarm at 7. 15 Monday night for a chimney fire at the house of Nathan Ames on Whitney road. There was no damage.

The alarm from Box 35 at 9.50 Monday night was for a lively blaze in the basement of the building on the corner of Hancock street and Hancock court ocupied by the Berman Tea Co.

Chief Williams who was at home got the first round of the alarm as coming from Box 34, and drove directly to that box. He found the box open and supposing it to be a false alarm sent in a recall.

He started toward the fire station and learned that Box 35 was the one pulled, and he found the firemen hard at work.

The fire started from some unknown cause in the rear of the basement among some furniture.

There were also some mattresses in the basement and the fire made a dense smoke that filled the entire building. The smoke poured from the windows in great volumes, making it appear that the fire was also burning on these floors. As a matter of fact however the fire was confined to the basement.

A line of hose was taken to the basement through a window on the Hancock street side, and another stream was carried into the basement from a bulkhead on the Hancock cort side.

The fire was soon under control. The fire loss will not be very large, but there will be quite a loss from smoke.

Condemns Commissions.

Governmental commissions cannot possibly understand business better than those who conduct it. Their regulative interference with business will only complete the confusion and embarrassments into which we are so rapidly stumbling. The old processes of law are the more difficult, but the more effective. We must discover just what transactions we wish to put an end to; must devise means of discriminating and reaching the individuals who are really responsible for them, and must punish those individuals without respect of persons or consequences. We must have once more the reign of law rather than the reign of governmental officials.—President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton University, March 14.

More Light on Thornley Suicide

Chief Burrell and Medical Examiner Jones who have been investigating the death of Alfred J. Thornley, who shot himself in the Bates block on Saville street, Monday, say that it is a clear case of suicide.

Thornley, who was 31 years of age, went to Providence last Wednesday and was married to Annie Touhey of East Weymouth. On Friday the wife went to her home in East Weymouth to remain until they secured a house.

On Monday, Mrs. E. D. Henry and Mrs. A. G. Wells, who reside near Thornley's parents at Montclair, were to meet him to go house hunting, it being planned to hire a house jointly.

They were to meet him at Newcomb square, where they went. Thornley did not keep the appointment, and they then went to the house on Saville street. While they were talking with him, he informed them that he had taken arsenic. One then ran to the office of Dr. Garey, and the other started to make a mustard emetic. As they did so a shot rang out.

Rushing in they saw Thornley on the floor with a 32 calibre revolver in his hand. Mrs. Henry shouted for help, and Mr. Bates rushed up stairs, taking the revolver from the man's hand and placing it on the mantel shelf. By this time Dr. Garey arrived and pronounced the man dead, word was sent to Medical Examiner Jones and Officer Murray.

Mrs. Thornley called at the rooms of Undertaker Hall on Monday night to claim the body. She knew of no reason why he should have taken his own life. Friends say that he has been acting queerly of late.

It was reported Monday that Thornley had another wife living. Investigation, however, showed that he had been married before, but he had been divorced, and that his marriage with the Tuohey girl was perfectly legal. Nearly $100 had been raised at the shipyard as a wedding gift, but it had not been presented.

School Teams At the Y. M. C. A.

Of all the games played at the Y. M. C. A. this season that of Monday night produced the most enthusiasm. One team was composed of boys from the Cranch school while the other was a picked team from the Hancock school. The boys were allowed the use of the gymnasium from 7 to 8 P. M.

The teams appeared promptly accompanied by a large cheering section from their respective schools. After a hotly contested game the Cranch boys were declared the victors by Referee W. Cranshaw. Score 16 to 8.

Relay teams were picked and a race run on the track. This was won by the Hancock boys, and did much to repair their disappointment over losing the basket ball game.

Ten athletes from the Y. M. C. A. are entered in the State meet to be held at Somerville Wednesday night. This is the largest team that Quincy has ever sent to a State event, and is made up of W. Griffiths, H. Ulrich, B. Coffin, R. Hatfield, J. Elcock, J. Floyd, H. Histen, J. Clofflin, S. Melville and B. Hodgkinson.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

A new perescope is being made for the submarine Octopus.

Eight nickle steel shafts have been annealed and oil tempered for the General Electric Company.

Work on the light vessels is progressing rapidly, and one will be launched in a very short time.

Some interesting details are published of the new British battleship Collingwood, the first of a new group of vessels which mark a considerable advance upon the Dreadnought. In general outward design they will not exhibit much difference, though they will be 1300 tons heavier, but in the interior arrangements there will be important differences. The heel and forefoot will be rather more cut away, and the double rudders hung on a different principle, with a view to diminishing the turning circle of the ship. The turbines are expected to develop nearly 3000 horse-power more than those of the Dreadnought, and to give a knot more speed—twenty-two knots. The propeller arrangement will probably be different, fewer screws being used. Oil fuel will be used in very large degree, and the saving of weight effected in this direction is expected to result in an equally wide radius of actton, notwithstanding the increase in boiler power. One secret in the new battleships will be the arrangement of water-tight bulkheads, both longitudinal and tranverse, under the armored deck, so as to render the ships practically torpedo proof. It is claimed that the hull may be pierced below water twenty times in a length of one hundred feet without destroying the buoyancy of the ship. The armor will be very similar to that of the Dreadnought.

—A new edition of "Science and Health" was announced to be issued February 29. By request of Mrs. Eddy Christain Scientists universally are enjoined to read a certain paragraph said to be of great importance at this stage of the workings of animal magnetism. This means, of course, that everybody in her church must buy a copy of the new edition on which an enormous profit is made.

WELCOME EXTENDED

To Grand Army And the W. R. C. For Their County Convention

The quarterly meeting of the Norfolk County Grand Army Association is being held in Quincy today and many of the veterans from towns all over the county are present. In honor of the gathering of the Boys in Blue, many flags are being displayed about the city.

The morning session opened at Grand Army hall with an attendance that filled the room and was devoted to routine business.

At the same time the ladies held a business session in Electa hall.

At noon an adjournment was taken and all reported to Electa hall where the ladies served lunch. Mayor Shea was the only guest outside of the Grand Army present.

This afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, there was an open meeting in the chapel of the First church. Mayor Shea made the opening address of welcome, and will be followed by prominent Grand Army men, who will speak on topics relating to the welfare of the order. There will also be a musical program.

The platform in the church chapel was prettily decorated in honor of the occasion. Several large American flags were tastefully placed back of the desk, while the desk itself is covered with the national colors. Flags were also festooned over the porch at the entrance to the chapel.

Fully two hundred veterans and their ladies were in attendance at the afternoon meeting.

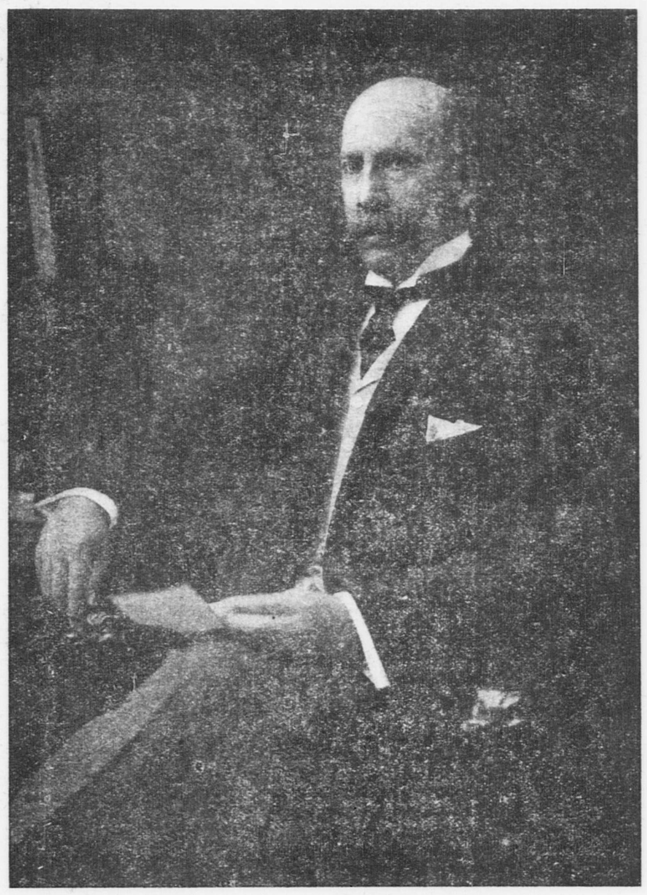

Arraigned For Weymouth Burglary

Officer Allen of Weymouth came to Quincy on Tuesday to look over the man arrested early that morning at Wollaston by Officer Riley, who is thought to be the burglar shot at by Officer Allen early Monday morning. The officer brought the hat that the burglar had left behind in his flight.

This hat was tried on Berlinsky and was a perfect fit. The officer also thought the prisoner to be the man he chased and shot at. The burglar in breaking into the store had smashed a pane of glass, and from the blood left behind he had evidently cut his hand. Berlinsky had a bad cut on the palm of his left hand which in the opinion of City Physician Hallowell who dressed the wound had been made by glass. It was not such a cut as would have been made with a knife, but could have been made by glass.

One of Berlinskey's shoes was taken to Weymouth on Tuesday afternoon and it fitted the imprint left in the mud by the burglar when he ran.

A new warrant was then sworn out against Berlinsky, charging him with breaking and entering at Weymouth. The court found probable cause to believe him guilty and held him in $2,000 for the grand jury.

Ex-Congressman Powers Coming

Ex-Congressman Samuel L. Powers of Newton, who is recognized as the Taft manager in Massachusetts, will be speaker tomorrow evening at the meeting of the Men's Club of the Wollaston M. E. church. All the men's clubs of Wollaston have been invited, and a large attendance is assured. The different clergymen of Wollaston are expected to take part in the program.

Mr. Powers is recognized as one of the best orators in the State. He has won a high position at the bar, and has a varied and successful general practice. The nomination for Congress in the Eleventh district came unsolicited, and he was handsomely elected. He voluntarily declined a reelection. He is a native of New Hampshire, and after he was admitted to the bar he formed a copartnership with Hon. Samuel W. McCall, his college classmate, now a member of Congress.

A Metropolitan District Charter

Prof. Joseph H. Beal, the Hon. Josiah Quincy, Brooks Adams and Harvey Chase of the Economic Club were before the legislative committee on cities on Tuesday, says the Herald, in favor of a commission to prepare a general form of charter for the cities of the commonwealth, and Prof. Beals for his added plan of a charter for the metropolitan district as a greater Boston. Opposition was made by Atty. Arthur L. Spring of the city law department and by Mayor Wood of Haverhill.

Prof. Beals said that he did not believe that the time is ripe for the adoption of any new form of charter for every city in this commonwealth; but he did believe that, to avoid the possibility of crude legislation, the commission of five persons provided for in his resolve (to be appointed by the Governor) could point out the deficiencies in present municipal government and could frame a bill to meet the desires of any city in the state.

Coming to the metropolitan district, Prof. Beals said that he did not believe that the cities and towns of that district could go on with the present tax limit. As at present his ideas of a charter for the district would be to put in general form all the proposed amendments now pending and make a codification, as was done with the corporation laws. It would simply be a provision for the codifying of city charter laws in the state and after that was done there could then be the special corporation law to meet the necessities of all cities.

Anniversary of St. Patrick

The Quincy Branch of the United Irish League observed the anniversary of St. Patrick, Tuesday evening, in Hibernian hall, Franklin street. Upwards of one hundred and fifty members and their lady friends were present, and the program for the celebration of the anniversary of Ireland's Patron Saint was thoroughly appreciated by those present.

The hall was beautifully decorated with American and Irish flags.

Michael Burns vice president of the branch, opened the meeting by extending a Cread, Mille, Failthe to all present, and recited the struggles of the branch since its formation 26 years ago. How its members were ever ready to assist the Irish people in their struggle for the abolition of landlordism, and for an Irish parliament. He said the members of the Quincy branch were faithful followers of the policy of Parnell, and today they were just as loyal to the policy of John Redmond and the Irish Parliamentary party. He felt proud of the financial assistance given to the Irish cause by the Quincy branch, upwards of $3,000 having been sent to aid the representatives of the Irish people in obtaining better laws from an English Parliament.

After the address the program was carefully arranged by the committee as follows:

Medley of Irish airs by Alex Thompson, pianist.

Song, "Killarney," Peter McConarty.

Piccolo solo, Richard McCarthy.

Address, "The Day We Celebrate," John J. Byron.

Song, "The meeting of the Waters," Miss Marie McCarthy.

Irish step dancing, Messrs. Coughlin and McLaughlin.

Song, "Believe me, if all those endearing young Charms," Michael Behan.

Piano selections, Miss Mary Cahill.

Address, "The Old Guard," James D. Kelly.

Recitation, Mrs. Geo. A. Deehan.

Song, "The Harp that once through Tara's Hall," Miss Jennie Griffin.

Recitation, "The men of '98" Geo. D. Cahill.

A banquet was served in the lower hall. Dancing was then enjoyed until 2 A. M. Mr. Edward Burns, was floor marshal. It was conceded by all present that the program was the best for years given by the branch.

Pertinent Questions By Clerk of Day

The Clerk of the Day of the Transcript comments as follows on local church affair:

"Something will have to be done about the Unitarians. They are apparently losing their distinctive characteristics, and becoming even as the creed-bound sects. Fancy such a thing as a heresy trial and conviction in a Unitarian church! And to the Clerk's limited intelligence it seems quite plain that the Wollaston folks have banished the pastor of their creedless church for advocating very nearly the same sort of thing which has made the Episcopal Emmanuel Church famous and greatly praised. More liberty in the Orthodox than in the Heterodox meeting-house? Impossible!

But the fact is, the Unitarians are becoming as are other sinners and saints. They no longer boast of their liberty, or even of their sins. It is no longer fashionable for Unitarian pastors to smoke cigarettes in the street, and just the other day the Clerk saw a minister of that cult frown just because a man swore in his presence.

"But the Wollaston case is probably somewhat typical of parsons as a whole. Probably because of the indefined limits of their profession they are always roaming into other fields. Here is Rev. Mr. White of Worcester, who just resigned an Episcopal church pulpit, to devote himself to working for the poor, and last night was arrested therefor. Now we learn that the Wollaston Unitarian was once an Episcopal minister. Is there anything in the once Established Church to propel its ministers pretty far away from old ideas? Or is the breaking away from Establishment the source of the struggle?"

The Herald says editionally: "The divergence of views between Pastor Hunt of Quincy and many of his parishioners made his departure from the pulpit inevitable. Perhaps it is just as well so, in view of the fact that there seem to have been no forfeiture of self-respect on either side.

Just Jotted Down By Ledger Men

The moon was full last night.

Friday is the date when spring begins.

Easter falls on April 19, which is also Patriots' day.

A special meeting of the City Council will be necessary this month to draw one juror.

The days have got the best of the nights, there being over twelve hours of sunlight now.

Salmon salad, tarts, etc., are on the menu for the lunch at the Granite City club tournament tonight.

Mrs. George A. Wardwell of Farrington street has been called to Topsham, Maine, by the death of her father.

There was quite a fall of snow Tuesday afternoon and evening, and the ground was covered with a white mantle this morning.

Those rubbers that had been laid away, under the supposition that there would be no more snow, had to be hauled out again Tuesday.

After leaving his pulpit in Bangor, Maine, Rev. E. W. Hunt remained in the city several months and conducted religious services, advocating a new religion.

Moses A. Swift, formerly of Wollaston, died on Sunday at the residence of his son, M. Varnum Swift at Roxbury. Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon.

A State inspector was at City Hall Tuesday examining the safes in which records are kept. Most of them he found all right. Others he thought not so good.

The contract for printing the annual reports of City Officers of 1907 has been awarded to Mr. Geekie of Atlantic. It will be the first of June before the book is issued.

The early spring has attracted many to the links of the Wollaston Golf club. The first open tournament will be held at Wollaston May 6 and 7; the Country club being one week later.

It is not likely that any more citizens meetings on the abolition of grade crossings will be held, as it was evident at the last meeting that there were so many private interests the citizens could not agree.

At the billiard tournament at the Granite City club on Tuesday, H. O. Williams (150) beat C. R. Marstin (150) by the score of 150 to 112, and W. W. Mitchell (200) beat John W. Walsh (120) by a score of 200 to 107.

The City Council Committee on Public Buildings will meet Friday evening. The communication from the Commissioner on fire hose and fire exits in the public schools will be considered.

Hodenosaunee tribe, Improved Order of Red Men, will visit Quicataquissett tribe of Milton, this evening, to witness the Warriors degree. On Thursday evening the tribe will hold a smoke talk in Odd Fellows hall, Wollaston. All members of the order are invited.

A Free Positive Cure for the Sick of Quincy.

THIS ANNOUNCEMENT WILL INTEREST YOU.

Beginning Thursday, March 19th, CLYDE T. COX will give away, ABSOLUTELY FREE, one thousand FULL SIZE PACKAGES OF ELBA HOME REMEDIES and SULPHELBA.

You will not have to buy anything in order to secure a package. Simply select the remedy for your ailment, and Clyde T. Cox will supply it FREE. This offer is made because we have so much faith in ELBA HOME REMEDIES and SULPHELBA that we wish to prove their merit to the people of Quincy without asking them to risk a cent. We feel that this method of introducing our goods is fairer than asking you to believe the testimonial of someone unknown to you who has been cured. You are not interested in another's restoration to health, but your own.

Do not hesitate to take advantage of this offer at the time named, as we have arranged to pay Clyde T. Cox the full retail price for the package you receive. Don't wait! Their supply of free goods will be quickly exhausted.

NO SECRETS. Nothing to Hide. Formula in Full on Each Package.

Submit the formula on the package you receive to your physician. Ask him if he has not written that identical formula in hundreds of cases for sufferers from your ailment. There is hardly a drug store in Quincy whose prescription files do not contain most of the ELBA HOME REMEDIES formulae. Is not that the best proof of how good they are? Of course, they are guaranteed under the Pure Food and Drug Act of June 30th, 1906. The guarantee is on each label and carton.

WHAT THEY ARE.

ELBA HOME REMEDIES are not experiments nor new formulae. They represent the experience of a number of physicians whose practice has extended beyond a score of years. Each formula was chosen as the best for that particular ill after the experience and results if its use had been considered and compared with the results secured in the use of other formulae by these physicians in their daily practice for many years. We take you into our confidence by giving you the prescription in full (just like your family physician) so that you may know exactly what you are taking. How many packages of proprietary remedies have you bought on which the formula was given? Isn't that the best proof of our sincerity and our faith in the ability of ELBA HOME REMEDIES to produce results?

WHAT IT IS.

SULPHELBA (Elba Soluble Sulphur) is nothing but refined Flowers of Sulphur made by a special process of our own, soluble in water in any proportion. It is absolutely free from all acids or injurious chemicals. It contains no alcohol, opiate or narcotic. By our process we convert SULPHUR into a liquid, increasing its strength and value while retaining all the medical and hygienic qualities.

The therapeutic value of Sulphur is too well known and universally recognized to enter into a discussion of it here. For many years Sulphur in powdered form has been taken internally for impurities of the blood. Because of the fact that it was only partially absorbed being insoluble in the stomach, its efficiency was small. SULPHELBA has overcome this defect and gives to the patient a perfect scientific production retaining all the medical qualities with increased strength.

Watch for our announcement next Monday. In it we will include a coupon which when presented at Clyde T. Cox will be accepted by him as full payment for one regular size package of any of the following:—

TO COMMAND FLEET

Sperry Will Take Battleships on Round-the-World Journey

HAS BRILLIANT NAVAL RECORD

Served In Various Capacities and Directed Movements In Thrilling Campaign Which Resulted In "Hare and Hounds" Expedition

Washington, March 18.—Rear Admiral Sperry will be commander-in-chief of the Atlantic battleship fleet when it leaves San Francisco in July to encircle the globe. Rear Admiral Evans, who retires in August, will be relieved of the command at the conclusion of the big naval review at San Francisco on May 8. Rear Admiral Thomas will command the fleet on its visit to Puget sound and until the homeward journey begins. He has been second in command during the voyage and retires in October.

Admiral Sperry, who is to bring the "big sixteen" back to the Atlantic coast, has had long and distinguished service in the navy. He is a native of New York, but is accredited to Connecticut in his appointment to the naval academy. He became a rear admiral in May, 1906.

During the war with Spain Sperry was equipment officer in the New York navy yard. Afterward he was given command of the Yorktown in the Philippine waters, and directed the movements of the landing party on the eastern shore of Luzon, which is now regarded as one of the most thrilling incidents of the campaign against Aguinaldo.

The landing party of the Yorktown was captured by Aguinaldo's men. Some of them were wounded, and all were taken prisoners. Then began the famous chase of the insurgents and their prisoners throughout the length of the island, resulting in the release of the men at Aparri, on the northern extremity of Luzon. The officers and soldiers who went to the rescue of the Yorktown's men were popularly known as the "hare and hound" expedition, and untold hardships were endured.

As one of the officers under Admiral Walker, Sperry helped to make successful the picturesque voyage of the "white squadron," which visited Europe and South America in 1891-93. From the command of the New Orleans on the China station, Admiral Sperry became president of the war college. His next detail was to the last Hague peace conference, where he went as one of the American delegates.

Returning from The Hague, he was given sea duty and assigned to command the fourth division of the Atlantic fleet, in which capacity he has made the trip around the Horn with Admiral Evans.

Glad Tidings For Waterbury

Waterbury, Conn., March 18.—Waterbury, the home city of Rear Admiral Sperry, received the news of his appointment with great pleasure, and scores of telegrams were sent to him from here. Although a native of Brooklyn, where he was born in 1847, he spent his childhood here and was educated in the Waterbury public schools.

Great Performance Appreciated

Berlin, March 18.—In naval quarters compliments continue to be voiced on the performance of the American battleship fleet, and it is admitted that the arrival of all the warships in good shape at Magdalena bay is something of a surprise. It had been expected that some of the vessels would come limping into port, or that they might even have to be towed in by the others.

Real Fighting For Oil Trade

Cleveland, March 18.—Hand-to-hand fights, where stones, coal, hot water and guns were used in the encounter between the Independents and the Standard Oil company's forces in the early days of the oil industry for possession of rights of way for pipe lines, were told of by Lewis Emery, Jr., of Bradford, Pa., testifying for the prosecution in the government's ouster suits against the Standard Oil company.

Amateur Boxer Killed

Philadelphia, March 18.—In an amateur boxing tournament at the Bijou theatre here William Robinson, aged 19, was killed while boxing with Charles Wolf, of the same age. Robinson and Wolf had been in the ring but thirty-five seconds when the latter struck Robinson a severe blow over the heart. Robinson collapsed and died in a few minutes. The contestants were to have boxed three rounds for a prize.

Receivers For Cotton Mills

Charlotte, N. C., March 18.—Receivers have been appointed for the Pomona Manufacturing company of Greensboro. The Pomona cotton mills are among the largest in the south.

Claim That Alia Was Insane

Denver, March 18.—A motion for a new trial for Giuseppe Alia, the condemned murderer of Father Leo Heinrichs, has been filed. It is alleged that Alia was insane when he killed the priest and should have been so declared by the jury.

CALLED "PREMATURE"

Textile Executive Committee Opposed to Reduction In Wages

Fall River, Mass., March 18.—The executive committee of the United Textile Workers of America protested the recent wage cut of the mill men. The members called the reduction "premature." In addition they said, in their resolutions: "The council reaffirms its previously expressed opinion that curtailment in wages is not the best remedy for the present condition of this industry."

The committee voted to increase the per capita tax from 10 to 15 cents per member per quarter, commencing June 30, 1908. This matter was settled by a rather close vote. Four of the local unions had voted against the proposition, the weavers, carders, slasher tenders and loomfixers' unions.

The strike of carpet weavers of Lowell was discussed. It was voted to continue this strike and to have the special assessment continued upon all of the unions affiliated with the national organization.

Shipwrecked Survivors Sent Home

Boston, March 18.—Thirty-two British citizens, who had been in three recent shipwrecks, were sent to Yarmouth, N. S., on steamship Prince Arthur by the British consul. The party included seven of the crew of the brig James Daly, twenty-one men and one woman taken off the wrecked steamer Beta and three of the crew of the wrecked schooner Marjorie J. Sumner. The survivors of the Beta and Sumner wrecks were a second time shipwrecked last Saturday on their way to Boston, when steamer Sylvia went ashore in Vineyard sound.

Superior Court Judge Honored

Boston, March 18.—Nearly all the judges of the superior and supreme benches of the state, with officials of the United States courts and leading attorneys of the state, gave a banquet here last night to Judge Edgar J. Sherman, senior judge of the superior court, to mark the fiftieth anniversary of his admission to the bar. The banquet was under the auspices of the Essex County Bar association.

Liquor Agency Accounts Short

Portland, Me., March 18.—Former City Liquor Agent Peter O'Connor was arrested on complaint of County Attorney Connell, alleging embezzlement to the amount of $2783.36. The arrest was made as a result of the auditing of the accounts for the purpose of endeavoring to find out the cause for the deficiency in the agency accounts. O'Connor gave bail in the sum of $2800.

Proposition to Granite Cutters

Barre, Vt., March 18.—A new proposition respecting the wage scale for granite cutters working in the Barre quarries has been accepted by the cutters and, pending the settlement of minor details in disagreement, seems to forecast an early settlement of the strike. In the main it stipulates that 37½ cents should constitute the minimum wage per hour for cutters.

Poles Are Returning Home

Chicopee, Mass., March 18.—Three hundred Poles, who have been employed in the cotton mills here and at Chicopee Falls, have left for Poland, and others are making arrangements to go. The exodus is due to the short time in the mills. A similar movement is in progress at Holyoke, where a reduction of 10 percent will be made in the cotton mills on March 30.

To Increase Capital Stock

Boston, March 18.—A special meeting of the stockholders of the Boston and Northern and Old Colony Street Railway companies was held here, at which authority was granted for an application for the approval of the issue of $2,000,000 of preferred capital stock. Of the amount $1,250,000 is for the Boston and Northern road and $750,000 for the Old Colony.

Hackenschmidt Makes Good

Boston, March 18.—George Hackenschmidt, the Russian wrestler, defeated three men here last night. In the first event he defeated Perelli in four and a half minutes. Next he got the better of Albert Auvery, who claims to be champion of France, in three minutes. Hackenschmidt disposed of Emil Stegemiller in four minutes.

GREAT PANIC STARTED

Nerves of the People of Port au Prince Are "on Edge"

BRITISH CRUISER'S SALUTE

Sent Officers, Soldiers and Citizens Scurrying About the City--Foreigners In No Present Danger--Foreign Powers May Take Action

Port au Prince, March 18.—The British cruiser Indefatigable and the German cruiser Bremen have arrived here under orders from their governments to give full protection to any foreign residents in Port au Prince, in case their lives or interests are threatened. An American warship is expected to arrive here at any moment.

At present the city is quiet, but there is an underlying current of anxiety, as evidenced by the fact that a veritable panic was caused by the booming of a heavy gun on the British cruiser when she came to anchor in the port.

The Indefatigable announced her arrival by three cannon shots, and the detonations almost terrorized the people. Surprised by the sudden alarm, officers and soldiers alike rushed precipitately to their posts. Women and children ran about hither and thither, in seeming despair, crying hysterically, and it was some little time before they could be reassured and calm restored.

Positive denial is made by the Haytien officials of the report that other executions have taken place than those on Sunday morning, when ten or twelve conspirators found, according to the government's statement, with arms and munitions for revolutionary purposes in their possession, were shot to death.

Under a decision taken by the council of ministers, the government has authorized the sending on board the warships and out of the country the authors of the last insurrection who have taken refuge at the French, German and Spanish consulates at Gonaives.

The government reserves for itself, however, the right to prosecute before properly appointed courts any persons who hereafter are implicated in uprisings, this action on the government's part being conditional on the representatives of the foreign nations agreeing not to give asylum in their respective consulates in case of further revolutionary movements being attempted. This measure of pacification, provided it is carried into effect, would contribute greatly to putting an end to agitations.

General Celestin, the minister of war, has returned to Port au Prince at the head of his troops, after having put down the revolutionists at Gonaives. He made a statement in which he denied absolutely that the government entertained hostile sentiments toward foreigners. President Alexis and his ministers also gave assurances of the utmost good feeling towards all foreigners who were pursuing their duties peacefully in Hayti.

While conditions have been disturbed here for a considerable length of time, reaching their climax during the last week, there appears to be no present danger to foreigners residing here. The great majority of them seem to be attending to their business affairs in perfect security, and the president and the government have proclaimed that order will be maintained at whatever cost.

What Foreign Powers May Do

Paris, March 18.—A special dispatch received here from Port au Prince states that the representatives of the foreign powers there have decided that unless there is a rapid settlement of the present crisis they will formulate a demand for the resignation of President Alexis and the formation of a provisional government, to be followed immediately by elections.

Meantime, no further executions will be permitted. Arrangements have been made, continues the dispatch, with the commanders of the German cruiser Bremen and the British cruiser Indefatigable to land marines at a signal from the legations. Minister of War Colestin has brought reinforcements from Gonaives by order of the president and he is manning the town defenses. The presence of the warships appears to have had a salutary effect.

Students Held In $1000 Each

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 18.—All the University of Michigan students arrested in a riot at the Star theatre are at liberty, but fifteen of them had to furnish $1000 bail each. Three students pleaded guilty on a charge of loitering and were fined $4.65 each. Those who gave bail will have their examinations Friday on a charge of rioting.

Taft and Hughes at Irish Banquet

New York, March 18.—Irish valor, beauty and wit were last night the inspiration at the banquet of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, and these virtues were extolled in prose and in verse by Secretary Taft and Governor Hughes, who both received ovations from the 500 persons present.

Stanford Suspends Twelve Students

Stanford University, Cal., March 18.—Twelve students have been suspended by the faculty committee on student affairs of Stanford university as a result of a demonstration in which 300 undergraduates showed their disapproval of the liquor prohibition edict.

WHIPPED IN FIRST ROUND

Burns Makes Short Work of Roche In Championship Fight

Dublin, March 18.—Tommy Burns, the American pugilist, knocked out Jem Roche, the Irish champion, last night in the first round for the heavyweight championship of the world. The men had hardly got into the ring when Burns feinted and put his right over on the side of the head. Roche went down and was counted out. He got up a moment later, apparently unhurt. The men were in the ring one minute and twenty-eight seconds.

The fight was for a purse of $7500, which was put up by a syndicate, of which Richard Croker, the former Tammany leader, was a member, and a side bet of $2500. In addition, Burns had $7000 on himself at odds of 3 to 1. The ringside betting was 7 to 2 on the American.

Pulled Down Old Glory

Galveston, March 18.—When Captain Moore of steamship Howth Head of Belfast, Ire., dressed ship yesterday in honor of St. Patrick he put the green emblem above the Stars and Stripes. This violation of the United States law that requires Old Glory always to be at the top when displayed in an American port was called to Moore's attention by a government inspector, but he bluffly refused to change the flags. Not until an order for the revenue cutter to stand ready and a threat to call the gunboat into service did the Irish skipper yield, and then it was only to haul down the American flag and leave the green one up.

Peasants Blackmailed Duke

Munich, March 18.—The suit brought by Duke Francis Joseph of Bavaria against peasants who recently succeeded in extorting money from him concluded in a verdict for the duke. The court sentenced a peasant named Hofmaier and three others to prison. Hofmaier had inflicted a serious wound upon his horse and accused the duke, who was riding in his automobile, of having collided with his wagon, causing the injury to the horse. A crowd of peasants collected and rather than have trouble with them the duke paid to Hofmaier a sum of money.

Political Speeches In Congress

Washington, March 18.—Praise of President Roosevelt, Secretary Taft and William J. Bryan was heard in the house of representatives during general debate on the pension appropriation bill. Mr. Kennedy of Ohio lauded the president and his policies, as well as Taft, who, he said, would bring glory and prestige to the country as president. The commendation of Bryan came from Mr. James of Kentucky, who predicted that the Nebraskan would be elected president next November.

Shot Policeman and Self

Chicago, March 18.—Edward C. Hefferman, a special police officer, was shot and killed last night, and J. L. Morlin, a bystander, was seriously wounded by Donald Starr, whom the officer had ejected from an elevated railroad station. Starr then shot himself, inflicting a wound which will probably prove fatal.

May Be on a Political Mission

Granted Rebates on Coffee

New York, March 18.—A fine of $1000 was imposed upon the Vermont Central Railroad company by Judge Holt on a plea of guilty to an indictment charging granting of rebates. The rebates were granted on shipments of coffee from Boston to the west.

Strike of Brewery Employes

St. Louis, March 18.—Twenty-four breweries in St. Louis and East St. Louis are almost completely shut down by the walkout of nearly 3500 union brewers, malsters, bottlers, firemen and freight handlers, allied with the brewing interests.

Steamer Totally Wrecked

San Francisco, March 18.—Steamer Pomono was wrecked near Fort Ross yesterday afternoon. All her passengers were saved. The Pomono plies between this city and Eureka, Cal. The Pomono is reported to be a total wreck.

Cigaret Perhaps Caused Tragedy

St. John, March 18.—Mrs. Clara McGuiggan was burned to death and Margaret Hayes was severely burned in a fire which broke out in Mrs. McGuiggan's home in Sheffield street. It is believed that a cigaret caused the fire.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

NEIGHBORING.

The Ladies' Library association of Randolph voted recently to join the General Federation of Women's clubs.

Mrs. Rufus P. Williams of the General Federation who spoke so interestingly at the health meeting of Norfolk County clubs on March 4th at the Quincy Women's club, has had introduced by Senator Crane in the Senate a resolution which provides for a special appropriation of $600,000 for the purpose of investigation and treatment of tuberculosis. Favorable action on the bill is anticipated.

Teachers, the superintendent of schools and pupils of the eighth and ninth grades, were guests on Monday afternoon of the Watertown Woman's club, when Philip W. Ayres gave a lecture on "The Picturesque Wilderness Beyond the White Mountains," illustrated by stereopticon.

Mrs. Margaret Deland spoke on "Gardening in Nature and Human Nature" before the Brockton Woman's club on Monday.

Several clubs are already holding their annual elections.

A brilliant and representative audience of the presidents of the clubs of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs accepted the invitation of the Dorchester Woman's Club for its annual "Presidents' Day" on the afternoon of March 10, at its clubhouse. A musical programme was offered by the Schubert Male quartette and the choral class of eighty voices, under Mrs. Martha Dana Shephard, repeated some of the music given at its recent concert. Mrs. Whitcher, the club's president, welcomed the club's guests and business was suspended during the afternoon. At the conclusion of the musicale, the president and officers of the club received in the west parlor, and then guests were taken directly to the tea room.

Tuberculosis Classes in Boston.

A movement has recently been started in Boston which bids fair to be of very great help in solving the tuberculosis problem. This is the formation of so-called tuberculosis classes. No feature of this subject is more striking than this, that under present conditions, which are very likely to hold good for the next ten or twenty years, not more than ten per cent of all consumptives can go to hospitals or sanatoria for the simple reason that there are not beds enough to hold them. The great mass of consumptives must be taught how to live and must be treated in their own homes or not at all. How to do this in a practical, economical and efficient way is one of the greatest problems which lies before each medical community. These tuberculosis classes are helping to solve this problem.

A tuberculosis class consists of a group of consumptives who can live at home and attend strictly to the business of getting well. A large degree of intelligence is not needed; a large amount of money is not necessary. The great requisites are courage, backbone, and a determination to get well. Intelligence is a big asset but not a necessary one. Almost any stage of the disease is amendable to class treatment, but to be successful the majority at least must be in such a stage that they improve rather than grow worse under careful treatment. The motto of every such class or group of consumptives should be "a large amount of care for a small number of patients." The limit of each class should be 25; detailed personal care cannot be given to a larger number than this. If need arises a new group or class can be formed.

Guarantee of World's Peace

The Herald prints the following dispatch from Tokio:

When the official route of the American battleship fleet on its return to the Atlantic was conveyed to the foreign office today, Baron Salto, minister marine, repeated Japan's desire that the fleet would visit a Japanese port in order to enable a practical demonstration of the sincerity of Japan's friendship for the United States and the American people. At the foreign office today it was said:

"The decision of the American government to send the fleet on a tour of the world should finally silence all war talk. It is a guarantee of the peace of the world."

Military and naval officers are unanimous in pronouncing the proposed tour as one of the greatest achievements of history.

EDITORIAL.

Nothing more conclusive is needed than the report of the port of Boston for February, to convince anyone that something should be done to revive foreign shipping in American bottoms. The report shows that not one American steamer, and not one American ship arrived at Boston from a foreign port during the month, and only one bark and one schooner, a grand total of two, as compared with six in February 1907. The foreign shipping is not on the decrease, because 80 vessels (American and foreign) arrived in February against 71 in February 1907. But the gain was wholly in foreign bottoms and in tonnage by foreign bottoms.

In coastwise trade it is different, because the United States favors American bottoms. In February there arrived in Boston from United States ports to the south, 377 vessels, an increase of 33 over February 1907. And during the same time from United States ports to the north 140 vessels, a decrease of 22. In all 517 vessels engaged in the coastwise trade arrived against 506 in Feb. 1907. For January and February the totals were 1,221 against 1,200 in the same months of 1907.

Suppose we should see upon the Quincy streets during the month only 2 one-horse Quincy grocery teams, but did see 78 four-horse Boston grocery teams. Probably as many groceries would be consumed in Quincy as now, but what would become of the local business? All business would be driven out of Quincy. American built ships do not have the protection of the United States, so they are driven from the foreign seas.

Served Him Right

Officer Thorne was called to the house of Matthew Doyle at 26 Lawrence street, Tuesday evening, to quell a drunken disturbance. He found that Doyle had been celebrating, and coming home drunk had started in to abuse his wife. He had her down and was choking her when she to defend herself struck him over the head with a plate. Three times she struck him, each time making a cut. This was enough for Doyle, and when taken to the police station he was bleeding profusely. Dr. Hallowell the City Physician, was called and sewed up the cuts. Doyle was arraigned in court.

Funeral of F. A. Claflin.

The funeral of Frederick A. Claflin, formerly of Quincy, was held Tuesday afternoon from the residence of his brother James A. Claflin, on Elmwood avenue, Wollaston. The services were conducted by Rev. Daniel M. Wilson of Northfield. During the services the Weber quartette sang, "Lead Kindly Light," "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," and "Heavenly Father, Hear Us." After the services the remains were taken to Forest Hills for cremation.

The Observations In the Daily Walk

Mrs. Edith Everett of Revere road is in New York at the present time.

A sugar snow was falling this afternoon when the Daily Ledger went to press.

An evening with Charles D. Kellogg, the naturalist, at the Wollaston Baptist church tonight.

The tournament for the golf championship of the Massachusetts Golf Association will be held at the Wollaston links June 17 to 20.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Presbyterian church, will give a social and tea in the vestry of the church on Friday evening.

Rev. N. J. Sproul of the Water Street Presbyterian church delivered one of the nine 10-minute addresses at the sixth annual meeting of the Federation of Men's Clubs which met at the Old South church, Boston. Victor J. Loring of Wellesley is the new president.

The ladies of the M. E. church at Wollaston had a very successful sale on Tuesday afternoon, followed by a supper of salads, meats, etc., which gave good satisfaction. There was a pleasing entertainment which included readings by a young lady from the Emerson College, who was recalled several times; and piano selections by Miss Ethel and Master Harry Smith. The attendance was larger than expected.

"If He Stood Right On Submarines"

Vice President Lawrence Spear, of the Electric Boat Company, was the principal witness on Tuesday before the Lilley submarine boat inquiry committee, says a Washington dispatch to the Herald.

Representative Hobson of Alabama testified several days ago that Mr. Spear informed him that this company would use its influence with the speaker to have him placed on the naval committee if he "stood right on submarines."

Mr. Lilley has filed with the committee an unsigned communication received from Philadelphia stating that "William Dulles of New York city and Robert McA. Floyd of Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., both formerly directors of the Electric boat company, resigned because of the amount used for corruption or for which they would make no accounting."

Mr. Spear said that he was one of the vice-presidents and the naval constructor of the company. He is a graduate of the naval academy, having served in the construction corps. He relieved Mr. Hobson in charge of the school of naval architecture at Annapolis. He resigned from the naval service July 1, 1902, and immediately entered the service of the submarine boat company.

Mr. Spear said that the last time he had seen Mr. Hobson was at the capitol a month or six weeks ago. He had gone to see him, he said, at the instance of Vice President Frost of the Electric Boat Company to give him a friendly warning against another man who was trying to influence submarine boat legislation.

Mr. Spear denied that he had told Representative Hobson that he would use his influence with Speaker Cannon to have Hobson appointed on the naval affairs committee, provided he was "right" on submarines. Mr. Spear admitted he had told Mr. Hobson's secretary that he would assist Hobson in any way he could.

Ben Hur Attracting Large Crowds.

The Scenic management is indeed to be congratulated upon having secured as an additional Lenten attraction, J. H. and E. B. Josselyn's magnificent moving glass scenes of the beautiful, realistic story of Ben Hur, which is attracting large crowds nightly. Mr. Josselyn, who has been before the American public for 27 years, and who invented the machine that projects these life-like views upon the screen, having worked upon it for a whole year before perfecting it, tells the soul-stirring story of Ben Hur in a most interesting manner, his method of delivery at once attracting and retaining the attention of his audience, and his description and the moving scenes of the great chariot race are very exciting.

Mrs. Josselyn last evening threw upon the screen a reproduction of a photo which she took of the thousands of children that witnessed Ben Hur at Taunton on last Saturday afternoon, after the week's performance at the Scenic there, and it is proposed to take a photo of the children who attend next Saturday's matinee at the Scenic here, after the show is over, providing the weather permits.

AMONG THE CLUBS

The Fragment society will hold an all day box luncheon meeting on Wednesday, March 25th, from ten until three, in the parlor of First church.

The neighborhood meeting and conence of Alliance workers of the Wollaston Alliance is to be held on April first and will be a large meeting.

Much to the regret of the club members in this vicinity the lecture course at Tremont Temple, Boston, by Prof. Edward Howard Griggs is drawing to an end as this week Saturday is the last but one. "Amiel: a modern Hamlet in Personal Life" is the subject of the lecture, and for the last one "Goethe."

For the Alliance meeting on Monday afternoon in the parlor of First church, "Tolstoi as a Social Reformer" will be the subject of a paper by Mrs. Otho A. Hayward, and a large gathering of Mrs. Hayward's friends is anticipated as she is sure to present something well worth hearing.

The Junior Friday club resumed routine work on Monday afternoon at the home of Miss Clara L. Baxter, Greenleaf street, continuing the study of Florence: early renaissance and painters 1400-1600, with Mrs. Dowst as chairman of the afternoon. After the frolic of Saturday when the club observed its tenth anniversary it was hard to settle down to regular club work again but the club members are good workers and good players and are equal to whatever comes to hand to do. Four more meetings bring the season to a close.

Mrs. Zenas S. Arnold entertained the Friday club last week at her home on Coddington street, Mrs. Saville the hostess scheduled for that date being unable to have the club. The afternoon was given up to a discussion of Florentine artists and many fine photographs were used in illustration. The meeting next week will be with Mrs. George W. Morton of Spear street with Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick in charge of the program with "Florence of Today" as the subject. Life of the people and the status of women will be considered.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

The art exhibit at the Quincy Women's Club, on Tuesday afternoon by the Art and Literature Committee called together a group of ladies qualified to discuss the subject and appreciate the exhibition of fine miniatures and silhouettes and the delightful story of portrait miniatures as given by a gifted member, Mrs. Robert E. Park of Wollaston. The number present was larger than had been expected when consideration had been given to the matter, yet it is to be regretted that more failed to avail themselves of the unusual opportunity, as the loaned collection can rarely be duplicated here. Mrs. George G. Saville presided over the meeting and after a few announcements had been made, presented Mrs. Frank A. Page of Wollaston, who gave "The Erlking" by Schubert and "The Woodlands" by Franz. She was accompanied on the piano by Miss Florence Olney of Wollaston. Both artists are favorites and the beautiful selections were highly appreciated.

The speaker of the afternoon is newly made known to the people here by her writings, her paintings and her parlor talks but there is no lack in appreciation of these presentations. Her work is always careful and her researches long and thorough and yet she hides all this work completely from the people and gives result modestly, lightly and entertainingly so that each one feels as if she had spent a pleasant afternoon alone with her at home in a most charming manner.

In introducing her subject, Mrs. Park said: "Out of the marriage of Art and Love was born the Miniature" remarks an early writer: this picturesque statement delighted my fancy and I thought that I would like to find out more about the early antecedents of the miniature. As a matter of fact, I found out that the writer was somewhat in error when he made that statement. The cloister was the cradle of the art; for miniature painting tooks its rise from the art of illuminating and one might say it was fathered by the church and mothered by the innate love of variety and of creation which one calls the artistic impulse. Amid the long rows of monks, patiently illuminating the holy books and parchments, this wayward impulse, entering, found its first victim. There must have been a first time when some holy brother, wooed by the spring air or the rustle of the leaves or both, turned aside from the formal copy and drew a little saint within the charmed circle of his initial letter. Many of the paintings are tiny portraits of brother friars and were done, only with more care, in much the same spirit that youth now shows when it vents its artistic spirit in studies of the teacher on the copy books. Whether this first one had praise or blame we do not know, but we know that here in the cloister the art sprang up and the word miniature did not in the first place mean little, but was derived from the word minium, signifying vermillion, the color which was used most in illuminating capital letters.

Later tiny conventional portraits of the sovereigns and ruling powers became the fashion on the title pages of letters patent or on Charters, and there is a complete series, beginning with Charles the Second of the monarchs of England on such parchments.

In 1543 an unknown artist illuminated the Treaty of Perpetual Peace between France and England and the portrait of Henry the Eighth was unexpectedly life-like, with his fat face and obstinate expression.

Mrs. Park traced the development of the miniature, its varied uses and forms, its fragility, the havoc made by sun, damp and heat upon it, called attention to the famous collections and in telling of one and another of the miniature painters gave an excellent idea of his or her specialty and told many an interesting story. She traced the miniature to the present day and said finally. "One cannot tell stories and romances about living miniaturists, so, as we have an opportunity to form our opinion of these charming portraits and to meet and know the living painters, I will merely call your attention to that which you must all have noticed that the technique of the miniature has changed and broadened until it has now often the effect of a spirited water color drawing on ivory or card. It is true that many of Cosway's miniatures were done in a very rapid, sketchy style but the elder miniature is quite the reverse with its overlayers of tiny lines." She called attention to an exhibition now being held in Boston and to special portraits shown in the rooms also to valuable reproduction in a book on the miniature, owned and loaned for the day by Mrs. Saville.

Tea was served and the company passed a very social and enjoyable hour together. Mrs. W. G. A. Pattee and Miss Elsie Russell poured chocolate, assisted by members of the art committee. Among the guests present were Mrs. Robert M. Morse, President of the Jamaica Plain Tuesday club, the guest of Mrs. Everett C. Bumpus, and a member of the Friday club of Everett, guest of Mrs. Williams Ward Whitcher.

On March 24th the club will be addressed by Oscar Frank Stetson of Sutton, Mass. His subject will be "Children of the Old World, in the New;" and has to do with the large, foreign element, which every year is added to us in ever increasing numbers. Mr. Stetson has made a close study of the important question of how these foreigners shall be treated and what is our duty towards them, etc. He knows what he is talking about, and further he has been brought into personal relations with some of our foreign friends and tells his experience most delightfully.

His lecture is not a dry list of facts and statistics, but a pleasant talk, which yet, has in it, significant and pertinent suggestions. The lecture has been given most successfully in other places and it is hoped that our club members will give Mr. Stetson a full house, and a cordial welcome when he comes to speak, on a subject, so very timely and important.

Club poets are invited to send in to the president poems which would be suitable for the club to adopt as a club song. Already one very good one has been contributed and doubtless those of the ready pen and quick brain will respond at an early date.

Millinery classes have been formed by the Arts and Crafts committee, which meet at the club house on Friday afternoons.

The program committee is already at work on next year's program and some good results are sure to follow as there are rumors of dramatics, well known lecturers, entertainments, etc.,being arranged by Miss Edith Randall, chairman of the committee.

The Civic committee has plans for observing Arbor Day by considerable tree planting on some of the streets. They are also making a study of the stamp saving system of school children. A cleaner city also came up for discussion, the keeping of the streets free from paper and litter.

DAUGHTERS OF THE REVOLUTION.

As usual a large and harmonious annual meeting of the State Society of the Daughters of the Revolution, was held March 17th at Tremont Temple, Boston. Officers elected were: Regent, Mrs. Alice M. Granger; vice-regent, Mrs. Susan A. Viles; recording secretary, Mrs. Mabel L. Priest; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Alma F. Goss; treasurer, Mrs. Eleanor B. Wheeler; registrar, Miss Mary A. Todd; historian Mrs. Helen M. Burton; librarian, Mrs. Martha E. Austin; councillors, Mrs. Estella H. Weston, Mrs. Grace D. Snow, Mrs. Roxa K. Stover and Miss Maria R. Wheeler. Delegates were elected to attend the annual meeting of the National society in New York beginning April 28th.

Considerable interest was shown the restoration of the Paul Revere house and the society voted to assist in the work by raising funds to resore the Paul Revere room in the second story of the building. The room will be entirely done over, panelled walls, floor, ceiling etc. and put back into its original shape and then furnished, the cost being several hundred dollars. Mrs. Granger, Mrs. Priest, Mrs. Wheeler and Mrs. Nellie M. Farmer were elected a committee for the work, Mrs. Farmer to be treasurer of the fund. So much enthusiasm was arroused that money was paid in at the meeting and more pledged. It is hoped every Daughter will feel that she has a share in the room and will contribute at least fifty cents.

NEIGHBORING.

The Brockton Woman's club has subscribed $400 to the Massachusetts Federation of Women's clubs fund for the entertainment of the biennial convention of the national federation in Boston in June.

Pleasing Entertainment

The large audience which attended the concert at the Park and Downs church on Tuesday evening was delighted with the program presented by the D. O. club. The Quincy Y. M. C. A. Mandolin and Guitar club was at its best, and on some occasions more than one encore was given. Prof. Osgood was down for four numbers on the program and as usual had something new, bright and entertaining. The mandolin solo by Herbert A. Cassidy was one of the features of the evening.

TODAY'S COURT.

Matthew Doyle was fined $15, and Joseph Barry $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Kitatan Berlinsky was arraigned for breaking and entering at Weymouth. He was held in $2,000 for the grand jury. The complaint against him for being a vagabond at Quincy was placed on file.

OLDEST GENERAL

Among Speakers At Norfolk County Convention of The Grand Army

The afternoon meeting of the Norfolk County Association of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. in the chapel of the First church on Wednesday was a rousing gathering, full to overflowing with enthusiasm. Waldo Turner of East Weymouth, president of the association, presided and there were several speakers. After a few words of welcome, Rev. N. J. Sproul was called upon to open the meeting with prayer.

Comrade Dunbar of Hyde Park then presided at the piano, and the audience which completely filled the chapel arose and united in singing "America." This national hymn was sung with an enthusiasm seldom equalled, and as the words rolled out they completely filled the edifice, seeking out every corner and crevice.

Mayor William T. Shea was then introduced and welcomed the associations to Quincy. He said that he considered it one of the greatest honors to welcome such a gathering of men who had responded at the call ready to lay down their lives. The city feels proud to have you here. When we meet a veteran on the street we cannot help feeling love and respect for him. Our own Post has felt that Quincy has not a proper soldiers monument, and steps have been taken to erect one. The city has set apart a site for the monument, and he would say that if there was any way that he could further the object he would gladly do so. He was present simply to say that the city feels proud to have you here, and I want you to take this sentiment home with you when you leave here today: God speed the members of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Department Commander Rowe of Worcester was then introduced. He said we are today near the temple of the Adams family. England has its Westminister, but Quincy has its Adams temple. Is there a place in America or abroad that approaches this structure. He objected to the location of a soldiers monument in a cemetery. He would place among the living and not with the dead, where our children can see what marks the memory of their ancestors. If he were to select a site he would say let it be yonder near the place where sleep two of the greatest men this country ever knew. We go to cemeteries to place flowers, but he loved to see monuments that spoke for the dead among the living and in the heart of things.

Only one of the forty Governors of Massachusetts were born in Norfolk County, but no other country in the state or country can say,—"we have had a father and son a President." He then spoke of the long line of Adams, the Quincys, Dr. William Everett, Col. Paul J. Revere and of Francis Souther, the first Quincy boy to lay down his life in the war of '61 He also paid a tribute to the late Henry H. Favon.

The next number of the program was a reading by Mrs. George Blaisdell, after which the Boys' quartette of Post 58 sang a selection. This quartette is composed of gray haired veterans led by Andy Bicknell, and they sang a soul stirring selection the chorus of which was:

We are the boys, the gay old boys,
Who marched in '61,
We never forget, old times my boys,
When you and I were young.

For an encore they sang a melody of patriotic air closing with "The Star Spangled Banner" during the singing of which the audience rose and joined in the chorus.

At this point it was announced that the next meeting would he held June 17, at Hyde Park.

Senior Vice Department Commander John L. Parker of Lynn, said he loved to talk to the boys who fought in the Grand Army; to the girls of those days who loved those boys, and whose love had grown stronger and stronger. He also loved to attend these meetings. He had never found any absence of enthusiasm in Grand Army meetings.

No organization has the record for fraternity and charity that the Grand Army has. The love of one comrade for another is stronger and more enduring than in any other association he knew of. But for the loyalty of the ladies the work of the Grand Army would be much harder. Our work will never be done until the last comrade has laid down his life.

The presiding officer said that the last speaker was the author of many of the Grand Army songs sung at camp fires.

Assistant Adjutant General Wetherbee was introduced to speak while a collection was being taken. His remarks were full of humor and he told many stories in which well known comrades were the butt. Seriously, he said, we want no sheet iron casting about us. We want to have our hearts open all of the time, to cheer and relieve the needs of comrades. We have been doing this for years and our own lives have been made happier by the ladies of the Women's Relief Corps who have done so much for us.

Headquarters were open at all times, and comrades were always welcome. Not because of the good we may do you, but for the good you do us. Let us keep on with our work cheering the boys who are going over. Get together. Do not be despondent because we are to all meet those gone before soon. Do as we did in the army—drop a tear, and go on.

Walter E. Loud the well known violinist and son of Past Commander Francis P. Loud, gave a violin solo, responding to an enthusiastic encore.

Past Department President Mrs. Agnes S. Parker, known as the mother of the Womens' Relief Corps, and who was also the organizer of the Quincy Corps, received an enthusiastic welcome.

She said she came to tell them how

Sickness of Governor Guild Has Reached Critical Stage

HAS RHEUMATISM AND GRIP

Consultation of Physicians Shows Bay State's Chief Executive to Be In Serious Condition--Announcement Entirely Unexpected

Boston, March 19.—Governor Guild, who has been ill two weeks, is in a critical condition. His physician, Dr. Frederick D. Winslow, found the governor so seriously ill late yesterday that it was decided to call two other physicians into consultation, and Drs. F. C. Shattuck and E. P. Joslin were summoned. The two physicians agreed with Winslow that the governor was seriously ill and in a critical condition.

Attorney General Malone remained at the governor's residence last night. When asked as to the exact condition of Guild he said that he was suffering from a complication of diseases.

Governor Guild's last public appearance was on the evening of March 3, when he delivered an address at the annual dinner of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, at which Secretary of War Taft was present. Soon afterward the governor was obliged to absent himself from the state house. His physician found that he was suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism and the grip. The grip greatly weakened him and his condition was further threatened by loss of sleep due to severe rheumatic pains.

On Tuesday his condition showed some improvement, which appeared to be fully maintained yesterday morning. As the day proceeded, however, it became evident to his physician that the governor's condition was less favorable. An examination showed that he was critically ill and it was decided to call in Shattuck and Joslin. Their diagnoses confirmed the report of Winslow.

It is stated that all hope has not been abandoned and that a fatal termination of the governor's illness is not looked for within the next twelve hours.

Dr. Winslow has been in constant attendance, while a nurse has watched the governor day and night. While the reports of the governor's condition have been uniformly good, yet the private information of the governor's close friends at the state house has been that the attending physician has been anxiously watching lest complications affecting the heart make the condition of Guild most serious.

While the governor has been sick Lieutenant Governor Draper has been acting governor and has signed those measures requiring executive approval.

The announcement that Guild's condition had become critical was a severe shock to his relatives, friends and state officers. It had been generally supposed that the governor was making fair progress toward recovery, and it was not known that any serious developments would occur.

Discussion Took Wide Range

Washington, March 19.—General debate on the pension appropriation bill continued for over four hours in the house of representatives yesterday. Politics, finance, the trusts and the president's last special message all received attention. Mr. Mouser (O.) predicted the election of Taft for president, while Mr. Hill (Tenn.), in an arraignment of the Republican party, appeared equally confident that Bryan would be the successful candidate.

Physician Must Examine Boxers

Philadelphia, March 19.—Following the death of William Robinson, who was killed by a blow while boxing with Charles Wolfe at the Bijou theatre here, Director of Public Safety Clay has issued orders to the police to permit no man to participate in any boxing contest or tournament in this city without first having been carefully examined by a physician.

Iowa Delegates For Taft

Des Moines, March 19.—The Republican state convention elected delegates-at-large to the national convention, instructed them to vote for W. H. Taft for presidential nominee, endorsed Senator Allison for re-election, approved the plank of the Ohio platform calling for a revision of the tariff at a special session of congress and adjourned.

Said to Owe a Million

New York, March 19.—Against A. & M. Levy, manufacturers of silk ribbons, of this city, with two factories in Paterson, N. J., a petition in bankruptcy was filed in which Peter Alexander was appointed receiver. Liabilities are said to be $1,100,000, nominal assets $1,500,000 and actual assets estimated at $750,000 to $800,000.

$5000 Verdict In Forge Case

The jury in the U. S. Circuit Court brought in a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $5,000, Wednesday afternoon in the case of Selma T. Hagg vs. the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. This was an action under the Employers Liability Act for injuries to the husband of the plaintiff which caused his death, and which resulted from an explosion of a hollow shaft which was being beated in the forge of the company June 12, 1907. The jury accompanied by Judge Dodge visited the scene of the accident March 12 and since that time the trial of the case has been going on. The verdict awarded was the highest amount possible under the statute. Asa P. French, U. S. District Attorney, was senior counsel, and George E. Adams of Quincy was junior counsel for the plaintiff, while the defendant was represented by John Lowell and James Lowell.

For Completion Of the Parkway

While the Legislature is not in favor of any new Metropolitan parkways, Representative Hultman is in hopes to provide for the completion of the Furnace Brook parkway through Quincy. He appeared before the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs this morning at the State House, and presented the claims of Quincy. He also submitted a bill which provides for the appropriation of $500,000 to complete the work in Quincy, Winchester, Woburn, Revere and Lynn.

Rev. Dr. Hudson To Discuss Mormonism

It is with considerable regret that the Men's Club of the Wollaston M. E. church learned today that ex-Congressman Powers was unable to fulfil his engagement tonight, having been called to New York, suddenly yesterday, and being unable to return before Friday.

He was able however to secure a substitute whom he says will be more entertaining, his pastor at Newton, the Rev. Dr. A. L. Hudson of the Channing church. Dr. Hudson's subject will be "Mormonism."

Ex-Congressman Powers promises to address the club at a later date.

Grand Army Veteran Dead

Word was received this noon of the death this morning at the Soldiers Home at Chelsea, of Abel Nutting of Quincy. Mr. Nutting has been a sufferer from cancer for several years, and for the past year he has failed rapidly. Some months ago he went to the Soldiers Home. In his younger days he was engaged in the granite business, but has followed no regular trade for years. He was at one time an assistant assessor. He possessed an inventative brain and perfected a number of articles. He claimed to have invented the rotary snow plow such as used on western roads. He served his country faithfully during the Civil war. He was a widower and a member of Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R.

Illegal Transfer.

Michael O'Brien, a janitor in the City Hall at Fall River, pleaded guilty in the district court of that city, Friday, to a charge of using street car transfers illegally, brought by the Old Colony Street Railway Co. As this was the first charge of the kind ever brought for the company there was no disposition on its part to push the case and the leniency of the court was asked for by the company's counsel. The case was therefore placed on file upon payment of costs. O'Brien had been in the habit of using transfers daily issued to another janitor of the City Hall who secured it on his way to his home.

Resolution Regarding Jackson Before New York Legislature

THE CONDUCT OF HIS OFFICE

Saxe Wants It Looked Into, With Special Reference to Receiverships of Banks and Trust Companies—Attorney General Welcomes Inquiry

Albany, March 19.—A sensational feature in the legislature was the introduction by Senator Saxe of New York in the senate of a concurrent resolution providing for legislative investigation of the conduct of the office of the attorney general of the state during the administration of the present incumbent, William S. Jackson of Buffalo, especially with reference to receiverships of banks and trust companies. Jackson was elected on the Democratic-Independence League ticket in November, 1906, and has been in office since Jan. 1, 1907.

The general impression about the capitol is that the resolution will be adopted and the investigation instituted. The committee would consist, under the terms of the resolution, of three senators and five assemblymen, to be appointed by the president pro tem of the senate and the speaker of the assembly respectively.

The committee is empowered by the resolution to enforce attendance of witnesses, and its duty would be to investigate the charges extensively set forth in the preamble "and all charges which have been made in the courts of justice and public press and all matters that may come to the attention of the committee when appointed to the discredit of the administration of the attorney general's office."

The resolution would require that "the said committee report to the legislature as soon as practicable what amendments or modifications of the law relating to the office of attorney general should be made by the legislature whereby the commission of any abuses which may be found to have been committed or other similar abuses may be prevented, and also to report whether such charges or any of them are true."

What Jackson Says

New York, March 19.—Attorney General Jackson says that he would welcome an investigation of his office. He gave out a copy of a letter that he wrote on Jan. 21 last to Senator Saxe, who introduced at Albany the resolution calling for an inquiry into the conduct of the attorney general's office. The letter had no bearing on the issues raised by the resolution, except as it showed that there had been a tilt between the parties to the correspondence. Of his action in connection with suspended banking institutions, Jackson said:

"Not one bank closed which did not do so of its own accord. Where I thought the banks were able to open, I have assisted them. I have conducted no raid on financial institutions. The statutes provide that on the closing of a bank and the report of the superintendent of banks to me, I shall begin an action. On the contrary, I have waited three weeks or a month to allow them time to open before I have gone to the courts to apply for the appointment of receivers.

"No political motives have actuated me, nor have I made any arrangements with persons representing political organizations, as charged in the resolution. Every act of mine has been directly or primarily in the interests of the depositors and directed toward preventing the looting of the institutions. That can be easily demonstrated by legislative inquiry. The receivers I have named have been satisfactory to the depositors."

Frank White, who was formerly first deputy attorney general under Attorney General Jackson and who was appointed by the latter as temporary receiver for the Hamilton bank on Oct. 23 last, and Joseph Ford, formerly private secretary to Jackson and later receiver of the Mechanics and Traders' bank, were before the grand jury late yesterday. Both were questioned by District Attorney Jerome. As to what questions were put to the two men, Jerome would not say and White and Ford were equally reticent.

Fourth Tunnel Completed

New York, March 19.—The last of the four tunnels of the Pennsylvania railroad under the East river was completed last night when the two shields, which for months have approached each other from opposite sides, touched about midway under the river and the tunnel gangs broke down the thin intervening wall of earth and shook hands.

Murderer Not In Consumption

Karlsruhe, March 19.—The statement that Karl Hau, the former professor of George Washington university at Washington, who is serving a life sentence here for the murder of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Molitor, was hopelessly ill of consumption, is unfounded. Hau is in good health and engaged in the usual penitentiary work.

Hughes Reviewing Gillette Case

Utica, N. Y., March 19.—Mrrs. Gillette, mother of the man who is under death sentence for the murder of Grace Brown, says that Governor Hughes has agreed to again read the evidence given in the trial of her son, in view of some statements which the mother made to the governor.

HOBSON REITERATES CHARGE

Insists That Spear Personally Declared Influence With Cannon

Washington, March 19.—Edgar Clarkson, secretary to Representative Hobson, will be called by the submarine investigating committee when its sessions are resumed. Clarkson is expected to contradict the sworn testimony of former Naval Constructor Spear, now vice president and naval architect for the Electric Boat company, in which he denied the truth of the sworn statement of Hobson that he sought out and told Hobson that the Electric Boat company had influence with Speaker Cannon, and that if Hobson "stood right" on submarines, this influence would be brought to bear to secure his assignment to the house committee on naval affairs.

Mr. Hobson made formal written request to the committee to place Clarkson on the stand, the latter's offer to testify having been thrice turned aside by the committee. In an interview Hobson said:

"The statements made by me to the investigating committee were absolutely accurate. Mr. Spear did, after approaching the subject in a roundabout manner, inform my secretary that his company had influence with the speaker and was willing to use that influence to secure my assignment to the naval committee in return for a friendly attitude on my part toward submarines. Clarkson at once acquainted me with Spear's visit and his offer, and subsequently Spear called me on the telephone and repeated to me personally his declaration of influence with the speaker and his offer to use it in my behalf. There is not the slightest possibility for any mistake or misunderstanding on my part as to what Spear did and said and meant."

Harper Resigns Bank Presidency

Washington, March 19.—Robert N. Harper, who was recently convicted on a charge of violating the pure food and drug law, has resigned as president of the American National bank of this city. President Roosevelt had urged a jail sentence for Harper, who formerly manufactured a headache remedy the formula of which brought about the prosecution. Harper says he resigned "owing to the notoriety given the prosecution against me, as well as the subsequent unprecedented action of the chief executive of the United States."

Consumption Kills Noted Terrorist

Geneva, March 19.—Gregory Gerschunin died here from consumption. He spent the last few days of his life in a hospital, after continuing to work against the Russian government until he broke down completely. His friends kept him hidden from the police while he was in Russia, and finally succeeded in transporting him to Geneva, where he lingered only a few days. Gerschunin was one of the most famous of the Russian terrorists and head of the fighting organization during the Sipiaguino and Von Plehve regimes.

National University Proposition

Washington, March 19.—A bill to create a national university at Washington was offered by Representative McKinley (Ills). The measure has the endorsement of the National Association of State University Presidents, the National Educational association and many well known educators. The bill contemplates the creation of a university by the federal government which is to be a department of the government.

Cotton Lockout Is Sidetracked

London, March 19.—The threatened cotton lockout in the Nelson and Colne districts, affecting 30,000 operatives, has been averted at the eleventh hour. The lockout notices, which expired last night, were withdrawn, the employers consenting to meet the representatives of the operatives to arrange the terms of settlement.

Duchess Not Afraid of Danger

Entebbe, Uganda, March 19.—The Duchess of Oosta has arrived here with Susan Hicks-Beach from an adventurous journey across Uganda, after visiting Gondokoro and the Congo. The duchess expressed the desire to go on an elephant shooting expedition, but the government withheld its permission, owing to the danger.

Two Men Fatally Shot by Negro

Jackson, Miss., March 19.—An unknown negro shot and fatally wounded Baxter Burns and Rufus Burns at Burns, Miss. Both are relatives of United States Senator McLaurin. Bloodhounds are in pursuit of the negro.

SOLACE FOR MOURNERS

Court Says It Cannot Be Found Through Medium of Money

Boston, March 19.—"The perpetuation of the human race cannot be termed a voluntary act," says an interesting decision of the supreme court, written by Justice Rugg, setting aside a verdict for damages given by a jury in the superior court and ordering a new trial of the case.

Mrs. Mary Sullivan sued the Old Colony Street Railway company for $20,000, the grounds for the damages being alleged mental suffering by her caused by the death of a child born fourteen months after the accident. The child was born to Mrs. Sullivan July 5, 1906, and died within forty-eight hours. The mother was injured while a passenger on one of the company's cars April 7, 1905.

The jury which tried the case in the superior court awarded Mrs. Sullivan $2100 damages. Counsel for the Old Colony company appealed the case to the supreme court, which decided in their favor.

Judge Rugg in the decision says in part: "Wealth brings no consolation to those who mourn. The grief occasioned by the death of loved ones touches chords in the human soul which lie outside the compass of pecuniary relief. The mental sufferings for which damages can be recovered are limited to those which result to the person injured, the necessary or natural consequence of the physical injury."

Would Cut Telephone Rates

Boston, March 19.—Reduction of the telephone toll rate between the city exchanges and suburban exchanges within a five-mile radius of the business centre of Boston, from 10 cents to 5 cents for a five-minute conversation, a complete appraisal of the property of the New England Telephone and Telegraph company, and a thorough study of telephone traffic are among the recommendations made to the highway commission by Professor Jackson of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, an acknowledged expert in telephone matters.

Bill Killed For Second Time

Boston, March 19.—After a two days' debate, the house sustained the adverse committee report on the so-called public opinion bill, a measure which permits the voters to pass upon matters of public policy and instruct legislative representatives. The vote sustaining the committee was 114 to 88. Last year the bill met a similar fate by a margin of one vote.

Commerce and Industry Board Favors Railroad Merger

BOSTON AND MAINE CONTROL

May Be Undertaken by New Haven Road Under Certain Conditions, Including Joint Use of Docks and Harmonizing of Trolley Service

Boston, March 19.—In its long-anticipated report to the legislature, submitted yesterday afternoon, the commission on commerce and industry decides in favor of stock control of the Boston and Maine railroad by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

This conclusion is the one reached by the three members who constituted the sub-committee to consider transportation matters, namely, Joseph B. Warner, George G. Crocker and Charles F. Adams, representing respectively the law, transportation and capital in the full board.

Minority reports against monopoly in the state's railroad facilities are submitted by the other two commissioners, William L. Douglas and James R. Crozier, representatives respectively of manufactures and labor, the minority members not having discussed the findings with the majority because of Douglas' absence from the state and the recent date of Crozier's appointment to the place made vacant by the shooting of Commissioner Cohen.

As a condition of the merger the report urges that the state insist on reciprocal use of terminals and docks by all three railroad systems converging at Boston. It suggests wherein and to what extent the state should control the merger. It proposes as a means of temporarily removing the New Haven trolley holdings from the situation that the street railways shall be placed in charge of a new company, which shall operate them in harmony, not only with the New Haven, but also with the Boston and Albany railroad.

Explaining the scope of the present report, the commission states that, although its powers allowed any investigation bearing on the future of the industries of the commonwealth, the limitation to the merger and transportation questions was adopted on account of the brevity of time since the appointment of the board and also because other vital matters, notably taxation methods, docks, local transportation and highway improvement and industrial education had already been given to other special commissions.

Even the merger question would have been for the railroad commission to report on, if the New Haven railroad had not declined to take advantage of the act allowing it to bring the question before that board on a question of whether consolidation was in public interest. But the New Haven does not wish consolidation; merely to hold and vote its Boston and Maine stock.

The commerce and industry commission therefore deals only with the merger, and with the regulation of increases of capital by public service corporations, adding a suggestion as to the Boston and Albany lease.

As matters worthy of special investigation, if further time were allowed, it suggests the operation of the corporation laws of the state, laws and conditions affecting labor, the promotion of canals, the applicaton of natural water power to producing electricity, the encouragement of certain new or slightly developed industries, the collection and dissemination of information respecting foreign and domestic trade and commerce, the establishment of a museum or bureau for giving information about the needs of foreign markets, and other similar topics.

Criticism of Findings

Boston, March 19.—The Anti-Merger League, an organization recently formed to oppose such a measure as that suggested by the commisison, has issued a statement criticising the findings of the commission. The league holds that the report of the commission will not be accepted as settling the much-controverted question of the financial condition of the New Haven railroad. The league is particularly severe upon the action of the committee in holding private hearings.

Will Await Legislative Action

New Haven, March 19.—In official circles here of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company there is an indisposition to comment upon the report of the Massachusetts commission on commerce and industry upon the Boston and Maine merger. The policy of the company, it is stated authoritatively, will be a passive one, awaiting the action of the Massachusetts legislature, which is not looked for very soon.

Smith Will Succeed Whyte

The cruiser will take the revolutionists to St. Thomas.

President Alexis has issued instructions, in the case of six military officers now under arrest on suspicion of being implicated in the recent conspiracy, that, if the facts warrant it, they be taken before a regularly constituted military court for examination.

There are no signs of disturbances throughout the city, the presence of the warships in the harbor allaying the fears of the foreign residents.

MORGAN DRAGGED IN

LaFollette Sees the Financier's Hand In Aldrich Bill

RAILROAD BONDS CUT OUT

Wisconsin Senator Makes Sarcastic Remarks to Chairman of Finance Committee--Mighty Power Organized Beyond the Legislation

Washington, March 18.—"What I have to say is made more pertinent, if possible, by the action taken during the day with respect to the Aldrich bill," said Mr. LaFollette in beginning his speech in the senate on the currency bill yesterday afternoon. His reference was to the amendments made to the bill by the committee on finance.

Senator Aldrich, acting in accordance with a vote of the committee on finance, had announced in the senate the withdrawal of the railroad bond provision of the currency bill. The committee also decided to amend the bill so as to retain the provision of the present law prohibiting the retirement by national banks of more than $9,000,000 of circulation in any one month. The committee discussed the proposition of increasing the taxation of emergency circulation outstanding more than six months. The rate under the bill as it now stands is 6 percent. No action was taken on this feature.

Speaking of the "Morgan and Standard Oil banks," and looking across the chamber toward Senator Aldrich, LaFollette declared: "I will show the connection of these great groups with the bill pending here, notwithstanding the dexterous withdrawal of the proposition to incorporate railway bonds in the bill."

Mr. Aldrich said the most earnest objection to this bill was made by the National City bank of New York. "It is," he added, "not only opposed by that bank, but by all the banks of New York. I have received this morning a statement from the New York Clearing House association saying we would better have no currency legislation at all than have this bill, and stating reasons why we should have an asset currency. I know of no bank or banking man in favor of this bill. The fact is, the banks throughout the country are against it, and the senator from Wisconsin has studied this situation to little effect if he has failed to learn that."

"I will inquire," retorted LaFollette, "what the position of Morgan is?" There was a chorus of laughter in the galleries.

"I do not know," replied Aldrich, "but I know Mr. Morgan is a man of wide experience and wise judgment and has patriotism, and I should feel gratified if he approved this bill."

"Perhaps," replied LaFollette, in a tone of sarcasm, "in some way the chairman of the finance committee will be able to find out where Morgan stands. His countenance beaming from the gallery of this chamber while the senator from Rhode Island spoke on this measure rather indicated that Morgan, the head of one of these great groups, was not entirely adverse to the propositions embraced in the bill.

"I suppose," said Aldrich, "the senator from Wisconsin will agree with me that this proposition should be discussed on its merits as to what it will do, and not in view of what men in the position of Morgan think of it."

"Let me say," LaFollette replied, 'you cannot always tell from the lines of the bill. I should say the proposition to withdraw the provision to incorporate railway bonds in this bill throws a flood of light upon the purpose of this legislation. Let me say to the senator from Rhode Island further, that it is not beyond question that these great organizations might put out here or there criticisms of this proposition to give color to the idea that there is no great and mighty power organized beyond this legislation."

After talking for two and a half hours LaFollette found himself unable to continue further and suspended his remarks until today. He was soon surrounded by senators extending their congratulations, most of them being from the Democratic side.

"Rank Favoritism" Charged

Washington, March 18.—Claiming that there was ample money in the treasury to do the legitimate business of the country, Mr. Prince (Ills.), in the house of representatives, referring to the Aldrich financial bill, said he was "opposed to temporary or makeshift currency legislation." He called attention to the fact that 395 banks of Illinois on Dec. 31 last had about $13,000,000 of government money on deposit, but said he was amazed that "one single, solitary Standard Oil bank" in New York city had at that time on deposit over $17,000,000 of public money. He charged "rank favoritism."

A Lift For the Unemployed

Philadelphia, March 18.—Mayor Reyburn announces that immediate steps will be taken to borrow $9,000,000 to put under way municipal improvements which will give work to the city's unemployed. It is thought the money can be raised in about fifteen days.

A waste paper receptacle has been placed on the corner of Walker street and Newbury avenue ,and it is hoped that its help will be manifest in its contents. Gymnastic Exhibition

The exhibition of the Gymnastic class of Quincy Mansion school, on Monday evening, attracted a company of friends from far and near. The Class showed great precision and proficiency in dumb bell, in jumping and in club swinging exercises. The marches, led by the Misses Spafford, were very pleasing. A waltz by Rachel Drinker of Quincy was exceedingly graceful and spirited and her crossing on the bar elicted great enthusiasm. Mrs. Clark, the teacher, said that usually only men could accomplish this difficult over hand crossing but that Miss Drinker could do perfect work. The club swinging by Miss Louise Drake was wonderful in its accuracy and beauty. Dr. Tuckerman of Amherst, who was present, said that although he had just returned from the Harvard—Amherst meet, he had never seen club swinging equal to Miss Drake's.

Whist and Billiards The Attractions

Enthusiasm ran high at the whist tournament of the Granite City club Wednesday evening and the contest for the highest percent was a keen one among the players at the eight tables. Play was started at 8.30 and nearly two hours was consumed in playing the twenty-five hands. There were several who secured over sixty per cent but Frank W. White and Charles C. Hearn led with 68 plus each.

After the play salmon salad, home made tarts, hot coffee, crackers and cheese were served.

While the whist tournament was in progress a close billiard tournament game was played between Herman F. McIntire and Shirley F. Nutting. Mr. McIntire's stunt was to secure 120 points while Mr. Nutting made 150. The game was a close one at the finish. Nutting had 149 points to his credit when he missed. McIntire then ran out the game. Eugene W. O'Connor refereed the game in his usual thorough and impartial manner.

The committee in charge of the billard tournament announces that there will be an exhibition game at the club rooms next Tuesday evening between Mr. Yatter and other players of Boston. John W. Bell who is looked upon as the club's best player may also play a match with one of the professionals.

Grand Army Convention

glad she was to see them. Was glad to see and greet so many old friends. She felt better than she looked, as she had been ill. She had always favored county associations, believing they could do better work than state meetings. Every county should have its representation in the state committee. She was present when the Norfolk County Association was formed and always attended meetings when possible.

Rev. N. J. Sproul of the First Presbyterian church spoke briefly, saying that he felt out of place in such a gathering and felt he should be back in his seat and be a good listener.

Another selection by the boys quartette was followed by a rising expression of love for the Department President, Mrs. Wadsworth, who was absent on account of illness.

Amos Stockwell, a son of a veteran, recited a poem on Abraham Lincoln.

General Edward B. Carrington, aged 84 years, of Hyde Park, was introduced as the oldest living general of the army. He told how in 1835 John Brown, in visiting a school he attended, filled him with the fire to act for liberty, and that spark had never gone out. Today we have another issue: good, manly, honesty, integrity and God fearing respect for our fathers. The call today is not to fight in the field but at the polls.

Miss Mattie Holton of this city then sang a pleasing solo.

The last speaker was one of the officers of the Women's Relief Corps, who said but a few words.

The gathering closed with all rising and singing "America."

After the meeting many availed themselves of the opportunity to visit the Adams shrine beneath the church entrance, which was full of interest to them.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

A large force of skilled workmen are engaged in putting the finishing touches on the U. S. S. Birmingham (scout cruiser,) and in about three weeks she will undoubtedly be delivered to the Government at the Boston navy yard. Mr. Lally of the paint department has a large number of painters, decorators and finishers at work on this vessel and from now until she is delivered these men will apply with their brushes many tons of the best paint which money can buy. There has already been used on this ship over 150,000 pounds of paint.

Dance at Colonial Hall.

A very pretty assembly was held in Colonial Hall Wednesday evening from 8 to 11, given by the I. E. Girls of Quincy. The platform was banked with potted palms, behind which sat Wilson's orchestra. One of the most charming features of the evening were the two little pages, Clarice G. Jones and Sabia M. Ryder, who assisted in passing out the novel dance orders to the guests, as they came forward to be introduced to the matrons. The matrons were Mrs. I. M. Baun, Mrs. M. A. Dickey and Mrs. A. L. Wheble. Delicious punch was served during the evening. Great credit is due the young ladies who had charge of the assembly making it such a brilliant affair. The following members acted as ushers: Misses Elizabeth Ruxton, Stella A. Wheble, Florence J. Jones, Elsie M. Lawrence, Margaret A. Gardner, Bertha H. Pearson, Agnes F. Souter, Nellie S. Souter and N. G. Briody.

The Talk of New York.

Otis Skinner's Philhipe Bridau in The Honor of the Family" is just now being discussed by all theatregoers who have witnessed this wonderful presentment of the swaggering, devil may care Colonel, who takes everybody by storm, not only in his uncle's household, but every one in the big audiences present at each performance of this very attractive Potter play. All New York is unanimous in their praise of this wonderful piece of character acting as represented by Mr. Skinner and that "The Honor of the Family" will be seen at the Hudson until late spring there now seems little doubt.

The splendid cordiality of Mr. Skinner's auditors is illustrated at each performance by rounds of applause after each curtain and seldom is a performance played through without a veritable ovation for the star who, although holding the curtain speech in great disfavor, is compelled to come before the foot-lights with a word of thanks, in order that the play may go on. The great triumph achieved by both star and play has been heralded far and wide by the best dramatic writers of the day and it may be stated without the least fear of contradiction that this attraction is just now the most prominent success on the American stage.

Not Woburn Yegg.

Quincy people can rest easy, for the Russian giving his name as Berlinsky, arrested by Officer Riley at Wollaston on Tuesday morning, was not the Yegg who shot at Officer Welsh at Woburn, Feb. 6. Officer Welsh came to Quincy on Wednesday and looked Berlinsky over, and while there was something that resembled the Yegg, the officer is quite sure he is not the man wanted.

Will Ask Roosevelt to Explain

Washington, March 18.—A favorable report on the resolution calling on the president to explain by what authority he has exercised executive, legislative and judicial functions in the Panama canal zone, since the expiration of the Fifty-Eighth congress, was agreed to by the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce. By an enabling act, passed by the Fifty-Eighth congress, the president was specifically directed to exercise the zone government until March 4, 1904. The position is now taken that the failure of subsequent congresses to extend that specific power left the president without authority to continue his rule of the zone.

Mysterious Yacht Wrecked

Honolulu, March 18.—From the Gilbert islands comes the report of the wreck of an American-built schooner-yacht of about 120 tons. The yacht had no name painted on it and no clearance papers. The only persons seen in connection with the yacht are two young men, who gave their names as J. Taylor, aged 24, and G. Jackson, 19 years old. They say little about themselves. They claim to have bought the yacht in Valparaiso, but to have got no register with her.

To Send Teachers to Europe

New York, March 18.—Boards of education in various parts of the country have sent in numerous acceptances of the invitation of the National Civic Federation to send 500 teachers to Europe during the coming summer. The New York city board of education has already authorized leave of absence with pay to twenty teachers to be selected by the board. Boards in many other cities are expected to take similar action.

Appeal to Federal Authorities

St. Paul, March 18.—Refusing to agree to the new working schedule proposed by the officials of the road and despairing of reaching an amicable understanding on any other basis, employes of the Chicago Great Western have asked Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission and Commissioner of Labor Neill to intervene.

Dividend Reduced Two Percent

New York, March 18.—An unexpected outlay amounting to half a million dollars, made necessary by the new food laws, together with reduction of business in the latter part of last year, has resulted in a reduction from 7 to 5 percent per year in the dividend on the preferred stock of the Corn Products Refining company.

Cars Lacked Automatic Couplers

Skipper of the Turkish Navy.

The new admiral of the Turkish navy, which, by the way, ranks second after that of Switzerland, is a down east skipper named Ransford D. Buckham of Bucksport, Me. Perhaps he has been a "bucko" skipper and will find good practice in the Turkish navy, but the ships, or ship, will have to go to sea a little more than has been the custom.

Salton Sea Experiments.

Evaporation measurements on a larger scale than ever heretofore attempted are to be made by the United States weather bureau in the Salton basin. A chain of stations will be erected around the Salton sea, and accurate measurements of evaporation will be made at each station as well as records of the rate of fall of the sea itself. The area of the sea is now about 440 square miles, and the rate of fall of its level during the years prior to the time when the contents of the basin became highly charged with salt will furnish a most valuable record of the average evaporation rate in this arid region.

Unitarian pastor Of Newton Speaks At Wollaston On Mormons

The men of Wollaston know more about Mormonism than they did, and have the assurance of a well-known clergyman of the Unitarian faith that the country has nothing to fear now from polygamy, as it is on the wane. The men's club of the different churches of Wollaston were guests of the club at the Wollaston M. E. church Thursday evening, and so generally was the invitation accepted that nearly 200 men were present, representing all the churches. President Parlin of the Unitarian club, President Hull of the Congregational club, President Richmond of the Episcopal club, were present, and also members of the Congregational club of Atlantic and other men's clubs of Quincy, and the clergy of Wollaston.

President Cassidy of the M. E. club briefly welcomed the men, and introduced Dr. Heath, the pastor of the church. The pastor thought the tendency of the times was to find things in which all can agree not to differ. He noted the lack of sociability, and indifference generally, and hoped this union meeting would result in making Wollaston healthy both socially, morally and religiously.

Rev. A. E. Clattenburg, rector of St. Chrysostoms church, told a story about ex-Congressman Powers whom he was expected to introduce, and deducted the moral that every man has it in himself to develop if he will.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Dr. A. L. Hudson, pastor of the Channing church at Newton, whose subject was "Mormonism." After completing his divinity studies he was located at Salt Lake City, so he was able to speak from personal knowledge. At the outset, he said, many of his preconceived notions of the Mormons were wrong, and he proceeded to correct misapprehension. They are religious. They existed 15 years before polygamy was introduced. Polygamy was never general. The Mormons professed to be the only Christian church.

Dr. Hudson told of the origin of the Mormons—both the tradition and real origin. He told of the founders, the doctrines, the baptism by proxy which had included Myles Standish and all the earlier settlers of New England who were ancestors of the Mormons. The success of the doctrine of healing by laying on of hands had resulted in gains in membership.

Dr. Hudson told how polygamy was introduced as a decree of God. Reviewed the rise and fall, and explained why it would die out. He said the only danger from the Mormons is the strong church organization. No church should control the politics of the state or country. He thought it best to keep hands off Utah, and give her educational institutions all the support possible.

Rev. E. D. Webber of the Baptist church spoke briefly. He emphasized the need of sanity in everything—politics, sports and religion.

The gathering was then invited to the basement, where ice cream, cake and coffee were bountifully served, and an hour was enjoyed socially.

The Rebekahs Tried By Fire

The sisters who attended the meeting of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge, got the scare of their lives Thursday night, being even more frightened than the night they were initiated into the mysteries of the order.

It was shortly after 10 o'clock when an odor of smoke was noticed, and an investigation started. From a little smoke at first it began to increase in volume, until the rooms became quite thick with it. Then it was that all the fire horrors crowded into the sisters' minds and there was a grand scramble. They did not even stop to look into the mirror to see if hats were on straight, or even to put on rubbers. All seemed possessed with the one thought; that was to get out and do it quickly.

Meanwhile Eddie Goodridge had been doing a little investigation of his own. Now Ed is not a fireman but he knows a thing or two. Not for a minute did he think the building was on fire, but he realized that the cause of the smoke should be located. He therefore quietly slipped down through the smoke that filled the hallway to the street, and while the sisters were scrambling for their wraps he was telephoning the Central fire station.

Then there came a clang of gongs as the fire apparatus dashed into City Square at full speed. Their appearance was so sudden that everybody was taken by surprise, and a crowd soon gathered which was largely increased by the crowd that came running from the hall.

The firemen were not long in determining the cause of all the smoke. It was a new fire in the furnace, and there was no danger. Eddie became a hero, however, among the sisters for his forethought in calling the fire department, and they will place a crown of laurel on his head at the next lodge meeting.

COV. GUILD

Reported Resting Comfortably And Slightly Improved Today

Boston, March 20.—The most encouraging report from the bedside of Governor Guild since the announcement late Wednesday night that his condition was critical was made last night, when it was stated that Guild was better, and that, although he is still a very sick man, there is hope of his recovery.

Governor Guild passed a day that was very satisfactory to the physicians. During the day the governor held his own. He suffered considerable pain in the forenoon, but he was more comfortable than he has been under previous attacks. What the physicians most fear is the extension of the inflammatory rheumatism from which he suffers to the heart.

The governor is by no means out of danger, but there is hope that he will pass the crisis safely. The grip has weakened his system, but Guild remains cheerful and the physicians rely in no small measure on his courage in combatting the complications which have developed.

GOVERNOR GUILD

NOON—A dispatch from the American Press Association says it was general belief at the State House at 11.30 that Gov. Guild was sinking. The bulletin issued at 9.05 said the Governor passed a comfortable night getting a little more sleep.

LATER—At 1.30 P. M., it was reported that Gov. Guild was resting comfortably and showed a slight improvement.

Amateur Dramatics At Quincy Point

"Bread on the Waters" drew a crowded house at the Point vestry, Thursday evening, when presented under the auspices of the "Minute Men," a large Sunday school class of boys of which the teachers are Mr. and Mrs. James Melville.

The play was in two acts. At 7.45 the curtain went up and presented a pretty decorated stage, upon which sat Mrs. Loring (Christina M. Moody) and Lucy Marlem (Emma Hayden;) the former as the housekeeper of Dr. Harlem (Harry I. Hayden) principal of Greenlake Academy for boys.

Soon the scene changed to a typical students scene, when Harry Harlem (Harold Newcomb) Dick Hastings (Fred H. Smith) and Bob Winders (Robert Mitchell, Jr.) plan for a boat race, in which Harry is victor.

In the meantime Jonathan Wild Butts (Carl Sherburne,) the town constable, brings a charge of forgery against Harry, who expelled from home, is joined by Bob, and they are successful in digging for gold in Cal. They return, after a five years absence, in time to prove the falsity of the forgery charge and to convict the guilty Dick, who has already been detected by Dilly (Anwelda H. Melville,) a 14 year old lassie, picked up as a babe from the streets.

It would be difficult to pick the stars in this production of "Bread on the Waters." Each one took their part well. Jonathan Wild Butts, in police-suit, was unique; while Bob Winders won the favors of the house by playing the true friend; and Dilly captivated the audience.

During the intermission between the acts, a male quartet of Fore River men sang several well-rendered and appreciated selections. The quartet consisted of: J. W. Hendry, first tenor; L. Fjellbeck, second tenor; J. Barraja Frauenfelder, first bass; and C. Bergstrom, second bass.

Delicious home made candy and beautiful hyacinths were on sale before and after the entertainment.

"Bread on the Water" is pronounced one of the very best plays, both as to its moral and its setting, ever presented at the Point, and reflects great credit upon the directors and participants.

The cast follows:

Dr. Harlem, Principal of Greenlake Seminary	Harry I. Hayden
Harry Harlem (his son)	Harold Newcomb
Dick Hastings } pupils	Fred H. Smith
Bob Winders }	Robert Mitchell, Jr.,
Joanthan Wild Butts (the town constable)	Carl Sherburne
Lucy Harlem, (doctor's daughter)	Emma Hayden
Mrs. Loring, (housepeeper)	Christina M.Moody
Dilly (picked from the streets)	Auwelda H.Melville

BURGLARS FOILED

Entered Houses At Wollaston Park And Atlantic But Leave Hurriedly

There was quite a burglar scare at Atlantic last night. The house of Walter P. Hill on Clive street was entered early in the evening, and although the burglars spent nearly forty minutes in their search, they probably departed with nothing more than a silver spoon in their possession.

The house in unoccupied this winter as Mr. and Mrs. Hill are making their home with Mrs. Hill's mother, and had taken the precaution to remove all their valuables to a place of safety.

There were two men in the burglars party and they gained entrance by forcing a pantry window. The family of W. F. Cummings, who live near by, saw the men while they were in the house, but as Mr. Hill had been in the habit of coming to the house in the evening to work on his automobile, they supposed that it was he. After a time, however, they became suspicious that all was not right, as they saw flashes as of burning matches in different rooms.

When Mr. Cummings came home they told him what was going on and he went over to the Hill house, but the parties could not be seen. He then visited the fire station where Chief Burrell was notified. The firemen went over to the house but by this time the burglars had gone.

Chief Burrell went in person to investigate, and after he arrived it was necessary to get word to Mr. and Mrs. Hill who were attending a meeting in City Square. It was sometime, therefore, before Mr. Hill and the Chief could make an investigation.

They found that the house had been ransacked thoroughly, but all that was missed was a silver spoon, and Mrs. Hill was not sure but that it was with her other silver.

ANOTHER BREAK.

An attempt was also made earlier in the evening to enter the house of George H. York, on the corner of Phillips and Willett streets. Norfolk Downs. This, according to the reports, was in the vicinity of 9 o'clock. Mrs. York was at home at the time and was aroused by hearing someone at work trying to force the door.

Without any attempt to see who the parties were Mrs. York ran out the back door to the house of E. E. Jameson, where a telephone message was sent to the police station. Chief Burrell started to investigate when the word came of the Hill break.

It is not certain that the parties at the Hill residence and the York residence were the same. Chief Burrell, however, is inclined to think that they were, and that the discrepancy in the time is due to the excitement and that the parties had sufficient time to go from the York residence to the Hill residence.

Empire State Democrats Seem to Be Going Back on Bryan

ACTION OF STATE COMMITTEE

Delegates to National Convention Will Be "Unfettered by Conditions and Unpledged and Uninstructed"--But One Dissenting Vote

New York, March 20.—As predicted by Chairman Conners, the Democratic state committee voted almost solidly yesterday in favor of an uninstructed delegation to the national convention. But one voice was raised in opposition, that of Charles P. Williams of Lyons, who subsequently explained that he stood for William J. Bryan.

The prevailing sentiment was expressed in a resolution which set forth that the interests of the country and the party demand the selection as presidential candidates of the men who at the time and place of the national party gathering shall appeal most strongly to the intelligence and judgment of the whole body; calls upon the Democratic electors of the state to choose as delegates the strongest and ablest men in their ranks, and send them to the national convention "unfettered by conditions and unpledged and uninstructed as to candidates."

Yesterday's meeting, held at the Hotel Victoria, lasted just eight minutes. Each of the fifty-one members was either present or represented by proxy. Upon the motion of Thomas W. Finucane it was unanimously agreed to hold the state convention in this city on April 4. At that time four delegates-at-large to the national convention will be elected.

The roar of "ayes" which followed the chair's call for a vote on the adoption of the resolution was succeeded by a single "no," enunciated with an emphasis that brought Chairman Conners to his feet. "Who was that?" he asked. Mr. Williams did not make clear his attitude until after adjournment.

Before the meeting Conners had repeated that the sentiment for Bryan was on the wane in New York state, and that not more than three of the fifty-one members of the state committee were in favor of his nomination for the presidency. He also reiterated his opinion that the prevailing sentiment throughout the state was for Governor Johnson of Minnesota, but he added that he did not think the New York state delegation should be instructed for any one. He said that both Albany and Syracuse had been considered when the meeting place for the state convention was discussed, but that the majority of the committee had expressed a preference for New York and the resolution was drawn accordingly.

The committee adjourned to meet April 13 at 8 p. m. in this city.

Harry W. Walker, eastern manager for Bryan, said last night that, in view of the action of the Democratic state committee in calling the state convention for April 14, Bryan would begin his speaking campaign in this state at Rochester on April 10. He had not expected to make a speech here until April 20.

"Greatest Present Day Evil"

Chicago, March 20.—Declaring that the greatest of present day evils is "the domination of politics by the favor-seeking corporations," and asserting that the Democratic party is the best qualified to undertake the task of correcting this, W. J. Bryan celebrated his 48th birthday by delivering a speech on national issues before a mass meeting of 10,000 persons. Bryan took for his subject "Why Democracy?" and after discussing the records of Roosevelt, Taft and Hughes as regards corporation legislation, he answered the question by saying:

"Because the Democratic party is the only party sufficiently large to give hope of success and sufficiently democratic to give hope of relief after a victory has been won."

Says Hughes Can Win

Cambridge, Mass., March 20.—Stewart L. Woodford, formerly United States minister to Spain, addressed the Harvard Hughes club last night. He said he earnestly believed that Hughes is the strongest man for president the Republican party can put in the field.

"Do you realize," he said, "that the assets of the insurance corporations of this country are over $1,500,000,000? In every town, city, hamlet and farmhouse where there is a wife and a child relying on the protection of a life insurance policy there is an advocate for and a vote for Hughes. He can be nominated and he can win."

Bryan Has Nothing to Say

Chicago, March 20.—Mr. Bryan, who is in Chicago, was shown the dispatches announcing the action of the New York Democratic state convention. He read them attentively and upon being asked whether he had any comment to make replied: "None whatever. I have absolutely nothing to say with reference to it."

Fire Loss of Half a Million

Washington, March 20.—Eisenger Bros.' lumber yard, the grandstand of the Washington American League Baseball club and about twenty residences were destroyed by a fire which broke out this morning. The loss approximates $500,000.

NAVAL HEADS HEARD

Metcalf and Capps Doubt Excessive Profit on Submarines

Washington, March 20.—Secretary of the Navy Metcalf and Admiral Capps, chief of the bureau of construction of the navy department, testified yesterday before the special committee of the house investigating the charges made against the Electric Boat company by Representative Lilley. Each said that he did not believe the Electric Boat company obtained an excessive profit on the contracts already awarded it, and that he did not believe the company would make an excessive profit on any future contracts it might secure.

Edward L. Clarkson, private secretary to Representative Hobson, testified that Lawrence M. Spear, a vice president of the Electric Boat company, told him that his company had influence with Speaker Cannon and could use it to help Hobson get on the naval affairs committee, but before doing so "would have to know how he stood on the proposition in which he was interested—the question of submarine boats."

Congressman Clayton testified that the Alabama delegation in congress endorsed Hobson for assignment to the naval affairs committee, and L. W. Busbey, secretary to Speaker Cannon, stated that the only request made to the speaker to appoint Hobson on that committee was made by Mr. Williams, the minority leader of the house.

Suicide at 81 For Love

Philadelphia, March 20.—Finding existence insupportable after the death of a woman to whom he had been devoted thirty years, Charles Franks, who was 81 years old, shot himself and died instantly. He was unmarried and had lived thirty-two years with John S. French and his wife. It was Mrs. French to whom he was devoted, and after her death, a week ago, he pined until loneliness, hopelessness and despair drove him to take his own life.

Fire Started In Church Fair

New York, March 20.—Red fire, which had been burned to enliven things at the Calvary Methodist church fair, set fire to paper flowers and other stage decorations, resulting in two little girls being slightly burned and the whole party badly frightened. Men had stamped out the flames when the fire company arrived and the monetary damage was not great.

Will Maintain Steel Prices

New York, March 20.—After a conference of steel and iron manufacturers held in the office of Chairman Gary of the United States Steel corporation to discuss prices and trade conditions, Gary said that the sentiment of the meeting was that the present prices of steel be maintained. A cheerful spirit was manifest at the conference.

Duke to Wed American

Rome, March 20.—Nothing is known here of the attitude of the royal family with reference to the reported engagement of the Duke of the Abruzzi and Miss Elkins. It may be observed, however, that as there has been no official denial of the duke's engagement to Miss Elkins, it is generally taken to be true.

Hackenschmidt Floors Three Men

Philadelphia, March 20.—George Hackenschmidt, the Russian wrestler, in successive bouts here, threw Emil Stegemueller in 5m. 24s., Carl Darschu in 3m. 45s. and Henry Paulson in 5m. 9s. Hackenschmidt used bar and neck holds to secure a fall in every case and showed wonderful speed.

Robbers In Oklahoma Bank

Muskogee, Okla., March 20.—Two robbers walked into the Davis bank at Hoffman, Okla., thirty miles southwest of here, covered the bank officials with pistols, and, gathering up $900 in currency, mounted their horses, which were standing outside, and escaped.

HOW TO TELL IF YOU HAVE WORMS

THE REMEDY THAT QUICKLY EXPELS THEM

The common symptoms of worms in children and adults are:—Paleness of the face with occasional flushing; indigestion accompanied by an unnatural appetite at times; foul tongue and offensive breath; itching nose; vomiting; grinding of the teeth during sleep; swelling of the upper lip; hard swelled bowels; griping or colic pains; also convulsions and many other unaccountable nervous symptoms, which, if not checked in time, lead on to something more serious.

I really believe that the lives of thousands of children suffering from worms or canker might be saved by a timely and judicious use of your Elixir." Yours truly,
J. L. HAMMETT.

This is only one of hundreds of such testimonials. This marvelous remedy has been made and sold by Dr. J. F. True & Co. for fifty-six years, and in all that time nothing but words of praise have been bestowed upon it. This is what Mr. Wing thinks of it.

IN A FIGHTING MOOD

Alexis Not Inclined to "Make Up" With Revolutionists

BRANDS FIRMIN AS A COWARD

Refugees May Depart Freely, but Will Be Fought to a Finish If They Return--Number of Warships Have Arrived at Port au Prince

Port au Prince, March 20.—President Nord Alexis yesterday issued a proclamation in which he said:

"I did not accept Firmin's offer to sign an agreement not to return during my term of office. I allow the refugees to embark freely. If they return I will fight them to a finish. Firmin is a coward for taking refuge in a consulate. I defy the calumnies against the government."

United States cruiser Des Moines and gunboat Paducah, British armored cruiser Cressey and French cruiser d'Estrees have joined British cruiser Indefatigable and German cruiser Bremen here.

All the details of the embarkment of the refugees have been arranged between the French minister, M. Carteron, and the Haytien minister of state, M. Borno.

The d'Estrees will leave Port au Prince some time today for Gonaives, having as a passenger, M. Rouzier, the vice consul of France, representing M. Carteron.

On Sunday General Firmin and the other refugees in the French consulate at Gonaives will be delivered to the commander of the d'Estrees and will immediately be taken to the Island of St. Thomas.

The Bremen will follow the d'Estrees and take away the refugees who are in the German and Spanish consulates at Gonaives and in the German consulate at St. Marc, all of whom will be landed at Kingston, Jam.

The three Coicou brothers, who were among those summarily executed March 15, leave twenty children. Horace Coicou, after Masillon had been shot, begged that the life of the third brother, Pierre L. Coicou, be spared in order that he might support the family. No attention, however, was paid to the man's plea.

It is learned that Paul St. Fort, formerly an aid on President Sam's staff, who was executed by shooting Sunday last, was killed by mistake for another man.

It is considered probable that the powers will reach an agreement by which one of their warships will be stationed here until the terms of General Alexis, as president of Hayti, expires.

Anna Gould Stifles Gossip

New York, March 20.—Mme. Anna Gould, the divorced wife of Count Boni de Castellane, arrived here on steamer Adriatic. Posing as her champion after the divorce proceedings, Helie de Sagan came to be credited with prospects of marrying the plaintiff, but no sooner had Mme. Gould set foot upon American soil than she declared: "I have had enough of married life. I am not engaged to be married to anyone."

Elephant Hunt In Florida

Valdosta, Ga., March 20.—A telegram from circus men at White Springs, Fla., states that two of their elephants escaped and were surrounded nine miles from Genoa, Fla., by a crowd of farmers with guns. The animals were fired upon, the shots only infuriating them and causing them to break away. People in that section are organizing for a big elephant hunt.

Royal Jewels Again Seized

Brussels, March 20.—The jewels of the late Queen Henrietta of Belgium, left by her will to her daughter, Princess Louise, which some months ago were seized for debt and later returned to the princess, have again been seized on a court order obtained by Count Rudolf Festeties for an alleged loan of $11,000 by the count to the princess.

Wrongfully Used $75,000

Port Huron, Mich., March 20.—Attorneys for the United Home Protector fraternity of this city, a building and loan company with banking features, announced that Supreme Secretary Wilson confessed that he has misused $75,000 of the institution's funds. Banking Commissioner Zimmerman has taken charge of the institution.

Brooklyn Bank Assets Shrink

Kingston, N. Y., March 20.—A report of the appraisers appointed to ascertain the condition of the assets of the Brooklyn bank has been filed in the Ulster county clerk's office. The book value of the assets is given as $2,323,986 and their market value $1,990,038, a shrinkage of $333,947.

New Brunswick Cabinet Out

St. John, March 20.—It is believed that the resignation of Premier Robinson's government, after defeat at the polls, was tendered to Lieutenant Governor Tweedie here last night. In a speech at a banquet Tweedie made the significant statement that he was now without advisors.

Mail and Grub For Sailors

San Diego, Cal., March 20.—With $100,000 worth of provisions and over 400 sacks of mail for the battleship fleet, the supply ship Culgoa sailed for Magdalena bay yesterday.

SPENT LAST EIGHT YEARS IN MISERY

Boston Banker Says His Life Has Been Hopeless for that Length of Time.

Carleton H. Hutchinson, a leading banker and broker of Boston, with offices at 8 Congress Street, in that city, has recently come out with a very strong statement.

In the widespread discussion over Cooper's new theory and medicines which has spread over the country so rapidly, Mr. Hutchinson has taken the side of those who say that Cooper's theory is correct and his medicine all that he claims.

Mr. Hutchinson's emphatic statement is as follows: "Anyone afflicted with chronic ill health and a general run-down condition caused by stomach trouble, who does not try this man Cooper's medicine, is very foolish. I say this after a most remarkable experience with the medicine.

"I heard of Cooper's success first when he was in Chicago, as I have a private wire to that city in connection with my business. Later, when he came East, I learned more of him and his theory that stomach trouble causes most ill health. I have had no faith in anything not prescribed by a physician for each particular case after careful diagnosis, but after eight years of constant suffering, during which time I spent over $1,500 with absolutely no relief, I felt that it would at least do no harm to try the medicine which I was hearing so much about.

"During these eight years I have been forced to go without solid food for five and six weeks at a time. I always had a sour stomach, was troubled with formation of gas, and led the usual miserable life of the dyspeptic. I was dull, tired, nervous and gloomy all the time, and was always constipated.

"I have taken Cooper's medicine a comparatively short time. For the past month I have not had the slightest sign of stomach trouble. I can eat anything with no bad effect whatsoever. I have a fine appetite, am gaining flesh very rapidly, am cheerful, full of energy, and my nervousness has disappeared. My bowels are in perfect condition for the first time in eight years.

"I don't hesitate to say that I would not take $50,000 and be back where I was. My relief and thankfulness is beyond description."

We sell Cooper's famous preparation described in the above statement. —E. J. Murphy.

BACKING UP CHARGES

LaFollette Makes Further Remarks on the Recent Panic

ROOSEVELT NOT TO BLAME

Gore Attempts to Draw Wisconsin Senator Into Criticism of President, but Fails--Great Bankers and Financiers Responsible For Trouble

Washington, March 20.—Resuming in the senate his unfinished speech on the Aldrich currency bill, Senator LaFollette yesterday directed himself to the charge made in his remarks on Tuesday that the recent financial stringency was started by great bankers and financiers.

He declared that since Tuesday he had got additional information proving that his charge was correct. He read a letter signed by H. R. Vermilla, auditor of the Washington Life Insurance company, calling upon an agent to send premiums, collected weekly, to New York, and he said such letters were sent to agents of that company all over the country.

"Other New York insurance companies," said LaFollette, "controlled by identical and allied interests, at the same time gave similar instructions to their state managers throughout the country."

Senator Gore of Oklahoma interrupted to ask whether, in regard to the charge made by LaFollette, the president was justified in congratulating the men who brought on the panic.

"Does the Senator think," Gore said, "that President Roosevelt and Secretary Cortelyou were not star actors in that performance, or at least that they congratulated the chief actors when it was over?" He quoted from a letter by Roosevelt to Cortelyou.

Mr. LaFollette deprecated the idea of bringing partisan politics into the discussion and said he did not propose to be drawn into criticism of the president, who had done the best he could to relieve the situation, and had not thought it wise at that critical moment to attempt the punishment of the incendiaries who had started the conflagration the president sought to put out.

"Whatever the agencies were back of that panic," said LaFollette, "whatever the purposes were behind it, the president and his secretary of the treasury were confronted with a condition. The panic was on," declared the senator in tones that rang through the chamber. "He saw that legitimate business was put in peril and the responsibility came to him as the head of the government and to his secretary as the head of the treasury department. Where else could the money have been sent to stop the panic, no matter what influences might have been behind this bill?"

Mr. Gore said he justified the president "in standing and delivering to these pirates and depositing with them the people's money when their dagger was at his throat," but, he said, "I cannot excuse him for congratulating the pirates as public-spirited benefactors.

Referring to the bill as originally reported, LaFollette declared, with a suggestion of a sneer, that the railroad bonds had been "whisked" out of the measure.

"We are not through with that proposition," he added. "It will appear again and again until finally it is overwhelmingly beaten or until it is worked in and engrafted upon the currency system of this country." He then discussed at some length his resolution for the valuation of railway property, which, he said, had been sent to the committee on interstate commerce, but was not acted upon.

There was quite a large attendance of Democratic senators, but comparatively few Republicans. Occasional conversations between senators on the Republican side caused the senator to stop in reading his speech. Once he remarked: "If there is any comment on my remarks, I would be glad to have it made so audible that I can hear it."

After speaking for more than two hours and a half, LaFollette yielded the floor, with the statement that he would resume his speech Monday next.

Woman Broke Engagement

New York, March 20.—Herbert Kremer shot and killed himself in the apartments of Mrs. Lafayette B. Gleason. Mrs. Gleason says that Kremer was despondent because of the termination by her of their wedding engagement. Kremer was 30 years of age and had renewed an earlier acquaintance with Mrs. Gleason when she obtained a divorce two years ago.

No Money For Slocum Survivors.

Washington, March 20.—The subcommittee on the sundry civil bill of the house committee on appropriations refused to incorporate in the forthcoming bill a proposed item of $1,000,000 for the relief of survivors of the wreck of the river steamer General Slocum, in whose burning near New York more than one thousand lives were lost.

Wresting Laurels From New York

Portland, Or., March 20.—In February Portland exported a greater quantity of wheat than any other port in the United States, taking the lead from New York. During the twenty-nine days there were set afloat for foreign ports 2,279,791 bushels of the cereal, or 200,000 bushels more than to the credit of her nearest competitor.

FIRE LOSS OF $400,000

Lowell Plant For Manufacture of Machinery Is Destroyed

Lowell, Mass., March 20.—The plant of the Fifield Tool company, makers of engine lathes and other machinery, one of the largest shops of its kind in the country, was burned early today. The loss is estimated at $400,000. The fire communicated to a nearby residential section, known as the Highlands, and one house was burned and two others badly damaged.

The fire started in the paint shop, which occupied one end of the main building. It spread quickly through the structure and the walls and roof were soon ablaze along their whole extent, about 300 feet. The building was of one story, of wood construction, sheathed with tin. The sparks from the burning walls were carried by the high wind in a southerly direction and a large number of dwelling houses, many of them partially constructed, were threatened.

As soon as the police and firemen arrived the people in these residences were awakened and warned out of doors. Many of them ran into the street in their nightclothes and remained there until it was seen that the danger was over. One house close to the burning factory was destroyed, while two others were damaged.

The fire in the Fifield shops was not extinguished until the whole plant was destroyed. There was fully 60,000 tons of machinery in a finished and unfinished state in the factory and all of it is a total loss.

An Elusive Hottentot Chief

Berlin, March 20.—A cablegram from South Africa reports a battle between the German expeditionary force and a body of Hottentots in the Kalahari desert. The German troops had been sent out to find Simon Koppers, a Hottentot chief who is still hostile. The engagement was a severe one. The enemy lost fifty-eight killed. Seven men and several women were captured, but Koppers escaped. The German losses also were heavy, Captain Erckert, commander of the expeditionary force, Lieutenant Ebinger and twelve privates being killed and seventeen wounded, nine of them seriously.

New Employers' Liability Act

Washington, March 20.—Speaker Cannon and Vice President Fairbanks announce their belief that the present congress will pass an employer's liability act which will meet and overcome the unconstitutionalities of the present law pointed out by the supreme court of the United States in a recent decision. These statements were made unreservedly by Cannon and guardedly by Fairbanks to a delegation from trade and labor unions and organizations of farmers assembled in a national conference in this city.

House Passes Pension Bill

Washington, March 20.—After several hours of spirited discussion over the proposal to abolish seventeen of the eighteen United States pension agencies and to consolidate pension disbursements in Washington, the house of representatives passed the pension appropriation, carrying $150,869,000, the largest sum ever authorized by that measure. The house stood by the committee on appropriations and left unchanged its recommendation for one general agency.

Stampede In Fire Drill

Kattokitz, Prussia, March 20.—During a fire drill in the city school there was a stampede among the children, which resulted in ten of the little ones being trampled by their comrades until they lost consciousness. No lives were lost. The signal for the fire drill was given, but one of the exit doors was inadvertently left locked.

Killed Collier's Chief Officer

San Juan, P. R., March 20.—The federal grand jury returned an indictment of manslaughter against Alexander Dickson, the carpenter of the United States collier Aberenda, who killed Chief Officer Weichert of the vessel in this port. Other arrests will follow for several of the crew of the Aberenda are said to be implicated.

Verdict In Boxer's Death

Philadelphia, March 20.—A verdict of death from hemorrhage of the brain, following a blow on the face, was found by a coroner's jury which investigated the death of Wassilly Ziemba, who received fatal injuries in a boxing bout at a local theatre. Charles Wolf, who struck the blow, was held in bail, charged with homicide.

Trust Funds Said to Be Short

Boston, March 20.—Alleging bonds and securities worth $85,000 are missing from trust funds that were held by John O. Shaw, a prominent lawyer and clubman, William C. and Harriet S. Winslow have brought a bill in the supreme court asking for an accounting. The complainants allege that Shaw has mingled trust property with his own. Judge Rugg issued a temporary injunction against Mrs. Shaw, several banks and trust companies, the conservator of Shaw's property and Shaw.

Regarding Boston's Schoolhouses

Boston, March 20.—There are forty-nine schoolhouses in Boston of third-class construction, some of them in such shape that they should be replaced rather than attempt any repairs, and there are fifty-four schools with wooden ducts serving as ventilators which would carry flames rapidly from one story to another. Such are a few of the revelations divulged yesterday in a report made by the schoolhouse commission to Mayor Hibbard.

A Double Misfortune

Boston, March 20.—Dr. George A. Brouillet, the Back Bay dentist, was found guilty of assault on his brother-in-law, James L. Luce, with a dangerous weapon. He was also served with a divorce libel charging him with cruel and abusive treatment. The latter was served on him while in the detention room awaiting the verdict of the jury. The doctor will be sentenced within a few days.

Would-Be Murderer Sentenced

Cambridge, Mass., March 20.—"A man who seeks to destroy the life of a woman he loves and then would destroy his own because his attentions are not acceptable, is both unjust and contemptible," said Judge Bell in sentencing Frederick J. Sullivan of Wakefield to the state prison for a term of six to eight years for the attempted murder by shooting of Miss Mary A. McFadden in Wakefield.

Passes on to His Reward

Fort Kent, Me., March 20.—Rev. Charles D. Sweron, for fifty years a Roman Catholic priest in Aroostook county, died at Upper Frenchville, aged over 80 years. He was born in Belgium. He was one of the oldest priests in New England and had served under the four bishops of the Portland diocese. He had done great work for the pioneer population of Maine.

Exoneration of Bennett

Portland, Me., March 20.—Captain Bennett of the government steamer Albert Forse, who was charged with leaving Annis Wallace and Henry Woodbury, two fishermen, at the mercy of the cold weather in a disabled motor boat in the harbor, has received notification from Washington that he has been exonerated as a result of the trial before army officers.

Two Concerns Reduce Wages

Springfield, Mass., March 20.—The Dwight Manufacturing company in Chicopee and the Chicopee Manufacturing company in Chicopee Falls have notified their employes of a 10 percent wage reduction, to take effect March 30. About 3100 hands are affected. Both plants are now running four days a week.

Employers' Terms Rejected

Barre, Vt., March 20.—The striking quarry workers voted to reject the proposition of the manufacturers that they return to work at the old scale of 25 cents an hour, with pay for overtime after working forty-eight hours a week. The quarry workers demand pay for overtime after working forty hours a week.

Stabber Held In $8000

Providence, March 20.—Michael Mulvey was arraigned in court and, being adjudged proably guilty of the charge of manslaughter, was bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $8000. Mulvey is charged with having killed, by stabbing, Lawrence T. McKiernan.

Wage Reduction of Ten Percent

Amesbury, Mass., March 20.—The Hamilton Woolen company, which manufactures cotton print goods, announces a reduction of 10 percent in wages, to take effect March 30. The concern employs 700 hands.

Threats of Assassination

Chicago, March 20.—It is learned that sensational letters threatening a novel form of assassination have been received lately by Mayor Busse, Chief of Police Shippy and Assistant Chief Schuettler.

Mary Stuart's Curious Watches

Among the watches owned by Mary Stuart was a coffin shaped watch in a case of crystal. Probably the most remarkable one in her collection was the one which was bequeathed to Mary Seaton, her maid of honor. It was in the form of a skull. On the forehead of the skull was the symbol of death, the scythe and the hourglass. At the back of the skull was Time, and at the top of the head were the garden of Eden and the crucifixion. The watch was opened by reversing the skull. Inside was a representation of the holy family surrounded by angels, while the shepherds and their flocks were worshiping the newborn Christ. The works formed the brains, while the dial plate was the palate. She also possessed another skull shaped watch, but it is not known what became of it.

Scandalous.

"Awful to think that an old man like the professor should be such a flirt!"

"Is he?"

"Isn't he? I heard him telling just a little while ago about being out all morning with Flora and Fauna, and he has grandchildren old enough to marry!"

Pilgrim Union.

The Atlantic M. E. church was filled to overflowing Thursday evening by members and friends of the Pilgrim Union. Nearly one hundred and fifty sat down to supper and the address that followed by Rev. A. H. Nazarrin, —theme, "Personal impressions of America from personal experiences,"—was greeted with wild enthusiasm and was remarkable for its clear, vital word-pictures and clever bits of home interest.

How Quincy Man Was Duped

Judge DeCourcy, the court officers in the criminal session of the superior court, the jury and the spectators enjoyed uncontrollable laughter on Thursday, says the Globe, as they listened to the recital of Abraham L. Buzzel of Quincy, during the trial of Charles Thomas, "the Baltimore kid" for larceny. Buzzel said he met Thomas casually on Sept. 18, never having known him before, at the corner of Washington and Lagrange streets.

Thomas got Buzzel to go to a pool room to see him play. After amazing Buzzel with his cleverness, Thomas played with some other man, the other man beating him twice. Thomas then asked Buzzel for $7 to pay the debt, and finally got Buzzel to take a hand in the game. The two men told Buzzel that he had lost $250 the first crack, and he gave them $65, all he had. The next game, they said, he won $500.

Buzzel said he would be satisfied if he got back his $65, but they insisted on putting up $500 with the proprietor of the place. Then they got Buzzel to come back the next day with $500, which he did. He gave the money to the proprietor and asked for what was due him from the day before. The proprietor of the pool room said he had given it back to the men from whom he got it, and Buzzel didn't even get his own $500 back until he recovered a judgment in a civil suit.

The jury has the Thomas case under consideration.

Quincy Vs Milton Meet

The Quincy Y. M. C. A. has arranged for two dual meets with Milton, one in Quincy, March 31, the other in Milton on Saturday, April 18. Gold medals will be given as prizes and a handsome trophy to the winning team.

Quincy events will be: 15 yard dash, potato race, running high jump, long dive and rope climb and relay races for seniors and juniors.

Milton events—15 yard dash, 3 broad jumps, potato race, running high dive, fence vault and relay potato race.

These events give a wide variety and afford a chance for many types of athletes to win one of the forty-two prizes which will be offered.

Cape Cat Boat Association

The annual banquet of the Cat Boat association at the United States Hotel on Thursday evening proved to be an enjoyable occasion. Nearly all the Quincy Cat Boat owners were present. Frank Fessenden Crane, president of the association, presided.

The guests of the evening were: J. W. P. Nagle, U. C. Erismann of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., and William Barnard, a yachting editor.

Prizes won by the boats last season were awarded. Shields were awarded the Emeline, Busy Bee and Hustler. A Capt. Kidd plate was presented to President Crane for the Iris.

F. Morton Smith presented the association with a new shield to be a permanent trophy to be kept in the Quincy club house, and have inscribed with names of the champions each year.

The Marvel, Arawak and Iris, champions of the years 1905, 1906 and 1907 will be the first three to go on the shield.

Aside from the business transacted many sea yarns were told, some of which perhaps were pretty strong.

Among those present were: Commodore Robbins of the Quincy club, Commodore Dawes of the Wollaston club, Vice Commodore Smith of the Quincy club, Vice Commodore Coombs of the Wollaston club, Fred H. Smith, Ralph W. Winslow, Ira M. Whittemore, George H. Corey, L. O. Crocker, Edgar Emery, Wallace Arnold, W. A. Tillotson, J. R. Emery, George W. Lane, H. C. Nickerson, Clifton Taber and Harry Crane.

NARROW ESCAPE.

An unknown man had a narrow escape from being killed at the Quincy depot this morning. He came from Boston on the train due to arrive at 10.49. As the train approached the depot it slowed down to let an inward express pass. The man jumped from the outward train onto the inward track, directly in front of the fast approaching express. The engineer of the express whistled sharply, and the man made a jump just clearing the outer rail as the train dashed by. A second more and he would have been struck. As soon as the express had passed the man started on the run down the track. It was a very narrow escape.

Wollaston Club Wins Trophy

The Wollaston Whist club is happy over the result of the Mystic Valley league tournament, as the club's representatives won the grand club prize by a good margin over Waltham.

The final summary is:

Wollaston club,	68 plus
Waltham club,	60 plus
Central club,	47 plus
Old Belfry club,	26 plus
Alter Ego club,	7 plus

The were 14 tables at Somerville on Wednesday evening. Gordon Eaton and F. T. James of Wollaston were top men east and west with 14 1-2. G. E. Curry and J. T. Slade of Wollaston were third with 6 1-2. Playing north and south H. H. Ward and W. J. Hatch of Wollaston and R. T. Anthony and H. A. Stevens of Wollaston also had plus scores of 2 1-2 each. The other four Wollaston pairs had minus scores.

New Studies.

Ira Litchfield, the contractor, has been at work at the High school for the past two weeks getting the domestic science and manual training rooms in readiness. Closets, tables and other necessary paraphenalia have been put in the domestic science room, and it resembles somewhat the kitchen of a large hotel with its gas stoves and long tables. In the manual training room there have been put numerous cabinets, etc., and this room resembles a carpenter's shop. Mr. Litchfield has had considerable experience in this line of work, having fitted up two domestic science rooms at the Woodward Institute which are models.

Has Boston Office.

Rev. E. W. Hunt, recently pastor of the Unitarian church at Wollaston, has opened an office in Huntington chambers, Boston, room 417. Sunday afternoon he will preach in Potter hall, Boston, on "The healing power of Jesus." It is reported that Rev. F. G. Wiggins of the Unity church of Boston offered his pulpit to Rev. Mr. Hunt, but other plans had been made at the time.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

The Fore Rivers and the Jamaica A. A. will play an interesting game of association football Saturday afternoon at the Ward Two playgrounds. The game will be at the playgrounds instead of on the team's own field because of the heavy condition of the latter place at this time of the year.

The following item from the Detroit Free Press may be of interest to local yachtsmen:

"Did you ever wonder if there was system in the way vessels are faced when they are placed at the docks for the winter?" asked A. A. Schantz, as he stood at his office window, looking out at the winter fleet which shut off the view of the river. You will notice," he continued, "that some of the boats face one way and some the other, from which you would naturally infer that there wasn't any method about it, but if you had a picture of the same boats laid up last year you would invariably discover that then they were turned the other way. The vessels are reversed from year to year for the reason that, laying at the docks, one side is much more exposed to the weather than the other, not so much the wind and rain as the sunlight reflected from the water. A boat wintered always in one position will require new bulwarks and decking on the water side in just half the time required to rot the timbers on the unexposed side. When you consider that the decking and bulwarks of a ship must be entirely renewed once every seven or eight years the scheme of reversing the vessel really works a great saving."

Men and Women Tell Experience

One of the most enjoyable socials of the church year was held at Hall Place M. E. church on Tuesday evening of this week. Some time ago the members of the Ladies' Aid pledged to raise each one dollar, and to present this with "the experience" at a social to be held in March. So many wonderful "doings" came to the ears of the men of the congregation that they decided to try the same plan in helping along the finances with the result that the "joint social" on Tuesday evening produced some $60, with experiences of many kinds, some of which were exceedingly amusing. The stories related called forth many rounds of applause and most certainly afforded entertainment for the many present. During the evening a well rendered solo was sung by Mrs. Merrill, and an amusing character sketch by the Misses Shirley, Burke, Loud and Doble, Mrs. McNeil and Mrs. Blaisdell, was presented with much skill. The social hour that followed was homelike, and enjoyable. Refreshments were served by the ladies free to all.

The missionary address to be delivered by Rev. Dr. Stokes of Boston at Hall Place M. E. church Sunday morning, Mar. 22, will be well worth hearing and it is expected that many will be present. Dr. Stokes was for some time superintendent of missions in India, and has the ability to interest his audiences on the great work he represents. Dr. Stokes will also speak at the above church in the evening at 7 o'clock on a theme of much importance. All will find a most cordial welcome.

MINT JULEP LAMENT.

Dixie's Sons In New York Bewail Dry Days Down Home.

Hoke Smith of Georgia was suggested as a candidate for the presidency on the Prohibition ticket the other night by Mirabeau L. Towns at the dinner of the Southern society in New York.

Over each table was a gayly colored lantern bearing the nickname of the state to which the guests seated there belonged. The Georgia contingent gathered under "Crackers," those from North Carolina had "Tar Heels" above them, while the Mississippi guests were designated as "Mossbacks."

Mr. Towns responded to the toast "Georgia." He was telling of the glories of the Empire State of the South of her great resources, her splendid history, and when he spoke of her men as "brave, staid and sober" he was interrupted with the laughter of the diners.

"That's so," he said. "They are certainly sober down there now since they have prohibition. Why, Hoke Smith was elected governor of the state only on his promise that he would not take a drink within the borders of the state for two years. And these prohibitionists, who are becoming so plentiful in this country, are going to make him their leader. With Bryan and Roosevelt running out the trusts and Hoke Smith with the prohibitionists chasing alcohol away, there will be life in the old land yet."

All the speakers were poetical, but the effusion of Judge Charles F. Moore, who spoke for Virginia, took on the nature of a lament. It was original, was entitled "The South Is Going Dry" and was greatly applauded by the diners. It was as follows:

Lay the jest about the julep
In the camphor balls at last,
For the miracle has happened,
And the olden days are past.
That which made Milwaukee famous
Does not foam in Tennessee,
And the lid in Alabama
Is as tight locked as can be.
And the genial paper colonel
And his cronies well may sigh,
For the julep is waxing gayly,
And the south is going dry.

By the spring side on the hillside
In Kentucky all is still,
And the only deep refreshment
Must be dipped up from the rill.
North Carolina's stately governor
Gives his soda glass a shove
And discusses local option
With the South Carolina gov.
It is useless at the fountain
To be winkful of the eye,
For the cocktail glass is dusty,
And the south is going dry.

It is water, water everywhere,
And not a drop to drink.
We no longer hear the music
Of the mellow crystal clink,
And the colonel and the general
And the major and the jedge
Meet to have a little "nip"
To give the appetite an edge.
For the eggnog now is nogless,
And the "rye" has gone awry,
And the punch bowl holds carnations.
And the south is going dry.

QUESTION OF TIME

The Family Of Governor Give Up Hope Of Recovery

CURTIS GUILD, JR.

Boston, March 21.—The condition of Governor Guild remains extremely critical, although there has been little actual change, the governor holding his own well.

It is freely admitted that Guild's condition has reached a stage where it is a question of life or death, with the chances apparently against his recovery. It will probably be known definitely today whether he will win the gallant struggle he is making against a complication of diseases.

Numerous attempts to obtain definite information from the attending physicians of the exact nature of the diseases have proved unavailing. The bulletins give the public very little idea of the conditions prevailing in the sick room.

From outside sources, however, it is said that the governor, in addition to inflammatory rheumatism, is suffering from uraemia and an inflammation of the membrane lining the cavities of the heart. It is also stated that the liver is in bad condition.

NOON BULLETIN.

This bulletin on Gov. Guild was given out at 11 o'clock this morning:

"The Governor passed a fair night but was somewhat restless. He is holding his own well, but his condition is unchanged."

EXTRA.

A dispatch from the American Press Association at 1.30 says:

"The family of Gov. Guild have given up all hope of his recovery. The Governor can not recover. The end now is said to be only a question of time."

—A city firm hung out a sign, "Boy Wanted." In less than five minutes a red-headed little chap stepped into the office with the sign under his arm. "Say, mister," he said, "did you hang this out?" —Mother used to say, "Do your work so well that you won't have to do it over again."

—"Well, he's not handsome," said the tourist, taking his first look at a Florida alligator, "but he has a deal of openness when he smiles."

WELLESLEY STUDENT

To Christen The Light Vessel To Be Launched Monday Afternoon

Miss Elsie Johnson of New York, a student at Wellesly College, will christen the Light Vessel to be launched by the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. of this city on Monday next at 2.30 P. M. The launching will be private, but the public may witness the dip to good advantage from the Quincy Point bridge or New Downer Landing.

U. S. Light-vessel No. 90 is one of four similar vessels being built by the Fore River Company for the Light-House Board, and is constructed of mild steel throughout to the following dimensions:—

	Ft.	In.
Length overall	135	9
Length on load waterline	113	0
Breadth molded	29	0
Depth of hold	15	4

Displacement in salt water ..660 tons

The Lightship has a raking stem and elliptical stern and when completed will be rigged with two lantern masts and a jigger mast. She is of the spar deck type on which are constructed pilot house and two lantern houses. Transverse steel bulkheads divide the vessel into seven watertight compartments, the amidship ones being untilized as boiler room and engine room, the holds for the stowage of fresh water tanks and the ends as trimming tanks.

Special apparatus has been provided and will be installed for hoisting the lens lanterns, fog bell and belry, fog signal gear, etc., as usual in this class of vessel.

The propelling machinery consists of a set of compound inverted direct acting surface condensing engines with cylinders 16-inches and 31-inches in diameter with a stroke of 24-in., furnished with steam by two Scotch boilers, which in addition to supplying the main engines will provide power for auxiliaries and heating the vessel.

NEW COVENANT.

The pastor, Rev. A. R. Atwood, of the Washington Street church, preaches Sunday morning, March 22, upon the topic: "A church without a creed," or "Salvation not thro' a church creed but thro' christian character."

At last week's annual meeting, the church adopted the following new covenant:

"Acknowledging my dependence upon Almighty God, and having repented of my sins and forsaken them, I hereby confess my belief in God, as my Father; in his Son, Jesus Christ, as my Saviour; and in his Holy Sirit, as my guide.

"I accept the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments ,and especially the teachings of Jesus, as the highest authority in matters of faith and practice, but in the interpretation of the same, and in the expression of religious belief, I assert the right and duty of private judgment.

"I promise to labor for the coming of the Kingdom of God, and to live in the spirit of sacrifice and of service for the church and all mankind."

Life in Norway.

At Bethany Church tomorrow evening there will be a service of special interest to the public. The church has conducted for the past two years work among the Norwegians of the city . On Sunday evening there will be a Norwegian service with addresses by Dr. Hardy and Rev. Ludvig J. Pedersen of Boston. Mr. Pedersen's address on "Life in Norway" will be in English, and beautifully illustrated by stereopticon lantern photographs. "There will be singing in Norwegian by a male octette. The public and especially the Norwegians of the city are cordially invited to the service.

"HANDSOME PROFIT"

Augmented by an Extra Profit of Nearly $1,520,000

FACTS GLEANED BY LILLEY

Has Testimony of Naval Experts to Show That Submarine Boats, Built at Cost Not Exceeding $70,000, Had Purchase Price of $285,000

Washington, March 21.—In support of his assertion that more than $1,000,000 in unnecessary profits has been paid by the United States government to the Electric Boat company, in the purchase of submarine torpedo boats, and that similar high profits are contemplated in contracts it is proposed to award to that company, Representative Lilley of Connecticut has prepared for submission to the special submarine investigating committee of the house certain statements, comparisons and conclusions.

The statements include extracts from the hearings before the house committee on naval affairs in 1901 and 1902, when Admirals Melville, O'Neil and Bowles were examined as to the cost of construction of submarine torpedo boats. Admiral O'Neil said that from his own observation he thought $100,000 apiece would be a very liberal price for the Holland boats. The contracts of which Lilley complains call for a purchase price of $285,000 per boat. Admiral Melville testified that the probable cost of the manufacture of a Holland boat was about $50,000 and $70,000.

This statement was made in 1901, when the Holland boat was fifty-four feet long and it was proposed that this length be increased to eighty feet. The new boats, Melville also said, would have a greater storage battery and would naturally cost more money, probably as much as $90,000.

Admiral Bowles explained that the department had estimated that $125,000 per boat was a proper appropriation, on account of the probable cost of conducting experiments to satisfy the department of the efficiency of the boats before acceptance.

In a note accompanying these quotations Lilley says: "At the time Rear Admiral Bowles made the foregoing statements he was the head of the bureau of construction and repairs of the navy department and necessarily had much to do with the construction of craft of this character."

Mr. Lilley further says: "Basing calculations upon the figures of Admiral Bowles, which he says would give 'a handsome profit' to the builders of the Holland boats—namely, $89,459 for a 121-ton boat, or $745.45 per ton—it will readily be seen by comparative statements that there has been an extra handsome profit of $1,519,738 since the United States contracted for the first Holland boat, the Plunger, in 1899, and it will be seen that the excessive profits to be made on the eight boats which it is now proposed to buy from the Electric Boat company would be $1,471,520.

"I submit a comparative statement of the bids submitted by the Electric Boat company and the Lake Torpedo Boat company for the construction of submarines, on April 30, 1907, from which it appears that the submarines to be constructed by the Electric Boat company are to cost on an average about $320 per ton more than the prices offered by the Lake Torpedo Boat company, under guarantees required by the navy department and subject to the performance prescribed prior to acceptance. By this statement it will also be seen that the lowest price of the Lake Torpedo Boat company is $800 per ton, which approaches very closely the price given by Admiral Bowles.

"The foregoing facts and conditions influenced me to introduce house resolution No. 264, and it is believed that an official statement of the facts therein asked for would go a great way to disabuse the illusions in the minds of the Electric Boat company and their agents and representatives, technical and nontechnical, as to the practical merits of the boats they claim are so good."

Mr. Lilley concludes with the declaration that "these boats have been most expensive implements of warfare, without rendering any practical value in return."

MARKET IS DEMORALIZED

Great Print Cloth Mills at Fall River Will Curtail Production

Fall River, Mass., March 21.—Simultaneously with a drop of 1-4 cent in the price of print cloths notices were posted in the seven mills of the Fall River Iron Works company and the works of the American Printing company, all owned by M. C. D. Borden, announcing that those plants would be closed all next week and alternate weeks until four weeks' curtailment has been completed.

The Iron Works mills have not been shut down for curtailment of production for ten years. This immense plant and the American Print works are the largest producers of printed fabrics in the United States.

The print cloth market is in a demoralized condition, the eighty-five mills of Fall River combined selling but 20,000 pieces during the past week. The normal production of Fall River mills is 250,000 pieces of print cloth weekly, but the output has been far below this amount for months, due to a general curtailment, which still continues.

Lowell, Mass., March 21.—The Lowell machine shop, which is being operated forty-five hours a week, laid off 300 men last night for an indefinite time. In all, 800 have been laid off since the business depression, leaving 1200 on the payroll.

Wage Reduction at Fitchburg

Fitchburg, Mass., March 21.—A 10 percent wage reduction will go into effect at the cotton mills of the Parkhill Manufacturing company in this city on March 30. Eleven hundred hands are employed in the company's three mills.

More Criticism of Roosevelt

Washington, March 21.—President Roosevelt was roundly denounced in the house of representatives by Mr. Hardwick (Ga.) for failing to send to congress all information regarding corporations which had come into his possession. Mr. Mann (Ills.) asserted that the president acted with the utmost good faith in sending to congress all the information that had come to him. A resolution by Hardwick to require the president to supply the house with all data so far obtained by the bureau of corporations was tabled, 148 to 115.

Ruef Under $1,115,000 Bail

San Francisco, March 21.—Abraham Ruef, indicted on 116 charges of bribery, appeared before the appellate court on a writ of habeas corpus issued by that court to consider a possible reduction in the amount of his bail, which aggregates $1,115,000. Ruef contends that this sum is exorbitant. The case went over.

Anarchy Threatened In Hayti

Port au Prince, Hayti, March 21.—The city is tranquil, but the natives are still greatly excited and the situation remains tense. Judge Marius of the supreme court, who is a refugee at the French legation here, says the combined intervention of the powers is absolutely necessary to prevent anarchy.

Congo Question Referendum

Brussels, March 21.—Several of the Brussels newspapers announce that a bill probably will be presented shortly asking the senate to declare that a referendum on the Congo question is necessary.

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE Young Men's Christian Association OF QUINCY, MASS.

(Legal Title - Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

Mabel's Theory.

"See what I got!" cried Bobby, a city bred boy, as he came running from a chicken coop, holding in his hand a china egg.

"Oh, go put it back!" exclaimed Mabel, his six-year-old sister. "That's the egg the hen measures by."

WHICH WAS THE WISER?

Two men toiled side by side from sun to sun,
And both were poor;
Both sat with children when the day was done
About their door.

One saw the beautiful in crimson cloud
And shining moon;
The other, with his head in sadness bowed,
Made night of noon.

One loved each tree and flower and singing bird
On mount or plain;
No music in the soul of one was stirred
By leaf or rain.

One saw the good in every fellow man
And hoped the best;
The other marveled at his Master's plan
And doubt confessed.

One, having heaven above and heaven below,
Was satisfied;
The other, discontent, lived on in woe
And hopeless died.

—Sarah K. Bolton.

The Flustered Father.

Lincoln Beachey, the Toledo aeronaut, was being congratulated on the $2,000 prize that he won with his dirigible balloon at St. Louis.

"And how did you feel when you found yourself the victor?" a young girl asked.

"Why, I felt excited, flustered. I felt just like my old Toledo friend, John Humphreys, at the time his first baby came. To Jack Humphreys, cowering in his library, the doctor entered.

"'Congratulations, Mr. Humphreys!' the doctor said. 'A fine twelve pound baby, sir.'

"'Glorious!' shouted Jack hysterically. 'And am I father or a mother, doc?'"

Fixing the Error.

A teacher in a Connecticut district school gave one of her pupils these two sentences to correct:

"The hen has three legs."

"Who done it?"

The little fellow looked at his slate a minute and then seriously wrote:

"The hen didn't done it. God done it."—Lippincott's.

Why They Cried.

Two Irishmen who had just landed were eating their dinner in a hotel, when Pat spied a bottle of horseradish. Not knowing what it was, he partook of a big mouthful, which brought tears to his eyes.

Mike, seeing Pat crying, exclaimed, "Phat be ye crying fer?"

Pat, wishing to have Mike fooled also, exclaimed, "I'm crying fer me poor ould mother, who's dead way over in Ireland."

By and by Mike took some of the radish, whereupon tears filled his eyes. Pat, seeing them, asked his friend what he was crying for.

Mike replied, "Because ye didn't die at the same time yer poor ould mother did."

No Exceptions to This Rule.

"Willie," said a fond mother earnestly, "you should go to bed early. 'Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise,' you know. You should go to bed with the sun—the chickens go to bed with the sun."

"Yes, I know they do, mamma, but the old hen—she always goes with 'em!"

Killing Chinamen.

A schoolmaster, wishing to impress upon his class the great population of China, said, "The population of China is so great that two Chinamen die every time you take a breath."

This information made a deep impression upon his young pupils, particularly one small boy at the foot of the class. His face was flushed, and he was puffing furiously.

"What is the matter?" inquired the schoolmaster, with alarm. "What on earth are you doing, Tommy?"

"Killing Chinamen, sir. I don't like them foreigners what me father calls aliens, so I'm getting rid of them as fast as I can."—Ladies' Home Journal.

His Great Error.

While at the head of a course on railways at Harvard a few years ago, Professor Hugo R. Meyer had occasion to give his class a few figures having to do with car mile prices. When the course met again he apologized in a voice bowed down by weight of woe for a mistake he had made.

"I said that the figures for such and such were 5.00695282," he explained in his contrition. "That was not exact. I should have said 5.00695283."

A Good Samaritan.

Passing an apartment house in the small hours of the morning, he noticed a man leaning limply against the doorway.

"What's the matter?" he asked.

"Drunk?"

"Yep."

"Do you live in this house?"

"Yep."

"Do you want me to help you upstairs?"

"Yep."

With much difficulty he half dragged, half carried the drooping figure up the stairway to the second floor.

"What floor do you live on?" he asked. "Is this it?"

"Yep."

Rather than face an irate wife who might perhaps take him for a companion more at fault than her spouse, he opened the first door he came to and pushed the limp figure in.

He groped his way downstairs again. As he was passing through the vestibule he was able to make out the dim outlines of another man, apparently in worse condition than the first one.

"What's the matter?" he asked. "Are you drunk too?"

"Yep," was the feeble reply.

"Do you live in this house too?"

"Yep."

"Shall I help you upstairs?"

"Yep."

He pushed, pulled and carried him to the second floor, where this man also said he lived. He opened the same door and pushed him in.

As he again reached the front door he discerned the shadow of a third man, evidently worse off than either of the other two. He was about to approach him when the object of his solicitude lurched out into the street and threw himself into the arms of a passing policeman.

"For heaven's sake, officer," he gasped, "protect me from that man! He's done nothin' all night long but carry me upstairs an' throw me down th' elevator shaf'!"—Everybody's.

From Different Points.

"Father, you were born in California, you say?"

"Yes, my son."

"And mother was born in New York?"

"Yes."

"And I was born in Indiana?"

"Yes, my boy."

"Well, father, don't it beat the Dutch how we all got together!"

All Wind.

In a country church a young minister used in his sermon for an illustration of storm and peace the storm on the lake of Galilee. That storm was depicted as one of lightning and thunder and rain and wind. As he came out of the church one of the members tackled him, saying:

"That was a wonderful description of thine of the storm. Who told you it thundered and lightened and rained?"

"Why, those are the natural accompaniments of a storm."

"If you had read your Bible you would have seen that it was a storm of wind, just like yours."

A Sure Index.

"Do you know anything about the people who have moved in next door?" asked the visitor.

"No. It was dark when the furniture wagons brought their goods, and they have not hung out a washing yet."

Wizardry of Wolseley.

The loss of an eye years ago once stood Lord Wolseley in good stead. It seemed impossible to get any information of the enemy's strength and the forces under the command of Arabi Pasha. At length an Arab was caught near one of the outposts. Naturally expecting that he would be able to give a good deal of information, he was taken before Lord Wolseley, who questioned him. The man, however, refused to speak.

"It is no use your refusing to answer me," he said to the man. "I am a wizard, and at a single word I can destroy you and your masters. To prove this to you I will take out my eye, throw it up in the air, catch it, and put it back into my head."

Suiting the action to the word, Lord Wolseley removed his glass eye, threw it into the air, caught it, and put it back again into the empty socket. That demonstration was sufficient to convert the Arab. He capitulated without further demur, and the information he gave led to Arabi's defeat.

Her Explanation of It.

A mother was nursing her baby when baby balked and refused to take his nourishment. The mother remarked that she couldn't understand why baby refused his dinner.

Helen, six years old, the daughter of a neighbor, was gravely watching the performance, when suddenly her face brightened and she said:

"I know, Mrs. Smith; maybe the milk tastes of garlic!"

Esther's Sunday school class were grouped about the teacher reciting their catechism lesson for the week. Esther's family had struggled with her young mind in a desperate endeavor to teach her the answers by repeating them to her over and over again, and Esther felt confident that she knew them. The teacher presently smiled down upon the little girl and said, "Now, Esther, you may tell me 'by what alone are we saved?'"

Esther promptly delivered herself of this remarkable answer: "By God's almighty powders and free grapes!"—Lippincott's.

Why the Piper Keeps Prancing.

A little boy listening to the weird skirl of bagpipes of a street performer once said to his father:

"Father, why does the piper keep on the move all the time he plays?"

"I can't say, my boy, unless it is to prevent any one getting the range with a cobblestone."

How He Found the Key.

"Gracious, George," she said to her brother, returning after a week in the country and discovering her wardrobe empty, "where are all my clothes? And what in the world is that great black patch on the lawn?"

"Maria," George replied consolingly, 'you wrote to me that if I wanted the key of the billiard room I should find it in the pocket of your bolero. Well, I don't know a bolero from a fichu or a box plait, so I took all the things to the lawn and burned them. Then I recovered the key from the ashes."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Little Watts

By Frank H. Sweet.

Copyright, 1907, by Frank H. Sweet.

NO matter how cold or stormy it was Little Watts was always waiting for his papers in front of the Daily Leader office at half past 4 in the morning. It was often stormy and always cold at that hour in the thriving and populous Rocky mountain mining town in which the Leader was published, and Little Watts lived a mile from the office in a poor wooden house near one of the great mines.

I met him one morning hurrying down the stony, deserted, unlighted street. The wind was blowing keen and cold, the air was filled with fine, sleety snowflakes, and I thought when I saw Little Watts that the fates had not been kind to the boy or he would have been warm and snug in bed at home at that hour.

But the Leader was published every morning, and Little Watts had regular customers at whose doors he left his papers before he hurried away to the early morning trains.

He was only twelve years old and small for his years, and he would never be much larger or stronger. A great hump between his narrow shoulders told a sorrowful story of a fall down a long flight of tenement house stairs when he was only two years old.

It was often my duty to count out to the boys the papers as they came from the press. That is how I happened to know Little Watts.

His name was Clarence, but I never heard him called by any other name than Little Watts.

I remember when I saw the boy and heard his name for the first time. It was the first morning I gave the papers out to the boys. The Leader that morning contained one of the matters of important news that always increase the demand for the papers, and the moment the office door was opened the newsboys came pushing and scrambling in, each eager to be first.

Suddenly the largest of the boys, a low browed, thick lipped, stocky fellow, began to beat the other boys back.

"Git back, fellers!" he shouted. "Git back, I tell ye! Ye're scrougin' the life out o' Little Watts! Ye know he allus gits his papers fust. Git back, now!"

The other boys fell back, and out from among them came Little Watts, bearing evidence of having been pretty severely "scrouged."

His hat had fallen off, and he limped as he struggled forward. The rough boy who had befriended him in a way so surprising to me found his hat and put it on the boy's head, while he said:

"Ain't hurt, are ye, Wattsy? No? Well, that's good. Git yer papers now and light out, for they'll go like hot cakes this mornin'."

There stood next to the house in which I boarded a small house containing two or three rooms, which had not been occupied for several weeks.

One evening as I went home I saw cheap paper shades at the windows of this little tenement. Smoke was rising from the chimney, and on the step of the open door sat Little Watts playing on a harmonicon.

The door was within three feet of the street, and I stopped to say: "How do you do, Little Watts? Are you going to live here?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then we shall be neighbors. I live next door."

"I'm glad of it, sir," said Little Watts politely.

"You must come in and see me some time," I said. "I have a good many books, and you may use any that you like to read."

"GIT BACK, I TELL YE!"

A small, thin faced woman came to the door and looked inquiringly from me to Little Watts.

He rose and said: "Mother, this is Mr. Hart of the Leader. You've heard me speak about him."

"So I have," said Mrs. Watts quickly. "The Leader folks are real good to my boy, sir. He tells me about it, and I'm very much obliged."

The window of my room looked out upon the house which the Watts family occupied. A day or two after their arrival I was sitting in my open window. The windows of the other house were also open, and through them came the sound of some one singing in a wonderfully clear and sweet voice. I laid down my book to listen. The words came distinct and beautiful:

"Flow gently, sweet Afton, among thy green braes—Flow gently; I'll sing thee a song in thy praise."

Could it be Little Watts singing in such a voice? While I looked and listened I saw Little Watts coming from a well at the back of the house with a pail of water.

I could not restrain my curiosity. As he came near my window I asked, "Who is that singing?"

"My sister Elise," he answered eagerly, his face beaming.

"She has a wonderful voice," I said.

"Hasn't she, though?" exclaimed Little Watts, with more enthusiasm than I had ever before seen in him.

"Did you ever hear any of those big singers?" he went on.

"Yes."

"Can they sing any better than she can?"

"Well, they are much older than your sister, and of course they are highly trained. How old is your sister?"

"Sixteen."

Before many days I and others in our neighborhood sat in the scantily

I ASKED, "WHO IS THAT SINGING?"

furnished living room of Mrs. Watts' house and heard Elise sing.

Mrs. Watts was a widow, and Elise and Clarence were her only children. A small pension partly supported their wants, and Mrs. Watts and Elise took in plain sewing when they could get it, but Little Watts' earnings from the sale of his papers were their chief source of income.

It seemed to me that they might live a little more comfortably, but one day Little Watts confided a secret to me.

"We're saving for Elise," he said. "She's going to be a big singer some day after she's gone away and studied and had a chance. I'm saving up for that."

This was the reason why Little Watts wore such shabby clothes, and this was why their home was so poor and bare and their table so scantily supplied. This was why Little Watts walked the streets in all kinds of weather, crying his papers at an hour when other boys slept.

One, two years passed. I was still in the Leader office. Little Watts still came before daylight for his papers and was called Little Watts still, for he was not noticeably larger or stronger than when I saw him first. He still lived next door to my own home, and—Elise was going away.

She had been singing in church choirs and at concerts, and some ladies who had become interested in her, but who were unable to lend her money for her study, had given her a benefit concert, which the Leader had widely advertised without charge on account of Little Watts.

But most of the money that was to pay for Elise's two years of study in the east had been or would be earned by Little Watts.

"But when I come back he shall work no more," Elise said to me, with the tears in her eyes. "I shall earn it then, and he shall go to New York to study drawing and engraving. He's so eager to learn it, you know, but he won't say much about it or even think about it until I begin to earn money."

Quite a little company of us went to the station to see Elise off. Of course Little Watts was there. His large eyes were shining through their tears, and his white face was wreathed in smiles, though I knew his heart ached with sorrow at the thought of two years without her.

But the boy cried his papers just as loudly and cheerily as ever next day—the Leader in the morning, when day was breaking, and the Times at night, when the day was gone.

I often met him hurrying around the corners of almost deserted streets or paying a last visit to the hotels, where he hoped to sell another paper at an hour when all other newsboys had gone home.

Every paper he sold counted, not for himself, but for Elise. He and his mother lived upon the pension and her sewing.

Every month a draft to the amount of all of Little Watts' earnings went to New York to Elise, and every week she wrote encouraging letters of what her teachers said about her voice and of her hopes for the future.

"I knew they'd have to say her voice wasn't anything common." Little Watts said proudly to me when the first of her letters came. "I knew she'd astonish 'em!"

Twice the mountains changed from green to white and from white to green. They were changing to white again when Elise wrote the letter that told when she would start for home.

Little Watts brought me the letter to read.

"I shall reach home about the last day of October," she wrote. "You need not send me any more money. I am afraid you have sent me too much now. It is time for me to begin paying it back to you. You must be here next year and I at home working and earning money for you. If I'm not too tired, I shall sing for you and mother the very night I come. I'm so anxious to show you how well your money has been spent!"

She was delayed a little and came on the third day of November. It was on the afternoon of the first day of that month that the man whose duty it now was to give out the papers said to me:

"Little Watts didn't show up for his papers this morning. It's the first morning he's failed to come since I've been here. I wonder if he's sick?"

"Not that I know of," I replied. "It was a terribly stormy morning, you know."

"The weather has never made any difference with him before. He's been on hand the first one many a morning worse than this. Poor little chap! How he's escaped pneumonia as long as he has is a wonder to me."

The sun had not shone for three days. First rain and then snow had fallen nearly all the time. A fierce cold wind had swept down from the mountains. The barren town had never seemed so gloomy and cheerless and desolate to me as it did now.

At noon I went to see Little Watts. His mother came to the door and said briefly and in a low tone, for Little Watts was in the next room and the door was open:

"He's real sick. The doctor is afraid it's going to be pneumonia. I've tried to keep him in the last three days, but he would go out. You see why."

Her eyes were full of tears as she pointed toward the corner of the room. There stood a shining upright piano, with a stool of crimson velvet before it.

"He made the first payment on them yesterday," Mrs. Watts said. "He was so anxious to have them here for Elise."

"Well, he's a perfect little hero, Mrs. Watts," I said under my breath, but heartily. "I believe he will be able to fight off even the pneumonia for the sake of Elise."

He was worse the next day.

"He'll never be any better," said the doctor in the afternoon when I met him coming out of the shabby little house.

In the evening Little Watts said in a whisper:

"She'll be here in the morning, won't she?"

"At 8 o'clock," I said.

"Then I'll hear her sing again," he answered.

The wind died away in the night. The skies cleared. All of the distant ranges, the nearer hills and the streets of the town were white with snow when the sun came out the next morning.

Elise came at 8 o'clock. Little Watts pulled himself up on his pillows to meet her and welcome her.

There was no sign in his eyes or face of sorrow in his heart at this ending of all his own hopes and plans for the future. He met Elise with a smile and with tearless eyes. For a moment she thought it must all have been a mistake about his being so ill.

"Now go and sing for me," he said after a few minutes.

They rolled his bed to the door that he might see her at the new piano. Elise sat before it with streaming eyes and sang the little ballads and the old songs he had loved so well.

"There was one," he whispered, "about 'the shining shore' and 'my Father hath many mansions.' Won't you sing that, Elise?"

She sang it with trembling voice, and while she was singing Little Watts looked up with wide open eyes as if he were gazing at something wonderful that he could not see and then sank back, his eyes closed forever.

A Long Background.

There is a nice stock of spring disorders already on hand to choose from. Make selection at once and avoid the rush.

The predatory rich have reason to be thankful that the poor are not, as a class, predatory, for they are many.

There is sometimes a very great difference between wanting what you didn't get and getting what you didn't want.

A boastful man may not have much to be thankful for, but be assured that he will make the most of it.

A woman wants everything she wants, but she would like to see the man that could get it for her.

Some people don't seem to be able to live within their income; neither are they able to live without one.

It is easy to excuse a man for swearing if he is swearing on your side.

After a man has proposed and been accepted he swells up and wonders how he could ever have been afraid to pop.

The dim religious feeling that you sometimes have may be due to yesterday's baked beans.

Look before you leap may be good advice, but it does not apply when a bulldog is getting inquisitive regarding your personality.

Maybe He Would.

Bill Jones he likes to sit around
And tell what he would do
If he were only president
For just a term or two.
He'd drive the grafters from the land
And give good men a show
And have an honest government.
Perhaps! We'll never know.

Were Bill Jones but a congressman,
You bet the fur would fly.
The troubles of the crooked rich
Each day would multiply.
He'd give the nation's treasure box
A chance to overflow
If he were there a-running things.
Perhaps! We'll never know.

He wouldn't let the ship of state
Sail any way but straight;
He wouldn't make all grand reforms
Out in the lobby wait,
And every bill would have to be
Exactly on the square.
For there would be no monkey work
If only Bill were there.

It seems a pity that we can't Get statesmen of that sort—
Some men of whom when they were there
We'd hear but good report.
Bill Joneses lurk on every side,
But, really, what's the use
Since no one rises up to say,
"Come on, Bill; cut 'er loose?"

Usually the Case.

"He is very easy going."

"Yes, but I notice he is also very hard coming when any work is in question."

Chance to Get In Bad.

"Is your husband out?" asked the book agent.

"Well, in a way," replied the lady.

"I don't get that," exclaimed the book agent. "A person must be one or the other."

"He is in all right, but he is out of sorts. My millinery bill just came."

The agent concluded not to experiment.

Less Happiness.

The proud father was setting up the cigars because of the arrival of his firstborn.

"What is he so happy about?" asked one who wasn't on.

"Because," replied the grouchy old bachelor, "it wasn't twins."

Had the Flavor.

"My husband made this salad. How do you like it?"

"But you gave him the recipe."

"No; he made it out of his own head."

"I thought I tasted calf's brains in it."

True Art.

"Where did you get that disgraceful black eye?"

"Nothing disgraceful about that."

"Why not?"

"Because it is hand painted."

Not His Idea.

"I didn't see none of the scenery they brag so much about."

"Been over the road?"

"Sure, and they ain't nothing along the hull way but mountains."

EDITORIAL.

When a town whose population is less than Quincy can on a low tax rate make such appropriation as are recommended in Brookline today it is time that the tax laws were changed as proposed in the Legislature, so that cities like Quincy may live. It is not because the town of Brookline is better administered but because the town is unduly favored by unjust laws. Just note some of these appropriations and the total which is three times as large as in Quincy:

School, $221.109.
Public Library, $21,000.
Water works, $54,450.
Parks, public grounds and cemeteries, $29,750.
Highways and street watering, $190,800.
Public safety and health, which includes fire and police departments, $266,608.
Sewers and water drains, $31,500.
Support of poor and soldiers' relief, $8,806.
State, county and metropolitan taxes, $340,292.31.
Maturing town debt, $117,861.
Interest and temporary loans, $51,861.73.
General administration expenses, $91,900.

There are two items in which Quincy excells Brookline, and for which it has reason to be proud. Quincy appropriated this year $10,000 for the Poor department, and $8,000 for State and Military Aid and Soldiers Relief, while Brookline lumped all these items and appropriates but $8,800, less than one-half as much as Quincy. A change of the tax laws would work no hardship in Brookline, but would materially help deserving towns.

For Lieutenant Governor.

There is a growing sentiment that is quite noticeable in this section of the state says the Taunton Herald-News, in favor of Robert Luce, of Somerville, as candidate for the lieutenant-governorship, and reports come to us from various other parts of the Old Colony, indicating a like sentiment in Plymouth, Barnstable, and Bristol counties. Mr. Luce's candidacy will be regarded with a very comfortable feeling on the part of the masses of the people because his whole public career demonstrates that he is a man whose personal integrity is beyond question, whose ability has been shown again and again in his long legislative service, and whose knowledge of state affairs has been gained at first hand.

Mr. Luce for years has fought for honest elections and honesty at elections. As chairman of the election laws committee he has done much toward securing purity at elections, and but for the opposition of active politicians, who do not want any change that will take away their power, he would have been able to do even more.

Mr. Luce stands in Massachusetts for exactly the same things that Governor Hughes stands for in New York—direct nomination, honest election, suppression of corrupt practices in elections, stringent regulation of corporations, yet with perfect justice to them.

He will naturally not have the support of the machine or of the men who play politics the year around for personal gain, but the masses of the people who have watched his career in the legislature can relieve him of this handicap, and judging from the sentiment in this part of the state they intend to do so if he will give them the opportunity they desire.

Italian Case In District Court

A large number of Italians were in attendance at the Quincy court this morning to hear the trial of Domenico Colletti, who it is alleged introduced obscene literature into homes. Colletti is the man who some days ago received a box of rotten vegetables and a letter containing uncomplimentary remarks, and in return sent out several letters.

The question debated in court was whether the words used in the letters were obscene. Counsel for Colletti claimed while the language was vile and dirty, it was not obscene under the meaning of the law. The court took the matter under advisement.

THE PHILERGIANS.

At the meeting of the Philgerians March 17, Mr. Arthur Ubine Dilley had for his subject the fascinating one of "Oriental Rugs." He gave the history of rug weaving, showing that as early at least, as 5,000 B. C. people of Egypt, China and Babylon were weaving rugs from grass and rushes. He illustrated the different knots used in making the two general classes, Turkish and Persian, rugs, and to show the characteristics of different weaves displayed some rare and beautiful rugs. Mr. Dilley showed himself to be a master of his subject.

Miss Maria Daniels will give a chafing dish demonstration on April 7, under the auspices of the Women's Exchange. For a number of reasons it will be necessary to restrict the audience to club members only, and in accordance with our by-law, in regard to guests, (Art. VIII) the president announces that no tickets will be issued to guests for that date.

An Appeal to Get Together

The Dial, a weekly calendar issued by the Unitarian church at Wollaston, comments on the dismissal of the pastor, Rev. E. W. Hunt, as follows:

"Our Society has passed through a period of stress such as, fortunately, comes to few, and the like of which we hope never to know again. We can hardly believe that no scars will remain, but can they not suggest discipline rather than strife, and so enrich our comradeship and increase our co-operation from now onward? We cannot hope to escape a rather dreary time of Candidating before securing another minister, and the Parish Committee will surely require and welcome all thoughtful and sympathetic suggestions to aid in bringing about a satisfactory result. Let us get together, and with nobler effort and greater consecration than ever before, undertake the work that it is the great duty and the great privilege of this Society to do."

San Francisco Earthquake at Scenic.

In addition to the regular change of program of moving pictures and illustrated songs, commencing next Monday night, the Scenic offers as an extra attraction, Josselyn's complete realistic story of the great San Francisco earthquake and fire, which is to be told in a very interesting manner by Mr. William H. Josselyn, who, in company with his wife, was an eye witness of that terrible calamity that caused endless loss of life and destruction of homes and property. Mr. Josselyn does not lecture on the subject, but tells a very interesting story, just as though he were relating the incidents to a personal friend in a conversational way. Those who heard him tell the story of Ben Hur this week were loud in their praises of the manner in which he depicted the life of that hero, and also the tales of the Christ child, and it is upon the earnest request of some of his auditors that Mr. Josselyn has been retained for another week to tell the story of the San Francisco horror. The motion scenes and pictures that accompany this talk were taken specially by Mr. Josselyn at the time, and in themselves are most interesting and instructive to the children as well as grown folks.

TODAY'S COURT.

The case of Domenico Colletti, for introducing obscene literature into houses, was heard and case continued until next week judgment.

The proprietors of the Hippodrome have offered to give the net proceeds of one day to the City Hospital, but there are so many strings attached to the offer that it probably will not be accepted.

The days are now gaining on both ends at the rate of about three minutes a day. Today the sun arose at 5.43 and will set at 5.59, making the length of the day 12 hours and 16 minutes.

Miss Margaret Coveney, Miss Nora Burns, Edward Maclough, Jr., John J. Mogan, Dudley H. Prescott and Miss Mary McKay were the artists to contribute at the concert at St. Mary's hall on St. Patrick's night.

William A. Bradford the plumber, is fitting up the store at the corner of Chestnut and Maple streets for occupancy. He has been for several years under the Savings bank, but increasing business demands more commodious and up-to-date quarters.

No meeting of the City Council will be held next Monday evening, but a special meeting will be called by Mayor Shea for March 30 to draw jurors. It is probable that the call will be so worded that any regular business may be transacted at the special meeting as there are several matters it is desirable to hurry along.

A course of lectures by Mrs. Florence Evans of Dorchester, under the auspices of the Mothers' Association of Quincy, is to be given in Bethany chapel, beginning Thursday, March 26th, at three o'clock. The subjects of the lecture are: March 26, The Persuasive Power of Ideals; April 2, Ideals for Young Children; April 16, Purity Lesson; April 23, Birth Problems and Elemental Lessons in Self Control; April 30, The Sexual Problem. Mrs. Evans is an interesting speaker and knows her subjects thoroughly.

CRAYD KROSINS

Rare Thing To Sea Such Sackrifise of Pursonel Inturests

Editur Metropolitan Ledger:

Thay say Quinzy wood bee biggeon Noo York today ef sow meney fooks hadnt bin killed on Grade Krossins durin the last 1000 years. And now our Sitisons are goin mad on questyin of Abolishin the blamed newsances.

Only the other day I wanted a loyer to su a ortomobeelist, but I coodn't find wun in town. Thayd oil goin to Stait House to git the sharter of our Sity Hoosipital changed so it kool be used eggsclusively for kare of Quinzy's insain ingineers and sirvayurs who have wwoouked on the grate problem of abolishin our grayd krossins.

My darter vus goin to hav a weddin last week, but had to giv it up becus orl the juellars wur out sirvayin.

I tried to get a hors to kart sum sirvayin masheens with but orl the beests in town wuz hitch up in 25 spans lots train to pul a 1000 ton monumeant vound a corner on a 12 1-2 pur cent grayed.

I think 12 1-2 pur cent is to mutch fur ennything. The Banks tride to make me pay that eggsorbitunt rait for discourtin mi noat (which was backed by Bitts, Q. Bysycul Co., and sum other faymus finanseers) but I woodn't stand it. I suspect thare funds ar orl tide up in grayd Krossins skiem, or else thay is hordin munnie so az to bee reddy for the bank eggsaminurs who hav bot tickets for fust ride on the depressed tracks.

My sink pipe gut stopt up and when I went ovur to the Plummers I found the bos and awl hands standin on the sidewark countin the bigg multitood of fokes goin over Sayville Struet krossins. I understood um to sa that 179 was passin evry minit.

It looks as if gardin sasa wood be orful hi next summer for even the farmers are out sirvayin and reckonendin that the present rale-rode-bed be made a boolivard. Its a wondur sum of these sirvayers haint gut run over they wood if the ingines want wearin Kow-Ketchers.

I went to bi a peace of erth ov wun ov our grare real estate oaners he woodnt take no notis ov me: he wuz just layin loe, watchin with a big Bostin loyer side ov im.

I warnted to bi a duzzen monumentz up to South Quinzy, but the stoan men was havin a protracted and hylarsus luv feest ovur thare agremunt and unparaleled harmony after the grate sirvapin toornamint.

I warnt to bi a peace of land sumwhere but the real estate broakers say evrything within fore miles of the rale rode is tied up bi a sindikite who salclate to sel whatever is wanted in the way of erth.

The Borde of Traid and Sitisons Assosheashun hav gut so ful of sirvayers and injinears that thay hav closed thare dores.

I doant mind pluggin up Goff and Franklin Streats but I hate to hav good old Hancock Streat rellegaited to jest a quiet grass-groan lane for kows, and trollie frate. Thare'l be a orful depresheashun in valuews on that Streat when Sayville Streat releaves the konjestyun in Sity Square, and becums the mane artiry between Boston and Noo Yorke.

Ime glad Upland Rode and Irving plase are to be sollemly jined together and then interjunk with Granite Streat. Doant furget to flatten the rale rode curv and make it match on to a lot of uther flat things bein sed and dun. The rale rode fokes mite forget about flattinin things.

If yer meet enybody on the the Streat who seems to be makin fases at yu, doant get mad, fur he is only wun uv hundreds who hav skued fases,—jest from a squintin around the grade krossins.

Yer needunt offur eny poims to the Legger now: thare collums are crowded with nuse and wizdum aboute the sed krossins.

IKE

I hoap nuthin will be dun to desturb the classick arkiteckture uv our imposin and elegantly appinted depo. How wee wood miss that Kaskade, which floes frum roof in wat wether—wer it alloud to run onto the depressed trax instead uv onto our necks.

I doant aprove uv the Maers proposishun to hire a $50,000 expurt inginere:—too much chance for graff, and besides, I believe our own talent is fust class and abul to git a bullgine round, over or under a fore hoss lode of beer kegs sumhow,—without callin on the holl wurld fur Help!

I no a old expurt ingineer rite bear in town, who has run a histin ingin fur 40 years. Now he sees that the unly prackticul sollushun of grayd krossin questyun is to Bore a Tunil from north of Sayville Streat to south of Water street for the kars to go in. We have got a big mess of bores in town and sum of um ort to be abul to take the kontract.

A good point aboute this skeem is that there is a big elevatur at each end of the proposed hole which with a little fixin would carry our tired sitisuns up and down.

If folks object to ridin in a dark hole then the sed injneer prospois to have a suspenshun bridg between the Streats. It would cost only $15,000,000,—which wood be saved by our peapul in stayin away from Niagary and East Rivers. We'd have a stupenders sho rite hear in towne.

When the dark hole and dizzy bridg ar Steryoptioned in Sitty Haul it is proposed to hav a bras band discharg sum hi and lo musick and sow harmonize our disinturested sittisons as well as our pearles sirvayers.

Whilst thare haz ben sum slite variashuns in views of our peapul, Ime glad that on publick occashun when the distingghurst Kommischuners granted a Herein, there wus sutch a display of brutherly unionimity.

Its a rare thing to se such sackrifise of personal inturests and a cordially approval of a plan for kommon good of humanitea. The only real mursenary man Ive heard of, in connexion with the whol matter, is the one who put up prises on the teleskopes levels, taip lines and yard stiks. Whatever happens, doan't disturb the semiterry, for it will bee orl wanted for berrieu plans and hoaps in.

Ike.

DECISION OF CITIZENS

Upon It Rests the Terms of Admission of Immigrants

A BAN ON ASIATIC LABOR

White Race Will Not Allow It to Compete With Their Own--Senator Lodge Sounds Warning of Coming of Arabs to Our Shores

Boston, March 21.—An address upon "Immigration" was delivered before a large gathering of the members of the Boston City club and their friends here last night by Senator Lodge. The meeting was presided over by Mayor Hibbard.

Senator Lodge confined himself almost wholly to a recital of the conditions of the immigration problems as he found them, with a historical review of the evolution of immigration during the past forty years. Leading up to the Japanese and Chinese questions, he declared:

"The power of the American people to determine who shall come into this country and on what terms is absolute. No one has a right to come into the United States, or become part of its citizenship, except by permission of the people of the United States."

Continuing, he said: "We have heard a great deal lately about Japanese immigration, but it is not a subject which ought to lead, or which will lead, to any ill-feeling between the two countries. Japan does not expect, and no nation can expect, that she should have the right to force her people on another nation, and there is no more cause for offense in the desire of our people in the western states to exclude Japanese immigrants than there is in the Japanese edicts which now exclude our working people from Japan.

"Moreover, the sentiment of our people is not peculiar to the United States. It is, if anything, more fervent in British Columbia than in California. The people of Australia exclude the Chinese just as we do, and it may as well be frankly stated that the white race will not admit Asiatic labor to compete with their own in their own countries.

"As for the saying 'the survival of the fittest,' the people who use that phrase never complete it. The whole statement is 'the survival of the fittest to survive,' which is something very different from the survival of what is abstractly the best.

"In the environment of Chinese labor our labor could not long survive as we desire it to exist, and therefore, by an overmastering instinct, our people of the west are determined not to admit Asiatic labor to this country, whether it is Chinese, Japanese or Hindu.

"I think that by and by our working people of the eastern states will begin to question whether they desire to have Arabs, who I see are planning to come in large numbers, and other people from Asia Minor and the west of Asia pour into this country."

"Ty" Cobb Signs With Detroit

Detroit, March 21.—Tyrus Cobb, champion batter of the American league last season, signed a contract last night to play with the Detroit American League club this year. Cobb had been holding out for a three-year contract at $5000 a year. President Navin of the club declined to give details, saying only that the contract was for one year and that the terms were mutually satisfactory.

Fire In Big Hotel

Chicago, March 21.—Fire, resulting from crossed electric light wires, damaged the Grand Pacific hotel to the extent of $100,000 and for a time threatened to destroy the seven-story building. The flames were confined largely to the top floor. No lives were lost, although many of the guests were compelled to make hasty exits by the fire escapes. Three persons were slightly injured.

Prison For Thieving Bankers

Marienburg, Prussia, March 21.—Rudolf Woelko, the banker who was involved in the failure of the Marienburg bank, was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary and ten years' loss of civil rights. His assistant, Julius Schneider, was sentenced to five years in jail and to five years' loss of civil rights.

Lovers Took an Auto Trip

Baltimore, March 21.—Miss Katherine Elkins and the Duke of the Abruzzi came here by automobile from Washington as a surprise to Senator Elkins, who was here to attend the funeral of the late Senator Whyte. Later the three returned to Washington in the automobile.

Abandoned Cigars and Liquors

San Juan, P. R., March 21.—The abandoned sloop Sea Hawk was picked up off Fajardo by the sloop Guillermito and towed to Arroyo. The Sea Hawk was without sails. She had a cargo of cigars and liquors. The papers of the Sea Hawk showed that she hailed from St. Statia.

Dispensary System In Oklahoma

Guthrie, Okla., March 21.—Both houses of the legislature passed the state dispensary system measure with the emergency clause. The governor will sign the bill today. There will be a dispensary in every town of 2000 or more inhabitants and in every county seat.

Mellen Speaks For Merger

Boston, March 21.—Lieutenant Governor Draper, acting governor, transmitted to the house a letter from President Mellen of the New Haven railroad, giving the company's position on the so-called merger, and the statement was referred to the committee on railroads. Points in Mellen's letter are: The New Haven will continue to maintain a Boston headquarters if the merger is allowed. The acquisition of Boston and Maine stock was purely protective. The two railroad systems are non-competitive. The right to hold Boston and Maine stock is a question for the courts.

Sudden Deaths at Boston

Boston, March 21.—Four sudden deaths of an unusual character were recorded in Boston last night. William J. Hall, aged 52, died suddenly in a cell at the South Boston station from heart disease, induced by alcoholism. A similar death occurred at the Dedham street station, when Jeremiah Murphy, aged 65, died in his cell. Mrs. Susan Broad, aged 70, died of natural causes in a street car. George Piper, aged 35, drank some horse medicine he was giving a sick horse and died soon after of poisoning.

For Fewer Athletic Contests

Cambridge, Mass., March 21.—After a prolonged and stormy meeting the Harvard faculty voted to instruct the Harvard athletic committee to reduce the number of intercollegiate athletic contests at the university. When the decision was given out it aroused considerable discussion among the undergraduates, who regard the present schedule of intercollegiate sports as too short.

Hughes Leads at Harvard

Cambridge, Mass., March 21.—The students of Harvard university for nine hours cast their ballots at the office of the Harvard Crimson for their presidential preferences. All told, 1160 ballots were cast, and the result was as follows: For Hughes, 432; Taft, 401; Bryan, 131; Johnson, 105.

Johnson Instead of Bryan

New York, March 21.—Governor Johnson of Minnesota, whose boom for the Democratic nomination for president is threatening the eclipse of Bryan, is to be the guest of honor at the annual Jefferson day dinner of the National Democratic club on April 13. Bryan is to be in town at that time, but has not been invited. This is regarded by politicians as an indication that the Democrats of New York favor Johnson as a candidate for president rather than Bryan.

Suit Over Murderer's Insurance

St. Louis, March 21.—Attorneys representing Public Administrator Troll have instituted suit against the Metropolitan Life Insurance company for $388 insurance on the life of John King, a negro, who was hanged for murder. It is alleged the corporation refuses to pay the policy on the ground that policies are not collectable where persons meet death for violating the law.

Newspaper Man a Suicide

Washington, March 21.—Frank H Hosford, a newspaper correspondent and former reading clerk of the house of representatives, committed suicide here, inflicting eight wounds upon himself with a knife. He had been in ill-health for nearly a year and was despondent. Hosford represented a number of Michigan newspapers. He was born in Marietta, O., in 1863.

Business Still Halts

New York, March 21.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that trade reports indicate a little more activity and the percentage of idle machinery decreases, but more reductions in wages and dividends show that the process of readjustment will take some time. Retailers are not disposed to replenish stocks beyond the business actually in sight.

Senate Passes Ship Subsidy Bill

Washington, March 21.—The ship subsidy bill was passed by the senate. It pays to 16-knot vessels plying between this country and South America, the Philippines, Japan, China and Australia $4 per mile. Twelve-knot vessels will receive $2 per mile.

DINNER $200 A PLATE.

Wine Flowed From a Fountain In an Elaborately Decorated Room.

In a garden of roses, with clinging vines loaded with tropical fruits, Julius Myers, a wealthy cloak manufacturer, entertained a party of friends before dawn the other morning, treating them to one of the costliest meals ever served in New York city. Some figured the cost at $200 a plate and others at $300.

There were fifteen men at the meal, with Mr. Myers making the sixteenth. It was held at a well known restaurant.

The dining hall was reached through arcades of floral arches carried on columns of smilax and evergreens. A cross arch marked off the entrance at the eastern end of the hall, and a line of rectangular flower bowers flanked the western side where the fifty musicians were hidden. Four colossal marble columns supporting statuary marked the space leading to the great dining table.

This had been built up in the center of the hall with huge copper tanks hidden with water lilies and natural flowers, so that the center of the table appeared like a great lake, on which floated live swans and ducks. In the water could be seen live lobsters, crabs and various game fish swimming about. An outer stream about the table was wine that flowed from a fountain in the center.

The cigars cost $5 each and were especially made in Cuba for the dinner.

REVOLVING SIPHON.

An Interesting Experiment With Simple Apparatus.

The principle illustrated in the accompanying cut might readily serve to generate power without the use of machinery. It is given, however, merely as an interesting and easily made experiment.

Pour water into a good sized glass tumbler until it is two-thirds full and stand it upon a canister to give it the necessary elevation. Through the flat cork on the surface of the water is a stout straw which transversely supports one of the same diameter. To the latter are attached two other straws of smaller diameter, each of these having a bit of straw about an inch in length attached to the end at an obtuse angle with the outlets cut on the slant to make easier the exit of the water.

All the joints are hollow and are made water tight with sealing wax. The ends of the transverse straw are likewise closed with the wax, but the ends of the depending straws are left open.

Now, to start this unique homemade apparatus in action let two persons suck the open ends of the depending straws until the water begins to flow, and when they take their mouths away the device will begin to revolve, while the water pours steadily from the open ends.

This revolving siphon will soon empty the tumbler, but you may keep the action up as long as you please by pouring water in as fast as the straws let it pour out.

TRAIN O' THOUGHT.

An Interesting Game That Requires Nimble Wits.

A good game for players of nimble wits is called train o' thought.

Here the hostess or the leader begins by announcing a word, which all players write at the head of their tablets.

Afterward each player writes below it in a straight line words representing the different places, things, persons or abstract subjects suggested by it.

A rough example of a train of thought and of the distance which it can cover in the space of a few moments would be:

Shakespeare, Stratford, European travel, Warwick festival, Lady Warwick, progressive new women, Colorado, San Francisco, earthquakes, Chile, revolution, Russia, czar, Louis XVI, etc.

At the end of fifteen minutes papers are collected, and the different tracks followed by the trains of thought will be found very fun provoking.

No prize is attached to this game. Each player after receiving his word continues to write connecting links until the bell sounds as a signal for discontinuance.

All begin with the same word and invariably end up differently.

Queer Inns of China.

In China there are many inns where there is shelter for man and beast in very truth and without regard to whether you are man or beast. Animals belonging to the pack trains, men who drive them and any traveler who may chance upon one of these democratic inns lie down—not in peace, but in confusion—together. The braying of asses, bellowing of oxen, bleating of camels and snores of exhausted mankind all rise together. An American traveler may indeed be thankful that railroads are doing away with pack trains and that soon these queer inns will have no reason for existing.

A Little Lady.

Little Nellie had been taught never to put her fingers into her bowl of bread and milk, but always to use her spoon, like a little lady.

When she visited her grandfather one summer, she was allowed to eat her luncheon out on the step. One day a wee white pig came up and rudely pushed his little pink nose into her bowl of bread and milk. "Oh, oh!" screamed the baby. "Be a lady. Take a 'poon, pig; take a 'poon!"

Tea For Three.

Once Bobby Bear and Bubby Bear and Baby Bear played tea.
They had a little tea set that held just enough for three,
And Bobby tied on Baby's bib, while
Bubby filled the pot
With just a spoon of tea apiece—and water boiling hot.

Now, Bobby Bear and Bubby Bear were quite polite and fine.
They never hurried rudely when 'twas time to sup or dine.
So Bobby, pouring the tea, took care that Bobby got the most—
But while they talked wee Baby Bear ate every bit of toast!

A WEEK WITH JAPAN

Battleship Fleet Will Pay a Visit to the Mikado's Domain

A SPECIAL INVITATION GIVEN

Its Acceptance Regarded as of Much Importance, as It Will Demonstrate Cordiality Existing Between the Two Nations--Text of Correspondence

Washington, March 21.—The American battleship fleet is to visit Japan. The desire of the emperor of the island kingdom to be host to the warships was laid before Secretary Root by Baron Takahira, the Japanese ambassador. The invitation was made the subject of extended consideration by President Roosevelt and his entire cabinet yesterday.

Secretary Root was directed to accept the invitation and the acceptance was laid before the Japanese ambassador late yesterday. It is regarded in official circles here as more than likely that China will be next to seek to entertain the fleet and that, should this be the case, the invitation would be accepted.

Secretary Metcalf and Admiral Pillsbury, chief of navigation, are arranging the details of the new itinerary. Aside from China, it is believed, it has been determined that all other invitations, should any be received, will be declined, because at best the fleet will now not be able to reach the Atlantic seaboard before the first of next March. The itinerary includes stops at Hawaii, Samoa, Melbourne, Sydney, Manila, Yokohama—should that port be selected as the stopping place in Japan—possibly a Chinese port, the Philippines again, and then home by way of the Suez canal, with only such stops as are necessary for coaling.

The fall target practice has been planned to take a month at Manila, either before or after the visit to Japan. Although target practice is regarded as decidedly important and the custom is to have the ships take a month at it each spring and fall, the desire to have the fleet return to its home station may lead to a curtailment of the month planned for Manila.

Japan will have the ships a week, according to tentative plans. While the stops in foreign ports so far have averaged ten days, part of each sojourn was taken up in coaling. With a visit to Manila first, no coaling operations would be necessary, at least to any considerable extent, in Yokohama. This would enable the entire stay there to be given up to the festivities and other features of the visit.

The acceptance of the Japanese invitation is regarded in official circles as of considerable importance in the way of a demonstration of the cordiality existing between the American and Japanese governments. The added trip is nearly equal in distance to a voyage from New York to Europe.

Late last night the state department made public the Japanese note inviting the American battleship fleet to visit Japan and the president's response accepting the invitation. Ambassador Takahira wrote:

"Under instruction from his majesty's minister for foreign affairs, I have the honor to communicate to you that the imperial government, having learned of the contemplated cruise of the United States battleship fleet from San Francisco to the Philippine islands, are sincerely anxious to be afforded an opportunity to cordially welcome that magnificent fleet and to give an enthusiastic expression to the sentiment of friendship and admiration invariably entertained by the people of Japan towards the people of the United States.

"I am further instructed to inform you that the imperial government is firmly convinced of the reassuring effect which the visit of the American fleet to the shores of Japan will produce upon the traditional relations of good understanding and mutual sympathy which so happily exists between the two nations, and to express to you the hope of the imperial government that the fleet may be instructed to call at the principal ports of Japan in its extended cruise in the Pacific. Accept the renewed assurance of my highest consideration."

The reply to the Japanese note was prepared and signed by Assistant Secretary Bacon as follows:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your valued note of the 18th instant, by which you are so good as to convey, on behalf of the imperial government, an invitation for the American fleet, now on the Pacific coast, to visit the principal ports of Japan.

"I have the honor and pleasure to say in reply that the president, to whom I have communicated this courteous and friendly action on the part of your government, highly appreciating this evidence of the hearty good will of the Japanese nation, has charged me to request you to inform your government that the United States is most happy to accept the invitation. It gives this government peculiar pleasure to accept the invitation because of the long-existing and unbroken friendship between the two countries and the sincere regard of the American people for the people of Japan.

"I regret to add, however, the limits of time imposed by the arrangements for the return of the fleet to the Atlantic coast of the United States will not permit a visit to more than one of the ports of Japan. Accept the renewed assurances of my highest consideration."

As Viewed by London Press

London, March 21.—The announcement that the United States has accepted the invitation of the Japanese government to have the Atlantic battleship fleet visit Japan excites the highest interest here, first as putting an end to the friction and war talk and further as one of the most significant naval demonstrations of modern times.

It is anticipated that Japan will assemble her fleet in its full strength to greet the visitors, which, should the entire American force now in the Pacific go to Yokohama, will, as The Daily Mail remarks, "be a superb spectacle, one never paralleled in Far Eastern waters, and it will be welcomed by all as a sign that British diplomacy has been successful in averting serious friction between the two great naval powers of the Pacific—the one England's ally and the other England's friend."

The Daily News regards the cruise of the American battleships around the world as a visible expression of the emerging of the United States into the field of world politics and a happy omen for the future.

The newspapers also comment from the naval viewpoint upon the remarkable world cruise of the American ships.

Japs to Aid In Welcome

San Diego, Cal., March 21.—Local Japanese have turned over to the general reception committee $211 as their contribution toward the welcome of the American battleship fleet. Nearly all the donors are servants and laborers, the amounts ranging from 25 cents to $5.

Bank Officers Fall From Grace

Dowagiac, Mich., March 21.—President Lyle and Vice President Gage of the closed City Bank of Dowagiac were followed by an angry mob of jeering citizens hurling missiles at the one-time popular bank officials as they drove from town in the custody of police officials on their way to jail at Cassopolis. Lyle canvassed the town thoroughly without being able to get bail. Lyle is under $8500 bonds and Gage under $5000.

Plunge From Brooklyn Bridge

New York, March 21.—An unknown youth, wearing the uniform of the United States navy, plunged head foremost from the Brooklyn bridge and dropped 135 feet into the water. He turned over twice on the way down, but came to the surface apparently uninjured and swam to a pier on the Manhattan side. A rope was thrown to him, but the swimmer was apparently too exhausted to reach it and sank.

Newspapers Boycott Reichstag

Berlin, March 21.—The newspapers have unanimously decided not to print a word of the reichstag debates until adequate retraction is offered for the insulting expression of "swine" addressed to the reporters' gallery by Herr Groeber, leader of the Center party, because jeers had come from this division at a statement used by a member to the effect that negroes had immortal souls.

New Cabinet For New Brunswick

St. John, March 21.—Following the resignation of Premier Robinson's government, Lieutenant Governor Tweedie entrusted to J. D. Hazen the task of forming a new government. Hazen accepted. Before going out of office Robinson filled several vacant positions, but Tweedie declined to sanction the appointments and the new government will have the making of them.

Stoessel's Prison Sentence Begins

St. Petersburg, March 21.—Lieutenant General Stoessel, recently sentenced to death by a court martial on charges of cowardice and treason in surrendering Port Arthur to the Japanese, which sentence was commuted by Emperor Nicholas to ten years' imprisonment, began serving his term in the St. Peter and St. Paul fortress yesterday.

Queen Worrying Over Son

London, March 21.—A special dispatch from Madrid states that Queen Victoria is in a deplorable condition of shaken nerves, a condition which is all the more grave because she expects soon to become a mother. Her chief dread is that revolutionaries may succeed in murdering the little Prince of the Asturias.

Cruiser Helped Disabled Steamer

Pernambuco, March 21.—The United States cruiser Chicago, which is on the way from the Pacific to the Atlantic station, entered the outer harbor, having in tow the disabled Austrian steamer Robinia, Hull for Buenos Ayres. After dropping her tow, the Chicago saluted the port and again put to sea.

Queen of Sealing Fleet Wrecked

Halifax, March 21.—The Halifax sealing schooner Edith R. Balcom was totally wrecked on the Argentine coast, according to a cable from Montevideo. The captain and crew were saved. The vessel was queen of the Nova Scotia sealing fleet and was valued, with her outfit, at $19,000.

For Labor Man In Cabinet

Washington, March 21.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor has decided to urge on the house committee on labor the necessity for the passage of the pending bill creating a department of labor, the head of which shall be a member of the president's cabinet.

AN ELECTION PRIMER

Pertinent Points About Our Election Machinery For New Voters and Old

THE ELECTION OF 1904.

Who were the two leading presidential candidates in 1904?
Theodore Roosevelt and Alton B. Parker, both of New York.

Did Roosevelt receive a majority of the popular vote?
He did. His clear majority over all candidates was 1,736,264. There were four lesser candidates.

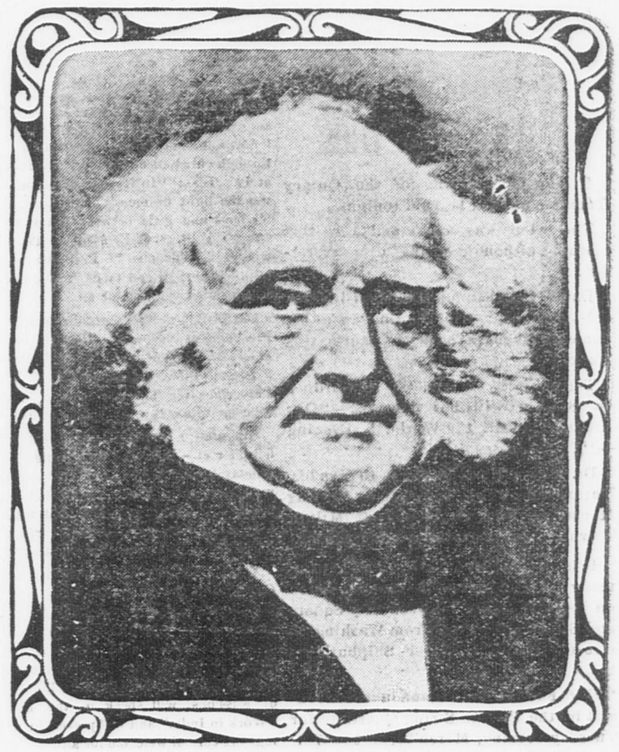

And who were they?
Eugene V. Debs of Indiana, Socialist; Silas C. Swallow of Pennsylvania, Prohibitionist; Thomas E. Watson of Georgia, Populist, and Charles H. Corrigan of New York, Socialist Labor.

What was the vote of these candidates?
Debs, 402,283; Swallow, 258,536; Watson, 117,183; Corrigan, 31,249.

Did any of these lesser candidates carry any electoral votes?
No. The total electoral vote was 476, of which Roosevelt got 336 and Parker 140. The electoral vote for the vice presidential candidates, Fairbanks and Davis respectively, was the same.

Is not that always the case?
Not necessarily. In 1896, when Bryan was nominated on both the Democratic and the Populist tickets for president, with Arthur Sewall of Maine for vice president on the first ticket and Thomas E. Watson of Georgia for vice president on the second ticket, Watson received twenty-seven electoral votes for the vice presidency.

What was Roosevelt's plurality over Parker?
It was 2,545,515. Roosevelt's total vote was 7,623,486; Parker's total, 5,077,971.

MARTIN VAN BUREN.

The eighth president of the United States was a native of Kinderhook, N. Y. He became president in 1837 at the age of fifty-five and died at Kinderhook in 1862. Like his great predecessor, Jackson, he was a Democrat. He was secretary of state under Jackson for a time and was vice president during Jackson's second term. His administration was distinguished chiefly by the establishment of the independent treasury system for the care and disbursement of public moneys. Van Buren was a candidate for president at three succeeding elections, but suffered defeat each time.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

Plans for the launching of Monday will be found in another column.

George S. Wardwell, formerly of the shipwright department at Fore River, has established himself in the yacht building business. Mr. Wardwell is a mechanic of the highest class as a boat builder, and has been master builder of over 80 steam and sailing yachts and launches. It is his intention to make power boats a specialty.

Mr. Snow, an inventor, has had 32 side plates for auto wheels made and finished at the Fore River shipyard. Mr. Snow was present in the ship tool shop when the first plate was pressed out, and was highly elated over the successful outcome of the experiment. By the use of these side plates, the spokes now in use in auto wheels will be displaced, besides having many other points of value.

Alonzo Hayden, who has been confined to his home for the past three weeks is again attending to his duties.

A shaft is being annealed and oil tempered for the General Electric Company.

The bedding which has been used on the recent trial trips has been discarded and a new lot will replace it.

Our correspondent, George H. Corliss, Esq., has just received from Pitman Pulsifer, clerk to the committee on naval affairs, United States Senate, a copy of the new Navy Year-Book for1907.

The New York Sun prints the following letter signed Francis T. Bowles:

"The excellence of the model of the scout cruisers Chester, Birmingham and Salem, as designed by the Navy Department, is such that the contract speed of twenty-four knots is easily obtained without the use of a drop of champagne on the trial trip. Domestic beer in moderation was sufficient, and I am confident that these vessels will in regular service in the navy easily exceed their trial speeds with simple applications of hot water."

The Electric Boat Company should prosper financially if it makes the profits alleged in the telegraphic news of the Ledger today.

The cruiser Des Moines built at Quincy is now at Port-au-Prince, protecting United States interests in Hayti, her arrival being reported yesterday.

Plans for the Pacific fleet to visit Japan are reported in the telegraphic news of the Ledger today. Evidently the Vermont, Rhode Island and New Jersey built at Quincy are to be seen by many nations.

The National Senate passed yesterday a bill which provides a subsidy for fast mail ships. It pays to 16-knot vessels plying between this country and South America, the Philippines, Japan, China and Australia $4 per mile, the amount awarded by the act of 1891 to vessels of 12 knots only. The bill was amended in the Senate so that 12- knot vessels will receive $2 per mile, which is the allowance under existing law to 16-knot vessels.

Amendments were also adopted providing that if two or more lines of steamships ply from Atlantic ports to South America under the provisions of the bill one line shall stop at two ports south of Cape Charles; that no more shall be paid for subsidies than is received from such service by the government.

During the consideration of the measure Mr. Hale made a spirited plea for an auxiliary navy, declaring that without auxiliaries our navy is dependent upon foreign countries, and that in case of war we would be helpless.

An amendment by Mr. Simmons of North Carolina was adopted providing that the total expenditure for foreign mail service for any year shall not exceed the estimated revenue from such service. An amendment offered by Mr. Hale for Mr. Lodge was adopted by which vessels of the larger class will hereafter receive pay for carrying mail similar to that provided for vessels of the second class under existing law. Senator Newlands' amendemtn authorizing the construction of 27 vessels was rejected.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

One of the big hits of recent hits in musical comedy was that made by Jess Dandy, in the leading comedy role in "The Prince of Pilsen." The catch line is used, "Was you ever in Cincinnati?" became known both in this country and in Europe, while his clever topical verses, most of them of his own composition, added to his great success. Before his venture in musical comedy Dandy was known as one of the original portrayers of Herbrew character in vaudeville, and his original parodies made him famous. Now he has returned to vaudeville and is doing a German character, similar to the one he played in "The Prince of Pilsen," introducing a lot of new stories and parodies.

PARK THEATRE.

In the language of the slangy Patricia O'Brien, Rose Stahl in James Forbes' comedy, "The Chorus Lady" is the "goods all right, all right." Miss Stahl made her first Boston appearance in this popular play at the Park Theatre on Monday evening and no dramatic attraction brought forward in a decade or more has scored so emphatically as did "The Chorus Lady." It frequently happens that when a big New York success does not reach Boston until more than a year after its first production the attraction experiences difficulty in living up to the lavish advance praise bestowed upon it. Not so with Miss Stahl and this ideal little drama. As a matter of fact it would be next to impossible to speak in too glowing terms of either. Mr. Forbes has written a play which for originality of theme, plot and dialogue is perfection itself and as for Miss Stahl, who is seen in the character of a fly, worldly wise chorus girl with a vernacular surpassing even the inventive possibilities of a George Ade or a Billy Baxter, she is ideal.

TREMONT THEATRE.

"The Man of the Hour" is now in its third month at the Tremont theatre, and the crowds still continue to gather at every performance with the continuance of complete satisfaction and delight to all classes of the community. No such dramatic triumph has been known in New England for years. Everybody who sees this powerful play, with its merciless expose of graft in politics, tells everybody else about it, with a constantly widening circle of friends, like the effect of a stone cast upon the waters of a placid lake. Although this play deals so largely with problems in politics, it appeals with singular, irresistible force to womankind, for it has a most fascinating love story, most charmingly told, and has many situations and episodes in which woman and her whims and tastes in fashions figure largely. In short, this play is one of the best balanced, most generally interesting, presented for years. It is splendidly produced and capitally acted by Messrs. Erady and Grismer's Company.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The bill of the Castle Square theatre, Boston, the week of March 23, will be the great romantic drama, "The Three Musketeers." As is well know, "The Three Musketeers" is the dramaticism of Alex. Dumas' famous novel of the same name. It is considered to be the strongest romantic drama ever written, and one of the most poular ever given at the Castle Square theatre. Messrs. Miller and Carruthers are planning to give the best and most elaborate production. New scenery is now being put in, new mechanical effect added, and entirely new equipment of costumes. Mr. Miller's return to the cast after an absence of one week will be welcome news. Miss Lache will be seen as Anne of Austria, and Miss Bondhill as Constance.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Next week at the Boston Theatre the stock company will be seen in Wilson Barrett's great drama "The Sign of the Cross." Although this powerful play has had many productions here by combination companies Manager Morison will be the first to present it by a stock organization and it is promised that all former performances of the drama will be outdone by the coming production. A large chorus and competent soloists will be heard in the incidental vocal music, and other musical effects of a notable nature will be introduced. Stage Director Snader has elaborated the plans for staging the play so that the coming production will represent the highest development of the stage craft of the day. The great street scene in Rome, showing the river Tiber, will take the whole stage and present a picture of unequaled variety.

HOLLIS ST. THEATRE.

Klaw & Erlanger will present Guy Standing and Theodore Roberts in Eugene W. Presbrey's powerful dramatic version of Sir Gilbert Parker's widely read romantic novel, "The Right of Way," at the Hollis Street theatre in Boston for three weeks beginning Monday evening, March 30th. This play is one of the great dramatic successes of the year and will undoubtedly attract much attention in Boston, where Sir Gilbert Parker's novels have been widely read and admired because of their great literary value and singularly convincing development of the characters in these tales. Mr. Presbrey follows the novel quite faithfully, yet has found it necessary to make some departures from the trend of the book story for dramatic effect. The play is presented in five scenes, which show the den of Charley Steele in Montreal, the Cote Dorion on the St. Lawrence River at night, Jo. Portugais' hut on the mountain and the Valley of Cooling Springs. The third and fourth scenes are played in the same set. Very strong situations occur in scenes between Steele and Portugais, Steele and his wife, in his discovery that her brother, Billy Wantaga, has forged his name, and between Steele and John Brown, a minister, to whom Steele's agnostic questions have proved a rock on which he is wrecked. Throughout this portion of the play Mr. Presbrey has most effectively realized Sir Gilbert Parker's character of Steele. Mr. Standing as Steele presents a most artistic and convincing performance of this great character ,and as Jo. Portugais, the riverman, Theodore Roberts presents his masterpiece of character impersonation. This piece has proved a sensation wherever it has been seen and is one that will unquestionably command great attention in Boston, where the best in dramatic art is always welcomed and is sure to be received with great popular interest.

THE ORPHEUM.

Joe Welch, the famous star of "The Pedler" and "The Shoemaker," and one of the best delineators of Hebrew and Italian characters now on the stage, will be the headline feature at the Orpheum theatre next week, appearing in a most pretentious production that will be seen in Boston for the first time. It is called "At Ellis Island," and Mr. Welch will be seen as an Italian laborer who has been in this country sometime and has saved enough money to bring his wife and four year old daughter over. As a whole the production is one of the most exciting and most true to life that has ever been presented. Another star on this bill is Miss Lillian Shaw, the grotesque comedienne, who has created many parts in Broadway productions, and will always be remembered by a song she introduced in her immitable manner, called "Has Anybody Seen My Husband?"

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS.
PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

BAD DAY

Gov. Guild Not Expected To Live Through Night

MORNING NEWS.

Boston, March 23.—The physicians in attendance upon Governor Guild were yesterday obliged to report that the condition of their patient had taken an unfavorable turn and that he could not be said to be as comfortable as on Saturday.

Prayers for the complete recovery of the governor were on the lips of probably every pastor in every pulpit of all the denominations in the city yesterday, and in many of the congregations the latest information from the bedside of the chief executive was earnestly sought and many expressions of deep sympathy were given.

The bulletin issued at 10:30 last night by Dr. Winslow said: "The governor's condition is not quite as good, but there is no very marked change. He has failed slightly."

NOON BULLETIN.

The noon bulletin, given out from the residence of Gov. Guild at noon, says:

There has been a sudden change for the worse. The Governor had a bad night. He is not expected to live through the night.

EXTRA.

A dispatch from the State House at 1.45 says:

The Governor's condition is a little less favorable than Sunday.

Walter Baker & Co of Milton last week distributed $32,000 among their 700 employes, a custom which they established some five years ago. The gifts amount to about ten per cent of each man's wages. Although business has been dull through the winter they did not reduce their help or cut the hours.

ANOTHER LOCATION

Now Wanted By Grand Army Veterans For Soldiers' Monument

Now that Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., has made a formal appeal to the citizens of Quincy for a new Soldiers' Monument, the fund necessary should be raised by subscription before Memorial Day.

The site proposed for the monument at the entrance to Mount Wollaston cemetery is a great improvement over the present location, where graves in all the surrounding lots are trampled and desecrated each Memorial Day. But since the Norfolk County G. A. R. convention in Quincy last week some of the veterans believe the location should be nearer City Square, and some have their eyes on the corner of Washington and Coddington streets. They would purchase the lot now occupied by the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company, and a portion of the grounds of the Thomas Crane Public Library, and locate the monument there.

This site is truly an ideal one. In connection with the Library, the Federal Building, the Stone Temple, City Hall, the new Coddington school, and the Y. M. C. A. building it would make a group of public buildings and grounds which would be very attractive.

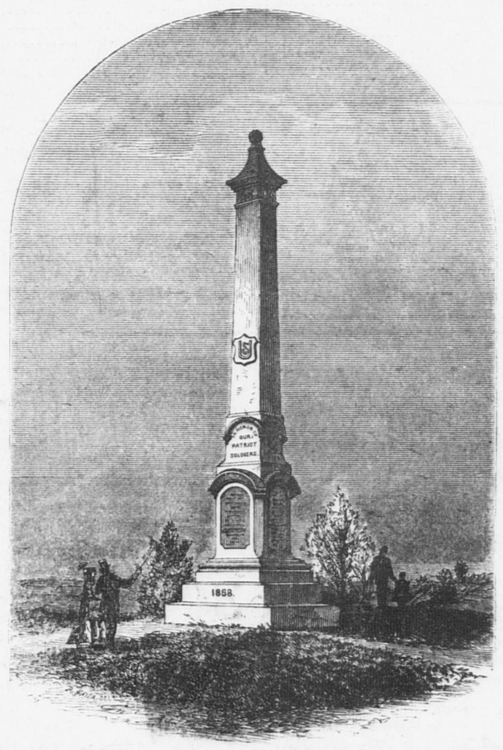

It is to be regretted that the Coddington schoolhouse is to be hidden so much from view. However a portion of the Faxon estate on Coddington street, and the Turner estate on Faxon avenue can be taken later when the city can afford to be artistic.

The accompanying plan shows the Library grounds, and the corner which is now proposed for the Soldiers' Monument at the head of Temple street.

IT WAS ON JUNE 25, 1868

That Quincy Erected this Soldiers' Monument.

AN EARLY DATE OF WHICH TO BE PROUD

But is Quincy Proud Today Of the Size and the Architecture?

Public Meeting

Friday Evening, March 27,

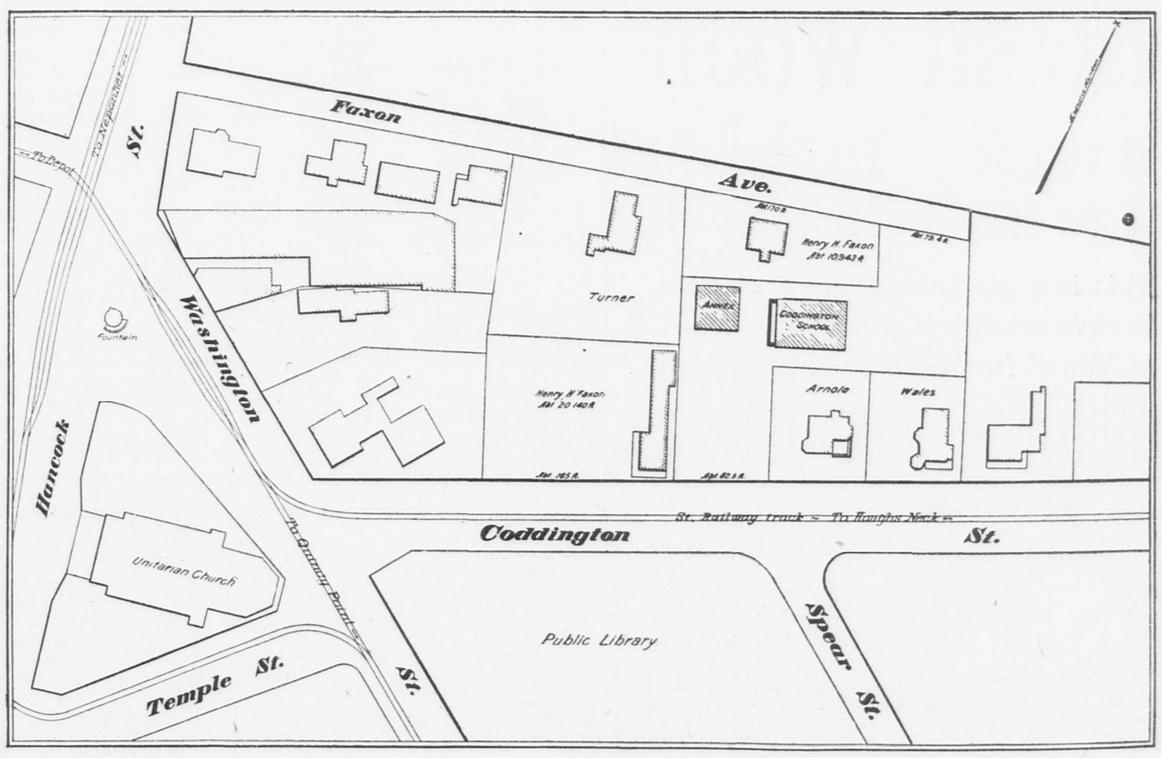

New Soldiers' Monument

Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., believes the time has come when the City of Granite and of Presidents, which had a proud record in the Civil War, should erect a Soldiers' Monument of which we all may be proud.

The architecture of the present monument is not pleasing; there is much complaint because of the location; and there seems a popular demand for a handsome memorial. The veterans feel that an appeal to the public should meet with spontaneous support, and therefore have called this public meeting for Friday, evening, April 27, 1908, at 8 o'clock in the Council Chamber at City Hall, to formulate plans.

Sudden Death G. A. R. Veteran

Another veteran of the Grand Army, and one who will be missed by the "Boys in Blue" passed away suddenly on Sunday. On Saturday Charles H. F. Stoddard complained that he was not feeling well, and said his limbs were swollen. Sunday morning while at G. A. R. hall he was taken seriously ill. Dr. Jones ordered his removed to the City Hospital but he died shortly after his arrival.

Mr. Stoddard was born in Hingham Jan. 1, 1838. He early took an interest in military affairs and became a member of the Lincoln Light Infantry. When the call came for troops in May, 1861, he went with his company to Fortress Monroe serving three months to the end of his enlistment.

Dec. 2, 1861 he reinlisted as a musician in E Company of the 32d Mass. Infantry, serving until Jan. 4, 1864. He then re-enlisted and served until June 29, 1865, when he was honorably discharged.

He has been a resident of Quincy for many years and has been an active member of Paul Revere Post from its formation. His musical instrument was the small drum and he frequently drummed in parades of the Post.

He resided at 54 Quincy avenue and leaves a widow and three sons, Arthur, Frank H., and Willey E. Stoddard.

Prayers were offered in most of the churches in Quincy on Sunday for the recovery of Gov. Guild.

G. A. R. Funeral

The funeral of Abel Nutting was held Sunday afternoon. Rev. N. J. Sproul, of the Water Street Presbyterian church officiated. Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., attended the services in a body and escorted the remtins to Mt. Wollaston cemetery where three volleys were fired by the color guard, and a prayer offered by the chaplain.

A SERVICE OF PRAYER

Conducted by Woman Before Sacrificing Three Lives

KILLED CHILDREN WITH GAS

Also Took Own Life In Same Manner, After Making Careful Preparations to Accomplish Her Deed--Mind Probably Became Unbalanced

Fall River, Mass., March 23.—With her crucifix clasped in her right hand, and with a rosary hanging from her arm, Mrs. Florida Terrien, aged 25 years, and her 4-year-old daughter, Mary, and 2-months-old boy, Joseph, were found dead in the kitchen of their home by the woman's husband, Joseph Terrien. The coroner said, after an examination, that the woman had killed herself and the two children with illuminating gas. Two gas jets and the cocks of the gas stove in the room were turned on.

According to the story that Terrien told the police, he and his wife with the two children had spent Saturday night with a friend, returning home at 1 o'clock Sunday morning. He went to bed immediately, taking with him his daughter. According to Terrien's story, he left his wife and the little boy, who slept together in another room, in the kitchen.

About 7 o'clock Sunday morning, Terrien said, he was awakened by a choking sensation, and on recovering his senses more fully detected the odor of gas. His daughter was not at his side and, rushing out into the kitchen, he found his wife in a chair clasping a crucifix and with a rosary thrown over her arm, and the children wrapped in blankets lying at her feet. All three were dead.

Terrien immediately notified the police and special officers and a coroner made an examination of the circumstances, at the conclusion of which it was decided that the woman had deliberately planned the deaths of herself and the little ones. Waiting until her husband had fallen asleep, it is believed, the woman crept into his room and took away Mary without being discovered by Terrien. Then, it is believed, the woman prepared herself and the little ones for death, with prayers, and turning on the gas and closing the doors and windows sat in a chair, with the two children curled up in blankets at her feet, and awaited death.

It is not known just what caused the deed. Mrs. Terrien had been in good health, but it is thought that family troubles may have preyed upon her mind until it became temporarily unbalanced.

Ski Jump of 131 Feet

Duluth, March 23.—John Evanson of Duluth broke the American ski record with a jump of 131 feet in the last tournament of the season. The former record was 124 feet, made by Evanson four weeks ago. Olaf Feiring of Duluth jumped 135 feet, but fell. The new mark is the more remarkable because the day was warm and it was necessary to haul snow from nearby woods to prepare the slide for jumping.

Murdered Mother For Money

Fort Wayne, Ind., March 23.—Grover Blake and Orael Reynolds of Anderson were arrested on the charge of murdering Blake's mother at Anderson. YOUNGEST SENATOR DEAD

Bryan Succumbs to Typhoid After Brief Service at Washington

Washington, March 23.—United States Senator William J. Bryan of Florida died here yesterday of typhoid fever. It was only seventy-three days since he took his seat as the successor of the late Stephen R. Mallory, who died Dec. 23, and thirty-three days of that time was spent in his fight against disease.

In physique Bryan was unfitted to withstand a protracted fever. He was slight of build and of nervous temperament. He came to Washington early in January from the warm climate of Florida and from the day of his arrival was far from well. Finally he was compelled to give up.

In Bryan the senate loses the seventh member by death since the adjournment of the Fifty-Ninth congress on March 4 a year ago. They were the two late senators from Alabama, Messrs. Morgan and Pettus; Mr. Mallory of Florida, Mr. Latimer of South Carolina, Mr. Proctor of Vermont, Mr. Whyte of Maryland and Mr. Bryan. The last two were respectively the oldest and the youngest members of the body. Whyte was 84 years old and Bryan less than 32.

Although Bryan was in the senate too short a time to impress his individuality on legislation or to take a prominent part in the consideration of matters in committee, it is conceded that had he lived he would have become a forceful part of the minority. He was born in Florida in 1876.

Police Winked at Gambling

New York, March 23.—Charges that a gambling house had been conducted with the connivance of certain police officials led to a long investigation at police headquarters, following which Police Commissioner Bingham issued an order reducing Inspector O'Connor to the captaincy of a district in Brooklyn. Parties who say they acted with the knowledge and approval of Bingham presented charges to the effect that they were able to establish and for six days conducted unmolested by the police a full fledged gambling establishment in Sixth avenue.

Sarcasm at Japan's Expense

St. Petersburg, March 23.—The invitation extended to the American fleet by Japan is regarded as a shrewd move in diplomacy. The Bourse Gazette speaking of this, says: "America naturally could not refuse to accept the invitation, yet its acceptance will serve as a public attestation of the peaceful intentions of Japan, of which she is especially in need in view of her tottering finances and low credit. The invitation has a touch of the picturesque—'tomorrow we may fight; today be our guests.'"

DEMAND OF LABOR

Amendment to Sherman Anti-Trust Law Must Be Passed

"WRONGS MUST BE RIGHTED"

Conference Takes Issue With Supreme Court's Attitude and Urges Unions to Bring Pressure to Bear Upon Legislators at Washington

Washington, March 23.—"While the supreme court or other institutions may be able to temporarily retard and seriously embarrass the growth and action of our movement, we boldly assert that no power on earth can destroy, successfully outlaw or disrupt the trade union movement."

These words form the key to an address issued to organized labor and farmers' associations by the labor workers who have been in session in this city, the meeting having been called by President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor.

The address states that a large part of the discussions of the conference was devoted to consideration of the supreme court's action in applying the Sherman anti-trust law to labor. "The proceedings," the address says, "were marked by the utmost harmony. There was, indeed, the intensity of feeling which so grave a situation must evoke. There was also an unbounded enthusiasm, a grim earnestness of purpose, and a firm determination that the work initiated by this conference should not cease until the wrongs from which the workers suffer shall be righted and their liberties, which have been imperilled, shall be restored and forever safeguarded."

The further statement is made that it was the unanimous feeling of the conference that some steps should be taken to impress upon congress the necessity for prompt action toward amending the Sherman anti-trust law, so that it shall be inapplicable to organizations or associations not for profit and without capital, nor to members of such organizations or associations, nor to any arrangements or combinations among persons engaged in agriculture or horticulture, made with a view to enhancing the price of their own agricultural or horticultural products.

The conference pledged itself to use its influence toward the enactment of a bill to regulate and limit the issuances of injunctions and also of a new employer's liability bill.

The address says that it is the belief that congress appreciates the gravity of the situation, and it is declared that "labor is in no mood to be trifled with." Every legitimate pressure, it is stated, must be brought to bear upon congress "in the effort to secure the passage of our amendment to the Sherman law."

It is declared that resolutions should be adopted urging congress to amend the Sherman law "and warning congress that it will be held responsible for failure to enact such legislation." And, it is stated, "upon the record of this congress will be based the worker's decision as to a candidate's future desirability as a member of congress."

After stating it to be the duty of laboring men to question candidates for congress as to their attitude toward labor legislation, the address calls upon the labor workers "to stand faithfully by our friends; oppose and defeat our enemies, whether they be candidates for president, for congress, or other offices, whether legislative, executive or judicial.

"Hold mass meetings," says the address, "in every city and town in the United States on the evening of the third Sunday or Monday in April, and at that meeting voice fully and unmistakeably labor's protest against the supreme court decision which strips labor of the rights and liberties which we have supposed were guaranteed by the constitution.

"Each candidate," continues the address, "should be questioned and pledged as to his attitude upon all subjects of importance to the toilers, whether in factory, farm, field, shop or mine." In conclusion the address says:

"We call upon the executive council and upon all labor to use every possible legitimate effort to secure for the workers their inalienable liberties and their proper recognition as a vital portion of the fabric of our civilization."

A footnote to the address states that "this address is signed by the same names as were appended to 'Labor's Protest to Congress!'"

Distinguished Among Confederates

Richmond, March 23.—Colonel John W. Fairfax died at his home, Leesylvania, in his 80th year. He was a veteran of the Civil war, having held the rank of colonel in the Confederate army. He was ranking officer on the staff of General Longstreet and had been characterized in history as "Longstreet's fighting aide." No person in Virginia, perhaps, embodied more the characteristics of the old-time south than did Fairfax.

A $5000 Challenge Cup

New York, March 23.—Frederick Thompson of the Larchmont and Atlantic Yacht clubs is to offer as a perpetual trophy, to be raced for by yachts of any recognized club in the world, a gold challenge cup, valued at $5000. This trophy, which is to be known as the American cup, will be, yachtsmen say, the most valuable prize ever offered in America for a yacht race.

GOES AGAINST ITSELF

Important Case Decided by the Interstate Commission

CANNOT PREVENT POOLING

Transatlantic Lines Declared to Be Outside Its Jurisdiction--Demurrer of "Baltic Pool" Sustained and Complaint Dismissed

Washington, March 23.—A decision has been promulgated by the interstate commerce commission in what probably is the most important case which the commission for a long time has been called upon to determine.

It is that of the Cosmopolitan Shipping company, a Philadelphia organization chartered under the laws of New Jersey, against the Hamburg-American Packet company, the North German Lloyd Steamship company, the Wilson (Hull) lines and the Scandinavian-American lines.

The complainant's petition was filed with the commission nearly a year ago. Some time subsequently the defendants filed a demurrer, attacking the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission.

In effect, the commission decides against itself. It holds that it has no authority over oceanic transportation and thus determines the case adversely to the contention of the complainant.

In this case the complainant alleged that the defendant steamship companies transport traffic under through bills of lading between inland points of the United States and foreign ports, and are thereby subject to the jurisdiction of the commission; that the defendants have made an arrangement for the pooling of east-bound export traffic moving by rail to Atlantic ports, and thence by steamship lines to points in Europe.

The prayer of the petition is that the commission declare the so-called "Baltic pool" to be an illegal pooling of freights under the interstate commerce act; that the monopoly of the Hamburg-American Packet company be declared unlawful, and that relief be granted to the complainant, which also is a trans-Atlantic steamship company doing a freight business between American and continental ports.

The commission sustains the demurrer and directs in an order that the complaint be dismissed.

In his discussion of the reasons for the commission's action in this important proceeding, Commissioner Lane sets out these conclusions:

"The commission may regulate interstate traffic, whether by rail or by a combined rail-and-water route, from point of receipt to point of delivery; but the commission in its control over foreign commerce is limited to the regulation of such traffic, whether by railroad or by a combination of rail and water carriers, from and to the point of transshipment.

"The act provides no machinery by which its provisions can be enforced as to trans-Atlantic steamship lines; that absence of such provision can be explained only by accepting the interpretation that the commission has no jurisdiction in the premises.

"The pooling of traffic by water carriers is plainly a matter over which this commission has no jurisdiction.

"A rail carrier may control, and connect with, a line of steamships engaged in foreign commerce, with which it may interchange business as freely as with another rail carrier, and it may quote a combined rate for the through movement, the agent of the railroad company acting as the agent of the steamship company in so doing."

In effect, through these conclusions, the commission decides that it has no power to restrain, control or regulate the practices of the trans-Atlantic steamship lines which appear as defendants in this case.

Favors Suffrage Restriction

New York, March 23.—An optimistic view of conditions and affairs in the southern states was taken by President Alderman of the University of Virginia, who addressed the Civic Forum last night. In discussing the negro question, Alderman insisted that it was a problem that practical men must face. He defended suffrage restriction and laid down premises regarding the regulation of the negro in the south.

CHINESE UP IN ARMS

Stirred to Indignation by the Release of Steamer Tatsu

Canton, March 23.—The greatest indignation prevails here against the government for yielding to the Japanese demands in the Tatsu Maru case, it being considered that the government's action in this matter has brought disgrace upon this province. The Self-Government Society of Canton has organized several monster indignation meetings, at which resolutions were adopted that the anniversary of the release of the Tatsu Maru be observed as a day of public mourning. The resolutions also declared a boycott against Japanese goods.

More than fifty thousand persons attended the mass meetings held yesterday. Buildings were draped in mourning and twenty or more orators delivered denunciatory speeches. Among the speakers was a 12-year-old boy, whose declamation against the Japanese caused the greatest enthusiasm. A great number among those who had assembled thereupon divested themselves of Japanese made garments, including caps and handkerchiefs, and made a huge bonfire of them. One dealer in Japanese goods offered to sacrifice his entire stock.

The meeting recommended the impeachment of Yuan Shi Kai of the board of foreign affairs for weakness in yielding to the Japanese.

Boycott on at Hong Kong

Hong Kong, March 23.—The Japanese steamer Tatsu arrived here safely today. Tens of thousands of Chinese have started a boycott on Japanese goods. Placards which were posted throughout Hong Kong stating that a boycott had been ordered were destroyed by the police.

New Transportation Scheme

New York, March 23.—New York introduced a novelty in surface car transportation yesterday when pay-as-you-enter cars were placed in operation. Passengers are supposed to give the conductor the exact fare on entering the car. Those not having the exact fare step aside on the large platform until change is made, when they are permitted to pass into the car. One hundred and fifty of the new cars are in operation.

Exploding Boiler Kills Three Men

Binghamton, N. Y., March 23.—The boiler of a freight locomotive was blown out while the engine was taking water at Schenevus and thrown about 400 feet. Engineer Hendricks and Brakeman Korfage were instantly killed and Fireman Smith was so badly injured that he died. Burning coals from the locomotive set fire to the station and a storage building adjoining and the latter was destroyed.

Alia Removed to State Prison

Denver, March 23.—Guiseppe Alia, murderer of Father Leo Heinrichs, has been removed from the Denver jail to the state prison at Canon City, to be hanged there during the week beginning July 12. The condemned man presented a pitiable appearance when haled in court to hear his doom pronounced. His head was scratched and battered from beating it against the bars of his cell door.

R., March 23.—The federal grand jury has returned an indictment against two priests, the editors of a Catholic publication, for printing an article in which it was asserted that persons contracting marriage under the civil law live in a state of concubinage and that their children are illegitimate. RECORDS BROKEN

At Annual Meet Of Thayer Academy High Dive One Of the Features

Before a large and enthusiastic gathering the twelfth annual athletic exhibition of Thayer Academy was held at the Braintree Town Hall on Saturday evening, March 21. The exhibition was one of the most successfull in the annals of the academy, and the efforts of the local boys were augmented by the appearance of Leo Dowd of Weymouth, who gave a most interesting and able demonstration of skill in swinging Indian clubs, and by the gymnastic act of Ralph and Harlan Chamberlin of the Harvard University gymnasium team, who performed marvelous stunts on the parallel bars and in lifting. The ease with which the Chamberlin brothers in turn lifted each other was productive of enthusiastic applause and their act was conceded to be one of the best of its kind ever seen in Braintree.

Outside of the talent especially imported for the occasion, the exhibition resolved itself into a meet between the four classes of the academy in which the final results was a tie for first place between the Seniors and the Sophomores, '08 and '10 respectively, both having won seventeen points.

The Junior class came a fair second with 9 1-2 points, and the Freshman ended the list with one point to their credit. The preparatory class demonstrated its prowess with a total of 1-2 point, but was not a contestant for the heavy honors of the meet.

The 15-yard dash was a prettily contested event and was won by Richmond, with Crocker second, and McMahon third.

The potato race was exciting and close and was won by Wood, with H. Morrison second and G. Wilson third. This event is ever a popular one and was enthusiastically received by the spectators.

In the high jump, Simms came off a victor with height of 5 feet jump to his credit. E. Avery was second at 4 feet 11 inches, and McMahon third at 4 feet 10 inches.

The three-legged race was won by team composed of Simms and Harding. The second team was composed of E. Avery and Brennan.

The last event in the list for which points were given was the High dive, and in this event the previous record was broken. E. Avery won the event and broke the record with a dive over a bar of 5 feet 5 inches from the floor. The former record which was slated to last a long while was made by Harold Sprague, Thayer '07; Dartmouth '11. Alden was second in the event at 5 feet 4 inches, and Crocker third at 5 feet 2 inches. The ease with which Avery won the event and the grace and suppleness of his performance were much commented on. In the event which is an extreme test of acrobatic ability, there was not a flaw in the performance of the winner. His approach, final clearing of the bar and his landing on the cushion beyond, were remarkable for their clean cut effect.

There were three exibition events on the program in which Thayer students were the participants,—the stick drill, the Indian war dance and the Indian games. The two Indian events were exhibitions in skill and alertness, and were warmly received.

After the meet, an informal dance was held as a reception to the victors in the exhibition, and their friends.

The exhibition was conducted under the management of the Thayer Academy Athletic Association, Harold Crocker, '09, president, E. A. Richmond, '08, secretary; Hugh McMahon '08, vice president; Dr. W. Gallagher treasurer, and J. M. Townsend, auditor.

The officials were W. Remick '04, M. L. Emerson '99, C. M. Emerson '02, A. M. Dow '02, O. B. Oakman, W. W. Gallagher '99, and J. M. Townsend, William Perry popularly supposed to be of class '23 and captain of the Royal White Sox acted as announcer.

Norwegian Service At Bethany Church

Bethany church has reason to feel elated over the success of its Norwegian mission, which has flourished since its inception a year or more ago. Services by Norwegians have been held at the church each Sunday afternoon, but on Sunday evening, the Norwegian service took the place of the regular evening service of the church. So large was the attendance that it was necessary to open the balcony which was also crowded. Rev. Ludwig J. Pedersen, the Norwegian pastor, gave an illustrated talk on "The home and religious life of Norway." The views presented the scenery of the country, the cities, the highways and transportation, the religious, the educational and the patriotic. Rev. Dr. Hardy assisted in the services, and there were selections by a male octette from the Norwegian church of Boston. Many of the churches of the city were represented in the audience.

Serious Charge Against Three Boys

Inspector McKay arrested Fred Kappler, aged 18 years of Eustis street; Webster McDonald, aged 20 years of Franklin street; and Leman Robbins, aged 18 years of West Elm avenue on Sunday for assault with intent to rob Wong Sing, a Chinese laundryman, at the corner of Hancock and Beach street. The Chinaman claims the three came into his laundry Saturday night and attempted to rob him. When he refused the demand to give up his money he claims that one drew a revolver and the other a knife. Wong Sing then jumped out of a rear window and escaped. All three were arraigned in court.

Charles E. Stetson, a former resident of Quincy and for 51 years a school teacher, during which time he never lost a day on account of illness, died Saturday at the residence of Rev. W. F. Lawford, at 124 Oxford street, Cambridge.

He was born in Braintree 72 years ago. He was graduated from Harvard at the age of 19, standing sixth in his class. He then became a teacher in the Charlestown high school, of which, in 1860, he was made principal. He remained there until 1864, when he went to Colorado, where he was engaged as a mining superintendent.

From 1866 to 1870 he was professor of Latin in Cincinnati. He returned to Braintree in 1871, and from that time until 1894 he served as master of the Braintree high school. He taught Latin in the evening high schools, Boston, from 1872 to 1900, and was a teacher in the English high school, Boston, from 1894 to 1905.

He never married. His nearest surviving relatives are nephews and nieces. Mrs. Lawford, in whose home he lived for 20 years, was graduated from his school in Braintree 24 years ago.

The funeral services will be held at 124 Oxford street, Wednesday, at 1 o'clock. Burial at Mt. Wollaston at Quincy.

PERFECT LAUNCH

Wellesley Girls And College Friends Christen the Lightship No. 90

Another vessel has been added to the long list launched at the yards of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., in this city. This time it was a light ship, known as No. 90, and the sponsor was Miss Elise Johnston of New York, a student at Wellesley college. The launch was held Monday afternoon and was private, the yards being closed to the general public. It was most successful in every way.

Miss Johnston was accompanied by several college chums among whom were Miss Gertrude Gladding, Miss Elizabeth Woodsum and Miss Marion Waugh. Her brother, Aumor Johnston, was also in the party.

The Navy department was represented by Capt. Helm, Naval Secretary of the Light House Board, Lieut. C. L. Arnold and Tom H. Gregg superintendent of the Naval Construction department.

There was also quite a party from North Easton, among whom were Town Clerk G. G. Withington, Mrs. G. F. Wilde, Mrs. Samuel J. House, Mrs. Tom H. Gregg, Miss Frances Gregg, Mrs. George Brett, Miss Elizabeth Griswold, Miss Mary Doward, Miss Ethel Clement, Mrs. C. C. Gregg, Charles H. Andrews and Capt. Rufus House.

The launching was in charge of Harry Brown, assistant general manager, and could not have been more successful.

The launching party arrived at the works shortly before 2.30 and were met by President Bowles, who presented Miss Johnston with a massive bouquet of white sweet peas, and then escorted her to the launching stand that had been erected at the bow.

Miss Johnston, who was of the pronounced blonde type, wore a blue cheviot, black hat with large feather, and tan shoes. She carried in addition to the bouquet of sweet peas, a corsage bouquet of yellow primroses with asparagus vine.

Suspended from the bow by a tri-colored ribbon was a bottle of "Mumm's Extra Dry" with which the light ship was given her name, or rather number. Everything was in readiness by the time the party arrived on the launching stand, and but little remained but to saw away the soul pieces. This was quickly done and at 2.38 the lightship began to move down the ways.

Being a light weight vessel she moved very slowly at first giving the sponsor ample opportunity to smash the bottle of wine. At the first notice that the vessel was moving Miss Johnston struck the steel bow a blow with the bottle and said "I christen thee No. 90." She stood so near the vessel that the sparkling wine spattered all over her.

The vessel slid slowly down the ways not gathering much headway until near the water. As she left the ways the men on board hauled in on the hawser and she was soon along side of the Atlahama in the fitting out dock.

Immediately after the launch the party was escorted through the works by President Bowles. They were particularly interested in the turbines building for the Japanese navy which were explained at length by President Bowles.

When completed the lightship will be stationed off Hedge Fence Sholes in Vineyard Sound.

Granite Firm Claims Violation

Quincy granite manufacturers are interested in the following case relative to interstate commerce, reported in the Journal:

C. A. Prouty of the Interstate Commerce Commission was at the Federal Building, Boston, on Monday for the first time in about a year, and heard arguments and evidence relative to a complaint of Jones Brothers & Company, granite dealers of Barre, Vt., relative to an alleged violation of the interstate commerce law by nine railroads.

The roads against which the complaint is lodged are the Boston and Maine, the New York, New Haven and Hartford, the Montpelier and Wells River, the Canadian Pacific, the Delaware and Hudson, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, the Central Vermont, the Michigan Central and the Long Island.

The principal complaint of the granite dealers is that the roads insist that in order to secure the minimum freight rate the companies must load 40,000 pounds on a car, when in fact many of the cars are not of sufficient size to accommodate that amount. A further complaint is over the classification of freight.

S. W. Jones, treasurer of the complaining company, is also president of the National Association of Granite Industries, and it is said he is acting in behalf of the association for the purpose of making a test case of the present one.

Record Again Broken.

Public Meeting

Friday Evening, March 27,

New Soldiers' Monument

Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., believes the time has come when the City of Granite and of Presidents, which had a proud record in the Civil War, should erect a Soldiers' Monument of which we all may be proud.

The architecture of the present monument is not pleasing; there is much complaint because of the location; and there seems a popular demand for a handsome memorial. The veterans feel that an appeal to the public should meet with spontaneous support, and therefore have called this public meeting for Friday, evening, April 27, 1908, at 8 o'clock in the Council Chamber at City Hall, to formulate plans.

Fined $35 Each For Assault

A stiff sentence was meted out to Webster McDonald, Leaman Robbins and Fred Kapper, the three fellows arrested for assaulting the Chinaman at the corner of Hancock and Beach streets. The men were arraigned in court on Monday for assault with intent to rob, and the hearing on the case lasted until the middle of the afternoon.

The Chinaman in his story, as told the court, said the three entered his shop about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon; that one took a bottle of whiskey from his pocket and all three took a drink. They then asked him for money to buy more whiskey. He refused and they came toward him and one made a reach for his money drawer, enforcing their demand by flourishing a knife and revolver.

The chinaman testified that he then grabbed his money, something like $20, and ran out the back door. He started on the run for uncle's laundry on the corner of Newport avenue and Brook street, and the three chased him. They followed him into his uncle's laundry and the man pointed out (who was Robbins) said come out side and I'll kill you.

After a time the Chinaman said, he started back to his own laundry, and the men again chased him. He finally reached there all right and locked himself in. The three stood outside by the window, however, some minutes before they went away.

The Chinaman also testified that the men flourished a revolver and knife several times, and he was afraid of his life.

After the hearing the court permitted the warrant to be changed to one for assault, and allowed them to enter a plea of guilty.

A fine of $35 and costs, amounting to $38.25 each, was then imposed, from which McDonald took an appeal.

Contract Awarded For Coddington

Mayor Shea this morning awarded the contract for building the new Coddington schoolhouse to Dennis F. Crowley of West Quincy. Mr. Crowley's bid was $66,147, and was the lowest of the bids received. The appropriation available for the building and grounds is $74,000. This sum includes architects, fees, supervision, grading, etc. The building is to be completed by Nov. 1.

The contract is now being drawn up and will be signed as soon as ready. Mr. Crowley, the contractor, says that he shall commence work on the foundation immediately, and possibly tomorrow.

The Conductor Got His Dollar

A Quincy man who atempted to euchre Conductor John W. Tower out of $1 on Monday did not have a lone hand as he thought. It was on the 1.27 P. M. train from Boston, and shortly after the conductor collected the tickets, he ascertained that he was $1 short in funds. He recalled that the only passenger to pay cash was a Quincy man, and it dawned upon him that he had given the man 5.80 for a $5 bill, when he should have given him but $4.80.

Conductor Tower sought out the man and asked him to count his change. This the man refused to do, and was quite indignant. Then the conductor took the names of some of the passengers nearby. Just as the train was leaving the Norfolk Downs station the man jumped off and started to run through the low land on the east side of the track. The train was stopped and train hands and passengers took part in the chase. They overhauled the man and were not content until he handed out a dollar bill.

It would be perhaps a timely hint to the Atlantic police that there are a few "kitched bar rooms" in town where without doubt the "break" schemes are fostered and hatched. It would be well for an officer to thoroughly investigate all suspicious localities, for Atlantic as a whole is too clean a town to have to bear the shame of the amateur work in breakage of a few idlers.

MORE FAVORABLE

The Condition Of Gov. Guild Is Slightly Improved

MORNING NEWS.

Boston, March 24.—There is no perceptible change in the condition of Governor Guild. He is holding his own and is resting quite comfortably.

The friends of the governor and the state officials, with few exceptions, have abandoned hope for his recovery. They were somewhat surprised that the governor held his own so long yesterday, following his rather unfavorable day Sunday and a restless night. The patient was in much pain Sunday night and during the early hours of yesterday morning.

MORE FAVORABLE.

The 9.30 A. M. bulletin from the bedside of Gov. Guild says:

The Governor's symptoms are more favorable. He had a good night, securing several hours' sleep. He is now resting easily.

EXTRA.

A bulletin from the State House at 1.30 state that the condition of Gov. Guild remains about the same as when the morning bulletin was given out. There was a slight change for the better.

Committee Favor Expert Engineers

The Mayor's committee on abolition of grade crossings, consisting of representatives from the Board of Trade, Citizens' Association, Granite Manufacturers' Association and Central Labor Union, met Monday evening at the Mayor's office to discuss the situation. There was a general discussion on the matter, but the only formal action taken, was to pass a vote urging the City Council to pass the order making an apropriation to enable the Mayor to employ an expert.

Just Jotted Down By Ledger Men

Annual meeting of Quincy lodge of Elks tonight.

A beautiful spring morning after the shower of last night.

Miss Lucie Newcomb spent the week end at the Quincy Mansion school, the guest of the Misses Drake of Franklin, N. H.

A recital by pupils of the Quincy Mansion school will be given this afternoon at 4.30. The program includes nineteen numbers.

The committee having in charge the annual ball of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, held an important meeting Monday evening.

An exhibition of oil paintings by Charles W. Hudson will be held in the art gallery of the Milton Public Library from April 3 to May 31.

German Seltzer may be taken with milk, wine or any fruit or syrup. Those who have given it a trial report it to be delicious. It is what one needs in the springtime.

When that subscription paper to raise funds for a new soldiers' monument starts, the funds should flow in rapidly. Let each one give their mite and the sum necessary will soon be available. The committee hope that it will not be necessary to ask the city to make an appropriation.

We have the stock, tools, machinery, and "know how" to do your Optical work promptly and satisfactory. We repair the frames, grind lenses, match the broken ones or test the eye. C. F. Pettengill, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy.

OF IMMORAL NATURE

Anarchist Newspaper Is Denied Use of the Mails

PRESIDENT IS INTERESTED

Will Endeavor to Have Those Responsible For Publication of Sheet Advocating Murder and Arson Prosecuted to Full Extent of the Law

Paterson, N. J., March 24.—President Roosevelt, in answer to an appeal from Mayor McBride to exclude La Questione Sociale from the mails for the purpose of suppressing the publication, states that, in addition to directing that the newspaper be denied the use of the mails, he has requested the department of justice to make every effort to prosecute criminally those responsible for the publication.

A copy of the president's letter to the department of justice was enclosed by Secretary Loeb as the reply to the appeal of McBride, who made public the president's letter last night. La Questione Sociale recently published an appeal of inflammatory character which resulted in the action taken. President Roosevelt's letter to the department of justice follows:

"By my direction the postmaster general is to exclude La Questione Sociale of Paterson, N. J., from the mails, and it will not be admitted to the mails, unless by order of the court, or unless you advise me that it must be admitted. Please see if it is not possible to prosecute criminally under any section of the law that is available the men that are interested in the sending out of this anarchistic and murderous publication. They are, of course, the enemies of mankind and every effort should be strained to hold them accountable for an offense far more infamous than that of our ordinary murderer.

"This matter has been brought to my attention by the mayor of the city of Paterson. I wish every effort made to get at the criminals under the federal law. It may be found impossible to do this. I shall also, through the secretary of state, call the attention of the governor of New Jersey to the circumstances, so that he may proceed under the state law, his attention being further drawn to the fact that the newspaper is circulated in other states.

"After you have concluded your investigation I wish a report from you to serve as a basis for recommendations by me for action by congress. Under section 3893 of the revised statutes, lewd, obscene and lascivious books and letters, publications for indecent and immoral uses or of an indecent and immoral nature, and postal cards upon which indecent and scurrilous epithets are written or printed, are all excluded from the mail, and provision is made for the fine and imprisonment of those guilty.

"The newspaper article in question advocates murder by dynamite. It specifically advocates the murder of enlisted men of the United States army and the officers of the police force and the burning of the houses of private citizens. The preaching of murder and arson is certainly as immoral as the circulation of obscene and lascivious literature, and if the practice is not already forbidden by the law, it should be forbidden.

"The immigration law now prohibits the entry into the United States of any person who entertains or advocates the views expressed in this newspaper article. It is, of course, inexcusable to permit those already here to promulgate such views.

"Those who write, publish and circulate those articles stand on the level with those who use the mails for distributing poisons, for the purpose of murder; and convictions have been obtained when the mails have thus been used for the distribution of poisons. No law should require the postmaster general to become an accessory to murder by circulating literature of this kind."

Postoffice inspectors have already commenced an investigation of the newspaper.

Whyte's Probable Successor

Annapolis, Md., March 24.—The Democratic members of the legislature last night decided upon Senator-elect John W. Smith as successor to the late Senator Whyte. Should the United States senate refuse to recognize the legality of such election, Governor Crothers will appoint Smith to fill the unexpired term; should this appointment also fail of recognition the place will be left vacant.

Not Amenable to Law

San Juan, P. R., March 24.—The indictment that was returned against two priests, editors of a Catholic publication, for printing an article in which it was asserted that persons contracting marriage under the civil law live in a state of concubinage and that their children are illegitimate, has been quashed, it having been found that the federal statutes do not cover this offense.

Storm Hits Southern States

New Orleans, March 24.—As a result of a heavy wind and rainstorm which raged in portions of Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama for twenty-four hours, much property was destroyed, many persons were injured and at least one person was killed. All telegraph and telephone wires in the storm region are prostrated and details are lacking.

Little Cousins Drowned

Methuen, Mass., March 24.—The continued absence of two 4-year-old boys from their homes near the Mill pond led their parents to seek them out, with the result that the dead body of one was found floating on the waters of the pond and the other's body was discovered in the bottom of the pond. The two victims were Ernest A. McKnight and Earle Coates, the boys being cousins. It is supposed that the boys accidentally fell into the pond while playing on its banks.

Sold Worthless Securities

Boston, March 24.—William J. Mackay pleaded guilty in the superior criminal court to two of the four counts in an indictment accusing him of larceny. The government accepted pleas of guilty on the two counts, one charging the larceny of $2400 and the other $6000. Mackay was accused of selling certain securities that were worthless. Sentence will be imposed later.

Wants to Be Congressman

Boston, March 24.—Former Mayor Hyde of Bath, Me., in an interview given here, formally announced his candidacy for congressman from Maine to succeed Congressman Littlefield, who has announced his resignation. Hyde said he had started his candidacy long before Littlefield decided to withdraw, and should have contested his nomination.

Killed With Own Shotgun

Gardiner, Me., March 24.—The body of Warren Osborne, with a gunshot wound in the head and a gun in the right hand, was found beside the Kennebec river. Coroner Henderson considered death was due to an accident, while Osborne was in the act of drawing the gun toward his body, and decided it was unnecessary to hold an inquest.

Had Contemplated Suicide

Stratford, Conn., March 24.—The man who was decapitated here by a train was identified as Svend Bertels, a Norwegian, 35 years old. He had no relatives in this country. It is believed that he purposely lay down on the railroad tracks, as a short time ago he said he intended to make way with himself.

Creditors Will Be Lenient

Claremont, N. H., March 24.—An effort is being made to adjust the financial affairs of the Claremont Paper company so that the mill can be reopened. The head of the company has talked with sixty of the creditors in Boston and all expressed a desire to help the concern through its difficulties.

Neither Side Will Yield

Barre, Vt., March 24.—The efforts of the conference committee of granite manufacturers and cutters to settle the strike of the 3000 cutters have been apparently suspended, an adjournment having been taken subject to the call of the chairman. Neither side seems ready to offer concessions.

Man and Wife Dead From Gas

Cambridge, Mass., March 24.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hubbard were killed by gas during the night at their home at 3 Brattle square. The couple had quarreled and it is believed that they broke a gas pipe and did not notice it. Each was about 45 years old.

Hundreds of Persons Drowned

Tokio, March 24.—The Matsu Maru, a coasting steamer, was sunk in collision with the Hidoyoshi Maru, two miles from Todohokko. The captain of the Matsu Maru, a majority of her 244 passengers and 43 of the crew perished. The Hidoyoshi Maru and another steamer rescued the survivors.

Well to Do, but Bunked In Alley

Chicago, March 24.—The police, on searching the pockets of a none too well dressed man who had been asleep in an alley, found $15,500 in money and a bankbook showing deposits of $51,423. He was John Erickson, 52 years old, known in the neighborhood where he lives as a miser.

Revolutionary Claims Shaved

Havana, March 24.—The revolutionary claims commission has submitted its report on the last of the claims growing out of the recent trouble in Cuba. In all the claims number 15,027. The total amount claimed was $3,803,395, and the total amount allowed is $1,389,827.

KOREANS AFTER STEVENS

Diplomat Receives Two Bullets In His Back at San Francisco

San Francisco, March 24.—I. W. Chang, a Korean, shot and severely wounded D. W. Stevens, formerly counsellor to the Japanese embassy at Washington, and now diplomatic advisor to the Korean government, as Stevens was about to leave for Washington.

Three shots were fired at Stevens by Chang, the first bullet perhaps fatally wounding M. W. Chun, who, with Chang and another Korean, attacked Stevens as he was leaving an automobile. The other two shots took effect in Stevens' back. While the wounds are serious, it is said that the chances for Stevens' recovery are good.

Sunday night Stevens was attacked at the Fairmont hotel by four Koreans who called to see him with reference to an interview in which Stevens had praised the work of the Japanese in Korea. After a fight with fists and chairs, Stevens stood off the assailants until they were arrested.

As Stevens and Consul General Koike stepped from an automobile at the ferry building yesterday, three Koreans were awaiting him. As Koike went to the front of the automobile to look after some baggage, Chun struck Stevens a blow in the face and ran. The diplomat immediately started in pursuit of his assailant.

Chang, standing nearby, drew from his pocket a revolver wrapped in a handkerchief and fired three shots in rapid succession at Stevens. The first shot brought Chun down with a bullet through the right lung. The other two bullets struck Stevens. Policemen arrested Chang and Chun, but the other Korean escaped.

It is learned that a small band of Koreans had been hunting Stevens ever since he arrived from the Orient last Friday. Chang is locked up. No charge will be placed against him pending the outcome of Stevens' injuries.

Tax Commissioner Loses His Job

New York, March 24.—Tax Commissioner Nicholas J. Muller was removed from office last night by Mayor McClellan. During his term of office Muller's duly assessed taxes, with penalties and interest amounting to thousands of dollars, have remained unpaid. Muller also appears to be the heaviest delinquent taxpayer in the borough of Richmond, his home county. Muller, who is 70 years old, is a large landowner of Staten Island. He was appointed tax commissioner in 1904 by Mayor McClellan. The salary of the office is $7000 a year.

Obsequies of Great Churchman

New York, March 24.—With solemn and impressive honors, the funeral services for Charles H. Fowler, twenty-four years a bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, educator and founder of universities, author and missionary, were held at the Madison Avenue Methodist Episcopal church. As a lasting tribute to the dead churchman, it is proposed to prepare a denominational memorial to Fowler, and to this end every person having reminiscences of the late bishop are requested to forward them to Methodist Episcopal church headquarters.

Mysterious Tragedy at New York

New York, March 24.—Another mysterious murder, bearing the ear-marks of a Sicilian vendetta, developed when the body of an unknown Italian was found in a dark rear apartment of a dingy East Side tenement. The man's throat was cut from ear to ear and there were gashes and bruises on the head and face. The victim's feet were tied together. The police declare themselves baffled so far as clues to the murderers are concerned.

Reported Torture of Woman

Port Au Prince, March 24.—A report has gained considerable currency here that Mme. Galette, who was arrested on March 13 on a charge of having influenced soldiers to become disloyal, has died in prison, after torture. The government officials deny the report.

"Unjustly Denied Promotion"

Havana, March 24.—Sergeant Rudolph Kranz of the Seventeenth infantry committed suicide in the cemetery at Camaguey. He left a letter saying that he was despondent because he had unjustly been denied promotion.

Japan Again Warns China

Pekin, March 24.—Japan has asked China to take such steps as may be necessary to prevent a boycott on Japanese goods in China, and to put an end to the anti-Japanese agitation growing out of the Tatsu Maru incident.

AWFUL CREATURE WAS NINETY FEET LONG

Recent Grewsome Experience of a Chicago Man Is Sample of a Series of Such Cases

During L. T. Cooper's recent visit to Chicago, where his new preparation and theory created the usual sensation, many hundreds of people brought enormous internal parasites to the young man, which had left the system after taking his medicine.

Among these people was Mr. Emil Winkler, who brought to Cooper a tapeworm that proved to be over ninety feet in length. Mr. Winkler, who resides at 182 East Ohio Street, Chicago, had this to say of his experience: "For five years I have been more or less complaining. I have had severe headaches, and any food that I would eat would nauseate me. I would have bad dreams almost every night; dizzy spells would compel me to quit work. Black spots would appear before my eyes when stooping over and rising quickly. I would feel tired most of the time; in fact, I had no life in me to speak of for the last five years. I tried various treatments, and one physician in St. Louis was recommended to me, and I was under his treatment some time, but as usual I obtained no relief.

"So many people asked me to try Cooper's preparation that I decided to do so, and after using it for a few days, this awful thing passed from my system. I feel much better already, and I want to say right here that I thank Mr. Cooper a hundred times for what his medicine has done for me. I would not take $5,000 and have that thing back in my system again."

Mr. Winkler is a fair sample of the experience of many during Cooper's stay in Chicago, and this no doubt helped to account for the enormous sale of the Cooper preparation in this city and others, recently visited by the young man.

We sell and will be pleased to explain the Cooper preparations. —E. J. Murphy.

SPEECH IS RULED OUT

Sulzer Offends the Republican Members of Congress

CLAIMED CREDIT FOR A LAW

Disputed by Mann of Illinois, Who Brings Bitter Denunciation Upon Himself From the New Yorker--Controversy Waxed Exceedingly Hot

Washington, March 24.—A scene, somewhat out of the ordinary, was enacted in the house of representatives because of a charge made by Mr. Mann (Ills.) that Mr. Sulzer (N. Y.) had put in the Congressional Record what purported to be a speech delivered by him last Saturday, but which Mann charged was not the one delivered.

It all had to do with Sulzer's claim that he, and not Mann, was the author of the legislation which brought the department of commerce and labor into being. A resolution, offered by Mann, to expunge the printed speech from the record was adopted by a strict party vote, but not until after the house had been treated to a bitter denunciation of Mann by Sulzer and several lively tilts between the latter and the speaker.

Mr. Sulzer characterized Mann as a "pettifogging lawyer, mean and contemptible," for which he was called to order by the speaker, with the admonition that such language could not be used toward a member. Twice afterward, in seeking to justify his claim of authorship, he was interrupted by the speaker with a similar warning.

Anticipating that his speech would be ruled out, and with the view to getting it back into the record, Sulzer resorted to a piece of strategy by trying to have the speech read and later endeavoring to read it himself, but the speaker insisted that he could only address himself to the resolution to expunge.

During the controversy Mann declared it was immaterial to him what kind of a speech Sulzer delivered, but he did not desire to answer speeches of the gentleman and find something entirely different in the record. He accused Sulzer of delivering an imaginary speech and of inserting in it the words "applause on the Democratic side."

Mr. Sulzer said he would not allow the matter to descend to a personal altercation between the "gentleman from Illinois and myself." It was a matter, he declared, that rose above that. It was a matter of great moment to the country, and he said it was his purpose that the country "should not be deceived by the gentleman from Illinois." He then reiterated his statement of Saturday last that he, and not Mann, was the originator and author of the law.

Mr. Sulzer declared that it was an injustice for any Republican "caught with the goods" to come into the house and try to strike out a Democratic speech. If any part of it was objectionable, he said, he was willing to eliminate it himself, but he stood by the record. He expressed surprise that Mann "in his pettifogging, mean, little, contemptible way, should be whining and squealing because he deceived the house and the country the other day when he said he originated the idea."

Speaker Cannon declared Sulzer out of order and Sulzer said he would proceed in order and have his speech of Saturday read so that it might get into the record again. Objection was made by Mr. Payne (N. Y.) and Speaker Cannon ruled that Sulzer must confine his remarks to the resolution to expunge.

"That is what I intended to do," said Sulzer hotly, and again he was warned by the speaker to proceed in order.

Charging that the gentleman from Illinois, "like a pettifogging lawyer—" For a third time he was halted by the speaker and told that such terms as addressed against a member of the house were out of order.

Mr. Sulzer read extracts from his Saturday's speech denouncing Mann as "the alter ego of speaker, carrying orders from the speaker's room to the house."

Smarting under the action of the Republicans, Sulzer, for the rest of the day, posed as an obstructionist. He objected to all unanimous consent propositions and halted the proceedings of the house for a considerable time by a point of no quorum.

After passing a number of measures relating to the District of Columbia, the house adjourned out of respect to the memory of the late Senator Bryan of Florida.

Jackson Before Grand Jury

New York, March 24.—Attorney General Jackson appeared before the grand jury and remained in the room nearly an hour and a half. When asked what had taken place in the jury room Jackson declined to make any statement. His appearance before the grand jury was in connection with an investigation which that body has been making into the conduct of Jackson's office in the recent banking cases in New York city.

Could Compete With Standard Oil

Cleveland, March 24.—"If I were given the same freight rate privileges and the same rates along this line (the Lake Shore) I could successfully do business against the Standard Oil company with all of its millions." Thus declared T. B. Westgate of the American Oil works, an independent concern, in testifying in the government's ouster suit against the Standard Oil company.

MAY BE BIG SCANDAL

French Mining Promoter Said to Have Stolen Over $12,000,000

Paris, March 24.—A sensation has been caused by the arrest here of Henri Rochette on the charge of conducting successful swindles on an enormous scale. Rochette was at one time a waiter in an obscure French town. He came here and founded the Franco-Spanish bank and floated not less than a dozen mining enterprises, in which he is a director, and whose stock was eagerly purchased by French investors.

It is said that his methods were fraudulent and the complaint against him alleges that he has stolen more than $12,000,000 through the medium of his various companies and societies.

The affair appears likely to develop into a big scandal. It is stated that several prominent politicians are involved in the dealings of Rochette, who threatened the examining magistrate with the name of an influential senator.

A large body of brokers have suffered considerable financial loss through the arrest of Rochette. They had been instructed to buy up shares in his concerns which showed a tendency to slump. Accordingly on Saturday they bought up $400,000 worth and received from Rochette checks on the Bank of France, but payment of the checks was refused by order of the court.

Rochette conducted a big financial newspaper, Le Financier, at a cost of about $30,000 a month, by means of which he was better able to dispose of stock in his various companies.

Labor Injunction Made Permanent

Washington, March 24.—The temporary injunction recently issued against the American Federation of Labor by Justice Gould of the district supreme court in favor of the Buck Stove and Range company has been made perpetual by Chief Justice Clabaugh. The injunction effectually restrains the American Federation of Labor from in any manner interfering with the business of the Buck Stove and Range company. The costs of the proceeding were taxed to the Federation of Labor.

An Invitation From China

Washington, March 24.—China, through Minister Wu, its diplomatic represenative in Washington, has extended a cordial invitation for the American battleship fleet to stop in China on its way around the world. It is hoped at the legation that a favorable response will be made by this government to the invitation. Information has reached the navy department that New Zealand and Tasmania have similar invitations on the way by mail.

Infant's Body In Mails

Denver, March 24.—Postmaster Olerach of Partales, N. M., reported to the chief postal inspector of the Rocky Mountain region the discovery of the body of an infant in the mails. Under the outer cover of the package was the following unsigned message: "I did not know what else to do. Burn, or do something right away. Do not open."

Pushing Anti-Gambling Bill

Albany, March 24.—The assembly last night advanced to third reading (order of final passage) the bills designed to abolish gambling at race tracks in this state. Assemblyman Cuvillier (Dem.) tried to have them amended so as to take effect Sept. 1 instead of immediately, but he was overwhelmingly defeated by a rising vote.

Mail Stolen Aboard Steamers

Paris, March 24.—The trial of three men on the charge of having in their possession and attempting to negotiate various checks and bonds which had been stolen from mail bags aboard three steamships has revealed the fact that a most skilful gang of robbers had been systematically plundering incoming trans-Atlantic and other mails.

Great Explosion of Powder

Santiago, Chile, March 24.—The government powder houses at Batuco, thirty miles from here, were blown up yesterday. Six tremendous explosions followed each other in quick succession, causing a panic in the city, which was shaken to its very foundations. The loss is very heavy.

Many Candidates For Senator

Tallahassee, Fla., March 24.—The question of a successor to Senator Bryan has aroused considerable discussion and Governor Broward may declare himself a candidate. Other candidates are J. E. Crane, a state senator; G. A. Carson, brother-in-law of the late Senator Bryan, and former Governor Jennings.

Regulating Sale of Firearms

Chicago, March 24.—The Chicago city council last night passed an ordinance prohibiting the indiscriminate sale of firearms by dealers, who are required to pay an annual license of $25, to file a bond of $1000 and to report details of all sales to the police within twenty-four hours.

Fowler's Presidential Ticket

New York, March 24.—Representative Fowler of New Jersey, author of the Fowler currency bill, announces "Taft and Fort" as his presidential ticket.

Tillman Remains In Bed

Columbia, S. C., March 24.—The condition of Senator Tillman is reported to be unchanged. He is still in bed, but is resting well and is retaining nourishment.

An Agreement Very Important

Editors of Daily Ledger:

Is it not time that some one not directly interested should try and settle the labor difficulty now pending between the quarry owners and their men

Both the men and their employers should realize the far-reaching effect which this cessation of work in the quarries will have, if it is allowed to continue much longer. It is not the quarrymen alone that will suffer. They will suffer the least, for they can draw strike pay, which will help them not a little, but it is those men who will be thrown out of work because of this difficulty in the quarries. It means the shutting down of the whole granite industry in Quincy in a very short time.

A great number of men are now idle for want of the rough stock, and in a short time the polishing shops will have to close down for the want of stone to polish. Many horses and their drivers are now idle, and the number is increasing every day.

In fact there is no labor trouble that we might have that would be so disastrous to the whole city of Quincy as a prolonged shut-down of the granite quarries of our city. It is the foundation of the whole granite industry, and everything depends on it.

Both parties should consider the financial and business situation of the country as we find it today. The N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. have more than one hundred locomotives and thousands of freight cars laying idle at the present time.

The Borden Mills in Fall River are forced to run on half-time. This Mr. Borden would not do unless he is actually compelled to, for he is a great friend of the laboring class and would rather help than hurt them.

Surely, when we have work to do, thereought to be some way of settling this strike, and get to work. It is hoped that those men who have the settlement of this strike in their hands will consider it in a broad, generous manner.

Any one having a farm, house, cottage or camp to dispose of or which they desire to rent for the summer should advertise in that edition as it will be widely circulated among hundreds of persons who are searching for such properties. It is a well known fact that the Boston Transcript publishes each season more advertisements of Summer places for rent than any other newspaper in American. Hundreds of people rent and sell their places by advertising in it each year.

The new moving pictures shown last night were all new subjects, and some are very comical, one especially, "Animated snowballs," provoking much laughter.

Ruth Elliott, a very attractive young lady, with a sweet soprano voice, will sing the illustrated songs all this week and received a great ovation last night on her first appearance.

COUNTESS UNMASKED

Had For Years Held Brilliant Sway In Society

ROBBED PEOPLE MEANWHILE

Over-Eagerness to Secure Valuables of Wealthy American Tourist Lands Her In Police Net--Found to Be a Veritable Up-to-Date Burglar

Paris, March 24.—A series of mysterious hotel robberies on the Riviera, extending over many years, has been explained in the arrest of the beautiful, dashing, but masquerading Countess of Monteil.

For years the Countess of Monteil has entertained lavishly both at Paris and on the Riviera. Her wealth and jewels have drawn comment and admiration from far and near. Now she is declared one of the most ingenious, successful and audacious hotel thieves that ever has troubled the hotel proprietors of France.

Her arrest at Nice reveals her not as the captivating, brilliant countess, but as a thoroughly up-to-date burglar, carrying concealed in her bewitching garments an array of burglar's implements of intricate workmanship which opened to her any hotel room on the Riviera which she knew to contain the coveted wealth of money and valuables.

Wherever the countess stopped there always were mysterious, inexplicable robberies that baffled the police. Valuables disappeared from the rooms of rich Americans in most puzzling manner, for the doors were all found locked and the windows fastened.

Gradually, but vaguely, the faintest haze of suspicion began to be directed towards the Countess of Monteil. The cautious agents of the department of French surety investigated quietly the history of the countess. They found that she had been born of a respectable French family and that her maiden name was Amelia Condemine. She married a man named Portal and came to live in Paris. Afterwards they separated and Mrs. Portal went to the United States.

Two years later she returned to France as the Countess of Monteil. For several years she held brilliant sway in society. She visited the leading watering places on the continent, but especially the winter resorts in southern France.

It was several years ago that the first thoughts of police suspicion drifted towards the countess and her sensational arrest at Nice at one of the famous hotels is the culmination of long and patient watchfulness by the French detective service. Her undoing came in a moment of over-eagerness to rob. Waiting detectives found her, enveloped in a long and beautiful cloak, bending over the door of the room of a wealthy American tourist.

When the woman was searched the police found hidden in special pockets of her clothes pincers, files, skeleton keys, screwdrivers and no fewer than twenty-seven pairs of small, delicately made nippers, used by burglars to unlock and lock a door with its own key when the key is on the inside of the door.

The detectives will seek to prove, moreover, that the masquerading countess was, in fact, the active director of a band of hotel robbers, mostly men, some of whom have been arrested, and whose aggregate loot is of great financial value.

Detectives Under Suspicion

New York, March 24.—Without making any comment other than to say that the reasons were "obvious," Police Commissioner Bingham transferred thirty-three plain clothes detectives who had been under the jurisdiction of former Inspector O'Conner in the district where alleged gambling houses were established and where detectives are alleged to have been working in with the gamblers.

Admits Killing Husband

Cleveland, March 24.—Mystery surrounding the fatal shooting of John Lipscomb was cleared last night, the police say, by the alleged confession of the dead man's wife that she fired the shot that wounded Lipscomb and from which he died last Wednesday. "We quarreled all the time and to end our troubles I shot my husband," she said.

Arrest of Bank Officers

Pittsburg, March 24.—John Young, auditor of the Farmers' Deposit National bank of this city, and Henry Reiber, paying teller, charged with embezzling and misapplying $85,000 of the bank's money, were arrested last night and given a preliminary hearing. In default of $25,000 bail each they were committed to jail.

Held For Russian Authorities

Chicago, March 24.—Mifota Zernosakow, a young Russian, was committed to jail by Commissioner Foot, to be held for extradition to Russia. Information was filed by Baron Schlippenbach, Russian consul in Chicago, who says that the man is wanted in Vilna, Russia, in connection with the murders of four Jewish women.

Had Nine Wives--Gets Four Years

New York, March 24.—Joseph Koehler, said to have nine wives, pleaded guilty to a charge of bigamy in general sessions court and was sentenced to four years and six months in state prison.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

The stem casting or lower section of the stem of U. S. S. North Dakota (battleship) has been erected in place. This is a huge steel casting weighing 17,000 pounds, and is more commonly known outside of ship yards as the ram. The upper section is to be made of 40-lb. plate, which means plate weighing 40 pounds to the square foot (one inch thick) worked flush with the outside plating, extending from the top of the cofferdam to a height above the forecastle deck sufficient for connection to the plate forming the breakwater; at the lower end it will be wrapped around the cast-steel lower section and thoroughly secured to same by inch and one-eighth through rivets and inch and one-quarter tap rivets, and will be connected by butt straps of 50 lbs., plate terble-riveted. The inner and outer keel plates are connected to this stem casting by laps about 27 inches long.

The steam trawler Spray was at T wharf this morning with an exceedingly large fare of fresh fish.

Four pieces of shafting are being forged and finished for the boat building establishment of George Lawley's Sons, South Boston.

Unless the officers at the Boston navy-yard can make their present appropriations last until the close of the fiscal year, June 30, it is probable that wholesale suspensions will be necessary there.

At Monthly Banquet of The Wollaston Congregational Club

About fifty members of the Wollaston Congregational Club sat down to the regular March banquet on Tuesday evening, at 6.30, and it was a good one, the menu included fricassee chicken, and gravy, mashed potato, peas, radishes, biscuits, squash pie, coffee, etc. It was all home cooking, and served by obliging young men and was pronounced the best yet.

At the business meeting, at which President Hull presided, the following committee on nominations for the annual meeting was appointed: Messrs. Tenney, Godfrey, Chase, Flemings and Leavitt.

Rev. E. A. Chase reported that James B. Conley, the author of sea stories, who accompanied the American battleships around Cape Horn to the Pacific, would probably be the speaker at the April banquet.

Cheering news from Gov. Guild was applauded.

Randolph Bainbridge, the Commissioner of Public Works, was a guest of the evening, and was requested to speak on Quincy streets. The Commissioner thought that the city should first give attention to the main thoroughfares. That too much had been frittered away on streets in the outskirts. He said that $21,000 for streets did not average much per mile, but he hoped to do some permanent work. Also favored permanent sidewalks where there was the most travel with assessments upon abutters. There was a great need of underground drains, but the City Council had cut out the estimate.

W. C. Crane, the manager of the Quincy Telephone Exchange, another guest, was next introduced. He explained how the Quincy service had been improved the past year by introducing the merit system, the organization of a club for operatives, lectures, tests, and a hearty cooperation. He invited all members of the club to visit the new plant.

The club then adjourned to the church auditorium and were joined by nearly 100 more, who listened to an interesting illustrated lecture on "Telephone construction and telephone exchange operation" given by E. W. Pierce of the New England Telephone Company. Mr. Pierce covered the field very thoroughly showing the strides the telephone had made in a few years. The audience did not realize before to what varied uses the telephone is now put, and what an important part it is playing in the business and social life of the world. He spoke of the early history, illustrated the switch boards, and batteries ,told of the desk and directory work, the achievements in long distance telephoning, the great amount of wire used and the cost, experiments and improvements, telephone exchanges for foreigners and the Indians, what the telephone had done for farmers, etc., etc.

Quincy was keeping pace with other cities, having about 1,300 subscribers today including 100 at Atlantic connected with the Dorchester exchange. The Quincy exchange now averaged 6,731 calls per day, about ten per cent being between 9 and 10 A. M.

There are now 17 connected with the operating department of the Quincy exchange.

Quincy Tennis Club.

At the annual meeting of the Quincy Tennis club held on Saturday evening, March 21, at the Greenleaf hotel, the following were elected officers for the ensuring year:

President—Moreton T. Swallow.
Vice President—Ernest V. Fitts.
Treasurer—J. Brooks Keyes.
Secretary—C. Lee Morrison.
Executive Committee—Henry R. Holden, Arthur W. Hall and Warren G. Ogden.

Several important items of business were transacted.

Billiard Expert Gives Exhibition

A large number of lovers of the game of billiards were present at the rooms of the Granite City club on Tuesday evening to witness the exhibition games. The first game was played between, Mr. Yatter, a well known Boston billiardist and Prof. Shields. It was a fourteen-inch balk line game of 200 points. Henry McGrath was referee. It proved to be very interesting. Mr. Yatter was in good form, and made some difficult shots with an ease that brought rounds of applause from the local experts. Mr. Yatter made some off shots due largely to unfamiliarity of the table which were remarkably quick, but he made several runs of 35. His best run was his last shot. He had 35 to make. The balls ran pretty for him, and Mr. McGrath had marked up sixty points before he missed. Prof. Shields, while a good billiardist, was no match for Mr. Yatter, and only succeeded in scoring 45 points.

After the game Mr. Yatter gave an exhibition of fancy shots making some exceedingly difficult ones. These were watched sharply and from now on club members will be trying them.

Prof. Shields followed giving an exhibition of finger ball. The balls used were not over an inch in diameter. His handling of them were remarkable. Some exceedingly difficult shots were made which were duly applauded.

Prof. Shields also gave an exhibition of fancy pool table shots. The exhibition was very interesting one throughout.

Tonight the weekly whist tournament will be held to be followed by a lunch.

To Carry Daisy Chain

Miss Ruth Marceau of Wollaston has been honored at Vassar college, having been selected as one of the 24 to carry the daisy chain at commencement. The Herald says: Six of the two dozen pretty girls chosen Tuesday at Poughkeepsie to carry the famous daisy chain in the class day procession at Vassar college in June have been selected from Massachusetts. It is always the custom to chose the prettiest girls in the sophomore class. Half a dozen from Massachusetts when 13 states are represented, say the girls, speaks fairly well for the beauty of the old Bay state. The girls from Massachusetts are Ruth Marceau, Wollaston; Helen Hornblower, Arlington; Juliet Smith, Lee; Florence Cunningham and Mary Cunningham, Gloucester; Gladys Damon, Melrose.

The funeral of Charles H. F. Stoddard, the veteran drummer of Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., was held Tuesday afternoon from his late residence on Quincy avenue. Rev. Ellery C. Butler of the First church officiated, and the members of the Grand Army were present in a body. It was the second time within a week that they had assembled to perform a like duty. Public Meeting

Friday Evening, March 27,

New Soldiers' Monument

Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., believes the time has come when the City of Granite and of Presidents, which had a proud record in the Civil War, should erect a Soldiers' Monument of which we all may be proud.

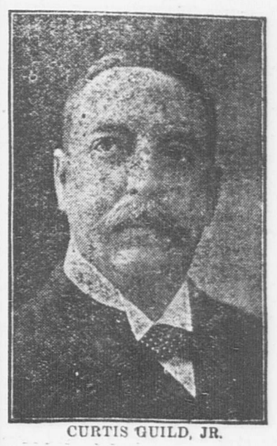

The architecture of the present monument is not pleasing; there is much complaint because of the location; and there seems a popular demand for a handsome memorial. The veterans feel that an appeal to the public should meet with spontaneous support, and therefore have called this public meeting for Friday, evening, March 27, 1908, at 8 o'clock in the Council Chamber at City Hall, to formulate plans.

HOLDING HIS OWN

The Condition Of Gov. Guild By Noon Report Was Unchanged

CURTIS GUILD, JR.

At 9.50 this morning the following bulletin was issued from the residence of Gov. Guild and signed by the three physicians:

There has been no marked change in the condition of the Governor for the past 24 hours; he is holding his own."

MORNING NEWS.

Boston, March 25.—There is a slight chance that Governor Guild may recover. The physicians have kept up a faint hope, and they are now considerably encouraged by the fact that the governor has retained the advantage gained yesterday.

The governor's vitality is serving him well in his crisis, and may be sufficient to pull him through where a man of weaker physique would succumb. It is upon this fact that the physicians evidently are placing their main reliance.

The governor has been conscious throughout his illness. He sees no one except Mrs. Guild and the physicians and nurses. There are three men nurses and they are on duty eight hours each.

Just after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the police officers about the residence and passersby were astounded to see a man kneeling in prayer on the topmost step at the entrance to Governor Guild's home. The man's hat had been placed beside him, his head was thrown back in supplication, and his hands were clasped. It was readily understood that he was calling upon the deity to spare the life of the governor, and fully ten minutes elapsed before he stood up and turned to go.

INTO AN OPEN DRAW

Passenger Train Locomotive Rests on Bed of River

CARS REMAINED ON RAILS

Engineer Jumps and Is Uninjured, While Fireman Is Rescued After Being Carried Down In Cab--Passengers Are Somewhat Shaken Up

Newburyport, Mass., March 25.—The locomotive of a passenger train, which left Boston at 6 o'clock last evening for Portsmouth, ran into an open draw at the bridge over the Merrimac river here, and after plunging a distance of forty feet, partially imbedded itself in the mud at the bottom of the river. Fireman Winn went down with the engine, but was rescued. He was slightly hurt.

The draw of the bridge had been opened to permit the passage of the tug Bronx, which had arrived from Haverhill. The caretaker at the bridge claims that the danger signals were set properly.

The engineer, William Shuttleworth, saw the danger just after the engine had passed through the gates, which were closed when the draw was open, but did not have time to stop the train before the engine took its plunge, and escaped uninjured, but Winn was unable to get out of the cab before the engine struck the water.

Winn managed to get clear of the cab and was soon floating by the drawtender, Ernest Hennessy. Hennessy, Drawtender Hunt and his assistant, Samuel S. Truesdale, who were stationed on the highway bridge, which runs parallel to the railroad bridge, threw a lifeline with a buoy attached, and succeeded in hauling Winn out of the water. He was suffering from slight injuries and shock.

The tender of the locomotive stopped at the edge of the draw and remained on the rails. The train consisted of four passenger cars and a baggage car. The action of the air brake threw the passengers forward from their seats and most of them were shaken up but no one was injured.

In hastening to the rear of the train for the purpose of warning the Amesbury local, which was following close behind, Brakeman Berry was injured by his leg going through the open space between the ties and the bridge. He was cut and bruised. The Amesbury train was signalled in time to prevent a collision.

When the locomotive of the Portsmouth train left the bridge the tug Bronx was passing through the opposite side of the draw, which is about ninety feet wide. The tug had a narrow escape, but was not hit by any part of the locomotive in its descent.

The railroad company will raise the engine as soon as the tackle can be placed in position.

Car Smashed Building

Detroit, March 25.—Over a score of people were injured when an interurban car from Jackson was derailed by defective rails and plowed across the brick pavement into a store building. The car was wrecked and the front of the two-story building was demolished. Twenty people were taken to hospitals for treatment and nearly another score received minor injuries. Two of the injured are in a serious condition.

Made Fortune From Hemp

New York, March 25.—John Good, formerly president of the National Cordage company, and recognized for years as one of the most prominent factors in the hemp industry in this country and England, died at his home in Brooklyn from pneumonia. Good invented a hemp hacking machine, from which he obtained royalties amounting to more than $2,000,000. Two years ago he retired from business.

Alleged Alien Contract Labor

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 25.—Fifteen Spaniards arrested here, charged with violating the alien contract labor law, were given hearings and remanded to jail in default of $1000 bonds. They will be taken to Baltimore and be held there until the secretary of commerce and labor reviews the evidence.

Bryan Sentiment In Indiana

Indianapolis, March 25.—Over one thousand of the 1371 delegates to the Democratic state convention have arrived and the convention promises to be the largest that the party has held in Indiana since 1892. In all probability the delegates will be instructed for Bryan.

Warships' Presence Not Desired

Port Au Prince, March 25.—The attitude of the Haytien government is daily becoming more conciliatory, apparently with the intention of accelerating the departure of the foreign warships from this port.

Dull Times In Collieries

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 25.—Notices were posted at the various collieries of the Lehigh Valley Coal company that further work would not be resumed until after the first of April.

Woman Puts Bullet In Man's Head

Somerville, Mass., March 25.—Peter M. Wilson, aged 29, was shot and, it is believed, fatally wounded, and Mrs. Mary Strozze, aged 25, is charged with the shooting. Mrs. Strozze and her husband say that Wilson alighted with them from a car and followed them. Suddenly, it is claimed, Wilson made an attack upon Mrs. Strozze with a knife. Strozze drew a revolver, which his wife snatched from his hand and turned it upon Wilson, who sank to the ground with a bullet in his head. It is not known what caused the alleged attack by Wilson upon Mrs. Strozze. Wilson has a wife and two children in this city.

Brokers Broken by Bull Market

Boston, March 25.—A bull market is ascribed as the reason for C. J. Foley & Co. and Weidner & Co., two brokerage concerns of this city, closing their doors to business yesterday morning. Both houses made assignments to their legal advisors. Throughout Monday evening when the failure of Weidner & Co. was first reported and all day yesterday the company's office and the office of their counsel were besieged with creditors clamoring for the money which they had given the firm to be invested.

Shareholders Object to Sale

Boston, March 25.—The plant of the Agnew Auto Mailing company, now in the hands of a receiver, was sold at auction yesterday for $9100 to a representative of the creditors. The sale was made subject to the approval of the United States circuit court. Later a representative of the shareholders appeared before Judge Lowell and protested against the sale, saying that the shareholders would give $20,000 for the plant. Lowell will give a decision later.

Made Unprofitable Investments

Boston, March 25.—John O. Shaw, whose administration of numerous trust funds is now under investigation, yesterday resigned as trustee of twelve estates and became a voluntary patient at the McLean hospital at Waverly, an institution for the treatment of mental and nervous diseases. Unproductive investments is said to be the cause of the financial troubles of Shaw, who has been critically ill at his home in this city for some time.

Protest of Lewiston Weavers

Lewiston, Me., March 25.—The Lewiston Textile Council has drawn up a protest against the proposed reduction of 10 percent in wages, which will go into effect in the local mills March 30, and has asked the mill agents for a conference. This increase of from ten to fifteen feet in the length of cuts, together with the alleged increase in fines, more than offset the advance in wages, it is held.

Will Reject Wage Reduction

Boston, March 25.—All the local assemblies connected with the Knights of Labor whose 2000 members are employed by the Boston and Maine railroad system have voted that under no circumstances will they accept a reduction of wages, as proposed by President Tuttle. The assemblies include the freight handlers, longshoremen, roundhouse hands, fuel men and freight clerks.

Stewart Succeeds Proctor

Proctor, Vt., March 25.—John W. Stewart of Middlebury, former governor of Vermont, was appointed by Governor Proctor to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Senator Redfield Proctor. Stewart has accepted. His term will expire this coming fall. John Wolcott Stewart was born in Middlebury Nov. 24, 1825. He was admitted to the bar in 1850.

Conference Will Be Asked

New Bedford, Mass., March 25.—At a meeting of the Textile Council to consider the recent order of the cotton manufacturers to cut wages of their 22,000 operatives 10 percent on April 6 it was voted to ask for a conference with representatives of the mill owners. The Textile Council expressed its disapproval of the proposed reduction.

Unionists Defeat Liberals

London, March 25.—The most keenly fought bye-election for the present parliament, necessitated through the death of Charles G. Clarke, resulted in a great victory for the Unionists, whose candidate, S. C. Gooch, was elected by a majority of 2494. The Liberals carried the district in 1906 by a majority of 2339.

Playing Safe.

Be kind to the man who is larger than you.
Such acting will prove you are bright.
Don't tread on his pet and particular corns
Or ask him to step out and fight.
A jolly for him,
Most carefully trim,
The gloom from his features to chase,
And playing discreetly that way you will find
Will serve to preserve your young face.

Be good to the man who is built like an ox.
The kindness you'll find will repay.
Don't call him a lobster or punch in his ribs
Or fret if he gets in the way.
With him as a friend
A large dividend
To you may some morning accrue.
When he takes a notion to clean out the town
Perhaps he will overlook you.

It pays to be friendly with those who are strong,
To make of the mighty a chum.
If you are not much on the muscle yourself,
A husky side partner helps some.
A peaceable chap
Will shy at a scrap,
But not if his backing is good.
He simply steps out to the side of the room
And lets his companion saw wood.

A BLACK HAND VICTIM

Banker In New York Had Been Blackmailed For Years

IS FINALLY FORCED TO FLEE

Threats Against His Life Lead to Suspension of Payments to Depositors, a Plot Having Been Laid by Conspirators to Cause a Run

New York, March 25.—A malevolent plot, relentlessly worked out by members of the Black Hand, in defiance of the authorities pressing hard upon their trail, the police declare, ended dramatically in a run of depositors on and the suspension of the bank of Pasquale Pati, an Italian banker on Elizabeth street, and his flight from the city in fear of death by the Black Hand because he recently shot and killed Francisco Pelletro, one of their alleged members, who had demanded money under the pain of killing the banker and his family.

Three thousand depositors clamored loudly at the Pati bank yesterday for their savings, and in the excitement a run was started on the bank of F. Acritelli & Son, across the street from the suspended institution, and caused it to shut its doors. The two banks were small private institutions.

The run on the Pati bank, the police charge, was engineered by the Black Hand as a revenge on Pati, who was on Monday acquitted by the coroner of having killed Pelletro. When the run was at its height police reserves were rushed to the district to quell the fast rising disorder.

Plastered on the window of Pati's bank the most remarkable notice of a suspension probably ever posted was read by hundreds after the bank closed its doors. It was signed by Pasquale Pati, and read:

"I will suspend payment for two weeks. I am compelled to leave town, as a have received threatening letters and people have agreed to take my life. There are no fears of your losing your deposits. Besides cash I own sixty-five houses in New York and have them insured for $100,000 and can pay everybody. I will resume in two weeks."

The closing of Pati's bank and his sudden departure from the city is the sequel to a scheme, so say the police, of extortion and blackmail of the Black Hand that had its inception several years ago. Pasquale Pati was said to be the richest banker in the densely populated Italian quarter on the East Side, where the banker believed he had no enemies. Letters came demanding money. How much money Pati parted with to stay the threats, the police have been unable to learn.

It was Pati's custom to keep large piles of American and Italian money in the front window of his bank, and six weeks ago a dynamite bomb exploded near the tempting window. The window was shattered and thousands of dollars in paper money was scattered about the street. Pati succeeded in recovering all of it.

Three weeks ago Francisco Pelletro entered Pati's bank with drawn revolver and demanded money, after threatening to kill the banker, his wife and their son, Salvatore, who were in the bank. Pati and his son drew revolvers and in the fusillade of bullets Pelletro fell, dying.

The flood of Black Hand letters did not cease, and on Monday three strange men entered the bank and threatened not only to kill Pati and his family, but to burn his home and destroy his business.

The men darted out of the bank before Pati could summon the police. Late Monday night a servant at the Pati home in Brooklyn discovered several men prowling around the house, and a quantity of oil-soaked rags placed against the building in several places.

A small run on the Pati bank was started Monday, when rumors began to circulate about Pati. There were 200 depositors in line when the bank opened yesterday and within an hour the line grew to 3000. Pati's relatives quickly decided on suspension, and the doors were closed and the notice of suspension posted. The whereabouts of Pati is not known.

There has been a constantly growing number of divorces in France since the restoration of the divorce law in 1886.

Crowd Dropped Into Cellar

INVITATION OF CHINA

President and Cabinet Decide Upon Its Acceptance

EARLY DEPARTURE OF FLEET

Plan to Have Battleships Home Before Roosevelt Goes Out of Office--Text of Correspondence Between Minister Wu and Secretary Root

Washington, March 25.—The battleship fleet will visit China, as well as Australia and Japan, and will be home on Washington's birthday, that President Roosevelt may participate in the welcome before his retirement from office ten days later.

In deciding at the cabinet session yesterday to accept the invitation extended by China, it was also determined that the limit of the social calls had been reached, and that all other invitations, should any be extended, would be declined with appreciative and regretful "thanks." An earlier departure than July 6 from San Francisco is being contemplated in arranging the extended itinerary. This, however, will depend on the repairs necessary when the ships reach that port.

The Chinese invitation which was accepted was sent to Secretary Root by Minister Wu at the behest of the ministry of foreign affairs in Pekin. It reads:

"As the American fleet has decided to visit the Far East on its tour around the world, we have telegraphed instructions to the imperial high commissioner of trade for the southern ports, Viceroy Tuan Fang of Nanking, to make suitable preparations, in conjunction with Admiral San Chen Ping, to welcome the fleet to our shores. Please extend a formal invitation for the vessels to visit our ports through the honorable secretary of state.

"In transmitting this invitation through you to your government, it is hardly necessary for me to add that it is the desire of my government and people to give expression on this occasion to the very friendly feelings which they entertain towards the American nation and to reciprocate for the many courtesies which have been extended to the representatives of my country on their visit to this country.

"You will remember Viceroy Tuan Fang as one of the imperial high commissioners who visited this land three years ago to make a special study of your laws and institutions, and I have no doubt that he considers it a special privilege to participate in arranging the reception to your fleet."

To this Secretary Root replied:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of the note of the 23rd instant by which you have conveyed to the government of the United States the cordial invitation of the imperial Chinese government for the American fleet to visit China while in the Far East.

"The communication of this friendly action on the part of your government was at once laid before the president, and it is now my agreeable duty to have the honor of informing you that the government of the United States is most happy to accept the invitation, which is done with especial gratification in view of the friendship and mutual good will which have so long existed between the American and Chinese governments and peoples.

"In communicating this reply I am compelled to add, however, that the arrangements for the cruise of the fleet will make it impossible for it to visit more than one of the ports of China.

"It is noted with pleasure that the fleet will be welcomed by his excellency, Tuan Fang, the viceroy of Nanking, who is so agreeable recalled as one of the imperial Chinese high commissioners who visited the United States a few years ago."

Federal Interference Is Asked

Lexington, Ky., March 25.—The failure on the part of the state authorities to run down perpetrators of outrages committed by "night riders" has culminated in a direct appeal to President Roosevelt for federal interference in Kentucky, in the form of a petition. It is known that the president can take no action unless the governor so requests, but the petitioners say it is their purpose by this means to bring the two executives together in the matter.

More Pay For Letter Carriers

Washington, March 25.—At the cabinet meeting yesterday Postmaster General Meyer told the president that he hoped to be able to convince the senate that letter carriers and postoffice clerks should have an increase of salary. The house has already voted that letter carriers receiving $1100 shall be increased to $1200. There are 12,000 of these letter carriers in the United States.

To Get $10,000 For Injuries

Washington, March 25.—The senate commission on interoceanic canals authorized a favorable report on a bill directing the secretary of the treasury to pay $10,000 to Yardmaster Banton of the Panama railroad, who is permanently crippled by reason of injuries sustained by him on the isthmus about two years ago.

Leopold's Sickness Is Serious

Brussels, March 25.—It is reported that the indisposition from which King Leopold has been suffering for some time past has taken a serious turn. The king keeps to his rooms and his physician is visiting him twice daily.

OLD THEATRE BURNED

End of Drury Lane, In Which Many Famous Actors Had Performed

London, March 25.—Drury Lane theatre was completely destroyed by fire this morning. The flames were first discovered about 4 o'clock, bursting from the windows of the building. It was then too late to save the structure. There was no loss of life. The theatre had been closed since the pantomime season ended. It was to have been reopened on April 18. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The Drury Lane theatre derived its origin from a cockpit, which was converted into a theatre in the reign of Charles I. It was rebuilt and called the Phoenix, and Charles II granted an exclusive patent to Thomas Killigrew April 25, 1662. It was opened on April 8, 1663. Nell Gwynn performed in this house in 1666. It was burned down, together with sixty houses, in 1672, and rebuilt by Sir Christopher Wren. Garrick made his debut here in 1742, Mrs. Siddons made her debut as a star in 1782 and Mr. Kemble his debut as Hamlet in 1782. Sheridan was manager in those days.

Arthur Collins became the managing director on behalf of a limited company in 1897. It was the home of a great many pantomimes, but many Shakespearean plays also were presented. Sir Henry Irving appeared on its stage in many of his noted parts.

America Far In the Lead

San Francisco, March 25.—The American car in the New York-to-Paris race arrived here yesterday afternoon and will remain here for several days undergoing numerous repairs and a thorough overhauling. The Italian car is undergoing repairs at Ogden, 800 miles in the rear of the American automobile. It is being rapidly overhauled by the French car, which is in Wyoming, 176 miles ahead of the German contestants.

Army Officer Guilty of Cruelty

Washington, March 25.—Captain Dudley, Fourteenth cavalry, at Boise barracks, Idaho, has been convicted by court martial of the charge of cruelty in having compelled a young soldier to parade up and down the porch of the barracks for three hours, wearing on his back a placard with the words "bad boy," and sentenced to be confined within the limits of his post for four months.

End of Journalists' Strike

Berlin, March 25.—The strike of the reichstag journalists was settled last evening. Under pressure of the various party leaders, Herr Groeber, the centre leader, who had called the journalists "swine" because they jeered at a statement used by a member to the effect that negroes had immortal souls, expressed apologies for the language he had used in referring to the journalists.

Canteen Produces "Beer Habit"

Washington, March 25.—General Daggett, U. S. A., retired, made an argument before the house committee on alcoholic liquor traffic against the re-establishment of the canteen. He claimed that the canteen, when it was in existence, inculcated into the men a "beer habit," which led them to frequent saloons and places of questionable character.

Passing of Famous Hostelry

New York, March 25.—The Fifth Avenue hotel, a landmark of New York and for half a century the gathering place of Republican politicians, will close for business April 4 on account of the encroachment of business. The old gray stone hotel will be torn down to make room for a skyscraping office building.

Helena, Mont., March 25.—Sheriff James Webb of Yellowstone county was shot and killed near Billings by William Byckfound, wanted in Wyoming on a charge of horse stealing. The murderer escaped, but several posses of cowboys are in pursuit.

Won't Reduce Price of Diamonds

FILIBUSTER THREATENED

Democrats Will Force Hand of Republican Party In Congress

Washington, March 25.—If Mr. Williams of Mississippi, the minority leader, makes good his warning given in the house of representatives, the Republicans will be forced to pass certain legislation, or else meet with obstruction at every turn by him or his Democratic colleagues.

Mr. Williams declared that up to now the Republicans have had smooth sailing. He did not want the country to think that the minority was trying to assume responsibility for legislation. He did not desire to appear as trying to coerce the majority until the Republicans had absolutely "demonstrated before the country that they did not intend to do anything this session."

He had, he said, waited for the Republicans to do something. "I have finally come to the conclusion that the Republican party has forgotten to do anything. It has become the party of negation and of passivity and, as far as I can see, has no idea of doing anything. It is plain now that without some method of parliamentary coercion you are going to be deaf to every demand of the country."

Mr. Williams announced that "from this moment on for the balance of the session this is not a lie-easy, wait-on-the-enemy campaign, but coercion is going to be exercised." No request for unanimous consent on the part of Republicans, he said, would be granted, unless it be to adjourn or take a recess "until the majority shows that it is alive to the demands of the country" sufficient to report for consideration in the house such measures as an employer's liability bill; some bill for the publicity of campaign contributions, a free wood pulp and a free print paper bill, and a bill against ex-parte injunctions acting as a supersedeas of a law passed by a sovereign state."

Long Lost Documents Found

St. Louis, March 25.—The original papers in the historic Dred Scott case, which have been missing from the transcript room of the courthouse for many years, were found yesterday by J. C. Taussig among a lot of discarded papers of his deceased uncle, George W. Taussig, in a storage warehouse, and returned to the circuit clerk. The celebrated case was begun in November, 1846, and the petition is still perfectly legible, although the paper is yellow and cracking with age.

AMONG THE CLUBS

There was a large meeting of the Quincy Alliance in First Church parlor on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Geo. W. Morton, president, conducted the devotional and business session and introduced the speaker of the afternoon Mrs. Otho A. Hayward who gave a most interesting paper on the "Life and Religious Works of Count Tolstoi." The paper showed careful preparation. The facts and data were all entertainingly told and Mrs. Hayward received many personal words of appreciation during the social hour. Mrs. Harry Slade contributed Russian songs, Mrs. Pfaffmann at the piano, which added much to the pleasure of the afternoon's program. Mrs. Henry M. Faxon and Mrs. Henry Wright poured chocolate during the social and were assisted by Alliance members.

Mrs. Henry Dowst entertains the Junior Friday club at her home on Greenleaf street on Monday afternoon the thirtieth. The program will be in charge of Mrs. Arthur W. Hall, with "Savonarola and Renaissance Architecture" in the continuance of Florence 1400-1600 as the subjects for study. In April the club goes to Newton to meet with Miss Grace M. Isaac.

Next Wednesday will be an important date in the year's program of the Wollaston Alliance for on that day they are to hold a neighborhood meeting and conference of Alliance workers.

A public meeting of the Mothers' Association is to be held next Wednesday evening at eight o'clock in Bethany chapel. Mr. Warren F. Spalding will give a talk on "A new view of the Bad Boy," and Miss Winnetta Lamson who sang so charmingly at the musicale of the Quincy Women's club, will be the soloist for the afternoon, with Mrs. John F. Hunt at the piano. Men are cordially invited to be present. A silver collection will be taken.

The Friday club meets this week with Mrs. George W. Morton of Spear street with Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick in charge of the program. Florence of Today: The life of the people—status of women, make up an interesting afternoon's study. The club closes its season on May first.

Hospital Aid association holds an all day meeting tomorrow in First Church chapel, with box luncheon at noon and a business meeting at half past two.

"Goethe: the Great Aspect of Personal Life in Balanced Relation and Large Fulfillment" the subject for the last lecture in the course of ten Saturday morning lectures at Tremont Temple by Prof. Edward Howard Griggs, will be the strongest of the series on Great Autobiographies. The lectures have been masterly studies of types and problems of manhood and womenhood and have attracted large audiences of thinkers who have been helped and strengthened. Club women regret that this week brings the course to a close for this season.

Mrs. Florence Evans of Dorchester is to give a course of Thursday afternoon lectures under the auspices of the Mothers' Association in Bethany chapel, the first one on March 26th, with "The Persuasive Power of Ideals" as the subject.

Any member of Adams Chapter Daughters of the Revolution desiring to go as delegate to the annual meeting of the General Society in New York, April 27 to May 2, is asked to send her name to Mrs. Mabel L. Priest, recording secretary of the State society, 36 Walnut park, Newton. The meetings will be held at the Waldorf-Astoria and besides business sessions there will be receptions, excussions to West Point, and places of interest. As Mrs. Adelaide Fitz is up for regent it is hoped Massachusetts will give her a solid vote.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

At the meeting of the Quincy Women's club on Tuesday afternoon at the club house the business postponed from March tenth was transacted, including reports of the officers and chairmen of committees, Mrs. George W. Morton presiding.

The Education committee reported that they were preparing for the annual spring festival for children and hoped for the hearty support of club members as money was needed for the summer schools. Contributions of maybaskets, candy etc were desired. Mrs. Charles M. Bryant would be in charge of the candy booth. Date of festival was Saturday April 25th at Quincy Music hall.

Mrs. N. G. Nickerson asked members to save their old rubbers, pieces of hose, etc, as she was collecting rubber to sell for the benefit of the Visiting Nurse's salary.

Joining the National Federation of Women's club was discussed and by a small vote it was decided 36 to 34 against joining. The matter will doubtless be brought up again at a future date for a more representative vote. At the present time members are not informed as to the benefits, pro and con, of joining.

Music followed the business session, Miss Alice Claflin, at the piano playing a march by Raff and Mrs. Emma Shufelt Moore singing a group of songs. It is always a pleasure to hear Miss Claflin who has a pleasing touch. She played with much brilliancy, receiving hearty applause. Although Mrs. Moore has been before the club as chairman of the Music committee and in the club trio, it was not until Tuesday that the club had the pleasure of hearing her in solos. She sang "Roses in June" by Edward German, "Phyllis" by Whelpley and "But Lately in Dance I Embraced Her" by Arensky, receiving appreciative encores Mrs. Moore has a pleasing voice of wide range, singing with a purity and accuracy that always delights.

The speaker Mr. Oscar Frank Stetson of Sutton, Mass., was introduced by Miss Edith Randall of the Program committee, she being a personal friend. Mr. Stetson's subject "Children of the Old World in the New" is a vital problem and was well presented. As came the first settlers to Massachusetts and Virginia for freedom and a home, so even to this day comes the immigrant but in the last quarter century there was a change, a great many undesirable people were coming who would not easily assimulate, they came for money; lack education and have no desire for citizenship or advantages for themselves or their families. It was a question whether we could Americanize them before they foreignize us. All large cities in America were becoming almost foreign in their make up. In New York city there are more Italians than in Naples, more Germans than in Berlin and so with other peoples. They are distinct colonies and do not assimilate. In winter they often return to Europe taking much money with them out of this country.

The slum districts should be broken up, landlords forced to furnish better tenements with regard to sanitation and an effort made to get the people out in the country on farms. Individuals should back up congress. North country people were more desirable than those from the southern countries. The industrial demand for cheap labor brought in an undesirable class. There was much work for the Settlement Worker, for the club women, who would go into the homes in a friendly way and teach the mothers to be home makers, to sew to cook and use soap and water freely.

Black bread soaked in lard was not conducive to good health good morals or good citizenship.

The spiritual life could be improved by a kindly interest, bringing them into church that was a church in architecture and not a bare hall. These people could be reached through things beautiful and personal sympathy. They were mostly children waiting to be led.

Mr. Stetson has worked personally among the foreigners for years and told many anecdotes, pathetic and interesting. He for one is surely helping to solve the problem of "Children of the Old World in the New."

It was an interesting talk earnestly and entertainingly told.

NEIGHBORING.

In accordance with a request of the civics committee of the General Federation many clubs have held civic betterment meetings. Under the head of this subject are ranked public sanitation, the gospel of cleanliness as applied to streets, parks and back yards; school sanitation; water supply; the spread of contagious diseases, especially the spread of tuberculosis; unsightly bill boards; ugly and inartistic monuments; untidy public buildings and all institutions and objects that combat in any sense the idea of "the city beautiful." That cleanliness may become a habit no one doubts, and if club women exercise all the means in their power to encourage the acquiring of this habit by the masses and at the same time use every effort to promote a general love of the things really good to look at out of doors as well as indoors, we may hope for great improvement wherever human beings live. No class and no organization can accomplish more in this broad line of "civics" as the club women can. Professor Charles Zueblin of Chicago University, speaking on this topic, says to women, "You cannot longer by mediaeval excuses keep yourselves from public life, Women must by their duty to their families take part in and have relations with the health, the street, water, lighting and other departments."

At a recent meeting of the Monday club of Weymouth, Superintendent of Schools A. A. Badger, told of his appreciation of what the club was doing for the schools of Weymouth.

The annual meeting of the Milton Woman's club will be on Monday, April sixth.

That Somerville appreciates the services of the visiting nurse is shown by the recent reports of the Visiting Nursing association, 284 calls being made by the nurses in February.

President Eliot justly praises the Instructive District Nursing association for its work in bringing expert nursing within reach of the average family, which is not poor enough for charity and too poor to command the services of expert attendance at usual rates. A great benefit to the public, it should not be hampered by lack of funds. No worthier enterprise is befor the philanthropically disposed.

Henry Turner Bailey speaks on "Jersusalem, the City of the Great King" on Thursday at the regular meeting of the Old Colony club of Weymouth.

Diphtheria At Braintree

By order of Dr. Henry L. Dearing, chairman of the Braintree Board of Health, all school buildings in the town were closed this morning owing to the prevalence of diphtheria. It is probable that they will be closed for two weeks as the spring vacation begins on Monday.

Eighteen cases of diphtheria have been reported, fully one half of which are adult cases.

Several of the cases among children are from the Noah Torrey school, and one from the Pond school.

The Board of Health are making preparations to clean all of the ponds.

All Ready for Boston Hippodrome.

Now that only a few days more remain before the Boston Hippodrome opens its doors at Mechanics Building (the first performance is on Monday, March 30) everyone connected with the enterprise is working day and night in order that things may go smoothly. The people who are to take part in the big show are arriving in town every day and rehearsals of various acts are going on in a dozen different places.

Signor Peri, under whose direction the beautiful "Ballet of the Butterflies," is being produced announces that things are even better than he had hoped for in his department and that the ballet girls will be in the pink of condition to give a graceful performance on the opening night.

Claude Hagen, who is Albert R. Rogers' General superintendent, is fast getting Mechanics Building into shape for the final rehearsals. The apparatus for the flying ballet, which has had to be brought from Germany, arrived the first part of this week and has been installed in the roof of Mechanics hall.

The arrangement of the Boston Hippodrome will be quite different from its prototype in New York. There everything is shown upon a large stage. At the Boston Hippodrome everything will be shown on the main floor, with seats on all four sides, much as they are in a circus tent. There will be two forty foot rings and a forty foot stage, the whole surrounded by a hippodrome track, on the floor of Grand hall. Surrounding this, on the floor will be a double row of boxes and four tiers of seats, one above the other. In the basement will be all the ring stock, the elephants and other animals used in the performance. Then there will be a large Curio hall and a number of smaller side shows. Here will be found the real "circus atmostphere."

Store Entered

The market of Gerald Sullivan, situated in the Sagamore block at Atlantic, was entered by burglars sometime last night. The parties gained entrance by the transom over the front door. No money was left in the store and the parties were disappointed in this respect. They, however, rummaged about the store and had a lunch of crackers, cheese and pie.

An attempt was also made to enter Reviere's shoe store in the Duggan block. Three lights of glass were broken but the parties evidently did not enter the building.

ANNUAL PROBLEM.

Beginning
With the birth
Of spring,
As ancient winter
Dies,
We have
To hunt
Some shanty where
We can Vacationize.
The railroads
Send us
Lots of maps,
Hotels
Send books
To read,
And Farmer
Goosebush
Writes to brag
About his sumptuous
Feed.
It's very Comforting to read
Of places
Where they pay
Ten dollars
And a whole lot
More
Sometimes to stay
A day.
We feel
That's doing things
In style
And suits us.
Still,
We seek
Some modest Places
Where the charge
Is three or four
A week.

Their Topics.

"You say you can read any man's mind?"

"That's easy."

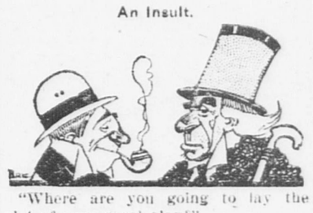

"What's the man across the street thinking about?"

"How old is he?"

"What difference does that make?"

"All the difference in the world. If he is under thirty, he is thinking about the girls. If he is over that, he is wondering how he can work some scheme to get a dollar without working for it."

An Insult.

"Where are you going to lay the plot of your rural play?"

"I don't know. Where would you?"

"You might lay it in the barnyard."

"Man, it is a play and not an egg."

Mercy Nary.

Tell us not in mirthful measure
Marriage is a failure quite
When a wedding's such a pleasure
With its bride all gleaming white.

Failure, nothing! It's a screaming,
Howling, big success all right,
With its bridesmaids sweetly dreaming
O'er the wedding cake at night.

After that the alimony
And the blushing divorcee.
Nay, nay, marriage isn't phony,
Not as long as it will pay.

Bargain In Prospect.

"Several foreign noblemen hanging around Julia," said the doting mother to the proud and wealthy father. "Perhaps you had better give her some good advice."

"I will," replied the sagacious millionaire. "There is a panic in Europe, I hear, and I will tell her that if she waits until next year we may be able to buy a good serviceable count for much less money."

Complimentary.

"I'd like to see the fellow that looks like me."

"I thought you liked to look at pretty things."

Still Lacking.

We have the noiseless gun at last
To man our noble fleet.
Now, with the noiseless orator
Our lot would be complete.

Expected to Be Disagreeable.

"He has a penchant for saying the wrong thing."

"Then he will never make a diplomat."

"No; just a bill collector."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

An honest man is the noblest work of God; also too often an easy mark and a gay come-on.

After marriage a man soon learns that flattery is even more necessary than he had supposed.

For deep content and placid happiness seek out a man who has just been cured of toothache.

Borrowing trouble is like placing a mortgage upon the future without gaining any benefit for the present.

Falsehood crushed to earth will find a lawyer and start a damage suit.

A woman's false hair often gives her a charming air of sincerity.

Can a girl be said to have designs upon a man when she says of him that he looks like an animated meal ticket?

Struck by Train Now at Hospital

Richard Bennett, a farmer employed by Francis McCormick, was struck by a train near the Presidents bridge Wednesday afternoon, and was severely injured. Bennett was returning to work from dinner, and to take a short cut ran down the embankment just north of the President's bridge onto the track. The bridge obstructed his view, and he did not see the approaching inward train. Just as he stepped onto the track the inward 2 o'clock train struck him. He was thrown one side so the train did not pass over him. The train was stopped, and Bennett after being placed on a stretcher was put aboard the train and taken to Boston. It was impossible to learn the extent of his injuries, but it was said that it was to his back. He was 22 years of age and resided at 21 Adams street.

Unanimous Request.

The St. Paul's Swedish M. E. church is unanimous for the return of their pastor, Rev. S. L. Carlender, for another year, which will be his fifth. The quarterly conference was held at the church on Wednesday evening when a vote was passed requesting the conference to return Mr. Carlender. Rev. C. J. Wigren, the presiding elder, was in attendance. During the year the church has added 34 members; harmonious relations exist and there is a surplus in the treasury.

Public Meeting

Friday Evening, March 27,

New Soldiers' Monument

Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., believes the time has come when the City of Granite and of Presidents, which had a proud record in the Civil War, should erect a Soldiers' Monument of which we all may be proud.

The architecture of the present monument is not pleasing; there is much complaint because of the location; and there seems a popular demand for a handsome memorial. The veterans feel that an appeal to the public should meet with spontaneous support, and therefore have called this public meeting for Friday, evening, March 27, 1908, at 8 o'clock in the Council Chamber at City Hall, to formulate plans.

John D. Williams, Chairman,
Franklin Curtis, Secretary,
Francis P. Loud, Treasurer.

QUINCY'S RECORD

Enlistments Numbered One-Half The Adult Male Population

Now that there is a movement for a new Soldiers' Monument, it is well to recall the noble part that Quincy played in the Civil War. The following review is from Pattee's History of Quincy:

In 1855, or about ten years after the dissolution of the Quincy Light Infantry, the Hancock Light Guards were formed out of a "Know-nothing" organization, called the "Guards of Liberty." The Liberty Guards desired to be organized as an independent company, but finding that it could not be legally accomplished, they concluded to form a company under the military law of the State.

After having received their charter, they completed their organization by making choice of the following-named persons as officers:—Abner B. Packard, captain; William S. Glover, 1st, lieutenant; William Nash, 2d lieutenant; Thaddeus H. Newcomb, 3d leiutenant; Franklin Curtis, 4th lieutenant. Under these competent officers they became a well-disciplined and flourishing company.

In the civil conflict of 1861, between the North and South, Company H, which was the official letter by which the Hancock Light Guards, of Quincy, was regimented, was among the first to respond to the call of the Government. This company was a member of the 4th Regiment, which regiment was under the command of Col. Abner B. Packard, who was first captain of Company H. On receiving their orders to proceed to Fortress Monroe, they took their leave for Boston and rendezvoused in Faneuil Hall. After remaining there some twenty-four hours or more, the regular officers of the company not appearing, they concluded to make choice of a new set, which were as follows:—Franklin Curtis, captain; Edward A. Spear, 1st lieutenant; Benjamin F. Meservey, 2d lieutenant; Charles F. Pray, Matthew M. C. Chubbuck, John Williams, Robert Monk, sergeants; William H. H. Lapham, Thomas Smith, William S. Wilbur, Morton Packard, corporals.

They proceeded to Fortress Monroe and were placed under the command of Col. Dimmock and a few weeks after, under Gen. Benjamin F. Butler. This regiment, with others to the number of about four thousand men, was called upon to take a part in the first serious conflict of the war. This was at the battle of Big Bethel, Virginia, fought June 10 1861, under Brig.-Gen. E. W. Pierce, of Massachusetts. After several hours of fighting, Gen. Pierce was obliged to order a retreat. This defeat of the Northern troops was attributed to the incapacity of the general in command. At this action Francis L. Souther, a member of Company H, received mortal wounds, of which he died the same day. He was the first soldier killed in the war, and was a native of Quincy. Mr. Souther was sent home by his comrades, and buried in the Mount Wollaston Cemetery with suitable military honors.

This record of the late civil war has been compiled from the war record of the town, made by Mr. Eben W. Underwood, and published by the town in 1866.

The call for men to go into the army was large and often. The increased demand for money to carry it on, created a burdensome tax upon her inhabitants and a large town debt, which in 1880 had not been fairly wiped out.

April 16, 1861, eighty-three persons were ordered for three years; May 3, the same year, seventy-eight more were called into the service for the same time; June 17, one hundred and forty-three more were ordered to serve for the same time; making the whole number into the field, the first year, three hundred and four (304.)

May 28, 1861, seventy-five men were ordered for three years; July 4, one hundred and fourteen were selected for the same time; Aug. 4, seventy-one more were ordered into the army for nine months; making the total number for 1862, two hundred and sixty (260.)

May 28, 1862, seventy-five men were volunteers to the war; July 17 of the same year, upon orders from the U. S. Government, ninety-nine men were drafted for the army. Out of this number but four of the principals went to the field of strife for three years, and eleven furnished substitutes. Oct. 17, of the same year, twenty-nine volunteers were sent for three years' service. Total number, one hundred and forty-six (146).

Feb. 1, 1864, twenty-five volunteers were called into the field for three years. March 15, the same year, sixty-four volunteers were sent for the same length of time. May 19, sixteen men were drafted, out of which number not one of the principals went into the army; six paid three hundred dollars commutation, five were exempted for disability, one furnished a substitute, three never reported—one as an alien, or erroneously enrolled. June 15, seven men were drafted for three years, but were not called for, as the Selectmen procured substitutes to fill their places. July 6, seventy-three men were sent into the field for one hundred days. July 19, forty-eight volunteers were dispatched to the army for one year. Dec. 19, twenty-six men were sent by the town to the war for one year. Total number of men called for by the government for the year 1864, two hundred and fifty-nine (259); out of which number two hundred and forty-four went into service (244). All soldiers here enumerated were volunteers, excepting those where a draft is mentioned.

Thus it would appear, that during the three years of the war, the town was called upon to furnish nine hundred and sixty-nine men, and sent by draft and volunteers, nine hundred and fifty-four. The balance of fifteen men not procured we are not able to account for.

PEACE FOR THREE YEARS

Agreement Reached in Granite Industry Of the City

Word was received in Quincy this morning that an agreement has been reached by the National board of Concillation, composed of representatives of the Granite Manufacturers' Association and Granite Cutters' Union, and that peace in the granite cutting district was assured for the next three years.

There were several items upon which the local committee were unable to agree, but which by agreement were referred to the National board.

For the past two days these matters have been under consideration endeavoring to reach an agreement. This agreement according to the report was reached Wednesday after a long session. Just what the terms of the agreement are is not known, but it is understood that it is to run for three years.

One of the points upon which the two local committees could not agree was in regard to closed shop. That is to say an agreement was wanted by the cutters which would prohibit the employment of any stone cutter unless he was a member of the union. There was also another clause relative to apprentices.

The industry in Quincy has been particularly fortunate this year by having men of intelligence on the committees representing the two organizations, who were determined that the differences should be settled if possible without suspension of work. The committee settled a number of the points and agreed that those unsettled should be referred to the National board.

In the meantime business was to continue as usual. The result has been that everything has been harmonious.

Agreement With Quarry Engineers

An important meeting of the Quincy Engineers' Union was held Wednesday evening, and action taken which it is believed will prevent the strike that was threatened to take place next Wednesday.

Some time ago the engineers submitted a new agreement, which among other things is said to have asked for an increase of the minimum wage of from $16 per week to $20. It is also understood that there were clauses about Saturday half holiday, union shop, etc.

Up to the present time the Granite manufacturers and union committees have been unable to agree.

Just what transpired at Wednesday night's meeting is not known for certain, but it was reported this morning that the union signified its willingness to sign the present bill for a term of two years, and instructed its committee to bring about another conference with the manufacturers' committee.

Quarrymen's Union Discuss Situation

A mass meeting of Quarrymen's union was held Wednesday afternoon at Farnum's hall. President Curtis presided, and the meeting was addressed by P. F. McCarthy, the international secretary.

Secretary McCarthy scored the Quincy manufacturers for their alleged lack of honor in promising the men an average wage of 28 cents per hour, and then withdrawing the promise with a statement that the National association forbade any increase this year in wages.

Before he left, Secretary McCarthy presented President Curtis of the local union with a check for $2,000 in behalf of the International union, as strike pay, with the statement that there was more where that came from.

It was announced that a number of quarrymen had left the city, having secured employment elsewere.

IMPROVEMENT REPORTED

Good News From Bedside Of Popular Chief Magistrate

Boston, March 26.—The condition of Governor Guild has not changed since yesterday. He is holding his own well and is resting comfortably.

The governor's general condition is not materially different from that of a week ago last night, when the startling announcement was made that the chief executive of the state was critically ill.

During the past week the governor has been slightly weaker at times, but his rallying power has not failed. He was restless part of Tuesday night, but got the benefit of a good sleep yesterday afternoon and last night.

A bulletin issued by Dr. Winslow, Gov. Guild's physician at 9.40 A. M. says:

"In spite of a restless night the Governor shows some improvement during the past twenty-four hours."

The bulletin given out at 2 o'clock this afternoon says:

There has been a slight improvement in the Governor's condition since morning.

Whist Tournament.

Some remarkably good scores were made at the weekly whist tournament of the Granite City club on Wednesday evening. There were several scores that figured out over 60 per cent, but W. O. Wellington and R. T. Anthony, both of Wollaston, carried off the honors. Mr. Wellington secured over 79 per cent and Mr. Anthony over 71.

The best scores for the month were secured by George P. Mead and G. H. Field. The former had 60 per cent for the month, and the latter 59 per cent.

In response to a unanimous request the tournaments will be continued through April with the exception of the evening on which the annual banquet takes place.

☞Walter F. Carman and Chester Brown will hold their Souvenir Dancing Party in Electa Hall, Johnson Building, this evening.

The City Council Committee on Finance will meet tonight.

Unless the strike with the quarrymen is settled soon the stone cutters will be obliged to quit work because of scarcity of rough stock.

The condition of James W. Rideout, who has been seriously ill for some weeks, remains unchanged, and he shows but little signs of improvement.

The Pierian String Quartette will be assisted at their concert at Wollaston next Tuesday evening by a tenor, a violinist and accompanists. Tickets are now on sale.

Cuff's orchestra will furnish the music and C. C. Whittemore will cater at the Knights of Columbus ball at Quincy Music hall April 20. Tickets are now on sale.

The large fire at Nantasket last evening, which destroyed several buildings near the Atlantic House, made a bright illumination, and many in Quincy who saw it wondered where it was.

The President Declared to Be Intoxicated by Applause

BITTER SPEECH IN CONGRESS

Stanley of Kentucky Says Roosevelt Has Profound Contempt For the Constitution and Uses Big Stick to Crack Heads of Congressmen

Washington, March 26.—Representative Stanley of Kentucky addressed the house of representatives in reply to the recent political speech of Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania. He denounced Alexander Hamilton, whom Dalzell had praised, as an "obscure adventurer," and said that the imperialism of Hamilton had no semblance "to the imperialism of Roosevelt. These two characters hold only this in common," he said, "and that is their profound contempt for the Constitution and an everlasting impatience of its restraints."

President Roosevelt, he declared, was dominated by great glamor and intoxicated by applause, while Hamilton from early boyhood dreamed of power. Stanley said there was nothing of "the big stick" about Hamilton. "This man performed more than he promised, meant more than he said; but," he added, "your new imperialism is strenuous in speech and fickle in purpose."

Mr. Stanley thought there was much of the baton "about the "big stick." "At best," he asserted, amid general laughter, "it is a shillelah. It is large, but it is light. It is an excellent thing with which to crack the heads of recalcitrant congressmen, but I sincerely doubt its efficiency in actual war."

Mr. Stanley referred to a case recently before the local courts involving a charge of violation of the pure food and drugs act, and charged that while the jury was out the president had demanded of the district attorney that the defendant be sent to jail. "It must in shame be admitted," he said "that the big stick is being used to kill rats."

He drew a comparison between the president and Mr. Bryan. Bryan, he said, "had no authority, no office, no patronage. He commands," he went on, "because a majority of the free men in the Democratic party respect him as a statesman and trust him as a man, one who takes his fellows by the hand, while Roosevelt takes his partisans by the throat."

Addressing the Republicans, he charged that twice only, "amid blatant insult and defiance of the president in his strenuous career, have you raised your cowering and trembling heads." Once, he said, was when they refused to allow simplified spelling, and the second time when they put back on the coins the motto "In God We Trust." Amid Democratic laughter, Stanley said that "that was the last expiring effort to restore confidence."

Representative Cocks of New York, who represents the district in which the president lives, spoke in response to the recent attack on President Roosevelt by Representative Willett of New York. He declared that if he thought what Willett said had had "any effect upon that distinguished neighbor of mine, or that it in any way detracted from anything he has done or from his attitude, or from his standing before the people," he would have spoken at greater length, "but," he added, "I believe it availed nothing."

Mr. Willett, replying, said that all he had said of the president he was prepared to defend, and particularly against "any assault that my Quaker colleague may make."

Laying stress on Cocks' remarks that Willett's words had had no effect, Willett, at the top of his voice, agreed with his colleague. "The Constitution of the United States," he declared "does not influence him. It is all 'my policy' and nothing but the utterances that flow from his lips and never ceasing tongue."

Meyer Bimberg Dead

New York, March 26.—Meyer R. Bimberg, known far and wide as "Bim, the button man," was found dead in his bed last night. A week ago Bimberg contracted a cold which developed into tonsilitis, but he was believed to be rapidly recovering. He was born in this city forty-six years ago. In recent years Bimberg built six theatres, but it was as the manufacturer of campaign buttons that he was known outside New York.

Will Be World's Tallest Building

New York, March 26.—A revision of the plans for the uncompleted cloud-piercing tower of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company's building shows that the steel supports can bear more weight, and the architects have practically decided to add twenty-five feet to the tower previously planned to reach 658 feet above the sidewalk. At 683 feet the Metropolitan tower will be the tallest enclosed building in the world.

Rochette's Employes Stick to Him

Paris, March 26.—When he went to the offices of the Franco-Spanish bank, in company with an examining magistrate, to go over and explain the books and papers of that institution, Henri Rochette, who is under arrest on the charge of extensive swindles, was received with a diversified reception. Hisses and jeers of his clients were mingled with shouts of approval from his employes.

Accuse Each Other of Shooting

Somerville, Mass., March 26.—Salvatore Strozzi and his wife, Mary, pleaded not guilty yesterday to the charge of murdering Peter J. Wilson. The former waived examination and was held for the grand jury without bail, while the wife will have a hearing later. Each accuses the other of committing the deed. Wilson leaves a widow and three small children. Strozzi and his wife still stick to the story that Wilson insulted them, and that he came towards them with an open jackknife. Strozzi is an Italian, while his wife was born in Paris.

Had Been Wrongly Imprisoned

Boston, March 26.—Convicted upon the false testimony of a 14-year-old girl whom he was charged with assaulting, Albert W. Clarke was released from the state prison yesterday after serving 3½ years of a 12-year sentence. The story of Clarke's unjust conviction and imprisonment was taken up yesterday by Acting Governor Draper and the executive council, all of whom voted instantly to grant Clarke a pardon. The girl is said to have admitted that she had testified falsely at the instigation of her stepfather, who has since died.

Heavy Seizure of Coffee

Boston, March 26.—Two hundred and ten cases, comprising 3960 pounds, of a new brand of coffee were seized at Central and India wharves and placed in charge of receivers pending an examination of the product under the new pure food act. It is alleged, in an information filed in the United States district court, that the coffee was misbranded, containing statements that were misleading.

Agreement on Milk Prices

Boston, March 26.—President Abbot of the Boston Milk Producers' association announces that an agreement was reached at a secret meeting last night of the Milk Producers' company and the Boston milk contractors by which milk is to be furnished by the producers to the contractors in this city the coming summer on the same basis as last summer.

Looking Into King's Affairs

Boston, March 26.—The district attorney's office has taken up the consideration of the financial affairs of Cardenio F. King, who is now absent from the city, his affairs having been placed in the hands of a receiver. Police Inspector McGarr has been assigned to the case and will receive any complaints there may be at police headquarters.

Lifesavers to the Rescue

Bath, Me., March 26.—The crew of the Popham Beach lifesaving station saved the lives of Captain Barnes and A. C. Bowker of this city after they had abandoned their scow six miles off Popham beach and had started to row ashore in a dory. It is considered improbable the men ever would have reached shore alive.

Engine Ran Into Team

Rockland, Mass., March 26.—W. H. Burrill, aged 52, was killed, and his mother, Mrs. Lucius Burrill, aged 72 years, was badly injured by being struck by the engine of a train at a railroad crossing here. Burrill was driving across the tracks and either did not hear the approaching train or lost control of his horse.

Naturalization Suspended

Boston, March 26.—Clerk Trowbridge, in charge of the naturalization bureau at Boston, announces that the work of the office will be suspended until July 1 on account of shortage of funds with which to carry on the work of naturalization.

Suicide of Unknown Man

Boston, March 26.—A man, whose name is believed to be either George Shirley or George Chirtel, committed suicide by shooting in the head at 178 Friend street at midnight. The man had stopped at the house but a few nights and was little known.

Brewers Maintain "Open Shop"

St. Louis, March 26.—Because the brewery owners of St. Louis remain firm in their decision to retain the men employed by them to operate their plants after the walkout of 3500 union men two weeks ago, all negotiations between the owners and the strikers have been declared off.

Stevens' Death Is Near

San Francisco, March 26.—Alarming symptoms appeared in the case of D. W. Stevens late last night and an operation hastily performed revealed that peritonitis had set in. The intestines were found to be punctured in six places. The physicians say he cannot live long.

BAKER WAS POISONED

Arsenic Administered by "Some Person or Persons Unknown"

VERDICT OF CORONER'S JURY

Much Mystery Surrounds Death of Boston Man Who Died Suddenly at Home of Friends In New Jersey After Spending Evening In New York

Hackensack, N. J., March 26.—The coroner's jury in the inquest on the death of Walter F. Baker, which occurred at Bogota on Oct. 27, 1907, returned a verdict finding that Baker died from arsenical poisoning, administered by some person or persons unknown to the jury.

The jury, which had given several evenings to the hearing of testimony, was charged by the coroner to determine whether death had been due to poisoning from arsenic, when or where the poison was administered, and if a crime had been committed. The jury deliberated two hours and returned its verdict in the following language:

"We find that Walter Farnsworth Baker died suddenly at Bogota on Oct. 27, 1907, at about 2:30 a. m., and from the evidence presented to this jury by physicians who performed the autopsy on the body of the said Walter F. Baker at Boston, Mass., on Oct. 28, 1907, we find that he died from arsenical poisoning, and that arsenic was administered to Walter F. Baker by some person or persons unknown to this jury; and we express our disapproval of the action of the undertaker in violating the law by embalming the body of Walter F. Baker before the same had been viewed or action taken by the coroner."

Baker, who made his home with the family of Frank H. Hurd in Bogota, came from Boston and was possessed of considerable wealth. On the night of Oct. 26 last he went to New York city, accompanied by a party of friends. Baker left the others of the party upon reaching New York and was not seen by them again until several hours later and after he had been taken ill. Rejoining his friends, he was hurried home and died about an hour after Bogota was reached.

Baker's whereabouts and his associates during the evening preceding his death are unknown. Between the time that Baker left his friends early in the evening and midnight, when he sent for them, he drank a poisoned beverage, according to the testimony of the medical experts who made the autopsy.

In view of the fact that it has been found impossible thus far to trace the young man's movements during the period in question, it is understood that Prosecutor Koester considers that it would be a waste of time to present the case to the grand jury. Edward F. Baker of Boston, a brother of the younger man, it is said, will continue his investigation in the hope of determining the identity of his brother's companions during the few hours that preceded his illness.

Murderer's Uneasy Conscience

New York, March 26.—Explaining that he was so troubled by his conscience that he could not sleep, William Sangster, 35 years old, asked that he be held for murdering Pierre De Lorne at Montreal.

Montreal, March 26.—While returning from market to his home on Oct. 26 last Pierre De Lorme was attacked by two highwaymen, and when he refused to give up his money was shot by one of the men. He died two weeks afterward. A detective will be sent to New York for Sangster.

More Warships Sent to Hayti

Washington, March 26.—Two additional war vessels were ordered to Hayti following a conference of officials of the state and navy departments. As the Des Moines already has been sent to the scene of the recent outbreak, which endangered the lives of foreigners on the island, the United States will be represented by three war vessels in Haytien waters. The exact nature of the disquieting news from Hayti was not disclosed by the state department.

Appeal From $29,240,000 Fine

Chicago, March 26.—The Standard Oil company of Indiana has filed in the United States circuit court of appeals the brief of the company in its appeal from the fine of $29,240,000 imposed by Judge Landis. The brief presents nothing new in the legal proceedings resulting from the government's charges that the oil company accepted rebates on shipments of oil.

End of Vidaver Hearing

New York, March 26.—Evidence in the preliminary examination of Nathan Vidaver, once connected with the office of Attorney General Jackson, who is charged with attempted extortion in connection with the reopening of the Hamilton bank, has closed. Magistrate Herrman will, on April 1, decide a formal motion to dismiss the complaint.

No Clemency For Gillette

Albany, March 26.—Chester Gillette must die in the electric chair next week for the murder of his sweetheart, Grace Brown. Governor Hughes last night definitely announced that he had carefully examined the evidence in the case and had found no ground which would justify him in interfering with the judgment of the court.

A MILD DOCUMENT

Most Surprising Feature of the President's Special Message

OLIVE BRANCH TO CONGRESS

Considered Likely to Ease the Strain Between White House and Capitol --Some of the Recommendations Stand Good Chance of Passage

Washington, March 26.—President Roosevelt's message to congress had been discounted long in advance in most of its important features. Congress was, therefore, more interested in its tone than in its contents. It is the mildest document that has come from the pen of the president, and that is its most surprising feature.

Of the recommendations, that for a child labor bill in the District of Columbia, and for amendment of the employers' liability law, stand good chance of passage; and congress is slowly coming to the belief that the government soon must make some provision against death or accident to its civilian employes. An anti-injunction bill, if passed, will go through under the spur of political necessity, rather than because congress honestly believes in modifying the law. The issue certainly is doubtful.

Relative to proposed amendments to the railroad rate and anti-trust acts, the suggestions of the president will be submitted by the leaders to the question whether or not it is expedient to weaken the force and modify the sweep of either of these statutes in the face of a presidential election.

To the contention of a large business element that the country needs rest rather than further legislation, is added the knowledge that such changes in the law as the president recommends would not commend themselves to the radical element of the country. They are a modification rather than a development of the original Roosevelt policies.

One of the most representative of American business men now in Washington condemns the Civic Federation bill as an attempt of the "interests to secure forgiveness for past and immunity for future offenses," to which purpose he believes the labor features are merely incidental. Congressional opinion has not yet crystallized over this bill, and the president appears to be feeling rather than leading the way. The situation is nicely balanced, and can be settled in almost any manner without bringing a rebuke from the White House.

The same desire for harmony is hinted in the president's gentle hope that congress will take action on the currency question, while the tariff revision clause—the first he has sent to congress—is in line with plans broached at the Capitol two weeks ago and tentatively agreed upon by the leaders. Taken as a whole, the message will ease appreciably the relations between congress and the White House.

The message was read in both houses of congress soon after convening and in both it was closely followed. In the house the declaration that the time had come for a revision of the tariff elicited handclapping on the part of Democratic members. Democratic approval also was given by way of pounding desks to the suggestion that congress could with advantage forthwith remove the tariff on wood pulp, with a corresponding reduction upon paper made from wood pulp. The Republicans waited and confined their applause to the message as a whole.

Diplomats Call For Warships

Port Au Prince, March 26.—Notwithstanding the fact that the Haytien government, since the arrival of the foreign warships at this port, has adopted a conciliatory attitude with regard to those responsible for the recent uprising and those to whom the stigma of disloyalty had attached, the diplomatic representatives of the powers have united in recommending to their respective governments that it would be advisable to keep in rotation one warship at Port Au Prince.

Pati Bankruptcy Proceedings

New York, March 26.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Pasquale and Salvatore Pati, the Italian bankers who closed their bank Tuesday, giving as a reason that they were being hounded by the Black Hand. The petitioners alleged that the Patis concealed and removed funds from the bank with the intention of defrauding the depositors.

Noted Man Sentenced For Assault

London, March 26.—Magistrate Garrett sentenced Dr. Stanton Coit, the writer and lecturer, to one month's imprisonment for assault upon the conductor of an omnibus on which he was a passenger. Coit has been liberated, pending an appeal. The case has caused a sensation, owing to Coit's prominence. He holds degrees from a number of American universities.

Held Up and Robbed of $5000

Lincoln, Ills., March 26.—Frank Frorer, president of a Lincoln bank and of the Lincoln Mining company, was held up by three highwaymen two blocks from the public square of Lincoln and robbed of the $5000 monthly payroll of the mining company. Two of the robbers were caught, but the third escaped with the money.

NOMINATION NAILED DOWN

Illinois Campaign Manager Has It All Settled For Cannon

Springfield, Ills., March 26.—Congressman W. B. McKinley, manager of the Cannon campaign in Illinois, last night, for the first time, gave out a statement of his estimate of the strength of Speaker Cannon at the Chicago convention. He said:

"The campaign has progressed far enough so that we are warranted in asserting that Speaker Cannon will have no fewer than 146 votes on the first ballot at Chicago. Besides the entire 54 delegates from Illinois, he will have 48 from the south, 12 from New England, 8 scattering from eastern states, 16 from the west and 8 in the southwest.

"These, added to the strength of 'favorite sons' of several states, will constitute a considerable majority of the convention. No candidate can be nominated on the first or the second ballot. Cannon will, on the second ballot, develop such an increase of strength as to make him at once the most conspicuous figure before the convention. This increase will come from the support of all the other candidates.

"Mr. Cannon's public career of more than thirty years of consistent service for the Republican party, and the cordial relations existing between the speaker and the White House and between him and all other candidates and party leaders, assure Cannon the greatest personal following among all the delegations. This places the speaker in the best strategic position for nomination. And he will be nominated soon after the second ballot."

Indiana Democrats For Bryan

Indianapolis, March 26.—Delegates to the state Democratic convention, in district meetings, selected twenty-six district delegates to the national convention in Denver, and the committee on rules selected four delegates-at-large. While some of the district delegates were not instructed, it is the present announced intention of all thirty delegates to support the candidacy of W. J. Bryan for presidential nominee.

In Interests of Foraker

Washington, March 26.—The Foraker National league was organized here last night by negroes representing eight states. An advisory committee, headed by Rev. F. W. Lampton, was named to perfect the organization. Oliver Randolph, a clerk in the treasury department, was elected secretary. The league will open headquarters here.

May Turn Down "Boss" Brayton

Providence, March 26.—Opposition to the renomination of Charles R. Brayton as a member of the Republican national committee is expected to lend particular interest to the Republican state and congressional conventions which are to be held here today to choose delegates to the national presidential convention at Chicago.

Taft's Candidacy Protested

Boston, March 26.—A resolution endorsing the Foraker bill providing for the restoration of the negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth United States infantry, and protesting the nomination of W. H. Taft for the presidency, was adopted at a mass meeting of negro citizens of Boston, held in Faneuil hall.

Unanimous For Bryan

Grand Forks, N. D., March 26.—At the Democratic state convention one of the resolutions instructed the delegates to the Denver convention to vote as a unit for William J. Bryan. The resolutions were adopted by acclamation with a rousing cheer. Not a dissenting voice was heard.

Three Gubernatorial Candidates

Little Rock, March 26.—The largest vote ever polled in a Democratic primary in Arkansas was cast yesterday in the selection of nominees for state offices. The result of the contest is not yet known. Donaghey, Hinemon and Kirby each claim the nomination for governor.

Negroes Bent on Lynching

Granite Hill, Ga., March 26.—A posse of negroes is chasing Porter Cooper with the determination of lynching him for, it is alleged, killing his wife. Cooper, it is said, dismembered the body, carried the parts into the woods and buried them, after which he burned the house to hide the evidence of his crime.

Quartet of Brave Jackies

Washington, March 26.—Commendation has been made by Rear Admiral Evans of Seamen Garhan, Holley, Goodwin and Bierler for bravery off Punta Arenas, Chile, when at great personal risk they entered a boat that was leaking badly and rescued two midshipmen who had been thrown into the water by the capsizing of a dingy.

GERMANY REJECTS HILL

Unwilling to Accept Him as Ambassador of the United States

Washington, March 26.—Germany's reasons for declining to accept David J. Hill as ambassador of the United States will be fully set forth in a letter that is now en route from Berlin. This was learned after a conference between Ambassador Sternburg and Secretary Root. In the absence of the details of the objection no comment could be elicited as to the probable action of the American government in respect to the matter. In any event, it is certain that an expressed objection to Hill made by Germany will be decisive, so far as his appointment is concerned.

The objection to Hill as the successor of Charlemagne Tower is one personal to Emperor William, it is believed, and is connected with the visit of Prince Henry to this country several years ago. At that time Hill was assistant secretary of state, and was brought into close official contact with the prince and his suite. Just what he did or did not do to give offense is not known.

Notice of the action of the German government in Hill's case came to the state department quite unofficially at first, there being simply an intimation of what was to follow. Secretary Root was amazed, because his own information was not only the German foreign office, but Emperor William himself had formally signified a willingness to receive Hill when his name was suggested.

Not Understood by Hill

Paris, March 26.—David J. Hill, who arrived last evening from The Hague, expressed the greatest surprise when informed that the German government had declined to receive him in the capacity of American ambassador to succeed Charlemagne Tower. He said that this was the first intimation he had had of the German government's action and was at a loss to understand the announcement.

Won't Hear Newspaper Men

New York, March 26.—The effort on the part of the American Newspaper Publishers' association to secure legislation by congress putting print paper and wood pulp on the free list has received a sudden shock because of the absolute refusal on the part of the ways and means committee to even give them a hearing. This fact is made known in a letter to President Ridder of the American Newspaper Publishers' association from Chairman Payne of the committee on ways and means.

Ships Exposed Below Armor Belt

Washington, March 26.—"There were many times during the voyage when the portion of the ships below the armor belt was exposed," is the essence of a report which has reached the navy department from one of the naval constructors who accompanied the battleship fleet on the long run from Hampton Roads to Magdalena bay. The quoted statement in the report is interesting in view of the vexed question of the proper location of the armor belt on naval vessels.

De Sagan Admits His Identity

New York, March 26.—Prince Helie De Sagan is in New York, and under his own name this time. Standing on the deck of a Pennsylvania ferryboat, the prince said to a small regiment of reporters and photographers who already knew it: "Yes, I am Prince De Sagan. I am forced to admit it. You fellows have found me out and it's no use longer to attempt to conceal my identity." He refused to say anything about his reported intention to marry Anna Gould.

Bannerman at Death's Door

London, March 26.—The condition of Premier Campbell-Bannerman is steadily becoming more serious. His weakness was accentuated yesterday to such an extent that at times he failed to recognize the persons gathered around his bedside. Even those who heretofore were optimistic now admit that it is extremely doubtful if the premier has sufficient rallying power to overcome the serious effects of his prolonged heart trouble.

Postmasters Shirk Their Duties

Washington, March 26.—The statement that many postmasters in the larger cities do not earn their salaries was made before the house committee on expenditures in the postoffice department by First Assistant Postmaster General Granfield, who said he knew of "instances where practically the only work done by the postmaster in connection with the office is the periodical signing of reports to the department."

To Turn Camp Into Scout Post

Washington, March 26.—It has been decided to delay for one year the sailing of the Seventh regiment of infantry to the Philippines, to relieve the First regiment at Camp Connell, Samar. The troops were to have sailed April 5. As no money is available to repair Camp Connell, which is in bad condition, the camp will be made a scout post.

May Be Afflicted With Plague

New York, March 26.—Dr. Doty, health officer of the port, has submitted the two members of the crew of the steam yacht Yakiva, who were detained at quarantine on their arrival from a long cruise, to examinations that are expected to determine within a day or so whether they are suffering from bubonic plague.

Congo Annexation In Sight

Brussels, March 26.—Some basis for the belief that the Congo independent state will this time be actually annexed to Belgium was found in the acceptance by the chamber of deputies' commission of the annexation scheme, including the colonial charter, which provides for a government of the natives under Belgian rule.

EDITORIAL.

Quincy sent 954 men to the front during the Civil war.

One does not realize how large this number was in those times until told that the population of the town in 1860 was about 6,778.

That only 913 votes were cast by Quincy at the State election of 1860.

That there were only 1700 or 1800 adult males in Quincy at that time, and many of these old men.

Thus over one-half the men of Quincy enlisted in the Civil war for the preservation of the Union.

Over 40 years have passed since the war, and over half the population of today have no personal recollections of the war.

But it was a great sacrifice for those who went to the front, and trying times for those who remained behind,—the women, the children and the aged.

Quincy today should be grateful for the blessings since enjoyed, and contribute promptly toward the proposed Soldiers' Monument.

The Observations In the Daily Walk

The watering cart was out this morning wetting down the streets in City Square.

Mr. and Mrs. M. N. McClure of Atlantic street are soon to move to Wollaston for future residence.

Mrs. Henry Von Emden of Botolph street will entertain the Atlantic bridge club Friday evening.

The German Seltzer Manufacturing Co. is out with a new and attractive wagon and reports an increasing trade.

Work was commenced this morning resurfacing Sumner street, for which an appropriation of $3,000 was made by last year's City Council.

William Gassett of Mount Vernon, N. Y., will join Mrs. Gassett on Saturday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hall of Newbury avenue.

Rev. Edward Norton will be one of the speakers at the 25th Anniversary April 10, at the Point church. Of the members of the Ecclesiastic Council of April 12, 1883, which started this church, Rev. Mr. Norton is the only living minister.

Archie Rogers of Botolph street who has been ill for some time with tuberculosis, died Tuesday night. He had made many friends since his stay in Atlantic and up to the time of his death was a patient sufferer. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Clark have the sympathy of the townspeople.

The many friends of letter carrier Richard Cole of Hancock street are glad to learn of the improvement in health of his little son, who has been under surgical treatment at the Boothbay hospital, Boston. Master Richard junior is a bright lovable little chap who is just experiencing the delight of running about on a pair of sturdy legs and his illness has made many hearts anxious.

High winds today.

It felt like snow this morning.

Ash barrels as well as ashes were blown about the streets today.

Mrs. J. H. Johnson of 241 Belmont street has charge of the dances to be given on Saturday afternoon for children, and Friday and Saturday evenings for adults, for the benefit of one of the Wollaston teachers who is ill. Tickets can be purchased at Copeland's drug store. There should be a large sale of tickets.

To Break Ground For Coddington

Work excavating for the new Coddington school building will be commenced in earnest by Contractor Crowley tomorrow morning, although some work will be done this afternoon in hawling off the pieces of granite. This will break the hoodo that some might expect if work was commenced on Friday.

Mayor Shea has planned to be present tomorrow morning at 8.30, to throw out the first shovelful of earth, and Councilman Gelotte, who has worked hard for the building, will throw out the second shovelful.

Mr. Bently the principal of the school will be given the opportunity to throw out the third shovelful if he so desires, and others are invited.

Mr. Crowley was anxious to begin work excavating this afternoon, but Mayor Shea could not be present.

Many Visitors.

There was a very large attendance at the special communication of Wollaston lodge of Masons this week. There were four candidates to be raised and Wor. Bro. Sidney F. Copeland was assisted by Wor. Bro. Edward N. West, of the Massachusetts lodge, Boston, Wor. Bro. George A. Warren, of St. George lodge, Campello, Mass., and Wor. Bro. Hartley L. White, of Rural lodge, Quincy.

The visiting brethren represented Rural lodge of Quincy, Massachusetts of Boston, St. George of Campello, Norfolk Union of Randolph, Hyde Park, Joseph Warren of Boston, Union of Dorchester, Joseph Webb of Boston, Rabboni of Dorchester, Columbus of Boston, St. Albans of Foxboro, Blue Hill of Canton, Lafayette of Roxbury, Corinthian of Concord, Montgomery of Milford, Franklin of Grafton and several others.

The Wollaston Male quartet, composed of E. E. Bullock, A. R. Moulton, H. Y. Follett and G. E. McGowan, assisted in work, and Wor. Bro. Copeland and the officers were complimented by the visitors. Bro. H. P. Furnald served the refreshments.

Atlanic Burglars.

That three of Atlantic's burglars have been quietly spotted is good news to the residents. The method of bringing these estimable young men together with their companions to justice, is already formulated and as soon as the time is ripe the officers are going to show these vagabonds what the force is good for. What Atlantic wants is a man like Officer Lyons to be on duty at night. Officer Lyons takes his duties earnestly and since his joining the police force he has landed several criminals behind the bars where they belong. He is generally popular in Atlantic where he is the day officer and when he and the chief put their heads together there are things doing. That is what they did Tuesday about the trouble in Atlantic and now everyone is sitting up and taking notice.

Boys Enjoy Football Talk

The regular meeting of the Intermediate debating society was held at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening. About fifty boys including Capt. Marden and most of the Q. H. S. foot ball squad attended the meeting. The attraction was Gilbert G. Brown, who played left end on Harvard Varsity team last fall. President Stanley Sherman presided. Secretary Rhodes read minutes of last meeting. The debate for the evening was postponed one week and Mr. Brown was introduced. He spoke in an interesting way of the training and handling of a foot ball team,—the various methods employed in different colleges. He urged the boys to play the game honestly, not to try to win games by trickery and dishonest plays. At the same time to know the rules well and use their heads. After speaking of exciting moments in some of last fall games he used a blackboard to illustrate some formations and trick plays that have been successful. Some time was spent in discussion and answering questions. Altogether it was a most interesting and profitable evening for all.

Tonight the boys who worked successfully at increasing the membership last month will enjoy a turkey supper.

Saturday evening this week will be "ladies' night" in the gym. Regular work with a few extra flourishes and games, ending with a basket ball game, will constitute the program. Everybody is invited to enjoy the evening free.

Kindergarten Will Continue

Each concert by the Wollaston Glee Club seems to be more enjoyable than its predecessors, and this comment is particularly true of the fine entertainment presented Wednesday evening at the Wollaston Congregational church, given in aid of the Free Kindergarten school. It would be difficult to arrange a more pleasing program.

There was body and sustaining power to the selections by the Glee Club which included: "Cavalier's Song," "The Lost Chord," "Old Folks at Home," "Monkey and Chimpanzee" "Georgia Dinner," "Winter Song" and others given on encores. In "The Lost Chord" which was the feature of the evening, the solo was by Mr. A. L. Hayden, and the club was accompanied by Miss Olive L. Whiteley, violinist, and Mr. William Weston, organist. It was a grand production.

The violin solos by Miss Whitney were particularly well received, being very skilfully executed. She was heartily encored. Miss Grace Parker, the teacher of the kindergarten, was much enjoyed in her whistling solos.

Mr. E. E. Bullock and Mr. A. L. Hayden were popular in their two duets, and the audience called for more, but had to be content with bows of acknowledgment, Mr. Hayden was also good in his two solos.

As usual, Mr. J. A. Crowley the director, was generally complimented on the high standard of the work of the Glee Club, which has no rival in the cities about Boston.

A substantial sum was realized to continue the Free Kindergarten at Wollaston organized two years ago.

The success of the concert was due to the untiring energy of Edward W. Capen.

New Lodge of Good Templars

Henry H. Faxon lodge, I. O. G. T., met Wednesday evening in Music hall, Atlantic, with a full quota of officers and members present. Eighteen names were proposed for membership and 22 candidates were initiated. After the routine of business an entertainment was given under good of the order. Visitors were present from Wiley lodge of Boston, Trespian of Roxbury, Monumental of Charlestown, Alonzo Evans of Everett, Victoria of Peabody, and Milford of Milford. There were addresses by G. T. T. Serque of Boston, piano solo by Bro. Clifton Fratus, reading by Sister Mann, remarks by Bro. Adam Peabody, greetings by Bro. Mann, C. T. of Everett, response by C. T. A. Ralph Clarke. Bro. Clarke was presented with a gold button of the order by the grand chief templar.

Henry H. Faxon lodge, Good Templars was instituted March 14. It meets in Music hall, Atlantic, beginning April 15 on the first and third Wednesdays of each month at 8 P. M. The next meeting will be April 8. All past and present Good Templars and any interested in the work are invited to join.

The Apple Crop.

To give an idea of the rapid growth of the apples industry in the northwest it may be mentioned that official reports submitted to Gov. Albert E. Mead show Washington had 3,772,105 producing trees last year, and that 500,000 more will come into bearing this year, when also 1,000,000 one and two year-old trees will be set out in various parts of the state. The value of the 1907 crop in this state was $10,000,000. Expert horticulturists say the yield will bring from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 this year if they able to secure sufficient help to harvest the crop and adequate transportation facilities to send it to the markets.

—Tom Hughes said: "The only thing to do with wild oats is to put them carefully into the hottest part of the fire and get them burnt to dust, every seed of them. If you sow them, no matter in what ground, up they will come with long, tough roots like couch grass, and luxuriant stalks and leaves."

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

The local football team and its supporters may be interested to learn that the soccer leaders may investigate the New England game. As a result of the recent difficulties between the Clark C. A. soccer team of Newark and the Fall River Rovers, the American Football Association may investigate the workings of the New England Football league.

Fulton Blake, general manager of the Submarine Signal Company, was a guest of E. B. Hill at the shipyard this week.

The Quincy Point Tennis club is being formed and some of the draftsmen at the shipyard are interested. Information can be had by applying to Charles M. French of the lumber office.

Twenty-five tauks are being made at the works for the General Electric Company.

Large improvements have been made in the rivet sub-store. The old wooden bins have been taken out and replaced with new ones of oak supported by a steel frame work. A new concrete floor has been put in and the capacity of the shop greatly increased.

The Preussen, the largest and fastest sailing ship in the world, is coming to New York. She will be the first five-masted, square-rigged sailing ship ever in that port. The Preussen is propelled solely by canvas. She carries six yards on each mast, or 30 yards in all, 16 staysails, five headsails and a Spencer on her jigger-mast in addition to her spanker.

Her sail area is 68,000 square feet of canvas. The Shenandoah, biggest wooden American ship, has only 33,000 feet sail area.

She once went from the west coast of South America to the head of the English channel in 78 days. She has logged 18 3-4 knots an hour.

Eleven Sleeping In One Room

The Board of Health went on a tour of investigation Wednesday evening, of the Syrian boarding houses in the Fore River district. It was late in the evening when they started and they were accompanied to the several houses by the officers on the beats.

Seven places in all were visited, and while the conditions found were not as bad as they were when the Board of Health cleaned them up last year, they were quite bad.

In one place they found eleven persons in one room in four beds. In one of the beds was a man, wife and two children and in the other three beds seven men. This room was a small one, and poorly ventilated. Over this room in a kind of attic was another man. The Board will take immediate steps to make these places more sanitary.

A Diplomatic Coup.

[Original.]

"Edgar," said the Hon. Gladys Hillhouse, "why don't you go into diplomacy?"

"Because, being a younger son, no money is to be spent on me. I'd need both that and influence to get into diplomacy. No; my father is determined that I shall go to America and earn a living as best I can. Why won't you go with me?"

"Silly boy! You will find all you can do there to support yourself without being burdened by me. Besides, father would not consent. No; you must go into diplomacy."

"It seems to me that your proposition is as silly as mine."

"Not at all. Your father certainly has influence sufficient to get you an assistant secretaryship or something like that."

"At £300 a year. What would that be to us?"

"You might rise to a better position."

"When you and I are past middle age. Thank you, I don't propose to wait for dead men's shoes."

But the girl carried her point, and Edgar Manross secured a clerkship in the foreign office at a salary of £250 a year. Being young and attractive besides the son of a baronet, he was pushed, but not in the way he wished to be pushed. He was forced to do social work. If a courtesy was to be shown any person for any purpose, Edgar Manross was deputed to do it. Now it was to drive some Turkish pasha in Rotten row, now to show a foreign messenger through Westminster abbey or the British museum. Tiring of this, he went to his chief and asked for a trial at some real diplomatic work. He was laughed at.

Going to the Hon. Gladys, he poured out his woes to her in a disconsolate fashion. There is a faculty possessed by women—at least some women—that is pleasing if not valuable. When the bottom drops out they can say hopefully: "Never mind. It will all come out right in the end." So said Gladys, and Edgar went away thinking what a lovely little fool she was.

At his rooms he found an order to attend a dinner, representing the foreign office. It was not an important function or he would not have been sent. He went and found an assemblage consisting of members of parliament, secretaries of legation and junior government officials. When the speaking came on Edgar retired to a cushioned window seat behind a pair of heavy curtains and went to sleep. As the evening wore on the assembly was thinned by the departure of the more sober persons, leaving only a few noisy ones. About 1 o'clock Edgar woke up. Some one sitting near was talking. Edgar knew by the voice and the language spoken that he was a member of the French embassy.

"He asks £4,000,000."

"Why doesn't your government pay it at once?"

"It has offered £3,500,000, but will raise the price rather than let the shares go to any other power."

"I should think so. To control the only outlet by sea between Europe and Asia is worth many times the amount."

Soon after the speaker went away. Edgar Manross sat up and did a prodigious lot of thinking. It did not take him long to deduce from the dialogue he had heard that a sale of property very important to England was about to occur. Keeping between the curtains till he saw his exit would not be noticed, then passing through the few groups of remaining guests and waiters, the latter clearing away the remains of the feast, he went out and called a cab.

"To Lord D.'s," he said to the cabby.

When he drove up to Lord D.'s there was not a light to be seen. Nevertheless he rang and finally pounded before the door was opened. Then he told the flunky who opened it that he must see the prime minister at once. He was refused till he said he had important diplomatic information for his lordship. Lord D. came down in dressing gown and slippers.

"I have important information for your lordship," said Edgar. "I am a clerk in the foreign office or I would stipulate a price for it. As it is, I only ask that I be given promotion."

Lord D. yawned and directed him to proceed.

"The khedive of Egypt is about to sell his shares in the Suez canal."

"The deuce you say!" exclaimed the minister, starting up.

"He is offered £3,500,000 by France. He is standing out for £4,000,000."

The minister stood with mouth and eyes wide open while Edgar told how he had secured the information. Then presently he said:

"Have you a cab at the door?"

"Yes."

"Hold it while I get on some clothes."

In ten minutes the two were whirling to the residence of Baron Rothschild, whom they routed out, and before he was permitted to retire again he was pledged to furnish the money to buy the khedive's shares. When the morning train left for Dover Edgar Manross was on it on his way to Egypt, a special envoy authorized to pay £4,000,000 for the property, or as much more as would secure it.

A few days later it was known that England owned the narrow strip of land that comprised the khedive's claim and serious complications had been avoided that must have occurred had it been transferred to France.

Edgar Manross was given £100,000 for his information and was appointed secretary of legation at Washington. He is now ambassador to a prominent European court. Moreover, he is the husband of the Hon. Gladys Hillhouse.

Public Meeting

Friday Evening, March 27, New Soldiers' Monument

Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., believes the time has come when the City of Granite and of Presidents, which had a proud record in the Civil War, should erect a Soldiers' Monument of which we all may be proud.

The architecture of the present monument is not pleasing; there is much complaint because of the location; and there seems a popular demand for a handsome memorial. The veterans feel that an appeal to the public should meet with spontaneous support, and therefore have called this public meeting for Friday, evening, March 27, 1908, at 8 o'clock in the Council Chamber at City Hall, to formulate plans.

Franklin Curtis, Secretary,

DIRT FLIES

Work Started On the New Coddington Schoolhouse

Active work was commenced this morning on the new Coddington school building and from now on work will be pushed ahead so that the building may be ready for occupancy by the first of November. The contract for the building was signed Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock and a few minutes later some little work was done in hauling out the blocks of granite so that if there is any hoodoo about Friday this did away with it.

The beginning of active work was marked by a large gathering of city officials, citizens and school children. It was announced that Mayor Shea would throw out the first shovelful of gravel at 8.30 this morning. It was but a little after that time when he drove up with Contractor Crowley.

The Mayor said that digging was not his strong suit and he therefore looked about to find a place where the digging would be easy. This he found on the easterly end. He took off his coat and asked all his department officials to do likewise.

Gathered on the embankments surrounding the old cellar were a large number of teachers and children who will later occupy the new building. Among them was Miss Julia E. Underwood who has taught school in the old building for so many years and her face was illuminated with the same bright smile with which she was wont to greet her charges. She did not do any digging although if an invitation had been extended to her she probably would have added her mite to the first tipcart load.

It was not expected that the Mayor would throw out more than one shovelful of earth but he decreed that the first load should be thrown out, and that the officials present should take part. Shovels were then passed around and the laborers made ready for the work. These were the shovelers who filled the first cart: Mayor William T. Shea, City Treasurer John Curtis, Overseer of the Poor James H. Elcock, City Auditor Henry O. Fairbanks, Principal Assessor Warren W. Adams, Inspector of Buildings Warren S. Parker, Councilman Joseph L. Whiton, Jr., Contractor Dennis F. Crowley, Frank F. Prescott of the Daily Ledger, and Walter H. Bentley, master of the Coddington school building.

"Are you ready," cried the Mayor, and upon receiving the answer shouted "Let her go." Then how the dirt did fly. Had any walking delegate of a labor union seen them they would have all been fined for working too hard. The pace set was too rapid for long work, and not many shovelfuls had been thrown before the Mayor said "That's enough." The shovellers needed no second order to stop, and the tipcart nearly full was carted away.

Then someone proposed three cheers for the Mayor which were given with enthusiasm by the children who were gathered about and there were three more for Master Bentley. Commissioner Bainbridge was to have been present but he was at City Hall waiting for the party to start and they got ahead of him. None of the school officials were noticed at the ceremony.

As the first tipcart load was hauled away, men from the City Engineers office appeared on the scene with their instruments to set the lines for the foundation. The children filed into school and the officials repaired to City Hall, and a near by drug store to get something for the blisters that had been raised on their hands.

Nearby, the addition to the Thomas Crane Public Library is nearly completed, and work has started on the new Federal building.

Miss Underwood, above mentioned was one of the original corps of teachers at the old building when it was opened in 1855 and has taught continuously in the building all these years. She commenced as a teacher on April 1, 1855, some months before the Coddington was opened. In 1895, her 40th anniversary as a teacher was observed, and in 1905 her 50th anniversary when she was presented a purse of $500 at a grand reception in High School hall.

THE NEW CODDINGTON.

The first steps toward the erection of a new Codington school building were taken in 1905, when additional land, adjoining the lot on Faxon avenue was purchased.

In 1906 Councilman Gelotte introduced an order in the City Council for the Committee on Public Buildings to procure plans for a Coddington school building. A similar order for a new building for Atlantic was also before the Committee.

The Atlantic building received the call and was built. Early in 1907 an

NOW HAS CHANCE

Gov. Guild Is Reported Today As Slightly Better

Boston, March 27.—The news from Governor Guild's bedside is favorable. Dr. Winslow states that the governor's condition has improved slightly, notwithstanding a rather restless night.

Governor Guild had so far improved yesterday afternoon that he was given a shave by his regular barber, who said afterwards that he had found the governor greatly improved over his last visit, which was more than a week ago.

Governor Guld continues to hold his gain of the past two days. His pain has greatly lessened; he takes more nourishment and his digestive organs are able to perform their normal functions.

Attorney General Malone, who has been in close touch with conditions since the governor's illness, believes there is a chance for recovery. He says the governor has improved, and that the family now has some hopes.

The bulletin issued from the Governors' bedside this noon says the Governor is improving.

Accounts on the estates of Robert H. Harlow for $48,732.53, and Caroline M. Beal of $26,379.15 were allowed at the Dedham session of probate court Wednesday. Joseph Dorman Eaton of Quincy was given leave to change his name to Joseph Jordan Eaton.

BEAL TAKES WARPATH

Sarcasm and Invective Heaped Upon the President

"A USURPATION OF POWER"

Declares It Is Not Only From Congress, but Judiciary as Well--Only God and Future Know What Niche He Is to Finally Occupy

Washington, March 27.—Charging that the president had flagrantly usurped the powers given to him by the Constitution and has repeatedly attempted to influence the judiciary, Mr. Beal of Texas severely arraigned the chief executive in the house. He referred to the president having appointed three judges of the supreme court of the United States and a majority of the United States circuit and district judges, and then declared:

"Drawing their source of authority from him, and holding their commissions from him, he stands in a position to wield a powerful influence upon them, though they are the representatives of a distinct department of the government."

The president, he charged, was not content with the exercise of the same power exercised by Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln, Grant and McKinley, "but in his overpowering ambition, reaches out with eager hand and exercises powers not dreamed of by them.

"Where does he get this authority?" Beal demanded. "How does he justify his action?" The president, he said, made two defenses. One was that there was an inherent power belonging to all sovereignties, apart from any power conferred by the Constitution; the other was that from judicial interpretation there must be vested in a federal government a power to do things it had not possessed before.

The president was denounced for insisting on a jail sentence for Robert N. Harper, a local druggist, convicted of violating the pure food and drugs act, while the sentence was still pending. As regards the case of Judge Wilfley, he said, the president insulted the legislative branch of the government by writing a letter to the judiciary committee while the case was still under investigation, declaring Wilfley innocent of the charges against him. "That letter," he exclaimed, "was simply the will of the 'big stick' over that committee and the membership of the house." He regretted that the committee did not assert its independence by sending the message back as an insult.

After all, said Beal, the president was not entirely to blame because the senate and house "sit with folded hands. Having abdicated the authority given to them, they sit supinely at his feet." In his opinion "a more disgusting usurpation of power was never witnessed by the people of any nation." Congress, he declared, was no longer a legislative department. "It is simply a machine to record the will of the man at the other end of the avenue," and it did not deserve any more respect from him or the people than it now received.

Democratic laughter greeted Beal's summing up of his opinion of the president. "He wields the big stick with one hand," he said, "and a fountain pen with the other, and he raises havoc with both. He is a broncho-buster and a trust-buster, the only difference being that in busting a broncho he blindfolds the animal, and in busting a trust he blindfolds himself. He can draw the finest bead on a wildcat, but can't get a bead on the Constitution at all. He is a contradition. He declaims against race suicide, but insists on keeping a tariff on safetypins and baby buggies. He culminates the artistic; he whitewashes Paul Morton and is now frescoing the reactionaries with a tint of blue. He can see a warcloud before breakfast, but gets color-blind before lunch time.

"He is generous; given the power by and with the advice and consent of the senate to make treaties, he is willing to relieve that body of this onerous duty and do it all himself.

"He is a magician. He can transform our 'Uncle Joe,' a roaring lion before us in the house, into a purring kitten at the White House. He is the Sandow of the century; he can hold the senate in one hand and the house in the other, and keep both in the air most of the time."

After declaring that "he can even nominate a presidential candidate, Beal said: "He is the strangest combination of wisdom and folly, of honesty and obstinacy, of the patriot and the politician, of courage and rashness, and of the spectacular and the grotesque that this republic ever saw, and just what niche he is to occupy in the temple of his country's history God and the future alone can tell."

Quakes In Mexico City

Paper Defended Assassination

Washington, March 27.—The second-class mailing privilege of "La Questione Sociale," an Italian periodical published at Paterson, N. J., has been annulled by the postoffice department. Ludovico Caminitia, editor of the paper, appeared before Third Assistant Postmaster General Lawshe and admitted his responsibility for the articles which caused Postmaster General Meyer to declare the publication unmailable. Translations by the postoffice department show that nearly every issue of the paper contained obscene and indecent matter and it was almost entirely devoted to inciting and defending riot, arson and assassination.

Denial Made by Germany

Washington, March 27.—Germany's reported unwillingness to accept David J. Hill as American ambassador to succeed Charlemagne Tower continues to be a diplomatic sensation. Reports from the German foreign office reached here practically denying that there was any opposition to Hill. These reports only added fresh fuel to the fire, for no one could then understand why Ambassador Tower had cabled the state department that Hill's appointment might prove distasteful to Emperor William.

China's Sovereignty Threatened

London, March 27.—The Times prints a long Pekin dispatch dealing with the Russian and Japanese claims. It describes China's sovereignty in Manchuria as being ground small between the millstones of Russian ascendency in the north and Japanese ascendency in the south, and says that the governors of three provinces recently met at Mukden to confer and memorialize the throne on the situation.

McKinley Defender Died Friendless

Philadelphia, March 27.—Before a class of students at the Jefferson medical college, the body of James B. HUMAN STOMACH HAS BECOME DEGENERATE

Animals Are Healthier Because of Strong Digestive Apparatus.

An interesting interview was recently obtained with L. T. Cooper, the young man whose theory and medicines have created such a sensation during the past year.

Mr. Cooper, in speaking of the remarkable success of his medicine, had this to say on the subject: "My medicine regulates the stomach. That is why it is successful. The human stomach today has become degenerate, and is the cause for most ill health. In the horse, the dog, and the wild animals generally, you see no nerve exhaustion, no chronic debility. They are not shut up day after day with practically no exercise, and they are not able to stuff themselves with food when their bodies have not had enough work to justify it. The human race has been doing this for years, and look at the result—half the people are complaining of poor health, not real illness—just a half-sick, tired, droopy feeling. They don't really know what is the matter with them.

"I know that all the trouble is caused by weak, overworked stomachs. I have proved this with my medicine to many thousands of people in most of the leading cities of this country. I expect to do the same thing in Europe next year. This is the real reason for the demand for my preparation."

Among those who have recently been converted to Cooper's theory is Mr. Monroe Brown of 8 Hancock Street, Winchester, Mass. Mr. Brown has this to say of his experience with the new medicine: "For over seven years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach, and for the past year I was lame with rheumatism. I attributed this to my stomach trouble, as my circulation was very poor. What food I ate would turn to gas almost at once. I would have a sensation of bloating, and would have to belch frequently to relieve this. My heart also became affected, and I would suddenly become dizzy and have palpitations. I was tired and dull and despondent at all times. I lost a great deal of flesh, and was nervous and depressed. This went on for over seven years, although I spent hundreds of dollars trying to get relief.

"When Cooper was in Boston I heard a good deal about his ideas on stomach trouble. Next, one or two friends told me that his medicines had greatly helped them. I purchased some of the New Discovery medicine. Today I am perfectly well; I sleep like a boy, can eat anything and have no rheumatism or heart trouble. I no longer have any gas on my stomach, and feel as I did years ago. No one could be more astonished by these facts than myself. They are remarkable, but true. This is indeed a wonderful medicine."

The Cooper preparations have been more widely sold and discussed since being introduced than anything of the kind ever before sold by druggists. We sell them and explain their nature. —E. J. Murphy.

HUGHES' CANDIDACY

Woodford Says It Has the Backing of the "Plain People"

A SECOND ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Claim That Republicans Cannot Elect President Without Vote of New York, Which Would Not Go to Taft, but to Hughes

Albany, March 27.—Governor C. E. Hughes was formally endorsed last night for the nomination for president of the United States on the Republican ticket by Republican and independent voters of Albany and vicinity at a largely attended meeting under the auspices of the Hughes League of the United States. General Stewart L. Woodford, president of the league, was the principal speaker.

A resolution was adopted commending the administration of President Roosevelt and declaring that New York state "has in Charles Evans Hughes a standard-bearer cast in the mold of Lincoln, who commands the respect of the voters of the whole country." The resolution advocates the sending of a delegation by New York state pledged to vote for the nomination of Hughes for president.

General Woodford said in his speech: "We are not fighting President Roosevelt. No man appreciates what he has done more heartily than I. He may have defects in temper and certainly is not given to wearing silk gloves. But when final history makes up the record of today he will stand among the great men of this generation.

"I am not fighting Secretary Taft. His father was my friend. I have known him from his early manhood. I recognize his large experience; I admire his great ability. But we must nominate with our heads and not with our hearts.

"I fear that Secretary Taft cannot carry New York next November. I do not believe that we can elect a Republican president without the vote of New York. I do believe that Governor Hughes can carry New York, and that if we nominate him at Chicago the plain people will take him up as a second Abraham Lincoln and bear him in triumph to the presidency.

"I acknowledge frankly that we are without large funds to conduct this candidacy. The great financial and business interests at New York city have practically abandoned Hughes and taken up Taft. Fortunately money is as short-sighted as it is apt to be selfish. The dollar hardly ever reckons with conscience as it does with gain. But wealth will hardly nominate this time, however lavish its expenditure may be.

"And now we go into this fight. The plain people are behind us. They welcome a return to the days when the presidency sought the man and no man dared with politicians' art to seek the presidency. I hail Governor Hughes as the appointed leader of the Republican party, just as Abraham Lincoln was in the days of 1860."

Brayton May Stay on Committee

Providence, March 27.—The Republican state convention which was held here to select delegates to the national convention at Chicago refrained from instructing the men chosen and from expressing preference for any candidate for the presidential nomination. No resolutions on the subject were introduced.

James V. Starkweather and Henry A. Palmer advised the convention to instruct the delegates sent to Chicago to vote for some man for national committeeman other than the present incumbent, Charles R. Brayton. Palmer was severe in his denunciation of Brayton. The convention, however, took no action on the question, and when an attempt was made to read two resolutions disapproving of Brayton's re-election they were ruled out of order and the convention adjourned.

The delegates-at-large to the national convention are: A. J. Currier, A. C. Crumb, Ezra Dixon and John Fletcher. The convention adopted a platform endorsing the national administration and its policies.

Kern For Vice President

Indianapolis, March 27.—The Indiana Democratic state convention closed last night after naming a state ticket, adopting a platform and instructing the thirty delegates to the national convention to vote for Bryan for president. John W. Kern of Indianapolis was endorsed for the vice presidential nomination. Thomas R. Marshall was nominated for governor.

For Cannon and Tariff Revision

Springfield, Ills., March 27.—Republicans of Illinois, in state convention, enthusiastically endorsed Joseph G. Cannon as candidate for the presidency, declared in favor of the revision of the tariff and elected the following four delegates-at-large to the national convention: United States Senators Cullom and Hopkins, Governor Deneen and Mayor Busse of Chicago. The convention also endorsed the administration of Deneen and that of all other state officers.

For the last few days it had been confidently asserted by various delegates that the resolutions would favor tariff "adjustment" instead of "revision," it being the idea that "revision" is generally accepted as meaning reduction, whereas "adjustment" might mean raising some schedules as well as lowering some others. But when Congressman Boutell arrived from Washington, where he consulted Cannon and other Republican leaders, the plank was made to read "revision."

There was not a whisper of opposition to Cannon throughout the day. All motions were passed unanimously and without argument and the applause which greeted the plank endorsing the candidacy of the speaker was enthusiastic.

Iowa Delegates For Bryan

Cedar Rapids, Ia., March 27.—William J. Bryan's friends controlled the Iowa Democratic state convention. The platform adopted was a recast of the Nebraska platform, including the endorsement of Bryan for presidential candidate. Every mention of Bryan's name was greeted with cheers. The delegates-at-large are C. R. Porter, J. B. Sullivan, E. J. Dunn and C. F. Duncombe.

HAD BRILLIANT CAREER

Diplomat Shot and Killed by Korean Was Long In the Service

San Francisco, March 27.—Durham W. Stevens, the diplomatist shot by Whan Chang, a young Korean, died at the St. Francis hospital following an operation. Death was due to peritonitis.

Mr. Stevens, who was widely known as a diplomatist, had won distinction both at Washington and at Seoul. He had made his home with three sisters in Washington for many years.

He was in the American diplomatic service for ten years—until 1885—serving as secretary of legation at Tokio. It was through his services there that the attention of Japanese officials was called to him. Then he served as confidential advisor and counsel for the Japanese legation in Washington and enjoyed the confidence of Count Okuma.

When the troubles arose in the Far East Stevens was called to Tokio and hurried to Seoul to fill the post of confidential counsellor of the Japanese regime of the Hermit Kingdom. His part in the direction of the course of Japan attracted attention and his services were warmly appreciated by the Japanese government.

It was through the effectiveness of the work done by the Japanese authorities at Seoul that the Koreans made Stevens an active mark for their resentment.

A Japanese Investigation

Honolulu, March 27.—Secretary Ichikawa of the Japanese consulate, who speaks Korean, has been ordered by Viscount Hayashi to proceed to San Francisco immediately to investigate the killing of Durham W. Stevens.

Horne Acquitted of Murder

Kansas City, March 27.—Richard C. Horne was acquitted of the charge of murdering H. J. Groves, managing editor of the Kansas City Post, by a jury in the criminal court. The verdict stated that Horne was insane when he shot Groves and has not fully recovered, and recommended that he be committed to an asylum. It was the contention of the defense that Horne was made insane because, having put everything he possessed into The Post, he lost not only his situation, but his money. He is one of the oldest editors in Missouri and was prominent in Democratic politics for many years.

Bomb In Tenement House

New York, March 27.—For the fourth time this week a bomb explosion in Mulberry street last night startled the inhabitants of "Little Italy." The machine was set off in the hallway of a five-story tenement and near the living rooms of Dominick Bonomolo, an Italian banker, whose place of business is on the ground floor of the building. No one was injured, but the house was badly damaged. The miscreants escaped. Bonomolo says that he has been receiving threatening letters for the past five years, but latterly has ceased to pay attention to them.

Hotel Damaged $70,000 by Fire

Springfield, Ills., March 27.—The Leland hotel, which has been the center of political gatherings for the last thirty years, was much damaged by fire, entailing a loss to the proprietors of about $75,000. No lives were lost nor was any person injured. The fire originated from an unknown cause. Below the third floor there was no damage except by smoke and water.

Bryan at National Capitol

Washington, March 27.—William J. Bryan addressed the Ancient Order of Hibernians here last night. He spent some time during the afternoon at the Capitol. His appearance in the lobby of the house was the signal for Democratic members to hurry from the floor to meet and greet him, and for an hour and a half the Nebraskan held an informal reception.

HUNTING MEMENTOES

Stuart Wesson Finds Them In the Newspaper Stories

HIS IDENTITY ESTABLISHED

Notwithstanding the Fact That He Is Alive and Well at Boston, People at Philadelphia "Positively Identify" His Dead Body

Boston, March 27.—Stuart Wesson, whose reputed dead body is claimed to be fully identified in Philadelphia, amused himself with the stories of his death last night in the newspaper offices of Boston, visiting some of his newspaper friends here and cutting out the newspaper stories as mementoes.

Stuart Wesson is stopping at 323 Columbus avenue with his wife and has been here several days. The identity of Wesson was fully made by a local newspaper sporting writer who was Wesson's trainer when he went to school in Worcester academy, who trained him when at Dartmouth, where he attended two years, and who has followed him closely at Harvard and since.

Mr. Wesson brought up many reminiscenses of his athletic work last night and in particular showed the broken ankle, by which means it is claimed the Philadelphia body is identified as that of Wesson's. Wesson was particular to state that the papers were spelling his name "Stewart," when it should be spelled "Stuart," and established his identity beyond any question. He stated that his father, J. E. Wesson of Worcester, was now in the south.

What Philadelphians Say

Philadelphia, March 27.—Despite the reports from Worcester, Mass., that the body of the young man who committed suicide here on March 19 by shooting is not that of Stewart Wesson, the adopted son of J. E. Wesson of that place, the body was again identified yesterday as that of Wesson. When informed by the coroner that the body would go to the anatomical board if it was not properly identified and claimed, Mrs. Ella Robbins, a cousin, again positively identified the body as that of Wesson. E. C. Kemble, an insurance broker, who was a classmate of Wesson when at Harvard, also identified the body, as did several others who knew him.

If the body is not that of the former Worcester man, the case is most remarkable. According to those who know Wesson he had his ankle broken while at college and the mark of such a trace is plainly discernible on the body of the suicide. Further than this, one of Wesson's toes was broken while playing hockey and was left in peculiar shape. The body of the suicide has this peculiarly marked toe. Even the fillings and bridgework on the teeth are the same and the coroner is much mystified.

By Way of Worcester

Worcester, Mass., March 27.—J. E. Wesson, the foster-father of Stuart Wesson, whose supposed body has been identified at Philadelphia, is in the south. His brother and partner, W. G. Wesson, says that he saw Stuart in Boston last Saturday and that, therefore, he could not have been the man who committed suicide in Philadelphia on March 19.

May Strike Snag In Senate

Albany, March 27.—The legislation recommended by Governor Hughes for the abolition of the present legal protection of gambling at race tracks, while it is a felony elsewhere in the state, has now reached the senate. Both bills embodying the governor's recommendation were passed by the assembly by an overwhelming majority. The situation in the senate is still regarded as extremely critical, with the indications favoring the defeat of the bills.

Duke Refuses to Talk

Queensfown, March 27.—On the arrival of steamship Lusitania here the Duke of Abruzzi, who was a passenger, said to newspaper representatives that he wished to be left alone. Asked with reference to his reported engagement to Miss Elkins, he replied: "I don't wish to speak on that subject," and ended the interview by closing the door of his stateroom.

Innovation In Church Service

Atlantic City, N. J., March 27.—Religious services exclusively for men in which the congregation will be privileged to smoke and divest coat and collar if desired is an innovation planned by Rev. Sydney Goodman, assistant rector of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension. A moving picture show will afford entertainment.

Collieries Going on Full Time

Pottsville, Pa., March 27.—Orders were issued by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company for the resumption of fifty-five collieries and washeries of the company on April 1 after having been on half time for the last two months. This will affect about 25,000 hands.

Riotous Students Held For Trial

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 27.—C. R. Rook and O. G. Emerick, two of the fifteen students arrested during the outbreak at the Star theatre ten days ago, were bound over to the circuit court for trial on the charge of rioting. Bail was fixed at $1000 in each case.

Dogs have begun to make raids on hen coops, two such raids being reported to the police this morning. One was at the Warren house, at 661 Washington street, and the other at the residence of Thomas Elcock on Marsh street. A number of hens were killed at both places.

The Junior Alliance of First church is to have charge of the flowers each Sunday at the church and also distribute them to the sick of the parish. To aid in the work they are to hold a cake and candy sale Saturday afternoon in the church parlor which they hope will be well patronized.

The citizens of Quincy should rally for the flag tonight as the Boys in Blue did in 1861-65. The Grand Army has called a public meeting to be held in City Hall to take steps to procure a new soldiers' monument—one of which the Grand Army, the granite manufacturers of Quincy, and the citizens generally will be proud.

Dirt Flies At Coddington

order was offered for the Mayor to petition the Legislature to borrow $70,000 outside the debt limit for the erection of a Coddington school building. The order, however, never passed. That year the Public Buildings Committee procured plans for the building. Those of Charles A. Brigham were accepted and an order appropriating $70,000 was passed late in the year and approved by Mayor Thompson.

Bids were invited last year but all were too high, and the whole matter came over to this year's Council. An order calling for $10,000 additional was offered but was changed by substitute order to $4,000, and passed.

Some slight modifications in the plans were necessary to bring the building down to that amount. The building will be of brick. It will have twelve rooms and an assembly hall. In addition to these there will be recitation rooms on each floor as well as the Master's room and a room for teachers.

The main entrance will be from Coddington street but there will also be an entrance from Faxon avenue.

It will be a handsome building and Mr. Brigham, the architect, promises that it will be the best school building in the city.

THE OLD CODDINGTON.

The Coddington school building now in use was erected in 1855. William Parker, father of the present Inspector of Buildings, was the contractor for the carpenter work and received $4,950. When furnished and completed the total cost was $7,367.98. It should be stated that the building was then two story with a basement. In 1876 the house was enlarged by the addition of another story, at a cost of $3,500.00. The late Jonas Shackley of West Quincy was the contractor for the carpenter work at $2,840.00. The annex was originally on the Adams Academy lot. The Coddington school was named in 1858 after Mr. William Coddington the first benefactor of Quincy.

Some Verses on Our Board of Health

Although Cornelius M. Duggan, the bard of Atlantic, does not have as much time to himself since he assumed the duties encumbent on a member of the Board of Health, he finds time to write a few verses now and then. Following is his recent effort which is dedicated to the Board of Health.

Oh the worries and cares and pitfalls and snares,
That beset an official's life,
The time that he spends with political friends,
Divorced from his children and wife,
Of Boards of Health in our great Commonwealth,
All doing magnificent work,
We proudly relate, we've the best in the State
In Duggan and Walsh and Burke.

From strenuous strife in public life,
Our Chairman has lost his hair.
In evading the mobs, now gunning for jobs
They follow him everywhere,
And though he may fall by a garbage ball,
In some frenzied applicants hand,
Bill never will flinch, no not if "Judge Lynch"
At his office door should stand.

There's Duggan, the poet, gettin gray as a goat,
Demonstrating a premature stoop,
From the baneful effect of sleeping erect,
In a hygienic coop:
Victimized by the pranks of medical cranks
Supervising the Health of this State.
They gave him a pill, will it cure, will it kill,
We can only be patient and wait.

The Doctor and Clerk, F. Ramon Burke,
A promising young M. D.,
Receives complaints that would anger the saints,
But he's skilled in diplomacy.
A fussy old maid once sought his aid,
To rid her home of rats,
There was blood in his eye, as he made reply,
Go buy a bushel of cats.

The nerve-killing work of Walsh and Burke,
Would soon put a slave to flight,
While Duggan of "Six" in the "scrimmages" mix,
At least every Wednesday night.
Appointed by Shea by their colors they'll stay,
Their duty they'll never shirk,
Here's fortune and wealth to the Board of Health,
Duggan and Walsh and Burke.

Adams Street House on Fire

The alarm from Box 124 at 4.44 Thursday afternoon called the department to a fire on the roof of a house on Adams street owned by the Carr estate and occupied by Harry S. Crane. The fire was caused by a spark from a passing locomotive alighting on the roof. The high wind fanned the spark into a flame and soon a lively blaze.

When the department arrived the whole roof of the L appeared to be on fire and it had worked inside. Two lines of hose were laid, one from a hydrant just west of Presidents bridge and the other from a hydrant at the corner of Adams and Alleyne streets. These were taken onto the roof while a chemical stream was taken through a window into blind attic. They soon conquered the blaze. Chief Williams estimates the loss at $500. A high wind was prevailing and it was a good stop.

Federal Building Is Being Pushed

Work has been commenced in earnest on the new Post Office building, and from now on it will be a race between this building and the Coddington school house. The Post Office building has a little advantage, however, as all of the excavating for the building was done last fall. Upwards of twenty men are at work laying the foundation brick walls, and their work will soon begin to show for itself. Some of the granite to be used in the building is also on the ground, and more is due every day.

WORMS IN CHILDREN

6 YEARS SUFFERING RELIEVED IN 8 HOURS

DANVILLE.

DR. TRUE, DEAR SIR:—One of my boys had been troubled for about six years with cramp in the stomach, and suspecting that it might be brought on by worms, we gave him different medicines, but without effect. Last January he had a more severe attack than usual, and hearing of the almost miraculous effects of your Elixir, we gave him about a teaspoonful, and in about eight hours it brought from him a living creature about eighteen inches in length. He has had no return of them since, and is now very hearty. G. W. VICKERY.

Thousands of people have worms and don't know it, yet the symptoms are easily recognized. Even though worms might not be present this extraordinary remedy will effect wonderful changes in the run-down system. It is a great stomach and liver tonic and regulator.

Worms in adults and children can be readily detected from the following symptoms: Indigestion; a variable appetite; offensive breath and foul tongue; eyes heavy and dull; itching of the nose; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; starting during sleep; slow fever and often, in children, convulsions and bed-wetting; looseness; hard, swelled bowels. No matter how pronounced or how light the symptoms, will restore the patient to normal health again.

DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR

TURNER, ME.

DR. J. F. TRUE, DEAR SIR:—Having used your Elixir in my family for many years, after having satisfied myself of its superior merits, I recommended it to my neighbors, who now very generally use it. I consider it the very best medicine now in use, especially for children.

Very truly yours, JOB PRINCE.

NEW GLOUCESTER, MASS.

DR. TRUE, DEAR SIR:—The Elixir I purchased of you cured my boy, who had been troubled with worms ever since he was a child. He had tried many other medicines, and I had employed physicians until I found it of no use. I despaired of his being restored to health till I heard of your Elixir, which, I am happy to say, effected a speedy cure.

Very truly yours, W. G. COOMBS.

Dr. True's Elixir is sold by druggists everywhere at 35c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. A booklet entitled "Children and Their Diseases" will be sent free by simply addressing Dr. J. F. True & Co., Auburn, Me. We have a special treatment for tape-worm. Send for free book.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

The torpedo fleet including the Lawrence, Whipple, Hopkins, Hull, Stewart, Truxtum and Arethusa have sailed from Panama for Acapulco.

A spirited race of mammoth schooners from Cape Henry, Va., to Boston was finished Thursday, says the Herald, when the six-master Mertie B. Crowley, Capt. Babbitt, rounded Highland light at 11 A. M. and headed across the bay. Close behind the Crowley were the four-masters Samuel W. Hathaway, Capt. Quinlan, and the Maria O. Teel, Capt. Davis. At 12.30 o'clock the four-sticker William H. Clifford, Capt. Farren, rounded the Highlands, followed by the Gov. Ames, Capt. King, at 2 P. M.; the John Twohy, a four-master, Capt. Stevenson, at 3.30; the W. L. Douglas, six-master, Capt. Mclean, and the Frontenac, four-master, Capt. Hunter, appeared at 4.30. All the schooners passed out of Cape Henry March 23 except the Gov. Ames March 20, and the Frontenac, a day earlier.

The battleship North Dakota, now under construction at the works of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., proves to be by a comparison of facts and figures superior to both the famous English Dreadnaught and the new monster German battleship Ersatz Bayern launched this month at Wilhelmshaven, Germany.

The new German battleship Ersatz Bayern is a little larger than the Dreadnaught, while the North Dakota is much larger than either. The displacement of the Ersatz Bayern will be 17,900 tons as against 17,800 for the Dreadnaught, while the North Dakota will displace 20,000 tons. As to the question of speed the Erstaz Bayern will have a minimum speed of 19 knots, while the Dreadnaught and North Dakota are both rated as 21 knot ships. The battery of the German ship seems light as she carries ten 11-inch rifles, while the Dreadnaught carries ten 12-inch ones, but the Germans claim that the 11-inch guns are more powerful and more lasting than the larger ones.

The general dimensions of the North Dakota are as follows:—

Length on load water-line, 510 ft.
Breadth, load water-line, 85 ft. 2 5-8 in.
Trial displacement, not over 20,000 tons.
Mean draft, trial displacement 27 ft.
Total coal bunker capacity 2,300 tons.
Coal carried on trial 1,000 tons.
Feed water on trial 66 tons.
Speed on trial 21 knots.
The armament includes:
Ten 12-inch breech-loading rifles.
Fourteen 5-inch rapid fire guns.
Four three-pound saluting guns.
Four one-pound semi-automatic guns.
Two three-inch field pieces.
Two machine guns, calibre 30.
Two submerged torpedo tubes.

Boys Rewarded For Their Work

The hot turkey supper for the Y. M. C. A. boys who secured new members was given Thursday night and the boys with their guests ate to their fill. Forty were present in all, including W. H. Bentley and the association executive force, Messrs. Gay, Maxwell, and Goodhue who sat at the head of four tables and carved the birds for the hungry boys.

After the turkey, "fixins" and ice cream, speeches were made, in which the boys were complimented for their good work in securing members, and showing the new members the advantage of membership.

Following the talks Miss Hazel Jennings and Miss Simons entertained the boys with readings and piano solos. Miss Jennings' readings were especially applauded, she being recalled again and again. The Boys Work committee of the Women's Auxiliary served the supper. The ladies serving were: Mrs. C. D. Young, Mrs. G. M. Miller, Mrs. W. G. Shaw, Mrs. Geo. McFarlain and Miss Addie Parker.

ALL IN FAVOR

Of Handsome New Soldiers' Monument For Quincy

That the members of Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., have the public with them in their efforts to erect a new memorial to the soldiers and sailors who offered their lives that this country might be free, was evident by the enthusiasm shown at the meeting in the Council chamber at City Hall last evening. While the meeting was not as large as was expected those present were unanimous for a new monument.

Commander John D. Williams, chairman of the monument committee, presided, and in opening the meeting told why it had been called. The Grand Army wanted a monument worthy of the men slain on the battlefield and a memorial for the comrades who still live, which shall be a credit to the city. Every town he visited had beautiful memorials. A monument without a statue is not a soldiers' monument. The only question is, can we raise the necessary money?

Mayor Shea said he was present because he was in sympathy with the movement, and to do what he could to further it. He believed we should show our gratitude to these men, and that the citizens would respond generously. He hoped a suitable monument would be erected. It was the least we could do to show our appreciation of the sacrifices these men made. He would assist the movement in any way possible.

Ex-Mayor Sears said what we have now is nothing. All agree we should have a suitable memorial. We want to see a monument of Quincy granite with a soldier on top and in a suitable place. It ought to be in City Square as an object which represents loyalty. No other place has the opportunities we have in Quincy and we ought to get it as cheap as any place. We have Mr. Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Kitson, and Mr. Beattie whose work as sculptors is favored throughout the country. He had no doubt they would be glad to lend their assistance. We also have a brass foundry. The thing to do is to get to the people. The committee could count on him for his part.

Commander Williams said the idea of the committee was that at least $10,000 should be raised. It should be located in Quincy square. If we can not get it there we will locate it where the city has set apart a site.

Mr. Sears said the statutes allowed cities to appropriate money for such purposes.

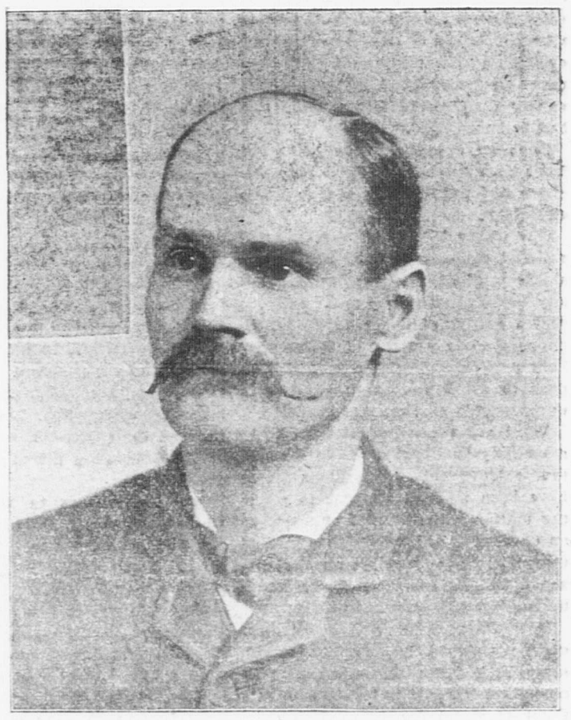

John L. Miller thought we should have a different monument from what we now have. It is a disgrace to the city, and one would not think us a very patriotic city. It behoves us to take hold and see what can be done. One can not point with pride to the memorial we have today. If there was to b ebronze statues they would soon eat up the $10,000. A bronze statue will not cost less than $1,500 or $2,000. He favored having the monument set in City Square. He had no doubt the money could be raised by united action and enthusiasm. He suggested a house-to-house canvass then the societies. Then go to the City Council for the balance.

Ex-Mayor Porter spoke of the battlefield at Gettysburg and the number of men killed and wounded there. Fifty cents from every man, woman and child in Quincy will give us $15,000. It would seem that so small a sum might be raised. We have in our city artists capable of producing the best work.

President Ralph W. Hobbs of the City Council said he was ready at all times to aid in the effort to show proper respect for the men who saved our country. He would aid in a house-tohouse canvass.

Clarence Burgin, treasurer of the Savings Bank, said he was in sympathy with the movement. This hall ought to be crowded. He thought a

GRADE CROSSINGS

Correspondent Who Endorses Railroad Plain For Savil Street

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Certain public improvements were needed in Quincy to enhance the safety of human life. There were two parties interested in the matter, the people of Quincy and the railroad. The latter party was willing and anxious to make the desired improvements, provided a spirit of reasonableness and mutual concession was shown on the part of our own citizens. But at the very first meetings of citizens to discuss the matter a spirit cropped out, sometimes expressed and sometimes implied, which said "Soak the railroad people; they pay most of the expense, and here is a chance to change the map of the city without much cost to ourselves." This spirit prevailed throughout the discussion; and later there also developed such an evident purpose to take advantage of the occasion for exploiting private interests at the expense of the railroad that the whole matter degenerated into a farce and had to be dropped.

Such an outcome of an important issue is not credible to the intelligence and public spirit of the people of Quincy.

The writer does not own a dollar of railroad stock, nor has he had a single word of communication with any railroad official; but he believes that a matter of this kind should be approached in a spirit of fairness by both parties, and with a mutual purpose to avoid putting each other to unreasonable expense and hardship.

What are the points at issue? As a possibly healthful offset to some of the extravagant propositions that have been made, I propose to argue the matter with brutal frankness, as an outsider might do who has studied the matter merely in its physical aspects, without reference to the ambitions of any Quincy citizens.

Now the part of Savil street west of the railroad is an unimportant, steep little lane; the upper part so steep that it ought to be changed to a flight of stairs for pedestrians only, as will doubtless be done eventually. The only business interest involved in this part of the street, so far as shown at the hearings, was that of Mr. Bates. Now, Mr. Bates is one of our best and most enterprising citizens, and, as one good citizen out of many, he is entitled to all the rights and privileges of every other good citizen, and no more. When he took his fortune in his hands and set up his business as a pioneer on an unimproved little lane, he thereby assumed the risks of a pioneer; if things came his way, well and good, and if otherwise he would have to make the best of it. At all events he could hardly look to the city or the railroad to back him up in demanding expensive and far-reaching changes of grade in order to save his own particular venture. As a matter of fact I doubt if the closing of Savil street would harm him so much as he fears; for, with Irving place extended to Granite street, he would have an almost straight road to the freight yard for his heavy teaming. Moreover, his store is near a rapidly growing neighborhood of well-to-do people, and if the other plumbers cannot get on to his side of the track he will have Presidents hill and Adams street at his mercy!

Now, what are some of the schemes proposed to save the Savil street crossing? One is to depress a long stretch of track to the depth of thirteen feet, and thus secure an overhead bridge at grade. This would involve lowering the station, and building long flights of stairs for everybody to climb up and down every day, or changing the grade of Depot and Savil streets into a long slope down to the station, causing damage to buildings on those streets. This plan also included changing the grade of Granite street and building an overhead bridge. All this to save an unimproved, steep little lane which has remained unimproved for generations simply because no one thought it was worth improving. One scheme even went so far as to change the location of Granite street, one of the oldest and most travelled thoroughfares of the city; and another grotesque proposition was to run a new street crisscross from Irving place to Whitwell street ,cutting off and closing up the end of Goffe street! Goodness knows what this was for, unless to parallel the Boynton Aerial Bicycle Railway, which has its right-of-way staked out in the atmosphere somewhere above this locality! There was one more proposed crisscross street running from Savil street to Goffe street, near Dimmock. This also to save a steep, ungraded little streetlet which the general public had never thought about until the present discussion arose.

Now suppose that the Savil street crossing is crosed to teams, what would be the situation? A broad, well-lighted subway will be provided for pedestrians. Irving place will be improved and widened and extended to Granite street through the Clapp estate, reserving the Veazie estate for the proposed additional tracks. Are not all reasonable requirements thus served? The worst inconvenience that could be imagined would be that of a team going from Mr. Bates' store to City Hall, which, of course, would have to go around through Irving place and Granite street; but this distance is not a thousand miles, nor a day's journey, and would affect comparatively few people. Everybody that lives alongside of a railroad is not supposed to have a crossing at his back door.

As to subways for pedestrians, they have come to be a common feature of modern city railroading, and if properly constructed are no more objectionable than any other stairs. Nor is it an unheard-of thing to shut up old streets when they stand in the way of important enterprises. Traverse street, an ancient and much-travelled thoroughfare at the north end of Boston, was cut in two and closed when the incline of the Elevated road was built from the subway to the North station. A subway was provided for pedestrian, and traffic at once accommodated itself to the change, so that doubtless many young teamsters of the present day do not know that Traverse street ever extended across the gap.

So, I say, close the Savil street crossing, provide a commodious subway for pedestrians, and extend Irving place as a broad, well-made street to Granite street. In this way a vast majority of the people would be sufficiently accommodated, and that, too, without putting either the city or the railroad to enormous expense, and without changing the shape of the earth!

And likewise as to Water street, why not, after all, close the crossing, and from a point west of the new freight yard divert Water street up through Marsh street into School street? So simple and satisfactory a solution of a grade crossing problem would not be found once in a thousand times. At comparatively small expense a good broad street could be built here, with easy round corners and an almost imperceptible grade, suitable both for teams and street cars, and School street between Marsh and Franklin could be widened at moderate cost. Of course there would be a subway for pedestrians at the Water street crossing ,and that part of Water street east of the track, with its rows of little stores, would figure mostly as an approach to the station, which in the near future will doubtless be located on that side of the track. The "depot trade" of the stores would be unaffected by the change ,as also, doubtless, most of the pedestrian trade.

A very large proportion of the teaming on Water street comes and goes from the direction of City Square, and so might as well use School street as Franklin. This plan leaves all the grades just as at present, without putting anybody to extraordinary expense.

Though the city pays only ten per cent. of the cost of these improvements, yet in the case of some of the plans proposed the ten per cent. would be no insignificant sum, in view of the present state of the city's finances.

AN ELECTION PRIMER

Pertinent Points About Our Election Machinery For New Voters and Old

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

When did the Republican party originate?

In 1854. The name was first used at a political convention in Jackson, Mich. The first Republican national convention met in Pittsburg, Pa., in 1856 and adopted a platform in which the chief plank declared "that the constitution confers upon congress sovereign power over the territories of the United States for their government and that in the exercise of this power it is both the right and the imperative duty of congress to prohibit in the territories those twin relics of barbarism, polygamy and slavery."

Who was the party's first presidential candidate?

John C. Fremont. He was defeated by James Buchanan, the Democratic candidate.

Who was the next candidate?

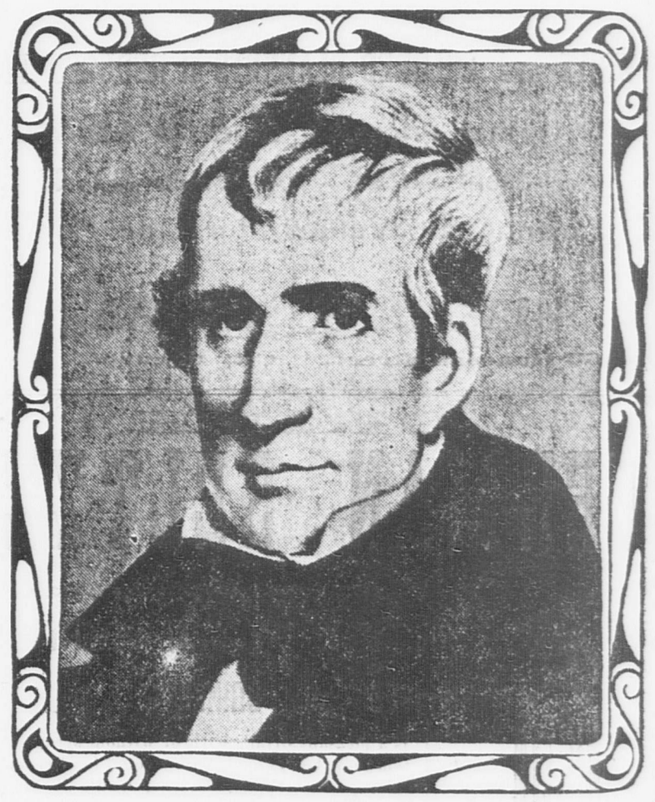

Abraham Lincoln. He was nominated at Chicago and elected, his chief opponent being Stephen A. Douglas, nominated by the northern wing of the Democracy. Lincoln was re-elected in 1864 over General George B. McClellan, Democrat.

How many Republican presidents have there been?

Nine. Lincoln, Johnson, Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, Benjamin Harrison, McKinley and Roosevelt. Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley were assassinated. Johnson, Arthur and Roosevelt succeeded to the presidency on the death of the president, being vice presidents. Roosevelt was elected to a full term after serving out McKinley's uncompleted second term.

Since the civil war, for what has the Republican party chiefly stood?

For what is known as a protective tariff.

WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON.

The ninth president of the United States served just one month in that position. He died at Washington April 4, 1841, in his sixty-ninth year. He was born at Berkeley, Va. Harrison had the chief command in the northwest during the war of 1812 and was a major general. He was the conqueror of the great Indian chief Tecumseh. After the war General Harrison retired to his farm near North Bend, Ind., but he was elected to the United States senate and finally to the presidency as a Whig in 1840 after the famous "log cabin and hard cider campaign."

UP TO FEDERAL LAW

Startling Revelations Before the Boston Finance Commission

STEEL FIRMS IN COLLUSION

Agreements For Complimentary Bids For Various Contracts--Plans So Arranged That Certain Corporations Secured Jobs at Loss to City

Boston, March 28.—Members of the finance commission which is investigating the affairs of the city of Boston intimated last night that action might be taken by the federal authorities under the Sherman anti-trust law as a result of the alleged conspiracies, collusive bidding and fraudulent contracts on the part of corporations doing an interstate business, as disclosed at the last few meetings of the finance commission.

At the meeting of the commission last night Charles N. Fitts, secretary of the New England Structural Iron and Steel works, testified that he had communicated with eleven firms, most of whom do an interstate business, as to the contract for the Brookline bridge, in order that his corporation might get the contract.

Fitts declared that arrangements were made for complimentary bids higher than his, but that eventually the contract was given to an outside firm who bid lower, on account of a "misunderstanding." The contract, he said, went to the H. P. Converse company for $15,400, all the other bids being above the $16,000 bid by the New England Structural company he represented.

Among the firms which he named as having entered into the agreement of making complimentary bids were the Pennsylvania Steel company, Frederick W. Page Construction company of Rochester, Boston Bridge works, Eastern Bridge and Construction company, Canton Bridge company, New Jersey Bridge company, Groton Bridge company, Berlin Construction company and the Oswego Bridge company.

Charles E. Fouhy testified that he was the executive clerk having in charge the agreement between the firms and that he received the reports from the various firms and forwarded the reports to others in the agreement. He gave the names of additional firms who at one time or another for various contracts had entered into agreements for complimentary bids.

David H. Andrews, president of the Boston Bridge works, testified he had paid amounts to structural firms that he might obtain the contract for the Bennington street, East Boston, bridge.

City Engineer Jackson testified that when the bids came in for the Cove street draw they were all so excessive that he suspected there was collusive bidding and he threw out all the bids. The second set of bids, he testified, were all $20,000 lower than the first.

Alleged Theft of $1,105,000

Pittsburg, March 28.—Henry Reiber, paying teller, and John Young, auditor of the Farmers' Deposit National bank, were arraigned on additional charges filed against them by Bank Examiner Folds. BULLET IN NEGRO'S HEAD

Put There by Alabama Congressman After a Desperate Affray

Washington, March 28.—In an affray on a Pennsylvania avenue car last night, two men were shot by Congressman Thomas J. Heflin of Alabama. Thomas Lumby, a negro, was shot in the head and is in a critical condition, and Thomas McCreary, white, received a wound in the leg. The shooting of McCreary was accidental. Heflin was arrested and a charge of assault with intent to kill was lodged against him. Later he was released on $5000 bail.

Mr. Heflin was on his way to deliver a temperance lecture at the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal church. Upon boarding the car he observed two negro passengers, one of whom was Lumby. Lumby was in the act of taking a drink from a bottle of whisky. There were a number of other passengers, including several ladies. Heflin remonstrated with Lumby and asked him to stop drinking.

The other negro, who was sober, attempted to take the bottle away from his friend, but failed. It is charged that Lumby became offended at Heflin's remonstrances and applied vile epithets. Heflin and Lumby then engaged in a desperate struggle. Heflin, who is a large, powerful man, succeeded in throwing Lumby off the car as it came to a stop. Most of the occupants of the car hastily alighted, including McCreary. The negro, it is alleged, began cursing Heflin again, and made a motion toward his hip pocket as if to draw a weapon, whereupon Heflin fired at him through the car window, missing him and hitting McCreary. Heflin fired again, one of the shots striking Lumby in the head.

Heflin is the author of a "Jim Crow" car bill in the District of Columbia. He says that since he introduced the measure he has received many letters of a threatening character, and he obtained permission from the police authorities to go armed.

Chinaman Killed In Street

New York, March 28.—Ing Mow, looked upon by many Chinamen as the leader of his faction, was shot and killed on Mott street. Ever since the successful prosecution of the Chinese murder trials in Boston and Philadelphia there have been frequent rumors in Chinatown that some member of the New York colony inspired the evidence which resulted in the convictions. It is said that Ing Mow was one of the men who had been under suspicion in this connection. Ing Mow was walking down Mott street when three Chinamen coming in the other direction blocked his way. There was a sharp, short argument, the flash and report of a shot and as Ing collapsed and fell to the sidewalk the three assailants fled.

"He has shown some talent, has he?"

"Talent? Genius, sir—positive genius! He designed a garden for our Christmas tree."

"Well, what is there remarkable about it?" said the architect impatiently.

"Why, sir, he designed that garden for $3, and it cost $37!"

To the Bishop's Taste.

The late Bishop Green on one of his diocesan visitations stopped with an old friend at Sewanee, Tenn.

At supper the bishop said he would have nothing but a dish of bonny clabber, a little nutmeg sprinkled over.

"There ain't a bit of nutmeg in the house," exclaimed the maid when the request was repeated to her.

"Dear me!" said the hostess. "Go to Mrs. Darlington, next door, and ask her to lend me a nutmeg."

Mrs. Darlington also was out of nutmeg.

"Then go to Mrs. Harding, on the other side; then bring the bishop the dish quickly."

The hostess kept up a rapid fire of bright talk to cover the hiatus in the service until the maid appeared with the desired dish.

"What an addition is a little sprinkle of nutmeg!" said the bishop. "What a fine relish it gives!"

When the good guest had retired the mistress said to the maid. "Go to the grocery store the first thing in the morning and get nutmegs, and return the nutmeg to Mrs. Harding and"—

"But Mrs. Harding was out of nutmegs too."

"Then where did you get any?"

"I was dat worrited dat I des tuck a wooden handle to a ole shoe buttoner an' grated it on."—Lippincott's.

Tweedledum or Tweedledee.

Joseph Chamberlain was the guest of honor at a dinner in an important city. The mayor presided, and when coffee was being served the mayor leaned over and touched Mr. Chamberlain, saying, "Shall we let the people enjoy themselves a little longer, or had we better have your speech now?"

He Guessed Right.

A one armed man entered a restaurant and seated himself next to a dapper little other-people's-business man. The latter noticed his neighbor's left sleeve hanging loose and kept eying it in a how-did-it-happen sort of a way. Finally the inquisitive one could stand it no longer. He changed his position a little, cleared his throat and said, "I beg pardon, sir, but I see you have lost an arm."

The one armed man picked up his sleeve with his right hand and peered anxiously into it. "Bless my soul!" he exclaimed, looking up with great surprise. "I do believe you're right!"—Everybody's.

In a Bad Way.

On his trip to Europe Johnson collapsed the first day out. All remedies were resorted to, but without avail. All he would mutter was: "I'm so ill! I'm so ill!"

"Can't you keep anything on your stomach?" asked a sympathizing friend.

"Only my hands! Only my hands!" Johnson groaned.

Varieties of Handshaking.

The pump handle shake is executed by taking a friend's hand and working it up and down through an arc of fifty degrees for about a minute and a half. To have its nature, force and character this shake should be performed with a fair and steady motion. No attempt should be made to give it grace and variety, as it may result in dislocating the shoulder of the victim. On no account should it be continued after perspiration on the part of your friend has commenced.

The pendulum shake is similar in character, but moving, as the name indicates, in horizontal instead of a perpendicular direction. It is executed by sweeping your hand horizontally toward your friend's and after the junction is effected rowing with it from one side to the other.

The tourniquet shake derives its name from the instrument made use of by surgeons to stop the circulation of the blood in the limb about to be amputated. It is performed by clasping the hand of your friend as far as you can in your own and then contracting the muscles of your thumb, fingers and palm till you have induced any degree of compression you may purpose in the hand of your friend. Particular care ought to be taken not to make use of the tourniquet shake to a degree that it will shake the small bones of the wrist out of their places. It is seldom safe to apply it to gouty persons.

The cordial grapple is a hearty, boisterous shake of your friend's hand, accompanied with moderate pressure and loud acclamations of welcome.

The Peter grievous touch is a pensive, tranquil junction, followed by a mild subsultory motion, a cast down look and an inarticulate inquiry after your friend's health.

The prude major and prude minor are nearly monopolized by ladies. They never extend beyond the fingers, and the prude major allows you to touch them only down to the second joint. The prude minor allows you the whole of the finger.—Charles Lamb.

First Aid.

A physician was called to his telephone by a colored woman formerly in the service of his wife. She said her youngest child was in a bad way.

"What seems to be the trouble?" asked the doctor.

"Doc, she done swallered a bottle of ink!"

"I'll be over there in a short while to see her. Have you done anything for her?"

"I done give her three pieces o' blottin' paper," said the woman doubtfully.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Fooling the Lawyer.

"Mr. Barr," a gentleman said to a lawyer at a dinner, "I would like your opinion on a knotty point of law. An uncle of mine has a peacock, and last fall it got into a neighbor's garden and laid an egg there. The neighbor claimed the egg, my uncle claimed it as well, and the two have been fighting and squabbling over the matter ever since. Now, sir, what is the law on the question?"

"It is an easy question to settle," said the lawyer, with a patronizing smile. "Admitting that the egg was laid on the neighbor's ground, the neighbor nevertheless has no claim to it unless he can prove that the owner of the bird took no steps to prevent it from straying. In a precedent case"—

"Excuse me, but this case has no precedent."

"Well, you know more law than I, do you? I remember distinctly a precedent case where"—

"No, you don't."

"What do you mean?" exclaimed the lawyer angrily.

"I mean that you never heard before of a peacock laying an egg," was the solemn reply.

The Indignant Juror.

A judge, disgusted with a jury unable to reach an agreement in a perfectly evident case, rose and said, "I discharge this jury."

One sensitive talesman, indignant at what he considered a rebuke, obstinately faced the judge.

"You can't discharge me!" he said in tones of one standing upon his rights.

"And why not?"

"Because," pointing to the lawyer for the defense, "I'm being hired by that man there!"—Everybody's.

The Obliging Specialist.

A famous specialist recently received the following letter:

"Dear Sir—I have had a bullet in my thorax for eleven years. I am too busy to come to New York, but hope you will come down here with your rays, as my case should be worth your while. If you cannot come send a packet of rays, with instructions as to use, etc., and I will see if I cannot manage to work them myself."

The specialist replied:

"Dear Sir—I am sorry that my engagements prevent my coming to see you and that I am out of rays just now. If you cannot come to New York yourself, send me your thorax by express, and I will do the best I can with it."

Might Reconsider.

"So long as mother is willing that I should marry you, papa can easily be won over."

"Er—ah—I did not know the women folk always rule in your family."

Charitable George.

"Mamma, I doubt if I shall be happy with George. I fear he is deceptive and false."

"Why, darling, what do you mean?" the mother asked.

"Well, mamma, you know that collarpin he gave me for Christmas? He said he paid $25 for it, but today I saw its exact counterpart for $5."

"Ah, but my child," said the mother, with true charity, "you must remember how very religious George is. Undoubtedly he bought the pin at a church fair."

Supplying Families.

Two little children on waking one morning were told that they had a new little brother. They wanted to know who brought it.

"It must have been the milkman," said the little girl.

"Why the milkman?" asked the little brother.

"Because it says on his card, 'Families Supplied.'"

EDITORIAL.

Naturally the man who cut a soldiers' monument erected in his own town would have a pride in his work, especially when he himself is a veteran of the war, and one of his brothers was among the slain. Frederick L. Jones, an ex-Councilman of the city and now a granite manufacturer, had the honor when a granite cutter to cut the shaft for the Soldiers' Monument erected by the town of Quincy in 1868. It was then considered a beautiful monument, but style has changed in memorials as in everything else, and the granite business of Quincy has flourished, and has executed many costly and elaborate soldiers' monuments for other cities. Mr. Jones is one of those who believes Quincy should have something different, and when a man whose associations with the present monument are so dear, advocates a new one, it is time for action. Let us have a memorial which shall be for many years to come an example of the best work in Quincy granite; one of which the City of Granite and of Presidents may be proud; and one which will show appreciation of the men who sacrificed everything in 1861—65 for the preservation of the Union. Let us not be lukewarm, but everyone enthusiastic to do his part and a little more.

DAUGHTERS OF REBEKAH.

At Amana lodge, Daughters of Rebekah, Thursday evening, there was held a rubber social. Each person had to bring an old pair of rubbers, or pay a dime to get in, and we guess by the pile of rubber on the floor of the box office, that every one brought a pair. The entertainment was headed by a full orchestra called the White Caps, which rendered all the latest kinks in music on kitchen utensils amid much applause, after which a solo was sung by Mrs. Tenney; a duet, "School Days" by Mrs. Holbrook and Mrs. Sears; reading by Miss Fisher; duet by Miss Pauline and George Orcutt; duet "Old Black Joe" by Mrs. Tenney and Mrs. Reed; Miss Cora Lewis of Lynn sang two solos, "In the Moon Light, Dear Louise," and "My Dreams of You," and received many encores; piano solo by Miss Bessie Hollis, and a reading by Mrs. Tenney. The last number was a selection by the orchestra, "Red, White and Blue," and the singing of America by all. Ice cream, cake and candy were served after the entertainment, under the direction of Mrs. W. A. Sears and Miss Caw.

A Good Start.

Contractor Crowley is doing a hustling job on the foundation for the new Coddington school. Although work was not commenced until 9 o'clock Friday, a great showing was made. Today there are about twenty men, ten horses, and a number of carts, shovels and ploughs were on the ground and the dirt is flying. Mr. Crowley said that he should commence laying the foundation wall on Monday, and that the excavating would be completed by Wednesday. Some of the material for the building has already arrived.

Special of Council.

Mayor Shea has called a special meeting of the City Council for next Monday evening at 7.35 o'clock. The matters stated in the call are to draw jurors. To act on a report from the Finance Committee on order No. 50, appropriating $5,000 for expert services in the matter of abolishing grade crossings; and to act on Order No. 64, granting the Citizens' Gas Light Co. permission to lay mains in various streets.

Water Shut Off.

Acting under orders from the State Board of Cattle Commission, Commissioner Bambridge has shut off the water from all public drinking fountains. This is due to the prevalence of glanders. The fountains will be thoroughly cleaned and it will probably be the first of May before the commission will permit the fountains to be used again.

Governor Guild Now Improving

Boston, March 28.—Governor Guild passed the best day yesterday since his illness reached a critical stage. He continued to improve steadily, and while the gains have been slight his family and friends feel more encouragement.

The improvement in the governor's condition during the past two days has surprised his friends, who attribute the gain to his strong constitution and expressed determination to overcome the complication of diseases from which he is suffering.

The fever is leaving the patient gradually. Although the fever will probably leave the governor weaker, its disappearance is regarded as a hopeful sign. The head nurse, who has been at the Guild residence night and day, is now allowed to go home nights.

The governor is not out of danger, and it is admitted that should he recover it will be a long time before he will be in shape to resume his official duties.

Assistant Pastor Leaving Quincy

Rev. E. E. Craig, the pastor's assistant and Bible School superintendent of Bethany church, has resigned to accept the pastorate of the Congregational church at Egartown, Mass., to which he has recently been called. Mr. Craig came to Bethany church two years ago from Evanston, Ill. He is a graduate of Toronto University, Toronto, Canada, and of the Hartford School of Religious Pedagogy. Last June he was married to Miss Helen A. Bentley of New Haven, who is also a graduate of the same school and was, previous to her marriage assistant to Rev. John L. Keedy, North Andover, Mass.

Since coming to Quincy Mr. Craig has been superintendent of the Sunday school, which now includes in all its departments 800 members, has done the preaching during the pastor's vacation besides discharging other pastoral duties. A few weeks ago Mr. Craig supplied the pulpit in the Congregational church in Edgartown, the result of which was a call to become its pastor.

Edgartown is a town of about 2000 inhabitants and is one of the best known summer resorts in Massachusetts. Mr. Craig's resignation was accepted by Bethany Church last evening and a committee was appointed to draft resolutions of regret at his departure, and commendation of his character and work. Mr. Craig appreciates the privilege of having been associated with the work of this large and vigorous Quincy church, and bears with him many pleasant memories of associations with the pastor and people of Bethany and the people of Quincy generally. He will enter upon his new duties early in April. He and Mrs. Craig have endeared themselves to a large circle of friends in Quincy who will greatly regret their removal.

Presentation.

The many friends of William Richards invited him to a dance to be held in Dobles hall Thursday evening. After dancing had been in order for a time and songs sung by George Reynolds, Master Richards was presented a gold watch and chain and charm by Charles Mayle. Master Richards was so surprised it was quite a while before he could respond. He thanked his many friends for their kindness to him, and he appreciates their kindness. There was friends from New Bedford, Woburn, Boston, and Malden. The hit of the evening was a whistling solo by Joe Uppling, also a song by his son Joe Uppling, Jr. Refreshments were served. The party broke up in the wee hours of the morning.

Bell the Champion.

At the billiard tournament at the Granite City club last evening W. W. Mitchell (200) beat H. O. Williams (150) by score of 200 to 145. This practically completes the tournament and makes John W. Bell a winner with six games won and none lost. W. W. Mitchell was second with five games won and one lost.

G. Shaw will place a box in front of his store in City Square, there will also be boxes at Boynton's store, Wollaston; Thomas Gurney's Atlantic; Charles Ames' store, West Quincy; Miss Wales' waiting room, Brewer's corner; and Mrs. George Badger, West Quincy, Mrs. John L. Gow, Quincy Point, Mrs. Harry W. Reed, Atlantic, will receive goods. Later a barrel will be placed at the club house. Great results are anticipated. (Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)
INCORPORATED 1889
The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.
Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need will be most gratefully received.
The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE Young Men's Christian Association
OF QUINCY, MASS.
(Legal Title – Incorporated 1892.)
The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.
Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.
The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

QUINCY'S NEW INDUSTRY.

Although the German Seltzer Manufacturing Company's business is in its infancy it bids fair to be one of the staple and permanent business adjuncts of Quincy. The company first advertised in the Quincy Ledger March 1st (although not then having the Carbonater in a perfectly satisfactory working condition). It made many hundreds of bottles of Seltzer to be thrown away as not coming up to the high standard of perfection which the manager desired, but that perfection has now been reached. But while perfecting the Seltzer the "ad" has brought this new industry before the public and many orders are now coming by "phone" or mail.

The German Seltzer Company propose to make a house to house call once a week taking a different route every day so all may have an opportunity to use it. The merits of it are many; such as when taken plain—headache, sour stomach, dizziness, indigestion, gasses, kidney troubles etc. It is highly recomended by German and Austrian physicians. As a drink it saves time and money—why? You can have a soda fountain at home, a little syrup of any flavor (which the company also makes) in a glass and the Seltzer handy makes one of the best sodas you could ask for costing much less than can be had at the stores.

The German Seltzer Manufacturing Company's new team which is attracting much attention on the street, was built to order expressly for them by Quincy's well known carriage builders S. Scammell & Son. The syphons which contain the selzer were made to order in N. Y., and are an ornament to any table. The cost is so low no one need be without it.

Progress seems very slow in abolishing the grade crossings but we should move slow and sure in the matter and not repent in future years for hasty conclusions. Already three hearings before the commissioners, the last one being yesterday morning at ten o'clock in Boston. No action could be taken on account of proposed changes in Braintree plans and the meeting adjourned until, Friday morning, April 24, at ten o'clock, in room 231, South station.

Why so much diphtheria in South Braintree? There are no cases in Braintree or East Braintree. If the germs were in the air all sections of the town would have been afflicted. Did the twenty or more people old and young catch it one from the other? In a few cases perhaps yes. Is the epidemic caused by the lack of a sewerage system? We think not, but do approve of the system being put in at any early date. Can you solve the diphtheria problem?

JOHNSON'S POSITION

Willing to Become the Standard Bearer of Democracy

IS NOT SEEKING NOMINATION

Would Be Happy, However, to Be Recipient of the Honor--Not to Be Candidate For the Purpose of Defeating Bryan or Any Other Man

St. Paul, March 28.—Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota has made a specific declaration that, while he has done nothing and will do nothing towards gaining the Democratic nomination for president, he will not refuse the honor if it is tendered him.

The governor made this statement in a letter to S. J. Turnblad, publisher of the Minneapolis Swedish-American Post, who had asked for a declaration on the subject. The governor's letter follows:

"I do not believe any American citizen should be an active, open candidate for the nomination for president. Any American would appreciate the high honor which could come to him in being selected for the standard bearer of his party. While I recognize that the press has had much to say about me in connection with this high office, I have hitherto avoided any public or private expression regarding my position.

"Matters have progressed so far, however, that it seems to me that I should at least say in answer to your interrogation that if the Democratic party of the nation believes me to be more available than any other man, and felt that by my nomination I could contribute any service to the party and to the nation, I should be happy to the recipient of the honor which would thus confer.

"I am no unmindful, either, of the high honor which has been paid me by the people of Minnesota, and if the Democratic party of the state desires to present my name to the next national convention I am sure I would have no objection. But even if Minnesota was the only state to declare for me at that time I should feel that the distinction was one of the greatest that could come to me.

"I have done nothing and will do nothing in the way of organization to bring about this end, and shall not be a candidate in the sense of seeking the nomination. If, however, those who have the welfare of the country and the Democratic party at heart should feel that I am necessary in this year of grace, I certainly shall respond to any call which may be made upon me.

"In this connection I desire it understood that in no sense am I to be a candidate for the purpose of defeating Mr. Bryan or any other man; that the only consideration which would induce me to allow the use of my name would be the feeling that I might be necessary to the cause. If the Democratic party should see fit to nominate Mr. Bryan or anyone else the action would meet with my approval and the nominee certainly would have my unqualified support, as I should expect his support if conditions were reversed.

"I have written you fully that you may thoroughly understand the situation. In order that there may be no doubt, I say, in answer to your question, that if the nomination came to me I certainly would not refuse it."

Florida's New Senator

Tallahassee, Fla., March 28.—Governor Broward has appointed Hall Milton to succeed the late Senator Bryan of Florida in the United States senate. Milton is a grandson of former Governor Milton of Florida and is 42 years old. He is a successful banker and business man. His appointment is for the unexpired term of the late Senatory Mallory, which had been filled by the appointment of Bryan three months ago.

Varied Weather In Michigan

Detroit, March 28.—A tornado and a blizzard with a heavy snowfall are the extremes of a general storm that struck Michigan. The tornado did considerable damage to farm property in the southern part of the state. In the upper peninsula the wind is driving the snow into huge drifts. Trains and trolley service are seriously delayed.

Labor Leader Breaks Down

Boston, March 28.—Frank K. Foster, the labor leader, known as one of the most brilliant orators in labor's ranks, is an inmate of McLean asylum in Waverley. It is said that Foster's mind has become affected, owing to the strain placed upon him by his arduous work, coupled with several severe attacks of illness.

Fire on Steamer's Deck

Boston, March 28.—The crew of the steamer Indian, from Philadelphia, fought for an hour with a stubborn fire in the flooring under the pilot-house last night and finally it became necessary to call out the harbor fireboat and the city department. The fire was extinguished after being confined to the deck.

All Want the Maine Raised

Havana, March 28.—The action of the United States house of representatives in connection with the raising of the battleship Maine is enthusiastically approved by both Americans and Cubans. There is no danger that Cuba will make opposition if the United States desires to raise the sunken vessel.

What Do YOU DO for Quincy?

A Little Wad of Common Sense.

A New Aid Fable.

This is not a George Ade fable, though it may sling some slang. It is a Home Aid fable.

Once there was a Geezer, who sat around and cut Kindling too small for Cook Stove purposes. He Whittled against Time and Flabbergasted against his Town. The town was No Good, he said—strictly on the Blink. Yes, it was N. G. Why, hadn't he lived Here since '84 and found that the Place was Punky? Sure, Mike!

Look at that town over in the next County. Grown like Jonah's Gourd. Must be a Jonah here. We've grown some, but I don't see that we're knocking any particularly Big Persimmons. That's the way this Gazaboo knocked his town.

One day a Sarcastic Stranger floated into the Town that was Knocked from the burg that had Blossomed like Jonah's Gourd. He Heard some of the Flabbergasting and Dropped to the situation.

"Look here, you," he remarked to the citizen who was Handing Out the Knocks. "What do you do for this town? Are you doing your part to put this Burg on the Upgrade? What's that hefty Bunch of literature sticking out of your Clothes?"

"That's a Mail Order Catalogue from Chicago—a town that is a town," replied the Geezer.

"So I thought," said the Impertinent Arrival. "Now let me hand you out a nice little Wad of common sense. For the past ten years you have been sending your money to the Chicago Mail Order houses instead of spending it among your home merchants. What would have happened to Chicago fifty years ago if all the First Settlers had shipped their Loose Coin to New York on catalogue inducements? Why, you'd have to use a sand dredger now to find the Original Site of Chicago. Now, in the Burg from which I have just Blown in we got over all this Bum Business years ago. We passed Resolutions that we would trade at home and help our own town to Spread out so that you could Sight it on the map without using Opera Glasses. But you and a Bunch of other folks in this town have wasted your Substance in Riotous Expenditures in Chicago by mail and let the sheriff hang out the 'Nothing Doing' sign in front of some of your own town's mercantile Emporiums. Look at our Town and then look at yours. What makes the Difference?"

Whereupon the Whittling Gazaboo threw a few well chosen Thoughts into his mental makeup and went down to the village store to Annex a linen collar in place of the Paper Circles which he had bought from Chicago at Two Bits a Box.

MORAL: If you want your town to grow, patronize home enterprises.

THE Jenkinses' donkey was as well known in Charlottesville as the schoolteacher, minister or doctor. For twenty years or more it had hauled the family and the family produce in and out of town. There were many who could remember it when young and dapper, but the passing years had altered its age, appearance and disposition very much indeed. When left in front of the store he did not need to be tied and afforded an effective illustration of the principle of inertia to the master of the village school.

"When a moving body comes to rest," he would say to pupils of the class in physics, "it remains as inert as the Jenkinses' donkey until some extraneous impulse starts it up again."

The Jenkinses had prospered, owing, all agreed, quite as much to the capabilities of Jehu as to any other member of the family, and they now possessed a team of horses that could travel faster and farther than the patient ass and carry twenty times as much. What to do with this superannuated supernumerary had become the greatest problem of the household, and the hired man, who had just come in from the barn with a couple of Jehu's heel marks upon his person, angrily proposed that the "doggone beast be shot!"

"Shot!" cried the sharp voice of Mrs. Jenkins as if a pistol had suddenly gone off. "I'd like to see it tried!"

"Oo soot my Zehoo, and I soot oo!" exclaimed little Bobby, who loved the donkey as he loved his life.

"Poor old Jehu! He's seen his best days! We'll have to get rid of him somehow," Mr. Jenkins said, taking Bobby in his arms and gazing at the once active and useful donkey, who had now laid his chin across a pair of bars and was gazing retrospectively into the distance.

"And so have some of the rest of us, but it doesn't follow that we have to be shot, does it?" Mrs. Jenkins asked, looking savagely at the back of the hired man, who was limping up and down the room.

"Fodder's scarce," suggested Tom, the oldest son, a thrifty fellow who was working his father's farm on shares.

"And you can bet your sweet life that old Jehu hasn't lost his appetite with his teeth," laughed Dan, the second son, a whimsical, happy go lucky youngster of sixteen, who saw the funny side of everything.

"It's a shame to talk so slightingly about our dear and faithful friend!" exclaimed the daughter Susie, whose gentle voice was always lifted in behalf of weakness or of suffering.

"But he hasn't done a lick of work for six months, and he's got the heaves so that you can hear him breathe a mile away! He keeps me awake nights! I'm for selling him to a peddler!" Dan replied, seizing this promising opportunity to tease his sister, whom he secretly adored.

"I consider that the height of ingratitude!" Susie answered, looking reproachfully at her brother.

"Nevertheless, old Jehu is a problem," Father Jenkins said.

"Not as long as there is grass in the meadow or fodder in the stall!" his wife declared in a tone of voice that invariably terminated family disputes and now led her husband to reply:

"All right, Emily! If you say keep him, keep him it is! I reckon he won't live long anyway!"

"No! He'll go off in one of his coughing spells or choke on a cornstalk, poor old honker!" Dan declared gayly, as if announcing the most cheerful event in the world, but started down the path to the bars and patted the nose of the ass.

With the cantankerousness of old age, Jehu snapped at the caressing hand, and with the swift impulsiveness of youth Dan slapped him on the jaw.

"Take care!" called his father's admonishing voice.

"It's the only language he hasn't forgotten!" Dan rejoined.

At this moment the bell on the top of a tall pole by the kitchen door began to ring. The "hands" came hurrying from the barn, and the family assembled round the table, loaded with good things. The serious business of satisfying the clamorous demands of nature put the thought of Jehu out of every mind, but at the conclusion of the meal Dan led the limping donkey down the long lane to the pasture between fences over the rails of which the woodbine was clambering and in whose corner the sumac with its red blossoms and the elderberries with their purple fruit were standing thick.

Letting down the bars, he stuck his thumb into the lean ribs of the donkey and when that resentful creature reared and kicked chuckled with a boundless joy.

"You're spizzerinktum hasn't all burned up yet, eh, old man?" he said. Jehu did not reply, but stood with his back turned until Dan replaced the bars and went away, when he laid his chin upon the topmost rail and watched his youthful master with a meditative eye. What his reflections were a man may only guess; but, judging from the expression of his countenance, they were a gloomy mixture of skepticism, cynicism and despair of life. After he had ruminated for a long time upon the mysteries of existence Jehu turned away to break his fast. The weather had been moist, and the grass in the meadow was succulent. Into its cool sweetness he dug his aged nozzle and chewed the few shreds which his worn and widely scattered teeth could tear away, with mild regrets for vanished youth. After he had satisfied his appetite he looked about. A flock of sheep were pastured in the field. Some of them were lying down, blinking at the sun and reflectively chewing the cud. Sidling up to these, one after another, he poked his nose into their ribs and roused them up. Was it a spirit of innocent mischief like Dan's that made him do it or envy of their happiness or restlessness of heart? And why was it that he crept quietly behind a young colt and kicked him in the thigh, lifting up his raucous voice in a loud, triumphant honk as the frightened filly squealed and started down the pasture on a run? Of all the inarticulate and untranslatable sounds of nature that honk was the most startling and mysterious! What was its true significance? An outpouring of joy, sorrow, anger or despair?

Amid the traditions floating around the school yard there was one about old Jehu's honk. The teacher had been accustomed to dismiss the school at the sound of a steam whistle which always blew at noon. One day it blew too soon, she thought, but closed the recitation, opened the door and let out the eager throng of little people, only to learn that it was the voice of Jehu she had heard!

More than once during the morning Jehu lifted up his deep, incomprehensible and farreaching voice, but had the Jenkins family not been completely absorbed in their tasks they would have noticed that in the afternoon it suddenly assumed a different tone. Not only did it become more frequent, more insistent and more remote, but had a plaintive and a pleading quality that had never been heard in it before. And, worse than this, it finally had ceased to sound at all!

But in the multitude of sounds that fell upon the family ears from roosters, cattle, sheep and farm machines Jehu's voice was mingled and lost. When it ceased, it was not missed. No one had bestowed a thought upon the old gray donkey until Susie and little Bob went hand in hand down the long lane to drive the cattle home.

"Where's my Zehoo?" asked the child, whose sharp eyes detected his absence from the crowd of living things about the bars.

Casting her eye over the pasture, Susie saw that he was gone. Inexplicable as this seemed at first, she quickly found the reason why. Just inside the bars there was an old well which had mysteriously gone dry and been covered up by heavy planks. With a start of terror, she observed that this covering had been broken through and that in the splinters of the boards were long tufts of Jehu's almost snow white hair.

"Help, help!" she screamed, putting her pretty hands to her lips and shouting to her brothers in a neighboring field.

"What's the matter?" they inquired, throwing down their hoes and starting on a run.

"Jehu's fallen in the well! Quick! Quick!" she cried. In a few moments the news had traveled all around the farm, and the different members of the family came running from the fields, the barn, the house, to find Susie wringing her hands in helpless grief and little Bobbie howling through his tears, "My Zehoo's—fallen—in—ze—well; ze—naughty—ole—well!"

It is one thing to discuss the problem of what to do with an old and faithful servant like the donkey when he is alive, and it is quite another to stand by a deep well into which he has fallen and where he may be suffering agonies from broken bones.

"'Ere's a pretty 'ow-de-do!" piteously exclaimed the kind hearted Yorkshireman, who that very morning had proposed to shoot him in cold blood.

"Who knows how much you are to blame—yourself!" exclaimed the implacable Mrs. Jenkins, wiping her blue eyes with a checked apron whose color matched them to a shade.

"Do you think he's dead?" asked Dan in a ghastly whisper, remembering with remorse that his last act had been one of disrespect, if not unkindness.

"As a doornail!" Tom sententiously replied.

"How deep's the well?" the mother asked.

Some thought it ten and others twenty feet, but all agreed that at Jehu's advanced age even a donkey could not possibly survive so hard a fall. Unquestionably the faithful ass was dead.

"Strange solution of the problem what to do with Jehu, isn't it?" Mr. Jenkins asked in a voice whose tone of too affected grief led Mrs. Jenkins to remark:

"I do believe you're glad he's dead!"

"Oh, no, my dear!" he said, resenting her reproach with a quite sincere anger. "I'm not exactly glad he's dead; but, then, you know, he had to die some time and in some way, and I reckon he found this one 'bout as satisfactory as any. He's been a good mule, and I'm as sorry as anybody, only I'm honest enough to say that he's been saved a lot of suffering, and we've been saved a lot of trouble!"

"Better not preach his funeral sermon till you really know he's dead! Remember 'bout that editorial on Judge Hancock, don't you?" observed the irrepressible Daniel, referring to a newspaper eulogy on the character of a distinguished citizen who had insisted upon defeating the prognostications of the whole medical fraternity and surviving to read his own obituary.

"Oh, he's dead all right," Tom asserted, "or you'd hear him honk or kick or heave. Listen! There isn't any sound, you see. Old Jehu's done for. Better bury him right where he is, hadn't we, father? It's not often that any one so accommodatingly dies in his own grave."

"Yes, if you're sure. I wouldn't like to bury him alive," the farmer answered and kicked a little loose earth into the well, adding after listening a minute: "That settles it! Better get some shovels and begin."

The time consumed by the hired men in going to the barn for tools was profitably employed in eulogies upon the character and accomplishments of the dead donkey, and never were there more kind and complimentary tributes paid to the worth of any creature down below the scale of human life. And yet it must be sadly said that there was still in every breast but Bobbie's that pitiless joy that wells up from living bosoms over open graves. Who ever died, man or beast, but the gaping crowd consoled its sorrows, some with the reflection that they would now be relieved from a heavy burden of care, some that there would be more standing room on earth, some that they could now wear the abandoned shoes and some that they could spend the substance of the dead? But these are feelings which we try to cover up from our own eyes as well as those of others, and Mrs. Jenkins, who could not perfectly succeed in doing so, was quite as much relieved as all the rest when the men came back with the tools and the rough interment was begun.

How thoughtful the good old donkey seemed to every one! If he had deliberately planned to save them trouble, he could not have arranged the circumstances of his death more conveniently. When the well was dug the earth had not been carried off and now lay a collar round its mouth. The sextons simply had to push it back.

It was not a very deep well either and would require so little time for filling that everybody lingered to see the last of the obsequies of the poor old ass. The men were strong and spelled each other at the work. Shovelful after shovelful of earth tumbled into the gaping hole with a dull thud. From the sound of the falling clods it was evident that the grave was nearly filled. Mrs. Jenkins and Susie were turning sadly away when suddenly an exclamation of astonishment burst from the lips of the workmen. They turned and with unbelieving eyes beheld old Jehu rising plainly into view, stamping the falling earth with his hoofs and making a solid platform upon which he steadily rose in something of the way the poet says that good men do—upon stepping stones of their dead selves to higher things!

For an instant quite a solemn silence brooded over the scene, and then young Daniel voiced a universal thought. "By Jinks," he said, "it's hard to keep a good man down!"

In the single eye of the old jackass, who gazed about that circle of mourners whose sorrow had been turned less into joy than amazement, there was a triumphant and some thought a malevolent look which seemed to say plainer than words, "On top again!"

Senate Passes Bill Providing For Emergency Currency

NOT TO EXCEED $500,000,000

Important Amendments Adopted on Last Day of Debate, One of Which Is Expected to Facilitate Passage of the Bill In the House

Washington, March 28.—The Aldrich currency bill was passed by the senate by a vote of 42 to 16, in the main a party vote. Previous to the vote on the bill a vote was taken on the Bailey substitute, authorizing the government, instead of national banks, to issue the emergency circulation for which the bill provides. The vote on the substitute stood 42 to 13, and this vote was entirely partisan, even Senator LaFollette casting his vote with the Republicans. The bill has been before the senate since Jan. 9.

An interesting feature of the passage of the bill was a reiteration by Mr. Aldrich of his promise to bring in a bill for an investigation of the entire banking system of the country, with a view to instituting reforms.

As passed, the bill provides for not more than $500,000,000 of emergency currency to be issued to national banks upon deposit by them of state, county and municipal bonds, to be approved by the secretary of the treasury. The currency is to be issued with a view of securing an equitable distribution of the currency over the United States and in accordance with the unimpaired capital and surplus of the banks in each state.

The bill provides that national banks shall pay not less than 1 percent on government funds deposited with them.

As amended yesterday the bill carries an important change in banking laws relating to bank reserves. This amendment provides that of the 15 percent reserve which it is required shall be kept by banks not in reserve cities, four-fifths must be kept in the vaults of the banks and of that amount one-third can be in the form of securities of the kind required.

By another amendment agreed to yesterday, the period during which ½ of 1 percent interest is to be charged the banks was reduced from six to four months, after which 3-4 of 1 percent is to be charged until redeemed.

At the instance of Mr. LaFollette an amendment was adopted prohibiting any national bank from investing its funds in stocks and other securities of a corporation, the officers or directors of which are officers or directors of the bank, and providing a penalty of imprisonment of from one to five years. In accepting this amendment Aldrich said that he had not time to consider the amendment fully, but he was in sympathy with its general purpose. He said it could be perfected in conference.

The proposal that a provision be inserted for a government guarantee of deposits in national banks was the subject of an extended debate and was defeated by a vote of 11 to 46, most of the Democratic vote being against the proposed amendment.

Another amendment offered by La Follette prohibited loans by national banks to its officers or to any corporation, the majority stock of which is owned by the officers of the bank. It was rejected, as also was an amendment offered by Mr. Nelson providing that no officer or employe of a national bank shall be a member of a stock exchange or engaged in buying or selling stocks or bonds on a commission basis.

An amendment by LaFollette to punish by from one to five years' imprisonment any falsification in bank securities was adopted, but was protested against by Senator Knox as already provided for by existing law.

It is generally conceded that the action of the senate in refusing to adopt the amendment offered by Mr. Nelson to provide for federal guaranty of national bank deposits will make it easier to pass the bill in the house, where little friendliness toward that feature has developed. Friends of the bill in the house will be able to draw for support on the open attitude of the president in favor of the bill, and it will not be forgotten by them that some weeks ago Speaker Cannon expressed himself as generally favorable to the measure.

Inquiries on the Democratic side showed a general understanding that the minority will hold pretty fast to its agreement to support the currency bill introduced by its leader, Mr. Williams. This bill was reported favorably to the house by the Democratic members of the banking and currency committee as a substitute for the Fowler bill.

Freight Train In the Way

Hornell, N. Y., March 28.—A westbound Wells-Fargo express train ran into an east-bound freight near here. Two men were killed and five were injured. The faster train was a solid express. The trains had orders to meet and pass at a tower. It is contended that the freight train failed to get out of the way of the express in time.

Richards Corporations Bankrupt

Boston, March 28.—Petitions in bankruptcy have been filed against the Richards Publishing company and the Agnew Auto Mailing company. These corporations were promoted by George L. Richards, now missing, and are in the hands of a receiver.

MEXICAN TOWN DESTROYED

Fire Followed Earthquake In Largest Town In State of Guerrero

City of Mexico, March 28.—El Imparcial, the government organ, received a dispatch from its correspondent in Chilapercingo, saying that the town of Chilapa, thirty miles from that place, was totally destroyed by an earthquake, and that fire in the ruins completed the work of destruction. The people of the town are terror-stricken and many are praying in the open plazas and fields adjoining the town, the report said.

This correspondent is the only one working near the scene. The Associated Press unavailingly tried to confirm the news of the total destruction of the town by earthquake and fire.

Chilapa has a population of some 15,000 persons and is the largest town in the state of Guerrero. To reach the place from Mexico City it is necessary to travel one day by train and then four days over a rough mountain trail on horseback.

The various government departments and officers at the national observatory said that no report of the destruction of the city had been received by them. Neither had reports of any other nature been received from there.

Reports coming in from various points in the republic show that the earthquake was felt over a wide area, but that in no place, with the exception of Chilapa, was there any considerable loss of life or property.

"Roaring Well" Makes Good

Beloit, Wis., March 28.—On March 19 it was found that the roaring well on the farm of Charles L. Athers, near here, was active. The well roared for several weeks before the great earthquake at San Francisco and the curious sound of rumbling, together with wind from the mouth of the well, ceased at the precise hour when the shock struck the California city. On the day a little over a week ago, when the well resumed its clamor, a calamity was predicted. Yesterday it came, in Chilapa, Mex.

Communication Is Checked

New York, March 28.—The Western Union Telegraph company, which ordinarily works into Chilapa, Mex., through the Mexican Telegraph company, reports that its communication with Chilapa has been cut off by the earthquake and fire at that place.

Arrested on Conspiracy Charge

Providence, March 28.—Charging conspiracy in obtaining $350,000 belonging to depositors of the New England Trust company of Providence, which went into a receiver's hands a few weeks ago, a writ in a civil suit was served upon Thomas D. Taylor of Boston here upon the instance of John P. Beagan, permanent receiver for the New England Trust company of Providence. Taylor was taken to the Providence county courthouse to await removal to the Cranston jail in case he is not able to procure bail.

The Oriental Bank Case

New York, March 28.—Attorney General Jackson's application for permission to appeal to the court of appeals from the decision of the appellate division, dismissing the receivers of the Oriental bank of this city, was denied by the appellate division. The bank was reopened a few days ago and its depositors are now being paid off by the Metropolitan Trust company. Jackson opposed this plan, but the state superintendent of banks permitted it to be put into effect.

Not Guilty of Kidnapping

Winnipeg, Man., March 28.—George Foulkes, American customs officer, was acquitted of the charge of kidnapping two Canadian farmers on the Canadian border line. The only important witness was A. Telton, one of the farmers alleged to have smuggled barley and who alleged that they were kidnapped by Foulkes. The case was soon heard and Judge Cameron declared Foulkes not guilty. He was discharged from custody.

Troops to Overawe Strikers

Washington, March 28.—Eight hundred striking miners, possessed of ten cases of dynamite and a desire to destroy property and perhaps life at the Treadwell mines in Alaska, was the situation presented to Secretary Taft by telegraph from the acting governor of that territory, who requested the aid of federal troops. The secretary acceded to the request without delay.

Retail Trade Improving

New York, March 28.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that retail trade in spring goods has made further progress and the conservative buying by dealers in preparing for current distribution is now providing a good supplementary demand from wholesale and jobbing houses.

Thought Corpse Was Alive

Waterbury, Conn., March 28.—When the funeral procession of Henry Ischer of Torrington was about to start, relatives fancied they saw a twitching of the mouth, and demanded an investigation. Dr. Hanchett was set for. He satisfied the relatives that Ischer was really dead.

Penrose's Condition Improves

Philadelphia, March 28.—The condition of Senator Penrose, who is ill at his home here with erysipelas and bronchial pneumonia, is reported to be somewhat improved.

Serious Results of Fire

Milford, Mass., March 28.—Two women were fatally burned, another received serious injuries, and two children were also severely hurt in a fire which destroyed a tenement house on Central street last night. The names of those hurt are unknown. It is supposed that the fire started from the overturning of a lamp. It was said that a quarrel arose during a card party in the basement tenement and that in the excitement the lamp was upset. Mrs. Susie Bates and her daughter occupied one tenement. Three Italian families and two Armenian families occupied the rest of the house.

Seeks Decision In Trolley Case

Boston, March 28.—Attorney General Malone made a motion for a special session of the supreme court, to be held not later than May 15, for the purpose of hearing argument on the absorption of the Massachusetts trolley companies by the New York, New Haven and Hartford road. Malone wants the legislature to have the benefit of this decision to guide it in its merger legislation. The motion was taken under advisement.

New Britain, Conn., March 28.—An action at law to determine the disposition of the mortuary reserve fund of $621,000 held in the treasury of the Knights of Columbus has begun in this state. The suit pertains to the fund accumulated prior to 1902, when a change in fixing of assessments was made. The older members claim the fund should be distributed among them.

Died on Hands and Knees

Deep River, Conn., March 28.—Edwin F. Mott, a farmhand, was burned to death here while fighting a brush fire. His body was found resting on its hands and knees, all the clothes burned off and the corpse charred and blackened. It is supposed he fell into the flames after being made unconscious by the smoke. Mott was 57 years old and unmarried.

"Open Pulpits" Disapproved

Boston, March 28.—The Massachusetts Church Union, an organization composed of orthodox Episcopal clergymen and members of the laity, adopted resolutions asking for a revision of the canon which permits persons not clergymen of the Episcopal body to deliver addresses in churches of the denomination on special occasions.

Suicide of Schooner Captain

Providence, March 28.—In despair because his schooner, the Altana M. Jogger, rammed two barges in trying to make her way out of the harbor last night, Captain Anderson committed suicide. CONSTIPATION

"For over nine years I suffered with chronic constipation and during this time I had to take an injection of warm water once every 24 hours before I could have an action on my bowels. Happily I tried Cascarets, and today I am a well man. During the nine years before I used Cascarets I suffered untold misery with internal piles. Thanks to you I am free from all that this morning. You can use this in behalf of suffering humanity."

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

A BUSY DAY.

We seem to think tomorrow
Will last a week or two,
Just judging from the many things
That day we mean to do.
The tasks that we will finish,
The ones that we will start,
Would keep a dozen busy,
Each doing but a part.

We're going to write those letters
That have been on our mind
Since when before last Christmas
We lagged and fell behind.
We're going to take the clippings
Cut out from here and there
And paste them in our scrap book
With diligence and care.

And that is just a starter.
Around about the place
We're going to mend the fences
That now are a disgrace;
We're going to clean the basement
And oil the kitchen floor
And, just to keep things tidy,
To paint the sink once more.

And still we cannot figure
A very busy day.
We ought to, mixed in somewhere,
Have time enough to play.
Just wait until tomorrow
Comes in by through express,
And then we will do business
Much like a whirlwind. Yes?

Too Free.

"I have been delegated," said the suave and conversational book agent, "by a large publishing house to make you a free present of six handsome books"—

"You quite overcome me," said the literary man.

"And, in addition, a set of beautiful pictures," continued the agent, not noticing the interruption, "on condition"—

"I thought they were to be free," said the literary man.

"They are, sir; they are. If you will just subscribe for this handsome magazine at $5 a year the others will not cost you a cent."

"Five dollars," mused the literary man. "That sounds reasonable for a gift. Would it be any less if they were not free and I bought them of you?"

No Mind Reader.

"I don't believe a word that man said."

"Why, you didn't hear him."

"Yes, but I know the man."

Worthless.

"I give you my word."

"Yes, but"—

"But what?"

"I wouldn't know what to do with it if I were to take it."

"What do you mean?"

"I understand that it is no better than your bond."

Sometimes.

"It isn't always May, my son," said the sentimental mother.

"No, mother," replied the jaunty youth; "very frequently it is Susy."

Happy Medium.

"His clothes are certainly rather loud."

"Yes, but just observe that he is unmistakably soft."

A Hint.

"What's the best way to treat a knocker?"

"Give him a handful of nails and a pine board."

All Off Then.

"I am tired of being so popular."

"Try being truthful."

The Observations In the Daily Walk

The Rev. Mr. Coolidge of Memorial Congregational church will exchange with the Rev. A. R. Atwood of Quincy Point on Sunday morning.

Rev. E. W. Hunt, recently pastor at Wollaston, will preach on Sunday at 3 P. M., in Potter hall, Boston, on "The simplicity of religious healing."

The Cattle Bureau of Massachusetts has ordered the water shut off at all the public drinking places. Commissioner Bainbridge has received official notice.

A house to let, advertised for the first time Thursday afternoon, was rented within 24 hours to a person who saw the "Ad" in the Daily Ledger. It pays.

James L. Rand of the Associated Press will speak before the Men's club at the Memorial Congregational church next Tuesday evening on "Humors and hardships of news gathering."

"Not as Young as She Looked."

In the neighboring village, of Pembroke on the 4th of March just passed a veteran entered the official's office to have his pension papers filled out and signed. He was just recovering from a serious illness and in consequence, walked feebly and howed plainly that he had reached the age of three score years and ten.

Beside him in the office sat a bright, active, little old lady, there on the same errand as himself.

The business completed she turned to the veteran and said: "I'll take you home Mr. White as I am going to drive past your door."

The offer was accepted, and in the of how old and feeble he felt. "How way of conversation the man spoke old do you think I am?" she said.

"I should judge you are five or six years older than I am; seventy-five or six."

"I am ninety-six years old and am drawing a pension as a Mexican war widow. My daughter draws a pension as the widow of a Civil war veteran."

Mr. White hasn't yet recovered from the surprise and thinks he should be classed among the young men. A. W. H.

Engineers' Bill.

August V. Johnson, president of the local union of steam engineers, says the engineers' union did not take any action in regard to instructing its committee to sign any bill for any specified time whatever. We have only had two meetings during the past three months in which to settle.

All In Favor

house-to-house canvass the best plan. He would do his share toward the amount necessary.

Walter E. Piper, president of the Board of Trade, was in sympathy with the movement. We cannot do too much for the old soldiers. He was willing to do his share. He thought the house-to-house canvass a good scheme. He would contribute to the best of his means.

Ex-Assessor Charles H. Johnson was in favor of a new monument. He hoped the money would be raised by popular subscription and that the young people would be aroused.

Frank Chubbuck, a son of a veteran, would do his share. We should raise at least $20,000 or $30,000.

Fred L. Jones, a veteran, said it was time that Quincy should have a new monument to the men who fought for their country in the Civil war. He favored a pedestal of polished Quincy granite with a heroic bronze statue. It will be something for the citizens to show as a memorial of the old soldiers. When the present monument was erected it was considered a good one. It was designed by the late Chester Mitchell and built by the Mitchells. The speaker personally cut the shaft. One of the names on the monument was his brother. If we organize committees in every ward we can raise the money.

F. E. Williams said that when the first monument was erected it was a matter of sentiment. It seemed to him that the city should raise the money. It was no credit to the city to have the Grand Army make a house-to house canvass. The only way was for the city to erect the monument.

John L. Miller did not agree. People who contribute have an interest. Every citizen should have a share. It was so with the McKinley monument.

Ex-Mayor Porter moved that the Chairman appoint a committee of six, one of whom shall be from each ward, who shall act with him in selecting sub-committees to solicit subscriptions.

The motion was unanimously adopted and the meeting adjourned.

Bowling Tie Is Broken

The interest of the Y. M. C. A. bowling tournament is unabated. The triple top tie has at last been broken by the defeat of Capt. Andrew's "Superbas," by Capt. Gordon's team of "Pin Smashers." They won two out of three by the following score:

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

Laughter will reign supreme all next week at the Castle Square theatre, for Miller and Carruthers' players are to give a grand revival of Charles Hoyt's funniest comedy. "A Midnight Bell," Hoyt never wrote a more thoroughly enjoyable entertainment than "A Midnight Bell." Who does not recall the boy who sat in the organ loft reading "Bloody Dick" and pumping the organ for the village choir? And who does not recall, with a mile, the situation that developed when the boy became so engrossed in the book that he forgot to pump, and the organ expired with a gasp leaving the village soprano hanging on a top note? Then there was the famous slide outside the schoolhouse door,—the slide down which slipped the deason, the village maid, the city lawyer, the schoolma'am, and all the rest. And the sewing-circle at Miss Lizzie's,—that too cannot be recalled without a laugh. All these merry scenes are to be revived next week, and it is safe to say that admirers of the late Charles Hoyt's fun will be out in force to enjoy them.

BOSTON THEATRE.

No production of the present season at the Boston Theatre has so fully shown the great resources of Manager Morison's organization as the presentation of Wilson Barrett's great drama "The Sign of the Cross." It is not surprising that no manager of a stock company has ever before attempted a performance of this play for the demand it makes both upon the players and the stage equipment of such an organization are far beyond those usually available. The ten great scenes incidental to the production have all been built and painted from the original designs made under the supervision of the author, the costuming is strictly accurate. So much interest has been shown in the production that it will be continued throughout next week and Manager Morison, feeling convinced that the play is one that will appeal to clergymen cordially invites ministers of all denominations. The visiting card of any clergyman will be cheerfully honored and seats provided.

Boston Hipprodrome.

On Monday, March 30, the first Boston Hippodrome will be opened at Mechanics Building. No matinee will be given on the opening day, but during the balance of the four weeks that the Hippodrome will be open two performances will be given every day except Sunday. Every performance of the Boston Hippodrome (except such as fall on a Saturday) will be under the auspices of some society, association or organization, which will receive a liberal percentage of all the tickets they sell. The Boston Hippodrome will be a combination of indoor circus, aerial ballet and hippodromic races. It will be the most stupendous indoor entertainment ever shown in New England.

Hollis Street Theatre.

At the Hollis Street theatre in Boston, next Monday evening, Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger will present one of the most powerful and interesting dramatic productions staged in many years—Eugene W. Presbrey's' version of Sir Gilbert Parker's popular novel, "The Right of Way." This is the first "book play" produced in several seasons that has proved a genuine success. As a rule stories translated from a novel to the stage disappoint the expectations of both the book-reader and the theatre-goer. In this instance, however, anticipation has been more than realized. The interest of New England theatre-goers in this play is greatly enhanced by the fact that it will introduce to them for the first time the new joint stars, Guy Standing and Theodore Roberts, who play the principal roles of "Charley Steele" and "Joe Portugais." Mr. Standing has long occupied a conspicuous place on the American stage as a leading man of striking personality and great talent. Mr. Roberts is generally conceded to be the greatest character actor in America. The theme of the story of "The Right of Way" is a most exalted one and its development in this drama constitutes as powerful a sermon as was ever delivered from the pulpit. Such plays as this dignify the stage and make it a most potent influence for good. From this standpoint "The Right of Way" will attract unusual attention throughout New England.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Two people who are particularly well known to Bostonians will head next week's bill at Keith's—Aubrey Boucicault and Dorothy Dorr, Boucicault ranks among the best light comedians of the day, and is also a clever character actor, while Miss Dorr has won recognition in leading roles, both in comedy and in a more serious vein. The vehicle they have selected for their joint appearance in vaudeville is a divertion of the second act of "Divorcons," one of the brightest bits of work ever written by any dramatist, a scene that simply scintillates with humor, both in the way of situations and dialogue. The characters are especially well suited to their portrayers, as can be easily preceived.

THE ORPHEUM.

Next week the Orpheum Management has provided a splendid all round vauedville bill, with plenty of comedy and more novelties. An important engagement is that of Julius Tannan, who since leaving the legitimate stage for vaudeville has proved to be one of the greatest drawing cards. In the way of a novelty there is nothing much better than Kitty Trancy and her remarkable ponies who do all sorts of balancing stunts. The Nichols Sisters, perhaps the very best delineators of the negro now on the stage, do a real old-fashioned darky turn, and they are also on the bill. Curtis, Palmer and company have a sketch called "Mamma's Darling Boy," in which Mr. Curtis, a heavyweight, is the boy and Miss Palmer besides being a clever comedienne, has a voice of remarkable range and sweetness.
